"How good digestion waits on appetite, And health on both."

Cottolene Cottolene Cottolene Cottolene Cottolene

To assure both the above ends good, wholesome, palatable food is demanded. It is next to impossible to present a sufficient variety of appetizing bills of fare for our meals without a liberal allowance of pastry and other food in which shortening is required. How to make crisp, healthful, digestible pastry has puzzled the cooks. A difficulty in all good cooking in the past has been lard. Always fickle, never uniform, most unwholesome—lard has always been the bane of the cook and the obstacle to "good digestion."

FIGHTING THE FIGHT

Ministers Against the Corbett and Mitchell Mill.

Public Officials Interested in the Coney Island Club Are Called by Name in the Pulpit and Held Up to Scorn.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Oct. 2.—There seems to be a concerted movement among Brooklyn ministers to draw attention to what they consider the failings of the city and county officials. Yesterday the proposed fight between champions James Corbett and Charles Mitchell, scheduled to come off at the Coney Island athletic club, was the subject of discourse in several pulpits, the most severe sermon being that delivered by Rev. J. F. Carson of the Central Presbyterian church. Among other things he said:

"Mayor Boody allows the saloon element to triumph. District Attorney Ridgway does nothing to suppress gambling. The sheriff of our county endorses and encourages pugilism and with his two boys attends the prize fight, while justices of our courts patronize and derive profit from it.

"Within the past week our city has become a hissing and a by-word to the country. In open defiance of law and in utter disregard of public decency arrangements have been made within the borders of this state for a brutal fight for a purse of $40,000 to take place at Coney Island in December and the man who consummated the arrangements and secured the signatures of the principles to the agreement is a justice of the peace in Kings county—Justice Richard B. Newton.

"What an insult to law. What a reproach to our county to see this man sworn to execute the laws and punish all violators, stepping down from the judicial bench and binding men to engage in an encounter which is a gross violation of the law, and an exhibition of brutality and vice.

"But that is not all. Justice Tighe, who sits daily in a court in this city, is financially interested in the club under whose auspices this and similar fights are given, and according to reports has charge of the tickets for the fights. Let the citizens of this county demand that these men, who cause and abet in the violation of law, be removed from the position of preservers of the peace."

Rev. C. E. Nash, in his evening sermon on "The Defiance of Law in Kings County by its Sworn Executors," said: "The worst feature of this outrage is not the brutality of the participants, but its toleration by the officers of the law. There is no excuse for allowing it to take place. Nor do those whose duty it is to prevent it seek for any excuse. They boldly defy public sentiment in their violation of the law. The mass of the people of this city of churches revolt against this outrage."

The Rev. A. F. Newton, pastor of the Rochester Avenue Congregational church, and the Rev. Edwin Horner Wellman, D. D., rector of the Protestant Episcopal Church of the Atonement, on Seventeenth street, delivered discourses in the same tenor.

COAL MINERS' PAY.

Five Per Cent. Increase Because Coal Advanced.

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Oct. 2.—The committee of the Schuylkill coal exchange, after drawing five collieries to return prices of coal sold in September in order to determine the rate of wages to be paid miners and mine laborers in the Schuylkill region, find the average price of coal sold by these collieries to have been $2.64 3-10. They have therefore fixed the rate of wages for the last half of October at 5 per cent. above the $2.50 basis of 6 per cent. increase over wages paid last month. The reason of this large increase is due to the fact that coal from the collieries drawn was marketed almost entirely along the line and but little sent to tidewater, and is not due to any such increase in average prices received for coal in the general market.

A CHINESE BRIDE.

Commander Whiting of the Navy and Miss Ah Fang.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—The matrimonial alliance of Commander W. H. Whiting, of the United States navy, and Miss Ah Fang, the Chinese maiden of Hawaii, will soon be consummated. The only obstacle in the way has been removed by an order issued from the navy department relieving Commander Whiting from the command of the Alliance and granting him a month's leave of absence with permission to apply for an extension.

St. Louis Baseball Club.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 2.—Radical changes are proposed in the St. Louis baseball club. The Browns of '94 will likely dispense with Werden, Quinn and Crooks. Either Hawley or Clarkson will give way to a new pitcher and there are several new deals on for an infield. The new team will probably include Farrell and King Kelly.

Republican Congressional Committee.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—The membership of the Republican congressional campaign committee has not yet been entirely completed. Several states have not selected their representatives, notably New York and Maine. A meeting of the committee has been called for Wednesday night of this week for organization.

A National League of Commercial Travelers' Clubs.

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—An organization to be known as the National League of Commercial Travelers' Clubs has been formed here. These officers were elected: president, E. C. Matthewson of New York; vice president, E. S. Benedict of the Boston commercial travelers' club; secretary, Harry S. Jenkins, of the Baltimore club, and treasurer F. Douglass Heckman, president of the Philadelphia organization. The national headquarters will be at the commercial travelers' club house in this city.

The birth of the league was celebrated at the Fifth Avenue hotel with a dinner, at which Acting Mayor George B. McClellan was a distinguished guest. President Mathewson sat at the head of the table. There were speeches and letters endorsing the formation of a national organization. One of the communications came from President Cleveland, Senator David B. Hill, ex-President Benjamin Harrison and others sent word of commendation and cheer. The league expects to have at least a hundred clubs subordinate to it within a year and to take into membership a majority if not all the 300,000 commercial travelers in the country.

CHOLERA AT SEA.

The Remo's Horrible Journey Twice Across the Ocean.

GENOA, Oct. 2.—The steamship Remo, which sailed from this port for Rio de Janeiro and Santos, on August 15 with 1,443 emigrants, has arrived at Santa Cruz de Tanerife, in the Canaries, on her return voyage. Cholera broke out aboard her during the outward voyage and the health officers at the Brazilian ports refused to let her passengers be landed. Up to the time of her arrival at Santa Cruz there were 128 cases of cholera on the Remo and 64 deaths. She is still infected. Her officers say that the return voyage has been made under great difficulties. The steamer was in great need of coal, water and provisions, and the lack of proper food and drink is believed to have facilitated the spread of the disease among the emigrants. The officials at Santa Cruz provisioned the Remo and got sufficient coal aboard her for the rest of the voyage back to this port.

TRENTON MONUMENT.

Distinguished Statesmen Will Attend the Unveiling Oct. 19.

TRENTON, N. J., Oct. 2.—Barker Gummere, jr., has returned from Washington, where he had gone to make arrangements for entertaining congressional visitors on the occasion of the unveiling of the Trenton battle monument on the 19th inst. Vice-President Stevenson, Speaker Crisp, all the members of the senate and many of the leading representatives in the house are expected to attend the celebration. After consulting Senator McPherson, Mr. Gummere decided that a handsomely engraved invitation should be sent to each of the distinguished guests. A special train over the Pennsylvania railroad will be provided to bring the visitors to Trenton and take them back the same day and provision will also be made for their entertainment while in this city.

COLORADO POLITICS.

The American Protective Association as a Factor.

DENVER, Oct. 2.—The American protective association promises to cut a greater figure in the approaching election here than the silver question. The association has grown rapidly within a year and has been able to dictate the nominations on both the republican and populist-democratic tickets. The candidates of both parties for important offices are said to be members of the A. P. A., or in sympathy with it. Catholic populists and democrats have bolted their tickets and republican Catholics will probably do the same.

HOW WILLIAM WORKS

Will Germany's Emperor Stand the Strain?

Methodical Methods and a Superior Memory—No Hope of Reconciliation With Bismarck—Congress of Social Democrats.

(Copyright by the United Press.)

BERLIN, Oct. 2.—Emperor William's deer-stalking expedition in Sweden has been his only genuine holiday for many weeks. From his arrival at Gothenburg Thursday until he boarded the Hohenzollern again at Karlskrona on Saturday no official dispatches were sent or received by him. Even this brief respite from state cares afforded him more complete rest than he has taken before. The concensus of opinion among the officials around him is that he overexerts his body and brain and will not long bear up under the strain. He does not sleep sufficiently at night, begins work in the early morning, and proceeds with feverish unrest throughout the day. Dr. Lucanus, chief of his private cabinet, finds it a trying task to keep up with the activity of his imperial master, who openly chaffs him if business be not pushed ahead rapidly enough. In an interview with the United Press correspondent, Lucanus expressed great admiration of the emperor's capacity for incessant work. The emperor worked methodically, Lucanus said, and was aided by a fine memory. It was never necessary for him to write his speeches beforehand. He had always a skeleton of the subjects to be touched and filled in the blanks as he made his address. After speaking he dictated to the chief of his cabinet the whole speech, usually without the slightest change, as he remembered the slightest turn of a phrase. It was a rare occurrence for him to hesitate even in recalling a word or a sentence.

The newspaper discussion of the emperor's relations to Bismarck does not abate, although the public have been disillusioned as to the probability of their becoming friends. Official opinion, as explained in last week's letter, never shared the popular illusion. Reports are still rife as to exchanges of messages between the emperor, Bismarck and the Empress Frederick, as to mediation through Count William Bismarck, and as to the emperor's planning a visit in Friedricheruh. The truth is there is no present plan of reconciliation. Neither the emperor nor Bismarck ever intended a reconciliation to be achieved in any way except by the others complete submission. With the growing strength of the prince the Bismarckian newspapers are increasing the offensiveness of their criticisms of the government.

The congress of social democrats will be opened on October 22d. The delegates will hear the executive committee's report on the recent general election and will debate plans for May day of next year. The relations of socialism, anti-Semitism and the subject of strikes also will be discussed. Editor Landau, leader of the Berlin anarchists, advises his comrades to join the socialists so as to reform them. The socialist leaders are on the watch and will throw out any anarchists who try to take part in the congress. The credentials of all delegates will be scanned closely and no subject will be admitted. The anarchists will have to do their reforming therefore outside of the socialist organization.

MEXICAN MANNERS.

Bloods Shoot at Each Other and Editors Use Swords.

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—Advices from the City of Mexico report that Fernando Croses and Francisco Ibanez, well known Mexicans, quarrelled in the fashionable "Maison Dores" restaurant, and commenced shooting at each other without preliminaries. Croses fired three shots at Ibanez without hitting him, but one bullet lodged in the thigh of a young lady present. Ibanez then fired, hitting Croses just below the right shoulder, and then escaped. No one was seriously hurt.

Francisco Garcia, editor of the Siglo XX, and Rodriguez Pena, editor of Don Quixote, fought a duel last Sunday with swords. Pena was so obviously at the mercy of Garcia that the doctors present abruptly left the field, after twelve assaults had taken place, saying that they did not wish to witness a murder. The duel was thereupon suspended.

EXQUISITE TO BERNHARDT.

The Actress' Idea of the Bombardment of Rio.

PARIS, Oct. 2.—Sarah Bernhardt, who has been making a theatrical tour of South America, has returned to Paris. She was at Rio Janeiro during the bombardment. When interviewed as to her experience, she exclaimed: "It was simply exquisite. I spent three days and nights in the roadstead to see the display. It was grand, overpowering, magnificent. I shall never forget it. I saw the grandest scene of my life."

Colored Masons.

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—Medina temple of the Ancient Arabic Order of Nobles of the Mystic Shrine of Masonry of North and South America was instituted Saturday night in this city by John G. Jones, 33d degree, most imperial grand potentate of the order of the United States, with solemn and impressive ceremonies. This is the first temple organized in the state of New York for colored masons.

EDISON'S FINANCIAL SCHEME.

Money Should be Made of Wheat and Iron.

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—A new solution of the silver question has been offered by Thomas A. Edison. In an interview he said: "The hankering after gold and silver is largely traditional. People allow themselves to be governed by the old ideas on the subject of coinage formulated at a time when national credits did not exist and currency would only be taken at an intrinsic value. What we need is a new standard of value. I think that the best dollar could be made out of compressed wheat. You take a bushel of wheat and squeeze the water out of it and then compress it into a hard cake the size of a silver dollar and stamp the government mark upon it. That would represent actual value and labor performed, and then you could eat your dollar, for when you wanted to use the wheat all that would be necessary would be to put your money to soak. We should then have the bushel of wheat as a permanent unit of value, which all farmers would appreciate, and the currency of the country would represent actual worth and labor performed. Both gold and silver could then be dispensed with and the present bi-metallic problem solved. Our currency, moreover, would be as good as gold or silver in foreign exchange, for our wheat goes to all countries of the world.

"In all this talk about metal for coinage," continued Mr. Edison, "I am surprised that no one has suggested iron. Iron is the most precious metal. Mankind has no use for either gold or silver; iron could not be dispensed with. If the people would only give up this foolish, traditional, hereditary hankering for gold and silver, those metals would not be worth the price of old lead and would be kicked aside by civilization. The human race on the other hand cannot dispense with iron. Iron must be produced to keep pace with consumption or its price will steadily rise. The demand for iron is steady and will never cease. Therefore, why not issue treasury certificates on iron? This is the greatest iron producing country in the world and our output amounts annually to more than the output of gold and silver. Instead of loading up the treasury with these useless metals, and, as people would want bills of large denomination to accompany the wheat dollar, why not buy iron or steel instead, and issue treasury certificates upon that."

SULTAN AROUSED.

Interest in Armenian Prisoners in Asiatic Turkey.

LONDON, Oct. 2.—Dispatches from Constantinople say that the sultan has been greatly moved by the agitation in England on behalf of the Armenian prisoners in Asiatic Turkey. He has ordered that all the papers bearing on the recent trial of Armenians in Angora be laid before him—especially those concerning the charges against Professors Thoumayan and Kayayan, of the American college in Marsovan. Abstracts from these documents were made a week ago and were dispatched on September 26 to Rustem Pasha, Turkish ambassador in London. A courteous autograph letter from the sultan was sent with them.

BEST NEWS IN THE WORLD.

The United Press Gains Two Great Victories.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 2.—The crumbling condition of the Western Associated Press is constantly becoming more and more apparent. On Friday last Washington Hesing resigned his position as a director in the organization and has since withdrawn his newspaper, the Illinois Staats-Zeitung, from the Associated Press and put it into the United Press. This is the leading German journal of the west, and it was a charter member of the Associated Press. Simultaneously with this change the Memphis Scimitar severed its relations with the Associated Press to become a full member of the United Press.

SHOT A BOY FOR FUN.

Negro Miners Imitate Cowboys and May Get Lynched.

PITTSBURG, Kan., Oct. 2.—Ever since the importation of negro labor from Alabama for the mines the negroes have been in the habit of hiring livery rigs and riding about the country. Yesterday several were pursuing the practice, and when riding through Chicopee, a mining camp, opened fire on 19-year-old James Harrison and shot him four times. Marshal Lemaster and a posse caught three fugitives and lodged them in jail. Large revolvers were taken from them by the marshal. It is said that the attack on the boy was without cause, and that the negroes shot as if they enjoyed it. Lynching is threatened.

Costly Card Playing.

LOUISVILLE, Oct. 2.—Three tramps playing cards in a box car set fire to the lubricating oil shed of the Standard oil company, causing a loss of $40,000, the shed and contents and seven freight cars being burned. A watchman fired on the tramps five times but they managed to escape. The Western Union wires to Nashville and Memphis were burned down, but the break was soon repaired.

TO BE CONTINUED

The Same Old Serial Story in Congress.

Talk of a Compromise on the Silver Question—No Signs of a Vote on the Repeal Bill—Little Interest in the House.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—The ninth week of the present session of congress began today, and the results of the work so far accomplished cannot be said to be encouraging to persons who had hoped for a speedy adjustment of the great financial question which caused the issue of the call for the special session. The present outlook is towards the continuation of the debate which has been in progress for the last five weeks in the senate. The renewed talk of compromise legislation, however, gives the impression in some quarters that the end may be near.

The list of speakers has not been complete for this week, and it may be assumed that when it is the names of few repeal senators will appear upon it, and the debate will be left almost altogether to the silver men. Three of these—Teller, George and Morgan—are entitled to the floor at any time to conclude speeches which they have begun but not finished. Mr. Call of Florida has signified a desire to address the senate, but his is the only speech formally announced.

The week's business in the house will be confined, so far as can be stated, to a continuance of the debate on the election bill, under the order which will exhaust itself on the 10th inst. The debate as far as it has progressed has failed to develop any of the intensity of partisan feeling so freely predicted of it. In fact, it has been rather tame and uninteresting, and on one or two days last week an early adjournment was necessitated because there was no one ready to proceed with the argument. An improvement in this respect is anticipated this week. The expectation is that the debate, like that on the bill for the repeal of the silver purchasing law, will increase in interest toward the close, and go out in a blaze of glory, so to speak. There are a number of measures on the calendar which committees may call up during the consideration morning hour, but it is not probable that any of them will be brought to the attention of the house, for the time for discussion is too brief to warrant expectation of definite action.

Considerable work will be done in committee rooms. The committee on banking and currency will continue its hearings on the financial measures pending before it, Representative Davis of Kansas being first on the list for to-morrow morning.

WANTS IMMEDIATE REPEAL.

South Carolina's Populist Treasurer Against the Sherman Law.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Oct. 2.—The State publishes an interview with State Treasurer W. C. T. Bates, who has been appointed by Governor Tillman a delegate to the St. Louis convention. Dr. Bates was elected with Governor Tillman on the alliance platform and it was supposed he favored the Ocala demands. In his interview he favors the immediate repeal of the Sherman law, believing it will result in instant relief to the greatest numbers. Subsequently, he says, other financial legislation can be had. He does not think that free silver will do what its friends claim. He is for bimetallism, but believes the financial problem can only be solved by careful legislation. The pledges of the democratic party made at Chicago should be faithfully kept. If they are not there will be a reckoning.

The financial views of the state treasurer have caused surprise as they are directly opposed to those of the remainder of the state administration who stand upon the same financial plank as the populists.

SMASHED THE OBSTRUCTION.

Unsuccessful Attempt to Wreck a Vermont Central Train.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Oct. 2.—An unsuccessful attempt at wrecking the steamboat train bound north on the New London division of the Central Vermont railroad was made Saturday evening on the trestle about two miles south of Palmer. Some fence rails were stuck up in the ties criss-cross fashion, and a sleeper was laid across the rails. The train struck the obstruction and demolished it without being damaged. This was the third attempt made within three weeks to wreck this train at this point.

Ideal Indians.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Oct. 2.—Last night the Indian special, with 500 students and the entire faculty of the Indian training school at Carlisle on board, steamed out of the Union depot en route to the world's fair. Capt. P. H. Pratt, the projector and successful superintendent of the institution, hopes to show to the world the advantages of his plan of making the Indians useful and self-supporting citizens. The Indian boys and girls are paying all their own expenses from the earnings of the past six months.

Spilled All the Milk.

A horse owned by Milkman William Powers got frightened at a sheet that the wind blew from over some plants in Police Captain Grant's yard at 6 this this morning and ran away. Mr. Powers's little daughter was driving, and she was thrown out and badly bruised. Her lip was cut. The wagon was upset, the body torn from the running gears, and 100 quarts of milk were spilled. The horse escaped serious injury. He was caught on Arlington avenue.

Keys Can't Be Beaten.

A new Democratic club is about to be organized in North Plainfield, and all those in favor of it are requested to meet at 40 Grandview avenue, Thursday evening at 8, or send their names to that address. One object of the meeting is to feel the pulse of the members regarding a re-nomination of ex-Senator Keys from Somerset county.

—Trial of the criminal cases of Somerset county will begin tomorrow morning.

FIGHTING RACE-TRACKS.

DETERMINED ATTITUDE OF LEADING PLAINFIELD CITIZENS.

Executive Committee Appointed to Open the Campaign with a Sunday Mass-Meeting—The Avowed Purpose Not to Organize an Independent Party But to Secure Anti-Race-Track Candidates from the Others.

The meeting of the Plainfield Branch, Anti-Race-Track League, in the Common Council chambers Saturday night, was attended by forty-two representative men. President Mason W. Tyler filled the chair, and WM. M. Stillman was elected secretary.

Among those present were Craig A. Marsh, W. R. Codington, S. A. Ginna, A. Vanderbeek, Henry M. Maxson, H. O. Newman, C. L. Goodrich, D. J. Yerkes, Chas. Potter, E. M. Rodman, C. Schenck, John Leal, F. B. Millington, John Ulrich.

The minutes of the meeting of March 30 were read and approved.

Counselor Marsh of the appointed committee reported a constitution modeled on that of the Union County Branch. The stated object is to suppress race-track gambling and to aid in securing the repeal of all laws protecting the same, and to prevent the passage of such laws in the future. Any legal voter willing to cooperate is eligible to membership.

This was adopted, and the following executive committee was appointed: President Tyler, S. A. Ginna, Rowland Cox, C. A. Marsh, Isaac L. Miller.

Speeches were made urging citizens to sign the roll, and the need of enthusiasm was pointed out. The executive committee was instructed to arrange for a mass-meeting to be held some Sunday soon—in Music Hall if afternoon, and in a church if evening.

Dr. Richards said that some had obtained the mistaken idea that the League aimed to organize an independent party. The present aim, he said, was to secure from the chief political parties men who could be trusted to vote for repealing the race-track legislation. If both parties nominated such men, then it was indifferent to the League which of them should be elected. If not, then another course would be taken.

The actual policy of the League was outlined in the adoption of the following resolution:

Resolved, That the present purpose and endeavor of this League is to call forth such an expression of public sentiment against race-track gambling and its legislation as shall secure from the chief existing political parties the nomination of candidates who may be pledged and trusted to do their utmost to carry out the objects of this League.

To raise necessary funds, it was carried that voluntary subscriptions of $1 be solicited from the members.

Helping Moody Along.

The meeting in the Y. M. C. A. rooms yesterday afternoon in the interest of Mr. Moody's work in Chicago, was addressed by W. D. Murray. The attendance was large, and as had been announced the previous Sunday an offering was made to Mr. Moody's work. P. L. Conde with the aid of four of his pupils, Gilbert Lovell, Fred Goddard, Charles Davis and Fermin Ferrer, gave very enjoyable orchestral music.

Larkins Checker Champion.

An interesting contest at checkers, for the championship of Plainfield and Dunellen, was just concluded at the Potter Press Works between Andrew Muir and William Larkins his foreman. It resulted in a victory for Larkins. In the series of games from August 1 to September 28 Larkins won 19, and Muir 13, and 9 were draws, which leaves Larkins champion.

Y's to Elect.

The first regular meeting of the Young Women's Christian Temperance Union will be held in their rooms in the Crescent flats, Wednesday afternoon, October 4, at 4, when the election of officers for the ensuing year will take place. The secretary desires that all members be present.

Having tried a number of remedies advertised as "sure cures" without obtaining any relief, I had resolved never to take any other patent medicines, when a friend advised me to try Ely's Cream Balm. I did so with great reluctance, but can now testify that after using it for six weeks I believe myself cured. It is a most agreeable remedy—an invaluable Balm.—Joseph Stewart, 624 Grand avenue, Brooklyn.

THE SOCIAL SEASON.

AS USUAL, MUSIC TO BE A FEATURE.

Saturday Tennis Games to Continue Till Cooler Weather—A Plainfield Thespian Gets a Consulship—Dinners and Dances Discussed—That Waffle Tea—The Melopoia's Music.

In spite of the fact that the tennis teas are past for the season, Saturday afternoon saw more players on the courts of the Country Club than there have been for months. This might be explained by the very fact of the cessation of the teas, as when there is no other excuse to bring the younger set together tennis is seized on with avidity. The games that were played Saturday were not all of the finest quality, but the players enjoyed themselves. Everyone had such a good time that it is proposed to make the Saturday games a feature of each until the weather grows too cold for tennis. Those who were enterprising enough to propose Saturday tennis and invite the people were gratified by the number that turned out in response to the summons. Among those playing and looking on were: Miss Maude VanBoskerck, Miss Lizzie VanBoskerck, Miss Clarkson, Miss Beesie Ginna, Miss Tompkins, Miss Fay Hawley, Miss Marion Dumont, Miss Kathryn Yates, Miss Streuli, Miss Whiton, Miss Mary Whiton, Miss Corlies, Clarence Logan Murphy, Will Runyon, Irving West, Robert Tracy, J. S. Anthony, A. B. Wadsworth, J. H. P. Wharton, Jr., and Percy Stewart.

The appointment of Charles Noe Daly to the United States Consulship at Guelph, Canada, has deprived Plainfield of one of the best amatuer Thespians that ever trod the boards here. Although Mr. Daly lives in Bergen Point, he has been known to Plainfield audiences for some time, and in his career here has never failed to make a hit. He appeared several times last winter, but this season he was to have been more closely identified than ever with theatricals that have become such a successful feature of the winter. Hardly a venture in this line had been planned without his figuring on the bill either as manager or in an important part on both. His many friends in Plainfield will miss him greatly but he is sure to take their best wishes with him.

The prospects for a gay season do not seem to be of the best, although several half-formed plans for dinners and dances are being discussed. Some enterprising people are talking of getting up a series of dinners to be given by a small circle of intimates on dates previously arranged. This would be delightful and quite unprecedented, as the dinner is a form of entertainment practically unknown in Plainfield. If one is justified, however, in judging by what has gone before it might be safe to predict that the feaste in question would be uncommonly thirsty ones.

It is expected that the "waffle tea" that is to be given by the Rectory Society of Grace church about the 20th will be held in the present residence of F. Otis Herring on Ninth street, as the family will move into their new home on Park avenue before the date set for the tea. A recently evacuated private house is an accommodation seldom accorded, even to enterprising rectory societies, and the tea should surely be a success with such housing.

The Melopoia Society has come bravely forward bound to do or die in filling the unusual gap left by the determination of Mr. Newman not to bring the Philharmonic Sextette to Plainfield this winter. They have secured some excellent soloists, and although they are to have only two concerts they have arranged an extra concert to which they will lend their patronage, the programme to be made up of distinguished virtuosos from various parts. Although the society cannot hope to furnish such music as the Philharmonic players have been wont to give Plainfielders, it is a relief to know that some music is assured. The Choral Society does good work, of course, but comparatively few people care to sit through amateur oratorio, no matter how good.

Fifteen societies of Christian Endeavor are invited to meet with the Y. P. S. C. E. of the Park Avenue Baptist church, Tuesday evening at 8. The address by the Rev. Palmer S. Hulbert is expected to be very fine. He comes from the Marble Collegiate church of New York city.

The members of the Methodist church of Dunellen occupied that edifice for the first time yesterday after a long time spent in refurnishing and repainting the structure. Services of a special character were held all day. The improvements make this church one of the prettiest in Dunellen, and all naturally feel proud of the effort put forth to accomplish the results attained.

All are welcome at this service, and all the sessions of the Presbytery. Delicate Operation.

Henry Eggerding, of 1015 Arlington avenue, has been suffering since the last week of July from water which got into his ears while in swimming at Boynton Beach.

He had the drums of both ears lanced, and inflammation then set in behind the left ear. This was operated on yesterday afternoon by Dr. Ard, assisted by Drs. Endicott and Probasco. For the past two weeks the patient had suffered excruciating pain, but is resting easy today.

Treatment of Eczema and Salt Rheum.

These two complaints are so tenacious that the readers of The Press should know of the success obtained by using Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy.

In cases where all other treatments have failed, it has made a complete cure.

Perhaps no more horrible case of Salt Rheum was ever reported than that of Wilbur L. Hale, of Rondout, N. Y. Several physicians utterly failed to render him any relief whatsoever; it was finally suggested by one of the physicians attending that Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy be tried, and steady improvement followed its use, and a permanent cure resulted.

It is used with similar success in cases of scrofula, nervousness, kidney and liver complaints, and all diseases brought about by bad blood and shattered nerves.

THE IDEAL PARENT.

PASTOR RICHARDSON TELLS WHAT THAT IS.

Sharp Scoring of People Who Lose Their Temper and Strike Their Children — What the Home-Life Sometimes Is, and What It Should Be.

The sermon of the Rev. J. W. Richardson on "The Ideal Parent", in the Park Avenue Baptist church last night, was received by a large congregation. The text was Proverbs xxii: 6—

Train up a child in the way that he should go, and when he is old he will not depart from it.

The speaker said in part:

The influence of the parents will have very much to do with the character of the child. The father by passion or selfishness, or the mother by over-indulgence, may so inculcate habits that when come to years the child may be worldly-minded and unreasonable. Biographers when writing about great men, always mention the early life, and how its surroundings and training went toward shaping the man. The Ideal Parent will therefore make the home-life cheerful. If you wish your children to have sunshiny dispositions, give them sunshine at home to grow up in. Do not close the blinds to the parlor, and say to the children, "I will whip you if you play in there". If they happen to make a little noise when they come in from play, do not snarl out, "Stop your noise or go to bed without your supper". Let me tell you, East side, New York, is not the only place where such parental brutality reigns. Such things are the screws and bolts in the flooring of their character. If you love your children take a little trouble, make a few sacrifices to bring sunshine into the home. A prominent gentleman said, "I was sent out into the world at an early age; and in twenty families where at various times I made my home, there were only three that could be designated as happy families. The trouble was not so much the lack of love, as the lack of care to manifest it". That is why so many homes are in sack-cloth and ashes. I say to you father, lay aside your evening paper and have a romp with your children. I say to you mother, throw your novel into the fire, and get a book with something sublime in it for the inspiration of your children. If you wish to ruin your boys and girls, compel them to tie down the safety-valve when they come into the house. If you compel the children to believe that all laughter and enjoyment must be left outside the house when they come home at night, you will suddenly realize that they are seeking amusement outside which may result in immorality and degredation. The Ideal Parent will make the home more than a place in which merely to eat, sleep and dress for the street. Home will be made the divinest place on earth to the child: a castle for escape from school-day trouble; a palace where papa is king and mama queen: a fairy's bower full of innocent mirth and glad surprises: yea, the Ideal Parent will make home the very vestibule of heaven, where the children are taught how to wear coronation robes! Then again, avoid hastiness with the child. The parent must strive to be moderate in tone and deliberate of decision, in dealing with the child. It produces a demoralizing effect to say "No you can't—yes you may" in the same breath. It has a dangerous tendency to box their ears, and jerk them by the arms every time you are irritated. It undermines the child's character for the parent to whip him in a fit of tember, and then bribe the sobbing urchin back into good nature by the gift of a little candy, or a one cent piece. Be even with your children. Cultivate evenness of temper more assiduously, than the latest step in dancing. Avoid spasms in your home-government: do n't be all honey one minute and all vinegar the next: be even! Let parents reverse their common conduct, and begin to think first, and act afterward. A little girl said, "Papa may I go over and play with Carrie?" Just then she discovered dissent in his face, and kissing him she quickly added, "Please do n't say no—think first". That was a child's protest against a hasty and inconsiderate answer. Parents are too ready to thoughtlessly deny requests which seem trifling, but which to the child is all important. They are prone to allow the quick harsh reply, without stopping to think what it means to them. There is the Ideal, parents: think first, act in cold blood! The Ideal Parent will not magnify the faults of a child. Some parents are a perfect terror to their children. Little faults are magnified. Physical defects are often mimicked in the presence of the child. And "Stupid", "Dolt", are epithets frequently applied. Some of these little ones go about feeling like criminals in striped jackets. The germs of manhood and womanhood are passing through a terrific process in such cases. Some of these children, when they fall into mischief, are simply appalled and dread to face their parent—their little hearts beat against their ribs—and they wish they were "twenty-one", because they anticipate the angry scowls, and already feel the tingle of the brush or strap mercilessly laid on. Wait a few years, and those children will defy the Nero of their home-life. "What, Mr. Preacher, not use the rod!" "Yes: it has its legitimate use." "When?" I do not know—but, I do know that parents should not whip the child except as a very very very last resort. If parents are not willing to pay the price of a successful parenthood; if they are not willing to exercise patience, forbearance; if they are not gentle and loving in their home government, then all heaven knows that they have no right to have children! I believe it makes God indignant, when a parent punishes his child in a passion.

DUNELLEN.

Peter Staats, the newly-appointed Postmaster at Dunellen, took his seat this morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Clawson, accompanied by Miss Hattie Campbell, and Mrs. George Swackhamer, are visiting among friends at Flemington.

Leander Stryker, of Lebanon, rode his wheel to Dunellen, yesterday, and spent a few hours with relatives there. He started for home before dark, and reached Lebanon in good time.

The marriage of Peter Shultz and Miss M. Austin is set for October 14. It will be a notable affair, and will take place at the residence of the bride. A reception will follow at the groom's home.

A Man of Character.

(From The Summit Record.)

In the death of Nathan Harper, a former Judge of the Court of Common Pleas, Union county loses an upright and an honorable citizen, and the Democratic party a man who did much to give the organization character and courage in its earlier and less prosperous days; and the city of Plainfield in which he so long resided mourns a member of that community who largely aided in making it the ideal community it now is.

I suffered for more than ten years with that dreadful disease, catarrh, and used every available medicine that was recommended to me. I cannot thank you enough for the relief which Ely's Cream Balm has afforded me. Emanuel Meyers, Winfield, L. I., N. Y.

I am an old man and have been a constant sufferer with catarrh for the last ten years. I am entirely cured by the use of Ely's Cream Balm. It is strange that so simple a remedy will cure such a stubborn disease. Henry Billings, U. S. Pension Att'y, Washington, D. C.

Good violins improve with use and age. If Stradivarius had made Pianos as well as violins, no one would care to own one of the former unless as a curiosity. There is little new in violin making, but there is something new every year in Piano making. Take care you do not buy a Piano simply because it was famous. With any Piano of ancient name and fame we invite you to compare the Steinway, Gabler, Vose, Sterling and Braumuller Pianos. They contain all new improvements that are desirable

ACTORS AND HOODOOS

WOE TO A PLAY WHOSE FIRST NIGHT SEES A YELLOW FLAGEOLET.

The In Itself Harmless Instrument Exercises a Peculiar Fatality When In a Theater Orchestra at a Dress Rehearsal or at the Initial Performance.

"That play can never succeed," said an old time manager in an up town cafe several nights ago. "It is a pity, too, for it's a good play and a good company. I wish that I had not seen the dress rehearsal."

"You're getting old, colonel, and you only see success in the past," said a leading man.

"That is where you are wrong," replied the manager. "I know a good thing when I see it, and this play is a good thing, but it began with a hoodoo, and it will surely fail."

"Hoodoos are tommyrot! There is no such thing as a hoodoo that can harm any play."

Around the table were half a dozen actors and men interested in theatrical affairs. Few men in New York know more about the history of the American stage for the past few years than the manager who spoke. Booth, Jefferson, Barrett and Irving have all claimed him as their friend, and his reminiscences of the stage make him the center figure in any after t.. play gathering of actors.

"Now, colonel," said the leading man when the glasses had been filled, "you were talking about hoodoos on the stage. I don't believe in them. When a play is a failure, it is easy to explain it by saying it had a hoodoo."

"Well," said the colonel, "actors the world over are a superstitious lot. Even Henry Irving brought his horseshoe to this country when he first came here. I didn't believe in hoodoos and that sort of thing when I was young. I don't like to accept them now, but I am forced to by experience.

"Have you ever known the yellow flageolet to fail in wrecking a play? Now, you laugh at that. I think that, as a rule, there is no harm in a yellow flageolet in itself, but there is a peculiar fatality in the circumstances that bring it into a theater orchestra at a dress rehearsal or on an opening night. There was a yellow flageolet in the orchestra today, and that is why I say that the piece is doomed. Yes, that's right; laugh if you will, but my experience is a long one, and I think I am a sane man. Any old manager in this country will tell you that a yellow flageolet is sure to wreck any company. Circus men won't have them in their bands. I could tell you many incidents to illustrate what I say. Perhaps you remember that when 'The Junior Partner' was put on, every one said it was going to be a big success. Everything pointed that way, but it opened with a yellow flageolet in the orchestra, and then Mrs. McKee Rankin's troubles began. That is a fact. I have known stage managers, and sensible men, too, who would refuse to ring up the curtain until the yellow flageolet was driven out of the orchestra."

"That is just as absurd," said the light comedy man, "as the cheese that the Italian ballet girls in the 'Crystal Slipper' kept in their dressing rooms. I know the effect of that mascot, for I was in the company. Every time I went on the stage or near the dressing rooms I thought of Hunter's Point and the grashouse district. Couldn't persuade those girls to throw away this cheese. They believed that as long as they kept it they would be sure of an engagement. The cheese had been given to them in Italy to protect them from harm. Each girl had a small piece of it—loud cheese it was, too—rolled up in paper in her trunk. To be sure of protection they took it to their dressing rooms. Eddie Foy nearly choked because of the smell of that cheese. Eddie never did like comic opera, and that cheese settled him. 'I could only show them what I could do in Daly's company,' he would say, 'and escape from this horrible Italian cheese. I'm too delicate for this work any way. Just wait until I get into the "legit" and wear swallow tails and smoke cigarettes on the stage and pull my cuffs.' Now, colonel, speaking about the hoodoos, that is my experience with a mascot."

"For some reason," said the leading man, "actors are naturally superstitious. Perhaps it is because their life is one of many ventures, and sometimes the most insignificant thing may lead to failure or success. Probably a good deal of the superstition is assumed. Most people have a dash of that in them, whether they will admit it or not. Do you remember when Rose Coghlan made her hit at Wallack's in 'Diplomacy' as the Countess Zicka? As you remember, the plot of this play hangs on the perfume that the countess uses. Rose Coghlan used a certain perfume on that night, and she made a big hit. I have heard that she always uses this perfume now, no matter what the play may be. Of course it is only a woman's fancy, and yet I have heard that Miss Coghlan would rather lose her wardrobe than her perfume. Patti also has a similar fad. When she made her first great hit, she wore a pair of shoes of peculiar pattern. Patti wears in her concerts now shoes made on this identical last and of the same pattern. She believes they bring her luck, and apparently they have done so. Yes, stage folk are a bit superstitious. You probably have all seen would be funny men thrown off the stage at rehearsal for quoting some of the hoodoo passages in 'Macbeth.'"

"There is very little or no confiection," said the colonel, "between these little foibles and spiritualism, but the conversation suggests it. You would all probably be surprised to know the number of well known actors who believe in spiritualism. Billy Florence was a spiritualist, although few people knew it. I knew him as intimately as any one, and he has often talked about his belief to me. Bartley Campbell was another, and so is McVicker of Chicago. Ada Isaacs Menken is now simply a name to you youngsters. She was a clever woman, as well as a very beautiful woman. The elder Dumas and many other men of letters were among her friends. She wrote two volumes of verse, which, she claims, were inspired by the spirits. These verses consisted of musical lines of varying length, and they attracted some attention. I'm not a spiritualist, but I am a firm believer in hoodoos and occasionally in mascots. Let's have a nightcap."—New York Sun.

A Well Balanced Head.

Jacob Myers delights in scaling dizzy heights and performing all kinds of foolhardy tricks. His wonderful feat on the electric light tower at Tipton, Ia., is still remembered by most of the people of Cedar county, if not by the entire state. The tower is a pointed affair, 120 feet high, with an iron rod an inch in diameter extending seven feet above the platform. Myers mounted this tower and stood upright on one foot upon the rod for 21 seconds. W. B. Barber, a photographer of Fortuna, Cal., has a photograph of Myers dancing a jig on the sawed off top of a redwood 176 feet from the ground.—St. Louis Republic.

COST OF LIVING IN PARIS.

Some Hints Which May Aid Visitors In Getting Along Economically and Well.

Among the meats, plain boiled beef, dry and without gravy, costs 6 cents. When garnished with a vegetable, its price is 8 cents. Here there is a curious manipulation of prices. The "garniture" of meats with vegetables costs but little extra, while the vegetables served by themselves are rather dear. Thus peas are 12 cents a plate, but plain boiled beef garnished with peas costs only 2 cents more than plain boiled beef alone. To eat cheaply is therefore to order garnished meats and avoid plates of vegetables sold separately. This is no great secret, and nothing is gained by it except in the line of economy. The vegetables used for garniture are inferior in freshness or flavor, although they are perfectly good.

The French, even in their expensive restaurants, have no proper idea of roast meats. Mutton of a cut called "gigot" is pretended to be roasted and comes on tough and bleeding. Beef, on the other hand, is frequently cooked so long that it is as dry as dust. Roast lamb and veal are served underdone and sprawling limply in a watery gravy, with water cress around the edge of the dish, as if that could make up for it. When roast meats are stuffed, it is never with plain bread crumbs and herbs. There must be chopped ham, force meat, chopped mushrooms and grated cheese, all mixed together.

A small broiled chop costs in these restaurants 11 cents. They are thought to be expensive and small for the price. English tourists registered at the Grand hotel and who patronize the little restaurant opposite it for the sake of averaging down expenses are the chief patrons of mutton chops. A Parisian would prefer a large dish of mutton stew, with potatoes, peas and onions swimming in a savory sauce. This would save him the price of vegetables and give him the money for three things the Englishman does not value highly—the little radishes before the soup, the soup itself and black coffee, with brandy at the end.

Veal cutlets in the true Vienna style, even to the little anchovy curled up on the top, are large and filling at 14 cents. A fricassee of chicken, very small indeed, whose poverty is hidden in a thick white sauce, is pleasing but dear at 18 cents. The finest steak, a Chateaubriand, comes at a good bargain for 22 cents, while there are no end of makeshift meat dishes, which look better than they really are—beef croquettes with tomato sauce, brains cooked in various styles, sheep's feet, pigs' feet, sausages with white wine sauce, calf's head, stewed liver and no end of dishes made from things left over.—Washington Star.

"A friend told me of the Vegetable Compound; her faith won mine, and now I am well. Oh! how can I return thanks to Mrs. Pinkham!

COTTOLENE

OUT OF THE FRYING PAN

Has come not a little knowledge as to cookery—what to do, as well as what not to do. Thus we have learned to use the most pure and perfect and popular cooking material for all frying and shortening purposes.

PROGRESSIVE COOKING

is the natural outcome of the age, and it teaches us not to use lard, but rather the new shortening, which is far cleaner, and more digestible than any lard can be.

COTTOLENE,

The success of COTTOLENE has called out worthless imitations under similar names. Look out for these! Ask your Grocer for COTTOLENE, and be sure that you get it.

MOBILE UNDER WATER

Boats Doing Business in the Principal Streets.

Fifty Miles of Railroad Reported to be Inundated—Several People Known to Have Been Drowned and Greater Fatalities Feared.

MOBILE, Ala., Oct. 3.—A southeast gale broke here yesterday morning and the wind increased in velocity until it blew at least 75 miles an hour. The wind blew the water in from the gulf until the river reached Royal street, which is four blocks from the river and at an elevation of about 15 feet from mean river height.

There is no possible chance of estimating the money damage. All the wholesale and a great portion of the retail district of the city are under some four feet of water and thousands of dollars worth of goods have been damaged.

It is reported that three dredges, working on the channel, have been lost. It is also reported that some 50 miles of the Louisville & Nashville railroad along the coast are under water, and that the Biloxi bridge has been swept away by the gale. Nothing has been heard from the gardeners in the marshes east of the city, and the worst is feared. Telegraphic communication is broken in almost every direction, and from the present outlook Mobile will be entirely cut off from the outside world.

Houses have been unroofed, trees blown down and one cotton warehouse has succumbed to the fury of the gale. The smokestacks of all the manufacturing industries have been blown down. Street car traffic has been totally suspended because of the damage to electric wires. The busiest thoroughfares of the city are being navigated in boats and parties are wading up to their armpits in an effort to save goods. It is given up by all to be the worst storm that has ever visited Mobile. The southern part of the city presents a scene of wreckage as if it had been bombarded.

Dredge No. 5 turned over near the lighthouse and three men were thrown into the waves. At great peril the crew of the tug steamed to the rescue and saved two of the men, the other being lost.

An unknown white man lost his footing while wading from the union depot at the foot of Government street and was swept under the bridge and drowned.

Rain fell in torrents the entire day, and last night the city was in darkness. There was not an electric light of any kind burning.

The bay steamer Crescent City dragged her anchor seven miles and went ashore on the beach between Arlington and Monroe Park, about three miles below the city on the western shore of the bay. Capt. Frank Lumsden and his crew and one passenger, a cotton broker, named R. A. Lewis, donned life preservers and swam safely ashore.

Nearly every bath house along the western shore was blown down, and at Morgan an attendant, named Graham, was swept away with five bath houses and drowned.

The Magnolia and Cooley's warehouses were blown down and two unknown negroes drowned in the cotton yard. Magnificent oaks all over the city are laid low, and the earth is covered with green leaves whipped from the trees by the winds. Houses all over the city have been unroofed and fences blown down. It is simply impossible to give details.

The storm at midnight abated and the waters receded. There was not a wire in the Western Union office affording intercourse with the outside world and telegrams were sent several miles out of town where communication was established.

BURGE AND DEMPSEY.

They Have Each Deposited $1,000 to Guarantee a Match.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—According to appointment Gus Tuthill met Dick Burge yesterday, but no articles were signed. The match will certainly be made between Burge and Jack Dempsey. The fact is they each have $1,000 on deposit at present to bind the bargain. Gus Tuthill, who is backing Jack Dempsey, said the match would surely be made, for if Newton does not offer them a purse they will make a match for $5,000 a side and let the man fight in private for the stake of $10,000.

New Silver Scheme.

DENVER, Col., Oct. 3.—The sub-committee appointed at the last meeting of the silver bullion committee have completed a report, in which they urge that a state silver bullion bureau be established by the legislature, and that certificates be issued for silver presented in order that the white metal industry of the state may be strengthened and more money be placed in circulation.

Discussing Currency.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Several democratic members of the house committee on banking and currency called on Secretary Carlisle yesterday and discussed with him the merits of the several currency bills pending before that committee. Subsequently Secretary Carlisle called on the president and remained with him for some time.

Steady Work.

AMESBURY, Mass., Oct. 3.—The Hamilton woolen company has started up on full time after having been running every other week since the middle of August. All of the hands will now find steady work, although at a reduction in wages. The weavers are cut the most, amounting to about 15 per cent., while the rest of the help are cut 10 per cent.

Pushing Repeal.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 3.—A large delegation of leading business men will go from this city to Washington this week to urge upon the senate the importance of pushing the so-called silver repeal bill.

New United States Attorney.

CONGRESSIONAL GRIND

Should the Repeal Bill be Postponed?

Uncertainty as to How Some Senators May Vote on the Silver Question. Proposal to Wait for New Senators From Three Western States.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—The resolution proposing a postponement of action on the repeal bill and other measures until the three vacant seats from Montana, Washington and Wyoming are filled was brought up yesterday incidentally by the senator who offered it last week, Mr. Dubois (rep., Idaho). He disclaimed any purpose of obstruction in offering it. This revival of the subject gave Mr. Washburn (rep., Minn.) an opportunity of declaring the proposition to be absolutely absurd, particularly in view of the fact that two of the states concerned were not silver producing, and had no more interest in the silver question than other states, and were, furthermore, now represented in the senate by men who would vote for unconditional repeal of the Sherman act. This last statement was instantly challenged by both by Mr. Dubois and Mr. Wolcott (rep., Col.), who asked for the authority on which it was made. There was no hesitation on Mr. Washburn's part in gratifying their curiosity. His authority, he said, came from the two senators themselves (Messrs. Squire and Carey), and he stated afterwards, in precise terms, that the senator from Washington (Mr. Squire), had told him that he would vote for the unconditional repeal of the Sherman law. The statement seemed to surprise the senators from Colorado and Idaho. Mr. Dubois appeared altogether incredulous, and asserted that the two senators (Messrs. Squire and Carey) would vote against the pending bill. He did not say what authority he had for the assertion.

The debate on the silver purchase repeal bill was continued by Mr. Kyle (pop., S. D.) against the repeal and by Mr. McMillan (rep., Mich.) for it. Mr. Dolph (rep., Ore.) also made an argument against the free coinage of silver.

Outside of a humorous speech by Mr. Clark (dem., Mo.) against the federal election laws the proceedings in the house yesterday were lacking in interest. He kept the attention of the house for more than hour, and his sallies were enjoyed alike by political friends and foes. The other speakers were Mr. Dinsmore (dem., Ark.), Mr. Denson (dem., Ala.) and Mr. Cooper (dem. Fla.), all of whom were in favor of repeal. No republican could be prevailed upon to speak to a large array of empty seats.

IS PENNSYLVANIA FOR SILVER?

Gen. Milliken Says It Is and That Cameron Knows It.

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—Gen. James Milliken, the republican politician of Pennsylvania, and one of the late Mr. Blaine's most intimate friends, is in this city. In speaking of Don Cameron's position on the silver question he said: "I believe that if a canvass was taken to-day of the people of Pennsylvania a majority of them would be in favor of the position taken by Mr. Cameron, that is against the repeal of the Sherman purchasing act. It is well known in Pennsylvania politics that the secret of the power of the Cameron's in that state lies in the fact that they have never opposed the wishes of the people, but have always led in that which the people desired. They have always waited until they knew the popular will and then have pitched in and made the fight. Senator Don Cameron is to-day following out the family policy."

Interior Department Expenses.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Secretary Hoke Smith has sent to the secretary of the treasury his estimates for appropriations for the interior department for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1895. The appropriations asked for aggregate $176,779,134.28 as against $180,087,630.44, the amount of the appropriations for the current fiscal year, which is a decrease of $3,308,496.16.

Sermon in Rhyme.

TROY, N. Y., Oct. 3.—Rev. P. M. Hitchcock of Glens Falls, 87 years old, preached Sunday in the Fifth Avenue Methodist church a sermon in rhyme. Mr. Hitchcock has preached 50 years in the Troy conference of the Methodist church.

Madam,

your child needs up-building food generally—contains all the elements that go to make perfect development.

WOMEN'S RIGHTS.

Fair Play for the Masses and Not Offices for a Few.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—The woman suffrage party state committee met here last night. Resolutions were passed strongly disapproving the efforts now making in some quarters to get women nominated for delegates to the constitutional convention and for school commissioners, and declaring that the woman suffrage movement does not aim to put a few women in office but to gain fair pay and fair play for masses of half-starved, struggling self-supporting women. The resolutions also disapprove all claims and nominations of women for any office whatever unless on other grounds than sex.

They also strongly advise all women suffragists not to support prohibitionist or any third party candidates, but to work for such democrat or republican nominees as favor their views and against those who oppose them. It was voted not to hold any state convention this year; and the executive committees were instructed to notify suffragists throughout the state privately which of the democratic and republican nominees are entitled to their support. The committee also voted to advise suffragists everywhere not to take proceedings in the courts to compel inspectors of election to register women or take their votes for school commissioners, but if women's votes are refused to get new laws passed next winter to secure their rights.

The committee also strongly advised that no effort be made to get women enfranchised through the constitutional convention, saying that this method is so costly as to be hopeless and is also needless as the legislature has full power.

SHAM SPIRIT.

Mrs. Roberts Had an Accomplice in the Cabinet Act.

BOSTON, Oct. 3.—Onset, the centre of spiritualism in eastern Massachusetts, had a sad experience two years ago with Mrs. Etta Roberts, the medium whose unsuccessful attempt in getting $500 from a patron in New York was published yesterday, and the circumstances caused a good deal of excitement at the time. In 1891 Mrs. Roberts made her headquarters at Onset Bay. On Thursday afternoon, Aug. 13, a seance was held in her cottage at which four people were present. These people subsequently made a report of the seance which resulted in the directors of the Onset Bay Grove association giving notice to Mrs. Roberts "to leave the grounds of the association and to attempt no more deceit in the sacred name of spiritualism." The report stated that a girl named Anna West of Kansas City was found in the cabinet which Mrs. Roberts used during the seance.

DEFENDING ALPINE FRONTIER

Italy Determined to be Protected Against France.

ROME, Oct. 3.—The Alpine troops, which are trained to defend the passes and mountain roads from Mentone to Mount Blanc against the invasion of a French army, have finished their fall manoeuvres, but they will not be demobilized. The reserves called out for the manoeuvres will be kept with the regular formations of the standing army on the Franco-Italian frontier. Moreover two Alpine regiments will be taken from their quarters on the Austrian frontier to reenforce the troops in the Cottian Alps. SEVEN HUSBANDS LIVING.

Mrs. House Released From the Asylum at Trenton.

TRENTON, N. J., Oct. 3.—Irene V. House, or Redmond, the woman with many husbands, was released from the Trenton asylum on an order from Vice Chancellor Bird, who heard the case under habeas corpus proceedings. Her release was ordered because she had received no notice of the proceedings taken against her. Steps will be taken at once by her son to secure her recommitment, as she is undoubtedly insane and is squandering the property in which she has a life interest and to which the son is heir. Mrs. House is the woman who killed her husband, a New York divorce lawyer, about 17 years ago, and since then she is said to have married seven times and all the men are living.

The old yard men who have seen a great many yachts hauled out there said that she was the finest they had ever seen, and all were inclined to think that the race would be very close.

FATAL COLLISION.

Several Tramps and Trainmen Killed in Ohio.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 3.—In a collision on the Big Four railroad, near Edgemont, between a switch engine and a freight train, several persons were killed.

On the front of the first car in the train three tramps from Columbus were riding. They were pinned in the wreckage and two of them boiled to death by escaping steam. The other was fearfully crushed about the head and breast, and was taken from the debris only to die shortly afterward. The track was torn up for about 200 yards.

The wrecking train was summoned and the crew began the work of clearing the track. While prying a car off the rails a tie flew up and struck William Hobusch in the pit of the stomach. It is thought he is fatally injured.

The names of the killed are:

Joe Jordan, a chainmaker of Columbus, Ohio.

James Murphy, Columbus, foundryman.

Joseph Blanch.

The injured are:

Frank Brofferman, VanWert, O., both legs broken.

R. M. Hughes, operator at Edgemont, leg broken.

William Honbunch, section hand, internally injured.

Supt. Gibson, of the Big Four places the blame on the switch engine crew. They had run three loaded cars on the main track and had gone back on the siding for more cars, trespassing on the fast freight's time.

CORBETT AND MITCHELL.

Novel Legal Question in Defense of the Fight.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—It has leaked out that the Coney Island Athletic club have not lived up to their agreement with Corbett and Mitchell. When the articles were signed by the pugilists recently it was stipulated that the club should post $10,000 as a guarantee that the contest would not be stopped. This money has not been forthcoming, and rumor has it that the club will not post it at all.

The agitation against the fight and the attitude of Governor Flower have caused the Coney Island people to become somewhat flustered, and it is said that they will not put $10,000 where Mitchell and Corbett can get hold of it in case the battle is stopped.

When the question of law is taken up the club will offer a novel argument. They will say that a fight between Corbett and Mitchell comes within the law, as it is a limited bout of twenty rounds. They claim also that the men can still fight to a finish and not violate the law by this method of procedure. If at the end of twenty rounds, neither man is knocked out, the referee will call the contest a draw. Then, in a few minutes, a new contest of twenty rounds, limited, will begin. If no decision has been arrived at the referee will again call the contest a draw, and a third contest of twenty rounds will begin. This will be continued until one or the other is knocked out.

BISMARCK BADLY BROKEN.

Doubts That He Will Ever Recover His Usual Health.

KISSINGEN, Oct. 3.—As is usual in the case of aged convalescents, it is hard to determine from one day to another what Prince Bismarck's condition will be. It is certain that his last illness has left permanent marks upon him, and it is doubtful if he will ever recover his usual health and strength.

His progress towards recovery has been again retarded by the entire failure of his appetite. He will now scarcely touch food.

The reports that he had suffered an attack of paralysis are borne out by the fact that his right hand is apparently completely useless. He salutes with his left hand, and is even compelled to sign his name with that hand. He has aged in looks very much since his sickness, and in appearance is very decrepit. It is impossible for him to enter or leave his carriage without assistance and whenever he goes driving two men servants help him in and out of the vehicle.

The prince complains that he is afflicted with pain day and night. Altogether he is much broken.

Theatre Fire at Omaha.

The total loss is estimated at $250,000. Six persons, five of them firemen, were injured by falling walls and one fireman is missing.

TO THE BORD OF GUARDIANS.

They Are Asked to Deduct from Money Passing Trugh Their Hands.

Among the interesting document received by the Plainfield Common Council last night was the following:

NO 443 W FOURTH STREET PLAINFIELD N J
To the chief magistrate, and to the Bord of Guardians, of this City of Gentlemen

I here by petission your noble body to pay attention to the complaint of old Peter Collins (aged 78 years and half destitute), against Michiel Walsh, who is frauding him out of seven $7 dollers & 36 cents hone tly due to Collins for Rent of the Barn where he Walsh kept his Horses in during the month of July 1893—An for the ballance of Rent due for the roomes where Walsh and his family lived owned by Collins—Gentlemen, hopeing you will be kind enough to deduct this aforesaid ammount from the cheque, or money that will pass trugh your hands for his work on the streets with his horses he kept there while working on the corporation—this Justice rests in your hands—As I understand Walsh has his effects so fixed that no Law can catch him while his wife's

Old man Collins is an old citizen and I paid $22.94 cents Taxes for him about four weeks ago—And you can understand Walsh is no tax payer, no voter, no citizen, yet he can have (4) horses working on the city work at once together—While old citizens and tax payers cannot get one dayes work on the Corporation I should think such a man as Walsh should have his work on the Streets curtailed to the work of one horse

Solliciting your favourable answer,
I remain most Respectfully yours Peter Collins

Tied up in the Courts.

James Moses paid $150 assessment for the proposed Peace street extension. Now he wants his money back. As the matter is in litigation, Council has asked Counselor Marsh to answer him.

I have been a sufferer from catarrh for years. Having tried a number of remedies advertised as "sure cures" without obtaining any relief, I had resolved never to take any other patent medicines, when a friend advised me to try Ely's Cream Balm. I did so with great reluctance, but can now testify that after using it for six weeks I believe myself cured. It is a most agreeable remedy—an invaluable Balm.—Joseph Stewart, 24 Grand avenue, Brooklyn.

MRS. VAIL WINS.

STRUCK JURY CASE SETTLED.

The Central Railroad Company Pays $2,500 Damages in the Vail Case —Craig A. Marsh the Winning Counsel.

The services of the struck jury selected to try the case of Madge E. Vail against the Central Railroad Company will not be needed, as the case has been settled. Yesterday, Craig A. Marsh, counsel for Mrs. Vail, received the company's check for twenty-five hundred dollars in settlement of the claim. The injuries suffered by Mrs. Vail were received at the collision which happened at Greenville several months ago. They confined her to the house for about three weeks, and gave her system a severe shock, from which, however, it is believed she has nearly recovered. The case was ready for trial, which was to begin before the struck jury, Judge VanSyckel presiding, on Wednesday.

FRACTURED HER WRIST.

Serious Result of a Cottage Place Smashup.

Mrs. Healy, of 228 East Ninth street, hired a horse and wagon of Richard Day, the liveryman, this morning, having several errands about the city. Frank Hart accompanied the rig as driver.

As Mrs. Healy wanted to see a colored woman in regard to some work, she was taken to a house in Cottage place. She remained in the wagon while the driver went into the house. At that time a fast freight train came thundering along, and frightened the horse, which started to run at terrific speed towards Washington street. In turning at the corner of Cottage place and Washington street, the wagon struck a large stone, which upset it, throwing Mrs. Healy out on the embankment.

Mrs. Healy was severely hurt, receiving several cuts on the face. She was also considerably bruised, and a wrist was fractured. With assistance she was taken into the house occupied by Mr. Taynor and family at Washington and Third streeets, where she was cared for. Her husband arrived soon afterwards, and remained with her.

In the meantime the horse continued his flight through Washington street to Second street, and down Second to Watchung avenue, where he was captured.

The wagon is a total wreck. The horse was not injured.

Mrs. Healy was taken to her home later in the day.

Dr. Murray attended the patient.

Dislocated His Shoulder.

While riding on an electric car, on Grant avenue last evening, about 8, Gustave Sutterlein, Jr., of 11 Greenbrook road, jumped off while the car was in motion. Apparently, he did not realize how fast the car was going. He failed to land on his feet, and was thrown across the track with much force and receiving a severe shock.

As he was unable to get up and walk, two or three boys who happened to be near gave him assistance. It was found that his shoulder was dislocated, and he was suffering intense pain.

Sutterlein was taken to Shaw's drug store and treated, and afterwards was taken to his home in the borough.

ALMOST A HOLOCAUST.

Kieb and Switzer Were the Sprinters, Willie Woke the Baby, and Stevens Took a Drop.

While Messrs. Kieb and Switzer were enjoying a game of whist at Mr. Briggs's residence, Fanwood, Saturday night, Fraulein Threna appeared and requested to speak to Mr. Kieb for a few minutes. Her request was granted, but upon her remark that his house was on fire he called out "Come Joe, come Downer" and off they went. Such time was never made down Quality Hill, Downer a little behind.

In the meantime the fire alarm was sounded and out turned the fire laddies, not neglecting, however, to be coated, belted and helmetted, excepting Will Stanbury who being a new resident and naturally over-zealous hurried off as he was, falling over the baby in his mad flight.

It was a guy wire attached to a tree in front of Mr. Kieb's that did the act for Stevens.

That gentleman rushed for the burning dwelling and was caught by the wire displacing his glasses. "Another pair of specs"—he shouted, but afterward found them on his chin.

The fire proved to have been caused by the mortar between the bricks back of a fire place on the parlor floor being dislodged; thus the fire got in between partitions and had it occured after the gentlemen returned from their games and all in bed would undoubtedly not have been discovered in time to save the house and possibly lives.

Mr. Kieb's young son Norman really did the bulk of the work and with the coachman, Patrick, succeeded in extinguishing the flames before the arrival of the firemen. Lose not over $1,000.

Will Stanbury said "Aus—can—spiel Patrick, take out those coals".

"Some darn fool took me for a dutchman", said Pat.

SEVERED FROM THE MAYOR.

Sergeant Lynch Is Sad at Leaving Dear Friends and Scenes.

The Common Council last night received the following letter:

PLAINFIELD, N. J., Sept. 30, 1893.
To the Honorable Alexander Gilbert, Mayor, and the Honorable Common Council of the City of Plainfield:

GENTLEMEN:—I hereby tender my resignation from the office of regular policeman of the city of Plainfield, to take effect immediately.

In severing my connection with the Mayor and governing body of this city, after a continuous service of nearly 10 years, it is fitting that I should give expression of my sense of gratitude for the uniform kindness and courtesy that have fallen to my lot in all our official relations. In resigning my office, although prompted so to do by the opportunity to better myself, it is not without a keen sense of regret because of leaving scenes and friends that have become dear to me.

With great respect, I am
Your obedient servant,
PATRICK LYNCH.

Councilman Marsh for the Police Committee expressed high appreciation of Mr. Lynch's faithful service, and the resignation was accepted with regret.

Bought Property of Doubtful Title.

C. R. Bager is threatened with suit by F. C. Lounsbury because the city claims taxes on a plot of land which Bager assured him had no tax-claim against it when Lounsbury bought it. L. V. F. Randolph occupied the land, which fronted on Front street and ran through to Second. Mr. Randolph paid taxes as he thought on the whole tract, as there was no dividing fence, but it seems the half fronting on Second street has always been taxed to "unknown owner" so that Mr. Randolph's payments for the other half did not cover it all. The city is investigating.

DRUGGED BY ROBBERS.

BECAUSE OF THIS MISFORTUNE, CULVER'S OUT OF A JOB.

He Was Night Operator and Ticket Agent at the Westfield Jersey Central Station—His Accounts Being Examined, and a New Man in Charge.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

WESTFIELD, Oct. 3.—O. S. Culver, the New Jersey Central night operator and ticket agent here, has been discharged and an examination of his accounts is being made.

It has leaked out that Culver was drugged Saturday night by someone who evidently intended to rob the ticket office. It being the night before the first of the month, there was in the office a large amount of money from the sale of commutation tickets. Two citizens who went about 8 p. m. to purchase tickets, found Culver in a half dazed, half frenzied condition, and wholly unmanageable. Money was lying scattered about the office with nothing to prevent its being stolen. All that the stupified operator could tell in answer to the questions put to him was, that someone had given him drink from a flask. The railroad officials learned about Culver's condition, and sent a special man from Elizabeth to take charge of the office for the night.

When Sunday morning came the drugged man had recovered his senses, but was unable to tell who it was that had given him the drink. A new man is now in charge of the office.

FREE MANUAL TRAINING.

The Long-Contemplated Boys Club Branch at Last Under Way.

The Boys Club has decided to enter on its course in manual training next Monday evening, and is now fitting up two rooms in the Central building with benches and tools for this purpose.

Olaf Saugstad, who has been secured as the teacher, is instructor in manual training in the public schools of Union Hill, and has had the benefit of a long course of special study and training for this work. Two classes will be held each Monday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings, one in sloyd or knife work for the younger boys, from 6:45 to 7:45, and one in carpenter work for the older boys from 7:45 to 9:15. The tool work will alternate with mechanical drawing and clay modeling.

The instruction will be free and the members of the Boys Club have a grand opportunity opened before them. Mr. Bond is now enrolling names for the classes. In a response to a desire expressed by many friends of the club a private class for boys will be opened from 4 to 5 two afternoons each week, and a class in sloyd and clay-modelling for girls on two other afternoons, should there be a demand for one. Any boy or girl may join these classes on payment of a fee of 25 cents per lesson. The membership will be limited to thirteen and applications should be made at once to the superintendent of the club, Mr. Bond, or to any member of the executive committee or of the ladies auxiliary committee.

TOMORROW THE FIRST EXCURSION.

The World's Fair a Success, But It Will Soon Close Its Gates Forever.

The grandest exhibition of our time and possibly for many generations to come will soon be brought to an end.

There remains but one month in which to visit this marvelous gathering of all the World's Productions, and everybody should strain a point to go to Chicago.

The railroad fare heretofore has been considered a hindrance to all classes, but this has all been changed, and on the following days in October the West Shore Railroad will run high-class excursions on its fast express trains in through cars at one-half its lowest fare, i. e., $17, from New York to Chicago and return, and proportionately lower rates from points along its line. These magnificent excursion trains will be in charge of an agent whose duty it is to care for the interests of the company's patrons en route, to furnish detailed information as to accommodations obtainable in Chicago, and to point out the historic points along the grand old Hudson and through the picturesque Mohawk Valley.

These trains will leave Franklin street, New York, at 10 a. m., and West 42d street, at 10:10 as follows: Wednesday, October 4; Tuesday, October 10; Saturday, October 14; Thursday, October 19, and the last, Monday, October 23.

If readers will just take trouble to call at any West Shore office they will be received with the usual courtesy that characterizes the employes of this superb route, (over which a journey of the kind referred to can be made with considerable ease, owing to the fact that the Management of the West Shore Railroad has spared no expense to make it the easiest running and safest road in the world), and furnish any information desired appertaining to this trip.

JUDGE HARPER'S FUNERAL.

Friend Aaron Powell Pays Glowing Tribute to His Memory.

Funeral services over the remains of Nathan Harper were held at his late residence, 314 Central avenue, yesterday afternoon at 3.

The house was filled with friends and relatives of the deceased; noticeable were a number of aged people who were personal friends.

Friend Aaron Powell spoke impressively as follows:

"Again we are summoned to the house of mourning, and again we are admonished that we have no continuing city. Today we come to pay a last token of respect to our beloved friend. He had passed his allotted three-score years and ten, but the transition came suddenly, even to our friend.

"There is one thing appointed in our existence, and that is an admonition to live to be prepared for the inevitable. We are here today, we know nothing of the morrow; it is all hidden in mystery with our loving Father. He doeth all things well, and in His own good time we shall be summoned into His presence. He has many mansions for us; we are not to choose, but accept the assignment.

"Our beloved friend has been known for many years, and with respect. He was a fond and affectionate father. There will be a great void in the home circle in the days to follow. He has gone to join his beloved wife in heaven. His home life showed a true, steadfast friend. How many there are here today that can testify to this!

"He was a member of the Society of Friends, and was especially devoted to the Sunday-school. For 22 years he had been its Superintendent. His fondness for children was apparent on all sides, and though at times the work may have seemed irksome, he felt that the results would fully compensate him. What will be the results of his teaching? It cannot be estimated. He was a public-spirited citizen, as some of you know. He was a father and founder of our municipal government, and later he became mayor of the city.

"As a friend of progress and improvement, none will leave a record more indelible. As a member of the Board of Education, he again showed his interest in children and public schools. He always advocated the best possible facilities for rich and poor alike. I need not, and I cannot, enumerate all the public services he has performed. He was emphatically the people's friend, and his motto was 'The greatest possible good to the greatest possible number'.

"As a jurist he stood preeminent. Impartially he followed the strict lines of justice. In the list of the judiciary of this State none stand brighter than he.

"As a philanthropist he was well known. His effort for temperance, year after year, was recognized. He was always striving to close up the avenue of temptation.

"There is one of many incidents in his life that is valuable. The formation of the Boys Club was principally through him. In the earlier meetings he was always present to give wise counsel, and study plans for it. His Christianity was not so much a creed as it was a life. If we review the life of our friend we will find it was of a high quality. It is said 'God removes his workmen but continues his work'. It is so in this case. How shall the important work be continued. As our narrow circle contracts there is an increased responsibility. Who in this city shall take his place as a friend of the children, as a philanthropist? These are questions we must answer ourselves.

"Someone has said 'Heaven is a relation between God and man'. We need not wait for it, but can have it now. We should be dedicated to the higher Christian truths, and fix the ideal in life high.

"When we have to part with friends, when the heartstrings are torn, this life of God will be a dependence. It was in this sublime realm that our friend lived and died, and may it be a rich legacy for our use, then there will be no burden too great for us to bear."

Dr. Rodman followed with an affecting prayer, and those present took a farewell look at the body.

At the cemetery Mrs. Aaron Powell recited a very sweet verse, which was followed with a Friends' benediction by Aaron Powell.

The rich funeral palms that rested on the coffin were placed inside of the outer box.

Those acting as pall-bearers were: W. R. Codington, A. L. Force, Robinson Pound, Elias Pope, M. F. Marcley and Adelbert Vail.

Forty Ministers on the Green.

The Elizabeth Presbytery met in the Crescent Avenue church this morning at 11. There are thirty to forty members present from this district, which includes Plainfield, Basking Ridge, Metuchen, Pluckamin, Woodbridge, Perth Amboy, Elizabeth, and many towns adjacent to those mentioned.

This morning the sermon was preached by the Rev. G. Kennedy Newell, of Hope chapel. Following this the Rev. Mr. Bayson, of the First Presbyterian church, Rahway, was elected Moderator.

The roll of the Presbytery was also completed.

After the minutes of the last meeting were read and approved, a recess was taken for lunch. During the noon hour the clergymen gathered on the green at the church and enjoyed their after-lunch cigars and the sunshine and balm of the perfect autumn day.

This afternoon business of a routine nature will be transacted. The sessions will close tomorrow.

A Valuable Remedy.

Hon. Edmund L. Pitts, the late president of the New York State Senate, writes

"STATE OF N. Y., SENATE CHAMBER,
ALBANY, March 11, 1886.

I have used ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS in my family for the past five years, and can truthfully say they are a valuable remedy and effect great cures. I would not be without them. I have in several instances given some to friends suffering with weak and lame backs, and they have invariably afforded certain and speedy relief. They cannot be too highly commended."

A NEW MARKET GROOM.

His Brilliant Wedding to a Boonton Bride.

(From The Boonton Bulletin.)

There was a brilliant gathering at the residence of Samuel Hammond, in this city, yesterday, the event being the marriage of his cousin, Miss Eliza Hammond, to William V. Dunham, Esq., of New Market, the marriage ceremony being performed by the Rev. Charles W. McCormick, of the Methodist church, in the spacious parlor, which was elegantly decorated with plants, cut flowers and vines for the occasion, and presented a beautiful appearance. The bride looked lovely, being attired in a handsome silk of old-rose color, gracefully trimmed with heavy silk lace, and carried a handsome bouquet of Marechal Niel roses and lilies of the valley. She was attended by the Misses Lucina and Mamie Fitzpatrick and Clarence Hammond, cousins of the bride, and Clarence Hall. The wedding march was finely rendered on the piano by Miss Laura Hammond. After the ceremony had been performed and the bridal couple had received the congratulations of their friends, they repaired to the dining room, where the wedding luncheon was partaken of, which was simply a marvel of the caterers' art. Mr. and Mrs. Dunham received many elegant and costly presents, among which were a handsome rocking chair, gold and onyx table lamp, mantle clocks, bronzes, silverware and bric-a-brac. The happy couple left Boonton on the 6:06 train, followed by the congratulations and best wishes of their many friends, for a long and happy life, intending, after a brief bridal tour, to settle down in the beautiful home of the groom, who is a retired gentleman, at New Market, N. J. The many friends of the bride think Mr. Dunham may congratulate himself on winning so desirable a lady for his partner in life, it being a fact not generally known that Miss Hammond has gained quite an extensive reputation as a poet, the productions of her pen being eagerly sought after wherever they are known. Among the many guests present were the following: Mr. and Mrs. Geo. H. Dunham and daughter, of New York; Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Dunham, of New Market; Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Dunham, Bound Brook; Mrs. Ann G. Dunham and Mrs. Elizabeth Dunham, Dunellen; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hastings, Tremont, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. James Parker, Miss Libbie Baker, the Misses Fannie and Maria Coombs, Paterson; Mr. and Mrs. Enoch Hammond, William Hammond, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Hammond, Mrs. Mary Hammond, Mrs. Frank Pierce, Thomas Hammond, Mrs. Joseph Hammond, Mrs. William Hammond, Mrs. Joseph Fitzpatrick, Mrs. Frank Coe, Miss Cora Hammond and Miss Hannah Coe, of Boonton.

Grist of the City Court.

Frank Hart and Dennis O'Brien, hackmen, arrested yesterday for fighting, were fined $5 each by Judge Coddington.

Charles Cashion was arrested by Special Policeman Flynn last night for being drunk on Seventh street. This morning he was given 20 days by the Judge, as this was his second offence.

Army Comrades Will Attend.

The funeral of William R. Northup will take place at his late residence, 47 North avenue, tonight at 8. Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., will attend in a body, meeting at the post room at 7:30.

Central Lodge, No. 48, A. O. U. W., will also meet at 7:30 to attend the funeral.

More Thanks.

Plainfield Daily Press:

Will you kindly allow me space in the columns of your paper to thank the members of the Fire Department of this city for their prompt and successful efforts in protecting my building from fire the night of Sept. 29, 1893. JOSEPH A. PATTERSON.

EIDER DUCK FARMING

ICELAND'S INDUSTRY TAKES LITTLE LABOR AND INGENUITY.

Two Crops Are Gathered Each Season, Which Are Worth About $5 a Pound. How to Kill the Goose That Lays the Golden Eggs—The Harvest Time.

Now, there are pleasanter capitals to reside in than Reykjavik, the chief town of Iceland. There are cities which have reached a point somewhat nearer civic perfection than it can at present boast of, but those who take the trouble to journey thither will find much to interest them.

The city, for its cathedral authorizes the use of the word, consists of a straggling collection of wooden houses, which remind the traveler of some small and desolate village on the west coast of Scotland.

A large square building, like some giant barn or mammoth county constabulary, first strikes the eye. This is the governor's house, almost the only stone building in the town.

All the available space on the shore not taken up with houses is covered with cod-fish drying in the sun and giving out an intolerable stench.

All the rocks, palings and even the roofs of the houses themselves are covered with these gleaming testimonies of the city's chief occupation or trade.

Other products of the place are eider down, horses and hot water. One of the largest eider duck farms is situated on a small island in the bay, and, with the permission of the owner, can be visited by strangers.

The scene is not without interest. Behind, far away on the horizon line, rises the snow capped peak of the Snaefel Jokuls, nearly 6,000 feet in height, which, though more than 60 miles away, glistens and shines like silver in the morning sun.

In front lies Reykjavik, the civil and ecclesiastical metropolis of Iceland. Not much agricultural labor or ingenuity is expended by the eider duck farmer upon his property. It consists for the most part of a large open field of stunted grass, which has been blown by the wind and worked by the action of the weather into round hummocks, such as may be frequently met with all over the barren and devastated country of Iceland.

In the recesses and holes and cavities between the hummocks the eider ducks may be seen sitting on their nests. Of these there are several scores, and the birds themselves when sitting are perfectly tame, some of them even allowing a stranger to stroke them with the hand.

They are not all hatched at the same time, and many are still in the egg when others are hatched and swimming about in the sea.

The drake, as is frequently the case with the female bird, is a handsome, showy creature, with much white in his plumage. He is excessively shy and wary, while the female, whose plumage is brown and glossy, is, on the contrary, tame and confiding.

The duck lays from five to six eggs at the beginning of June, and it is no unusual thing to find from 10 to 16 eggs in one nest, together with two females, who sit either at intervals or, if necessary, both together at the same time, and, strange to say, seem to agree remarkably well with one another.

The period of laying lasts some six or seven weeks, and the birds are in the habit of laying three times in different places. From the first and second of these both the down and the eggs are taken away, but from the last it is very seldom that the farmer removes either.

Should he do so with any degree of persistence the birds would desert the locality, and he is not such a fool as to destroy the duck with the golden eggs.

In some cases the owner resides on or near the farm. In this particular instance he visited the island from the mainland once a week at the least.

As soon as he and his men arrive at the nest they carefully remove the female and take away the superfluous down and eggs. The duck immediately begins to lay afresh and covers her eggs with new down which she plucks from her own breast. If the supply is inadequate, the male comes to her assistance and helps to cover the eggs with his down.

This, being white, is easily distinguished from the brown covering which the female supplies and is not so good in quality.

The nest is now, as a general rule, left until the young ones are hatched. There is not much callowness and helplessness about these youngsters. About an hour after they are out of the shell they quit the nest together, when it is once more plundered.

The best down and the greatest number of eggs are obtained during the first three weeks of the laying period, and it has in general been observed that the birds lay the greatest number of eggs in rainy weather.

The female is a close and persistent sitter, and so long as she is sitting, the male, with commendable constancy, remains on the watch hard by, but as soon as the young are hatched he considers his responsibility at an end, and leaves them to their own devices and the care of their mother.

It is a curious and pretty sight to see how the latter looks after her brood. She leads them out of the nest as soon as they creep out of the eggs and precedes them to the water, while they toddle after her.

When she reaches the waterside she takes them on her back and swims with them for a few yards. She then dives, and the young ones are left floating on the water like yellow corks and henceforth are obliged to look after themselves.

Indeed the farmer seldom sees his flock again till the next breeding season, for they become comparatively wild and live out among the damp rocks in the sea, where they feed upon insects and seaweeds and other like rivers.

Some idea of the value of the crop may be gleaned from the fact that one female during the whole time of laying generally gives half a pound of down, which is, however, reduced one-half after it is cleaned.

This down is divided into thang dunn or seaweed down, and gras dunn or grass down. The latter is generally considered to be the best in quality. The down brings from $4 to $5 a pound.—London Globe.

Malaria and Typhoid.

A few physicians in the United States now distinguish between malaria and typhoid fever in the early stages of each by what is esteemed an absolutely certain diagnosis. The blood from a pin prick upon the patient's body is smeared on a glass plate and placed under a microscope. If the characteristic bacillus of malaria is discovered, the proof is taken as conclusive.—New York Sun.

JUST A LITTLE FAT.

A Vegetarian Authority Which Holds It Is Not Such a Bad Thing After All.

The too rapid growth of adipose matter is a source of serious anxiety to a large number of people, and the number of systems recommended for the reduction of fat is infinite. An English vegetarian journal now adds its own peculiar prescription for the benefit of those in whom grace is being superseded by girth. It holds that for persons to reduce obesity by living on lean beef and water is false in principle—it is merely starvation—and though they will certainly become thinner by this method, they will at the same time reduce their constitution.

On the other hand, a simple diet of brown bread and various kinds of fruits is claimed to be a far better means of reducing superfluous flesh than the use of any nostrum, and it will moreover invigorate the body and keep up the strength.

The diet should of course be accompanied with proper exercise. Walking is the most suitable for fat people because in it the whole body is exercised and not one set of muscles at the expense of another. When dishes are not unduly elaborate, people do not usually eat too much. The general diet should be plain and simple.

Rich and elaborate cookery causes persons to eat more than is good for them and brings on undue obesity and many disorders. Of course all fat people insist that they are small eaters, but whatever they do eat they eat more than is necessary to keep them healthy and strong, and the extra is packed on as fat they do not want. Persons should not try to reduce themselves to emaciation; they should have sufficient fat on their bodies to round off their angles and prevent their bones staring.

Fat people have always a better time of it when they are taken ill, because if they cannot eat for a day or two their system is supported by their fat, and they will often live through an illness that would kill a thin person. So a little fat is not an altogether undesirable thing to have, and altogether people should not allow themselves to become unwieldy or indolent from excessive fat; they should not use unnatural methods to make themselves thin.

If any person finds himself getting too stout, he has only to reduce his meals, to eat less at each meal and to let himself be always hungry when the time for eating comes around. If he further drinks nothing between meals except the glass of water prescribed by many of the best modern practitioners about an hour before breakfast and an hour before retiring for the night, and takes regular exercise, he ought, under normal conditions, soon to attain the proportions at which nature has decided that he shall enjoy perfect health.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

To Prevent Sleep Walking.

Accidents to sleep walkers can be easily prevented by laying upon the carpet, by the side of the sleep walker's bed, a strip of sheet metal, iron, zinc or copper, so wide and long that when he puts his feet out of bed they will rest upon the metal. The coldness felt will wake him thoroughly, and he will go to bed again.

Good violins improve with use and age. If Stradivarius had made Pianos as well as violins, no one would care to own one of the former unless as a curiosity. There is little new in violin making, but there is something new every year in Piano making. Take care you do not buy a Piano simply because it was famous. With any Piano of ancient name and fame we invite you to compare the Steinway, Gabler, Vose, Sterling and Braumuller Pianos. They contain all new improvements that are desirable They are up to date.

SENSATIONAL MURDER.

Handsome Mrs. Fitzgerald Shoots the Wife of Patrolman Pearsall.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Jealousy, it is alleged, prompted Mrs. Catherine Fitzgerald, whose home is at 2510 Eighth avenue, to kill Mrs. Carrie Pearsall late yesterday at the very threshold of the latter's home, 515 East Eighty-Sixth street, by shooting her in the neck. The circumstances of the case are enveloped in much mystery. Mrs. Fitzgerald, the murderess, is the wife of John J. Fitzgerald, an examiner, and Mrs. Pearsall was the wife of John W. Pearsall, a patrolman attached to the east eighty-eighth squad.

Shortly before three o'clock in the afternoon a tall, dark and handsome woman, dressed wholly in black and apparently a little more than forty years old, walked quietly up and down the sidewalk in front of the house where the Pearsalls lived.

At 4:15, about half an hour after her first appearance in the street, a woman, who proved to be Mrs. Pearsall, walked down the stoop of the house with a satchel in her hand. She had no sooner appeared at the door than the woman on the street turned toward the other, with a revolver from underneath her coat and fired point blank at her. Four of the shots were fired in rapid succession. The first, second and third went wild, but the fourth hit its mark and struck Mrs. Pearsall in the neck, severing her jugular vein and causing almost instant death.

After the shooting Mrs. Fitzgerald calmly made her way to the police station at Eighty-eighth street and First avenue. She walked into the building and when in front of the sergeant's desk, said: "I have shot a woman on Eighty-sixth and this is what I shot her with." At the same time she laid on the desk a 32-calibre revolver with four of its five chambers empty.

At the time Mrs. Fitzgerald gave herself up in the police station, the husband of her victim, who is attached to that precinct, was in his bed on reserve duty. He was informed of his misfortune and immediately hurried to the scene of the murder.

Pearsall made the following statement: "I am absolutely ignorant of the causes which led to this murder. I have never seen Mrs. Fitzgerald, so far as I know, and I never heard my wife speak of her or of her husband, so far as I am aware. My wife was not in the habit of going out much among people."

PEACE BETWEEN ALL NATIONS.

Appeal for Arbitration the Climax of the World's Fair.

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—A memorial to the governments of the world asking for arbitration of all international difficulties has been conceived as the most fitting climax of the world's Columbian exposition. It is a plea for peace throughout the earth. The memorial reads:

"To the governments of the world:

"The undersigned citizens of many countries gathered at the Columbian exposition in Chicago, in the United States of America, recognizing the advantages accruing to those nations which have pursued the policy of arbitrating international disputes, and desiring that like benefits be enjoyed by all nations, and deeming this a fitting opportunity, do hereby join in this memorial to all our various governments, praying that they will unitedly agree, by mutual treaties, to submit for settlement by arbitration all such international questions and differences as shall fail of satisfactory solution by peaceful negotiations. And for this the petitioners will ever pray.

"It is requested that a copy of this memorial shall be presented to each of the governments of the world."

SPANISH ANARCHISTS.

The Brotherhood of Criminals Industriously at Work.

BARCELONA, Oct. 3.—Though the police have been for the past two weeks more than ordinarily active in their pursuit of anarchists, it has become evident that some members of the brotherhood of criminals are still pursuing their avocations.

The town of Villaneuvay la Geltru, 25 miles southwest of this city, was the scene of the latest anarchistic exploit. While a policeman was patrolling the streets in that town he found lying near the house of a magistrate eight bombs that were apparently powerful enough to have blown the house to pieces.

Fuses had been attached to the bombs and the ground bore traces of their burning, but the bombs were faulty in construction and had refused to explode when the fire reached them. The discovery caused much excitement throughout the town.

WEST CHESTER, Pa., Oct. 3.—Rev. G. Heathcote Hills, rector of the Protestant Episcopal church of Holy Trinity, this place, created a sensation Sunday by the announcement that it was right to establish confessionals and right for Episcopalians to confess to their rectors. The Boynton Incident.

SOME OF THE MOST REMARKABLE EXPERIENCES ON RECORD.

Statements of Facts of Unique and Unrivalled Interest.

The following extraordinary occurrence have lately developed, and we give our readers all the interesting facts precisely and exactly as they took place and in the words of the persons chiefly concerned.

H. M. Levy is a widely known resident of Newark, N. J., living at 100 Mulberry street.

"Having suffered for six years," he said, "with terrible racking pains in my back and chest, and so nervous that I could not attend to business from loss of sleep and appetite that it almost set me insane. I tried five doctors in this city and could find no relief.

"At last I was told to try the famous medicine, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, and after taking not quite two bottles found myself perfectly well.

"During my sickness I lost flesh until I only weighed 133½ pounds, and now I weigh 216 pounds.

H. M. LEVY, ESQ.

"I have only praise for this wonderful remedy and do all in my power to recommend it to my friends. I have told several of my customers who have tried it with beneficial results."

Mr. Samuel W. Thompson, who resides in Abington, Mass., (P. O. box 209) says: "I thank God that at last a cure has been found for nervous diseases. I was a terrible sufferer and tried doctors and medicines, but found no cure. I was almost crazy at times, I was so nervous. But now I am perfectly well and owe it to Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. God bless this wonderful medicine! I would have been in my grave but for it. I have been as it were, raised from the dead and am alive and well. Only think of it friends! I am unable to adequately express my thanks, for I believe this is the King of all medicines."

SAMUEL W. THOMPSON.

Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy cures.

It will make you well and strong.

Every day you read of people it has cured.

Use it and it will cure you.

It is purely vegetable and harmless and is sold by all druggists for $1. As everybody knows it is the prescription and discovery of a physician, Dr. Greene, of 35 West 14th st., New York, the most successful specialist in the treatment and cure of all forms of nervous and chronic diseases. This fact should give you confidence in this great remedy, and besides, Dr. Greene can be consulted free of charge in regard to any case personally or by letter.

Italian Women's Strong Necks.

The Italian women who barter in the shops and at the street carts of Mulberry bend are expert in carrying heavy and awkward loads on their heads. Sometimes their loads are as interesting as their manner of carrying them. One was seen there recently nicely balancing on her head a large tin pan which contained two enormous loaves of bread. The pan was at least 2 feet in diameter, yet the loaves were so large that more than half of each projected above the rim of the pan, making what seemed to be a top heavy and awkward load, which required more than ordinary skill to balance. But that was not her only burden. On her left arm the woman carried a child which was old enough and big enough to walk, but was either a cripple or sick.

At a corner a girl about 10 years old stopped the woman, and the two had an excited conversation about transferring the child from the woman to the girl. With the rebellious child in her left arm kicking violently and herself gesticulating as violently with her right arm, with the passing crowd jostling her on all sides, it was curious to notice that the heavy, clumsy burden on the woman's head remained as firmly planted as if it had been resting on the solid earth.

It is remarkable the weight some of the Italian women can carry on their heads. Sometimes a woman has to be helped to lift a bundle to her head, but when it is once balanced there she stalks off sturdily under a burden she cannot lift with both arms.—New York Sun.

The Mohammedan Paradise.

The Mohammedan paradise is a fairyland. To enter it the believer must cross seven bridges, at each of which he must answer questions relating to his past life. Having crossed the bridges, he is at the entrance. There are 13 doors. The first act is to take a bath, which gives to the body great brilliancy. This abode of delight is built of bricks of gold and silver, held together by a mortar of musk. Spring is eternal. Four oceans soothe the senses—one of water, one of milk, one of honey, one of wine. Waves of perfume envelop them, so powerful as to be noticeable 500 days' march away. Lastly come the castles of the houris—70 castles with 70 rooms, containing 70 state beds and 70 tables already set and in this castle 1,680,700,000 houris. This to each of the elect. He himself has 70 robes of green brocade embroidered with rubies and topazes.—New York Recorder.

HUNDREDS PERISH IN THE STORM

Story of Death and Devastation Along the Gulf of Mexico.

COLONY SWEPT AWAY AND 270 DROWNED

An Extensive Summer Resort Utterly Destroyed With Numerous Hotels and Cottages and Many Guests Are Believed to be Lost—Fears That the Fatalities Will Exceed Those of the Memorable Hurricane Along the Atlantic Coast.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 4.—The great storm has passed and although the wires are still down bits of intelligence continue to come in from various points which impart the information that the loss of life, to say nothing of the destruction of property, is tremendous. From Bayou Cook, the great oyster field which leads to the gulf, it is reported that the settlements of the fishermen have been completely demolished and that the loss of life has reached the appalling figure of 270.

Grand Isle, a summer resort, lying in the gulf directly in the path of the storm, is said to have been utterly destroyed and it is known that the loss of life is large. Many people were here spending the delightful early autumn season and numbers of those who had spent the late summer month in their cottages, had not yet started for their homes. The hotels and the two long rows of cottages which constituted the resort, are said to be no more, and it is feared that the loss of life at this point will be very great.

In the parish of Plaquemine the villages of Bohemia on the Mississippi and Shell Beach on Lake Borgue, were wiped out and at least four lives lost in each place. On both sides of the river the sugar, rice and orange crops have suffered a great deal of damage and on the west side of the river the loss of life is reported to have been very great.

It will be some days before the full extent of the damage wrought will be known, but it is feared here that the grand total will pale into insignificance the number of deaths reported from the storm which recently devastated the Atlantic coast.

Death by Hundreds.

Yesterday a lone and ragged fisherman, who was a member of the fishing colony at Bayou Cook, where all the oysters bearing that name are fished, and which is located about seven miles back of the Buras settlement, came to the Socola canal, which is located on the west bank of the Mississippi, opposite Point a la Hache, and reported to the keeper of the locks of the canal, Ozene Martin, that of the 300 people who composed the colony but 30 had succeeded in escaping the fury of the elements. The fishermen had all retired Sunday night as usual and though the wind was blowing pretty hard, there was no forerunner of the terrible catastrophe that followed. As the night grew apace the wind increased in velocity until the timbers in the houses began to creak in an alarming manner and the roar of the waves grew louder and louder. The water rose with startling rapidity, and before the unfortunates, who had no possible means of escape, had time to grasp some floating object, they were overwhelmed with the awful might and found their fate in watery graves. He had clung to a tree throughout the night, and when morning dawned the scene of wreckage that spread before his view was simply terrible. Of the many little cabins which had sheltered the prosperous colony the night before barely one was standing. Of the 300 or more human beings who inhabited them but a tenth of the number lived to tell of the night of experiences filled with horror which they will never forget. He describes the visitation as in the nature of a tidal wave which swept everything before it.

Greater Fatalities Feared.

While nothing definite was received from Grand Isle, there was a general impression at Point a la Hache that dire disaster had occurred there and it was even reported that the water had swept over the island, carrying everything before it in its awful fury, and much concern was felt for the safety of the two or three hundred inhabitants who were known to have been there. The report also said that the big hotel had been blown away. While this has not been confirmed, such a calamity was possible in view of the terrible violence of the storm at Bayou Cook as reported by the lone fisherman.

Report also had it that the settlements at Chenier Amanada, which is directly across the bay from Grand Isle, had been the scene of a terrible loss of life but this also lacked confirmation. No communication was possible with those points and it will doubtless be several days before the extent of the calamity there is made known.

It was also reported that several casualties had occurred in the neighborhood of Fort Jackson but there was no way of getting at the particulars.

The greatest damage by the storm on the left bank of the river from New Orleans to the gulf is to the crops and especially rice, which suffered severely. Of course there were many houses blown down but their value in the aggregate comparatively speaking does not amount to much. Most of the buildings which succumbed to the fury of the elements were the property of poor people who lost everything in the terrific gusts of wind and rain. The loss of life in the territory just named as far as a diligent search could ascertain foots up as follows: Between Point a la Bach and Bohemia, four, Mrs. Leonce La France and two babies and Charlotte Brinkel, a colored woman; and Grande Prairie, four, William Anderson, the son of a man named Perot, the daughter of a man named Henri J. Johnson and an unknown, all colored.

Around Mobile.

MOBILE, Ala., Oct. 4.—The details of storm which broke over the gulf coast Monday morning and raged with increasing fury for five or six hours are just begining to come in and, as was feared, indications are that the loss of life in the lowlands east of the city has been very great. There is no doubt that it will be a week or longer before the full story of the storm with all the attendant details of death and destruction will be told.

Rumors place the loss of life at 50 but possibly not more than 25 have perished. This side of Cokely, in the marshes, whole families have been swept away and the actual loss of life will probably never be known.

It is probable that many have perished whose identity will never be revealed. The spots inhabited by the marsh gardeners are only a few feet above mean low water, and the houses are generally built on pilings as a precaution against high tides. So far only one family, the Bangles, are known to have escaped death.

STEVENSON BARRED OUT.

A Vigilant Watchman Who Did Not Know the Vice-President.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—Presidents have been denied admission to the executive departments by watchmen who did not know them, but it is a most uncommon occurence. It happened once to President Grant and once to President Hayes, each of whom had some trouble getting across to the secretary of the treasury after hours. Vice-President Stevenson had a similar experience at the treasury department yesterday. He had an engagement with Secretary Carlisle at 4 o'clock in regard to the silver repeal bill and arrived at the building promptly on time. He essayed to enter by the south door on 15th street, and when the vigilant watchman barred his way he said he was Mr. Stevenson. That construed no information to the watchman and the chances are that the distinguished visitor might have been compelled to break his engagement had it not been for the fact that an ubiquitous newspaper man came along just then and addressed Mr. Stevenson as "the Vice President," whereupon the truth dawned upon the watchman and he opened the doors to their widest extent and made the most profuse apologies. He is a new man, but is not likely to suffer for his conduct, for the reason that he was simply obeying his instructions.

DISGRACE AND SUICIDE.

A High Hungarian Official an Embezzler.

BUDAPEST, Oct. 4.—Alexius Bokros, vice-president of the Hungarian lower house, was found on the pavement in front of his house several days ago with his skull fractured, and the report was sent out that he fell accidentally from the window of his room in the third story. Bokros died soon after he was found. It is now learned that he took his life on account of business troubles. In his practice as a lawyer Bokros had embezzled funds entrusted to him by his client, the Countess Montbach, and had spent all his available money in unfortunate speculation on the bourse. When the countess discovered his dishonesty she began proceedings against him. The disgrace into which her action brought him unsettled his mind and eventually drove him to suicide.

STRANGLER LENA BROWN.

Recommended for Commitment to an Insane Asylum.

MOUNT HOLLY, N. J., Oct. 4.—In the Burlington county court Lena Brown was put on trial for the murder of her five-year old son and the two children of William Harvey, of Bordentown, a year ago by strangling. The evidence against the woman was conclusive and in fact she admitted her guilt at the time. The defence was that she was suffering from puerperal insanity at the time of the commission of the deed which theory was supported by Dr. Josephs, ward director of the state insane asylum. Judge Garrison in his charge to the jury said he did not hesitate to remark that he believed the woman insane at the time. The jury brought in a verdict of "Not guilty" on the ground of insanity and recommended her commitment to the asylum.

NOVEL SILVER SCHEME

Favors for Nations Taking Standard Dollars.

Discussion in the Senate of the International Monetary Conference—The Lengthened Sessions Seem to Affect Senatorial Patience.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—An entirely novel amendment to the silver purchase repeal bill was suggested in the senate yesterday by Mr. Morgan (dem., Ala.). It proposes the revival of the free coinage act of 1837, and the remission of 20 per cent. of import duties to the countries that receive American standard silver dollars of present weight and fineness at par as legal tender money.

The debate on the repeal bill was continued by Mr. Dolph (rep., Ore.) in favor of its passage. Questions were put to him by Mr. Teller (rep., Col.) as to what chance there was for friendly silver legislation during the present administration, or for steps being taken towards an international arrangement. Mr. Dolph's answer gave little encouragement on the first point, and as to the second point, Mr. Allison (rep., Iowa), a delegate to the Brussels monetary conference, said that he did not understand the reasons why the reassembling of the conference had been postponed.

Mr. Allison also bore testimony to the desire of the delegates from all the European countries, including Great Britain, to favor the use of silver money, the only difficulty being how to give practical effect to that desire in their respective countries. Mr. Palmer (dem., Ill.) expressed his conviction that it was the belief of President Cleveland that he would appeal in vain to foreign governments to come to an international agreement so long as the United States continued to purchase silver bullion and to coin silver money.

The debate was continued by Mr. Power (rep., Mont.) in opposition to the repeal bill and by Mr. Palmer (dem., Ill.) in its advocacy.

At the close of Mr. Palmer's speech there was an interesting and amusing scene. Mr. Dubois asserted his belief that there were not ten senators who were actually anxious to pass the repeal bill, and he almost challenged the trial of physical endurance. This test Mr. Palmer deprecated as an act of barbarism, and he went through the pantomime of partially taking off his coat when illustrating the imaginary scene of trying who was the better man. The incident afforded great amusement.

Mr. Dunphy, (dem., N. Y.) just before the house adjourned yesterday, and when the chamber was practically deserted, made a bold attempt to secure the passage of the New York bridge bill, but although Mr. Warner (dem., N. Y.) declined to object to the consideration of the bill, he was equally prompt in raising the point of "No quorum" on its passage. The vote disclosed the presence of 27 members, 14 being in the affirmative and 13 in the negative, and the house adjourned. Previous to this episode, the debate on the federal election bill was continued by Mr. Northway (rep., Ohio) and Mr. Bowers (rep., Cal.) in opposition, and by Mr. DeForest (dem., Conn.) and Mr. Kyle (dem., Miss.) in support of it.

CHINESE LAW.

The House Committee Will Recommend Its Modification.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—At its meeting yesterday the house committee on foreign affairs voted to accept the McCreary substitute for the Everett bill to amend and modify the Geary Chinese registration and exclusion act, and authorized the chairman to report it to the house. The committee accepted it as it was prepared by Mr. McCreary and the vote by which the favorable report was ordered was unanimous, except Mr. Geary's. The substitute extends for a period of six months from the date of passage of the act, the time within which the Chinese may register; strikes out the word white where it occurs, descriptive of the racial character of the witnesses to be produced by the Chinaman in support of his right to remain in the country, and defines the meaning of the term "Chinese laborer."

BEATTY'S TROUBLES.

The Noted Organ Maker Charged With Fraud.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 5.—The case of Daniel P. Beatty of Washington, N. J., the organ manufacturer, who was arrested June 8 last on a bench warrant charged with using the mails for fraudulent purposes and attempting to defraud W. A. Coley of South Norwalk, came up in the United States court before Judge W. K. Townsend on a motion to quash. Beatty, it is alleged, advertised to send an organ valued at over $100 to the complainant on the receipt of $50 and failed to do so.

THE WRIGHTLY MURDER.

Half-Breed Burt Caught Half Starved and Frozen.

TRENTON, N. J., Oct. 4.—Wallace Burt, the half-breed Indian suspected of the murder of old Samuel Wrightly and wife at Newton, Pa., Sunday, Sept. 24, was captured in a swamp near Morrisville yesterday, half dead with hunger and cold. He was taken to Doylestown jail.

TOO GREAT A STRAIN.

Cleveland Turns Office-Seekers Over to His Cabinet.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—The Star says: "The president has made a radical change in the matter of federal appointments. He proposes hereafter to accept the recommendations made by the heads of departments to which the appointments relate, instead of undertaking to pass personally on the merits of the applicant's individual case and making the selection himself. He pursued this latter course during his first administration and undertook to continue it in this, but pressure upon him for office has become so great that he has finally been compelled, in the interest of his health, to abandon the task and to divide the work of filling the offices among his eight assistants in the cabinet. In this he adopts the policy of President Harrison and nearly all his predecessors in the white house, who quickly realized the hopelessness of passing personally on the many thousand appointments at their disposal.

"Senators and representatives in congress and politicians generally have been informed of the new order of things, and now instead of making personal appeals to the president they direct their best energies to securing the indorsement of the members of the cabinet having jurisdiction in the matter. This plan divides the work among eight men and gives the president more time to devote to the consideration of the general business of the government. Although it adds to the official burden of the cabinet ministers it is said to be a responsibility they are perfectly willing to assume.

"It is said at the white house that there is no truth in the report that the president has curtailed the visiting privileges of members of congress, and that they can readily secure an audience with him on public business not pertaining to office."

WRONG SIGNAL AND SUICIDE.

Watchman Baer Causes a Collision and Shoots Himself.

ALLENTOWN, Pa., Oct. 4.—Becoming excited with the problem of handling two freight trains over a grade crossing, watchman Thomas Baer gave the wrong signals yesterday at Catasauqua, which resulted in a disastrous collision between a Lehigh Valley coal train and the Crane iron company's shifting engine with 20 oil and coal cars. The Crane tracks run at right angles over the covered Lehigh river bridge and turn at the crossing over a very short curve where high bluffs and buildings obstruct the view from all sides. The Lehigh Valley crew jumped and saved their lives while the ponderous train struck the Crane engine sideways and rolled it over. Joseph Ray, engineer of the Crane freight, was instantly killed, and Herbert James, engineer of the Lehigh Valley train, was fatally injured. Both engines were completely wrecked. Watchman Baer realizing his responsibility walked home, secured his revolver and shot himself dead under a tree in his yard.

BISMARCK'S CONDITION.

Each Day Brings Forth a Different Report.

KISSINGEN, Oct. 4.—Many contradictory reports are current regarding the condition of Prince Bismarck, and the slightest change for the worse is magnified into a serious condition. For instance it was stated on apparently reliable authority that the prince had suffered with paralysis and that his right hand was practically useless. It was subsequently announced that the "paralysis" was caused by the bite of an insect. The prince was recently bitten on the neck and the swelling thus caused extended to the right arm and hand, rendering it impossible for the time being for the prince to use that hand. He is now able to use it carefully. Count Herbert Bismarck denies the report published in an English newspaper that his father had sold his memoirs to a South German publisher for 500,000 marks, on the condition that they shall be published immediately after his death.

PLOT AGAINST THE CZAR.

A French Monk's Scheme to Get an Audience.

LONDON, Oct. 4.—A dispatch from Copenhagen to the Central News says: "Exciting reports are current here concerning a plot against the czar. It is stated that a French monk appeared at Fredensborg castle on Sunday, claiming that he was sent by the pope on a secret mission to the Princess Waldemar, King Christian's daughter in-law, who would present him to the czar. As the princess and the other royal personages present refused to receive him without previous inquiry, the monk disappeared. No trace of him has been found since."

Numerous telegrams of congratulation were received at the white house addressed to the little girl. Several babies who were also two years old yesterday and whose names have a "Ruth" or a "Cleveland" in them, sent messages. Baby Esther is thriving. Mrs. Cleveland has taken a drive daily since Saturday.

TALKING ABOUT MONEY

House Banking Committee Begin to Listen.

Congressman Davis of Kansas Argues for More Currency—Financial History and Precedents Cited—Kansas Mortgages and Their Foreclosure.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—An interesting session of the committee on banking and currency was held yesterday. Representative Davis, of Kansas, was catechised by the several members of the committee as he unfolded his arguments in support of his bills to issue fractional currency and to replace retired national bank currency with greenbacks and to re-issue lost and destroyed treasury notes, and several lively passages occurred between Messrs. Sperry and Warner, and the populists particularly.

In the course of his argument Mr. Davis said paper currency issued by a government was just as good as the government itself. It was no better for it must die with the government that issued it and this being true, it would fight for the preservation and existence of its government while gold would not, but at the appearance of danger would hide or flee away. "No paper money was ever issued in the world," said Mr. Davis, "whether it maintained its power or failed, until after gold had first failed as the money of the country issuing it."

Numerous illustrations of this were cited by Mr. Davis.

Mr. Davis maintained that as a general thing an increase in the volume of currency was followed by an increase in prices and vice versa. Pressed by Chairman Springer he admitted that a doubling of the amount of currency would not increase prices in Kansas nor in the United States more than 10 or 15 per cent.

"If it were an independent matter, it would," he said, "but it is complicated with debt and other matters."

He quoted the late Senator Plumb to the effect that a contraction of five per cent. in the currency necessitated the sale of three billions more of the products of the country to pay debts than would have been necessary before the contraction.

Chairman Springer—"How do you account for the reports that the farmers of Kansas, your own state, are paying off their mortgage indebtedness?"

Mr. Davis—"I will tell you. The mortgages are being foreclosed. The mortgagees lose their property and the mortgagees are being cheated because the security won't pay the debt. In my own county 25 mortgages were foreclosed by the transfer of the property and there are $30,000 of personal judgments against the mortgagers. An investigation made by the leading republican paper in Kansas showed that 5,000 mortgages a year were being foreclosed in that state."

As to the necessity of the additional currency provided for in his bills, Mr. Davis said money was conditional and final in its nature. Final money was that which had the fiat of the government behind it and which was the basis of all commercial transactions. Statistics showed, he said, that 95 per cent. of the business of the nation was done upon conditional money (checks, drafts, and the like), therefore the withdrawal of a dollar of final money meant the loss of twenty dollars of trade or business. Congress made this final money and it was the constitutional duty of congress to issue enough paper money in addition to gold and silver, so as to maintain level prices. It was admitted, he said, that there was not enough money in the treasury to transact the business of the government. The present volume of paper money could be increased, according to good democratic authority (Senator Beck) to $700,000,000 upon the existing gold reserve without danger. He himself did not ask for so much. He asked that only so much be issued as would replace the green backs lost and destroyed and the national bank currency retired. That would not take into account all the growth of the business and population of the country. Certainly $200,000,000 could be added and should be. Paper money with the quality of final redemption had always been preferred to coin, and he quoted from the message of President Hayes in 1879 to prove his assertion that the resumption act of that year was a resumption of paper and not of gold. In the first eleven months of that year the deposits of gold and silver for exchange into paper exceeded by $40,000,000 the amount of notes presented for redemption.

YELLOW FEVER SPREADING.

Fourteen New Cases at Brunswick and Six at Jessup.

BRUNSWICK, Ga., Oct. 4.—Fourteen new cases of yellow fever are reported here. One relapse is reported. There have been three deaths, Mrs. Willis, Miss Rose Nisi and the infant of Blount Bowen. Four have been discharged. Surgeon Faget returned from Fancy Bluff and stated that C. J. Doerflinger, reported ill with yellow fever, only has malaria. Surgeon Murray left for Gardi to investigate a suspicious case there and from Gardi he will proceed to Jessup. Surgeon Desausure will go from the hospital at camp to Warresboro. Dr. Hugh Buford is on St. Simons island. Surgeon Faget is on Jekyl island. These four being absent prevents several cases from being reported. There will be a large number of cases reported when all the physicians return to Brunswick. Special just received from Jessup says Surgeon Murray reports six well developed cases at that place.

Sociable and Music.

I have been a sufferer from catarrh for years. Having tried a number of remedies advertised as "sure cures" without obtaining any relief, I had resolved never to take any other patent medicines, when a friend advised me to try Ely's Cream Balm. I did so with great reluctance, but can now testify that after using it for six weeks I believe myself cured. It is a most agreeable remedy—an invaluable Balm.—Joseph Stewart, Grand avenue, Brooklyn.

RARE MUSIC FEAST.

GREAT THINGS IN STORE FROM THE MELOPOIA.

Violinist Marteau and Contralto Rosa Linde Among the Stars Already Secured, and Miss Emma Eames Likely to Be Another of the Artists —What Conductor Chapman Promises.

The Press learns on the best authority that the Executive Committe of the Melopoia have signed with Henry Marteau, the world's greatest violinist, for the first concert; also with Mme. Rosa Linde, contralto, who made such a great success last week at the Worcester Festival.

Negotiations are now being made with Miss Emma Eames to appear at the second concert. Miss Eames needs no introduction in musical circles. In the last opera season she was the great favorite and leading prima donna, and this year she is to be leading soprano in the opera in New York, under the management of Abbey & Grau.

Mr. Chapman assures The Press that the chorus work will be on a higher standard than ever before. The programme will be made up of novelties which he has secured from abroad, many of which have never before been produced in this country.

The enterprise and push of the committee in providing such a high-class of music and such celebrated artists should receive the warmest support of Plainfield music-lovers.

It is understood that the subscriptions are coming in rapidly, and the list will probably soon be closed. Those who have not already subscribed would do well to send their names in at once.

With such an array of talent, the Casino should be more than crowded to the doors. The subscription price is only $12, entitling the subscriber to 4 tickets for each concert. Who but the Melopoia could bring out in Plainfield such artists as Henry Marteau, Rosa Linde, and last but not least the celebrated and only Emma Eames!

GIFTED ROMOLA TYNTE.

She Delighted a Plainfield Audience en Route from India to the Great and Only Fair.

The parlors of The Albion were well filled last evening with a select audience, including many of the leading society people of Plainfield, who were charmingly entertained with recitations by Miss Romola Tynte, who is well-known in England, and recently came to the United States after a professional tour in India. Miss Tynte is a really gifted woman, endowed with capacity to carry a critical audience thoroughly along with her. Since her arrival in the United States she has had the full support of the leading society women of New York, Newport and Boston.

Col. King, the new proprietor of The Albion, extended an invitation to many of his neighbors, which was generally accepted, and those who were there enjoyed a literary treat seldom presented in Plainfield.

Between the recitations by Miss Tynte, W. E. McClymont favored the audience with several selections on the piano, for which he was applauded to the echo. The evening's pleasure will long be remembered by all who were present, and the expression was unanimous that both Miss Tynte and W. E. McClymont might soon again be the guests of Col. King. Miss Tynte will leave for Chicago today, where, on invitation of the Women's Committee, she will appear in the Women's Building.

The guests departed at an early hour in the morning, having thoroughly enjoyed the evening's entertainment.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR ANNIVERSARY

The Park Avenue Baptists Entertain Their Sister Societies of the Neighborhood.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church celebrated their fifth anniversary in the church last evening.

All of the societies in the city and several from nearby towns were invited, and they were well represented.

The front part of the church was tastefully decorated. In front of the pulpit a large-sized copy of the pledge of the society rested on an easel, surrounded very prettily with autumn leaves.

On the platform were President A. D. VanSciver, the Rev. Palmer Hulburt, associate pastor of the Marble Collegiate church, New York, and Dewitt C. Skaden of the Park Avenue Christian Endeavor Society.

The services opened with a hymn from No. 6 Hymn Book: "What a Wonderful Saviour!" Mrs. B. T. Barnes presided at the organ very acceptably, and she and a chorus choir made the music a feature.

The address of welcome was made by the president, who spoke briefly and to the point.

In the absence of the pastor of the church, the Rev. Mr. Richardson, Mr. Skaden read a selection from the Scriptures and offered an impressive prayer.

Another hymn was sung by the congregation, which was followed by an exceedingly interesting report of the home society by its secretary, Miss Florence G. Hawkins, which showed that the society was decidedly active in the different branches of the work.

The president introduced the Rev. Palmer Hulburt, who delivered an address on the subject "Christian Endeavorers". The speaker was very interesting, and gave many excellent thoughts and suggestions that will be applicable to individual work. At times he became very humorous, and his occasional witticisms were much enjoyed. He paid a glowing tribute to the society's secretary by saying that the report made was the best he had ever heard.

After another hymn, the Mizpah benediction closed this part of the services.

Everyone was then invited to retire to the Sunday-school room, where an informal reception was held. Tables were neatly arranged around the room, and all were provided with cake and cream.

The society deserves much credit for its masterly effort during the past five years, and for the climax last evening.

A quartette composed of Mr. and Mrs. Rowe, Miss Runyon and Charles Case, rendered a very pretty anthem during the service.

TENANTS IN ARREARS.

Plainfield Landlords to Organize to Protect Themselves from Loss.

A society to consist of property-owners and real estate brokers is to be formed in this city, similar to a new society in New York. Its object is to discourage the practice some tenants have of renting a house for a short time, then leaving without paying the rent, and defeating other dealings of a similar nature. The society also purposes cutting off free rent for one, two or three months as an inducement to secure tenants for a longer term. A black-list of tenants in arrears will be kept, and reference can be made to it when necessary. The title is to be Property-owners' Protective Association.

The objects of the association will be:—First, no "free rent", and second, the collection from house-seekers of all arrears due to any member of the association.

She Teaches Grace and Ease.

The opening reception of Madame Iza Lezem's classes, which took place yesterday afternoon, was a great success. There was a large assembly, and everybody seemed delighted. After a short address, Madame Lezem introduced Mrs. Martin, who takes charge of the Delsarte classes and elocution; she has studied and graduated from Dr. VanMeter's Women's College in Baltimore, and gave ample proof of her talent by her splendid recitations. Madame Lezem gave an Italian song in fine style. In a fancy dance, twelve young girls acquitted themselves very gracefully. Mrs. Martin gave a talk on the benefits derived from Delsarte physical culture. A Japanese dance in costume delighted the audience.

Madame Lezem showed graceful poses and gesturing, of the sort to be learned in her classes. Last was the flower dance, that gave so much pleasure in Music Hall at St. Mary's Commencement. The children all did great credit to the Madame's tuition, and especially the three little girls in green, who delighted the audience with their graceful pirouetting.

The audience complimented Madame Lezem on her success, and several entered her class. The Misses Quinn rendered the music splendidly. Altogether it was a novel and refined reception.

His Twenty-Third.

A few friends of Charles E. Reynolds, of 409 East Fifth street, gave him a surprise last evening, it being the twenty-third anniversary of his birth.

The evening was pleasantly passed in a social way, dancing being a feature. Mr. Reynolds received several presents as tokens of esteem. Later in the evening supper was served.

Those present were: Miss Pauline Newburger, of Elizabeth; Miss Maude Morris, of Roselle; Miss Belle Mitchell and Miss Devine of Brooklyn; Mrs. Andrew Kinney, Miss Lizzie Gavin, of Plainfield; W. P. A REVEREND FRAUD.

DAVID F. ROBERTSON AT LAST ON THE RACK.

New York's State Board of Charities Investigating Accounts of This Peculiar Plainfielder — He Raised Funds for the Guardian Society, and Was Its Chief Beneficiary.

These columns have repeatedly warned the public against the Rev. David F. Robertson, a benevolent looking old man whose home is at 330 East Second street and whose self-styled business is "Missionary, New York". At last the New York State Board of Charities is investigating the charges against him.

The Charity Organization Society charges that Robertson as Treasurer of the Juvenile Guardian Society does not properly attend to its affairs, that he has drawn a salary, contrary to law, and that while away from his office he left the discharge of his duties to others, The Charity Organization Society, on the strength of this and other charges, declares that the work of the Juvenile Society is useless in a benevolent sense.

The special investigating committee met yesterday. It consists of Oscar Craig, Steven Smith, M. D., and Edward H. Litchfield.

The business of the day consisted in overhauling the books of the society since 1890. Expert Accountant William A. May, who had been employed to examine the books, testified that the bookkeeping was done in a slovenly manner, and that during several months there were discrepancies which were unaccounted for.

"How do you explain that?"—Peter B. Olney, the counsel for the Charity Organization Society, asked Mr. Robertson.

"The money was used for honorable purposes"—replied the witness.

"But where are the vouchers to show it?—said Mr. Olney.

"I have no idea; some of them are in the waste basket, I suppose"—was the answer.

It appears that only about thirty-five per cent. of the money and contributions sent by the benevolent were devoted to charitable purposes. According to the books Mr. Robertson was the main beneficiary.

Mr. May said there was a sum of $1,200 unaccounted for during 1892, but there was an entry for the same sum in January, 1893, as paid to Robertson for services.

The latter said that this sum was taken by himself from the contributions received from the charitable, but though the payments he made himself were thirty in all none of them could be found in the books.

The examination was adjourned unfinished.

"Hundreds of piteously worded circulars have been sent me"—said Robert W. Hebbard, superintendent of the Charity Organization Society—"clamoring for contributions which this man has sent out. I have received many complaints about him, and his success in deceiving the charitable public has induced others to follow in his footsteps."

Oscar Craig of Rochester presided. Wm. C. Davis, the counsel for the Juvenile Guardian Society, defended the society against these charges. The examination of the books of the society, which were submitted to the accountant of the State Board, revealed, as alleged, several small discrepancies. In reply to a question from Mr. Davis, Mr. May, the expert accountant, expressed the opinion that the system of keeping the accounts of the society did not necessarily show dishonesty, but showed extreme carelessness. Mr. Craig requested the matron, Miss E. Gallagher, to give the accountant all books that she had not already given to him.

The Board's accountant further stated that for September, 1890, there was a discrepancy of $124.26 between the deposits withdrawn by the Superintendent and the Society's check books. In his opinion as an expert, he said, this discrepancy was enough to warrant a special inquiry. The result of these discrepancies at the end of the year, he said, caused a false balance.

The Rev. Dr. Robertson was then called to testify under oath. He was examined by counsel of the Charity Organization, Mr. Olney. He said: "I did not know that it was incumbent upon me to keep our own cash account in exact balance with the bank account. What money I did not deposit in the bank, I spent for the Society honestly and honorably." Some of the irregularities he could not explain.

The Committee began another meeting this morning at 10.

Read and Reflect.

The great mass of mankind lose their health through inattention to catarrh of the head and throat. This insidious disease was considered incurable until the discovery of the American Catarrh Cure. For sale by L. W. Randolph, 21 West Front street. Price $1.00.

HIS ACCOUNTS ALL RIGHT.

But Nevertheless Culver Stays Out of His Job, for His Carelessness.

When the Jersey Central officials yesterday balanced the accounts of Orville H. Culver, night ticket agent in Westfield, whose escapade was first told of by The Press; they found that not a cent was missing. Culver was unable to say who gave him the liquor by which he was drugged, but admitted having been in the habit of associating during the long night hours with rough fellows who hang about the station. They probably knew the money was in the drawer. They have frequently seen the rush of commuters to buy tickets the last day of each month. One or more of these men, it is thought, induced Culver to take a drink which had been drugged. This happened about 9 at night.

The plans of the men were frustrated by the presence in the office of Chauncey Pennington, a friend of Culver. He suspected something wrong when he saw the operator overcome, and sent for help. Young Pennington says:

"I was in the station about 9 o'clock Saturday night talking to Culver. He was all right then. Soon afterwards he stepped out. While he was absent I heard his call on the telegraph instrument. I yelled to him, and he came and went to the window to sell a man a ticket. Suddenly he fell in a stupor. He remained in that condition over two hours. When he revived he was wild, and struggled so hard three men had to hold him on the floor. I surmised at once that he had been given dosed whiskey, but he was too frantic to give an account of how he got it.

"I notified Horatio Dankel, the special operator who lives here, and he took charge of the office until a man was sent out by the train despatcher. There is no doubt in my mind that Culver was drugged by some one of the roughs who hang about here, to get at the money."

Culver now says that he had felt ill all Saturday. Shortly after 7 a man came to the ticket office window and offered him a flask, telling him that a drink of whiskey would "brace him up". Culver took a drink, as did a friend of his who was with him. About ten minutes later he began to feel dazed and shortly after succumbed entirely to the influence of the liquor.

Culver thinks he was drugged, and that it was part of a plot to rob the office, which contained an unusually large amount of money, as it was the last day of the month. It has been learned that Culver's friend, who drank with him, was similarly affected by the liquor. He was confined to his bed on Sunday, and was unable to attend his business on the next day.

Another theory of the drugging is that a man, who was known to be unfriendly to Culver, and who had been heard to say that he would get "square with him", took this method of revenge, knowing it would throw suspicion upon Culver.

COMRADES GAVE HOMAGE.

Wm. R. Northup at Rest from Life's Cares and Troubles.

Funeral services of Wm. R. Northup were held at his late residence, 173 North avenue, last evening at 8.

Members of the A. O. U. W. were present, also members of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R.

The Rev. J. W. Richardson, of the Park Avenue Baptist church, read the Scriptural selection, and offered prayer.

Master Workman Thaddeus Smith recited the ritual for the A. O. U. W., which was simple and impressive.

The ritual of the Grand Army was recited by Commander M. C. Dobbins, assisted by I. McVoy, Charles Stevens, Charles Westphal, and Chaplain John Goodwin.

The drum corps accompanied the G. A. R. Post, and played the funeral march. At the house "Nearer My God to Thee" was rendered.

This morning the remains were taken to Wickford, R. I., for interment. At that place a delegation from the G. A. R. met the party and escorted the deceased to the cemetery.

Those acting as pall-bearers were Thaddeus Smith, Charles Randolph, John Angleman, I. McVoy and M. C. Dobbins.

Park Club Forging Ahead.

Vice-President—B. A. Hegeman, Jr.
Secretary—George D. Hallock.
Treasurer—George P. Dupee.
Governors—Morgan S. Taylor, George A. Evans, Charles A. Reed, Benjamin M. Day, George C. Worth.

Treasurer George Dupee in his annual report made a most creditable showing of the club's finances, including a cash balance-on-hand of $686.63, and a balance of real estate assets of $1,993.70 above the outstanding bonds.

Progress of the German School.

The German Day School, Grove street, corner Mercer avenue, North Plainfield, opens Saturday, Oct. 14. Great Shooting for Smith Again.

A live-bird shoot was held yesterday at Paterson, twenty-five birds to each man, and $25 entrance. The Patersons offered $50 to the man making the highest score. C. Smith of Plainfield and Ferd VanDyke of New York took first money and the $50, making the total first money $162.50. They killed 24 birds each out of their 25.

To Race 9t Last.

Next Saturday afternoon, at 3 sharp, Coffin and Willis will race the much-disputed 25 miles, on the track at the Gentlemen's Driving Park. There will no doubt be a large crowd present if the day is fair.

RAN DOWN THE MOUNT.

R. F. M. CHASE HAS ANOTHER DANGEROUS EXPERIENCE.

His Horse Took Fright at the Outset of a Pleasure Drive, Threw Out Mr. Chase and Friend, and Smashed the Village Cart.

A runaway accident in which R. F. M. Chase came near being killed occurred yesterday afternoon about 4:30.

Mr. Chase had a spirited young horse hitched to a village cart, and with a friend, a young man from New York, intended to take a drive. Just as they got in the cart, the horse became unmanageable, and getting frightened he bolted down the drive leading to the street.

Mr. Chase held fast to the reins and kept the horse in the street until he reached Lynch's shop, when the wagon collided with a maple tree. The shock threw both men to the road-bed. The horse then ran down the sidewalk, on which Misses Rosie Bartells and Jennie Gordon were walking home. They saw the horse in time to run out to the middle of the street, escaping injury.

The horse turned into Johnston's drive, where he ran into a deep ditch, and fell, upsetting the cart. Some men ran up, and held him, while others unhitched him. The horse is slightly cut, and the cart is badly wrecked. Mr. Chase was badly bruised by being thrown on his shoulder, but was able to follow up the runaway. His friend was more severely hurt, as when he attempted to follow he found he was not able. His left arm hung limp at his side, and it was feared it was broken or wrenched out of place. A physician was summoned by telephone, and the injuries of the two were cared for.

A BRIGGS BREEZE.

Rev. Dr. Richards Tried His Sentiments on the Presbytery.

The Briggs controversy cropped up in the afternoon session of the Elizabeth Presbytery in the Crescent Avenue church, yesterday, and enlivened the proceedings. The outcome was that the pastor, the Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards, who is a strong Briggs man, was defeated in his own church.

The question was over the approval of Delegate Hamner's conduct at the General Assembly. Mr. Hamner fought and voted for Briggs, and Dr. Richards moved that his vote be approved. This precipitated a stormy debate, and after much warm ecclesiastical argument Dr. Richards was forced to withdraw his motion. The Presbytery did, however, vote to approve Mr. Hamner's diligence in attendance.

The reason the Presbytery opposed Mr. Richard's motion was, as one divine put it, because the Presbytery had no right to fly in the face of the General Assembly in sustaining Delegate Hamner's defense of his vote for Briggs.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

F. E. Miller, proprietor of Hotel Netherwood, with Mrs. Miller, is in St. Louis for a week or two.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarkson, formerly of East Front street, and now of New York, are visiting in town.

James Perrine, formerly of this city and now of Brooklyn, was in town yesterday visiting friends.

Clarence Johnson, of Howard Pope's dry-goods store, returned last evening from a visit of five weeks at Poughkeepsie.

C. C. Southard and family, who have been spending the summer at Point Pleasant, are stopping at Hotel Albion for the winter.

Having wiped out the church debt, Trinity Reformed congregation is now able to be more generous with its excellent choir, and henceforth will pay the singers. The quartette consists of Miss Phœbe Mills, soprano; Miss Fannie Mattison, alto; Robert Clark, Jr., tenor; and A. J. Moore, bass.

Wm. T. Glover, manager of the Blumenberg Concert Company, was in town yesterday, negotiating for the appearance of his company here possibly Oct. 31 and Nov. 1. The list of famous artists includes Mme. Lucie Pallcot, pianiste; Mme. Caroline Ostberg, prima-donna; David G. Henderson, lyric tenor; Miss Mallie E. Beck, contralto; F. Oscar Elmore, accompanist, and Louis Blumenberg, the famous violoncellist.

Clarissa E., widow of the late Thomas R Clarke, and mother of the editor of this paper, died at her home in New Brunswick at 3:55 this morning, at the age of forty-eight. The immediate cause of death was heart failure, resulting from an illness of several weeks of typhoid fever. She leaves orphaned her son and two daughters. She was a sincere Christian, and her end was a peaceful falling asleep. Hers was a busy, useful life; the rest she has earned and entered closes a noble womanhood that was spent in doing faithfully the work that lay before her. It was often truly said of her "She looketh well to the ways of her household, and eateth not the bread of idleness". The memory of so good a woman, so devoted a mother, is a precious heritage to the hearts that are bruised.

Borough Offenders in Court.

At Somerville yesterday Robert Wallace of North Plainfield pleaded guilty to assaulting W. H. Francis in trying to break up Francis's photograph shop. He will be sentenced Oct. 13. Trial of Gus VanAnglen for assaulting Marshal Pangborn was set for Thursday morning. Randolph, the girl abductor, pleaded guilty as charged; Stutts, who aided him, will be tried Friday.

He, he, Mr. City Council!

Tobin & Addis, the sanitary plumbers, say that they connected the Y. M. C. A. swimming tank with the North Avenue sewer because the Board of Health said they could; and they deny the Council's right to interfere since the Council repealed the ordinance by which it had a right to grant permits.

THE NEED OF CONSIDERATION.

How Women Who Have to Work For a Living Are Made to Suffer.

Every woman who has special work of any sort to do finds the hardest part of her day is spent in a struggle with the webs of hindrances woven about her by old conditions. If she is a dressmaker or milliner, she will find her customers do not as a rule keep their engagements to the letter, and after having her time and patience frittered into fringe she, too, will break her promises and join the great army of dressmakers and milliners who have the name of "never keeping their word."

The woman teacher has the advantage of working within set limits, but even she has no such privileges of retiring from social obligations as do men. "What, not see me? Not come to my tea party or dinner?" cries her chance acquaintance with a spare half hour or a place to fill at table and straightway is offended. As for women who from the nature of thir work often labor at home as authors, artists and teachers of music, their afflictions are legion from their sisters who yet look upon special work by women as something insuring pocket money without asking a male relative, but as in no way cutting off abundant leisure for waiting and visiting.

The woman whose activities have always been confined to her home knows absolutely nothing about the tyranny of order under which work done outside must go on. The article or story, the sketch or drawing, bonnet or gown, must be ready at a certain time, the concert or lesson must be given at a fixed date, whether the heart is worried or the head aches.

If from necessity or choice one becomes a tiny part of the world's machine, one must keep up or drop out altogether; there is no middle way. But for the woman who fights the wolf or who chooses to enter a profession or trade as a life work society has absolutely no consideration and small charity. If her domestic says, "Not at home," to save her time, she is called insincere, and if she sends word that she must be excused she is not excused. Far from it! The visitor resolves to "wait one while" before coming again. Yet this woman worker craves good fellowship far more than the woman of leisure.

The time has come when we as women must treat the woman who works with at least as much consideration as we accord to men. That an appointment with a dentist must be kept goes without saying, but his time is no more his little all and possession than is the time of the dressmaker whom we too often disappoint. We ask no excuse from the butcher or baker, the physician or lawyer, when he rises abruptly and says, "I must go," or when he declines an invitation.

The women who must earn money or starve increase in number in every year. Opportunities multiply every year, but women as a class do not yet recognize the fact that the successful performance of work means helpful conditions. We need now not pioneers to open new doors and new paths, but comprehending sympathy at home, in our neighborhood, in our set.—Elizabeth Cumings in Union Signal.

A Speech From the Guillotine.

One of the most ghastly executions of the French revolution was that of the Marquis de Marville. While standing on the scaffold awaiting the completion of the preliminary arrangements, the marquis addressed a few words to the assemblage of people.

He was proceeding to say that before he died he wished to open their eyes to the truth when he was seized by the executioner and forced under the knife. With the utmost sang froid the marquis continued: "Educated as I was among a privileged class, I voluntarily abandoned my friends to live among you, to earn my daily bread side by side with you, and I have always acted like a good patriot."

At this moment the knife fell. The guillotine was, however, in such constant requisition that it was frequently out of order. Upon this occasion the knife fell, but did not sever the vertebræ, although the flesh was horribly mangled. The executioner and his assistants raised the knife anew. As soon as they had done so the marquis, still lying face downward, continued, "As I was saying, fellow citizens, when I was interrupted"— And again the knife fell, this time accomplishing its ghastly work.—San Francisco Argonaut.

Jewels That Blinded.

The Grand Duchess Marie Fedorovna, princess of Wurtemberg, wife of the Grand Duke Paul, a son and successor of Catherine the Great of Russia, at a festival given in her honor by Marie Antoinette at the Little Trianon, June 6, 1782, wore on her head a little bird of precious stones, so brilliant that it pained the eye to look at it. It was set so as to swing and beat its wings over a rose.

Upon another occasion the duke was entertained with great pomp at Chantilly by the Prince of Conde. At a dinner given in the castle the table was covered with an almost inexhaustible supply of gold and silver plate. After each course the servants, without noise or confusion, threw all the magnificent vessels out of the windows, but nothing was lost. The precious vessels, jugs and dishes fell into the water of the moat, from which they were taken out in large nets.—Jewelers' Weekly.

Counterfeiters.

One great benefit that the people of this country as a whole derive from national currency is the difficulty which counterfeiters have in imitating the paper and engraving used in its manufacture. A counterfeit bill is very seldom seen in New York city, for example, and is never willfully presented in any large store. It is not difficult for the newest immigrant to learn the distinctive marks and touch of our paper currency, and the Chinese, who only learn the appearance of the figures denoting the amount of the bill, are practically infallible in their judgment of good money. The United States secret service is well organized so far as the running down of counterfeiters is concerned, and the certainty of detection and punishment is so great that the regular professional American crook has given up the making of counterfeit bills as a bad job.—New York Sun.

To Rejapan Trays.

Old trays may be rejapanned by the following process: First, clean them thoroughly with soap and water and a little rotten stone, then dry by wiping and exposure to the fire. Next, get some good copal varnish, mix it with some bronze powder and apply with a brush to the denuded parts; after which set the tray in an oven at a heat of 212 to 300 degrees until the varnish is dry. Two coats will make it equal to new.—Technologist.

UP TO DATE.

Good violins improve with use and age. If Stradivarius had made Pianos as well as violins, no one would care to own one of the former unless as a curiosity. There is little new in violin making, but there is something new every year in Piano making. Take care you do not buy a Piano simply because it was famous. With any Piano of ancient name and fame we invite you to compare the Steinway, Gabler, Vose, Sterling and Braumuller Pianos. They contain all new improvements that are desirable. They are up to date.

WAR IN MOROCCO.

Battle Between Moors and the Spanish Garrison at Melilla.

MADRID, Oct. 4.—Further trouble has broken out between the Moors and the Spanish garrison at Melilla, a town on the northern coast of Morocco. The Spanish authorities recently decided to add to the strength of the fortifications of Melilla, the state of the country and the acts of the natives, in their opinion, warranting such a course. The work of constructing additional fortifications was begun and pushed forward as rapidly as possible. This incensed the Moors, and yesterday morning a force of more than six thousand natives made an attack upon the Spanish garrison, that numbered all told not more than four hundred souls. The Spanish troops fought throughout the day without relief being sent to them. They had no food, but this was a matter of small consequence to them, and they knew that death or slavery awaited them should they fall into the hands of their enemies.

During the battle eighteen of the Spaniards were killed and thirty-five wounded, including three officers, whose injuries are serious.

The Spanish artillery did great execution. The gunners at one time directed their fire upon a mosque and almost completely destroyed it. Other buildings in the range of their fire were destroyed.

Northern Morocco has been greatly excited by the news of the attack upon the Spaniards and the fanaticism of the inhabitants is being aroused by Mohammedan demands for revenge upon the "infidels" for destroying the mosque. The situation is critical and further attacks upon the garrison and civilians are expected.

Later advices from Melilla are that the Moors requested a truce. The request was granted and both sides buried their dead. The Moors have sued for peace. The Moorish government has been cowed completely by Spain's preparations for war. It has promised to make any reparation and has assured Spain of its most earnest efforts to repress the savagery of the hostile tribes. Messengers have been sent already to warn all tribes near Melilla against interfering with the Spaniards whose right to build forts is acknowledged and proclaimed by the Moors. The government threatens to inflict the severest penalties on those disregarding this right.

BRIDEGROOM MISSING.

A Fashionable Wedding Comes to a Sensational End.

MOUNT VERNON, N. Y., Oct. 4.—McDonald Croff, a widower of Pelhamville, a suburb of this place, was to have been married yesterday afternoon to Miss Kate McGalliard, the leading soprano singer in the Episcopal Church of the Redeemer of that place, and the belle of the village. The ceremony was set down for 3 o'clock in the afternoon and at the appointed hour the bride was in the vestibule with her father to await the arrival of her fiance. Everything was ready and all awaited the coming of Croff. At 20 minutes past 3 o'clock a messenger was hurried from the church to find the missing groom. The messenger soon returned and reported that Croff was not in the village. Miss McGalliard was completely prostrated and was taken to her father's home in a condition of total collapse. The Rev. Mr. Salton in a few words announced to the gathered friends that the wedding had been postponed indefinitely and the people left the church. No reason or motive for the nonappearance of the groom can be learned, and up to last evening his whereabouts were a complete mystery.

SMUGGLING FURS.

A Far-Reaching Plot Against Uncle Sam Unearthed.

BOSTON, Oct. 4.—The arrest at Troy, N. Y., last week of Henry Nedecor and Thomas McCormack, Delaware & Hudson trainmen, brought to light one of the most remarkable and far-reaching systems for defrauding the revenue of the United States ever detected in this country.

The men were arrested by members of the force of special Treasury Agent Smith, of Boston, charged with smuggling sealskin and fur garments into the states and shipping the same to Boston and other large cities.

The principal in the scheme is J. B. Laliberte, of Quebec, a French Jew, who, it is said, conducted the largest and finest fur store in America, or in the world. He is a man of great wealth, amassed largely by defrauding the United State revenue and is, the officers claim, the most extensive and most successful offender against the United States customs laws in Canada, and notorious as a smuggler from Maine to California.

TOBACCO PLENTY.

Wonderfully Increased Consumption of Cigarettes.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 4.—The Western Tobacco Journal, of this city, publishes today some interesting statistics of the tobacco manufacturing output of the United States for the month of August. It shows the singular fact that, while tobacco, cigars and snuff all show a remarkable decrease, the manufacture of cigarettes has largely increased. The figures, compared with 1892, are as follows:

Tobacco, pounds	15,895,843	24,009,891
Cigars, number	327,690,106	433,946,405
Cig'ettes, number	357,944,380	270,836,950
Snuff, pounds	671,069	930,256

Comparisons for eight months show the remarkable falling off of over 20,000,000 pounds, [something hardly occurring in any previous like period of the last decade, unless due to anticipation of changes in taxes. But cigarettes continue to increase, and the year's output will approach 3,500,000,000.

GEMS IN VERSE.

Revolt of the Soul.

I hate to live and suffer, to know hunger, grief and shame
And see in the throngs about me men mangled, blind and lame.

I hate to see cold winter's snow bear the print of shoeless feet,
And the fleshless hand of hunger pinch faces young and sweet.

I hate to know each freezing blast blows through a cheerless hovel.
I hate to see a hoar head sweat o'er pick and spade and shovel.

I hate to think that tender flesh writhes under lash and blow,
And babes unwanted daily born for sorrow, shame and woe.

I hate to think that thousands toil in squalor, grief and pain
That one may rise above his kind and countless treasure gain.

I hate that which permits these wrongs, with a hate that cannot die,
Be it the demons 'neath the earth or a spirit that reigns on high.

—Louise Ingersoll.

Song of the Stars.

When the daylight fades in the evening shades,
And the blue melts in the gray,
We pitch our tents in the firmaments
To guard the milky way,
And we gather the broken sunbeams up
That the day has left in its path,
To kindle and build the glow and gild
What our sparkling campfires hath.

With fond caresses we jewel the tresses
Of the moon as she mounts the skies,
And the heavens we sprinkle with many a twinkle
That leaps from our sparkling eyes.
But when the stormcloud rolls his car
In thunder across the sky,
And the lightning dashes in fitful flashes,
We hide till the storm goes by.

The sun is our master, and no disaster
Can come to his night of rest,
For with constant eyes on the dim horizon
We guard the east and the west.
We sometimes find where the comet hides,
And we frighten him out of his lair,
Till he speeds through the night, like a fox in his flight,
To his home in the great nowhere.

We sometimes pause in our journey because
We see ourselves in the glass
Of the silent lakes or the sea that takes
Our picture as we pass.
But when the daylight quivers and breaks,
And the gray melts into the blue,
The tears we shed o'er our fallen dead
Are found in the morning dew.

—Alfred Ellison.

Appearances Don't Govern.

I have jest about concluded,
After figgerin quite a spell,
That appearances don't govern,
And that blood don't allus tell.

Sometimes the shaller plowin
Will raise the biggest crap,
And it ain't the tallest maple
Allus runs the sweetest sap.

It ain't the richest, rankest grass
The cattle likes the best;
'Tain't likely all the eggs we find
Are the hen's that made the nest.

The tallest stalk of corn that grows
In my twenty acre field
Ain't got a nubbin on it
Nor any sign of yield.

The likeliest apple tree that grows
In my neighbor's orchard lot
Is full of blossoms every spring,
But the fruit is sure to rot,

While the crooked, orn'ry seedlin,
Standin outside by the road,
Comes up smilin every season
With a heapin wagon load.

The largest sheep of all the flock
May grow the coarsest wool;
The finest horse upon the farm
May balk before he'll pull.

The scrubbiest nag upon the track
May win the longest heat,
While the one that has the backin
May be the easiest beat.

The sweetest drink I ever took
I drank from out a gourd;
The deepest water in the creek
Is jest above the ford.

So I've jest about concluded,
After figgerin quite a spell,
That appearances don't govern,
And that blood don't allus tell.

—Will W. Pfrimmer.

Six Words.

Six little words lay claim to me each passing day;
I ought, I must, I can, I will, I dare, I may.
I Ought—that is the law God on my heart has written,
The mark for which my soul is with strong yearning smitten.
I Must—that is the bound set either side the way
By nature and the world, so that I shall not stray.
I Can—that measures out the power intrusted me
Of action, knowledge, art, skill and dexterity.
I Will—no higher crown on human head can rest;
'Tis freedom's signet seal upon the soul impressed.
I Dare is the device which on the seal you read,
By freedom's open door a bolt for time of need.
I May among them all hovers uncertainly;
The moment must at last decide what it shall be.
I ought, I must, I can, I will, I dare, I may;
The six lay claim to me each hour of every day.
Teach me, O God! and then, then shall I know each day
That which I ought to do, must, can, will, dare and may.

—"Wisdom of the Brahmin."

One at a Time.

One at a time the murmuring raindrops patter
On drowsy pools with an incessant chime,
Till, lo! an ocean, ere the cloudlets scatter.

One at a time the shimmering sunbeams wander
Adown to earth from yonder cloudless clime,
Till lowliest mountain tops are smit with splendor.

One at a time uprears the master builder
Stone upon stone, with horny hands agrime,
Till shoot aloft the turrets that bewilder.

One at a time the shuttle swiftly flying
Flings thread on thread like throes of throbbing rhyme,
Till glows the tapestry with hues undying.

An Open Letter to Women.

Laurel Ave., San Francisco, May 18, 1892.

"Dear friend of women:

"When my baby was born, five years ago, I got up in six days. Far too soon. Result: falling of the womb. Ever since I've been miserable.

"I tried everything: doctors, medicines, apparatus; but grew worse.

"I could hardly stand; and walking without support was impossible.

"At last I saw an advertisement of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and decided to try it. The effect was astonishing. Since I took the first bottle my womb has not troubled me, and, thanks only to you, I am now well. Every suffering woman should know how reliable your compound is. It is a sure cure."—Mrs. A. Detwiler.

TWELVE HUNDRED DEAD

Harrowing Details of the Gulf Storm.

Twenty or More Boats Missing and Believed to Have Gone Down in the Gale With Their Crews—Impossible to Estimate the Loss of Property.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 5.—The latest advices from the section of the state devastated by Sunday night's storm indicate that the death list will reach the appalling total of 1,200. Train crews arriving on the Grand Isle road report the track covered with debris in which dead bodies are profusely intermingled, and one of the passengers asserts that he counted no less than 87 bodies on his journey to this city from that part of the destroyed district. The trains which reached New Orleans brought a number of the Bayou Cook survivors to the city, many of them wretchedly attired and their faces bearing the marks of fearful suffering. Tony Negovitch, one of the survivors, reports that 87 bodies had been found there up to the time he had left, and from information volunteered by other arrivals it is estimated that 300 people perished on Bayou Cook and in that section of the country.

The deaths at other points all the way from Bayou Cook to Grand Isle and Chenière will swell the total to more than 1,200, according to the best information now obtainable. At Grand Bayou not less than 26 perished. It is learned that the loss of life at Rosario and Linion islands has been great. No definite information has yet been received from Grand Isle.

From the meagre details at hand it is highly probable that the greatest destruction of life occurred at Chenière, a settlement of 3,000 people, mostly fishermen, on the mainland west of Grand Isle. Here the wind and waves dealt out death in an appalling manner. Bodies and wreckage are strewn everywhere and the pictures from the description from one or two refugees are heartrending. The loss of life is estimated at from 500 to 800.

Many Boats Lost.

The steamboats Webber and Sweeney were lost with their entire crews, and at least a score of other boats are missing. Such survivors of the frightful scenes of Sunday night as reached this city were mostly Austrians, ignorant of the English language, and besides that by reason of their excitement caused by the strain on their nervous systems, were very poor subjects to give an intelligent account of what transpired. Captain John Telsanos of the lugger Stephanie, through an interpreter told the States a harrowing story. He says: "I had made my lugger fast to her usual moorings on Sunday afternoon and had gone on shore to camp. This was at Grand Bank, about one mile from Grand Island. The weather had been beautiful all of the forenoon but toward evening it began to cloud up and I knew that a storm was brewing. Heavy rain storms set in accompanied by strong winds, blowing from all quarters of the compass. I made all snug on board the lugger, as I anticipated trouble, and then I went on shore and waited events. Lugger men are accustomed to bad weather, but this storm proved to be the worst I ever was in. The wind howled, and towards 11 o'clock it was blowing a full gale. The shanty I was sheltering in stood the blow fairly well, until, I should judge, about midnight the end came. I thought the world was on us. The sea came up high. It seemed to be like a wall and then I found myself fighting for my life in the midst of the ruins of my shanty, and how on earth I escaped, I can't say. After this it seemed to me as if the storm had exhausted its fury and from that on the wind continued to abate. I got back to Socola canal in a skiff I happened to pick up on the beach when daylight came in." Captain Telsanos is a magnificently built man of gigantic proportions, but as he spoke to the writer tears stood in his eyes and his voice trembled. He did not appear to be able to give any very collected estimate of how many lives were probably lost, or to just what extent the damage had been done.

The islands adjacent to Grand Isle were also included in the hurricane that swept this country last Sunday. Rosari is one of the group, and like all of its neighbors is settled by people, all of whom are clear Spaniards by decent. It has not more than a score of inhabitants, who earn their living by fishing. This place was entirely depopulated.

Vague Reports From Mobile.

MOBILE, Ala., Oct. 5.—Reports of damage by the storm are coming slowly. Railroads, shipping and mills are the heaviest losers, and the amount aggregates nearly a million. The loss of human life cannot be estimated. On Farmers Island, opposite this city, only two farm houses are standing out of a total of twenty-three. Relief expeditions to this section found a group of little children clinging to trees and their parents swept away. One house crossed the bay, a distance of 15 miles, and landed on the tracks of the Louisville & Nashville railroad. The owner with his family have not turned up yet. On both sides of the bay are many villages, some of which are totally destroyed and the inhabitants gone. There has been no train on the Louisville & Nashville either way, but a large force of men is at work clearing away the wreckage, and an effort will be made to run trains to-day. An unknown bark from Pensacola is ashore on the gulf side in one of the many coves. As none of the crew have come in it is supposed all were lost.

Sensitive Subject.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 5.—On account of the severity of the press criticisms of loss of the ironclad Rooskalka the Russian press censors have forbidden newspapers to refer to the disaster in any way or to open relief funds without permission.

ABSOLUTELY PURE

RELIGIOUS FREEDOM IN TURKEY

A Christian Turkish Ambassador Defends the Country.

LONDON, Oct. 5.—A representative of the Christian Commonwealth had an interview with Rustem Pasha, the Turkish ambassador. The representative asked why the Christian Herald had been excluded from Turkey. Rustem Pasha warmly replied:

"Because of its false and calumnious statements concerning alleged religious persecution in Turkey. There is more toleration there than in England. All religions are perfectly equal in Turkey—Catholic, Protestant, Jewish and Musulman. I am, myself, a Christian, nevertheless I am one of the highest dignitaries in the state."

Regarding the Armenian question he said:

"That is purely a civil affair. A deep conspiracy exists to incite the Armenians to rebellion against the sultan. The society embodying the movement has a committee in London. The root of the mischief is the American college in Marsovan. We have positive proof of the existence of a revolutionary conspiracy among the students there. The fact that there is a perfect understanding between missionaries and officials everywhere in Turkey, except in Marsovan, proves that there is no such thing as religious persecution in the country."

With contemptuous indignation the Turkish ambassador here turned to a file of the Levant Herald containing a report of the Armenian trial and read a paragraph, which said that the prisoners had first confessed their guilt and then had been persuaded to withdraw their confession and say that they had made such confession under torture.

"You say," he continued, "that disaffection is spreading from Christians to Moslems. The statement is utterly untrue, and you are thereby inciting the sultan's subjects to revolt. The idea that things are done in the sultan's name without his knowledge is nonsense. The sultan knows everything and sees everything, and any official attempting to conceal anything would be instantly dismissed."

ONLY A SCARE.

Sensational Report of a Recent Hazing at Princeton.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 5.—A mass meeting of the college was held yesterday to discuss the sensational hazing reports of the morning. A committe from the senior class was appointed to investigate the matter and every effort will be made to discover the author of the report. If it proves to be the work of a student his future career in college will not be a pleasant one. Leopold, the alleged victim of maltreatment, was seen last night. He was on his way from the Varsity athletic club house where he is in training for full-back on the scrub football team. "The difficulty with the sophomores," said he, "started with some language I used on the 'varsity field which they considered obnoxious. They called me to account Monday night. I got badly scared, made a break for the bank of the canal, and, without stopping to think, plunged in and landed safely on the other side. The upper classmen offered me no personal violence and I bear them no ill will." It was learned that the crew on a canal boat were the authors of the startling report that Leopold had been drowned.

NEW LONDON, Oct. 5.—The trial of the cruiser Montgomery is indefinitely postponed. She went on the rocks at Black Ledge, approaching the harbor at midnight Tuesday, and the injuries then sustained will compel her to be hauled out and recaulked.

TALK OF COMPROMISE

Some Scheme to Establish Bimetallism.

Three Southern Senators Speak Against Unconditional Repeal of the Silver Purchase Act and in Favor of Compromise.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—Two of the most eloquent and exciting speeches that have been made in the senate chamber since the debate on the silver purchase repeal bill began were delivered yesterday by democratic southern senators, Messrs. Butler of South Carolina and Blackburn of Kentucky. Each speech lasted two hours, and each speaker had large and sympathetic audiences, both on the floor and in the galleries. They were both against the repeal bill, and in favor of such a compromise as would result in the permanent establishment of bi-metallism. Mr. Butler referred to the rumors connecting President Cleveland with attempts to influence legislation, and proclaimed his belief that there was no truth in them. As to the suggestion that the minority was trying to coerce the majority, he asserted that it was neither coercing nor would it be coerced.

Mr. Blackburn made an appeal for speedy action on a compromise measure, and said that he would offer one himself the next day. He declared emphatically that he would have no part in deferring or delaying the settlement of the question. He appealed to democratic senators to disprove the insinuation that the democracy was unable to govern the country. The third speech of the day was also made by a southern democratic senator, Mr. Call of Florida, who was also in opposition to repeal.

In the house yesterday Mr. Compton of Maryland made a strong constitutional argument against the federal election laws, but he was listened to by a mere handful of representatives. Mr. Lane of Illinois received little more attention when he spoke in the same line. Mr. Sweet of Idaho criticised President Cleveland, and Mr. Murray of South Carolina, the colored member of the house, did not break the monotony of the proceedings when he opposed the passage of the repeal bill.

RIDICULING QUARANTINE.

Lisbon's Restrictions Against Great Britain Declared Absurd.

LONDON, Oct. 5.—The news that the authorities at Lisbon have declared a quarantine against Liverpool is greeted with jeering remarks here. The fact that Lisbon declares a quarantine against any place indicates nothing. Portugal and Spain as well have quarantine on the brain. Every time either government hears of a case of diarrhoea anywhere a quarantine is forthwith declared against the place in which the person so affected lives. The Portugese authorities declared a quarantine against Manchester and Liverpool. There has been no genuine cholera at either place. The local authorities of both towns protest against the absurdity of the action of the Portuguese authorities, which was prompted possibly by the idea that European emigrants pass through the towns.

WILLIAM AND BISMARCK.

The Emperor's Solicitous Order to Dr. Schweninger.

BERLIN, Oct. 5.—The Creus Zeitung publishes the often-referred-to order sent by Emperor William to Dr. Schweninger. This order bears date of April 21, 1890, and contains the following: "Not only the German nation, but all the nations of the civilized world, have the deepest interest in Prince Bismarck's welfare. I personally heartily desire to see him, with God's help, long preserved. I wish you therefore to continue to attend him as his physician. I look forward to your reports from time to time."

Bismarck Now Better.

BERLIN, Oct. 6.—Dr. Chrysander, the physician attending Bismarck in the absence of Dr. Schweninger, replying to inquiries, telegraphs from Kissingen that the alarming statements regarding Prince Bismarck are quite unfounded and that the prince's condition is appreciably better. Attendants say that the prince feels strong enough to travel and that he may leave Kissingen at any moment, but that is impossible as yet to fix a time for his departure.

Emma Goldman's Case.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—A jury was secured yesterday afternoon in the case of Emma Goldman. Assistant District Attorney McIntyre opened the case for the prosecution. The only witness called was Detective Sergeant Charles Jacobs. He testified that he sat directly behind the defendant on the night in question and took notes from her speech in German. He read a number of extracts from her speech which were of a most seditious nature.

Mrs. Bull Injured.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Mrs. Bull, wife of Dr. Wm. T. Bull, who was Mrs. James G. Blaine, jr., was severely injured yesterday by being thrown from her carriage in front of the Grand Central depot. Mrs. Bull was alighting from her carriage. The horses became frightened and started suddenly. Mrs. Bull was thrown to the ground striking on her head. She was badly bruised about the head, breast and arms.

SIMPLY BUSINESS.

Secretary Carlisle Explains His Policy of Purchasing Silver.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—Secretary Carlisle has sent to the speaker of the house of representatives a letter explanatory of his silver purchase policy, in response to the recent resolution requesting him to inform the house why silver bullion was not purchased in the months of July and August, 1893, to the full amount provided in the Sherman act. Mr. Carlisle reviews at length the fluctuations in the price of silver, and gives the purchases made by the government at various rates. He adds:

"In view of these facts, it seems eminently proper that, as the government of the United States is the largest purchaser of silver in the world, the secretary of the treasury, after an examination of the offers and quotations of each day, should determine what in his judgement is a fair market price, especially as the act of July 14, 1890, expressly provides for the purchase of 4,500,000 ounces, or so much thereof as may be offered in each month at the market price thereof.

"It is evident that there are but two courses open to the secretary of the treasury under this statute. He must purchase 4,500,000 ounces of silver each month at whatever price may be asked by the dealers, no matter how unreasonable or extortionate they may be, or he must employ such means as are at his command to ascertain what the actual market price is, and make, or offer to make, the purchase at that rate; and it is simply because the dealers were not willing to accept what was considered a fair market price that 4,500,000 ounces were not purchased during the months of July and August. There is no valid reason why the government should pay for silver bullion higher prices than are paid by individuals, or why the refiner or dealer should receive a price for his silver greater than that paid to another on the same day and in the same market."

IDEAS ON FINANCE.

Further Talk Before the House Currency Committee.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—Representative Davis of Kansas continued before the committee on banking and currency yesterday his argument in favor of his bill to increase the issue of greenbacks to the extent of about $200,000,000. He asserted that the reduction of the number of land holders in England from 160,000 in 1819 to 30,000 in 1826, was due to the constantly falling price due to restricted currency, and the creased number of land holders in France some years earlier was due to the use of assignats. Mr. Davis advocated the issue of greenbacks rather than that of national bank notes, because they are cheaper and for the reason that all history and authorities agree that the power which controls the currency of the country controls its commerce and manufactures.

Representative Harter of Ohio addressed the committee upon his bill providing for an increase of national bank currency by permitting the issue up to the par value of bonds deposited and the issue of notes upon other securities. He was in favor of withdrawing the legal tender quality from all currency so that it should depend upon its merits wholly for its circulating power. Then he would have the government retire from the business of providing currency for the country. That was the business of banks.

CARS SCARCE.

Chicago Railroads Swamped With World's Fair Traffic.

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—All the Chicago roads are now suffering from a passenger car famine. They have reached the utmost limits of their equippment with world's fair business and admit that not one of them will have enough to properly care for the traffic incidental to Chicago day. They expect to land in Chicago during the three days that that traffic is moving, Oct. 7, 8 and 9, 250,000 people. Everything on wheels in the shape of passenger equipment will be in service for the occasion, and it will be the first time in the history of the roads that that has been the case.

THE MOROCCO WAR.

Spain Sends 3,000 More Troops and a Gunboat.

MADRID, Oct. 5.—The government has decided to dispatch to Melilla at once 3,000 troops and another gunboat. All officers and men absent from the Andalusian army on leave have been ordered to return to their regiments forthwith. A detachment of troops bound for Melilla was accorded an ovation by the populace on departing from this city. The latest advices received from Melilla report everything quiet.

An Insect Collector Disappears.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 5.—James H. Clark, 59 years of age, and a noted insect and fern collector, has disappeared from his home in this city under circumstances which indicate he has met with a fatal accident. He was last seen on the ledge in East Providence on September 23, and it is believed that he fell off an isolated part of the ledge and was dashed to death. Searching parties are looking for him.

New York Democratic Convention.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Oct. 5.—The democratic state convention meets here to-day. The nomination of Judge Maynard as associate justice of the court of appeals and the renominations of Attorney General Rosendale, Comptroller Campbell and State Engineer Schenck are certain as any political events can be.

McCreary's Chinese Bill.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—Mr. McCreary of Kentucky, from the committee on foreign affairs, submitted a report to the house yesterday with the recommendation that it pass, a bill amending the Chinese exclusion act of 1892, so as to extend the time six months in which Chinese persons may register and obtain certificates of residence.

Starving to Death.

HARTFORD, Conn., Oct. 5.—Mrs. Charles Peck of Lyme is slowly starving to death. She has been unable to take nourishment for 35 days, and her death is daily expected. Her physicians say there is no way to prevent her death from starvation, as her stomach will not retain nourishment.

Pallas' Fate.

BARCELONA, Oct. 5.—Pallas, the anarchist and would-be assassin of Gen. Martinez de Campos, will either be shot to-day or Friday.

READY FOR THE RACE

Vigilant and Valkyrie in Perfect Condition.

Valkyrie Has a Trifling Advantage in Time Allowance—Both Confident of Success—Betting Slightly in Favor of the American Boat.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—The first of a series of best three in five races for the queen's cup, more commonly called the "America's," is scheduled for to-day. It will be between the American centre-board yacht Vigilant and the English keel yacht Valkyrie. It will be over a course 15 miles to windward or leeward, as the case may be, and return, and the start will probably be from an imaginary line between the Sandy Hook lightship and the steam yacht May.

The cup will be the ostensible prize of the victor, but the real prize will be the fact that the maker of the victor will have the credit of supremacy over all others in naval architecture. The official measurements of the yachts show that the Vigilant will have to give the Valkyrie a time allowance of one minute and forty-eight seconds. This is a heavy handicap.

There is more excitement over this race than over any of its predecessors, and blow high or low it will be witnessed by thousands of people. At least a hundred large sea-going excursion steamers and tugs will convey sight-seers over the course, and there will be dozens of steam yachts and sailing craft present carrying their owners and friends. Should the Vigilant pass the finish line one minute and forty-nine seconds faster than the Valkyrie the salute she will receive from the steam whistles and cannons of the excursion fleet will give the Britishers a pretty good idea of American enthusiasm.

The general opinion last night was that the Vigilant would win the series of races, but every one seemed to have an immense respect for the prowess of the Valkyrie, and it was freely admitted that she would give the Vigilant a tussle.

In fact the Valkyrie is regarded by yachtsmen much as the Thistle was before her races with the Volunteer. She is held to be too formidable an antagonist to treat lightly, or to bet against rashly.

What betting there was was in favor of the Vigilant, and considerable Vigilant money was covered. The prevailing odds were 5 to 4 in favor of the Vigilant.

Lord Dunraven told a friend that he could see no improvement that could be made in the Valkyrie. The owners of Vigilant are equally confident that their yacht represents the most perfect racing machine which can be turned out.

DR. MARY WALKER AGAIN.

She Says Arthur Snead Murdered Chrystie Warden.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Oct. 5.—Dr. Mary Walker arrived here from Boston and caused the arrest of Arthur D. Snead of this city, whom she says is the murderer of Chrystie Warden, at Haverhill, N. H., in July, 1891. She alleges that the wrong man was hanged for that crime. She further alleges that Snead is also Henry L. Norcross, whom it was thought threw the bomb at Russell Sage.

It was a companion of Snead or Norcross who was killed at that time. Snead has been held to await investigation.

Dr. Walker told a plausible story at the police station and Snead could not give a satisfactory account of himself.

MRS. FALLEN'S REVENGE.

Forced Vitriol From a Syringe Into Mrs. Traphagen's Face.

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., Oct. 5.—Mrs. Mary Fallen of Hudson Park, on the outskirts of this village, entered the store of Mrs. Traphagen, to whom she claims her husband has been too attentive, and after some words, drew from under her wrap a syringe filled with vitriol and forced the fluid into Mrs. Traphagen's face. She then hurriedly left the store. Mrs. Traphagen's screams quickly brought assistance and a physician was summoned who dressed her burns. Fortunately none of the vitriol entered Mrs. Traphagen's eyes, but her face is badly scarred. Mrs. Fallen was arrested.

Caught After Two Years.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—William S. Rogers, a young man who mysteriously disappeared from Brooklyn over two years ago after committing forgeries amounting to upward of $5,000, has been arrested in Norwalk, Conn., after giving the police the liveliest kind of a chase. The victim of the swindle was W. S. Maude of Short Hills, N. J., for whom Rogers was employed.

Full Time Again.

EASTON, Pa., Oct. 5.—Orders are received putting the Lehigh Valley railroad shops on full time for the entire force. For three months the shops worked but five days a week and then orders came to work nine hours instead of ten and lay off 1,500 men a week. The shops will now work six days a week with a force of 400 men.

Reducing Expenses.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—Attorney General Olney has submitted the estimates for the department of justice for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1895, to the secretary of the treasury. They aggregate $6,225,000, which is a less amount than has been appropriated for the department for several years back.

Trust Company Resumes.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Oct. 5.—The New Bedford safe deposit and trust company, which closed its doors during the tight money market times, two months ago, will resume business to-day, and a statement given out shows that it is able to pay all its liabilities.

Commander Rhoades.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—Among the nominations sent to the senate by the president was that of Lieut.-Commander Wm. W. Rhoades of the navy to be a commander.

DELIGHTFUL GOOD FELLOWSHIP

Handsome Presentation, and Supper, Given by Plainfield Engine Co., No. 2, to Gazelle, No. 1.

At the regular session of Gazelle Engine Co., No. 1, last evening, Foreman W. T. Newman opened the meeting with a few remarks. After the meeting the Gazelles were surprised by a visit from Engine Co., No. 2, who marched in a body from their house to the parlors of the Gazelle house. Foreman Rogers introduced Willett Marsh, who on behalf of No. 2's company presented a handsome clock to No. 1. The presentation speech was ably rendered, and responded to by Messrs. W. T. Newman and A. H. Martin. After a few remarks from members of Company No. 1, both companies repaired to Jacot's restaurant, where a sumptuous collation was served, with the Board of Engineers as guests of honor.

The honor of the opening speech was confered on W. T. Newman, Foreman of Gazelle Engine Co., No. 1, followed by Chief Doane and Assistant Chiefs J. A. Martin and J. W. Murray. R. B. Rogers and Willet Marsh also spoke, and a song was given by Frank Shuck. Ex-Chief Jennings favored the companies with another speech.

Messrs. Addis and Flannery entertained the gathering with songs, which were well sung. Speeches were given by A. Love, Sr., L. M. Dunavan, and Chas. Graves, Jr. Charles Johnson entertained with some of his good and comical songs. Jas. Frisby gave an illustration of a Central Railroad train, which was well executed. Willett Marsh favored the guests with a few old favorite songs.

The sentiment of the evening, from the Chief Engineer down, was delight that there was such good fellowship and unanimity among the members. There is absolutely no rivalry; and instead, as in the army it was one flag and one country, so among the members it is one city and one department.

No. 2's presentation was in gratitude to No. 1 for the use of Gazelle's meeting rooms while No. 2 has been in cramped temporary quarters.

Plainfielders at the Fair.

The following is a list of some Plainfielders whose names were noticed on the register at the New Jersey Building, World's Fair, as having registered since Sept. 30: Mrs. Willard, W. G. Anderson, Ed. Love, E. R. Ackerman, H. Taylor, Mulford Estil, B. B. Taylor, Stephen A. Vail (formerly of Plainfield), H. Gove, the Misses M. E. and Helen Cooley, H. H. Moore, wife and son, Mrs. C. S. Nightingale, H. O. Nightingale, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Runyon.

One of the sightseers writes: "It has been rainy, muggy and sloppy since Saturday afternoon, but still the people flock here by the thousands. The State Buildings seem to be the centre of focus for the majority. Those who have yet a desire to visit the Fair must do so soon, for the fogs and winds from Lake Michigan are even now starting to make it far from a pleasure."

Good Gigging.

Tuesday night Frank Mowrey, blacksmith, and a friend, gigged or speared about 20 pounds of eels and suckers in Stony brook. Yesterday Mowrey made a new gig, and he and John Stevens, the veteran blacksmith, of West Second street, went forth to try their luck in Green brook last evening. They were very successful in gathering the eels and suckers. They claim that last evening's catch weighed over 20 pounds, making about 5 good messes.

THE HIGH SCHOOL SHAKY

ITS UNSAFE CONDITION OFFICIALLY REPORTED.

Pupils Must Not March in Step on Its Floors in the Future — The Schools' Creditor Increases Its Rate of Interest.

The Board of Education met yesterday afternoon at 4. The Rev. Dr. Richards, Dr. Probasco, F. C. Lounsbury, and E. L. Finch were present. Dr. Probasco was elected chairman pro tem.

John Johnston, tax collector, made a report showing the school tax collections for August to be $204.26; back tax collected $127.38, all of which had been deposited in the Bank.

Dr. Probasco, of the Comm ittee on Teachers, reported the resignation of Fred. C. Harman and Miss Scudder, and the appointment of Ira H. Blawell and Miss Louise H. Billings.

Principal Maxson reported that the fall term began with good attendance, 1,720 scholars being enrolled, an increase of 116 from last year.

The report of Mr. Maxson was as follows:

The fall term opened with every teacher in place, and there has been hardly any absence from sickness during the month.

The attendance has increased considerably in all the schools, but particularly in the Bryant school. There have been enrolled during the month in all the schools 1,720 pupils, which is an increase of 116 over the number enrolled at this time last year.

This increased attendance has necessitated much changing of pupils in order to furnish adequate accommodations, and several rooms are still crowded.

In the Bryant school, where one room had over seventy pupils, it was necessary to take the children from two other rooms and unite them in one school, in order to give room to divide this large school. In school rooms that are the size of ours, 45 pupils are as many as can be properly accommodated, but in the Bryant school there are now six rooms that have more than this number, and in other buildings there are four more, the numbers in some cases being nearly sixty.

The entering class in the high school numbers 67. The one-session plan from 8:20 a. m. to 1 p. m., has been continued this term and seems to give general satisfaction.

In accordance with the plan suggested last term, I have arranged for the science teacher, Mr. Hoick, to give instructions in chemistry science in the grammar grade. He is now giving two lessons per week in each of the five rooms of the 8th and 9th grade. The pupils observe the experiments, and are led by the teacher to draw their own deductions, and the next day with an account of the lesson, and draw illustrations of the apparatus used.

The work thus serves not only to give them information, but also to train in observing closely in making careful deduction in drawing from nature, and in expressing what they see and think concisely in good English. It also affords a pleasant variety to the monotonions of school work. I hope gradually to introduce work of a similar nature into all the lower grades.

H. M. MAXSON,
Superintendent of Schools.

Mr. Maxson said that the music teacher had complained of the singing books, they not being fit to use. It was decided to buy new books, returning the old for the usual reduction.

It was also reported that $452 had been received from tuition pupils living outside of the city. Janitors were reappointed with the following salaries: W.V. Mundy, $50 per month; T. J. Clarkson, $100 per month; Stevenson Hope, $70 per month; Robert Walker, $50 per month.

Dr. Probasco said that he had noticed that when the pupils marched in the High School together the building was shaken considerably. He advised that they break step in the future.

Messrs. Finch and Lounsbury were appointed Auditing Committee.

John P. Emmons was given the contract to build higher the chimney on the Franklin building, to secure better draught.

The Mutual Life Insurance Company, from which $73,000 was borrowed, and on which the Board has been paying 5 per cent., sent word that they wanted 6 per cent. in the future. Mr. Finch was appointed to look into the matter and report back to the Board.

The meeting then adjourned.

ANOTHER NARROW ESCAPE.

Carelessness That Might Have Resulted Seriously.

Train No. 504 going east arrived at the North Avenue station this morning about on time at 10:09; and as usual passengers awaiting the arrival of the 10:04 which was late, on hearing the call "Elizabeth, Newark and New York, only", supposed they were taking the 10:04.

The trainman of the 10:09 was politely assisting lady passengers onto the train, the gentlemen standing back, when the conductor after looking to see that the baggage for Plainfield was off his train and with no apparent concern for the passengers in waiting, signalled to start, which signal was obeyed and in consequence one lady was thrown backward from the lower step and would undoubtedly have been thrown under the wheels had it not been for the trainman's alacrity, who with great presence of mind relieved her hand from the rail, and left her on the station platform in the arms of her friends.

Another one had her dress caught in the next platform of the next car, and but for the timely rush of several gentlemen to her rescue would have gone under without a word.

If the company insist on having but one brakeman on a train to do the duty of two, more serious accidents will occur than that of this morning, as it was by a miraculous exhibit of presence of mind that the one brakeman saved a life and would-be passengers another.

If a train stops at Plainfield at the hour that ladies are in the habit of going to New York, either for shopping or a matinee, and the company do not want them to ride—then let them place gates to keep off all or admit all in waiting; otherwise look out for damage suits through false economy.

Ladies who were rescued fervently thanked Wallace Vail and Judge Moore for their promptness in saving life.

I have been a sufferer from catarrh for years. Having tried a number of remedies advertised as "sure cures" without obtaining any relief, I had resolved never to take any other patent medicines, when a friend advised me to try Ely's Cream Balm. I did so with great reluctance, but can now testify that after using it for six weeks I believe myself cured. It is a most agreeable remedy—an invaluable Balm.—Joseph Stewart, Grand avenue, Brooklyn.

FINE LIST OF OFFICERS.

The Y's Enter on a Strong Renewal of Work.

The first regular meeting of the Y's for the season was held in their rooms on Watchung avenue, yesterday afternoon.

In spite of the inclement weather, there was a good attendance, and much enthusiasm was manifested for the work of the ensuing year. It was decided to hold the usual Thanksgiving sale of cake, candy and pies, and Miss May French was appointed to take charge of the affair. The following officers were elected:

President—Miss Amey Green.
Vice-President—Miss Eleanor Morrison.
Corresponding-Secretary—Miss Bessie Titsworth.
Recording-Secretary—Miss S. Lena Bass.
Treasurer—Miss M. Brown.
Chairman of the Hospital Committee—Miss Mabel Maxson.
Chairman of the Literature Committee—Miss Josie VanArsdale.
Chairman of the Devotional Committee—Miss Lulu Lewis.
Superintendent of the Loyal Legion—Miss Adelaide Winter.
Charge of the Flower Mission—The Misses Ida and Kittie Ross.
Press Reporter—Miss Lewis.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Walter C. Dobbins left this forenoon by Royal Blue Line for the World's Fair.

Mr. and Mrs. D. N. Groendyke left this morning for Chicago and a short western trip, expecting to be gone about a month.

Mrs. J. N. Bettman, and her sister, Mrs. A. L. Fellows, have gone to Albany to visit Mrs. Fellows's son Townsend and wife.

Alexander Johnson, of South Plainfield, entertained a party of twenty-six friends last night. They had so jolly a time that they could not leave till long after midnight.

Alexander Gilbert, Mayor of Plainfield, and Vice-president of the Market and Fulton National Bank, has been elected secretary of the Clearing-House Association of the New York banks. This is a high and deserved honor.

Arrested Himself.

While Sergeant Kiely was at dinner yesterday a man who said his name was Casper visited the station-house and said he had heard that the Sergeant wanted to see him. He was very drunk, and declined to go away, so Kiely locked him up, and he remained in the cell over night. In court this morning he was dismissed with a warning to behave in the future.

S'pose Box 13 Rings Then!

The Rev. C. E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, has invited the Fire Department in a body to attend his church Oct. 29 and hear a sermon preached especially for them. Engine Co. No. 1 has unanimously accepted, and No. 2 and Alerts will doubtless do the same. The Exempts and Warren Company will also be invited.

Hard Times Economy.

Scores of women in this city are economizing on their clothing this fall, yet their gowns, jackets and wraps look new and are of fashionable color. A few packages of diamond dyes have made their faded, dingy and worn garments as good as new with but little expense or work. For home dyeing, use only diamond dyes, as they are simple, strong and perfectly reliable.

The Usual Way.

Didst ever observe when a pig in the fence
Sends forth its most pitiful shout
How all of his neighbors betake themselves thence
To punish him ere he gets out?
And the hubbub they raise, so that others afar
May know his condition and hence
Come running to join them in adding a scar
To the pig that is fast in the fence.

Well, swine are not all of the creatures that be
Who find themselves sticking between
The rails of the fence, and who try to get free
While the world is still shoving them in;
Who find that the favor they meet with depends
Not on words, but on dollars and cents,
And that 'tis but few who will prove themselves friends
To the pig that is fast in the fence.
—Philadelphia Ledger.

"Not to Be."

The rose said, "Let but this long rain be past,
And I shall feel my sweetness in the sun
And pour its fullness into life at last."
But when the rain was done,
But when dawn sparkled through unclouded air,
She was not there.

The lark said, "Let but winter be away,
And blossoms come and light, and I will soar
And lose the earth and be the voice of day."
But when the snows were o'er,
But when spring broke in blueness overhead,
The lark was dead.

And myriad roses made the garden glow,
And skylarks caroled all the summer long—
What lack of birds to sing and flowers to blow!
Yet, ah, lost scent, lost song!
Poor empty rose, poor lark that never trilled!
Dead unfulfilled!
—Augusta Webster.

The Day's Demand.

God give us men. A time like this demands
Strong minds, great hearts, true faith and ready hands;
Men whom the lust of office does not kill;
Men whom the spoils of office cannot buy;
Men who possess opinions and a will;
Men who have honor; men who will not lie;
Men who can stand before a demagogue
And damn his treacherous flatteries without winking;
Tall men, sun crowned, who live above the fog,
In public duty and in private thinking.
For while the rabble, with their thumbworn creeds,
Their large professions and their little deeds,
Mingle in selfish strife, lo! Freedom weeps,
Wrong rules the land, and waiting Justice sleeps.
—Dr. J. G. Holland.

I suffered for more than ten years with that dreadful disease, catarrh, and used every available medicine that was recommended to me. I cannot thank you enough for the relief which Ely's Cream Balm has afforded me. Emanuel Meyers, Winfield, L. I., N. Y.

I am an old man and have been a constant sufferer with catarrh for the last ten years. I am entirely cured by the use of Ely's Cream Balm. It is strange that so simple a remedy will cure such a stubborn disease. Henry Billings, U. S. Pension Att'y, Washington, D. C.

THE CLUB CAR.

A Grand Opera in One Act by the Author of "Oh, Promise Me", "After the Ball", "Home, Sweet Home" and "Papa's Pants Will Soon Fit Johnny".

SCENE—The Tobacco Section of the "Howard". It is a summer evening. The number of the car is 600 and so is the temperature. A steaming group of resolute commuters lounge upon the leather couches and the shaky chairs, in desperation and shirt-sleeves. At a little table four men are playing a game called "whist", and each is discussing in a loud voice the uselessness of his partner's play. The train flits through Elizabeth and ten thousand Machiavellian mosquitoes enter the car and get busy.

CHORUS OF MOSQUITOES.

Ho! ho! ha! ha! you must agree
That we are lolla-coolers!
Ha! ha! ho! ho! 'tis plain to see,
We're most despotic rulers!
We draw the blood, the crimson blood,
From all who would refuse us;
You betcher life his name is Mud
Who thinks that he can lose us!

(The Commuters rise and belabor the atmosphere with newspapers, but the mosquito is nothing if not an artful dodger.)

RECITATIVE—THE HEAD SKEET.

Now heed ye all who would seek to efface us;
Remember 'tis folly of follies to chase us;
When in a fatal grasp you would embrace us;
It's ten to one that you'll only deface us!

AIR.

Oh, the Brooklyn skeet is a wonderful thing,
And the Boston skeet is all in the ring,
And a skeet that flies a very good wing
Is the one that is called a New Yorker;
But when you are out for the skeet that is king,
The original, genuine, orthodox thing,
That'll give cards and spades to the best you can bring,
The Elizabeth skeet is a corker!

(A Tall Commuter rises and opens a window; two others begin to shiver, and, rising, close said window. The Train passed out of the Mosquito Belt and the insects retire with a parting

CHORUS OF MOSQUITOES.

Farewell, bon voyage, both friends and foes,
New victims we must seek;
We leave you in your sweet repose,
To meet another week;
Ta-ta, tra-la, turn on the hose,
We now must take our sneak.
(Exit Skeets)

CHORUS OF COMMUTERS.

Farewell, farewell, begone, begone,
Your bites are highly piznous;
We've had enough, dog-gone, dog-gone,
And you will find no flies on us.

(The group at cards wrangle over some obscure technicality and the other passengers breathe heavily until the occult business is satisfactorily arbitrated. The Tall Commuter rises and wipes the perspiration from his shirt-front.)

SONG—THE TALL COMMUTER.

I submit with resignation
To whatever designation
Fate springs on me;
But I hate to have this wrangling,
And this scrapping, and this jangling,
Thrust upon me.

Now I find my respirations
Have decreased, and perspiration's
On my stock list;
All because of what I've seen, oh!
Men who cannot play cassino,
Talking whist, whist!

If the Spanish Inquisition
Could be brought in requisition
To surprise them,
On the whist gang I would fr-e it,
And I'd hope and pray to see it
Paralyze them.

(The train slides over the Richmond street bridge and the commuters rise and embrace each other.)

CHORUS OF COMMUTERS.

"Home again! Home again!! from a foreign shore—"

(An able-bodied brick floats in through the Pittsburg French glass window, and the air becomes so heavy that the air-brakes break. The train is stalled by the gas-house and the commuters get out and walk home.) THE CHUMP.

A Newspaper Man and His Bride.

WESTFIELD, Oct. 5.—John I. Collins, publisher of The Standard, and his bride, took possession of their newly-furnished house on Park street last week, and were surprised Tuesday evening by a stage-load of friends and relatives from Milburn and Springfield. The evening was spent most enjoyably. Music and dancing hastened the flight of time; and many were the good wishes showered on Mr. and Mrs. Collins. Among those who contributed to the success of this happy house-warming were: Mr. and Mrs. Roger Marshall, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Misel, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Marshall, Oliver Collins, William Chaffee, William Marshall, Mr. Faratt and John Dixon. At 12 the good-nights were said and the merry party set out for home well satisfied.

MANUAL TRAINING.

The Present Demand for Practical Education Foreshadowed by Leading Minds.

Louis Agassiz says, in speaking of the advance of education, that "the time has come when scientific truth must cease to be the property of the few, when it must be woven into the common life of the world; for we have reached the point where the results of science touch the very problem of existence, and all men listen for the solving of the mystery. When it will come, and how, none can say: but this much at least is certain, that all our researches are leading up to that question, and mankind will never rest till it is answered. If then the results of science are of such general interest for the human race, if they are gradually interpreting the purpose of the Deity in creation, and the relation of man to all the past, then it is well that all should share in its teachings, and that it should not be kept, like the learning of the Egyptians, for an exclusive priesthood who may expound the oracle according to their own theories, but should make part of all our intellectual culture."

Especial attention is called to the remark "When it will come, and how, none can say." We wish to show that the greatness of the purpose does not necessarily make such a distant goal.

Louis Agassiz was once a boy, and little by little he gained the information which by wise application made him a power in scientific circles.

Waiting for the coming of a desirable condition does nothing towards bringing it nearer, but by following the example of those who have been the lights of the world, and beginning at the A. B. C. of Nature's book we can study for ourselves the lessons she teaches. In so doing we will realize the prediction shadowed forth in the above quotation.

This we are told is the main purpose John Dalziel has in view in the establishment of his Training School; it is an humble beginning, but the purpose is an elevating one and commends itself to parents who hope to see their children enter into the battle of life equipped to withstand the sophistries which abound through ignorance of the commonest facts in natural science.

In the work entered upon by Mr. Dalziel Manual Training is only a means to an end and not the end sought. The purpose is to instil the habit of thorough investigation into every subject considered; verifying by personal observation the statements of even the highest authorities upon the lines of study undertaken.

There can be no doubt either of the need or the value of such education and we believe it only requires to be understood to receive the hearty support of our citizens.

ALL SORTS OF SUBJECTS.

Reading, Gambling and Sunday Observance Among the Things to Be Discussed.

The first series of a proposed course of ten lectures given under the auspices of the Woman's Branch Alliance of All Souls church will be published in a few days. These lectures will be given Tuesday afternoons and Thursday evenings beginning the middle of October and closing at holiday time. The range of subjects includes "Books and Reading", "Ethics of Gambling", "A Few Days Out of a Roman Winter", "Political Position of Woman in England", "Wesley" and "Sunday Observance".

The following names are assured for the course: Hon. Chas. H. Ham, of New York, will give his lecture on "Women", which he reads at Chicago before the World's Congress Auxiliary early in October. Chas. T. Catlen of Brooklyn, whose impersonations were enjoyed last winter by all who were so fortunate to see him, will take part in an original play by Mrs. Irving, called "A Wooden Wedding". This has been given with great success in Brooklyn. Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, the Rev. James M. Whiton, (brother of John Whiton and Mrs. H. B. Opdyke), Mrs. Florence Howe Hall, Mrs. Walker, of Yonkers, Miss Clarkson, of Wilmington, who has been heard at the Seminary and M. A. C., the Rev. Edward Hale and others, will make this course of lecturers a pleasant feature of what promises to be on account of financial depression a dull winter in Plainfield. Due notice will be given of the sale of course tickets, the low price as in the past not being any indication of the value of the lectures.

THROWN FROM A TRAIN.

A Burly Negro Tries to Rob a Passenger and Throws Him Off.

HARTFORD, Conn., Oct. 5.—Edward Verville of Collinsville, a passenger on the express train south, which passed through Windsor Locks, was thrown from the train just above that station by a burly, powerful negro. Verville was passing from one car to another when the negro grabbed for his watch but missed it. The negro then grasped Verville around the waist and in spite of his resistance threw him off the car platform. Vervilles head was badly cut and his arm and elbow bruised. He was stunned and when he recovered walked to the station covered with blood. The negro cannot be identified by the limited description Verville is able to give.

To Succeed Dr. Lawrence.

D., rector of Calvary church, Pittsburg, to become dean of the institution to succeed the Rev. Wm. Lawrence, S. T. D., bishop-elect of Massachusets.

The Argentine War.

BUENOS AYRES, Oct. 5.—The ironclad Los Andes, which was recaptured from the rebels off Rosairo a few days ago, was towed back to this city. She is in a badly battered condition. The trial of the political prisoners will open immediately. The national guards to the number of 65,000 men have been mobilized.

Publisher Merritt Arrested.

Merritt, publisher of the Highland Falls Journal in Orange county, was arrested by duputy sheriffs Boland and Hogan on a capias issued by Judge Lippincott in a suit brought by Frederick H. Sander of Hoboken for $30,000 on a suit for alienating the affections of complainant's wife. Merritt was committed to the Hudson county jail in default of $5,000 bail.

Italian Navy.

Praise.

Though praise is very sweet to hear
And human hearts are prone to love it,
Yet, if unmerited, I fear
'Tis scarce a thing for sense to covet.

The friend who, braving all my wrath,
Holds up a mirror to my vision
And shows me my ill chosen path
Will never lead to fields Elysian;

Who marks my blunders, probes my faults,
While I with shame am inly quaking,
Though my affection for him halts
He is my friend and no mistaking.

But he who ever smiling comes
With honeyed words and flattering glances,
Whose every praise all dissent shuns
And chimes with all my vagrant fancies—

He fans, 'tis true, my self esteem
And gives free reign to dreams conceited,
And in his presence it would seem
That friendship's mission is completed;

And yet I cannot make it so,
Howe'er I strive with logic clever,
For in my inmost heart I know
He is my enemy forever.
—Chicago Inter Ocean.

Always Giving Satisfaction.

BRANDRETH'S PILLS have always given satisfaction. In fifty years there has been no complaint of them. That is about their life in the United States and millions of persons have used them. There is no doubt that they have established themselves by merit alone. They cure rheumatism, dyspepsia, piles, liver complaint, biliousness and any disease arising from an impure state of the blood. One or two at night on an empty stomach, for a week or two, will keep you in good form and tone up the system. They are purely vegetable, absolutely harmless and safe to take at any time.

Sold in every drug or medicine store, either plain or sugar coated.

GEMS IN VERSE.

A Persian Poem.

"Tell me, gentle traveler, thou
Who hast wandered far and wide,
Seen the sweetest roses blow
And the brightest rivers glide—
Say, of all thine eyes have seen,
Which the fairest land has been?"

"Lady, shall I tell thee where
Nature seems most blest and fair,
Far above all climes besides?
'Tis where those we love abide,
And that little spot is best
Which the loved one's foot hath pressed,
Though it be a fairy space,
Wide and spreading is the place;
Though 'twere but a barren mound,
'Twould become enchanted ground.
With thee, you sandy waste would seem
The margin of Al Cawthar's stream,
And thou couldst make a dungeon's gloom
A bower where newborn roses bloom."
—Jewish Messenger.

In Bohemia.

I'd rather live in Bohemia than any other land,
For only there are the values true,
And the laurels gathered in all men's view!
The prizes of traffic and state are won
By shrewdness of force or by deeds undone,
But fame is sweeter without the feud,
And the wise of Bohemia are never shrewd.
Here pilgrims stream, with a faith sublime,
From every class and clime and time.
Aspiring only to be enrolled
With the names that are writ in the book of gold,
And each one bears in mind or hand
A palm of the dear Bohemia land.
A scholar first with his book—a youth
Aflame with the glory of harvested truth,
A girl with a picture, a man with a play,
A boy with a wolf he has modeled in clay,
A smith with a marvelous hilt and sword,
A player, a king, a plowman, a lord—
And the player is king when the door is passed,
The plowman is crowned, and the lord is last!
I'd rather fall in Bohemia than win in another land.
There are no titles inherited there,
No hoard or hope for the brainless heir,
No gilded dullard native born
To stare at his fellow with leaden scorn.
Bohemia has none but adopted sons;
Its limits, where fancy's bright stream runs;
Its honors, not garnered for thrift or trade,
But for truth and beauty men's souls have made.
To the empty heart in a jeweled breast
There is value maybe in a purchased crest:
But the thirsty of soul soon learn to know
The zoolsless froth of the social show;
The vulgar sham of the pompous feast,
Where the heaviest purse is the highest priest:
The organized charity scrimped and iced,
In the name of a cautious, statistical Christ;
The smile restrained, the respectable cant,
When a friend in need is a friend in want:
When the only aim is to keep afloat
And a brother may drown with a cry in his throat.
Oh, I long for a glow of a kindly heart,
And the grasp of a friendly hand,
And I'd rather live in Bohemia than in any other land.
—John Boyle O'Reilly.

The Weather.

Us farmers in the country, as seasons go and come,
Is purty much like other folks—we're apt to grumble some!
The spring's too back'ard fer us er too for'ard—any one—
We'll jaw about it anyhow and have our way er none!
The thaw's set in too suddent, er the frost's stand in the soil
Too long to give the wheat a chance, and crops is bound to spoil!
The weather's either most too mild er too outrageous rough,
And altogether too much rain er not half rain enough!

Now what I'd like and what you'd like is plain enough to see;
It's jest to have old Providence drop round on you and me
And ast us what our views is first regardin shine er rain
And pon 'em when to shet er off er let 'er on again!
And yit I'd ruther, after all—considerin other chores
I got on hands, a-tendin both to my affairs and yours—
I'd ruther miss the blame I'd git a-rulin things up there
And spend my extry time in praise and gratitude and prayer.
—James Whitcomb Riley.

Rapid Transit.

The first train leaves at six p. m.
For the land where the poppy blows.
The mother dear is the engineer,
And the passenger laughs and crows.

The palace car is the mother's arms;
The whistle a low, sweet strain.
The passenger winks and nods and blinks
And goes to sleep on the train.

At eight p. m. the next train starts
For the poppy land afar.
The summons clear falls on the ear,
"All aboard for the sleeping car!"

But what is the fare to poppy land?
I hope it is not too dear.
The fare is this—a hug and a kiss,
And it's paid to the engineer.

So I ask of Him who children took
On His knee in kindness great:
"Take charge, I pray, of the trains each day
That leave at six and eight.

"Keep watch on the passengers," thus I pray,
"For to me they are very dear;
And special ward, O gracious Lord,
O'er the gentle engineer."
—St. Louis Star-Sayings.

Charity.

He who sits
And looks out on the palpitating world
And feels his heart swell in him large enough
To hold all men within it, he is near
His great Creator's standard, though he dwells
Outside the pale of churches and knows not
A feast day from a fast day, or a line
Of Scripture even. What God wants of us
Is that outreaching bigness that ignores
All littleness of aims or loves or creeds
And clasps all earth and heaven in its embrace.
—Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

A Recipe For a Day.

Take a little dash of water cold,
And a little leaven of prayer,
And a little bit of sunshine gold
Dissolved in the morning air.

Add to your meal some merriment,
Add a thought for kith and kin,
And then, as a prime ingredient,
A plenty of work thrown in.

But spice it all with the essence of love
And a little whiff of play
Let a wise old book and a glance above
Complete the well spent day.
—Housekeeper.

Disillusionment.

The cooling draft your fancy craved
Slips tasteless down your eager throat:
The singer over whom you raved
Gives out a hoarse and rancous note;
The prize, to have which you would free,
Tastes bitter to your palate still;
The kiss you hungered so to get
Gave you no fascinating thrill;
The moments which seemed best to you
When realized seemed all too tame—
And the happiest hours you ever knew
Were the hours that never came.
—Chicago News-Record.

Duty.

And rank for her meant duty, various,
Yet equal in its worth, done worthily.
Command was service. Humblest service done
By willing and discerning souls was glory.
—George Eliot.

Good violins improve with use and age. If Stradivarius had made Pianos as well as violins, no one would care to own one of the former unless as a curiosity. There is little new in violin making, but there is something new every year in Piano making. Take care you do not buy a Piano simply because it was famous. When any Piano of ancient name and fame we invite you to compare the Steinway, Gabler, Vose, Sterling and Braumuller Pianos. They contain all new improvements that are desirable. They are up to date.

BREACH OF PROMISE.

A Senator's Widow Sues a New England Bank President.

BOSTON, Oct. 5.—The breach of promise case of Mrs. Anna D. Van Houten vs. Asa P. Morse was given to the jury yesterday afternoon. This interesting case has been rendered more interesting by the action taken by Judge Parker of the supreme court, before whom the case was tried, in ordering that no newspaper report of comment on the case should be made until the conclusion of the trial. A formal order to that effect was sent to the newspaper offices, and it has been complied with. After the jury had retired Judge Barker announced that the newspapers might print the evidence. The trial has occupied seven days.

Asa P. Morse, the defendant, is 75 years of age. He is president of the Cambridgeport National bank, has been for many years a member of the school board in Cambridge, has been in both houses of the Massachusetts legislature. He is reported to be worth between $200,000 and $300,000. He is a widower with two daughters living. Mrs. Anna Van Houten is 38 years of age and quite attractive of form and feature. She was divorced in 1889 from a senator in the state of Washington. Her husband got a divorce at the same time.

The plaintiff claimed that the defendant proposed marriage and she accepted him May 14, 1891; that he bought her a $500 engagement ring and her wedding dress; that all relations were finally broken off by him suddenly early in 1892. She claimed that she told him truthfully that she was a divorced woman and why.

The defence claimed that the only promise to marry, if there was a promise, was under conditions which were never fulfilled; that she never told the defendant that her husband secured a divorce from her; thas she concealed important facts about her parentage and early life.

The jury returned a verdict of $40,000 for plaintiff. Exceptions were at once filed by defendant.

FEWER PENSIONERS.

An Interesting Statement Prepared at the Pension Bureau.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—The highwater mark as to the number of pensioners on the rolls and the amount of money to be expended per year has evidently been reached.

A statement prepared at the pension bureau shows that on July 1, 1893, there were 966,012 pensioners of all kinds being borne upon the rolls. On September 1, 1893, two months afterwards, there were only 964,898, showing a net decrease during that time of 1,614 pensioners. This is an average net decrease of 807 per month, and if extended through the year would show a net decrease of 9,684.

This is the first time in thirty-three years, since the war, that a net decrease to the rolls has been shown. It is estimated at the bureau that the loss to the rolls during the present fiscal year by death, remarriage, minors reaching the non-pensionable age, etc., will reach 50,000 as against 35,000 last year. And it is thought that the additions to the rolls will not reach more than 40,000.

These figures mark an epoch in pension matters long expected, but has required about thirty years to reach.

THE LOST ALVO.

Information Which Leaves Little Doubt of Her Fate.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Capt. E. T. Selders, of the Atlas line steamship Alene, just arrived, brings with him the information which almost certainly settles any question as to the fate of the missing Alvo. He says there can be no doubt whatever that the missing steamer went down in collision on August 19 or the next day, when only three days out from New York. He gives also a ray of hope that there may be two or three survivors of the disaster, and possibly quite a number, but it is a very faint ray.

On board the Alene is the lifeboat marked "Alvo," which was picked up by the steamship Jason on her voyage from this port to Montego bay. The Jason sailed on Sep. 14. The Alvo's lifeboat was transferred to Captain Selders at Kingston, Jamaica.

THE WRIGHTLY MURDER.

Burt Has a Long Talk with Doylestown Officers.

DOYLESTOWN, Pa., Oct. 5.—When the constable who arrested Burt, the suspected Newtown murderer, reached this city Tuesday he took his prisoner to the office of District Applebach, where a warrant was sworn out before a justice and at once served.

The prisoner expressed a desire to talk with the district attorney, and that official and the constable retired to a private office where the three men were together for an hour or more. Neither Mr. Applebach nor the constable will give a hint as to what took place there, but it is generally supposed that a confession, or at least important statements were made by Burt. At the conclusion of the conference the prisoner was taken to jail.

Missionary Thornton Killed.

LEWISTON, Me., Oct. 5.—A cablegram was received yesterday by the friends of missionary Harrison R. Thornten, of the neighboring town of Auburn, who has been, with his wife, in Alaska since April, 1892, saying that he was shot and killed by natives Aug. 20 last, and that Mrs. Thornton had embarked for San Francisco with the remains, en route to Auburn.

The Lien Against the Vigilant.

NEW YORK, Oct., 5.—A satisfaction of the lien against the cup defender Vigilant, which was for $500 and in favor of John L'Hommedieu, president of the towing company to which belonged the two tugs that saved the yacht from going ashore at New Rochelle in August last, has been filed with the county clerk.

Hill Not at the Convention.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Senator David B. Hill went to Washington yesterday after the delegations from this city to the Democratic state convention started for Saratoga. Senator Hill will not be at the convention.

Signed With the Bostons.

BOSTON, Oct. 5.—James Bannon, late with the St. Louis Browns, yesterday signed a contract to play with the Boston baseball association, making the fourth player secured for the Boston nine of 1894.

HIS AFFIDAVIT.

It Will Make People Believe His Wonderful Story.

SUBSCRIBED TO BY ONE OF NEW YORK'S MOST PROMINENT JUSTICES.

Here Is the Whole Matter Exactly As It Happened.

State of New York, } ss
County of Washington, }

Lucien Rodd of Whitehall, N. Y., being by me duly sworn, deposes and says that some years ago he suffered very greatly with insomnia, nervous prostration and his body was covered with sores, causing him great pain and annoyance. That his head was so covered with sores that he was hardly able to comb or even brush his hair, so great was the pain it occasioned.

That he consulted the local physicians without successful result; that he took quantities of medicine without no benefit whatever; that physicians told him his disease was incurable and he had come to the same conclusion himself and had made up his mind to go to a hospital and await death.

That just about this time he learned about Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, which he began to use. That this remedy entirely relieved and cured him, healed and dried up his sores, enabled him to sleep soundly and comfortably, and restored him to his ordinary vigor and vitality, in short, made a sound and well man of him so that he was fully able to work at his occupation and has done so since that time.

That he attributes his recovery to Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, as it restored him when everybody and everything else had failed and he had been given over to go to the hospital and die.

Mr. Rodd makes this statement voluntarily and cheerfully out of sincere gratitude for what the remedy has wrought for him.

LUCIEN RODD.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 15th day of January, A. D. 1893, and I certify the affiant to be a credible and reliable person whose statements may be accepted with confidence and implicitly relied upon, having known him personally for the last twenty-five years, and that I have no interest, direct or indirect, immediate or remote in this matter.

HON. WM. H. TEFFT.
Notary Public in and for said county and state, residing at Whitehall, where this deposition was taken and executed.

(SEAL)

Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy is purely vegetable and is sold by druggists for $1.00. As is proven by the wonderful cure of Mr. Rodd, it is the very best medicine possible to take for the blood, nerves, liver, kidneys, etc. It is the discovery and prescription of Dr. Greene, of 35 W. 14th st., New York, the most successful specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases. The doctor can be consulted free, personally or by letter.

Deeds of Aspiration.

What though your lot in life seems poor and small?
What though in great accomplishment you fail?
Let not the thought of this your soul appall,
Nor think your days are spent without avail.

A noble aspiration is a deed
Though unachieved, and he who judges man
Upon his lofty throne will give it heed,
And all will be rewarded as they plan.
—John Kendrick Bangs.

Prudence.

I would not climb the mountain high,
Ah, no!
Those dizzy steps let others try;
Let swift and strong both pass me by;
In vales of calm humility
Content I'll go.

I would not sail the mighty deep,
Nay, nay!
Where tempests wild the billows sweep,
And ocean's monsters roll and leap;
Obscurity's safe shores I'll keep,
Nor farther stray.
—New Orleans Picayune.

Love Above All.

Whether climbing life's hill by a stony path
Or calmly treading the vale below,
With cheerful content she will meet her lot
If a true heart loves her and tells her so.

You may give her your houses, your lands, your gold;
Failing the jewel of love to bestow,
She'll envy the poorest woman she knows
Who has some one to love her and tells her so.

Adown her life stream she may peacefully glide
Or against the winds be forced to row;
Whatever befalls her she'll fearlessly face
Beside one who loves her and tells her so.
—Harriet Newell Swanwick.

LACK OF WIND SPOILS THE RACE

Yachts Fail to Cover the Course Within the Six Hour Limit.

VALKYRIE LEADS NEARLY TWO MILES

English Sailors Outgeneral Their American Antagonists—Thousands of Excited Spectators Witness the Contest—Nobody Yet Able to Tell How the Yachts Would Compare Under Suitable Breezes—The Race Postponed Until Saturday.

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—Lack of wind made the first of the international yacht races a failure. Thousands of enthusiastic citizens had a delightful day's outing on the water, and saw Lord Dunraven's Valkyrie, the pride of Great Britain, sail past our cup defender and the Vigilant creep up on the British boat whenever the wind held steady. They saw the Valkyrie gain a big advantage by being better handled, and they saw both boats after sailing 30 miles out of the 30 in five hours and a half give up the race, as it was impossible to finish inside of six hours, the limit set by the cup committee. It was more of a drifting match than a race. The wind at no time reached the dignity of a sailing breeze. It was fitful at that, and the race which was intended by the cup committee to be 15 miles to leeward and beat to windward home, was all before the wind, except a four-mile close reach for the turning buoy. The race was started with the wind from the north. It ended with the wind from the south. The thousands of enthusiastic yachtsmen saw the Valkyrie at one time nearly two miles in the lead, and some of them were glad that the wind failed to carry the the boats over the course in the six hours, as had it freshened toward the last the English cutter would, in all probability, have won the race. More fair minded yatchsmen recognized the superior way in which John Bull's sailors outgeneraled Uncle Sam's tars and regretted that the English boat won only an empty victory.

The crews of the two yachts were astir at dawn. All unnecessary truck was put off on the tenders, and the boats made ready for the contest. The skippers looked dubiously at the sky and were disappointed, as both wanted a good strong wind. A few minutes after 8 o'clock the Vigilant's anchor went up and in tow of the tug Commander she passed through the Narrows. On her were C. Oliver Iselin and Perry Belmont, of the syndicate of owners; Capt. Hansen, her skipper; Duncan Kew, the representative of Lord Dunraven; Capt. Terry, Herbert Leeds and Newberry D. Thorne. The Valkyrie followed in tow of the tug Louis Pulver ten minutes later. On board of her was a distinguished party, including the earl of Dunraven, her owner; the marquis of Ormonde, the Hon. Herbert Longrishe, H. Maitland Kersey and Designer Watson. The New York yacht club was represented on the Valkyrie by Rear-Commodore J. Archibald Rogers, head of the syndicate which built the Colonia. The yachts were saluted by tugs and incoming ocean steamers as they passed down the bay and proceeded out to the Sandy Hook lightship. They were followed by Commodore Morgan's steam yacht May with the cup committee on board. With the committee on the May was secretary of the navy Herbert.

The Start.

The Vigilant arrived at the lightship ahead of the Valkyrie and ran up mainsail, club topsail and jib. The Valkyrie spent considerable time getting her mainsail up. Both boats were magnates which drew a lot of tugs and excursion boats around them while they manoeuvred for position at the start. The boats which surrounded the crack racers presented a fine spectacle. It was like a floating city. The boats formed a circle around the starting line, and while they left a wide course for the racers, they crowded each other out of place, and occasionally bumped sides in their endeavor to get the best view. The boats with photographers and newspaper men kept in front, and a score of police boats chased each other about ordering other boats to keep off. The crowds on the excursion boats cheered again and again during the wait out by the lightship for the starting signal. The excursion boats kept to the north of the lightship.

The sun had broken through the clouds at 11 o'clock and dispelled the mist. The sea was like glass, and the people on the big ocean steamships wondered why they had taken such precautions when little boats like the Javelin and Norwood were darting about. The start was a pretty one, as the spinnakers were broken out just before crossing the line and the two tall single-stickers presented a fine appearance as they stood down toward the Jersey coast. The flotilla of boats formed two lines and enclosing the yachts in the procession accompanied them to turn.

The wind had scarcely started them on their 15 mile journey before it died away almost to a calm. Now it became a mere drifting match for the sails of both boats hung limp and lifeless, and the great snow white spinnaker of the Englishman almost dragged in the water. Whatever air there was could not reach either yacht owing to the numberless excursion boats, which crowded in upon the racers. The Valkyrie was the first to hang out a sign "Keep further astern," followed by the Vigilant with a more emphatic demand to "Keep off." These requests had the desired effect, and as the attendant craft stood off, the racers seemed to forge ahead a trifle faster. For the first hour of the race there was scarcely any perceptible change in the relative positions of the two yachts. The Englishman did his best to crawl up on the weather quarter of the American and thus steal away his wind. He was not speedy enough, however, and though he steered a course a little to windward, failed to close up the gap, but gradually fell further astern until at the end of an hour and a half he was at least twice as far behind the American as he was at the start. The Valkyrie seemed to have made a wise move in not setting her balloon jib topsail, for the Vigilant's was doing little or no good, being apparently becalmed by her spinnaker. The Englishman's against, however, was to blanket the American, and this he was endeavoring to do with all his might and main.

Turning Point of the Race.

At 1:15 o'clock the wind began to haul to the south'ard and west'ard and the Vigilant took in her spinnaker and jib topsail, and seemed to lay right in the wind's eye. The Valkyrie hung on to her spinnaker, however, and rapidly overtook the Vigilant, passing her at 1:25, just two hours after the start. While the Valkyrie hauled by the wind on the starboard tack, set her jib and stay-sail, and shot ahead, steering to the south'ard and west'ard. The Vigilant, for some unknown reason, made no effort to haul by the wind, but retained all of her head sails, while she eased off on her main sheet until everyone believed that she had met with an accident and had decided to give up the race. There was evidently a strong tide under her weatherbow, for it threw her head off to the east'ard and she drifted bodily to leeward. After losing almost a mile the American came up in the wind and headed after her English rival. This gain of the Valkyrie's was probably the turning point of the race, and the seamanship displayed on the American boat was lamentably poor. If the tide did catch her on the weatherside and force her head around to the east'ard, as everyone seemed to think, there is no reason in the world why skipper Hansen should not have hauled down his head sails, lowered his boom, and used every device known to sailors to bring his vessel by the wind. It was this alone, more than any favoring breeze to the Valkyrie, that took the Vigilant the race. After paying off until she headed almost in the opposite direction, the American managed to haul by the wind on the starboard tack and stood for the mark. The breeze seemed to freshen a trifle and the Englishman increased his lead at every moment.

The Finish.

After the yachts had doubled the mark and eased away for home, the wind became much lighter, and when the Valkyrie took in her spinnaker at 4:15, she seemed to be almost in the doldrums. Two miles astern came the Vigilant with her sails quite full apparently bringing up a freshening breeze. This gave new hope to her friends, and for a time it looked as though she would actually overtake the English boat before the finish. When the gap had been closed to about one half the Valkyrie seemed to feel the impulse of the breeze which the Vigilant was bringing up with her, and rapidly shot ahead, keeping about one mile away. About four-thirty the tug Luckenbach came alongside of the Englishman and kept company with her for a half hour. This told the story of the race, viz—that the boats being unable to finish within the time limit of six hours, would give it up before crossing the finish, and that the Luckenbach had been instructed to tow in the visitor. The Vigilant was the first to announce her intention of giving up the unsatisfactory contest, which she did by hauling down her jib topsail, and taking a line from the tug Commander. The Valkyrie did likewise, being taken in tow by the tug Luckenbach. At this time, the Englishman was leading the American by one mile, which added to the allowance of one minute 48 seconds, gave the Valkyrie really a lead of a mile and a half. Had the boats continued to the starting point, there is no doubt that the Valkyrie would have held her advantage, barring flukes and shifts of wind, and the race resulted in a victory for Lord Dunraven's cutter.

After the race was over the committee announced that the next race will be on Saturday. It will be over the same course and will be the first race postponed from yesterday.

The Brazilian War.

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—The Hon. H. Conger, ex-United States minister to Brazil, who was a passenger on the steamer Wordsworth which arrived yesterday, states very little fighting had been going on prior to his departure. The navy was entirely in the hands of Admiral Mello. The army was loyal to President Peixoto. Congress was then in session. Private property had received but little damage.

National Bank Notes Without Security.

Congressman Harter of Ohio Explains His Novel Bill—Plan to Issue Emergency Currency to Tide Over Panics—A $900,000,000 Mistake.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—Yesterday Representative Harter of Ohio again appeared before the committee on banking and currency, this time in advocacy of his bill authorizing the issue of national bank notes without security, up to 75 per cent. of unimpaired capital stock. The practical result of the application of this principle would be, he said, to double the banking capital of the country. Mr. Harter would secure the note holders of failed banks by a tax upon all national banks within the state where the failed bank was located, and he would further provide that the government shall have a first lien upon assets of the failed banks from which to make up the fund to pay note holders.

One section of the bill provides for the issue of what is denominated "emergency" circulation. This may be issued up to 50 per cent. of the capital stock of the bank, secured by United States notes, and be subject to a tax of 6 per cent. while in circulation. This would provide against desperate emergencies suddenly arising, such as the United States had experienced in the past few months. The high rate of taxation imposed would compel a withdrawal of the notes as soon as the necessity for their issuance ceased to exist.

Mr. Harter, in answer to questions by members of the committee, said that he believed the system of joint liability proposed for the national banks of a state as security for the note holders, was perfectly feasible, and would not prevent capitalists from going into the banking business. He instanced the fact that under the old state bank system in Ohio, with branches all over the state, the liability of all the branches for the operations of any one of them, was much greater than he proposed for national banks. Yet, under that system, and with a supervision far less strict than that of the government over national banks, there was such a demand for bank charters as to cause a high price to be paid for them.

Members of the committee frankly expressed their doubts that the men would put their money into a business where the partnership is limited to a liability alone, with no voice in management, and participation in profits being explicity precluded. Before the committee adjourned Chairman Springer called attention to a grave error in a pamphlet issued by the senate committee on finance, giving a history of the national bank system. It contained a table showing the changes in national bank statistics, by which it was made to appear that in the last seven months of the fiscal year deposits in national banks had decreased in round numbers from two thousand million dollars to one thousand millions. A letter from Comptroller Eckels to Mr. Springer explained that the apparent decrease was a typographical error, and that the real facts were that the decrease was only from two thousand millions to one thousand nine hundred millions, or about one hundred millions.

The committee adjourned until Monday next, at which time Representative Lester, of Georgia, will be heard.

NEW YORK REPUBLICANS.

State Convention to Meet at Syracuse To-Day.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Oct. 6.—The programme of the republican state convention has been taking shape rapidly. The arrival of ex-senator Thomas C. Platt changed the aspect of affairs. Mr. Platt's first declaration was to the effect that the work of the convention need not occupy more than one day. He declared himself opposed to the waiting policy and dismissed the idea that the plans of the republicans could in any event be affected by the proceedings of the democrats. Having taken his position in favor of a short convention the republican leader began the preliminary work necessary to the realization of his plan.

Tried to Cremate Her.

CAMDEN, N. J., Oct. 6.—Oliver Server while in a drunken frenzy beat his housekeeper, Lydia Smith, in a brutal manner, locked her in a closet and set fire to the carpet with the intention of cremating her. The woman's cries attracted the neighbors, and she was rescued. Server was arrested after a hard fight with the police and locked up.

Winter Saloons for Cape May.

CAPE MAY, N. J., Oct. 6.—City council yesterday granted six winter saloon licenses, thereby greatly agitating the temperance people of the community. The licenses granted during the summer season expired Wednesday and the barrooms closed. A strong but futile effort was made to prevent the granting of winter licenses.

HAZING AT PRINCETON.

Five Sophomores Implicated and Liable to Expulsion.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 6.—The college authorities have secured evidence enough in the hazing affair to implicate a half score or more of sophomores. At a special meeting of the faculty committee the charge of hazing freshman Leopold was preferred against five members of the sophomore class. They could give no satisfactory account of their whereabouts last Monday night and virtually admitted participation in the scheme to discipline freshman Leopold for his freshness. At the close of the examination one of the quartet packed his effects and left town in anticipation of a sentence of expulsion. The others are pretty sure to follow though the sentence of suspension must be ratified by a full meeting of the faculty.

It was learned that two of the sophomores implicated are football players. President Patton and Dean Murray are thoroughly aroused and say that no effort will be spared to discover and discipline the hazing offenders.

The indignation of the students at the publication of the sensational report of Leopold's supposed drowning has not abated. The college paper declared that the author could only be an enemy of Princeton college.

OKLAHOMA FRAUDS.

Captain Stiles of the Army to be Court Martialed.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—Charges made by citizens of Oklahoma City of alleged misconduct on the part of Captain Daniel F. Stiles, U. S. A. (retired) in connection with the opening up of Oklahoma to settlement, had their effect in the issue of an order by the secretary of war for the court-martial of Captain Stiles. He is charged with fraud in using his official position while in command of the troops near Oklahoma City in 1892 to secure control of some of the best land sites in the territory; and with making a bargain with an auctioneer by which he purchased at very low rates, government buildings and other property sold when the military camp was broken up. The court-martial will meet at Fort Reno, Oklahoma, with Col. H. C. Merriam, 7th infantry, as president. Delegate Flynn of Oklahoma, who is an associate with Captain Stiles in a bank at Oklahoma city, was heard by the secretary in opposition to the action now being taken.

NEW YORK DEMOCRATS.

Their Convention Meets and Adjourns Until To-Day.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Oct. 6.—The Democratic state convention was called to order at noon by Senator Edward Murphy, jr., of Troy. There were about 2,000 spectators, and the platform was crowded with prominent Democrats.

Daniel N. Lockwood was made temporary chairman, and his speech was frequently interrupted by applause.

Nothing but routine business was transacted. This included the reception of notices of contests and their reference to the committee on credentials.

At 1:40 p. m., on motion of Mayor Gilroy, of New York, the convention adjourned until 10 a. m., when the committee on credentials will report and the convention settle down to business.

The Charleston is now in Rio harbor; the Newark is due there about the 15th inst., and the Detroit will probably reach Rio about the 20th.

DEMOCRATS AROUSED

Fight Over Nominations in the Senate.

Senator Hill Said to Have Aided the Republicans in Opposition—Caucus of Democratic Representatives to Consider the Federal Election Bill.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—With a six hours continuous executive session the senate yesterday broke the record of the last congress, but in so doing managed to dispose of considerable business and get out of the way a number of nominations against which the republicans have been making a determined resistance. The session was the result of an agreement and produced some surprises.

The struggle was over certain nominations of citizens from one state selected to act as Indian agents at agencies located in other states and the republicans opposed their confirmation on the general ground that such nominations were a violation of the home rule plank of the democratic party platform, but added to this was the further charge in some cases that the nominees were not qualified for the position. The surprise of the day came in the reported action of Senator Hill who is understood to have aided the republicans not only by his vote but by his voice. The Indian agents under discussion were all confirmed but one, two or three democrats voting with the republicans.

The men confirmed are William L. Hargrive of Indiana to be Indian agent at Western Shoshone agency, Nevada; Joseph Robinson of Missouri at Ned Perces agency, Idaho; Robert M. Allen of Illinois at White Earth agency, Minnesota, and James Smith of Mississippi at Yankton, S. D. Perhaps the most bitter fight was made against Isaac Wooten of Delaware, nominated to be agent at the Nevada agency. His case was laid over without final action.

The same opposition manifested itself against the confirmation of Thomas Smith of Virginia, nominated to be chief justice of New Mexico, but after a discussion of more than half an hour the vote was taken resulting in his confirmation. It is understood that an effort was made to have the favorable report on the nomination of R. R. Preston, to be director of the mint, taken up for action, but Mr. Stewart and other silver senators took such a determined stand against it that it went over and will be called up probably at the next executive session.

The senate yesterday devoted but fifteen minutes in open session. Hill (dem., N. Y.) gave notice that he would offer an amendment to the rules, providing that a paired senator, on a yea and nay vote shall be entered on the journal and counted as present for the purpose of constituting a quorum.

In the house interest in the debate on the federal election bill does not increase and empty benches on both sides of the chamber are the rule and not the exception. At no time yesterday were more than 100 members present.

The speeches were made by Mr. Murray (rep., S. C.) and Mr. Haines (rep., Neb.) in the negative and by Mr. Russell (dem., Ga.) and Mr. Money (dem. Miss.) in the affirmative.

The fact having become known that the democrats would hold a caucus to discuss the propriety of passing the bill before the senate had agreed to the Wilson-Voorhees bill may have had something to do with the listlessness manifested. When the house adjourned there were not more than 20 members in attendance. Prior to the consideration of the election bill some routine business was transacted.

The democratic members of the house will meet in caucus next Monday night to consider the federal election bill. The caucus will be called to consider certain amendments proposed in the bill, but its principal object will be to determine whether it is policy to send the bill to the senate pending a disposition of the Sherman law repeal by that body.

Representative Tucker, author of the bill now being discussed in the house, says that the caucus was called for the purpose of determining whether or not the democratic party was earnestly and entirely in favor of the repeal of the election laws as demanded by the platform. "We are either in favor of their repeal, or we are not," said Mr. Tucker, "and we might as well find out just how we stand. If Mr. Fitch's bill is to be adopted as the party measure, it seems to me we might as well abandon the fight. If his bill incorporates all that is objectionable, then we've got no case. I am perfectly well satisfied, however, that the caucus will make a satisfactory declaration on the subject."

Mr. Tucker said the caucus would represent the friends of both measures, his own and Mr. Fitch's, as he understood the call had been initiated by those in favor of the Fitch bill.

The vote on the bill and pending amendments is to be taken at noon next Tuesday. So far but one amendment has been offered, by Mr. Lacey, of Iowa. This is said to be largely identical with the bill drawn by Representative Fitch, chairman of the committee reporting the Tucker bill, and which he has proposed as a substitute therefor. It differs from the Tucker bill in that it leaves on the statute book sections 2002 to 2010, inclusive, which the Tucker bill repeals, along with all others relating to the appointment of supervisors and deputy marshals.

The populists of the house have not yet decided how they will vote on the federal election bill; but they will hold a conference Saturday, when their course will be mapped out.

A LIVELY AFTERNOON.

BUTCHER VOGELER HAS A TUSSLE WITH HIS HORSE.

From Stable to Auction and Back Again It Was One Continuous Tug of War, with the Equine Several Laps Ahead at the Smashup.

August G. Vogeler, the Front street butcher, had an adventurous time, yesterday afternoon, and ran the gauntlet of a series of accidents from which he was lucky to escape with a whole skin.

Vogeler started early in the afternoon to attend an auction sale at W. H. Riley's, Stony Hill.

When he was hitching up his horse in the stable the animal became fractious, and was unmanageable till Vogeler subdued him by whipping. Having at last reduced the horse to a state of apparent subjection, he started on the road to Stony Hill, accompanied by a friend. In due time they arrived at their destination, and attended the auction, at which Vogeler bought a set of harness. On the way home, the horse, like the Pope's mule, which treasured a kick for seven years, saw his opportunity to be revenged, and started to run so that in spite of all the efforts of the driver the beast ran into the road bank against a rock, throwing himself and breaking the harness to bits. The men got the horse up and put on the new harness and started off again. But the horse was not to be pacified and soon ran again, with the bit in his teeth, this time with disastrous results. The wagon was upset and smashed, the men were thrown out, and parts of the new harness were broken. The men picked themselves up and made their way back towards Stony Hill, where they hired a rig and returned to the scene of the disaster. Here they put the two sets of harness in the hired rig, and, tying the refractory animal at the back of the wagon, they again started for home. Arriving at the Notch, they found that the tail-board had dropped, so that fragments of the harness were strewn along on the road to Stony Hill. With deep disgust they went once more over the road and picked up the pieces of harness. Both men are sore, metaphorically and literally, today, and are not anxious to repeat the experience.

Surely there was success in the scheme. Is it to be forgotten?

GEMS IN VERSE.

Mollie's Problems.

There's lots of things I cannot understand,
It really makes no matter how I try.
One's why the brown comes on my little hand
Because the sun is hot up in the sky.

I never understood why birds eat worms
Instead of pie and puddings full of plums.
I can't see why a baby always squirms
Or why big boys are 'fraid of little sums.

I cannot understand why doggies bark
Instead of talking sense like you and me,
And why the sun don't shine when it is dark,
Instead of when it's light, I cannot see.

I wonder what it is makes children grow,
And why they have no wings like little flies.
But puzzlingest of all the things I know
Is why grandma wears windows on her eyes.
—John Kendrick Bangs.

A Transmigration of Souls.

It was whispered by the sages
Of the prehistoric ages,
When all newspapers and telegrams and letters were unknown,
That the heathen gods felt jealous—
So the ancient legends tell us—
When the happiness of mortals was more perfect than their own.

In the days that I have quoted
You and I, dear, were devoted
To each other with a fervor that we never, never see
In this age of shams and shoddies,
For our souls were Grecian bodies
And found life a very pleasant thing in sunny Arcady.

So the heathen gods grew spiteful,
As our lot was so delightful,
And they said: "These twain shall live again when worldliness is rife.
And when we are out of fashion
They shall nurse a hopeless passion
And shall learn that 'Love' counts 'nothing' in the game of human life."

Yet we love again today, dear,
In the old ecstatic way, dear,
Though we see each other rarely and our paths lie far apart.
Ancient gods and modern London
Have been overthrown and undone
When they tried alike their utmost to expel you from my heart.

And my people ask politely
How a friend I know so lightly
Can be more to me than others I have liked a year or so?
But they cannot solve the mystery
Of our transmigration's history,
And they've no idea I loved you those millenniums ago.
—Ellen Thorneycroft Fowler.

The Bore.

Again I hear the creaking step!
He's rapping at the door!
Too well I know the boding sound
That ushers in a bore.
I do not tremble when I meet
The stoutest of my foes,
But heaven defend me from the friend
Who comes, but never goes.

He drops into my easy chair
And asks about the news,
He peeps into my manuscript
And gives his candid views.
He tells me where he likes the line
And where he's forced to grieve!
He takes the strangest liberties,
But never takes his leave.

He talks about his fragile health
And tells me of his pains;
He suffers from a score of ills,
Of which he ne'er complains,
And how he struggled once with death
To keep the fiend at bay;
On themes like those away he goes—
But never goes away.

He tells me of the carping words
Some shallow critic wrote,
And every precious paragraph
Familiarly can quote.
He thinks the writer did me wrong:
He'd like to run him through!
He says a thousand pleasant things,
But never says "Adieu!"
—J. G. Saxe.

Philosophy.

You say that I love my life
Too well, and it may be so.
I love its peace, I love its strife,
Its glamour, its gleam, its glow;

The mountains, the ocean's wrath,
The tiniest stream that sings;
The robins that flit across my path,
The flash of the eagle's wings.

I am glad when the day is born
And glad when the day is done;
I kiss my hand at the rosy morn
And smile at the setting sun.

The blossom will fall to dust
That I wear on my breast today;
Tomorrow will give me roses just
As fresh and fair and gay.

Loving my life so well,
You think I must dread to go
To the strange beyond. Nay, nay, I tell
You, just as I long to know

All the fullness that can befide
This life of mortal breath,
All joy and pain, since men have died
I, too, would taste of death.

It is worth one's while to live
Just to look on the sea and sky;
And just to know what death can give
It is worth one's while to die.
—Carlotta Perry.

I have been a sufferer from catarrh for years. Having tried a number of remedies advertised as "sure cures" without obtaining any relief, I had resolved never to take any other patent medicines, when a friend advised me to try Ely's Cream Balm. I did so with great reluctance, but can now testify that after using it for six weeks I believe myself cured. It is a most agreeable remedy—an invaluable Balm.—Joseph Stewart, 56 Grand avenue, Brooklyn.

THE ABDUCTION CASE.

ADAM STUTTS ON TRIAL FOR ABETTING.

Farmer Kilner's Daughter Tells the Story of Her Wrongs—Marshal Pangborn on the Stand When the Court Adjourned.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

SOMERVILLE, Oct. 6.—In the Somerset Court of Special Sessions this morning Adam Stutts, of South Plainfield, formerly of Plainfield, was put on trial for aiding and abetting the fiend Randolph in abducting Farmer Kilner's thirteen-year-old daughter some weeks ago.

Last Tuesday Randolph retracted his plea of not guilty, and entered one of non vult. Stutts would not do this. Lawyer James J. Meehan is defending him. The court room was crowded to the doors with the riff-raff and gentlemen loafers of the town, who expected that testimony of a most savory description would be brought out in the case. Before the case was moved, a motion was made to quash the indictment on the ground that the indictment was defective in not charging Stutts as principal to the crime, and that the counts in the indictment were bad. After a long argument on both sides, the court decided that the motion could not be granted. The court said "We may be wrong, but we must do something". An exception was taken by the defense. The case was then moved by the State and the jury drawn. Joseph L. M. DeFour of North Plainfield was excused by the defense.

In his opening speech, Prosecutor Steele said that this was "a case of more aggravation than is ordinarily the case. Here a little girl is taken away by two men for the purpose of seducing her. The two men, Randolph and Stutts, went to Kilner's house several times to get the girl away. On the Monday night in question they went there with a wagon. She came down stairs at 11, to get a drink of water. Randolph induced her to go with him, and thirty feet from the house Stutts joined them. They got into the wagon and drove to White House, which they reached about 4 in the morning. All three remained in the wagon until near noon, when they drove to Glen Gardner, where Stutts left them. The next night they remained as man and wife at a hotel in Asbury, and from there went to Phillipsburg, where they were found by Marshal Pangborn."

The first witness called for the State was Annie Kilner, the wronged child. She said she was thirteen years old and had known the defendant five months. Randolph had asked her to go away with him the Sunday night before the 28th of August, and she said she she did not know if she would. On the 28th of August she went to the well to get a cup of water for her sisters. Randolph was waiting on the back porch for her, and told her to get ready as soon as she could. "I did so"—she continued—"and went with them to the wagon. I got in, and Stutts drove down the valley road through North Plainfield, through Washington Park, and up Somerset street, and so on through Dunellen and to White House, where the horse was tied under the church shed and we remained there until daylight, when we went on to High Bridge. We all slept in the wagon that night, then drove to Glen Gardner, where Stutts left us. Randolph told Stutts not to tell anyone where we were, and Stutts said 'Oh, yes: I will put on a Sunday face.' The next day we walked to Asbury, and returned to Glen Gardner that night, and occupied a room together in a hotel there. The next day we walked to West Portal and stayed together in a hotel there that night. The next day we went on to Phillipsburg, and then went to Mr. Hughes's hotel, where we took a room. That night Mr. Pangborn and Mr. Coleman came into the room at 2. [Here a little tiff between counsel occurred as to what evidence should be admitted.] "I came back with Mr. Pangborn to West Portal, and then went home with my father to Washingtonville."

On the cross-examination, Annie admitted having talked with Randolph many times. Mr. Meehan said "You did not want any water those nights!"

The record of Randolph's pleading guilty was then offered in evidence, and was objected to by the defense on the grounds that Randolph had not been sentenced and therefore the minutes were incomplete.

The next witness was Marshal Pangborn, who in a careful and methodical manner described how the girl's father had come and begged his assistance; and how he the marshal had given his time and attention to finding out what had become of the young girl. While he was testifying, the court adjourned for lunch.

The Victor Wheelmen.

The colored wheelmen of Plainfield who have shown their mettle in so many spirited races have organized a new club to be called the Victor Wheelmen of Plainfield. George Henry was chosen president, Alexander Ross vice-president, Edward Dillon secretary, Joseph Bouldin treasurer, and Israel Jones captain. Eighteen members have already been enrolled. Another meeting will be held next Monday night, at the residence of Israel Jones, for the enrollment of new members. Good luck attend them, and reward their efforts with success!

G. A. R. Reception.

The women of the Relief Corps, No. 10, will meet in regular session this evening, and after the usual routine of business they will give a reception to the members of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R.

THEIR EIGHTH.

Trinity C. E. Society Ends Another Prosperous Year.

The eighth anniversary of the Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church was happily observed last night.

The attendance was good, there being a large number of visitors. The new President, Fred Smith, made an address of welcome. Miss Phœbe Mills sang, accompanied by Miss Fannie Mattison. Banjo duets were given by Mrs. Buckley and Miss Boice of Dunellen, accompanied by Mrs. Charles Carpenter of Dunellen. Miss Bessie Blair sang. Other good music was rendered by the Male Quartette, Robert Clark, Ed Clark, Fred Cutter and Mr. Holmes. The room was prettily decorated with flags, bunting, autumn leaves holly berries and golden rod. The report of Miss Ella Fenner, treasurer, showed a good financial balance. Miss Fannie Mattison, secretary, made the following excellent report:

On this, the eighth anniversary of our society, it is appropriate that we review the work of the year in order that we may glean encouragement from our successes, and wisdom from our mistakes and failures. Through the efficiency of our Lookout Committee new members have been added to our list at every business meeting during the year, save one. We now number 126 active members and 14 associate.

The Prayer-meeting Committee has faithfully performed a duty which sometimes requires both patience and perseverance. In providing leaders for the regular Monday evening meetings. The average attendance at each of the 52 meetings held during the year is 80.

The Sunday-school Committee has rendered assistance to our good superintendent, in providing substitute teachers, and in entertaining the teachers at the quarterly meetings. The proceeds of a peach festival, amounting to $31, held recently under the auspices of this committee, has been donated to the school.

The Temperance Committee has provided for but two meetings during the year—one addressed by Miss Yates, the other by Mr. Mattison of New Brunswick.

The Social Committee has held a number of pleasant gatherings which aid in making our members better acquainted with each other.

The Flower Committee has taken a share in furnishing the decorations for the church.

Through the efforts of our Missionary Committee, $72.08 have been contributed to the Boards of Foreign and Domestic Missions, and $8.65 to the building fund of a Christian Endeavor church. In May a box of clothing was sent to the pupils of a colored school in Hillsboro, N. C.

If we sometimes feel that our numbers are small, and that our efforts are not crowned with the success which we could desire, let us remember for our encouragement, that, scattered over our own broad land and in other lands as well, are a million and a half of Christian Endeavorers; that we form a part of this army, and as drops make the ocean, so every earnest effort that we put forth helps to swell the tide of influence "for Christ and the church", which it is the aim of our organization to promote. Let us work for great results and expect great results.

If once all the lamps that are lighted
Should steadily blaze in a line,
Wide over the land and the ocean,
What a girdle of glory would shine!
How all the dark places would brighten,
How the mists would roll up and away,
How the earth would laugh out in her gladness,
To hail the millennial day! [ness,

Respectfully submitted,
FANNIE E. MATTISON,
Recording Secretary.

An abundance of ice-cream and cake was furnished to all.

Charley's Aunt.

"Charley's Aunt", Brandon Thomas's comedy which scored such an immense hit in London, was produced at the Standard Monday night. If a first night's verdict goes for anything, it will repeat its English success on this side of the water. No play half as funny has been produced here in years. The audience sat back in its seats and laughed as houses have not laughed at an English farce since the days of "The Private Secretary".

"Charley's Aunt" must be seen to be laughed at. It is a rollicking bit of fun without one objectionable line or action from start to finish. Etienne Geradot, the young English actor who played the part of Lord Fancourt Babberley, scored a triumph. After the second act he received six curtain calls. Mr. Geradot's performance of the bogus aunt is a genuine bit of comedy work. He makes the most gentlemanly lady New York has ever seen. In appearance Mr. Geradot reminds one of Weedon Grossmith, who played here seven or eight years ago. There are dull spots in the action here and there, but these, after the extreme hilarity, are rather a relief. They give one a chance to rest one's sides. Beyond all question "Charley's Aunt" is an immense success, and will have a big run. All Plainfield theatre-goers should hasten to see it.

A New and Wonderful Lamp.

Edward Miller & Co., 10 and 12 College place, New York, with factories at Meriden, Conn., recently patented and are about putting on the market a new lamp, trade-named the "Miller", which has so many new features that it appears to be a perfect lamp. Even though you may have gas or electricity, every reader of The Press should have a "Miller" lamp for a reading light. Edward Miller & Co. make a complete line of staple and fine designs in lamps, and it is worth your while to visit their showroom.

A Steam Laundry Now.

Messrs. Hillier & Co., of 175 North avenue, the well-known dyers and cleaners, have added to their works a steam laundry. With the best of facilities at their command, they propose to maintain the enviable reputation they have earned in the dyeing trade. The store on North avenue, opposite the station, is most conveniently situated for customers in leaving and calling for their work on the way to the trains.

For Their New Church.

The members of the Emmanuel Baptist church gave a musical and literary entertainment in the basement of Reform Hall, last evening. It was largely attended, and the receipts, which go to the building fund, were gratifying.

Miss Smith's Case Again.

In Justice Mosher's Court this morning the case of Fosgate against Nightingale, on contract, was adjourned for one week, and the old case of "Pretty Miss Smith" against Lederer, for salary, was adjourned again.

A VISION OF DELIGHT.

GLOWING SUCCESS OF ST. MARY'S CHURCH FAIR.

The Lyceum Rooms Crowded with Eager Pleasure-Seekers — Beautiful Decorations, Charming Maidens, Tempting Wares—Dancing, Bowling, and Angling for Curious Fishes, Among the Attractions.

The fair under the auspices of St. Mary's church, which was opened last evening in the Y. M. C. L. rooms, corner of Sixth and Liberty streets, was attended by a large crowd of gay young people who had evidently made up their minds to get all the enjoyment they possibly could in dancing, bowling, and the many other attractions afforded.

As one entered the hall flags and bunting greeted the eye on either side, the handiwork of M. J. Winn, and one was also greeted by many pretty maidens with books for chances on the different useful and ornamental articles to be disposed of during the fair.

To the right of the entrance was the blue booth, in charge of the Sodality Society of the church, where lamps, silverware, fancy articles, etc., were piled up in great stacks ready to be disposed of on the roulette table. This booth is presided over by Miss Katie Sheehan, Miss Mary Sheehan, Miss Culbert, Miss Maggie Carney, Miss Mercier, Miss Moore, Miss Annie Glennon, Miss Mary Glennon and Miss Maggie Sheehan, who were kept very busy in attending to the wants of the people who crowded around, all anxious to take home one or more of the beautiful articles if by chance their luck should so favor.

Next came the red booth, in charge of the Altar Society of the church, where one could purchase anything from a tidy to a handsome toilet set. The booth is in the hands of the following members of the society: Mrs. Slevin, Mrs. Higgins, Miss Kelly and Miss Monks.

Off in another portion of the building is a room devoted to refreshments, where ice-cream, cake, and other tempting delicacies, are served by Miss Maggie Flanagan, Miss Noda Casey, Miss Welsh, Miss McCue, Miss McNerney and Miss Lynch.

Another attraction is Miss Annie Slevin, as Rebecca at the well, who was a perfect picture in her Grecian costume of cream-colored silk, and who served the delicious lemonade very rapidly to the great throng that continually surrounded the well.

The fish-pond, where one can try his luck with rod and line, is looked after by the children of the Parochial school, who are kept very busy baiting and rebaiting the hooks.

The music for dancing, which is furnished by Frazee, is something which all declared could not be beaten, and the young people tripped the light fantastic to their hearts' content, although dancing was rather difficult owing to the large number of people present.

The Dancing Committee is composed of John J. Hibbitts and John Traynor.

Bowling is to be indulged in every evening, and many avail themselves of the opportunity to try their skill with the ball. The alleys are in charge of J. J. Lynch and Morris Higgins.

This evening the choir of St. Mary's church will entertain those present with a fine concert, in which many choice selections will be rendered.

Tomorrow evening the Flower Dance will be given by the young ladies who rendered it so artistically at St. Mary's School Commencement, under the artistic direction of Madame Lezem.

Fathers Smyth and Murphy were here, there and everywhere, continually looking to the comfort and enjoyment of all.

The fair will be continued every evening till Saturday, Oct. 14, and if last night's attendance can be taken as a criterion it is bound to be a grand success.

HORRORS OF THE STORM.

The List of Dead Will Reach Four teen Hundred.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 6.—Loss of life in the Bayou Cook will approximate 200. Scores of fishing smacks and luggers have been destroyed and the country swept clear of its houses.

Reliable news from Grand Isle reached here this morning and shows that the loss of life there will not exceed 25 and that strangely enough, all of these were colored people. The island had a miraculous escape, but that was due to the fact that the land upon it is higher than that of Cheniere and because it was less exposed and on account of the fickleness of the wind and waves.

Many houses were blown down, and the property damage will be about $100,000. On Grand Terre, part of the Livingston hotel which was built of brick and had massive foundation, caved off into the gulf while the Livingston lighthouse was unscathed.

The Cheniere population was 1,400 in round figures and the loss there is somewhat between 800 and 1,000. The Chinese camps on Bayou Sedat and Bayou Andre have suffered severely and many lives have been lost. It is fair to estimate, therefore, that between 1,100 and 1,400 persons perished in the storm. The property loss will be more than a million.

There were three or four hundred crafts engaged in the oyster and fish industry and one third or half of these have been wrecked, turned bottom up and lost.

REDUCING EXPENSES.

Sixty Clerks Dismissed From the Census Office.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—About 60 dismissals were made yesterday from the clerical force of the census office. Their places will not be filled. For some time past Secretary Hoke Smith has been giving special attention to the census bureau with a view to closing up the work as soon as it can be done without impairing its accuracy, and with as little expense as possible. The clerks dismissed were from all grades, including four or five chiefs of divisions. Earlier in the work the services of clerks possessing expert special knowledge was indispensible, but from this time on lower salaried clerks, it is said, do the work equally well, and so a number of these have been dropped from the rolls. There has been a general weeding out of the more inefficient clerks, and it is hoped by the secretary to have the work completed by the first of the next fiscal year. Carroll D. Wright, the new superintendent, took active charge yesterday and the work will be pushed forward with all possible speed.

REVOLT IN MONMOUTH.

Freehold's Leading Newspaper Bolts the Party Ticket.

The Monmouth Democrat, the oldest and most prominent Democratic paper in the county, has come out against Senator Henry Stafford Terhune and Assemblyman Reuben G. Strahan, its party's candidates for State Senator and Sheriff respectively. It is because of their votes for the race-track license bills that it has taken this course. Editorially The Democrat says:

Loyally to the Democratic party as well as loyalty to the record of The Democrat demands that in the present emergency the effort to degrade the party to the level of the blackleg and the gambler should be rebuked. The party's organization in the county and State has been captured by the agents of the worst elements in the community, who demand that because they carry the party flag the party shall submit to their rule. The Democrat repudiates that leadership, as it would fire upon the pirate ship although it carried the Stars and Stripes at its mast-head.

The race-track gamblers, by tricks and devices that are well understood in the community, obtained the control of the Legislature last year, and under the flag of the Democratic party which they had stolen while the people slept, by scandalous acts of legislation brought shame and disgrace to the people of the State.

BISMARCK WORSE.

Fears That He Will Never Leave Kissingen Alive.

BERLIN, Oct. 6.—Dr. Schweninger, Prince Bismarck's physician, is in in this city, arranging for a special through train to convey Prince Bismarck from Kissingen to Friedrichsruh. The Rudolstadt Landesszitung says that Prince Bismarck is slowly but steadily sinking and that it is improbable that he will ever leave Kissingen alive.

The Vossische Zeitung, of Berlin, abstains from publishing the worst news about Prince Bismarck, simply expressing the hope that his iron constitution will enable him to recover from his renewed illness.

The Berlin Tageblatt demands that official bulletins be published regarding the prince's illness. It calls to task those responsible for playing with the nation's interest in Bismarck's condition.

BRIDEGROOM KIDNAPPED.

Strange Story of Isaac McD. Croff of Pelhamville.

MOUNT VERNON, N. Y., Oct. 6.—Kitty Byrd McGalliard, the pretty 19 year-old daughter of George McGalliard, a well to do contractor at Pelhamville, who was to have been married on Monday last to Isaac McD. Croff, a widower, who lives in this city, and who failed to appear, has been married at last, the missing bridegroom having returned. Croff explains that he went to New York on his wedding day to do some shopping, and in returning to the Grand Central station took a cab. Two strangers entered the cab and chloroformed and robbed him. When he regained his senses he found himself in Troy, N. Y., two days afterwards. Croff is a man of good reputation, and his story is credited.

Pursuing Train Robbers.

ESSEX, Mont., Oct. 6.—Word has just reached here that the posse stationed at Java, the second station west of the summit of the Rockies, sighted the train robbers who held up a train in August a little after 10 o'clock yesterday and commanded them to surrender. Upon discovering them the officers opened fire, killing one, wounding two, while the fourth man surrendered. One wounded man took to the hills and the posse is in pursuit.

AGAIN BOMBARDING RIO.

The Brazilian War Assumes a Formidable Aspect.

BUENOS AYRES, Oct. 6.—Telegrams received here from Rio Janeiro confirm the report that Admiral Mello is again bombarding the city. All business places in the city are closed. The damage done so far is reported to be trifling. Since President Peixoto has mounted new guns and made preparations to return the fire of the vessels the commanders of the foreign men-of-war are undecided as to whether or not they would be justified in stopping the bombardment, and are awaiting more precise instructions from their respective governments.

Cholera in England.

LONDON, Oct. 6.—The death of five persons in one family within a week in Bradford, Yorkshire, has raised a suspicion that cholera has appeared in that town. In all the cases death was ascribed to cholerine, but many believe that they were really cases of Asiatic cholera. An investigation is being made to ascertain the truth.

Reading's Finances.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 6.—Movements regarding the financial affairs of the Reading railroad company indicated that the Speyer loan of $2,500,000 which fell due Oct. 1, would be extended. Negotiations to that end are in progress and the understanding is that all differences would be adjusted within a week.

UP TO DATE.

Good violins improve with use and age. If Stradivarius had made Pianos as well as violins, no one would care to own one of the former unless as a curiosity. There is little new in violin making, but there is something new every year in Piano making. Take care you do not buy a Piano simply because it was famous. With any Piano of ancient name and fame we invite you to compare the Steinway, Gabler, Vose, Sterling and Brammuller Pianos. They contain all new improvements that are desirable. They are up to date.

SOME ODD STORIES.

INTERESTING TALES OF ADVENTURE ON SEA AND LAND.

The Rush Into Oklahoma and the Struggle For a Valuable Claim—A Burly Negro Gets Ahead of a Woman and Then Defends Her Rights.

[Copyright, 1892, by American Press Association.]

Settlers who were in the Oklahoma rushes relate many interesting stories of their adventures which were pathetic, tragic or humorous, as the case might be. Many women were among the daring ones who raced for lots and claims, and they took their chances with the men.

Among those who sought claims in the Sac and Fox country was a poor widow named Dixon. She had previously spotted a valuable claim, and she made for it in the very van of the boomers. Having a good horse, she felt confident of arriving at the desired locality before any one else.

As the settlers spread out, the widow found herself racing neck and neck with a burly negro, who was mounted on a wiry Indian pony and seemed to be heading in the same direction as the woman. At first she thought little of this, as it was not likely he had chosen the same claim as herself, but he hung to her so persistently that she finally became suspicious and alarmed. All her efforts to draw away from him were useless. The tough little Indian pony was too much for her horse, and the negro finally forged ahead.

With a sinking heart, Mrs. Dixon saw the black man gradually draw away from her, holding straight toward the locality of the claim she had selected. When she reached the claim, she found him on it, having picketed his pony and spread a light tarpaulin that would serve the purpose of a tent to keep off rain or sun, although it was open at the sides.

There was a desperate gleam in the woman's eyes as she pulled up her horse and looked at the negro. He returned the look in a manner both sullen and defiant.

"You got ahead of me," she confessed. "You have beaten me out of my last hope! There is no chance for me in all the world now!"

"Was you headin for this claim?" asked the negro, speaking with little trace of the southern darky dialect.

She bowed weakly, utterly exhausted by the effort she had made to reach it in time.

"Well, I got here first, an so it's mine," he declared.

"You got here first," she confessed, slipping to the ground and facing him, "but I propose to fight for my property. Get off this claim!"

She tried to draw a revolver from her pocket, but the hammer caught in her dress, and before she could release it the negro leaped forward, caught her wrist and wrenched the weapon from her hand.

"I'll take this," said the burly black man. "It makes me a good pair, an a man is likely to need two guns in this country."

Overcome by disappointment and fatigue, Mrs. Dixon sank in a half fainting condition. The negro looked at her, as if wondering how he was going to get rid of her without further trouble, but did not offer to touch her again.

After a time, feeling ill and suffering from the terrible heat of the sun, she asked if she might rest in the shade of the tarpaulin. He consented, and she crept there, while he picketed her horse not far from his own.

Within half an hour a big, ruffianly looking man galloped up. About his waist was a belt that held a small arsenal of weapons. Throwing his foaming horse back with a strong pull, the fierce appearing stranger glared at the negro.

"How'd you git here, you black whelp!" he snarled.

"I rode here on that horse," was the reply, "an I don't care about bein called a black whelp either!"

"The blazes you don't! That don't count with me none whatever. You're on my claim, an you've gotter git up and mosey!"

"How does this happen to be your claim?"

"'Cause I picked it out first."

"Well, you didn't get here first after the reservation was opened, an so ye can't hold it."

"Can't! Whoop! Do you know me?"

"No!"

"Well, I'm Jake Harte, an I've got a record. I'll give you three minutes to git started off this claim. If you don't, you'll be planted right here, an I'll act as sexton, undertaker, mourner an the whole blamed outfit."

"There is a woman under that tarpaulin, an she has a right to this claim if you don't recognize my right."

Jake Harte, one of the most notorious of western ruffians, glanced at the woman, who was watching the whole affair.

"I don't care a dern for her!" he cried. "She'll hev to git too!"

"Well, she won't git! She stays right here!"

Harte reached for a revolver. He could draw and shoot with remarkable swiftness, but the negro had been watching for just such a move, and he succeeded in firing first. With a single shot the black man broke the ruffian's right arm.

"Now, you git!" commanded the darky, ready to shoot again. "Next time I will put a bullet through your heart!"

Cowed, baffled and wounded, the desperado rode away and was soon lost to view.

All day long the negro squatted on the claim and defended it from those who tried to take possession. Near night he went to the woman and said:

"There won't be any more after this land, I reckon. Here's your revolver. The claim's yours, an I'll be a witness for ye."

Without another word he mounted his horse and rode away. And the widow held the claim.

"Left."

There were five of us passengers in the battered Conestoga coach that was making its regular trip from Custer to Deadwood, in the Black Hills. It was in those days when every road leading into the metropolis of the hills was a toll road, and toll was often collected at the mouth of a wipchester.

There were four men. The fifth passenger was a woman, and we took a great interest in her, as she was in deep mourning and extremely pretty. At first her face was concealed by a veil, but she finally lifted this and fastened it back, and there was not a man of us who did not feel his blood stirring more swiftly in his veins. She had a sweetly innocent face and the gentlest brown eyes imaginable. Those eyes caught us.

I don't exactly know how it came about, but Jim Bronson, the gallant man of the party, succeeded in getting into conversation with her. She seemed utterly artless, and her teeth were as white as milk. They dazzled one when she smiled, which she did twice in a mournful way, as if she could not entirely banish the great sorrow that oppressed her.

We learned she had just buried, her father and was going into the hills to search for her husband, whom she called Jack, and who was trying to make a fortune in the goldfields. She said there was no one left in all the wide world to care for her now but Jack, and she must find him. I am certain she might have thrown herself on the mercy of any one of our party and received the tenderest treatment and consideration.

At length the driver pulled up his horses and turned to call:

"Hello, you critters in thar! Ef you've got any dust or vallybuls you need in your business, you'd better put 'em whar they'll be hard to find. This next strip of trail is Hark Bradshaw's stampin ground, an he's pretty sure to collect toll this trip."

Hark Bradshaw had a reputation. He was a bad man with a record of several lives cut short by his guns before he turned road agent, and none of us felt like taking any chances in trying to down him with a bullet. We held a council of war and came to the conclusion it would be a good scheme to pool our wealth and intrust it to the care of the little woman with the brown eyes. It was said Hark never molested ladies, priding himself on his gallantry.

She agreed to accept the charge of our money, and barely had she hidden it in her bosom when the driver was ordered to halt, which he promptly did.

"No crooked business inside there!" called a cold and steady voice. "I have the drop, and I am pretty handy with a gun!"

Then a man flung open the door on the right hand side and appeared, revolver in hand. He was a rough, bearded fellow, but rather handsome for all that.

The moment the little woman saw him she cried, "Jack, my husband!" and sprang from the coach. The man did not show great surprise at her appearance, but still keeping us menaced with his weapon he ordered the Jehu to drive on, which command was obeyed.

It was at least 15 minutes before one of us spoke. We simply sat and looked at each other and felt foolish. The driver broke the silence. Leaning to one side he looked down at us and called:

"Hanged ef that thar female wuzn't Denver Kate, Bradshaw's pard. They used to run a skin game in Omaha. Didn't know she wuz round these parts, but I'd recognize her ef she hedn't hed that thar veil over her face when she boarded."

There were four very disgusted men in that Conestoga.

"I wonder what we have left?" I observed.

"Why, we're all left!" blurted Jim Bronson as he clinched his fist and punched himself behind the ear.

He Felt the Electricity.

I was riding up Fulton street, Brooklyn, on a surface trolley car when a fresh arrival in this country, who carried the map of Ireland on his face, made a frantic rush from the sidewalk and climbed aboard. He took a seat opposite me that had just been vacated by a mischievous looking boy. The moment he was seated I noticed he gave a start of surprise and astonishment, seeming on the point of rising again, but seeing me regarding him settled back with a look of resignation.

It soon became evident the Irishman did not sit at all comfortably, for he hitched about and looked around at the other passengers in an inquiring manner. Finally he leaned over toward me, put his hand to his mouth and observed in a hoarse whisper:

"Begobs, this elicthricity is mighty quare faling stoof!"

I could not repress a smile as I asked:

"Do you feel the electricity?"

"Oi should say Oi did!" he answered, with emphasis, as he wiped the perspiration from his face with the back of his hand. "An don't yez fale it at all at all?"

"Not a bit."

"Thot's quare, but Oi think it's because it's me first roide on wan av these things. Oi'll git used to it in toime."

Still he actually seemed to be suffering intense torture, but he had paid his fare, and he held on as long as he could. When I stopped the car to get off, he decided to follow my example. On reaching the ground he stood for a moment as if doubting his senses, and then he reached around beneath the tail of his coat and extracted a flat headed carpet tack from his person. A look of the most intense disgust came over his face when he saw the cause of his torture.

"An was it thot Oi was settin on?" he cried, with a twist of his Irish mug. "Begorra, Oi thought it was the electricity all the toime!"

"Come Home, Papa!"

The haggard looking prisoner stood up to hear sentence from the lips of the stern faced judge. Evidence had been brought to show he stole food for his starving family, being out of work and having no money. A short distance away was the weeping wife holding a thin faced little girl in her arms. The prisoner looked about him in a sullen and defiant manner, as if he hated all the world, until his eyes rested on his wife and his child. Then his face softened, and for a moment it seemed that tears would spring from his eyes.

"John Lewis," said the hard, unrelenting voice of the judge, causing the prisoner to straighten up and look sullen once more, "you have been found guilty of the charge against you, and it is my duty to pronounce sentence upon you. I wish to show my utter abhorrence of such petty thievery, and I shall make you an example. Therefore I sentence you to the penitentiary for the term of two years."

The wife cried out as if she had been struck to the heart, and the prisoner looked dazed as two officers placed their hands on his shoulders and started to lead him away. Then the little girl in her mother's arms stretched out her thin arms and cried:

"Come home, papa!"

"Go home with mamma," he said hoarsely. "Papa will come by and by." Great tears started from his eyes and ran down his face as he was led away to jail, and the weeping woman staggered from the courtroom with the wondering child clutched convulsively to her breast.

IS THE END IN SIGHT?

A Definite Plan to Twist the Screws on the Senate.

DOWN TO BRUTE FORCE

Voorhees Will Insist Upon a Continuous Session Wednesday—Silver Men May Talk and Sleep in Relays While Repealers Must Maintain a Quorum—Is Compromise Possible? Nothing Definite Transpires But the Subject Will Not Down—Gossip Goes So Far As to Arrange a Programme—Senator Blackburn Introduces His Bill.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—The plan of action for next week has been definitely determined upon and the "screws" will be applied Wednesday at the approach of six o'clock. Several days ago Mr. Voorhees telegraphed all the friends of repeal of the intended programme and, warned them that they must positively be in Washington not a day later than Wednesday. The reason the repeal question is not forced earlier in the week is due to the absence of these senators and their inability to return sooner. This programme was under discussion yesterday by democratic repeal members and it was agreed that the time had come for the final effort.

The senate will meet next Wednesday as usual, and when six o'clock arrives Senator Voorhees will ask the senate to continue in session. This will, naturally be antagonized by the silver men and the contest will begin. The repealers expect to have a quorum present, and it is said that they have agreed to stand firm and follow their leaders until the bill is passed or the flag is lowered. It is believed that the silver men will fillibuster for a portion of the time and when they grow tired of this will put one of their men to the front to conduct the debate, it being the agreed policy of the repeal men that they will make no more speeches but be ready at every moment when talk lags to insist upon the votes being taken.

The repeal bill men also appreciate the fact that upon them rests the responsibility of maintaining a quorum, for they have been given to understand that the silver men will leave but two of their number in the senate, one to speak and the other to make the necessary dilatory motions and demand the call of the senate when they believe there is no quorum present. In this way, by having a relay of men on duty, the silverites expect to throw upon the other side the burden of maintaining a quorum. This is one of the elements in this struggle of endurance that some of the repealers fear, for it is a mooted question among them whether they can keep a quorum present throughout the entire night. It has been about settled that the only way to bring the matter to any issue is to force it at once, and it is improbable that there will be any intermediary stage, and the session will be continuous so long as the friends of repeal can maintain their quorum. While the silver men will have opportunities to take short rests, the repealing contingent will be compelled to be on hand at every moment. The silver men appear to appreciate their advantage and predict that they can tire out the older members in one night. Some of the friends of the administration are fearful that they cannot hold out for even one night. Just what the attitude of the republicans will be causes the democrats, in view of this programme, some uneasiness.

Fears are entertained that though nearly all of the them are willing and anxious to vote on the question a number of them may not be willing to remain up all night under the call of the democratic whip.

Among other reports of the day is the story that the president has been informed of what senators consider to be the true situation and that he has insisted that this final effort be made. At all events it is known that the programme as here outlined will be inaugurated regardless of what the result of such a policy may be.

Talk of Compromise.

Although there does not appear to be anything tangible upon which to base conclusions there seems to be a general belief on the part of senators that the silver question will be disposed of by the end of next week. Just how and in what way no one presumes to say, but the fact remains that this idea has many adherents, and believing that this programme will be carried out some senators are making their arrangements to leave the city by the 15th of the month. The compromise talk has been revived to some extent, and the details of many different propositions were discussed in the cloak rooms. It is said that an attempt will be made next week to hold prolonged sessions. Night sessions will begin probably Wednesday evening and continue until Thursday night has been exhausted. Then, according to reports that have been circulated, a compromise amendment will be offered and put to a vote with the expectation that it will be carried. If such an amendment should be voted down, the silver men would take it as an indication of bad faith and at once resume the tactics that have been utilized since this extraordinary session began, leaving the situation, so far as the senate is concerned, precisely where it was when congress convened on the 7th of August. If, on the other hand, propositions for compromise are scorned the silver men will meet the issue and embrace the opportunity of holding night sessions and interpose no objections even to continuous sessions. They will, however, in this event, become the aggressors and insist that there shall be a quorum of 43 repeal senators in the senate all the time. They must remain in their seats, and the moment any of them repair to the cloak rooms or committee rooms a call of the senate will be ordered. If the repeal men can occupy their seats constantly the silver men say they can keep up the debate, and Senator Stewart says he alone can talk as long as the senators can remain to listen, and if they can inaugurate this method of holding sessions they will be compelled to listen.

Senator Blackburn's Amendment.

In his speech last Wednesday Mr. Blackburn, (dem., Ky.) intimated that he would prepare and offer an amendment to the silver purchase repeal bill, which would embody his views of a fair compromise measure. He presented such an amendment yesterday and it was ordered to be printed. It adopts the bill, as it passed the house, strikes out the Voorhees declaration favoring bimetallism, and adds to the house bill a provision for the free coinage of silver of American production—the difference between the metal price of the silver and its money value when coined, to be retained by the treasury as seigneorage, and this seigneorage to be sold for gold—either at home or abroad—the gold received for it to be kept in the treasury for the purpose of maintaining the parity between the two metals.

The debate on the silver purchase repeal bill was carried on by Mr. Call, of Florida, and Mr. Butler, of South Carolina, both in continuation of speeches begun by them last Wednesday. Mr. Call drew an imaginary sketch of the people listening to the senate debates on the financial questions, with a degree of acumen and interest surpassing anything in American history. He argued in favor of an amendment heretofore offered by him. Mr. Butler favored his own amendment to repeal the ten per cent. tax on the notes of state banks.

House Lethargy.

Not even the earnest manner of Mr. Cummings, of New York could awaken the house from the lethargy into which it seems to have fallen. There was no increase in the attendance yesterday and the various speakers, Messrs. Haines, of Nebraska; Hicks, of Pennsylvania; Brookshire, of Indiana; Ray, of New York; English, of New Jersey; Baker, of New Hampshire; Towney, of Minnesota, Talbert, of South Carolina, and Gassenhainer, of New Jersey, received very little attention, though some of the arguments advanced were worthy of grave consideration.

THE MOORISH WAR.

Spaniards Seem Anxious to Join the Campaign.

MADRID, Oct. 7.—Cable communication with Melilla which has been interrupted is restored. The latest news from the fortress is that the Moors are invisible. It is supposed that they are hiding in the valleys near Melilla, awaiting reinforcements or some favorable opportunity to make an attack. The first attachment of military reinforcements from Spain have reached Melilla and marched to the fort. The Spanish squadron has been ordered to cruise along the Moorish coast. The second army corps will be concentrated probably at Seville so as to be ready for any emergency at Melilla. The enthusiasm for a war policy grows hourly among the people. The discontent with the government's domestic policy has abated and the protests against paying taxes have been stilled temporarily. The whole army wish to go to the North African coast and a dozen regiments have volunteered to forego the extra pay usually given for active campaign work.

THE CENSUS.

Wright Will Complete the Work as Soon as Possible.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7. — Carroll D. Wright, the new superintendent of the census office, was questioned yesterday as to what policy he would pursue in completing the census work. He had not yet had time, he said, to familiarize himself with the status of the work, but speaking generally he expected to first complete the three leading features of the census, population, agriculture and manufactures. He would then preserve all the main features of the subsidiary topics keeping in mind lines of positive value, leaving out, if anything, those which are simply interesting without attempting any abrogation in the original plans. He expects to complete the census as quickly and as economical as possible and in a manner creditable to the government.

Quincy's Fine Hand.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—Josiah Quincy, whose visit to Washington at this time resulted in the batch of consular nominations made yesterday, left for Boston. Mr. Quincy's departure marks the end of his official and unofficial connection with the administration and also the practical clearing-up of the work of selecting persons for appointment to consular office.

Betting on the Race.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—The members of the maritime exchange favor Vigilant against Valkyrie and many were willing to bet 2 to 1 that the American boat will win the series. One bet of $1,000 to $800 on the Vigilant was made yesterday.

TO-DAY'S YACHT RACE

Good Prospects for a Great Contest.

Indications of Strong Wind and Heavy Sea—Vigilant Still the Favorite in Spite of Her Bad Showing But the Valkyrie Has Many Friends.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—All day yesterday the black champion of England and the white champion of America lay peacefully anchored near each other off the Atlantic yacht club house at Bay ridge. The crews rested and quiet reigned on board. The starting time of the race to-day is set for 11:25 o'clock. The prospects for wind are good and there are prospects of a heavy sea outside the bar, due to the easterly wind which was blowing yesterday and increasing the old swell which made the excursion boats pitch and roll.

Mr. Iselin has requested, if there was not a prospect of finishing the race today within the specified time limit of six hours, that the Valkyrie be signalled by the regatta committee and asked to consent to a postponement of the contest.

On the stock exchange the Vigilant was the favorite yesterday despite her performance of Thursday. Very many brokers saw the contest, and all attributed her trouble to bad handling. They are confident that a change for the better in this respect will be made before to-day's race is sailed, and are willing to risk their money on her.

On the maritime exchange and the produce and cotton exchanges as well the Valkyrie seemed to have more supporters than the Vigilant.

STATE OF TRADE.

Bradstreet Reports a Slight Improvement in Business.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—Bradstreet's to-day says: "Slightly more cheerful reports from leading southern trade centres, largely due to a freer movement of cotton and the advance in price of that staple, coupled with more numerous advices of improved trade distribution at western and northwestern centers, constitute the principal points of interest in telegrams to Bradstreet's this week. Trade was interrupted at New Orleans and Mobile by the disastrous gulf storm early in the week, but late advices are to the effect that staple crops have not been materially damaged. There is a very general report of slightly improved collections from the south, coupled with the statement that October 1 settlements have been fairly well met.

BISMARCK'S TRIP HOME.

The Journey Will be Made by Special Train.

KISSINGEN, Oct. 7.—Prince Bismarck drove out with Dr. Schweninger yesterday. He looks somewhat stronger and responded to several salutations from pedestrians along the road. In the streets of the town he was cheered by all whom he passed.

Dr. Schweninger says that he is well satisfied with his patient's condition and would long since have taken him home had Bismarck not been so fearful that traveling would make his sciatica worse.

The special train on which Bismarck starts for home is timed to reach Friedrichsruh at 10:40 o'clock this evening.

KING'S CASE.

The Millionaire May be Released From the Asylum.

BOSTON, Oct., 7.—Next week there is likely to be something new in the case of William Henry King, the aged Newport millionaire confined for the past 27 years in McLean insane asylum. Then ex-governor John D. Long, who has been appointed guardian ad litem to investigate and determine whether it is best that Mr. King be confined in the asylum or in a private residence, will make his report. It is expected by those who know all the facts of the case that a recommendation that the old man leave the asylum will be made.

Pastor Rogers and His Note.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Oct. 7.—The Rev. J. F. Rogers, pastor of the leading Catholic church here, has been sued for the recovery of $1,522 on a note given by him to Mrs. Catharine Francis, an American woman whom he met in Paris two years ago while he was on a visit to the pope. The note was recently forwarded to this country and placed in the hands of a legal firm for collection. The priest pronounces it a case of blackmail, pure and simple. The papers are returnable to the superior court in November. Mrs. Francis is now in Paris.

Phinney Indicted.

BOSTON, Oct. 7.—The Suffolk grand jury has reported an indictment against Edward J. Phinney of South Boston for manslaughter in causing the death of Edward M. Shine, a fireman, by shooting. This is a reduction of the original charge, which was murder.

Voice from the West.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Oct. 7.—The chamber of commerce have adopted resolutions asking the United States senate to repeal the Sherman silver purchase clause at the earliest possible moment.

Yellow Fever at Jessup.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Oct. 7.—Two new cases of yellow fever were reported at Jessup yesterday and one death.

MILD AS QUAKERS.

How Anarchists Were Described at the Goldman Trial.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—In the trial of Emma Goldman yesterday the prisoner, in her testimony said:

"A first principle of Anarchy is that each individual should not harm another." She went on, "I do not believe in murder or any act of violence except in self-defense."

Miss Goldman asked permission to make her statement to the jury.

"I want to say," she said, "that in making my speech I only intended to use the right of free speech granted to every one by the United States constitution."

After an unimportant testimony Lawyer A. Oscar Hall began summing up for the defense.

"I am convinced from the first to the last that this has been a case of police persecution," was his opening statement.

He insisted that the meeting in Union square was a lawful and orderly one, and he thought the police been looking for a violation there would have been no arrest.

The lawyer went on to say that the violent parts of Miss Goldman's speech, as alleged by Detective Jacob, appeared to have been written in later with a different pencil from that used in writing the body of the notes of the same speech.

Mr. Hall claimed that the belief of the anarchists was nothing more nor less than the belief of the modern Quakers, that is, that everything is the common property of everybody.

The trial went over until Monday. Mr. Hall took so long to sum up that it was deemed advisable to adjourn.

SHOCKING SUICIDE.

A Harvard Student Thursts His Head Into a Furnace.

BOSTON, Oct. 7.—Joseph Cornelius, a divinity student of Harvard, met with a shocking death, self-inflicted, in the Massachusetts general hospital recently. Two weeks ago he developed symptoms of a serious illness, which was attributed to the mental strain superinduced by his overzealousness in the pursuit of his studies. He was found to be wandering in his mind and to be suffering from a severe attack of typhoid fever. He was taken to the hospital for treatment and no fears were entertained that he would not recover. There was nothing to indicate a suicidal tendency, and the first that was known of his state of mind was a week ago, early Monday morning, when his inanimate body was found in the boiler-room, where he had sought death by thrusting his head into the furnace. His injuries were so great that all attempts to bring him to consciousness proved unavailing, and he died soon afterwards. Superintendent Pratt, from an inquiry, found no blame to attach to the nurses and others in charge of the patient.

Mr. Cornelius was 25 years old and was a native of Slatersville, N. C. From there he entered the divinity school three years ago. Last year he was graduated, and he continued in college this year in a special course. The news of the young man's death created general sorrow among the collegians, by whom he was long recognized as a most exemplary gentleman, one whom everybody respected.

CHEROKEE STRIP FRAUDS.

Charges Against Several Government Officials and Soldiers.

OKLAHOMA CITY, O. T., Oct. 7.—Petitions are being circulated throughout Oklahoma and the Cherokee strip calling on Delegate Flynn to demand a thorough investigation of the charges of gross fraud in connection with the opening of the strip. It is openly charged that registration officials accepted bribes and that soldiers on the line received money. It is also charged that government officials and deputy marshals secured two blocks of ground in Perry by the grossest fraud and that Perry deputy marshals made thousands of dollars by receiving pay for advancing fliers on claims over less fortunate men. Register Malone is accused of allowing filings after hours, his brother being one of those so favored. It is also charged that he refused to record old soldiers certificates and threw several out of his office window into the street.

Wrightly Murder Case.

DOYLESTOWN, Pa., Oct. 7.—Wallace Burt, the half breed Cherokee suspected of the murder of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel M. Wrightly, near Newton, on Sep. 24, was given a hearing before Justice Grim at the jail here and was committed without bail to await the action of the grand jury. The testimony of the witnesses presented no new developments. Burt was not represented by counsel. He appeared unconcerned during the proceedings and frequently smiled.

The Pope's Position.

LONDON, Oct. 7.—The Tablet, the most influential Roman Catholic weekly in Great Britain, will say: "Events now transpiring in Italy render the pope's position one of extreme and imminent danger. The position of Italy is too insecure and unstable to make her a safe guardian of the venerable person of the pope or of the monuments which are the sacred heritage of the Catholic world.

JENNESS-MILLER'S SISTER.

The Famous Lecturer to Women Sets Them An Example.

A beautiful woman in a beautiful gown is the way they describe her.

"The Rev. Dr. Morgan Dix finds fault with women," says the New York Sun, for thinking more about their personal charms than about their souls, but Miss Mabel Jenness feels it her duty to instruct them as to the best use of those charms in the attainment of a 'correct and elegant carriage,' and by the proper 'artistic care of the body.' In her view the soul expresses itself through the body, and action goes on between the two, with the result that physical grace has a moral value.

As Mrs. Jenness-Miller is known the world over for her ideas on dress reform, so her sister, Miss Mabel Jenness, whose likeness is given above, is celebrated for crusade for physical culture among the gentler sex.

Her system of physical training is attracting a great deal of attention. "She is herself a society girl, and yet finds time, says the Sun, "to practice her system, and in the midst of her multitudinous duties is never tired, never sick, doesn't know where her nerves are, and is a stranger to headaches." The reason is apparent in a letter written July 19, 1893, from Washington, D. C.

"I was induced," writes Miss Jenness, "to try Paine's celery compound at a time when I was suffering from over work and the effect of an accident. I began immediately to realize tonic and blood-nourishing effects. I take pleasure in saying that, although opposed to medicine in general, I really consider this an excellent preparation.

"I have not been able to take one day's rest since I returned from my long, hard western trip. I am sure were it not for Paine's celery compound, which has a tonic effect, I should not be able to keep up and work hard.

"I recommended Paine's celery compound to a friend who dined with us yesterday, and on leaving here she went and bought a bottle. I shall do all I can for it, for I believe in it."

So the society woman, whose health and grace are famous the country over, and who is in a position to command the best medical advice, finds in Paine's celery compound the same relief from the effect of overwork and illness that the poorer, harder working woman finds.

And this great remedy that makes people well is equally within the reach of all. It is for sale in every respectable drug-store in the country, and is in greater demand today than any remedy in the world.

It is the one true specific for diseases arising from a debilitated nervous system probably the most remarkable remedy that the scientific research of this country has produced. Prof. Edward E. Phelps, M. D., LL. D., of Dartmouth college, first prescribed what is now known the world over as Paine's celery compound, a positive cure for dyspepsia, biliousness, liver complaint, neuralgia, rheumatism and kidney troubles. For the latter Paine's celery compound has succeeded again and again where everything else has failed.

Washington correspondents have recently given it a great deal of attention since the cures effected in that city.

The medical journals of the country have given more space in the last few years to the many remarkable cases where the use of Paine's celery compound has made people well than to any other one subject. Try it and be better.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—A song service will be held in the W. C. T. U. rooms tonight as usual.

—The low retail prices at Schepflin's, coupled with the fine quality of his goods, makes trade brisk there.

—Summons was issued this morning by Justice Nash in the case of Griffen against Belcher, on contract, returnable Oct. 13.

—Young men interested in mechanical drawing should call Monday, and those interested in book-keeping Tuesday, at the Y. M. C. A. rooms, whether already enrolled or not.

—The mock court trial will be instructive, interesting, exciting and laughable. Reserved seats will be on sale at Leggett's pharmacy Monday morning at 7. For particulars see advertisement.

—Charles Bock, of East Second street, has, perhaps, the best pigeon loft in the city. He has at least 250 pigeons, and many of them are tame enough to light on his arm and peck wheat from a four-quart measure.

—Councilman Neal says What's the use of trying to make borough people lay flag sidewalks when they won't lay boards? He says of course the Council can go ahead and lay sidewalks and charge it in the taxes, but to do that to all who refuse to lay the walks themselves would take $2,000, and the borough has n't that much money to advance.

A JUST COMPLAINT.

If a New High School Is Needed, It's Needed Right on the Old Site, Instead of the Extravagant New One.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—It has been rumored for months past that the High School building is unsafe, and I saw in your issue of the 5th this heading: "High School Building Shaking".

If the building is unsafe then every parent who sends their sons and daughters there should know it at once. Let the proper authorities have this building examined without delay, by an expert, and let the result of such investigation be known.

I believe this to be the expression of many anxious parents. If we are sending our children to a death-trap I think that we should know it immediately. If our fears are groundless and the rumors false, then set us right in the matter.

Let the building be inspected without delay, and a plain statement of facts concerning its condition be given. Nothing short of this will satisfy

ANXIOUS PARENTS.

Their Faithful Brother.

At a meeting of Court Pride of New Jersey, No. 8024, A. O. F. of A. held in their rooms on Thursday evening, Oct. 5, 1893, the following resolutions were adopted on the death of their late District Deputy Brother Robert J. Powers:

WHEREAS, It has pleased the Almighty in His wise providence to remove from us by death our District Deputy Brother Robert J. Powers. Therefore be it,

Resolved, That while in humble submission we bow to the will of Him who doth all things well, we deeply deplore the loss of our worthy and esteemed brother; whose ability and faithfulness was beyond question, and we extend to the family of our deceased brother our heartfelt sympathy in this their hour of sorrow and affliction, and

Resolved, That this testimonial of our appreciation of our sorrow be forwarded to the bereaved family of our departed brother, and that a copy of these resolutions be entered in full on the minutes of our Court and also published in the Plainfield press.

RARE ENTERTAINMENT.

ST. MARY'S FAIR HAS ANOTHER SUCCESSFUL EVENING.

The Concert Last Evening Enjoyed by a Large Audience—Miss May Flanagan is Greeted with Hearty Applause for Her Artistic Rendition of "The Daisy"—The Flower Dance Tonight, and Those Who Will Take Part—John Carney, a Male Quartette and Dancing a Few of the Attractions for Next Week.

Notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather the attendance at St. Mary's fair last night was comparatively large, and a good business was done in the different departments.

The main feature of the evening was the concert given by the choir of the church, in which all did credit to themselves and entertained those present to the satisfaction of all, and everyone was unanimous in praise of the artistic manner in which the different selections were rendered.

The first number on the programme, "Come Where the Lilies Bloom So Fair", was given by a double quartette in a most pleasing manner.

Following this beautiful rendition was a solo by Miss May Flanagan, entitled "The Daisy", in which the soloist showed the result of much study and voice cultivation, and for which the appreciative audience gave warm and continued applause. Miss Flanagan has a fine, sweet voice, and captivates the people from the first note to the last by the grace and ease with which she handles each number.

The musical programme concluded with a medley by the choir, composed of Miss Sarah Carney, Miss May Flanagan, Miss Julia Day, Miss Maggie Day, John Traynor and M. Cashen, which was given in that pleasing and satisfactory style which evidenced continual practice and careful teaching.

Miss St. Ledger, who presided at the piano, did herself proud in the manipulation of the keys, and proved very plainly that she is a skilled musician.

This evening those present will be given a rare treat by witnessing the great Flower Dance, to be given under the direction of Madame Iza Lezem. Those who will participate in the dance are the following young misses: Annie Daley, Clara Lanning and Lydia Hughes, as the Shamrock, and Nellie Welsh, Lizzie Guinee, Katie Roach, Mary Callahan, Mollie Lynch, Mamie McCann, Mamie Burke, Lena Borell, Susie Goff, Lizzie Day, May Tomley, Maggie Harding, Maria Carty, Nettie Goff, Annie O'Keefe, Mamie Doll, Lizzie Day, Maggie Shannon, Lizzie Rafferty, Josie Murphy, Annie Fay, Mary Motley, Sadie Rogers and Susie Lynch. The young people have been very busy of late in rehearsing this dance, and will no doubt be greeted with hearty applause for their continued practice in order that each one should have her part to perfection.

Next week the programme will be changed each evening.

The only John Carney, the German comedian, will be present one evening and entertain the patrons by his funny songs and recitations.

A quartette of local male voices has also been engaged to be present, and will endeavor to please the audience by their many sentimental songs and medleys.

The ladies at the various booths did a much better business than could be expected on such a disagreeable night. The refreshment tables had a very good night's receipts, and the charming Rebecca at the well also came in for a good share of the patronage.

The fair will be continued tonight and every evening next week, and dancing will be an attraction, with music by Frazee.

THROWN BY HER HORSE.

Young Miss Cruikshank Suffers a Serious Accident.

What might have been a very serious accident happened yesterday afternoon in Netherwood, when the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Cruikshank was thrown from her pony on the hard macadam pavement and stunned and bruised. The little girl had come out alone and was coming down the back road on her pony from the stable on her father's place. The little horse suddenly turned into Belvidere road, throwing his rider, making her unconscious and bruising her quite severely about the head and face. A small boy and his nurse maid who were passing did what they could and endeavored to take the child home in the small boy's express cart. Luckily Mr. Reinhart's coachman chanced to pass by with a rig and he took the little patient to her father's house. A bicycle rider brought back the pony to the stable. Dr. Endicott was called and restored the child to consciousness and dressed her bruises. The family say that she is not seriously hurt. It seems that the little girl obtained the pony and started off without any one's knowing of it, and it was a shock when she was brought to the house.

Plainfield Pigeons at the Race.

Plainfield will receive news from the yacht race this afternoon in many ways. Besides the telegraph and telephone, carrier pigeons will bring tidings of the progress of the yachts. Richard Stevens sent some of his finest birds down to New York this morning by Charles Bullman. Mr. Bullman will release the winged messengers from his boat at intervals, and it is expected that they will reach here almost as soon as any other news.

Always Giving Satisfaction.

BRANDRETH'S PILLS have always given satisfaction. In fifty years there has been no complaint of them. That is about their life in the United States and millions of persons have used them. There is no doubt that they have established themselves by merit alone. They cure rheumatism, dyspepsia, piles, liver complaint, biliousness and any disease arising from an impure state of the blood. One or two at night on an empty stomach, for a week or two, will keep you in good form and tone up the system. They are purely vegetable, absolutely harmless and safe to take at any time.

Sold in every drug or medicine store, either plain or sugar coated.

LATEST DESPATCHES.

VIGILANT WINS.

She Leads From the First in a Fine Race.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

NEW YORK, Oct. 7, 4 p. m.—The yachts started on time this morning in a piping breeze. The Valkyrie crossed the line at 11.25.40. The Vigilant at 11 25 45. The Vigilant drew rapidly ahead and rounded the stake boat at 1:50, the Valkyrie following at 1 59.

The wind had died down at this time to about 14 miles an hour.

The boats were obliged to beat back but the Vigilant kept her lead and crossed the line at 3:31 amid a din of guns and whistles.

The British boat followed, crossing the line at 3:38.

IT WAS NOT THE WATER PIPES.

It Was Only a Large Green Bullfrog that Sang from Gilded Horn Till Dewy Eve.

A good deal of speculation has been caused this week among the employes of Sherwin's shoe store by a strange noise that seemed to come from the wall in the rear area of the building. Patrick Marron, Sherwin's cobbler, who is a jolly Scotchman and not fond of being puzzled, was more immediately concerned than the other employes as the noise was very near the place in which he sat when he was at work. After long thought Patrick concluded that the noise was caused by the pipes of the water company and every one agreed with him, but they thought that a search for the pipes might lead to a solution of the difficulty. Accordingly they began looking and tracing the sound to its source.

Patrick found a hole in the stone wall and on looking in he saw a huge green bull-frog that greeted him with a noise so similar to the one that they had been accustomed to that Patrick nearly fell over backwards. All gathered around and his lordship performed to the delight of all and croaked constantly for five minutes. Now the bull-frog has a pail of water poured in his retreat every day and flounders and swims to his heart's content. It is needless to say he is the pet of the whole establishment.

THE Y. M. C. A. SEWER CONNECTION

Only the Overflow from the Swimming Tank to be Let Into the North Avenue Sewer.

Some consternation was caused in the Common Council at its last meeting when it was learned that the new Y. M. C. A. building had made a connection to the much talked of North avenue sewer. The matter was referred to a committee for investigation.

The committee met last night and received a communication from the Y. M. C. A. Their representatives say that the connection to the sewer is only for the water that will come from the swimming tank, and that they received permission from President Rockfellow, of the Board of Health, to let their overflow run off through the sewer in question.

Mr. Rockfellow says that the admission of the water to the sewer can do nothing but good; that it will flush out the drain and keep it in much better condition than it would be in otherwise.

The committee will report to the Council at the next meeting.

Don't "Go Wrong".

There is hardly a day goes by that does not bring tidings of some well-known citizen "going wrong". Plainfielders may not be entirely exempt from this danger, but they are assured that they can't go wrong as long as they go to Collier's for the latest, best and cheapest novelties in the jeweler's line.

I suffered for more than two years with that dreadful disease, catarrh, and used every available medicine that was recommended to me. I cannot thank you enough for the relief which Ely's Cream Balm has afforded me. Emanuel Meyers, Winfield, L. I., N. Y.

RALLY AT THE CAPITAL.

ARMY OF ENDEAVORERS TO ASSEMBLE AT TRENTON.

Two Days of Discussion and Praise by 2,000 Delegates—Many of the Most Active Workers in the Society Will Read Papers and Deliver Addresses.

About 2,000 Christian Endeavorers will concentrate at Trenton next Wednesday. That day and the next this army of young church workers will receive instructions how best to carry on warfare in the cause of righteousness. This is the annual convention of the State Union. It will be held in Taylor's Opera House, and the foremost people of the society say it will far surpass any previous State convention of this marvellously-growing body.

It is now eight years since the first meeting of Christian Endeavor Societies in this State. At that gathering there was plenty of enthusiasm, but no thought of the colossal growth to which the union would quickly attain. Then there were only ten societies represented, and probably there were no other societies in the State. Now there are hundreds of societies and thousands of members.

The arrangements for the convention this year are as nearly perfect as a hard-working committee has been able to make them. The 2,000 delegates expected to attend will all be provided for in private houses and hotels. The three sessions each day will furnish a series of addresses and discussions which will do much toward enlightening the members on the work expected of them during the coming year. The best speakers in this part of the country on subjects pertaining to this kind of work will contribute to the programme.

The Endeavorers in the southern part of the State have been entrusted with the preparation of the programme for the convention, and up to date they have arranged the following, which, it is expected, will be carried out:

WEDNESDAY MORNING.

10:30—Invocation service, the Rev. L. D. Stultz.

THURSDAY MORNING.

6:30—Early prayer and inspiration service, C. W. Shoemaker.

3:05—"The Needs of the Mission Fields," Rev. T. H. Lewis, president Western Maryland College.
3:30—"The Reflex Influence of Missionary Work on Character," Rev. Robert Speer, Secretary Foreign Mission Board, Presbyterian Church.
4:00—Junior Societies and Missions," Miss Allie Scudder.
4:15—"Methods of Junior Work," Rev. A. W. Spooner.
5—Junior rally, led by Miss Mary Walker.

THURSDAY EVENING.

7:30—Song service, Endeavor Choir; leader, Edward W. Dunham.
7:45—Address, Rev. J. Judson Pierson; address, Hon. John Wanamaker, or the Rev. Dr. Walter Mersé Smith, of New York; address, Dr. F. E. Clark; consecration service.

It is stated for the benefit of those who may attend the convention that the committee on entertainment has made arrangements by which board may be secured with private families at $1 a day and at the hotels for $2 a day. Single meals can be secured for 50 cents. To secure these advantages every delegate will have to go directly to the Y. M. C. A. building on East State street, on arriving at New Jersey's capital city. All of the cars from the various depots pass the building. There the entertainment committee will be found, whose duty it will be to assign the delegates to rooms in a boarding house or hotel.

The music will be one of the features of the convention. It will be under the direction of Edward W. Dunham, of Trenton, who led the singing at the Asbury Park auditorium during the past summer. A special choir of seventy-five voices has been training faithfully. It will be accompanied by the three Park sisters, cornetists.

As stated in The Press last week, the convention at its business session will take decided action in regard to the legalized gambling carried on in the State. A strong set of resolutions are being prepared which will undoubtedly be passed. They call for the united action of the male members of all the societies this fall in the election of members of the State Legislature.

It is almost certain that John Wanamaker will not be able to address the convention on Thursday night. Word has been received from Philadelphia that Mr. Wanamaker is in very poor health and that although he will be present if possible, he will hardly be able to make an address. When the programme committee received this word they immediately wrote to the Rev. Dr. Walter Merle Smith, of New York, and they are in hopes that the doctor will accept the invitation to speak.

Each delegate visiting Trenton next Wednesday will be presented with a neat souvenir medal. The medal is about the size of a quarter dollar and is made of white metal. It will be suspended by a piece of orange ribbon, and is to be exposed to view by the wearer. No one will be allowed upon the main floor of the theatre unless wearing a badge. The badge was designed by Horace E. Fine, a member of the Trenton Union.

Miss Alice Spangenberg of Netherwood will make a report as District Secretary, and have charge of one of the meetings.

THE LOWEST RATE OF THE YEAR.

All Aboard for Chicago via Pennsylvania Railroad Company's Coach Excursions.

At a recent meeting the rate to Chicago via the Pennsylvania Railroad was definitely decided upon, and will hold good during the remaining excursions of the people's popular coach series: $18.00 from New York, and $17.00 from Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington, and proportionately low rates from other points on the company's division and branches. These rates are the lowest that have yet been authorized, and their ultimate legality has been brought about mainly through the efforts of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company.

The remaining dates on which this remarkable rate will apply are October 11, 17 and 21, from New York and Philadelphia, and 7, 14 and 21, from Baltimore and Washington, when trains will leave the several Eastern terminals fully and comfortably equipped with Pennsylvania standard coaches, and all taking advantage of these exceptional opportunities are assured of being amply cared for in transit. The arriving time in Chicago, early the next afternoon, is on equality with the fast express trains schedule, and affords sufficient time for a selection of accommodations for the stay in Chicago.

The immense volume of travel now directing itself toward the World's Fair, and the rapidly approaching termination of the Exposition influence the company to place every inducement possible before the public. There could be no better way devised to encourage visits to the most marvelously gorgeous exhibition the people of this generation have ever seen.

To Tell of Their New York Work.

Mrs. Sidney Whittemore, founder of The Door of Hope, New York, will speak in the Park Avenue Baptist church the evening of Tuesday, Oct. 10, at 8. Peter Scott, a returned missionary from Africa, will address the young people at 7:30 p. m. Mrs. Whittemore and Mr. Scott will also speak in the First Presbyterian church at 3 in the afternoon of the same day.

Grand Rally.

Bethel A. M. E. mission will hold a grand rally at the Seventh-day Baptist church, Oct. 15, for the benefit of Bethel church. There will be preaching at 10:45 a. m. and 3 and 7:45 p. m. Mrs. Mary E. Holt, pastor of the Metuchen A. M. E. church, will preach at 7:45 p. m.

T. A. V. HENRY, Pastor.

—Through with the Press, Jack? Not quite! Well, just let me have it for a minute: I want to read White's advertisement.

I have been a sufferer from catarrh for years. Having tried a number of remedies advertised as "sure cures" without obtaining any relief, I had resolved never to take any other patent medicines, when a friend advised me to try Ely's Cream Balm. I did so with great reluctance, but can now testify that after using it for six weeks I believe myself cured. It is a most agreeable remedy—an invaluable Balm.—Joseph Buwart, 24 Grand avenue, Brooklyn.

The American Catarrh Cure

Is the result of twenty-six years' study and treatment of the disease. One bottle convinces the most skeptical. It is always ready for use, needing neither douche nor atomizer. It restores the hearing, cures the hawking cough and expectorating, removes the headache and nose bleeding, increases the appetite, produces sound sleep, invigorates the whole system and increases the vitality. Prepared only by W. B. Jones, M. D., No. 1336 South Eighth street, Philadelphia. For sale by F. W. Randolph, 21 West Front street. Price $1.

THE MAN ON THE CARS.

He Uses Up His Pessimistic Friend, and Deals in the Gentle Art of Prophecy.

The Man on the Cars was in a cheerful mood that chilly night last week, and, as the train hurried by Lorraine and the passengers wondered what Alsace must look like, he mysteriously said:

"There are some people who take their view of life from the standpoint of one observing the team from the front platform of a horse-car, and the pleasantest features of things never occur to them. Take that fellow over in the corner, for instance. He told me the other day that it was about settled in his mind that life was not worth the trouble of existing, that pessimism was the proper caper, etc., etc. I argued for half-an-hour to no purpose, although I dwelt most tenderly on the joys of society and the pleasures of friendship. He said he had no use for friends; they were a bother and an incumbrance, and always in the way. I tried pleadings without success, and, at length, gave it up and told him where his notions might apply, however useless they were here. Then, when I was about to leave, he took my arm and sighed: "You've always been a good friend to me—could you lend me five for a week? That's ever the way with those fellows. Did he get the five? Not much!

"Speaking of oddities, have you remarked that big sign that the American Line has put up at the end of their new North River pier, just above the Pennsylvania's New York ferry-house? It looks more like a back-stop on a base-ball field than a mere bill-board, but the funny part is the deceptive wording it displays and which goes this way, if I remember rightly:

AMERICAN LINE.
NEW YORK AND SOUTHAMPTON.
ONE HOUR AND FORTY MINUTES TO LONDON.

The innocent, guileless reader is led to suppose that the new line will carry him over to England's capital in one hour and forty minutes from New York, only a little longer than it takes to get to Plainfield, and his unsuspecting mind is at once filled with ideas of taking a run to the old country some Saturday night, spending Sunday and getting back to the office Monday morning. "One hour and forty minutes to London!" I wonder if that sort of thing will ever be done! Think of doing business in New York and residing in some quaint old suburb of "Lunnon", commuting, of course, and squandering just three hours and twenty minutes a day in transit! Or, wondering in the afternoon whether you would go in the evening to see a play in Gotham, or run across to take in Drury Lane, or Covent Garden or Mme. Tussand's; whether to enjoy Sunday afternoon at Coney Island or Brighton; to worship at Trinity or Westminster! Sounds like fool talk, does n't it? And yet the American Line people either intend to deceive, mean to be prophetic or else, and this is the most likely, are unconscious of the way their sign reads. But they may be forecasting future events, and, when one recalls what unutterable improvement has been accomplished in the past century, it is not taxing imagination very much to believe that invention will soon overcome space in the transportation of matter as it already has in the carriage of sound. I want to bet that if Mr. Haggard's "She" were just now commencing her life of 2,000 years she would see the time when she might skip from Europe to America in an hour or two, or from the antipodes here in a day, long before her span was spun. Don't want to take my wager, eh? Well, I won't blame you, because we are not likely to live long enough to win or lose. You seem to be as narrow-minded about some things as my friend in the corner is pessimistic in others.

"But, good-night! I've got to jump off before the train stops and fight for a place on the line in the station—this is the night I buy my commutation, you know."

And he slipped away as the cars rolled into Plainfield.

Consolidation Sure.

WESTFIELD, Oct. 7.—The two leading social organizations here, the Westfield Athletic and the Union League Clubs, will become one. Opposition to the consolidation came mostly from members of the Union League Club. This club at a meeting held Thursday night voted by a large majority in favor of consolidation. A third club will be incorporated, which will receive as charter members all those on the membership rolls of the two old clubs. This third organization will get possession of the new $15,000 club house of the Westfield Athletic club; and when this has been accomplished, the parent organizations will disband. This movement to consolidate the club interests of the place was set on foot by a few far sighted men who saw that the place was not large enough to support the rival clubs on such a scale as that upon which they proposed to operate.

No. 10 Ranks High.

The room of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., was the scene of great activity last night. Mrs. Work, the inspector of the Woman's Relief Corps, was visiting the post, and in the course of her investigations into the state of Relief Corps, No. 10, auxiliary to the Winfield Scott Post, she said that it ranked among the very best in organization and efficiency.

Seven new members, all young ladies, were initiated, and after the ceremonies the rooms were thrown open and visitors were allowed in.

A fine spread had been provided and every one did justice to the tempting viands. The meeting ended with speeches and the expression of good wishes between the visitors and their hosts.

A VERDICT MONDAY.

The Court Ready to Charge the Jury in the Abduction Case.

SOMERVILLE, Oct. 6.—The fame of the Stutts case had spread during the dinner hour, and when the bell tolled at 2 every seat in the Court House was filled. Every chair within the rail was occupied and the aisles were packed full. The space around the doors was filled to suffocation, and a constable stationed there prevented many from entering.

After court convened the father and mother of the unfortunate girl took the stand, in turn, and testified to the girl's leaving home and of going after her and finding her with Randolph in Howes's Hotel at Phillipsburg. The mother was much affected while testifying, and the father's eyes burned fiercely whenever he gleamed toward the prisoner.

The testimony was concluded, the counsel summed up, and at 4:20 the Court announced that owing to the lateness of the hour he would not charge the jury until Monday morning, and would excuse them until that time.

AFTER THE RAILWAY.

Borough Councilmen Think the Cars Run Too Fast and that the Company Violates Its Contract.

The Borough Council session last night was presided over by Councilman Needham, Mayor Saunders being away.

Rock avenue residents renewed their petition of a year ago, for lights; referred to committee.

A petition asking that Summit avenue be repaired was also referred.

The Edison Electric Light Company, through Secretary Cooley, demanded protection against the breaking of street lamps; referred to Committee on Fire, Water and Lamps.

Grandview avenue residents petitioned for a paved sidewalk on Grandview avenue from Somerset street a distance of 150 feet; referred to Committee on Streets.

The Borough Magistrate reported $28 fines received for three months.

The clerk reported a deficit of $66.83 on the road account and $200 41 on the Somerset street account.

The matter of compelling the laying of flagged sidewalks in certain portions, was discussed, and an ordinance will be submitted next meeting.

A communication was received asking that the existing grade of Giraud avenue be made the official grade, to save a cut of 11 inches. The matter was referred to committee.

Councilman Edwards called attention to the dangerous condition of P. M. French's sidewalks at Duer street and Craig place.

Councilman Needham criticised the street railway for not living up to its contract. He said it made a special marshal on duty pay fare, and was unfair in its transfer system. The Committee on Streets promised to investigate.

Councilman Edwards said he thought the cars ran too fast and too recklessly for personal safety. An ordinance to regulate speed will probably be introduced.

$1,000 was ordered borrowed for the general road fund, to make up the deficiency and pay for other necessary work.

FAREWELL TO THE DOCTOR.

Delightful Evening of M. E. Sociability.

A farewell reception was given to the Rev. Dr. J. L. Hurlbut, in Vincent chapel last night by the Ladies' Aid Society of the church.

It was a pleasant affair in every respect. The Rev. J. W. Richardson opened the exercises with prayer. Speeches were made by the Rev. W. R. Richards, of the Crescent Avenue church, and the Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes. Nearly every church in town was represented in the gathering. Miss Luckey delighted those assembled by singing two charming solos which were loudly applauded.

Dr. Hurlbut has moved to New York for good, and he will carry with him pleasant remembrances of the testimonial of affection and regard embodied in last night's reception.

An Interesting Letter.

The following letter contains much that will be of great benefit to many of our readers:

HIRAM, OHIO, 1892.

Dr. David Kennedy:

DEAR SIR:—I am 60 years old and generally played out, or so I have thought up to two weeks ago when I commenced the use of Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy. Since then I have experienced a radical change.

For the last 20 years I have been more or less troubled with inflammation of the bladder and kidneys, and as the years have gone by, I have surely and gradually grown worse until I should not have been surprised at any time that passing urine by nature's effort would cease.

Besides having constant pain in the kidneys and bladder, I have had rheumatic pain in every muscle and joint, and have often remarked that I did not believe there was a man living that had suffered as much as I had. I am not of an enthusiastic nature, instead I am rather a doubter, but I must say I have not for a single day in five years felt as well in every way as I do now. Have improved daily since I began the use of Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy. About a week ago I gave a man afflicted with bladder trouble, part of a bottle of Favorite Remedy and he said to me today: "that is a great medicine; I am better already," and he drove 8 miles to get a bottle. Very respectfully yours,

S. I. YOUNG.

UP TO DATE.

Good violins improve with use and age. If Stradivarius had made Pianos as well as violins, no one would care to own one of the former unless as a curiosity. There is little new in violin making, but there is something new every year in Piano making. Take care you do not buy a Piano simply because it was famous. With any Piano of ancient name and fame we invite you to compare the Steinway, Gabler, Vose, Sterling and Braumuller Pianos. They contain all new improvements that are desirable. They are up to date.

TRICKS OF THE TURKS

Schemes to Break Up Marsovan College.

Absurd Charges Against American Professors—All Sorts of Petty Annoyances—Perhaps the College Will be Closed.

NEW YORK Oct. 7.—Letters containing news of a disquieting character concerning the American missionaries and teachers in Marsovan, Turkey, have just been received by the Rev. Dr. Charles H. Daniels, district secretary of the American board of commissioners for foreign missions, in this city. Marsovan is the seat of Anatolia college, an educational institution maintained by the American board in that place for the training of the Turkish youth. It has been presided over for years by the Rev. Dr. George F. Herrick.

Dr. Daniels is not at liberty to disclose the authority of his information or the details of the difficulties which are causing such apprehension among the members of the board with relation to their representatives in Marsovan.

"Speaking generally, however," he said, "the troubles dated back to the burning of the building of the girls' school on the night of Feb. 1, last. This building was fired by enemies of the college, but the Turkish authorities affected to believe that it was burned by some of our own people. The United States government was notified of the facts in the case and the porte was compelled to indemnify us for the loss sustained. When the question of putting up a new building to take the place of the one destroyed came up, permission was refused, but was subsequently granted, provided we did not permit any teaching to be done there. That was rather an absurd prohibition, for what was use of a school if it could not be used for teaching? Finally a firman was granted which permited us to reconstruct the building and use it for education, but it was demanded that Dr. Herrick should no longer be allowed to remain there as one of the instructors.

"The outrageous charge was made that Dr. Herrick took advantage of his office to instill sedition into the minds of the pupils. Early in the year two of the professors, both Armenians, were arrested, tried, convicted and sentenced to death on the same charge, but the government afterwards commuted their sentences to exile. It is well known that they were innocent and had nothing to do with the posting of the seditious placards which were found on the walls of the cottage in the early part of January of this year. The Turkish authorities have always been opposed to our educational institutions there and lose no opportunities for a pretext to charge us with offenses for which they know we are in no wise responsible. Exactly who the offenders are it is not proper that I should say now. It is said by trustworthy correspondents that more trouble is in store for our teachers there, others having been singled out, as was Dr. Herrick, and it may be possible that serious difficulties will soon arise. It is probable that the state department will be called upon to interfere again in behalf of our citizens in Marsovan."

It was learned from several sources that it is extremely probable that the American board will take some action in the Marsovan case at its annual meeting in Worcester, Mass., next week. It is said that the situation will be so presented there that it may be deemed best to close the college altogether.

COL. M'CLURE SICK.

The Veteran Has a Complicated Attack of Rheumatism.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 7.—The condition of Col. A. K. McClure, who has been ill for some time, was less favorable yesterday. The rheumatic attack from which he has been suffering has resulted in suppuration, and a second operation was necessary to relieve the abscesses formed at the wrists and ankle. The patient is greatly enfeebled, but while the symptoms of constitutional disturbances are of a serious character it is hoped that the next day or two may indicate a turn for the better.

Twenty Thousand Miners Strike.

BRUSSELS, Oct. 7.—The strike of coal miners in the Charleroi district was unexpected yesterday. In sympathy with the men of the Borinage district, hundreds returned to work. Shortly before three o'clock, however, men began to leave the pits. More than 20,000 miners are now out and the number is likely to increase. In several towns mobs have gathered and are menacing the colliery officials. Troops have been sent from the large garrisons to aid the local authorities.

Government Finances.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—The treasury department lost nearly $8,750,000 in gold, its gold balance at the close of business standing at $89,926,000. The currency balance, however, increased nearly $3,000,000, so the net currency balance of $15,940,000 and the gold reserve of $89,926,000 make the net treasury working balance in round figures $105,800,000, or about $1,200,000 less than it was on October 1.

Emergency Cruisers.

ROME, Oct. 7.—The Italian government has arranged with the principal steamship lines docking at Genoa that in case of war their seven swiftest vessels shall be converted into armed cruisers. The arrangement is similar in most respects to the one maintained by the British government with the steamship lines flying the British flag.

Cruiser Montgomery.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—Admiral Belknap's official report on the accident to the Montgomery is received at the navy department and shows that while the injuries to her hull are not serious they are such as to disable her.

Noted Painter Dead.

LONDON, Oct. 7.—Madox Brown, the painter, died of apoplexy at his London house, yesterday.

EVERYBODY KNOWS HIM.

A Prominent Member of the Maine Legislature.

WHAT HE SAYS WILL RING OVER THE WHOLE LAND.

As The Trumpet Tongued Utterances of One of Our Great Men.

The word of Hon. John B. Prescott, formerly a prominent members of the Maine legislature is all powerful.

Mr. Prescott lives at Rome, Me. Everybody knows him, everybody respects him and everybody believes what he says.

And it is an interesting story which he tells and an eloquent tribute which he pays.

"Thirty-two years ago," he says, "I was attacked with neuralgia in my face and head, mostly confined to the right side. There was not often a day or an hour that I was not suffering with that terrible severe pain, so severe a great many times that for several days and nights I could not sleep or take any food excepting a little gruel.

"My nerves were terribly affected and I grew weak and feeble, as my many friends in the state of Maine, and more particularly in Kennebec county will certify to. About five years ago I was taken with what the physicians claim to be a liver and kidney trouble, a soreness over the right kidney; so much so that I could not bear to be rubbed.

"My bowels were very much constipated, could not urinate freely and suffered severe pain at such times.

"My troubles increased very much, and for the past six months I could not get up from my bed in the morning and dress before I would be in pain in my back and bowels.

"I would often be forced to drop down and rest me and many times be in such pain that I would cry like a child and ask why I could not die.

"I have used for the neuralgia all the liniments I have ever seen advertised for the cure of that disease, and for my nerves and kidney and liver trouble I have taken so many remedies that they are too numerous to mention.

"I have been treated by the leading physicians of Maine, have also been to Massachusetts to be treated by physicians in Boston, and from all I have received very little benefit. One eminent physician said that I could not be cured, and many physicians examined me and refused to treat me.

"I had given up taking medicine.

HON. JOHN B. PRESCOTT, OF MAINE.

"About the middle of December, 1892, my wife had been reading some of the testimonials of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. She told me she wanted me to try one bottle of the Nervura.

"I said to her I had taken all the medicine I should. She sent to A. P. Cram, the druggist at Mt. Vernon, and bought one bottle of the Nervura, and said she wanted me to give it a fair trial.

"I commenced taking it about the 25th of December. When I had taken it about two weeks the pain left me entirely from my back and bowels and I can urinate freely without pain and the neuralgia troubles me but very little.

I gained in weight in the month of January 12½ pounds. I am 67 years old and can work now every day, while before taking Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy I could not do any labor excepting a few chores.

I hope that anyone who is suffering from any trouble with the nerves or liver or kidneys will give Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy a fair trial. I know that they will get relief.

I can truly say that I thank God that such a medicine as Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy was created, and I still thank Him that I was induced to take this wonderful medicine. I write this without any solicitation."

The cure of so prominent and widely known a public man as the Hon. John B. Prescott has created a stir throughout the entire state of Maine. His friends and acquaintances are surprised, nay, amazed at his cure for they had long looked upon his recovery as hopeless. People are calling on him from New Sharon, Mercer, Belgrade, Mt. Vernon and Rome, and people are writing him from all over the country, inquiring about the remarkable facts of this cure by this truly wonderful health-giver, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy.

It is purely vegetable and harmless and all druggists sell it for $1. We would add also that it is the discovery and prescription of a well-known physician, Dr. Greene of 35 West 14th street, New York, who can be consulted free, personally or by letter.

CHOLERA INDICATIONS

Steamship Russia Reports Five Deaths at Sea.

Two Cabin Passengers and Three in the Steerage—Cases May Not be Cholera But Dr. Jenkins Takes No Chances and Quarantines the Ship.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—The steamship Russia, from Hamburg, arrived at the quarantine station yesterday and reported five deaths during the voyage. Two of the dead were cabin passengers and three were in the steerage. The deaths are all said to be from natural causes, but Dr. Jenkins decided to detain the vessel, disinfect the baggage and take every precaution against cholera. The ship belongs to the Hamburg American packet company. She left Hamburg Sep. 24 with a clean bill of health signed by Dr. White of the United States marine hospital service, who is stationed at that port to see that steerage passengers are quarantined five days and their baggage disinfected before they embark for this country. Captain G. Schmidt is in charge. She has 13 first cabin, 28 second cabin and 410 steerage passengers. When the Russ dropped anchor, Dr. Sanborn, the boarding officer, went on board and learned from Dr. Hoffman, the ship's surgeon, that there had been five deaths during the trip and other cases of illness, some of which had not yet recovered. There were two ship's surgeons on the vessel and a doctor among the passengers, who was brought into consultation. Their story is as follows:

All the steerage passengers were quarantined at Hamburg five days in accordance with the regulations. The ship sailed on the 24th. When one day out Catharine Luthge, a cabin passenger, 47 years of age, was taken sick and died. Her brother-in-law, who accompanied her, said that sea sickness and her weak condition caused her death. The second case was Ida Stubbe, a child one year of age, belonging to a family from Mecklenburg and a passenger in the steerage. On Sep. 27 she was taken with diarrhoea and vomiting and died on the 28th. Dr. Hoffman diagnosed the case as one of cholera infantum. The family to which the child belonged consisted of Gottfreid and Alwene Stubbe, father and mother of the child, a brother Charles, and Bertha Scheel. On the 30th the latter became ill with diarrhoea and vomiting. She was isolated in the hospital. She died Oct. 5.

On 30th Augusta Thomas, from Solingen, a first-cabin passenger, 30 years of age, who was accompanied by her brother, became quite seasick, and ate something which did not agree with her. She began to vomit and died immediately. Her brother stated her family is subject to heart disease, and this is given as the cause of death.

Wilhelm Schnutt, 15 years of age, a steerage passenger, was taken ill on the 3d. The doctors diagnosed his case as erysipelas of the foot and leg. He died Oct. 7. All of those who died, except the last, were buried at sea.

The doctors on the ship said that they were satisfied that none of the deaths were due to cholera. Dr. Sanborn reported to Dr. Jenkins, who made a personal examination of the vessel. He found her to be in excellent condition and the passengers to be a clean looking lot, considerably above the average of immigrants who come to this port. He decided to hold the ship as a precautionary measure for investigation.

Two passengers who are on the sick list with symptoms of cholera, and two suspects have been removed to Swinburne island.

LOUISIANA TERRORIZED.

White Caps Set Out to Run the State.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 9.—Louisiana is again terrorized by regulators and in many parts of the state the people are calling for a special meeting of the legislature to cope with them unless Gov. Foster takes immediate steps to suppress the outrages. The Jefferson investigation ended in a farce and none of those implicated in the lynching of the Juliens have been indicted. J. H. Ringgold of Catahoula parish and editor of the Louisiana Democrat, reached the city yesterday, bringing news of the appearance of white caps in Catahoula pariah, a part of Caldwell and and the eastern part of Grant. Gin houses throughout that section have been plastered with notices by regulators directing planters not to gin their cotton until the price had reached ten cents and threatening to burn the gin house of every planter who dares to disobey the midnight order of the regulators. Insurance representatives who had gone into north Louisiana for the purpose of writing policies on gins and other property, upon learning of the spread of the white cap movement to the parishes mentioned, concluded to make no effort to get business in that section.

Fatal Fun.

FREEPORT, N. Y., Oct. 9.—Henry D. Powers of Baldwins, aged 24, was returning from Freeport about midnight with five young men. In a spirit of fun the young men picked up a large telephone pole lying in front of the residence of Carman Smith, lifted it to their shoulders and carried it about a hundred yards. In throwing it to the ground all the others let go before Powers, and the weight threw him to the ground, breaking his neck and crushing the base of his skull. He died instantly. He was a son of the late Henry D. Powers, a well-known New York builder.

Rich Exiled Jews.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 9.—Father H. Grippins Honcharenk, a Russian exile known here as the Patriot Priest, is the principal authority for the statement that 22,000 Russian Jews, all men of wealth, have been exiled by the czar and are coming to America.

Sensational Suicide.

BISMARCK'S JOURNEY HOME.

Enthusiasm and Veneration All Along the Line from Kissingen.

BERLIN, Oct. 9.—Prince Bismarck has at last had sufficent strength to be removed from Kissingen to Friedricharuh.

Just before the train started, several bouquets were handed in to Princess Bismarck. The departure of the train was the signal for outbursts of cheers and wishes for a safe journey.

The same enthusiasm and veneration was displayed all along the line. People everywhere were eager to catch a glimpse of Bismarck. For the most part, however, he followed the advice of his physicians, and refused to see anybody.

At Friedricharuh the prince's home-coming was somewhat unexpected, as information of his departure from Kissingen had not reached there until late. The servants in the Bismarck household refused to believe the news until newspaper reporters assured them that they would soon see their master.

Bismarck stood the journey remarkably well and passed a fair night. Since his arrival messengers have been going to the castle incessantly with flowers and telegrams of congratulation and inquiry. Before the Bismarcks left Kissingen Prince Regent Luitpold sent to the princess a dispatch expressing his sympathy with her in her joy over her husband's recovery and in her hopes that his health would be restored completely.

HEROIC SERVICE.

Basil Lockwood, Who Saved Many Lives, Enters the Public Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—Basil Lockwood, a colored man who rescued several of the clerks in Ford's theatre building just after it collapsed, has been appointed to a messenger's position in the war department by Secretary Lamont in recognition of his heroic service.

Lockwood placed a ladder from the top of a telegraph pole to the third story of the building, holding it in place by his foot, and thus formed a bridge by which clerks confined to a narrow fringe of the collapsed floor managed to reach the ground in safety.

Secretary Lamont made the appointment at the earnest solicitation of the survivors of the catastrophe.

Off for Hawaii.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—Mr. Albert S. Willis, the new minister to Hawaii, whose departure for his post of duty was delayed in order to allow the president an opportunity to consult with him on Hawaiian affairs has left Washington for Honolulu, via San Francisco, after another extended conference with Cleveland and Secretary Gresham at the White House. At San Francisco Mr. Willis will join Mr. Ellis Mills, the new consul-general to Hawaii, and they will sail thence on the same steamer.

BISMARCK'S IRON WILL

Refuses to be Treated Like a Dying Man.

The Ex-Chancellor Determined to Get Well and Go Back Into Politics. Strong Influences Against the Government—Criticism of Financial and Foreign Policies.

(Copyright, 1893, by the United Press.)

BERLIN, Oct. 9.—Before leaving Kissingen Saturday morning Prince Bismarck received a dispatch from King Humbert of Italy offering him for a winter residence the royal castle at Capodi Monte near Naples. Bismarck, although declining the royal offer, expressed himself as greatly touched by the king's kindness. It is understood also that his reply to the king's message left the way open for his future acceptance of the royal hospitality.

Bismarck's dauntless resolution to get well and his determination not to submit to the treatment accorded to a dying man are his motives for refusing unusual favors from any quarter. Just what his condition is it is difficult to learn. The reports from day to day are entirely contradictory. Some of his old friends have ascertained, however, that he is taking keen interest in public affairs. In Kissingen during last week he dictated communications which have reached Herr von Bennigsen, leader of the national liberals, Baron Wangenheim, leader of the agrarian league, and several other politicians. Probably some of these communications were merely answers to inquiries as to his health. Others are known to have a bearing upon impending political developments.

The changes in the financial and foreign policy of the government might well arouse interest even in a dying man. The coming session of the reichstag promises to test the firmness of Caprivi's position more than did the last one. One strong influence against the government is the opposition to Dr. Miquel's scheme for the taxation of tobacco and wines. This may be enough to upset the whole project of financial reform. The tobacco revenue is calculated to produce a revenue of 40,000,000 marks. It was denounced by the official delegates to the financial conference as sure to prove absolutely ruinous to the German tobacco industry. This condemnation in advance has already moved Miquel to revise the scheme, which even in its modified form will provoke a hot conflict.

The next grievance of the opposition will be the new naval credits, which now are estimated at 50,000,000 marks. The financial guarantees given by the government last week to prop Italy's credit in Berlin and the concessions offered to Russia in the present negotiations for a treaty of commerce render Caprivi's partisans uneasy and his opponents furiously suspicious.

Most of the party programmes for the general election in Prussia have been published. The free conservatives have issued a notably agrarian manifesto to the Prussian electors. It says that bad harvests and low prices, together with the reduction of the grain tariff, have ruined agriculture and have spread socialistic and radical discontent to the point of demoralizing the trade and menacing the social life of the country. The return to the protective tariff and the rallying of conservative men round the government, says the manifesto, is the sole remedy for the threatening evils.

The villages on the Russo-German and Austro-German frontiers are crowded with Hebrew families who have been expelled from Russia, and are eager but powerless to emigrate to the United States. All are absolutely destitute and miserable. Men and women prostrate themselves before travelers and beg for bread or money.

AGAINST RACE TRACKS.

An Enthusiastic Meeting at Elizabeth, N. J.

ELIZABETH, N. J., Oct. 9.—An enthusiastic anti-race track meeting was held last night at the First Presbyterian church under the auspices of the Union County league, Dr. Kempshall presiding. Nearly all of the clergymen in the city united in the services. Dr. Kempshall declared that the existence of Christian civilization in New Jersey depended on the result of the coming election and charged the saloon power with being partly responsible for the present condition of affairs. Both political parties were arraigned. Other speakers scored the Linden township committeemen. Work at the primaries was urged upon the voters as the only way to redeem the state.

The Business Boom.

AMSTERDAM, N. Y., Oct. 9.—The two knitting mills of Warner, Deforest & Co., will start up to-day, running on short time. The silk mill will also start up and run until 10 o'clock in the evening. Howgate, McCleary & Co., rug manufacturers at Rockton, have notified their help that they can go to work at 12 1-2 per cent. reduction. The employes will consider the matter.

Double Turn.

POTTSTOWN, Pa., Oct. 9.—The Philadelphia bridge works, which have been idle for a short period, will start up to-day on double turn, contracts having been received to keep them busy for some time.

GET DOWN TO WORK

Lively Programme in Congress This Week.

Silver and Federal Election Questions to be Forced—Chinese and Bankruptcy Bills Next—Chance for the New York & New Jersey Bridge.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—It is the common expectation that this, the tenth week of the extra session, will mark an important epoch in the history of the congress. In both houses legislation of the first order of importance is pending, in the senate the silver repeal bill and in the house the bill to repeal the federal election laws, and it is believed that in both cases the week will mark a sensible advance towards a conclusion.

Wednesday the crucial test is to be made, that is if a sufficient number of senators respond by that date to Mr. Voorhees' summons to insure the attendance of a quorum. In that case the effort will be made to bring the silver repeal bill to a final vote by sitting continuously, the purpose being to tire out the opponents of the bill. If the plans of the repealers are successful, the bill will probably come to a vote before the close of the week. But if the silver men succeed in the attempt to break a quorum and force an adjournment at any stage of the proceedings they are confident that the senate will be obliged to pass a compromise measure or allow the entire repeal proposition to fail.

After the bill to repeal the federal election laws has been disposed of in the house, as under the pending order it will be on Tuesday, it is expected that the McCreary bill to amend and modify the Geary Chinese registration and restriction act will be given the right of way. When the bill was reported, the committee asked that two days be allotted to a discussion of the measure and that then a vote be taken on its passage. The committee on rules has not yet decided upon the terms of an order inasmuch as Representative Geary has expressed a desire for more time for the consideration of the subject.

Representative Oates desires to bring up the bankruptcy bill reported to the house last week, but prefers postponing consideration until the 16th inst., rather than to enter upon it at the close of the week. So it is possible that Mr. Geary will get an additional day for the Chinese bill. This would bring it to a vote on Friday. The house may then adjourn over Saturday, but nothing definite has yet been determined upon any of these matters.

The bill to authorize the New York and New Jersey bridge company to build a bridge over the Hudson at New York, is another measure likely to be called up at any time. A vote taken on the third reading and engrossment last Thursday disclosed no quorum and it still remains subject to the demand for a vote. Since that time the committee on commerce has recommended amendments intended to meet the objections then raised by Mr. Warner.

LAWLESSNESS AT RIO.

Foreign Ships May Be Needed to Preserve Order.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—The Herald's Montevideo correspondent cables that, being convinced that Peixoto is powerless to guarantee the safety of life or property of foreign residents of Rio de Janeiro from his soldiers, the diplomatic corps have given the president until Sunday to show that he can afford protection or declare his inability to do so.

In the latter case, the foreign warships in the harbor will be ordered to land men in Rio Janeiro to preserve order.

Serious differences have arisen in the diplomatic corps over the question of the right of intervention of European nations in American affairs.

The representatives of the South American countries and the United States are opposed to any interference in Brazilian affairs by the European diplomats, and stand on the theory of "America for Americans."

But no matter how this question is decided and what nations take it upon themselves to adjust the affairs of the war-stricken country, the universal hope in Rio Janeiro is that there will be foreign intervention.

The mere mention of a possibility of this proceeding is hailed with delight, and is regarded as giving promise of a regeneration of the country.

A Reverend Fraud.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 9.—For several weeks Rev. Robt. Anderson, a negro preacher, has been traveling up and down the Kansas, Fort Scott & Memphis railway advertising with flaming posters an excursion from all points on the road to Mammoth Springs, Ark., on Oct. 7. Thousands of tickets were sold and the reverend swindler pocketed the cash. Hundreds of negroes gathered at every town on the road from Memphis to Kansas City on the day advertised and boarded the trains for Mammoth Springs, but when the tickets were presented they were pronounced bogus. The negroes are greatly excited over the swindle and will lynch Anderson if he can be found.

Ghastly Nest.

HACKENSACK, N. J., Oct. 9.—The decomposed body of John Erbur, a Bohemian silk weaver of of Hackensack, who disappeared two months ago, was found in the woods near Benjamin's brick yard. His head was hanging at the end of a halter thrown over a limb. A litter of kittens was found nestled among the bones and clothes of the suicide, and birds had built a nest near by and lined it with hair taken from the head of the suicide. Dr. McFadden thinks that Erbur has been dead two months.

Fatal Wreck.

Williams College Centennial.

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., Oct. 9.—The Williams college centennial opened yesterday under most favorable auspices.

SECOND YACHT RACE

Vigilant Not Vain Over the First Victory.

To-Day's Contest Will Equal That of Saturday if the Wind is Sufficiently Strong—Confidence in Vigilant But Valkyrie May Win Yet.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—To-day the Vigilant and Valkyrie will battle on the seas once more for the possession of the America's cup. The Englishmen were not unduly cast down by their defeat on Saturday, nor were the Americans unduly elated at the result of the race. Yachts and crews are in good condition, and thousands who will go down to see the race to-day will probably see a good one.

The course will be a triangular one, and such a course is especially adapted to bring out the qualities of a yacht. There will be ten miles of running, ten miles of reaching and ten miles of windward work. The start will be at the Sandy Hook lightship and all the sailing will be on the open sea. If it is foggy or there is no wind the regatta committee of the New York yacht club has it in its discretion to postpone the race.

In looking over the race of Saturday and analyzing it, it is seen that the gain of 30 seconds that the Valkyrie made in the close reach going home was more apparent than real, for the Vigilant, in standing so far toward the Jersey shore, looking for the wind, sailed a longer course than the Valkyrie, and by so doing probably lost fully 30 seconds which the Valkyrie gained in the official time.

Martin Lyons, the pilot of the Valkyrie, is not at all cast down by the result of Saturday's race. He says that he honestly believes the Valkyrie the faster boat, and can win the cup.

Mr. Watson, designer of the Valkyrie, does not consider the race of Saturday any test of the relative merits of the two vessels any more than Thursday's attempted race.

Mr. Herreshoff thought that the Vigilant had certainly shown herself superior to the Valkyrie in light winds.

THREE PUBLISHERS ARRESTED.

Alleged Fraudulent Bills for Publishing Session Laws.

CORNING, N. Y., Oct. 9.—The arrest of Charles T. Andrews, editor of the Seneca County Courier; Clinton M. Stahl of the Waterloo Observer, and Thomas P. Hanse of the Farmers' Village Reunion, has caused intense excitement in Seneca county.

When Mr. Andrews was arrested the sheriff placed him in handcuffs, alleging that he feared forcible opposition to the arrest from the friends of Mr. Andrews. The accusations against these men, says the Seneca Falls Reeville, are of a serious character and were so considered by the grand jury.

In the publication of the session laws it is alleged Messrs. Andrews and Stahl combined to defraud the county out of $621.80 each, as indicated by the testimony before the grand jury.

In the publication of the official county canvass, as it was presented to and appeared before the grand jury, "the three publishers, Messrs. Andrews, Stahl and Hanse, deliberately and purposely presented fraudulent bills, each one receiving from the county $299.20 more than he was lawfully or justly entitled to receive."

YELLOW FEVER AT BRUNSWICK.

Twenty-Nine New Cases—Policeman Attacked on His Beat.

BRUNSWICK, Ga., Oct. 9.—Yellow jack is catching the people right and left, at their homes, or at their post of duty. Alex Pritchard, a well-known policeman was stricken while walking his beat last night. When the chill ran down his spine and his bones began to ache, he could go no further and stopped on a nearby curbstone. He sat and suffered; no people walked the deserted streets to note his condition and lend him aid in getting to his bed. After he had been in this position for some time a physician, Dr. Hugh Burford, passed on his rounds. Pritchard attracted his attention and Dr. Burford sent him home in a carriage, gave him medical attention, and sent his club back to headquarters.

Democrats Stop Fusing.

TOPEKA, Kan., Oct. 9.—Democrats of Kansas seem to be abandoning fusion with either party. In Franklin county, fusion received a set-back by straight-out nominations. Cleveland was indorsed and a free coinage resolution defeated. For the first time in four years, the Lyon county democracy put up a full party ticket. The democrats of Saline county also severed connection with the populists and will try to win with a straight ticket.

SCRANTON, Pa., Oct. 9.—Congressman Joseph A. Scranton, editor of the Republican, has been arrested on a warrant sworn out by deputy sheriff William Craig, charging criminal libel in an article which it was stated that the deputy was an embezzler, and closed with a paragraph declaring the same a joke.

WEATHER INDICATIONS.

For New Jersey Tomorrow: Fair Weather, Slight Changes in Temperature, Southwest to West Winds.

Yesterday's anti-race-track resolutions were too long-winded. Crisp snappiness, directly to the point, is the thing to hit the nail on the head.

The Hon. James E. Martine will make a most excellent Senator, but his acceptance of the nomination is only at the most urgent and continuous solicitation of the leaders of the Democratic party. His choice is to be not a candidate, but he is too good a Democrat to refuse his party's call.

The anti-race-track meeting of yesterday was not as large and energetic as had been hoped. Many seats were vacant on the stage and in the house, and a large number of people left before the meeting was nearly over. Talk and resolutions are all right, but work is what is needed, if any effect is to be produced.

THE MASS-MEETING.

ADDRESSES MADE AND RESOLUTIONS ADOPTED.

Not So Large an Attendance as Expected, and Not So Much Enthusiasm Against the Race-Tracks as Hoped For.

The empty seats in Music Hall yesterday afternoon were too numerous for a faithful chronicler to say that the house was a full one or that the meeting was over-enthusiastic.

Those seated on the stage were Col. Mason W. Tyler, the Rev. C. E. Herring, the Rev. C. Schenck, Craig A. Marsh, R. V. Lindabury, the Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards, the Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis, the Rev. Hobart Clark, W. M. Stillman, President of the Common Council S. A. Ginna, Isaac L. Miller, the Rev. C. R. Barnes, the Rev. Father Smyth and the Rev. Father Murphy.

Col. Tyler presided, and Dr. Barnes opened the meeting with prayer.

Col. Tyler made a speech in which the race-track managers were denounced as chartered libertines, licensed to break the laws. He held that 10 years of the present race-track laws would make New Jersey the paradise of gamblers, from which the schools and churches could not save the State.

Richard V. Lindabury made a stirring speech. He said the entire civilized world was pointing the finger of shame at New Jersey. He held that the primaries and the Legislature had been bought last year, and he urged that all honest citizens turn out at this year's primaries and secure the nomination of men pledged to fight the race-track evil. He made a glowing prediction that on next election day New Jersey would be redeemed from the gamblers, and said "with the banner of the church floating high over every other, we will be proud to say "By this banner we have conquered' ".

Robert Moore of Elizabeth told of young men whom he knew had been ruined by race-track gambling, and said: "I am a Democrat, but as God lives and my soul lives I shall know no partisanship till these ruffians are swept from power".

The Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis urged an entire remodeling of State politics, holding that this was a question not of this campaign but of good government and constitutional right.

The Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards presented a long preamble and set of resolutions protesting against the legalization of race-track gambling, and urging all citizens to vote only for men pledged against race-tracks. The resolutions challenged each party to see which could produce the best anti-race-track candidates.

The resolutions were adopted with one voice, and the meeting adjourned.

A FAKE RACE.

Willis Wins the 25-Mile Crawling Match.

In spite of all the efforts of the Lyceum Wheelmen to make an interesting contest out of the Willis-Coffin race at the Gentlemen's Driving Park, Saturday afternoon, it ended in an uninteresting fizzle through the action of one of the contestants.

As readers of The Press know the race was arranged by the racing committee to decide a tie that occurred in the 25-mile road race of Aug. 19, in which Coffin and Willis came off with equal honors for the time prize.

About 300 interested spectators assembled on the grounds and were rewarded in part by seeing a very fine run for the first 7 miles. Willis set the pace nicely for the first part of the run keeping up about a three-minute gait. Coffin passed him at about the 7th mile and set a snail's pace which nothing could make him break. He was constantly challenged to spurt for a mile or so, but would not stop crawling. The two men rode for miles within a few feet of each other, Coffin refusing to set the pace. At the 15th or 16th mile the committee concluded to put in pace-setters on the track, and they succeeded in livening up the race for a little while, but Coffin would only follow Willis and paid no attention to the pace-setters. Things went on this way until the racers had only a quarter of a mile of the home-stretch before them. Then they made a fine spurt and Willis forged ahead, winning by a very few yards. His time was 2 hours and 10 minutes. This, of course, was ridiculously large, and the committee did not know what to do about giving the medal, but as no time limit had been set down in writing, they concluded to allow the race to stand.

The committee claimed that a time limit was understood, but Coffin said he knew nothing about it. It was clearly Coffin's fault that the race was spoiled and he acted in a very unsportsmanlike manner. The general sympathy was with Willis and the crowd was gratified at his winning.

They'll Go as Permanent Drunks Some Day.

There was a fine array of "drunk and disorderly" subjects in the City Court this morning, and they were nearly all old offenders. James Garrison, Ludlum Frazee and "Silver-Tongued" James Emmons were given the choice of a $5 fine apiece or twenty days in jail. Emmons and Frazee paid, but Garrison concluded to stay out his time in his cell. The Court is getting tired of cases like the foregoing, and it is getting to be a pretty expensive pleasure for the toughs to get drunk more than once a week. The higher the fine, the better.

She Wore It To School.

"My new jacket, of which I am really proud," said a Plainfield lady, "was a sacque I used to wear to school years ago. It was large and of good quality, but very rusty and faded. A dip into diamond dyes transformed it into the stylish seal-brown jacket I am now wearing. It requires but little skill to use diamond dyes for every package contains simple and explicit directions, so that even a child can use these dyes with success."

VICTORY NUMBER TWO.

THE AMERICAN BOAT WALKS AWAY FROM HER RIVAL IN A STIFF BREEZE.

NEW YORK, Oct 9., 3:30 P. M.—The second of the international yacht races has resulted in an overwhelming victory for the Vigilant.

The course sailed today was the triangular one, 10 miles to a side. The first leg was sailed southwest. The yachts got off at 11:25.16 the Valkyrie leading by one length.

The Vigilant soon overhauled her and rounded the first stake boat at 1:6.35 the Valkyrie following at 1:11.17.

The Vigilant continued to gain and turned the second stake boat at 1:57. Valkyrie at 2:06. Vigilant crossed the line at 2:50, the excursion boats having deserted the Valkyrie. The British boat followed at 3.2 25. The Vigilant won by 10.37 corrected time. The wind increased from 16 to 30 miles during the race.

WAS THE FIRE INCENDIARY.

G. W. Cole's House Burns Down During His Absence and Its Owner Thinks It Was Set on Fire.

A mysterious fire occurred early Sunday morning in the house of George W. Cole, on Jackson street, near Front. Mr. Cole's wife and child were visiting in Brooklyn and had been away from home for some time. Mr. Cole left Plainfield Saturday afternoon by the 3:12 train on his way to Brooklyn to spend Sunday with his wife. At 2:30 he was in his house with his partner, M. N. Terrill, to see that everything was all right before he left. There was no fire of any kind left in the house.

At about 2:30 a. m. Mrs. Leake, who lives near by, was awakened by the crackling of the flames in the Cole house. She aroused her family and someone managed to send the alarm from box 18 The apparatus arrived in time to save the adjoining buildings but the house was completely demolished, with its entire contents.

Mr. Cole thinks that the fire was of incendiary origin as he is unable to account for it in any other way. The building was insured for $2,500 in the Norwich Union Company, of which Wm. A. Woodruff of this city is agent, and the furniture, it is understood, was insured for $1,500.

The secretary made the following report of the year's work:

SECRETARY'S REPORT.

In comparing the work of the Relief Association for the past year with that of other recent years, we do not find much that is different either in methods or in needs. There has been the same necessity for careful investigation in all cases, and careful application of relief, not only because of financial limitations but also to encourage the idea of self help to the greatest possible extent.

The plan of working in harmony with all other charitable societies in the city has been carefully adhered to that there might be no energy wasted in caring for those who could be otherwise provided for.

The various King's Daughters societies have assisted the work of relief very materially, and we have been able to work to much better advantage with them since one of their leading members has been appointed one of our Executive Committee.

There has been a slight decrease in the number of cases treated by the Executive Committee during the past year. Eighty families have received help. The number of individuals treated would be about two hundred and seventy-two. Of this number only twenty-three have been entirely new applicants.

The importance of the visitors' efforts is shown by the fact that the number of ineligible applicants has perceptibly decreased since it has been fully understood that each case is carefully investigated before help is given, except when the demand for immediate relief seems imperative. There have been only five cases where it has been necessary to refuse help, and in these instances it was found that the applicants could be cared for by relatives who were quite able to provide for them.

As nearly as we can estimate the proportion of different nationalities is as follows:

Irish	29
American	27
English	6
German	5
Colored	5
Danish	2
Scotch	1
Hungarian	1
Unknown	4

About thirty-two of the recipients have been able to do a small amount of sewing in return for the continuous help which has been afforded them. Seven have received help throughout the year without being able to do any work, while forty of our cases have needed only temporary relief.

The Employment Bureau, which forms the most important branch of our work, makes the following report:

Number of women who have received sewing	32
Number of garments made	1,194
Amount of sales from ordered work	$23.43
Amount of sales from beneficiary work	$173.76
Total amount of sales	$197.19
Parcels of second-hand clothing given gratuitously	133
Value of new clothing given gratuitously	$9.42

The amount of sales has not been as large as last year, a fact very much to be regretted since the income derived therefrom is very necessary to keep this department in successful operation. This means of furnishing work to the women is of special importance since it has been impossible to provide any suitable way of employing the men. The plan of starting a wood yard, so frequently urged, seems more desirable than ever this year, in consideration of the demands which the hard times may bring upon us this coming winter.

The Mothers' Class which has been under Mrs. Slevin's care has held twenty meetings, the members have completed forty garments, besides being very much interested in the books read to them, and very appreciative of the teas so generously furnished them by the ladies of the Board of Managers.

The Benefit Society has been in successful operation during the year, and the treasurer reports that $1,493.32 has been collected. Of this amount $1,072.48 has been deposited to the credit of 39 individual bank accounts, while $325.75 have been withdrawn from these accounts, $393.48 has been withdrawn by savers who have no bank accounts. The number of savers is now 150. The Boy's Club Branch of this Society has been re-organized this autumn and encouraging results are hoped for in this quarter.

In order to carry on this work satisfactorily a larger number of collectors is necessary. The weekly visits of these collectors are of great value, not only in aiding the savers to become more provident, but also in the personal influence that may be exerted.

Volunteers in this work will be most welcome and should give their names to either the secretary or the treasurer of the society.

There were only nine tickets for seashore excursions donated during the summer, but these were thoroughly appreciated by the fortunate recipients. The custom of distributing Thanksgiving dinners was well sustained, and about 85 families were provided for.

Since the Relief Association co-operates to a certain extent with the Poormaster, the members have a special interest in the condition of the town poor, and have made another effort during the past year to interest the community in securing a more satisfactory manner of caring for those in its charge. A committee was appointed to confer with Mayor Gilbert and to have the matter of providing a Poor Farm laid before the Council. Unfortunately it was thought to be a matter involving too much expense to receive any immediate attention. Thus the town poor are still maintained in a condition most detrimental to their own well being and which reflects no credit upon our otherwise progressive city.

In response to a request made by the World's Congress Auxiliary for some exhibit from our Society for the Columbian Exposition, Miss Leonard prepared a bound volume of the yearly reports of the Relief Association, with a photograph of the rooms, taken by Andrew Gavett, as frontispiece. This was so satisfactory that a second copy was obtained for the rooms, where it can be referred to at any time by those who wish to get a comprehensive idea of the work of the Society. Miss Leonard also sent a historical report of the Relief Association to President Gilman of Johns Hopkins University, which had been requested for use in preparing a history of Charity Organization in the United States.

We would, in conclusion, offer our sincere thanks to all our many friends for their generous assistance throughout the past year, and at the same time add a plea for their hearty co-operation during the year we are about to enter upon, since we realize that the need for their faithful upholding of our work will be more urgent than ever before.

Respectfully submitted,
MARY K. JOBS,

THE IDEAL SON AND DAUGHTER.

Outline of Sermon Last Night by the Rev. J. W. Richardson in the Park Avenue Baptist Church.

The text was Exodus xx: 12: "Honor thy father and mother." The speaker said in substance: "The Ideal son and daughter will never tell a falsehood to their parents. There is something terrible in a falsehood. It is so offensive in God's sight, that he has said, liars shall not enter Heaven. If a child can tell a lie to his parents, unless quickly reformed, the time is not far distant when he will either become absolutely untrustworthy, or an all-around rogue. Jacob lied to his old father. Pshaw, why mention it? It was soon forgotten. O no! a lie uttered one hundred years ago has roots in the present. Jacob never found a corner, around which he lost sight of that lie. By and by Jacob was old. Then the just recompense came, when his own sons sold their brother Joseph into Egypt, and then came and lied to him, telling him Joseph was dead. And the compound interest came in the time of famine, when those same sons returned from Egypt, where they had gone for corn, and again deceived old Jacob. No, young friends, a lie told in youth, will catch up with you in old age. A little girl came very early one morning to her mamma, and said, "Which is worse, Mamma, to tell a lie, or to steal?" The surprised mother said that both were so bad she could not tell which was the worse. And the little one replied, "Well, I've been thinking a great deal about it, and I've concluded it is worse to lie than to steal. If you steal a thing, you can take it back: 'less you've eaten it; and if you've eaten it you can pay for it. But"—and there was a look of awe in the little face, "a lie is forever!" Yes a falsehood is forever. This knowledge should deter a faithful son and daughter from telling a falsehood to their parents. Forever! O who wishes to go into Eternity, and there under God's revelation of the past, have his falsehoods paraded before those who on earth thought him pure and noble? Young friends, there are those in this congregation who wish that the dear old father and mother might return just long enough for their grown up children to take back some wretched things that were foolishly uttered in youthful carelessness. Hear me young men and women, if you would avoid a great many sad hours in the future do not tell a falsehood to your parents now. Tell the truth if you are whipped for it. Better have a welt across your back, than a stripe across your soul! Therefore tell the truth, and be a hero. Truth, like an arch-angel, will stand before the door of your heart and keep the seducer out. Have a care about your ways of speaking. Be exact. Do not exaggerate. Never stretch the truth for any advantage, however great. A falsehood, however told, whenever told, for whatever purpose told, is a boomerang which will come back some day, and hit your character right between the eyes.

THE TOWN IS HIS.

A. Venino Captivates the West by His Masterly Playing.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—The following facts of recent events here in Spokane may be of interest to many of my friends in Plainfield. My first recital took place last night, Sept. 28, having been postponed one week. It was a tremendous success. I can well repeat the old saying "I came, I saw, I conquered", for to-day Spokane is mine. I had an audience of 650 people, and these sat through the entire programme and applauded every number, which is something they never did here before. I had some fears as to the manner in which my selections would be received, as there was a great deal of music of the highest order, but these fears were dispelled after my first number, the variations of Haydn. I captivated the entire audience with it, and when I had reached the Chopin numbers, especially the Berceuse, you could have heard a pin drop in any part of the house. The concert was a complete success, and a big advertisement for our conservatory. In three weeks I shall be in the coast towns, my last concert being in Portland, Oregon. Spokane is beautiful; we have delightful weather, and the future of this western country is beyond description. The prospects, financially, are good. I think that we are on an upward move now.

I have been a sufferer from catarrh for years. I did so with great reluctance, but can now testify that after using it for six weeks I believe myself cured. It is a most agreeable remedy.—an invaluable Balm.—Joseph Stewart, 24 Grand avenue, Brooklyn.

MARTINE IS WILLING.

PLAINFIELD'S ORATOR WILL RUN FOR SENATOR.

He Will Listen, However, Only to a Unanimous Call, and Consents Only Because It Is Forced Upon Him.

(From The Sunday World.)

A decided change in the political situation in Union county so far as the Senatorship is concerned took place during the last few days. James E. Martine, the farmer orator of Plainfield, and about whose course so much doubt has been felt, has at last declared himself as being willing to run if he gets the unanimous call of his party to gird on his armor for the fray.

Mr. Martine, when spoken to by a World reporter, said he was not looking for any political office, neither would he stand in the way of any man's ambition to be Senator, but if his party called on him to accept the Senatorial nomination he would feel this to be a demand that he could not, as a good Democrat, refuse to obey. It was an honor for any man to be selected by his party, without a contest, to lead it in a political battle. If there was going to be any opposition then he stood ready to step aside and let some one else be the standard bearer. It would be at a considerable sacrifice to himself, from a business standpoint, if he were elected Senator, but the grand old Democratic party, in advocating whose principles he had spent so many years of his life, could cheerfully have his services in the Legislature if desired.

"It has been said," continued Mr. Martine, "that I have been holding aloof in this Senatorship matter because I wanted to run for the Congressional nomination next year against the present incumbent, Mr. Dunn. Nothing was further from my thoughts. I recognize the fact as a Democrat that Congressman Dunn, unless he makes a monumental blunder, is entitled to a renomination at the hands of his party, and had I got the Congressional nomination last year and been elected, I certainly should expect a similar recognition at the hands of my party. At present I have no political ambition and would be perfectly content to be allowed to remain an humble private in the ranks. I fully realize the fact that the battle this fall in Union county is going to be a desperate one, and that every Democrat must unite against the common enemy. It is openly asserted that trades and dickers are going to be made in the interest of certain offices, but should I be called on to lead the Democracy I hope that no bargains will be entered into, but a concerted and vigorous effort be made to elect the whole ticket. I have all my life been a consistent and straightforward Democrat and my party loyalty has never been questioned.

"I expect to work hard hard for the success of the whole ticket, no matter who the nominees may be, and I hope every true Democrat will give it his loyal and enthusiastic support. If this is done, then there can be no fear as to the outcome of the struggle."

The Democratic leaders are much pleased over the solution of this vexed question, and the knowledge that James E. Martine, of whose popularity there is no disputing, is ready to obey the behest of his party. It clears the field and leaves the Shrievalty question the only one now to be settled. It is not such an easy matter to do this, however, as the threatening attitude of the Citizens' Anti-Race-Track League is a potent factor to consider in naming a candidate for Sheriff. The league feels highly encouraged by Judge VanSyckel's vigorous charge to the Union County Grand Jury, and they are preparing for an aggressive campaign against any candidate for Sheriff who will not declare himself as being opposed to race-tracks.

It is practically conceded that the selection of Mr. Martine for Senator will mean that the Sheriff shall come from Elizabeth, but who the nominee will be is yet a perplexing question to solve.

There are five Richmonds in the field, namely: Freeholders Donohue, Moore and Sauer, ex-Assemblyman Hughes and ex-Alderman George A. Squire. Which of these will develop the most strength is something that cannot be determined except by the primaries.

Union Township has a standing candidate in Freeholder Woodruff, but the practical politicians say he won't be in it when the convention meets, although he may get the support of some of the outside townships. Freeholder Donohue's stock has gone up somewhat during the last few days, but not enough to make the other fellows despondent. In fact the race for Sheriff is an excellent free-for-all, where it's a hard job to pick a winner.

It is said that in the Second Assembly District a strong effort will be made by the Democrats of the townships to have either ex-Freeholder George Doty or Assessor D. Hobart Sayre nominated. The latter was a strong candidate when Thomas F. Lane bobbed up into public life three years ago, and he may now step into the Summit man's shoes.

The Republicans may nominate ex-Judge Cross in this district, as he would command the support of the Citizens' League.

The Republicans are keeping suspiciously quiet on the Senatorship, and as yet no candidate has been trotted out by them. It has been rumored that Mayor Alexander Gilbert, of Plainfield, may be their nominee, but Mr. Gilbert's position as cashier of a big New York bank would seriously interfere with his being a candidate, and it is not thought by those who claim to know him that he will permit his name to be used in connection with the Senatorship.

Plainfield Delegates.

The Classis of Newark, Reformed church, meets to-morrow morning in fall session, in Dr. Watters's North church, Newark. Trinity Reformed church of Plainfield will be represented by its pastor, the Rev. Cornelius Schenck, and Elder George L. VanEmburgh as primarius and Elder A. Willet as secundus delegate. The Craig Place German Reformed church will be represented by Elder Philip Bach.

A MAD RUNAWAY.

GREAT EXCITEMENT CAUSED ALONG PARK AVENUE.

Ladies Thrown From Their Carriage and Severely Hurt—Col. King's Gallantry, Solicitude and Hospitality.

About six o'clock Saturday afternoon a horse attached to a light buggy, driven by Mrs. John J. Willis, of Westfield, suddenly and without a warning became unruly and started to run. Mrs. Willis did not lose her presence of mind, but instantly took her horse well in hand, and had him fairly under control, when of a sudden he took a fresh start.

Near the Albion he collided with a team, overturning the buggy, throwing Mrs. Willis and her daughter, Margarete, to the ground; the horse freeing himself from the wagon dashed down the avenue.

Ready hands picked up the ladies, and they were taken into the Albion, where Col. King, the proprietor, and his estimable wife and daughter conducted them to the Colonel's private apartments. Blood was flowing freely from a severe gash in Mrs. Willis's forehead, where her head came in contact with the curb-stone as she fell, and Miss Margarete was suffering from a blow in the breast.

Dr. Fritts, who fortunately happened to be passing at the time, hastened to the Albion, and in a short time stopped the flow of blood. Taking several stitches in Mrs. Willis's forehead, and giving the necessary attention to Miss Willis, the doctor soon had his patients in condition to proceed to their home in Westfield.

Col. and Mrs. King and daughter received the grateful acknowledgment of the ladies for their kind and hospitable attention to the wayfarers in distress.

Bring Back the Absent.

The October number of Lauter's Musical and Home Journal has just been issued, and contains interesting and complete stories, poems from eminent authors, and many delightful selections of vocal and instrumental music. Among the latter list are "Bring the Absent Back to Me", by Wm. A. Huntley; "Our Cot in Tennessee", by W. T. Sudds; "My Fond Desire Waltz", by Adam Geibel. The same can be obtained free upon application at the piano and organ warerooms of S. D. Lauter Company, 657 and 659 Broad street, Newark.

"Robin Hood" by the Bostonians.

Plainfield people who would delight in seeing "Robin Hood" produced by the genuine Bostonians in all their own excellence and all of "Robin Hood's" glory, will be glad to know that their engagement continues in the Columbia Theatre, Brooklyn, all this week. They are now rehearsing a new opera, also, which they will present in the Columbia early in December. The Columbia is easy of access, being about three blocks from the bridge entrance.

The Greatest Yet.

"The White Squadron" with all the splendor of color, excitement of interesting action, display of marvelous scenic effects, and good players, will be seen in Music Hall, Thursday night. The story of "The White Squadron" centres about the stirring incidents in Brazil subsequent to the abdication of Emperor Don Pedro and the riots and insurrections that followed that historical period. W. A. Whitecar, Elmer Grandin, Gail Forrest and Frederick Julian are the principal members of the company.

DISSIPATION AND DEATH.

A Fallen Minister Ends His Career With a Debauch.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 9.—Waldo Messros, who was once a well known minister of this city and later of New York, died yesterday in the German hospital.

Mr. Messaros recently lost his church in New York and later domestic discord added to his troubles, his wife instituting a suit for divorce. This is said to have driven him to drink, and he had been dissipating heavily lately.

He had been stopping at the Washington hotel up to last Friday, when some friends induced him to try the gold cure for drunkenness.

It is said that his friends found him lying on the floor of a room in the gold cure institution sick and helpless.

They sent for a physician, who pronounced his condition critical. He was sent at once in an ambulance to the German hospital where his death occurred.

Mr. Messaros who was about 43 years old will be chiefly remembered for his turbulent career as pastor of the Northwestern independent church of this city, which he maintained shortly after his arrest, trial and acquittal on a charge of attempted assault on Mrs. Coulston, one of his parishioners. He was an eloquent speaker and was very popular as a platform lecturer.

He claimed that he was born in Greece, but this was doubted by many, who held that his birthplace was in this country, and that the name of Waldo Messaros was an assumed one.

Fell From a Meteorite.

HARTFORD, Conn., Oct. 9.—What is supposed to be a meteorite has been dug up on the Loomis lot at Windsor. It is a hard, smooth, peculiarly formed stone, about 3 1-2 feet by 2 1-2 feet and 18 inches thick with a knob at one end. It was found about four feet below the surface, with indications that it had been driven there by some great force. There is no stone of a similar character in the neighborhood.

With Non-Union Men.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 9.—The Clinton Iron works will be started with a force of non-union men. A force of sixty colored non-union puddlers have been secured, who have agreed to work for $4 a ton. The Clinton mill has always heretofore been governed by the amalgamated scale and rules.

Run Over By Four Men.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—J. W. Schofield, the English crack bicyclist, was run over by four men at the races at Manhattan field Saturday. It is thought he is fatally injured.

I suffered for more than ten years with that dreadful disease, catarrh, and used every available medicine that was recommended to me. I cannot thank you enough for the relief which Ely's Cream Balm has afforded me. Emanuel Meyers, Winfield, L. I., N. Y.

I am an old man and have been a constant sufferer with catarrh for the last ten years. I am entirely cured by the use of Ely's Cream Balm. It is strange that so simple a remedy will cure such a stubborn disease. Henry Billings, U. S. Pension Att'y, Washington, D. C.

FIGHTING IN MOROCCO.

Holy Men Preach Extermination and No Quarter.

MADRID, Oct. 9.—The cable to Melilla has been repaired and dispatches of the most serious import are arriving. The "holy men" throughout Morocco are preaching a war of extermination. They exhort the Moors to drive out all European infidels and to give no quarter to Spaniards captured in battle.

The Kabyles continue to arrive at the camp of the tribesmen near Melilla. The Moors have now more warriors than can be fed from the district to which they have immediate access and a famine threatens. They have kept up a desultory fire on the Spanish fortress for the last 24 hours. The Spaniards have replied occasionally, but without perceptible effect. The Moorish commander with a small force and a flag of truce called upon the governor of Melilla and sued for peace. He assured the governor that the sultan's intention was to inflict exemplary punishment upon the belligerent tribesmen. The governor answered that Spain could not and would not await the sultan's pleasure in the matter, especially as he was taking his leisure in giving satisfaction for the attack on the fort.

The Moors fusiladed the Spanish gunboat Cuervo as she was leaving Melilla harbor, after having landed troops and ammunition. The gunboat put about and for 20 minutes shelled the Moorish camp. Twenty-four shells were sent into the centre of the Moors' position and their fire was silenced.

One marine on the Cuervo was wounded. The loss of the Moors is believed to have been considerable.

2,500 DEAD.

Fatalities of the Louisiana Storm—Starvation Among Survivors.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 9.—The news from every section struck in by the storm makes it safe to estimate the loss of life at fully 2,000, while millions of dollars worth of property was destroyed. Besides that thousands of people have been deprived of the means of making a livelihood. The situation is appalling, but New Orleans is doing all it can to relieve the thousands in want. Dr. Story, coroner of Plaquemine parish, has made the following report: "A good many carloads of provisions have been sent, but not near enough. Men, women and children are without food and clothing. They have become so desperate that they have threatened to attack the the stores and steal food. It is a frequent thing to see little sufferers crying and begging piteously for something to eat. Single graves for the dead were impossible. Great trenches were dug and bodies were piled in one on top of the other. The earth was thrown over them and if their names were ascertained they were cut in rude crosses above the graves. I do not think I exaggerate the facts when I state that at least 2,500 souls were ushered into eternity by the recent storm in Louisiana. This, of course, includes the Bayou Cook county, Cheniere, Camanada, Grand Isle, etc. I never saw bodies decompose so rapidly as those of the storm sufferers which were viewed by me. This was due to the fact that the fish and crabs in the bayou eat the remains. I believe firmly that the marshes and other places are filled with human forms."

UP TO DATE.

Good violins improve with use and age. If Stradivarius had made Pianos as well as violins, no one would care to own one of the former unless as a curiosity. There is little new in violin making, but there is something new every year in Piano making. Take care you do not buy a Piano simply because it was famous. With any Piano of ancient name and fame we invite you to compare the Steinway, Gabler, Vose, Sterling and Braumuller Pianos. They contain all new improvements that are desirable

GEMS IN VERSE.

Will.

There is no chance, no destiny, no fate,
Can circumvent or hinder or control
The firm resolve of a determined soul.
Gifts count for nothing. Will alone is great.
All things give way before it soon or late.
What obstacle can stay the mighty force
Of the sea-seeking river in its course,
Or cause the ascending orb of day to wait?

Each well born soul must win what it deserves.
Let the fool prate of luck. The fortunate
Is he whose earnest purpose never swerves,
Whose slightest action or inaction serves
The one great aim. Why, even Death stands still,
And waits an hour sometimes for such a will.
—Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

Woman's Age.

This is woman's age, I tell you.
She is striding to the front;
She is ready in her armor
To endure the battle's brunt.

This is woman's age, I tell you.
Where's the field she is not in?
Where's the contest where her courage
And her prowess cannot win?

This is woman's age, I tell you,
And her "nay" and "yea" have weight
In considering the crises
That decide a nation's fate.

This is woman's age, I tell you.
And the fetters fall away
As she passes from oppression
Into Liberty today.

This is woman's age, I tell you.
She is climbing up to where
Proud Parnassus rears his summit
In the pure and perfect air.

This is woman's age, I tell you.
She has entered every work,
And if men would still be leaders
To their laurels they must look.

This is woman's age, I tell you
She will never retrograde;
Peace and Progress are her watchwords
And of Truth her feet are staid.

This is woman's age, I tell you,
And she pledges it shall be,
By the grace of God, the noblest
Age that earth shall ever see.
—Susie M. Best.

Patience.

Be patient! Easy words to speak
While plenty fills the cup of life,
While health brings roses to the cheek,
And far removed are care and strife.

Falling so glibly from the tongue
Of those—I often think of this—
Whom suffering has never wrung,
Who scarcely know what patience is.

Be patient! when the suff'rer lies
Prostrate beneath some fell disease,
And longs, through torturing agonies,
Only for one short hour of ease.

Be patient! when the weary brain
Is racked with thought and anxious care,
And troubles in an endless train
Seem almost more than it can bear.

To feel the torture of delay,
The agony of hope deferred;
To labor still from day to day,
The prize unwon, the prayer unheard.

And still to hope and strive and wait
The due reward of fortune's kiss—
This is to almost conquer fate,
This is to learn what patience is.

Despair not! though the clouds are dark,
And storm and danger veil the sky;
Let fate and courage guide thy bark,
The storm will pass; the port is nigh.

Be patient! and the tide will turn,
Shadows will flee before the sun.
These are the hopes that live and burn
To light us till our work is done.
—All the Year Round.

Progress of the Peoples.

Upward, upward press the peoples to that pure, exalted plane
Where no throne shall cast a shadow and no slave shall wear a chain.
They have trampled on the fagots, broken crucifix and wheel,
Banished block and thong and hemlock, and the headsman's bloody steel;
Forced the churchhold to surrender stake and scourge and bolt and bar;
Torn the keys from off its girdle, thrown the gates of Truth ajar.
They have forced the titled tyrants human rights to recognize,
And with bayonet and saber they have slain a legion lies.
They are lighting lamps of freedom on a million altar stones
With the torches they have kindled at the blaze of burning thrones,
And this light will sweep and circle to the very ends of earth,
Touching with immortal beauty every heart
and every hearth,
Thrilling every human being underneath the silent skies
And transfiguring our planet to a perfect paradise.
As we higher march and higher on into this light serene,
Every man will be a kaiser, every woman be a queen.
—Will Hubbard-Kernan.

Thank God For Friends.

Thank God for friends, the valiant and the true,
Who've stood beside us in each hard won fight
Sharing with us our sorrow and delight.

Thank God for friends, the loyal clasp of hands,
The eloquence unspoken of the eye,
Each social cheer, each fond endearing tie.

Thank God for friends who in the darkest hour
Turn not aside, but stay to help and cheer.
They are the ones within our hearts held dear.

Thank God for friends, refreshing as the showers
That bless the earth in sultry summer time,
Bringing us peace, like some old poet's rhyme.

Thank God for friends. Around each trusting heart
Their tendrils, like the ivy, cling and climb
The sturdy oak, the slender windswept vine.

Thank God for friends; but, after all, how few!
We must not lose them, be they yours or mine,
While we are worshipers at friendship's shrine.

Thank God for friends; for everything we hold
Will soon be spent, but where life's border ends
The sunrise with the sunset blend in one.
—Moses Gage Shirley.

The Reason.

Ask why I love thee, my dearest maid?
Think'st thou the reason entered my head,
Think'st thou I paused ere I chose thee apart,
Pondered and weighed ere I gave thee my heart?

Ah, know you not that you gave me no choice?
Quick flew my heart at the sound of thy voice.
All that was best of me gave I to thee,
When first thine eyes cast their glory on me.

Ask why I love thee? Then just as well
Ask why the leaf by the sweet rose doth dwell;
Ask why the dew loves to rise to the sun;
Ask why the streams to the great ocean run;
Ask why the lark sings so loud in the sky.
They cannot tell thee, love. The same why
Makes me love thee with its same mystic spell—
This is the only why, love, I can tell.
—Philadelphia Press.

Dethroned.

A king was he yesterday, ruling his realm
By a nod or a beck of his hand,
And never were subjects more loyal or proud
Of a sovereign's behest and command.
A king yesterday—but alas for the change
Which may come in a night or a moral
The king is dethroned, for today came the queen
When the sweet baby sister was born.
—Harper's Young People.

PUNISHED BY POVERTY.

A St. Louis Bank Embezzler Suffering in New York.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 9.—Almon B. Thompson, cashier of the Provident savings bank of this city, after embezzling $63,000 for which he was to account the following day, robbed the safe of $13,000 and fled to Canada. For seven years he has been thoroughly lost to the public as though in his grave. Thompson's wife and two daughters shortly disappeared in like manner. The bank went to pieces but paid 90 cents on the dollar. The Thompsons were forgotten until last week when the wife entered suit by attorney against a younger brother of Thompson, who had administered the estate of their father, deceased in 1888. By the elder Thompson's will, the wife of Almon B. was to receive a legacy. It was to secure this legacy that suit was brought. On Friday last the whereabouts of the missing Thompsons was revealed. They were found in two back rooms of a shabby boarding house in New York. Thompson, careworn and prematurely aged, is a bookkeeper on a meagre salary. The elder girl is writing in an insurance office, while the younger is bedfast with a lingering illness and the mother an invalid. Thompson's story of his wanderings and suffering is pathetic. Luck deserted him from the moment he fled this city. There are no claims or charges against him here, as everything was righted by his father. He says he will not return to St. Louis, where he was once on the top wave of the social world, but will plod on to the grave in the fight with poverty.

Purifying Politics.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Oct. 9.—The ministers of the various churches of this city have decided to form a moral reform society the object of which is to purify politics. Notice was read from every pulpit Sunday requesting the congregation to choose three delegates to represent the church at the meeting to be held at the Second Presbyterian church. Rev. John L. Scudder, in reading the notice to the congregation at the Tabernacle, supplemented it with an outline of the plan to be adopted to get candidates pledged for the repeal of the race track laws and to influence the voters.

Elmira Investigation.

ELMIRA, N. Y., Oct. 9.—The committee of the state board of charities which is investigating the administration of affairs at the Elmira reformatory, spent Sunday at the institution. No session was held but the committee was present at all of the exercises in which the prisoners take part. A tour of the institution was made and the prisoners questioned.

On His Dignity.

BERLIN, Oct. 9.—As the town council has refused to improve the castle square here so as to provide a play ground for the emperor's sons, he has decided to limit his residence in Berlin to the period required by official necessity. He and his family will pass the rest of their time at the new palace in Potsdam.

ANOTHER VICTORY FOR THE VIGILANT

The American Yacht Wins a Decisive Contest in Heavy Weather.

VALKYRIE BEATEN AT EVERY POINT

Glorious Race from Start to Finish. Valkyrie Leads at First But is Overtaken by Vigilant and Left Far Astern—Thousands of Spectators Witness the Struggle—Comments on the Result—Third Race Will Probably be Sailed To-Morrow.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—Yesterday was Great Britain's day so far as weather for a yacht race was concerned, and Lord Dunraven and all the crew of the rakish black cutter were happy when they went down the bay in the morning.

C. Oliver Iselin and the gallant crew of the white cup defender were the happy ones when the yachts came back in the afternoon. They led a triumphal procession of yachts and excursion craft up the harbor, for the Vigilant had added another victory to her score. She had walked away from the Valkyrie in a wind that had topped the seas with foam and drove clouds of spray over her weather bows.

The day was an ideal one for an outside race. The air was clear as crystal. It had the vigorous freshness of October in it, and every old salt who sniffed it in the early morning predicted a blowing day. The yachtsmen, American as well as British, were glad that the day had arrived when there could be no excuse of light wind for either of the contestants. All felt that the comparative merits of the two crack single-stickers would be made plain before the day was over, and the anxious citizens of two nations would be able to make something more than a guess as to which is the queen of yachts. The first of the international races was a run to leeward and return. That of yesterday, the second in the series of three in five, was a triangular course of 30 miles, ten miles to the leg. There was bound to be windward work, and reaching and that always makes a prettier race than a leeward run.

The Start.

At 11:25 promptly the starting gun flashed from the magic port bow, and the red ball was lowered from the triatic stay. The Valkyrie and Vigilant had both been a little over to the westward but were then bearing down for the line, the Valkyrie a trifle in the lead. They were both on the starboard tack, with the Vigilant's nose almost abreast of the Valkyrie's weather quarter. When the echo of the starting gun died away, both boats put down their helms, shot up into the wind, and darted for the line, the American about five seconds ahead, and a little to windward. Both of them hoisted their jib topsails as they crossed, the Valkyrie an intermediate and the Vigilant a small one. Despite the seemingly great advantage that the Vigilant enjoyed by having the weather guage of her antagonist, the English cutter walked right through the American boat's lee, and gained more than three lengths in the first ten minutes. Both yachts seemed to be pointing equally high, but the Vigilant's people were pinching too much, for her head sails were shivering in the breeze, while the weather leech of the set topsail was flat at back at times. The sails of the Valkyrie were wrapped full, and she seemed to be outfooting her rival with ease.

Under Strong Wind.

By noon the wind had freshened considerably and the American boat accordingly began to hold her own. At 12:05 the Valkyrie was forced to take in her jibtopsail, but the Vigilant held to hers. This, of course, heeled over the American boat considerably, while the Englishman seemed to stand up as stiff as a house. The Vigilant rapidly closed the gap between herself and the Valkyrie, and when it looked as though she was going to pass her to the windward the Valkyrie went on the port tack at 12:07. So rapidly had the American boat overtaken the Englishman that had the latter gone about he could not have crossed the Vigilant's bow. Of course the Vigilant being on the starboard side had the right of way, but instead of forcing his rival to go astern, Mr. Iselin tacked 25 seconds later than the Valkyrie. Both yachts stood to the westward. At 12:16 the Vigilant, heeling well over to leeward, was forced to take in her jibtopsail. Both yachts now began to watch each other very closely, and set their jibtopsails each within a few seconds of the other—the fresh breeze finally forcing them to take these light sails down.

Vigilant Ahead.

The rivals held each other quite as close in beating as they did in making and taking in sail, and they were determined not to split tacks. At 12:48 the Valkyrie went in the starboard tack, followed by the Vigilant one minute later. Again she tacked at 12:51, followed immediately by the Valkyrie. At 12:56 the Valkyrie stood off to the southward on the starboard tack while the Vigilant stood inshore for the first mark on the port tack. At 1:01 the Englishman tacked again, and stood for the mark, the American then leading by three-quarters of a mile. At 1:04 the Vigilant, then about 200 yards north of the mark, went on the starboard tack and headed for the first turn, which she passed on the port hand two minutes and thirty-five seconds later. At 1:10 the Valkyrie came bounding along for the mark, went on the starboard tack, passing it also to port one minute and twenty seconds later. Both yachts eased their sheets as they rounded and bore away for the second mark with a fresh breeze on the starboard quarter, setting their big jibtopsails as soon as the course was shaped. The Valkyrie also set a snow white balloon foresaysail, and for a brief instant seemed to gain a little on the Vigilant. At 1:25 the American boat took in her jibtopsail, but the Englishman held on to his. The run to the second mark was without incident except that the breeze continued to freshen and the Vigilant gradually increased her lead. The racers ran for the second mark with booms broad off to port, gybing around it to the port tack, and shaping a course for home with the wind almost on the port beams.

The Finish.

From the second mark to the finish off Sandy Hook lightship, it was a broad reach on the port tack, shifting to a close reach as the wind canted to the westward. The Vigilant seemed literally to fly through the water from the moment she gybed around the mark, and when the red outline of the lightship revealed itself in the haze, the vaunted English cutter was hull down fully three miles astern.

The yachts made for the line, established by the May and the lightship, with the wind a little forward of the port beam, and blowing almost half a gale. The old lightship, a water mark dear to the hearts of yachtsmen owing to memorable contests that have been sailed around it, has never silently witnessed such a magnificent panorama as was spread before it yesterday afternoon, when the Vigilant proudly swept by almost skimming the water with her immaculate skirts.

There can be no doubt now in the minds of experts as to which is the better boat of the two, for the Englishman was beaten yesterday on every point, and in his own weather. In no condition of wind or sea can the Valkyrie be reckoned in the same class as the Vigilant, and it only remains for them to sail in a bowling gale under working canvass and housed topmasts, for the American boat to win a still more decisive victory.

Both Yachts Saluted.

All the excursion boats saluted the Vigilant and also the Valkyrie as they steamed past them coming to the city.

The next race will be Wednesday if a slight accident to the Vigilant can be repaired in time. She sprung her bowsprit while covering the first leg of the 30 mile triangle. The damage to her bowsprit makes the American yacht's victory the more emphatic as she was forced to take in her baby jibtopsail to avoid further trouble from the tremendous tension. The next race will be a beat to windward, 15 miles and return. Should the Vigilant win again, the America's cup will remain here at least another year, and the American centreboarder will still be the champion yacht of the world.

What Designer Watson Says.

George L. Watson, designer of the Valkyrie, said, when asked for his opinion of the race:

"They beat us and that's all there is about it, first and last."

"Did you have any trouble?"

"No. Everything was square. Vigilant outsailed us on every point."

"Was the Vigilant's success due to her model as a centreboard, or to her quarter-sail area?"

"I can't say. Of course she carries more sail. The Vigilant is a remarkable boat."

"Would the Valkyrie do better in a heavy, choppy sea?"

NERVOUS EXPECTANCY

Belief That Congress is About to Do Something.

Silver Question Reaching a Climax. Wild Rumors of Compromise That Cannot be Verified—Federal Election Bill to be Pushed.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—The session of the senate was given up entirely to considering the Sherman act. The question came up in three separate forms. The first was a sort of personal explanation by Mr. Harris (dem., Tenn.) in reply to resolutions adopted at a joint meeting of the Memphis cotton and merchant's exchange, condemning the course of the Tennessee senators on the silver question. Mr. Harris declared his disregard of a threat contained in the resolutions, and said that the maintenance of self-respect was of vastly more importance to him than any office within the gift of the people. After that incident came up the resolution offered by Mr. Wolcott (rep., Col.) last Saturday, instructing the finance committee to put into legislative form the bi-metallic declaration of policy contained in the Voorhees substitute. Some of the most impassioned speeches made since the opening of the debate took place on this resolution.

Mr. Wolcott criticised the president for his letter to Governor Northen of Georgia, characterizing it as "intrusive, offensive and unfitting the relations that should exist between the legislative and executive departments of the government."

Mr. Voorhees made the resolution the groundwork of a speech defending the repeal bill, and asserting that the statement that it demonetized silver, even if repeated a hundred thousand times, was not true. He declared that he was ready, when the Sherman law no longer disgraced the statute books, to act promptly in carrying out the pledge which the bill contained.

The Wolcott resolution was finally sent to the calendar and the repeal proper taken up. Upon it Mr. Cockrell (dem., Mo.) occupied the floor for three hours and a half, and had not concluded his remarks when the senate, at 5:30, adjourned.

The Election Bill.

In the house debate on the federal election bill closed yesterday and voting will begin to-day. At no time during the discussion has there been much attention given to speakers on either side of the question. Throughout the past ten days the attendance in the house has been far below the average, and the disputants usually addressed a large array of empty seats. Even the last day of the discussion was not productive of much interest. The principal speakers on the republican side were Dolliver of Iowa, Payne of New York and Boutelle of Maine. The latter is one of the most aggressive talkers in the house, and he introduced some fire in the debate, but it soon died out. New York provided the democratic controversialists, Coombs, Lockwood and Fitch being its champions.

Wild Rumors.

Wild rumors bearing upon the silver situation were current about the capitol yesterday, the most important of which includes the possibility of an attempt to adjourn congress until December. According to this story, which cannot be confirmed, but which has come to the ears of various senators, the president is credited with having expressed a hope that the senate would adjourn rather than accept any compromise. The silver senators, in discussing this rumor, say they will oppose any attempt to adjourn, because they want action of some sort. It was also said, upon the authority of a senator whose standing is high in his party, that a compromise had been practically agreed upon. All of these statements were received with a proper amount of "salt."

Democratic Caucus.

The house democratic caucus last night, after a session of two hours, unanimously adopted a resolution that it was the sense of the caucus that the federal election should be passed to-day, and that the democrats should present an unbroken column in its support.

The Erie's Big Excursion.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—The Erie's special world's fair excursion which left Jersey City with 400 passengers yesterday morning, promises to be the largest of the season. Over 600 people from points on the Delaware & Hudson joined the excursion at Binghamton, and the number from points along the Erie will be very large. At least six trains will be necessary to handle this excursion, which will arrive in Chicago with over 2,000 passengers from New York state.

WEEKS WILL RETURN.

Minister Baker Says Costa Rica Will Give Him Up.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—That the United States is to have F. H. Weeks, the New York defaulter, given into its custody was the news confirmed in a cable message received by the secretary of state yesterday from Mr. Baker, the United States minister to Costa Rica, but whether this information is based on a formal promise from the Costa Rica government, state department officials will not admit. Mr. Baker said in his dispatch, sent from San Jose, where Weeks is now in custody, that the authorities desired either reciprocity in the extradition of criminals or a treaty of extradition as a return for turning Weeks over to the New York detective sent by District Attorney Nicoll. Some hitch may arise through this condition, if it can be called such, as Minister Baker has instructions to inform the government of Costa Rica that the United States can promise no reciprocity in the absence of a treaty, and in fact is powerless to grant any request for the extradition of fugitives from Costa Rican justice who may be in this country. Assurances of the negotiation of a treaty, however, will not be so difficult to make although the United States government has been somewhat chary in having extradition agreements with Central American countries on account of the difficulty in distinguishing between political and criminal fugitives who come to the United States after every revolutionary outbreak in Latin-American republic."

TALKS ON FINANCE.

The House Currency Committee Still All Ears.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—Representative Warner of New York yesterday made a brief statement before the house committee on banking and currency regarding the methods pursued by the bank of England in issuing notes, and the provisions made for their redemption.

Representative Lester of Georgia spoke at some length in favor of his bill to repeal those sections of the revised statutes which impose a tax on circulation other than that of national banks. He regarded the taxation of state bank notes as a war measure, the necessity for which had ceased to exist. He considered it now as an imposition and injustice calculated to give national banks a monopoly. The instance of clearing house certificates he believed to be illegal. He argued that the state bank tax was unconstitutional.

Chairman Springer read a decision of the United States supreme court, delivered by Chief Justice Chase in 1869, which held that under the constitution congress had undertaken, by suitable legislation, to provide a national currency which would supply the demand of trade. Other methods of increasing the circulating medium were not legitimate except those instituted by congress. This decision prevented the issuance of notes to be used as money by individuals or banks other than those designated by congress.

Judge Lester held that if congress had undertaken to provide a national currency they had neglected to do so.

CHURCH BOUNCING.

Father Smith Not Yet Rid of Father Murphy.

PATERSON, N. J., Oct. 10.—During the absence of Rev. Father Henry B. Murphy, late curate of St. Joseph's Roman Catholic church, from his residence yesterday, the pastor, Rev. Dr. S. B. Smith, entered the place, forced the deposed priest's niece, a young girl, out of the house and nailed the windows and doors. A committee of parishioners being apprised of what the rector had done hastened to the house and forced the doors open and led Father Murphy into his parlor. Dr. Smith stated that the real cause of the curate's dismissal was immorality and drunkenness. Several hundred persons gathered around the residence while the doors were being reopened.

Chinese Act.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—Representative McCreary, chairman of the committee on foreign affairs, had a conference yesterday with Speaker Crisp, at which the outlines of an order from the committee on rules for the consideration of the McCreary bill to amend and modify the Geary Chinese registration and restriction law were agreed upon. The bill will be taken up after the election bill has been disposed of and consideration entered upon without limitation in the order. Mr. McCreary expects that it will be disposed of.

CHICAGO'S GREAT DAY

Seven Hundred Thousand People at the Fair.

Twice the Attendance of the Biggest Day at the Paris Exposition and Three Times Any Day at the Philadelphia Centennial.

CHICAGO, Oct. 10.—Seven hundred thousand people, doubtless the greatest crowd that ever congregated, visited the world's fair yesterday, breaking the greatest one-day record at Paris by an overwhelming majority; completely smothering the "big day" figures of any other exposition ever held, and establishing a mark, which it is safe to predict, the present generation will never see attained.

When the morning sun, looking through a light mist, peeped over the white periphery at 5 o'clock many people were nearing the different entrances to the grounds, and by the time the gates opened, 6:30, fully 1,000 people besieged each passage eager for admission. From that hour until late in the afternoon there was a constant jam at every gate. The department of admissions had an extra force on duty and every turnstile was kept registering at its highest speed. Yet these facilities were inadequate. At 1 o'clock Superintendent Tucker ordered every wagon gate opened and stationed a corps of men at each to take tickets, relieving the pressure from without to a marked degree.

About 4 o'clock, when it was seen that the crowds had diminished sufficiently to permit of their successful handling by the regular entrances, the wagon gates were closed after 500,000 people had been admitted. To this vast army 181,000 were added in the next three hours. The glorious October weather and the grandness of Chicago day at the fair kept the crowds coming all afternoon and evening. A conservative estimate at midnight placed the attendance for the day at 700,000.

Previous to this ever memorable day, the palm for large attendance rested with Independence day, July 4, when the attendance was 283,378. Other days notable for great crowds are: Illinois day, 243,951; transportation day, 231,522; Polish day, (last Saturday) 223,176; Knights of Honor day, 215,643; Pennsylvania day, 208,460, and railroad day, 202,376. The total number of paid admissions since the opening of the fair is 16,492,070. The greatest day at Paris was 397,150 and at Philadelphia, 217,326.

EMMA GOLDMAN GUILTY.

An Attempt Made to Secure a New Trial.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—The jury in the trial of Emma Goldman returned a verdict of guilty yesterday afternoon. Miss Goldman was seated by Attorney Hall, and though she smiled cheerfully when the jury returned her face was unusually pale and her lips twitched nervously. Miss Goldman smiled half contemptuously when she heard the verdict, and Attorney Hall immediately rose to his feet. At his request the prisoner was remanded until Monday and a notice for a motion for a new trial was given.

The offence for which she was convicted was attempting to incite to riot. Under this verdict she may be sent to the penitentiary for a term not exceeding one year, or the court, in its discretion, may let her off with a fine.

Ford's Theatre Disaster.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—Judge McComas has overruled the demurrer filed on behalf of Col. F. C. Ainsworth, and his co-defendants, indicted for manslaughter in connection with the old Ford theatre disaster. Defendants were granted one week in which to petition the court of appeals. Unless the appeal be allowed, the defendants will have to further plead to the indictments.

Gold Reserve Decreasing.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—The treasury gold reserve has decreased to $88,328,000, a loss since Oct. 1 of $5,248,000. The currency has increased to $17,847,000, a gain since Oct. 1 of $4,553,000. These figures mean that the gold reserve of $100,000,000 has been invaded by nearly $12,000,000. This condition, it is said, is largely due to demands from the east.

Car Works Resume.

TROY, N. Y., Oct. 10.—The Gilbert car works on Green Island resumed operations yesterday after a shut down for six weeks under a receivership. Nearly 300 men were given employment. The works are sure to run until 50 cars for the Lake street elevated road of Chicago have been completed.

Ellison Gets a Stay.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—Judge Ingraham, of the supreme court, has granted a stay of execution of sentence in the case of Frank Ellison. Argument will be heard Thursday in chambers on an order to show cause why the stay should not continue pending appeal for a new trial.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—The opening day of the October term of the supreme court of the United States attracted an unusually large and notable attendance of counsel and visitors.

HOW'S THIS, MR. AICHER?

What Right Had You to Aid These Buncoers?

A Westfield man on the 1:17 train this morning telegraphed from the Westfield station to the Plainfield police that he had been robbed of $10 by bunco men on the train. Policeman Giese prepared to capture the fellows, but when the train reached Plainfield he found that they had locked themselves in the car, with their victim on the platform outside.

Conductor Jacob Aicher was appealed to to open the car, but he only said "If you break that car in, you'll have to pay". The Westfield man said "I'll break it in", and did so, but while the policeman was arresting the buncoers the signal-rope was pulled and the train moved on.

The policeman and the buncoed Westfielder had to jump, and the buncoers escaped, thanks to Conductor Aicher's valuable assistance. Patrons of the road should be protected from occurrences like this.

GREAT THINGS AT ALL SAINTS.

Rector True Raising Fanwood's Church to the Position which it Deserves.

The Rev. Dr. True, first rector of All Saints church, Fanwood, has organized a Young People's Society which gives promise of outrivaling similar societies in larger churches.

On the evening of the eleventh of this month a grand entertainment will be given by the Young People at the Watchung club-house backed by the elite of Fanwood and this city.

It is rumored that Messrs. Stanbury and Moore will be the end men with Mr. Briggs in the middle.

The net proceeds will be devoted to the purpose of cushioning the church pews, and everyone will be heartily welcomed to the entertainment by the noble little people who are so ably assisting in the work of maintaining the church.

Wm. Collins will run two stages from Scotch Plains before and after the entertainment.

MEASURING THE MEN.

Is It for New Suits, or Purposes of Identification?

Two experts are now taking the measure of the agents at the different stations on the Central road.

As the measurements are taken at night and as no notice is given to the men in advance it seems a question whether their size is being taken for new uniforms or for purposes of identification as is done by the Paris police.

Fanwood's night operator could give no positive information when appealed to. A. H. Lack and T. F. VanHorn are the gentlemen taking the measurements, and certainly are very accurate and quick.

A Great Entertainment.

The sale of seats for the Mock Trial to be given in Music Hall next Monday evening, under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. began at Leggett's Pharmacy yesterday morning at 7. Those desirous of obtaining good seats should not delay in securing them, as the entertainment will be largely attended.

The trial will be given under the personal direction of A. V. Newton, of Worcester, Mass., who has conducted similar trials 150 times in Massachusetts alone. The universal testimony is that the entertainment is a great success and the probability is it will be a long time before the walls of Music Hall will re-echo with as much laughter as will be heard on this occasion.

Mr. Newton will act as lawyer for the defense, and the other twenty-four parts will be taken by Plainfield gentlemen. Further particulars appear in the advertising columns.

Too Much Gas for the Judge.

Justice Nash had an unpleasant experience last night. Some one accidentally left the gas turned on in the front hall of his house, and the escaping illuminant filled the upper bedrooms and penetrated to the system of the crystal-minded Justice so that he feels very unwell this morning. The smell of the gas awoke Mr. Nash, and by traveling around with a match he located the open burner and stopped the leak.

RED MEN'S NIGHT.

JOLLY EVENT IN MIANTONOMAH WIGWAM.

Fourth Anniversary Gloriously Celebrated by the Local Tribes and by Visitors from Distant Trails.

The anniversary of Miantonomah Tribe, No. 118, held in their handsome wigwam last evening, will long be remembered by those who were present. The wigwam was beautifully decorated for the occasion by Messrs. Houseman, Vroom and Sanger, and they deserve great credit for the artistic arrangements of the wigwam, which was beautiful, to say the least. As one entered, his view was met by a humorous placard bearing the following words "My aunt don't know me as the leaves begin to fall, but you are welcome, welcome in the Red Man's Hall!" and another with "Welcome guest, welcome, and speed us on our way, for we are celebrating our fourth anniversary day".

On entering the main hall a magnificent sight met the eye. On the platform could be seen a large Indian tent or teepe, over which was a large motto bearing the words "Welcome, Great Sachem". On the right of the centre was "Welcome, Iona Council", and on the left "Welcome, Great Chiefs and Visiting Brothers". Various mottoes of the order were displayed upon the side walls, and drooping from the massive chandelier, and from the centre of the large dome, was bunting, the color of the order, drooped to the four cardinal points.

At 8:15 the Chairman of the Committee, Richard Seaman, called the gathering to order, and bade them welcome; then a most delightful pantomime was given, entitled "Peace," arranged by Sachem John H. Carney, and executed in full Indian costumes by Messrs. Carney, Houseman, Vroom and Sanger. The costumes were loaned for the occasion by Brother Julian Scott. The pantomime was well executed, and a decided success. Photographer G. Thorn then took a flash-light of the room. Mr. Guttman played an overture. The chairman then introduced one who scarcely needs an introduction to a Plainfield audience, John H. Carney, who as Sachem of the tribe, in a few words thanked the chairman and members of his Tribe for their hearty support they had given him, and introduced Past Great Incohone Thomas Francis, of Camden, who gave a history of the order. After this Great Prophet Fred Wahl, also of Camden, whom the members of Miantonomah always welcome, and Great Senior Sagamore Chas. Brown of Paulsboro, kept the audience in roars of laughter. Then Great Chief of Records Daniel M. Steven of Camden, also a great favorite with the Tribe, pleased them all by his remarks. Great Guard of the Forest Harvey Green, of Orange, was introduced, and Mr. Carney in behalf of the officers and members presented a beautiful Past Sachem's regalia to Past Sachem Wm. A. Westphal, who was completely surprised, and could scarcely find words to express his thanks. Fred J. Lewis sang that beautiful solo "A Star in Bethlehem", accompanied by that accomplished pianist, Mrs. Fred Canfield. District Deputy Great Sachem Andrew J. Stiglitz in a few well-chosen remarks, reported that his district was in a flourishing condition.

Deputy Sister Newcorn favored the company with a beautiful solo, which was well rendered. Supreme Representative Norman C. Magee, better known as the Deacon, favored the company with a few choice remarks, which were heartily received. Brother Trust, a great worker in the order, gave a piano solo. Sister Cox, of Iona Council, kept all in roars with a humorous recital. Prophetess Sister Westphal sang a most delightful solo, which was most heartily received and brought forth round after round of applause. Chief of Records William Newcorn recited in a most pleasing manner, showing careful training, and at once captivated the audience.

Pocohontas Sister Mrs. George Richter in a few well chosen remarks thanked the Tribe in behalf of her Council for their kind invitation. Keeper of Wampum Sister Andrew J. Stiglitz rendered a delightful solo, which was indeed well received and heartily encored. As an Irish comedian W. A. Westphal made a decided hit. The chairman thanked the audience for their kind attention, which was the signal for Guttman, whose orchestra played a most delightful march, which was led by Mr. and Mrs. Wm. A. Westphal, after which dancing was indulged in till the early hours of the morning. An elaborate repast was furnished, to which all did justice. The entire affair was pronounced a decided success, and the committee, Messrs. Seaman, Newcorn and Westphal, deserve great credit for the entire affair. Guttman and orchestra delighted all with their choice selections in bringing to a close the fourth anniversary of Miantonomah.

Worship in the Oil-Cloth Works.

The Rev. J. W. Mitchell's Emmanuel Baptist church are to have a home of their own. Yesterday they negotiated with McIntyre & Hand for the purchase of what is known as the "office wing" of the old oil-cloth factory on North avenue, for $300. The building is brick, 30x60 feet in dimensions, and is to be removed at once to the vacant lot owned by the church on Richmond street about 125 yards distant.

MONDAY NIGHT AT THE FAIR.

The Cobweb Party a Success and Everyone Got a Prize—The Attractions for the Week.

The Cobweb Party at St. Mary's fair last evening proved a source of great amusement to a large gathering of people. As everyone who attended was entitled to a prize, at the time set for the drawing the crowd naturally rushed for the starting point, each one anxious to secure his or her string and follow it to the end to secure the prize.

To those who do not understand the meaning of a cobweb party a brief explanation will not be amiss. It consists of hundreds of strings arranged around the hall in every nook and corner, over chandeliers, under chairs, and everywhere, in order to puzzle the person choosing any one string and leading them a long chase before reaching the end. At the end of each string is a prize and, last evening, owing to the generosity of the fair managers, every one present made a rush for the wheel to which the strings were attached, and there was a great scramble for awhile. There were 150 admissions, which of course, meant 150 prizes. The prizes consisted of different styles of articles from a pincushion to a handsome pair of slippers.

During the evening a young lady made her appearance in the hall dressed as an apple woman and made considerable fun for the younger people in trying to dispose of her fruit.

This and Thursday evenings there will be dancing for all, and O'Reilly will furnish the music.

On Wednesday evening J. T. Vegiard will be on hand and endeavor to please the patrons by his many interesting recitations. Mr. Barrell, who at one time was the leading tenor in St. Patrick's Cathedral, Philadelphia, and who also traveled with different opera troupes as their foremost singing attraction, will likewise be present and entertain the audience with some of his choice selections.

Friday evening everyone will be pleased to greet John Carney, the German comedian, who is a whole show in himself when rendering his many funny recitations and singing his original comical songs. A quartette of local male voices is also expected to be present, and some singing out of the ordinary is looked for, as the gentlemen comprising the quartette are reputed to be above the average.

Saturday evening there will be an auction to dispose of all the articles left on hand, and some good bargains are promised for that night.

Fathers Smyth and Murphy are highly elated over the success of the fair thus far, and say that financially it reaches far above their expectations.

The young ladies at the different booths were kept busy last night attending to the wants of their patrons, as were also the charming young waitresses at the refreshment tables.

THE HOME.

A Fraud Exposed, and a Need Stated.

To the friends of the Children's Home:—Several times during the past summer a young woman has been dishonestly making collections for the Home. At one time she stated her collections were to buy a standing desk for the Matron, and later were for our family needs. The same person made early in the season an appeal for the Yose family in their sickness and distress.

To a lady on Seventh street she gave her address as Miss Meeker, of Raymond avenue, in this city.

At the monthly meeting of the officers Oct. 5, it was voted that we should make at this time an exact statement of our financial needs.

We closed our year ending May 1 with an with an unusual balance of $1,088.83. Out of that sum we have paid our household bills for five months; they average about $200 a month. Our September bill was much larger—$372.69, as it included the printing of our annual reports, and $200 for necessary repairs to our buildings, including the piazza and some grading in the yard. We begin October with $405.14 in our treasury.

We have twenty 20 children in our Home, having received eight during September.

The amount on hand will only carry us through November.

We make this statement relying on the unfailing generosity of our friends, whose faithfulness we have tested for sixteen years. Under no circumstances do our officers send anyone to beg from door to door.

Any donations for the Home may be sent to Miss Ella Serrell, Treasurer, 625 West Front street, or to Mrs. Horace Kimball, 219 East Fifth street.

By order Home Association,
N. E. KIMBALL.

The White Squadron in Plainfield.

"The White Squadron", Pearson's big patriotic and inspiring spectacular drama, will be the novel attraction in Music Hall Thursday night. A feature of the play will be gorgeous and resplendent costumes and especially noteworthy scenery. In the corps of players there will be nearly 200 people, who will give the play its magnificent features. The cast, which is a strong one, includes W. A. Whitecar, Laura Almossinno, Elmer Grandin, Gail E. Forrest, Robert Nell, Jessie Deagle, Frederick Julian, Edna Post, George F. Hall, E. J. Lawlor, and others.

In Private Practice.

Such strong proofs of the marvelous cures made by Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy have been brought to public notice lately through the various newspaper investigations, that it has become now the standard medicine for the disease for which it is prepared.

Dr. G. H. Ingraham, of Amsterdam, N. Y., states where the regular prescriptions used in a case of kidney disease and gravel utterly failed, he prescribed Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, and it cured the patient.

Dr. Wm. Smith, of Jewett's Heights, N. Y., prescribed Favorite Remedy for Mrs. Casper Brooks, of Athens, N. Y., who was suffering from kidney disease, ulceration of the stomach, complicated with sickness peculiar to her sex; after the second day, steady improvement was noted, and final permanent recovery.

Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy acts directly upon kidneys, liver and blood, in cases of nervousness, dyspepsia, rheumatism and Bright's disease; it has made most pronounced cures, after all other treatments have failed.

I have been a sufferer from catarrh for years. Having tried a number of remedies advertised as "sure cures" without obtaining any relief, I had resolved never to take any other patent medicines, when a friend advised me to try Ely's Cream Balm. I did so with great reluctance, but can now testify that after using it for six weeks I believe myself cured. It is a most agreeable remedy.—An Invaluable Balm.—Joseph Stewart, 24 Grand avenue, Brooklyn.

The object of the exchange is to raise money to meet this extra expense. On the payment of a nominal fee any woman may leave needlework or other goods at the rooms with the price affixed. If the article is sold, a commission of ten per cent. is retained by the exchange. The Westfield Public Library was organized in 1879. REESE.

Who for Assembly?

(From The Sunday Herald.)

In the Second district Rahway and Plainfield are engaged in a hand-to-hand encounter for the distinction of naming the Assembly candidate. It is scarcely worth the while for the Democrats to fight over the Democratic nomination. Because the district is overwhelmingly Republican. But for the Republican nomination William Chamberlain is pushed by the Rahway folks and Councilman Parrell by the Plainfield folks. Westfield comes in as a pacificator with an offer of lawyer Coding.

He'll Talk of the Fair.

All the young people of the congregation of the Crescent Avenue church are cordially invited to a social to be held by the Young People's Association in the church parlors Friday evening at 8. The evening will be devoted to the World's Fair, and a talk by Dr. Richards will be illustrated by a stereopticon.

Upset His Load.

A cart belonging to Aaron Brower of New Brooklyn and loaded with produce broke a wheel in the street railway track on Front street early this afternoon. The contents of the cart was scattered broadcast over the street.

—The Wide-Awake Circle will meet Friday at 4 p. m., in the W. C. T. U. rooms.

SOME ODD STORIES.

INTERESTING TALES OF ADVENTURE ON SEA AND LAND.

A Thrilling Adventure in the Devil's Mountains, Arizona—Buried Alive, by a Fall of Rock and Released by an Earthquake—Sam Yool's Wonderful Yarn.

[Copyright, 1893, by American Press Association.]

Three years ago, when I was in Yuma, A. T., I met and made the acquaintance of Sam Yool, a tough, grizzled, weather beaten veteran of the mountains and plains, a miner, prospector, cowboy, scout and adventurer in general. Yool, to my surprise, proved to be a little man, with a restless hand and eye, despite which signs of nervousness I was told he was cool as ice in moments of danger. Being in a good natured mood, he told me several stories of narrow escapes through which he had passed, one of which I consider sufficiently "odd" to bear retelling.

"Do you know anything about the Devil's mountains?" asked Sam abruptly, and when I shook my head he declared: "You're in luck. You don't want to know anything about them. They're part of the Mogollon range, and certain the most ornery section of this yere country. A good part of them are bare, baked deformities on the face of the earth, and a man has to scrummage around right smart to find wood or water anywhere.

"For a long time I had been hearing stories to the effect that there were rich gold placers and pockets in the Devil's mountains, and I finally resolved to investigate. The section had a bad reputation, for it was said many prospectors who had ventured among the barren mountains never returned to tell what they discovered. But that did not faze me a hair, and as I could not get any one to go with me I started off all by my lonesome self, having a tough little Indian pony for riding, while my outfit was packed on a burro.

"Well, I don't propose to tire you with the account of my search for yaller. I didn't find a sign, and I had decided to get out shortly when one night a band of wandering 'Paches dropped down on me. It was just before dark, and I had settled down for the night close by the mouth of a cave that opened black and ugly in the face of a barren bluff. The reds came on me by accident, and I'll allow they were as much surprised as I was—mebbe a little more so, for my rifle was within reach, and I opened on 'em instanter.

"I bored two of the whelps and drove 'em back, but I knew they'd come whooping down on me in about two shakes, so it was high time to hit the best locality for fighting. In sweeping my eyes round I saw the mouth of the cave.

"'That's the ticket!' I cried in delight, and then yanking up the picket pins of my critters I made a run for it. I didn't stop to gather up my outfit, for I knew I didn't have any time to waste.

"I got into the cave all right. I didn't know how large the place was or anything about it, but I made up my mind to lead the pony and the mule back where they wouldn't be so apt to get hit with bullets or arrers. All at once something happened. There was a jarring sound and then a rumbling roar. I was flung forward on my face, blinded and nearly choked with dust, and then I found myself in utter darkness.

"When I recovered enough to sit up, I struck a match and looked around. What I saw wrung a groan from my lips, and I reckoned I was done for sure. A big mass of rock and earth had fallen from the roof of the cave near the mouth, blocking the entire entrance. There were tons upon tons of the stuff, and with neither pick nor spade I could not tunnel out in two months. It looked as if I was doomed to perish of hunger and thirst.

"Both my pony and the burro had been caught beneath the falling mass and crushed to death. It seemed a miracle I had escaped.

"I can't describe my feelings just then, but I decided to explore the cave for another outlet. That seemed to be my only hope, and it was a pretty slim one. All the same, when I had recovered from the dazed condition into which the affair had thrown me, I set out, lighting a match now and then.

"The cave proved to be a monster. There were dozens of passages that branched off in all directions, and I was forced to trust to luck in choosing. I don't know how long I prowled round, all the time scared of falling into some deathtrap hole, but I finally lost my nerve and tried to get back to the blocked entrance.

"Then I made a discovery that lifted my hair. I was lost. I couldn't find my way back. I have a rather hazy recollection of what followed, but I know I prowled about like a maniac, crying out now and then and hearing nothing but the sound of my own voice as it echoed along the black underground passages. I know I prayed, and I ain't ashamed of it. It seemed as if I had been in that terrible cave for days, and I fancied I was already growing weak from want of food and water.

"All at once a wonderful thing occurred. I heard a faraway muttering that seemed to come from the bowels of the earth, and then there was a sharp report that caused the ground to reel and hurled me prostrate. I saw a blinding glare of fire, and then I reckon I must have gone clean daft.

"When I came round to reason, I saw there was a big crack right up over my head, and the sun was shining straight down on me. I didn't stop to ask how that crack came there, but I just climbed for it. By means of rocky points and projections I managed to work up to the fissure and pull myself out to the open world. Happy? Well, I got right down on my knees and thanked God the best I knew how. Then I looked around to see how it had happened.

"Pard, I am telling you the square truth when I say the whole side of that mountain was cracked and seamed. It took me some time to get the thing through my head, but I finally understood an earthquake had rent an opening in my living tomb and provided a method of escape. That very day I struck some greasers who were making a cut through the mountains, and so I am here to tell of what I consider the narrowest escape of my life.

"I don't want to hear any human critter say as how there ain't a God," concluded Sam Yool, "for I know better! It was his hand that opened the cave for me to escape!"

I suffered for more than ten years with that dreadful disease, catarrh, and used every available medicine that was recommended to me. I cannot thank you enough for the relief which Ely's Cream Balm has afforded me. Emanuel Meyers, Winfield, L. I., N. Y.

I am an old man and have been a constant sufferer with catarrh for the last ten years. I am entirely cured by the use of Ely's Cream Balm. It is strange that so simple a remedy will cure such a stubborn disease. Henry Billings, U. S. Pension Att'y, Washington, D. C.

HOT AFTER BROCKWAY

Significant Evidence at the Elmira Investigation.

Prisoners Alleged to Have Been Outrageously Paddled—Convicts Have an Opportunity to Tell the Story of Their Wrongs.

ELMIRA, N. Y., Oct. 10.—The Elmira reformatory investigation committee continued its inquiry at the reformatory at 9 a. m. The committee deems the most important testimony yet adduced to be the statement of Superintendent Brockaway under oath on Saturday that the board of managers did not designate the punishment in vogue as they are required by law to do. Mr. Richard J. Murray, who was employed as overseer in the printing department from March until June this year, testified:

"My attention was first called to the disciplinary measures used in the prison one day in May when a young man named Murray was paddled. Later I took him into the printing department. Soon after he was reported for talking and taken to the bathroom, and when he returned I did not know him. His left eye was swollen and black and blue. There was a spot under his arm the size of an orange. There was a lump on his forehead, and the skin was cut. The cut was about three inches on the cheek. Then I was away for three weeks and when I came back I inquired for Murray. He was then in the hospital, but the next day was taken out and buried. Murray was about 18 years old, and his home was in Boston.

"I have seen other prisoners on the way from the bath room after treatment with their faces cut and bruised to return to work. I remember a man who was taken from a cell next to mine one night about 9 o'clock by the night watchman to the guard house.

"The next day he was given a course of paddling treatment in the bathroom, which confined him to his cell bed two or three weeks, and then came to be photographed, in which department I worked. He was bruised in the small of the back, and his back was broken out. I received four blows with the paddle on my naked back and two over the head as I turned during the punishment. My back was black and blue for a week or ten days. The back of a man named O'Brien came up to be photographed. I noticed that his back was very much broken up from paddling. I was reduced to the convict grade twice for fighting."

Chief Clerk Heppe then produced the record regarding the punishment administered to young Murray, showing he had been to the bathroom four times; was admitted to the hospital March 30, and died there on June 10 last. The cause of death was given as influenza-pneumonia. At this point Commissioner Craig said that officers of the institution would be excluded during the testimony of inmates.

Judge Gilbert said the prosecution wished to show by the witness that Mr. Brockway had performed punishments which he denied. The witness continued:

"When I was working about the solitary I noticed a man chained to his cell door for over ten days. These cells were in a filthy condition. I saw Mr. Brockway tell a prisoner in the yard and fall on him. He struck this prisoner with a cane which I think he obtained from Mr. McKeloy. I saw the latter strike a prisoner on the head with a cane in the presence of Mr. Brockway. The latter told McKeloy to shoot the prisoner, when he gave up a clay pipe which was the cause of the trouble. I put a dozen dark doors on cells. They were portable and could be moved to any cell."

The committee reconvened at 8 o'clock and remained in session until 7 o'clock. Mr. Stanchfield asked the committee if it would meet their approval should the board of trustees reinstate Superintendent Brockway after the committee had finished the taking of testimony at the institution. Chairman Craig said that as the governor had not referred that matter to the committee, the latter would decline to express any opinion in this regard. Mr. Stanchfield said the defense would call no witnesses until after the affirmative testimony had been presented.

I. H. Beach, of Elmira, was connected with the reformatory from September, 1878, to November, 1886, acting in various capacities. He testified to having witnessed punishments in the bathrooms at the solitary, and in the school room; he knew of a man being chained in a cell, to a sliding bar by one hand for weeks at a time. Such punishment was given to prisoners thought to be dangerous to handle. Men who refused to work were handcuffed and made to stand up to a post during working hours. He did not know of any cell being below the ground floor. Wooden doors were sometimes used, in addition to the iron doors, on a seclusion cell, so as to shut out the light. These were left on for two or three days, except when meals were served. During the six years he was keeper the average number of paddlings were ten per month. He saw the superintendent strike a man, who was being paddled, in the face with his clinched fist; never saw the blood flow from the back, on account of the use of the paddle, but he has seen a resemblance to blood blisters and a discoloration of the skin. He had seen a piece of rubber used in place of the paddle. He had seen a number of persons who had received blows on the head from Mr. Brockway for turning around while being paddled but they were not severe ones. Two men who refused to work and came near raising a mutiny among the prisoners in their shops, had been paddled two days in succession.

Mr. White, of the New York World, Mr. Stanchfield, representing the board of managers of the institution and Deputy Attorney General Gilbert were authorized to review the 1,000 letters written by the prisoners a couple of weeks ago and pick out twenty each on behalf of the prosecution and the defence, the writers of which would be given a private conference with the committee and afterwards be sworn in open session if either side desired.

A NEWSPAPER MAN.

Connected With the Great Paper, the Albany Express,

MAKES STATEMENTS WHICH THE PEOPLE SHOULD KNOW AND UNDERSTAND.

They Will Interest Not Only the Newspaper Fraternity But Everybody.

The popular and well-known Thomas A. Lindsay, who is connected with Albany's (N. Y.) leading morning paper, the Albany Express, makes an interesting revelation.

Everybody connected with the newspaper has known of the facts for some time and can vouch for their truth in every particular.

"For many years," said Mr. Lindsay, "I have been subject to spells of headache and nervousness at times almost enough to drive a man to insanity from pains, loss of sleep, etc.

"Medicines, narcotics, patent and prescribed did not give relief, and the ailment increased continually. Having read in the Albany Morning Express, at different times, the advertisements of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, I concluded to try this remedy, and after the use of six or seven bottles, found not only relief, but almost a radical cure.

"The headaches are a thing of the past, while the terrible nervous spells have gradually become less and less until now I have little or none of them left and my sleep is natural and refreshing.

"I do not hesitate in saying that this remarkable change is entirely due to Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, and I heartily recommend it for ailments like my own, no matter what the cause of them."

It is a fact that our great business and professional men are fast finding out the wonderful invigorating and strength giving powers of this most valuable discovery, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. It is the medicine for the weak and nervous. It restores health to the sick.

Its remarkable cure of Mr. Lindsay, after everything else had failed, makes another conscientious person, restored to health by its use, to add to the long and constantly increasing list of prominent and well-known people who are almost daily publishing in the papers statements of their cures by this grand medicine.

It is beyond all question the greatest curer of disease known at the present day and is the very best medicine for blood and nerves. It is purely vegetable and harmless, and is sold by druggists for $1.

This great remedy is the discovery and prescription of the famous physician, Dr. Greene, of 35 West 14th st., New York, who is the most successful specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases in this country. We would add that the noctor can be consulted free, personally or by letter.

BRUTE STRENGTH MUST NOW DECIDE

Campaign of Barbarism About to Begin in the Senate.

WILL REPUBLICANS SUBMIT TO TORTURE?

Administration Democrats Not Certain of Success in Carrying Silver Repeal—Talk of Compromise Finds Ready Listeners—Tucker's Federal Election Law Repeal Bill Passes the House With a Rush.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—Senator Squire (rep., Wash.) gave notice yesterday of an amendment to the silver purchase repeal bill. It proposes the coinage of silver for private owners to the amount of $2,000,000 a month, not to exeed a $100,000,000 in all—the owners to receive in coin only the commercial value of the bullion on the day of deposit, and the difference to be retained by the government as seigneorage. It also proposes the issue of five-year four per cent. bonds to the amount of $200,000,000, the proceeds of which are to be used for the redemption of United States notes.

There were two speeches delivered on the repeal bill—the first by Senator McPherson (dem., N. J.) and the second by Senator Cockrell (dem., Mo.). Mr. McPherson's speech was in support of the bill. He declared it to be his belief, which was shared, he thought, by two-thirds of the people of the United States who had any opinion on the subject, that the Sherman law was the main cause, the true cause, the only visible cause, of the business trouble of the country. Mr. Cockrell's speech was in continuation of the one which he began the previous day, and was directed against the pending bill. He ridiculed the idea of the Sherman law having any influence in bringing about the financial panic, and attributed it rather to the legislation to establish gold monometallism in European countries and in the United States. But as to international bi-metallism, that, in his opinion, was an impossibility, a mere dream, as impracticable as a universal language. He spoke for five hours, and had not then come to the end of his speech.

The house bill to repeal the election laws was received during the day.

Senator Hill presented a huge petition signed by 15,000 New York business men—and not a banker or broker amongst them—praying for the repeal of the purchase clause of the Sherman act.

The Brute Strength Programme.

As the eve of the test of physical endurance approaches there appears to be manifestations of uneasiness on the part of some of the administration senators, and this feeling was evinced yesterday in numerous conferences between administration and anti-administration democrats, a number of these conferences taking place in Mr. Voorhees' rooms. The attitude of the republicans is causing the democrats some alarm. Whether they will go to the extent of remaining and assisting through the weary watches of the night in maintaining a quorum is a question that cannot be definitely answered. A prominent democrat, who has been identified with the repealing forces said that it was a significant fact that the great republican convention of the state of New York the other day failed utterly to refer to the silver question and that two such distinguished republicans as Chauncey Depew and Pierrepont Morgan had come out in interviews advocating a compromise. In the face of such things he said the republicans could hardly be expected to go to extremes in endorsing a democratic administration. This democrat repudiates the idea of any attempt to adjourn without doing anything or even to take an extended recess, saying that would be the most suicidal policy the party could follow. He believes that the only issue that can come from the struggle is compromise and is hoping that some tangible agreement may yet be offered before it is too late. He, however, expects the battle to be over by the end of this week. Should it be so there will be plenty of work for the senate for the bill to repeal the federal election laws came over from the house only a short time after it passed that body.

According to the programme of the silver men they will make a motion to adjourn when the usual hour of six arrives, which motion will of course, be voted down by the repealers. Then Mr. Dubois speaking for the silver men, will state their position after which the debate will proceed. A. R. Martin of Kansas opening. He will probably be followed by Mr. Stewart. Mr. Dubois will remain on guard and insist upon the presence of a quorum. The silver men will remain and aid in keeping up the quorum until about 11 o'clock, when as one of them put it the "screws" will be applied. This means that the silver men will withdraw and force the repealers to have their own quorum present. Should any attempt be made to adjourn or take a recess the silver men will antagonize it and insist upon a continuous session until some agreement has been reached.

An indication of what is expected by thoughtful Sergeant of Arms Bright of the senate was found in the display of a number of slumber rugs upon the marble balustrade of the capitol. They were put out to air preparatory to use in the all-night campaign expected to begin to-night.

House of Representatives.

The house yesterday passed by the overwhelming majority of yeas 201, nays 100, the Tucker bill to repeal the federal election laws. The republicans had intended to refrain from voting on the final passage but when the democrats mustered 188 votes on the first amendment proposed, they saw that it was absolutely impossible to break a quorum and yielded as gracefully as might be. The vote was strictly a party one; but the third party men joined with the democrats.

Mr. Bingham (rep., Pa.) introduced in the house a bill appropriating $135,000 for the purchase of ground adjoining the post office at Philadelphia so as to give full and free ingress and egress to United States mail wagons. He also introduced a bill fixing the rate on second class mail matter, daily papers excepted, at one cent per pound. He also offered a measure consolidating mail matter of the third and fourth class and making it mailable at the rate of one cent for each two ounces or fraction thereof. In another bill he proposes to provide for the return of all second class mail matter unsold or undelivered at the rate of one cent for every four ounces. Another bill proposes to extend to all places having a population of not less than 5,000, the free delivery system.

Mr. Oates (dem., Ala.) is anxious to secure the consideration of the bankruptcy bill reported by him from the judiciary committee, and introduced in the house a resolution, which was referred to the committee on rules, setting apart the first five days of next week for its discussion by the house. The debate is to begin Monday next and is to continue until Friday, when the previous question on the bill and amendments is to be considered as ordered.

Mr. English (dem., N. J.) offered in the house a bill authorizing the purchase of 1,500,000 ounces of silver bullion a month at the current market price, and providing for its coinage, together with any other silver bullion in the treasury not otherwise appropriated or retained by law, into half-dollars of standard weight and fineness now prescribed by law. In case of an international agreement between the United States and other countries, fixing the common parity of gold and silver, the secretary of the treasury is to redeem the coins issued under this act.

Mr. Mercer (rep., Neb.) introduced in the house a joint resolution proposing to amend the constitution so as to disqualify United States judges from standing as candidates for and holding any other office of profit under the United States during their incumbency.

DISGRACEFUL DEFENCES.

Forcible Report from Inspector General Breckinridge.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—Brig. Gen. Jos. C. Breckinridge, inspector general of the United States army, has made a report to the secretary of war indicating a condition of affairs prevailing in regard to our coast defences which is officially characterized as "disgraceful." It is shown that almost the entire southern coast on the Atlantic seaboard is absolutely unprotected and at the mercy of a foreign foe. Forts have been allowed to crumble away, cannon have rusted and cannon carriages rotted. To quote Inspector General Breckinridge in his statement of the matter to Secretary Lamont, these forts and armaments "now serve the single purpose apparently of reminding us of the high estate from which we have fallen and that we are not prepared for resistance against any bold and aggressive government."

Discoveries by Princeton.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 11.—An account has been given out of the results of the Princeton scientific expedition sent out last summer to the Bad Lands of South Dakota, the Wyoming Laramie beds and the Loup Fork beds on the Nebraska river. A large number of fossils which have never been described were found. In the smaller Geneva the remains of twenty animals were found. Of the larger animals the skulls, teeth and bones unearthed were sufficient to fill upwards of twenty large cases. It is estimated that two years of hard work will be required to mount and describe the material collected by the party.

Elevated Railroads Come High.

BOSTON, Oct. 11.—At a meeting of Mayor Matthews' the legislative committee on railroads, officers of the citizens' association, West End railway and a score of prominent business men, City Engineer Jackson presented an elaborate tabulated statement as to the cost of the construction of the proposed line of elevated road. He said it would cost $20,000,000 to construct and equip the road and pay consequent land damages. This is $11,000,000 more than the rapid transit commission figured on.

VIGILANT ALL RIGHT

Repaired and Ready for To-day's Race.

She Sails Like a Queen Down the Bay. Jubilee People Still Think Their Boat Might Vanquish the Victor. Chance for Those Wanting to Bet.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—At 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon the Vigilant hoisted her mainsail and started from her anchorage on a short sail in the bay for the purpose of testing her new bowsprit. At noon the shipwrights in Wintringham's yard had completed their work on the 40-foot Oregon pine spar, which had been brought down from City Island at midnight of Monday, having worked on the octagon shaped stick all night, making it round and tapering, just like the injured bowsprit which lay near them as a model.

After the Vigilant's crew had had dinner, 30 of them came ashore, shouldered the timber and took it to the yard dock and dropped it into the water.

The steamer Hattie Palmer, which acts as a tender and a temporary restaurant for the Vigilant and her crew, towed it to the yacht, and, with the aid of the spinnaker boom, used as a derrick, it was hoisted into position five minutes afterwards.

Mr. C. Oliver Iselin and Captains Herreshoff and Hansen, watched the operation. Mr. Iselin lost no time in notifying the cup committee of the advanced stage of the work, and informed them of the Vigilant's ability to keep her engagement with her British rival, the Valkyrie, to-day.

Mr. Wilson, the Vigilant's sailmaker, was also on board with a half dozen assistants, whom he kept busy for several hours strengthening and sewing where his critical eye detected any weakness or rent after Monday's race.

The Vigilant set her jib soon after leaving the anchorage and stood away toward Tompkinsville, breasting the strong flood in gallant style. Later she set her gaff topsail and reached down off Clifton about a mile and a half; then wheeling round, she took in the topsail and dropped back leisurely to her berth off the Atlantic yacht club house, which she reached at 6 o'clock.

Messrs. Iselin, Herreshoff and Hansen declared themselves perfectly satisfied with the new bowsprit.

There has been some talk by the admirers of the Boston boat, the Jubilee, to the effect that she could thrash the Vigilant as easily as the latter has vanquished the Valkyrie. It was stated upon good authority at Bay Ridge that there is $10,000 of Vigilant money waiting for the eastern men to cover for a series of races in the sound after the Vigilant's present excursion engagement is over.

The syndicate which built the Vigilant have decided that at the close of the contests for the America's cup the gallant defender of the coveted trophy should be offered at private sale, and that if she is not purchased at private sale within a limited time she shall be sold at public auction to the highest bidder.

Austrian Suffrage.

VIENNA, Oct. 11.—Count Taafe, Austrian prime minister, has introduced a bill to amend certain parts of the electoral law. The government, he said, was convinced that it was impossible to longer delay suffrage reform, and it had therefore determined to take up the matter on its own initiative. The bill, he added, would not disturb the principles of the constitution, but would enable anyone fulfilling his duties as a citizen to exercise the franchise, subject only to such restrictions as were rendered necessary by state consideration.

Historic Earth.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 11.—Seven cans of earth taken from historic spots in this city have been sent to the Colonial Dames of San Francisco, who will plant a tree in soil of the revolution. The earth was taken from the yard of the house near Third and Arch streets, where Betsy Ross made the first American flag; from Benjamin Franklin's grave, Christ's church yard, Second and Market streets; Carpenter's hall, Independence square, and from the ground at Merion occupied by the old mill which figured as a tory refuge in revolutionary days.

BERLIN, Oct. 11.—Prince Bismarck took with him on his journey from Kissingen to Friedrichsruh a manual of the Reichstag for 1893, a "Manual of the German Empire," a "Short History of Germany," and a file of the Morgenblatt from January to July. Dr. Schweninger has sent to Emperor William another detailed report on Prince Bismarck's condition.

CHINESE IMMIGRATION

Diplomacy of China's New Minister.

Likelihood That the Modified Exclusion Act Will Solve the Difficult Problem—Registration Will Then be an Easy Matter.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—It seems that Senator Dolph of Oregon was misinformed when he stated point blank in the senate that the Chinese government had not asked for an extension of time for Chinese residents of the United States to register under a modified form of the Geary act. In the brief executive session which Mr. Dolph's own resolution calling for official information in this subject brought about, the senators from the Pacific coast received assurances that the passage of the Dolph resolution was entirely unnecessary. They were informed in fact that the new Chinese minister had in the name of his government given distinct assurance that if some of the offensive features of the Geary law were modified and the time for registration was extended, Chinese residents in the United States would endeavor to comply with the registration provisions. It was upon this understanding that the treasury department and the attorney general recently laid their heads together in the production of the pending McCreary modification of the Everett Chinese bill. When that bill has been enacted into law it is understood that the six companies will be directed by the Chinese government to withdraw all opposition to Chinese registration and both governments will work in accord in restricting Chinese immigration into the United States. It has never been the wish of the Chinese government that its subjects should land on these shores in opposition to the wish of the people. The extensive immigration that has been carried on has been the work of the Chinese "Six Companies"—that powerful and mysterious organization of San Francisco, aided by British steamship companies operating from the British colony of Hong Kong and actuated solely by mercenary motives. Now that both governments have reached a basis of agreement it is confidently expected that restraints mutually acceptable will be placed on Chinese immigration, in the future and that there will be very little necessity for deportation under any seclusion act.

Making the Deaf Hear.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—A number of scientific gentlemen attended a demonstration in West 27th street last evening, of the Edison-Leech system of treating deafness by use of a modified form of the phonograph. Dr. Leech claims that the vibrations produced by the phonograph when transmitted to the three minute bones located in the drum of a deaf person's ear compels them to act in a natural way. The vibrations act like massage to remove stiffness, and the inventor claims to be able to make the deaf hear.

Lucky Collision.

SCRANTON, Pa., Oct. 11.—Yesterday a Jersey Central special train, carrying several hundred members of Father Mathew's societies and others to Wilkesbarre to the annual parade of the societies, met another train bound in the opposite direction in the southern part of this city. There was a slight crash between the two trains, but no one was injured, except Miss Florence Blewitt, who, in the excitement, jumped from the train and had a leg broken.

CHAMPION OF AMERICA.

E. HJERTBERG, THE TWO-MILE STEEPLECHASER.

Recommends Celery Compound to Those "Out of Condition"—One of the Gentlemen Athletes of the New Jersey A. C.

A recent issue of the New York Sporting Times devoted its first page to the record of E. W. Hjertberg, the two-mile champion steeplechaser of America, and a popular member of the New Jersey athletic club.

Mr. Hjertberg, who is an authority on the matter of "training"—which is only another word for getting into physical condition—publicly gives some excellent advice to that large class of young and middle-aged persons who find themselves run down, nervous, unable to work, half sick, unable to sleep well; in brief, "out of condition." He says:

"I went through a thorough system of training last winter, but found that I still needed something invigorating to build me up. I determined to avail myself of the benefits of scientific discovery, and resorted to the use of Paine's celery compound, which I had heard a great deal of. I found it very beneficial in every way; it gave me a good appetite, built me up and was very invigorating. This is what Paine's celery compound has done for me, and I not only indorse it but highly recommend it to athletes and all those who need something to certainly assit them."

Mr. Hjertberg's experience is the experience of thousands.

SIGNS OF CHOLERA.

Not Even a Defective Glass Could Deceive Dr. Jenkins.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—The following bulletin was issued by Dr. Jenkins last evening from Quarantine: "All the passengers and crew of the steamer Russia are well. They have been inspected twice to-day, and all the steerage passengers have been transferred to Hoffman island for observation, 288 having been taken yesterday and 120 to-day. They have all received a bath and all their clothes and other effects have been thoroughly disinfected by steam. The bacteriological examination in the case of the woman Aue has been delayed somewhat longer than usual. Up to noon to-day the results were negative when it was discovered that the lens of the microscope was defective. Another instrument was obtained from the city, and on examination this evening the plate cultures showed the presence of comma bacilli. There is no occasion for alarm, however, as the steerage passengers of this steamer are healthy, cleanly and well nourished people, in fact, better than the usual passengers of this class. Each case of illness has been promptly and carefully isolated during the voyage. The steamer and the passengers have been subjected to all the quarantine methods and measures usually employed when infection is known to be present and which have always heretofore been successful. This is the seventh day since the last patient was isolated from her fellow passengers without further development."

LOWER RATES FOR THE FAIR.

Chicago Railroads Awake to the Situation.

CHICAGO, Oct. 11.—Radical action was taken yesterday by the Western passenger association in regard to reduced rates for the remainder of the world's fair period. When the members got together the Burlington asked the Santa Fe if it was still inclined to stand by its notice for the same rates for Oct. 20 and 21 as had been made for Chicago day. The Santa Fe replied in the affirmative, whereupon the Burlington presented a resolution providing for the putting in effect of these rates during the remaining period of the world's fair. The object of this resolution was to prevent the business being congested during the days low rates were in effect and to reduce the cost of handling it. Though the Burlington's resolution failed to carry nominally, it did so practically. Each road gave notice of its intention to make Chicago day rates on and after Oct. 15. After the 15th the rates will be one fare for the round trip within a radius of 200 miles of Chicago, or until a 35 rate is reached and practically one cent per mile beyond the limit. The only exception to this is in connection with rates from St. Louis, from which point present rates will prevail

WEATHER INDICATIONS.

For New Jersey Tomorrow: Fair and Warmer; Easterly Winds.

They are talking of Councilman Frazee for Assembly. Well, why not?

With papa out of the pulpit, McAllister will have a chance to spread his wings.

The perennial bloom of ecclesiastical discombobulation continues in Plainfield. Who next?

Did you hear anything drop last night? It was n't the Washington Avenue bridge, though pretty near it.

Men of honor, don't miss your primaries. Vote for no candidate who is not pledged against legislation in favor of licensing race-track gambling.

Recent events demonstrate that a good policy for a clergyman and his family is to leave worldliness to others, if they wish to keep peace with the church.

He who said life was n't worth living, surely never reveled in autumnal glories such as those which this October is so lavish of. If Plainfield is n't a paradise just now, then there's no such thing.

For a moral city of homes, Plainfield is n't making a very magnificent showing in the anti-race-track fight. In cities where the question has come home, the good men of the town are out on the streets and in the highways and byways hustling for votes. Talk is cheap, and resolutions are windy. Ballots count.

Blessings on the man who invented the bicycle. How else would the natty Plainfield maidens cover so many glorious miles these lovely brown October days! To see the merry girls wheel to Feltville, and to hear the music of their chatter amid Nature's haunts, is to know the full depth of poetry. To get out among the trees and the fields and hills, in such magnificent sunshine and in such exhilarating atmosphere, is to fill the heart with the gladness that doeth good more than medicine.

The Press is particularly requested to state that the latest phase of the Murphy trouble is not because of the choirmaster question, but that the dissatisfaction is of long standing and is traceable to the family fondness for setting local fashions and leading the dances and other social functions, in preference to laboring among the parishioners for the cause of charity and religion. The good church people feel that it is time for the injunction about serving both God and Mammon to be observed.

To add to the terrors of railway travel, the Jersey Central printer has issued the new time-tables for station walls in dark blue. He must have had on his yacht-race goggles.

But that is n't all! Having framed these bilious-looking eyesight-strainers, the company's workmen hang them so high up that the frantic traveler has to stand on the waiting-room seats to scan them, at the imminent danger of being hauled down by some brawny station-master or his aids. Won't the Central please pick out a printer who is n't color-blind, and hire a Tom Thumb dwarf to hang the tables?

In Eric N. Erickson the people have a representative in the Common Council who is worthy of all praise for his fearless aggressiveness. Ever since his appointmen as Chairman of the Committee on Fire and Buildings, Mr. Erickson has shown that there is at least one man in Council who is not afraid to insist on the city's rights at the hands of the Water Company. That corporation has not shown any too fond regard for its contract with Plainfield, and Mr. Erickson has had to keep his prodding stick whittled to a point all the time. Just now the Water Company is particularly offensive in slighting the city's demands, and it has waked up Mr. Erickson's most belligerent cranial bump. He's going to make the Water Company do just as the contract demands, or he'll enlist the valued aid of the Corporation Counsel in getting the Courts to back him up in the fight.

Water-works companies, by the way, would have cause for jubilation were the local company able to break with the city. The price at which Plainfield is getting fire-hydrant service is the lowest in the country, where a private corporation provides the supply. Cities far and near pay from $23 to $40 a year, for each hydrant in service, while Plainfield has an iron clad bargain at $13. Plainfield is therefore being cited the world over, as an argument in favor of reduction of the price. When the contract was made, water-works contractors and investors looked at its figure aghast, and ever since they have been bringing their influence to bear in an effort to break the contract.

Plainfield's monumental water-works mistake was made years ago, when wealthy and public-spirited citizens offered to build water-works complete and sell to the city at actual cost, with a public committee on the inside track to keep run of the exact figures. A Council was elected pledged to vote for such water-works, but such pressure was brought to bear, and public feeling ran so strong against the scheme, that none of the councilmen had the moral courage to mention it in open breath. It was the old bugbear of bonds.

Today Plainfield, though paying far less than other cities for fire-hydrant service, is still putting a snug annual profit into the pockets of a private corporation, while such cities as New Brunswick, owning their own works, are earning annually a net gain of $30,000 and above.

How those high tax bills might tumble, had some things started differently!

DECAMPED WITH THE FUNDS.

A Plainfield Young Man Reported to Have Skipped With Money and Horses Belonging to His Employer.

Plainfield people will no doubt remember the entertainment given in the Riding Academy on Watchung avenue a few weeks ago by a troupe of Indians and cowboys, under the management of one who styled himself Deadwood Dick.

Among the troupe were two Plainfield young men who had spent several years on the plains in the far west.

One of the young men, Hall by name, who is known by the nickname of "Sheeny", was a favorite with the manager, and was often entrusted with the funds of his employer.

The show has been traveling around the country ever since leaving Plainfield, and this week was advertised to commence an engagement at the Manhattan Field, adjoining the Polo Grounds, New York, and the manager gave $600 to Hall, it is alleged, to buy stock and to pay the advance expenses of the show.

But Hall, it is reported, could not resist the temptation, and when the manager looked for him he found that he had skipped with the $600, and had also taken two of the best horses.

The New York police were at once notified, but as yet have not succeeded in getting any trace of the dishonest Plainfielder.

Stites, Adam Herlick, Henry Weiss, John Huff and Cornelius Taylor. The interment was in the family plot at Springdale. Mr. Giddis leaves a wife and five children.

Blindness Coming on Him.

The many Plainfield friends of I. D. TenEyck, father of Mrs. Wallace V. Miller, of Hotel Grenada, will regret to learn that his eyesight is failing rapidly. He will be taken to St. Michael's Hospital, Newark, tomorrow, for treatment, and operation if necessary.

Clergy and Court at Odds.

RECTOR MURPHY ASKED TO RESIGN.

FIVE BIG MEN OF HIS CHURCH MAKE THE DEMAND.

Representing the Majority of the Congregation, and the Working Force of the Parish, They Urge Him to Vacate the Pulpit as Being in the Best Interests of the Church.

Timothy Logan Murphy, rector of the Church of the Holy Cross, had an unpleasant surprise party last night, when a committee of five of his most influential parishoners waited on him and requested his resignation from the rectorship for the best interests of the church.

The committee was composed of Charles Matthews, George P. Dupee, Samuel Townsend, H. S. Phillips and F. S. Brown. They went in a body to Mr. Murphy's residence, and told him that they represented a majority of the congregation who desired his resignation. Mr. Murphy received them courteously and said he would send them a written reply. The committee then withdrew.

Besides representing a majority of the church members, the committee may be considered the chief workers of the parish.

That such action was to be taken, The Press has known ever since the latest revolt against the rector was begun. Two days ago report was made that the committee had waited on the rector the previous night and had asked for his resignation. Mr. Murphy was asked about the rumor. He indignantly repudiated the possibility of such a thing, but said that the leaders of any rebellion against him would find that he could get along without the church much better than the church could get along without him.

One of the good men of the church said to a Press representative this morning that the congregation was determined to get rid of the clergyman who has become so obnoxious. If he decline for a time to resign, his position will probably be made so unpleasant that he will be forced to, finally.

Among the charges made against the Rev. Murphy is that his godliness is not of too pronounced a type, and that his church work is hampered by his family devotion to fashion and folly. A less worldly rector, and a less worldly rector's family, are what the people of the church demand.

MacClymont of Plainfield Among the Notables.

S. P. Warren, Walter Damrosch, Anton Seidl, Dudley Buck, Dr. S. N. Penfield, Dr. Gerrett Smith, William C. Carl, A. H. Messiter, Prof. Bowman, Prof. W. E. MacClymont, Clarence Eddy of Chicago, and many others, were among those at the dinner given by the Manuscript Society of New York to the distinguished French Organist and Composer, M. Alexandre Guilmant, at the Fifth Avenue Hotel last evening.

Vegiard's Thousand Faces, and Music From the Barrell.

Last evening the attendance at St. Mary's fair was large, and dancing was indulged in by those present, to the strains of O'Reilly's excellent orchestra. Tonight J. T. Vegiard, the man of a thousand faces, will entertain the patrons with recitations, and Mr. Barrell, the famous tenor, will render choice selections.

The Zephyrs Will Go There Too.

At the regular monthly meeting of Zephyr Hook and Ladder Company, No. 1, held Monday evening, it was unanimously decided to attend the services in the First Presbyterian church the evening of Oct. 29, at which time the Rev. Charles E. Herring will preach a sermon to the Plainfield firemen.

Oh, The Pity of It!

A disgraceful and pitiful scene was witnessed on East Fourth street this noon. A man named Heffern, under the influence of liquor, was trying to navigate a baby carriage, and but for the interference of bystanders would have upset the baby into the street.

Didn't Like the Cars.

A horse attached to a light spring wagon became frightened by a locomotive at the freight house this morning and ran as far as East Fourth and Sycamore streets, where the wagon collided with a telephone pole, smashed a wheel, and brought the horse to a standstill.

WORLD, FLESH AND .....

SOCIETY DORMANT, THESE LOVELY AUTUMN DAYS.

Chicago's Fair Still Attracting Plainfielders — The Awkwardness of a Social Custom — The Question of Chaperones — The Nursery Whistlers — Church of the Holy Flesh Pots.

Social activity has been absolutely dead for the past week, at least in its outward manifestations. Everyone has gone to Chicago, and the Fair continues to be more attractive than anything that can be cooked up at home. Those who have already been there are taking a much needed rest. In the social inter-regnum it may be permissible to speak of those impersonal subjects which are apt to bore people in more active times.

One of the benefits of a small social system like that of Plainfield is the privilege accorded to youths and maidens of going unchaperoned to dances of all kinds, public or private, throughout the entire year. There is very little to be said against the principle of this custom; it is provincial, but we do not care to be metropolitan, as the conditions are very different. Sometimes, however, it is productive of very awkward situations. There is nothing more painful to watch than some gallant swain who, having danced with some unattractive girl, probably because her mother was "a particular friend of mamma's", finds himself with a partner too many, and has no proper place to go and leave her. She has no chaperone, and he is engaged for the next dance; she is not, and it is extremely awkward for the man, who cannot drop her in the middle of the floor and go to meet his engagement. It is not much better for the attractive girls who are sure to be engaged two or three ahead where dance cards are not used. They must trust to the chance that their partners can stay with them until the next on the list, (probably impeded by the unattractive girl before mentioned) can come to claim the dance. There was a case at one of last year's informal dances when two young girls, neither of them "out", came absolutely unattended, and there was a sequence of situations like the above throughout the entire evening. It is needless to say they did not have a good time, as neither of them knew the two ladies who acted as patronesses for propriety's sake. The mind of man is eased greatly if he perceives, on entering the dancing room, that there are those little temporary courts with the chaperones at their heads that form a haven from which he can take his partner, and to which he can return her when duty calls him elsewhere.

We have a new musical organization in town. It is formed of whistlers from the Park avenue nursery, and may be seen bowling about the streets in the late afternoon in a four-wheeled dos-a-dos. It may be known by its preference for the Washington Post march.

The Church of the Holy Flesh Pots, over the brook, is, we hear, about to be agitated by a tempest compared to which the previous troubles are but the mutterings and grumblings of the storm. It is understood that he who presides over the aforesaid Flesh Pots has been asked to vacate for the good of the church. The presider, however, thinks the grumblers are making a great mistake, and says that he will get along better without the church than the church will without him. And to think that the foundation of all the trouble is the silvery voice that emanates from the young hopeful of the presider! Who would believe that such a little thing could achieve such great results! THE LOUNGER.

CONGREGATIONAL CHANGES.

New Dates Set for the Annual Meeting and the Week of Prayer.

The Congregational church and society held special meetings last evening to consider a proposed amendment to change the time of the annual meeting. It was voted to change the date of the annual meeting for both church and society from the last Tuesday in September to the third Wednesday in April. It was also unanimously voted to change the time of the annual week of prayer from the first week in January to the week before Easter. This change was made because it was thought that the week directly after the holidays was an inopportune time to secure serious spiritual meditation, while before Easter the hearts of the people naturally turned towards spiritual themes.

His Gratitude Does Him Credit.

The stage between Fanwood and Scotch Plains attracted considerable attention today, as Mr. Collins appeared with a very handsome new harness.

This, with a fine pair of woolen blankets, completes the magnificent present which the citizens of the two villages so liberally subscribed for and presented to Mr. Collins as an evidence of their sympathy and regard.

With evident emotion the old gentleman told The Press man that he desired to express his sincere thanks through the medium of The Press, for this most munificent expression of regard from his friends and neighbors.

More Room for Floral Display.

The American Catarrh Cure

Is the result of twenty-six years' study and treatment of the disease. One bottle convinces the most skeptical. It is always ready for use, needing neither douche nor atomizer. It restores the hearing, cures the hawking cough and expectorating, removes the headache and nose bleeding, increases the appetite, produces sound sleep, invigorates the whole system and increases the vitality. Prepared only by W. B. Jones, M. D., No. 1336 South Eighth street, Philadelphia. For sale by J. W. Randolph, 31 West Front street. Price $1.

AGAIN TRAIN NO. 504.

Not the Fault of the Trainmen This Time.

Yesterday morning train No. 504 again preceded the 10:04 to New York. Again the ladies flocked to board it, but alas—the conductor and solitary brakeman permitted none of the fair sex to set tiny foot even upon the lower step.

However, the other platforms being unguarded, men flocked thereon to their imminent peril; as when the passengers for Plainfield had alighted, off went the train with those of the sterner sex clinging to the hand-rails and clamoring for admittance to the tightly-closed side doors of the vestibuled Pullman which the scolid negro attendant had closed in their faces. It seemed a marvelous dispensation of Providence that legs were not torn from the bodies of the hangers-on by the Watchung avenue bridge as the speed of the train accelerated.

Joseph E. Morse was noticed on the rear steps, with another gentleman, as one of those locked out.

One more brakeman to notify passengengers not to step on this train would prevent this daily occurrence of agony when No. 6 is late.

False economy will some day cause a loss greatly in excess of the wages of the ordinary train crews.

The conductor endeavored to prevent all passengers from boarding the train, but can a man be expected to be in two places at once, particularly if those places are sixty feet apart?

THOSE BLUE TIME-TABLES.

Oh, Why Are They Inflicted on a Long-Suffering Public?

The latest issues of the Central time-tables appear on dark blue paper, in black printing. They are an atrocious infliction on the eyesight.

Imagine the difficulty of a New York dude in deciphering the stations and the figures from the dark blue background as expressed in his own language at the Fanwood station last evening:

"An' me boy,"—addressing the agent—"cawn't you read that for me? There seems to be a blur somehow, and everything looks blue on this blarsted sign, don-cher-no".

The man addressed disdainfully looked over the dude from head to foot, then advanced upon the beautiful work encased in the customary frame, but instantly started back and said—"I am not the agent. I cannot read it."

"Well, by Jove! Why cawn't they do the grand act and print the blarsted things according to Columbia—blue and white, then we could read it. Two trains I've missed trying to decipher this blamed thing, and now I think I'll guess at the trains. Oh! where does George Kyte live?"

THAT FREE STAG RASKET.

Bi Boys Will Then Find Out Who Pearsall Is.

Every member of the Bi Club today received a postal card bearing the following:

"THAT WAS A GOOD ONE!"

Burdette (the Inimitable), and Pearsall (who is Pearsall, anyway?), will give you several "good ones" at the Bicycle Club House, Saturday night, Oct. 21, 1893. There will be a Male Quartette (vocal), and, perhaps Charles Noe Daly of Bergen Point. Two "dark horses"—but we won't tell it all. Come and see. As this is a FREE Smoker, of course you will come. Admission, for yourself and friends, will be by tickets, which will be sent later. Please put them "where they will do the most good". PATRIARCH.

The White Squadron Tomorrow.

Patriotism, romance, spectacle and melodrama all find place in "The White Squadron" by James W. Harkins, the attraction announced for Music Hall tomorrow night.

The recent "Congress of Navies" in Rio Janeiro to protest against the brigandage tolerated in Brazil, forms the basis the plot which unfolds a romantic love story.

Many and varied are the points of interest in the play, and the stage is continuously filled with exciting episodes of magnificent stage pictures. Life in South America is depicted in vivid colors, while realistic scenery and mechanical contrivances are abundant.

Among the forcible representations are those depicting slave life, in which a Moorish slave is shown yoked to an ox, like a beast of burden. Other pictures introduce a herd of genuine South American Llamas. A ruined monastery and the funeral of the monks are also brought out, while the climax of interest is reached in a scene representing the "Congress of Navies" in the public square of Rio.

A national element overspreads the entire play, and the American flag is so brought out and so glorified as to arouse to the highest pitch the enthusiasm of every American who sees it. The company is led by that clever and popular actor, W. A. Whitecar, whose attractive personal, physical and mental qualities have placed him in the very front rank of heroic actors. Associated with him in the cast are Elmer Grandin, Laura Almoesinno, Frederick Julian, Tessie Deagle, Frank Hall, Edna Post, Harry Neill, Harry Spence and others.

Doubly Deluged.

A traveling cornetist was playing in front of a Front street saloon, yesterday afternoon, when the bartender gave him a soaking with the contents of a seltzer bottle. The musician then entered the place for the purpose of getting satisfaction, and was greeted with a similar salute and concluded that he'd better skip, which he did.

Can't Spare Steve.

Last night, between 12 and 1, Special Officer S. R. Hope was awakened by his wife and found the house filled with smoke from garret to cellar.

After making a thorough search of the house, he found a roll of paper burning slowly in the ash pit of the stove. The drafts were turned off, and the smoke was pouring out into the room in such volume that it was almost impossible to stand it long enough to get the doors and windows open.

Mrs. Hope's acute nose saved the household from a probable catastrophe.

Low Lowrie's Lighter Look.

Lew Lowrie, the colored porter at Reynolds's Pharmacy, started Monday afternoon to deliver some medicines on Park avenue. He took a short cut across lots, and everything went well until Lew got in a field with some of H. G. Runkle's blooded stock.

One of the animals started after Lew, and Lew started for the fence. He got there just in time to escape and deliver his medicines. It was noticed that he was of a slightly lighter color when he got back to the shop than when he left.

Next Time They'll Suffer.

George Killoran and Peter Winn, age about 17, were arrested last night for disturbing the masons in their hall on Front street. The boys have been in the habit of running up the stairs that led to the hall, and knocking at the door. They were warned to desist, but continued their annoyances, and accordingly were locked up. Judge Coddington suspended sentence in the City Court this morning, but warned them that the next time they would be punished to the full extent of the law.

Where We'll All Vote.

City Clerk Runyon today announced following polling-places:

First ward—First district, Crescent Wheelmen's headquarters, North avenue. Second district, office of oil-cloth factory.

Second ward—First district, V. W. Nash's office. Second district, C. H. Rugg's coal office, South avenue, Netherwood.

Third ward—Adam Blair's livery stable.

Fourth ward—First district, Seguine's livery stable office, West Second street. Second district, Grant avenue, near South Second street.

To Be Tried, After All.

The case of Frank Sohl against Peter V. Husted came up in the Common Pleas Court at Elizabeth this morning, on motion to dismiss the case from the docket. Wm. M. Stillman appeared for the motion, and Harry C. Runyon against it. Judge McCormack refused to grant the motion, and set the case down for trial Nov. 8.

Lots o' Preparation.

The women are very busy preparing for the fair which will be held for the benefit of the Hospital, in the Casino, Nov. 1 and 2, under the direction of the Woman's Auxiliary Board.

Welcome Back, Horatio!

Horatio Bilyeu, who was a typo on the old Plainfield Union during the late civil war, and now of New York city, paid The Press office a pleasant call today.

He'll Make a Good One.

George W. VanNest, Jr., formerly of A. M. Griffen's, has taken the agency of the Grand Union Tea Company of Newark, and commences work today.

To Join The Benedicks.

Joseph Taylor, one of the genial clerks at the store of Neuman Bros., is to be married this evening.

I have been a sufferer from catarrh for years. Having tried a number of remedies advertised as "sure cures" without obtaining any relief, I had received never to take any other patent medicines, when a friend advised me to try Ely's Cream Balm. I did so with great reluctance, but can now testify that after using it for six weeks I believe myself cured. It is a most agreeable remedy—an invaluable Balm.—Joseph Stewart, 24 Grand avenue, Brooklyn.

LATEST DESPATCHES.

NECK AND NECK.

THE YACHTS RUNNING CLOSE TOGETHER.

No Prospects of Vigilant Getting Lead Enough to Cover the Handicap—Perhaps Neither Yacht Will Finish in Time to Make It a Race.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—The yachts were on hand and ready at the appointed time, but owing to the lack of wind the start was delayed until 1:05, when they got off, Valkyrie leading by three lengths. The British boat kept the lead until 2:40, when Vigilant passed her and forged rapidly ahead, till she led by a half-mile. At 3:20 the yachts were even again, and 5 minutes later Valkyrie was 3 lengths ahead.

3:30—Both boats are now rounding the stakeboat. It is impossible to tell which is ahead.

3:42—After passing stakeboat, Vigilant led by 3 lengths.

4—Yachts are near together off Long Branch, 7 miles from Scotland Light.

4:30—The boats are still running even, and the indications are that they will not finish in time to make it a race. The wind is light, and it is a drifting match.

NOURMAHAL IN COLLISION.

Crushed Into a Crowded Ferryboat.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—John Jacob Astor's yacht Nourmahal, while on her way down the North River soon after 9 this morning, bound for the yacht race, was in collision with a Pennsylvania ferryboat opposite Hoboken. Nourmahal's bowsprit was carried away, and a portion of her joiner work was stove in. The ferryboat's rail was carried away, and her joiner work injured.

Suicide by Shooting.

Joseph Langstaff, twenty-two years old, a farmer of Randolphville, beyond New Market, committed suicide by shooting himself. He did his early morning work, and without any apparent cause he went to a wagon house and put a bullet into his head. He had worked on the Manning Randolph farm since last spring.

Langstaff was still alive when found, but died at 2 this morning. He leaves a wife and stepdaughter. He was a member of the Jr. O. U. A. M. of Millstone.

Exonerates Conductor Aicher.

Policeman Giese says that there has been a misunderstanding about Conductor Aicher's part in the bunco racket on the early morning train, and declares himself satisfied with the efforts that worthy made to assist him.

Read and Reflect.

The great mass of mankind lose their health through inattention to catarrh of the head and throat. This insidious disease was considered incurable until the discovery of the American Catarrh Cure. For sale by L. W. Randolph, 31 West Front street. Price $1.00.

I suffered for more than ten years with that dreadful disease, catarrh, and used every available medicine that was recommended to me. I cannot thank you enough for the relief which Ely's Cream Balm has afforded me. Emanuel Meyers, Winfield, L. I., N. Y.

I am an old man and have been a constant sufferer with catarrh for the last ten years. I am entirely cured by the use of Ely's Cream Balm. It is strange that so simple a remedy will cure such a stubborn disease. Henry Billings, U. S. Pension Att'y, Washington, D. C.

OFTEN THAT WAY.

A lady took time to travel down our way to see if what she had heard about our store was true. What's the price of that jacket? $4.50. And that dress pattern? 32c a yard. I'll take both she told her friends afterwards and they told us that it was the biggest days saving she had ever made.

YOUR TURN NOW

WINTER UNDERWEAR. Sold more Underwear the last ten days than all last month, and why not? Prices cut in half; our show window tells the story. All kinds for ladies, gentlemen and children.

LADIES' JACKETS. Manufacturer was heart broken last week when he saw his jackets that cost him $10 to make sold for $5. We bought them and they are yours at half what they are worth.

DRESS GOODS Greater values never offered in Dress Goods than at the present time. See that 40-in. all wool suiting that we only ask 32c. for. Just the thing for street wear.

MILLINERY. Have you seen the latest? 'Tis an ecru felt, green velvet suit hat with muff to match. You want the best that money will buy in trimmings, work and style and we know that no one can or will give as satisfactory work as we are giving this season. Comparison proves it.

HOUSE-FURNISHINGS. This department is improving all the time. Larger assortments and lower prices than ever. Three large rooms devoted to useful articles that you need every day in the year.

SHOES.

In Ladies', our straight Goats and Walking Fast Styles at $2.50 and $3 are the proper weights for the season.

The Fargo Tip for Children

Is the best looking, best wearing Shoe for school wear. Sizes 8½ to 10½, $1.25; sizes 11 to 2, $1.50. A few of those $1.50 Oxfords at 85c still remain.

WHITE OF PLAINFIELD.

NOW IS YOUR CHANCE.

UP TO DATE.

Good violins improve with use and age. If Stradivarius had made Pianos as well as violins, no one would care to own one of the former unless as a curiosity. There is little new in violin making, but there is something new every year in Piano making. Take care you do not buy a Piano simply because it was famous. With any Piano of ancient name and fame we invite you to compare the Steinway, Gabler, Vose, Sterling and Braumuller Pianos They contain all new improvements that are desirable They are up to date.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND

Is a positive cure for all those painful

Ailments of Women.

It will entirely cure the worst forms of Female Complaints, all Ovarian troubles, Inflammation and Ulceration, Falling and Displacements, of the Womb, and consequent Spinal Weakness, and is peculiarly adapted to the Change of Life. Every time it will cure

Backache.

It has cured more cases of Leucorrhœa than any remedy the world has ever known. It is almost infallible in such cases. It dissolves and expels Tumors from the Uterus in an early stage of development, and checks any tendency to cancerous humors. That

Bearing-down Feeling causing pain, weight, and backache, is instantly relieved and permanently cured by its use. Under all circumstances it acts in harmony with the laws that govern the female system, and is as harmless as water. It removes

Irregularity,

Suppressed or Painful Menstruations, Weakness of the Stomach, Indigestion, Bloating, Flooding, Nervous Prostration, Headache, General Debility. Also

Dizziness, Faintness,

Extreme Lassitude, "don't care" and "want to be-left alone" feeling, excitability, irritability, nervousness, sleeplessness, flatulency, melancholy, or the "blues," and backache. These are sure indications of Female Weakness, some derangement of the Uterus, or Womb Troubles.

The whole story, however, is told in an illustrated book entitled "Guide to Health," by Mrs. Pinkham. It contains over 90 pages of most important information, which every woman, married or single, should know about herself. Send 2 two-cent stamps for it. For and Backache of either sex the Vegetable Compound is unequaled.

Kidney Complaints

Lydia E. Pinkham's Liver Pills, 25c., cure Biliousness, Constipation, and Torpid Liver. WAR OF WORDS AND WAKEFULNESS

Physical Endurance Must Decide About Silver in the Senate.

SENATOR ALLEN TALKS ALL NIGHT

Dubois Plausibly Sets Forth the Position of the Silver Men and Voorhees Makes an Earnest Appeal for Majority Rule—Good Nature Mixed With Dogged Determination Shown by Both Sides.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—The debate in the senate yesterday on the silver purchase repeal bill had many interesting features. Among other things it showed the staying qualities of Mr. Cockrell (dem., Mo.) as a speechmaker. Having argued against the bill for five hours on Monday and five hours on Tuesday he held the floor yesterday another four hours. Within that time he took a short rest while brief speeches were made Mr. Smith (dem., N. J.) and Mr. Irby (dem., S. C.). As a senatorial debutant Mr. Smith made a decided success. His speech in support of the bill was able, sarcastic, sententious, and it was delivered in clear, strong tones, and with a remarkable absence of nervousness natural to first stage appearances. He was favored with considerable applause as he took his seat, as was Mr. Irby (dem., S. C.), who argued against the bill, and declared that he and his people would part company with the democratic party if it persisted in its anti-silver policy.

The Battle Begins.

At 6:05 p. m. Mr. Dubois (rep., Idaho) rose and, said that it was past the hour when the senator from Indiana, Mr. Voorhees, usually made a motion to adjourn. He asked the senator whether he desired to submit that motion now.

"I feel it my highest duty," said Mr. Voorhees, "not to make the motion this evening, on the contrary, to ask the senate to sit in continuous session until the pending measure is disposed of."

During this proceeding the seats of the senators were being filled by accessions from the committee rooms and cloak room, even Mr. Colquitt (dem., Ga.) being wheeled to his seat on his invalid chair.

After Mr. Voorhees' response to the challenge of the senator from Idaho, Mr. Dubois rose and said:

"This announcement means that the senate is to be held in continuous session until a vote is reached on the pending bill, or until it is demonstrated that a vote cannot be reached.

"You cannot charge the opponents of the pending measure with having resorted to obstructive methods. It is true, they have debated and discussed the question. You cannot and will not charge them with having willfully wasted time for the purpose of delay. I have been at some pains to examine the records, and find that while 32 opponents of repeal have spoken, 32 of its champions have also spoken. I refer to carefully prepared set speeches. There have been as many, if not more, interruptions and colloquy brought on by the friends than by the opponents of repeal. The friends of the pending bill have consumed about one-third of the time of the senate in discussing this measure. With this record, all must admit that if there has been any delay it cannot be laid at our doors alone.

"Another fact which is important must be patent to senators. The country has been steadily drifting to the other side. While the daily papers in the larger cities and the bankers are abusive and insolent and clamoring for repeal, the people are making their wishes known to senators through public meetings, private communications and country papers in such a manner as to make their influence felt. New York city has been most anxious for repeal, to judge from its press and the activity of its monied interests; yet the republican state convention in its platform adopted last week says not one word on the subject, but, on the contrary, it favors bimetallism. They have no word of condemnation of our course and none of praise for yours. I have gone thus somewhat into detail, showing the conditions that exist in the senate and outside of it, to make plain the lack of cause, uselessness and unfairness of resorting to the methods which you have apparently inaugurated."

Voorhees Vehement.

Mr. Voorhees asked if the opponents of the repeal bill would set a time, or an approximate time, for a vote. Mr. Dubois replied that several senators had not spoken yet, and the subject should be fully discussed. Mr. Voorhees continued: "The senator from Idaho says that what is proposed is unjust and inhuman. Well, I am not inhuman in my nature. I am not disposed to hurt anybody. I would let a fly out of the window, as Uncle Toby did. But I am here charged with a great duty legislation. I should have been glad to have disposed of it at an earlier period than now, but we have no rules under which I could do so. And now we have to present the spectacle here (whether we are young men or old men) of testing our physical endurance. This episode in our history will result in reforming the rules of this body. I am ready at the proper time (not in a heated struggle like the present) to vote for some measure by which a determination can be reached. Otherwise this body will lose its proper influence before the American people and the world.

"I believe that this body should have rules by which to conclude discussion and reach a vote—rules more reasonable, more sensible and more decent than the rule on which we are entering now. I stand here asking the opponents of this bill whether they will name any day for a vote, and they will not. They resort thus to dilatory measures to prevent any action being taken at all. When is this to quit? When is it to stop? I would rather be carried from this desk, feet foremost, and laid to sleep forever in my home in Terre Haute than yield the right of majority to govern. We started in here some weeks ago to discuss a measure of financial legislation. I have nothing to say on that question now, for we have reached a higher question now than that. We have reached the question of free government. We have reached the question of constitutional government. We have reached the question whether we have got a government that can administer itself or not.

"I would not injure the minority. But (ominously) shall the minority govern? Answer me. Shall the minority govern? Somebody has to rule. Somebody has to control. Shall it be the minority or shall it be the majority? If the senator from Idaho will suggest a possible day when the minority will say it is ready to vote, I will submit to it, gladly, willingly. The question comes whether we have got a government at all or not. The question comes whether that vicious principle (the most vicious known in human history) that the few shall govern the many, shall prevail. I have stood throughout my life, which has been in some parts stormy, and has not been very short, for the rule of the majority. Whatever the majority pronounces, under form of law, that should be gracefully submitted to, I stand for that simply to-night. I stand not here talking of compromise. A good deal has been talked about compromise during the week. I have not had part in it. The best has been done that the rules permit, so far as I know; and now, in default of any answer as to when a vote can be reached, I invoke the spirit of wisdom, and fairness, and patience, and manhood, on both sides; and we will proceed."

Speech-making then began, the discussion being enlivened by many a sharp personal tilt.

Night Scenes.

Late at night Senator Allen, who began at 5:30 p. m., was still talking. Before him was an array of books from which he frequently quoted. Senators Voorhees and Cullom were engaged in a pleasant conversation which evidently did not refer to the pending question. Senators Dolph, McPherson and Allison had their heads close together. Senator Dubois, smiling, and Senator Teller, frowning, were holding a private consultation. Senators Mills and Gray were engaged in a conversation with Auditor Mansur of Missouri. Senator Daniels attended to his private business and without paying the slightest attention to the speech, answered his correspondence. Senator Peffer, leaning back in his chair and with a beam of satisfaction on his face, occasionally conversed with a neighbor. Senator Morgan with his dexter finger to his brow exchanged stories with any fellow senator who came in his vicinity.

"My time is somewhat limited," said Mr. Allen, when Mr. Squire interrupted him with a question, "and I cannot answer the gentleman at this time."

At "at this time" Mr. Allen had been holding the floor for more than eight hours, his response elicited a ripple of laughter.

DARING ROBBERY.

Brutal Assault on a New England Merchant.

BROCKTON, Mass., Oct. 12.—One of the most daring highway robberies ever known in this section was committed Tuesday night on the road to Whitman, near the Whitman and Brockton line.

James Hayes, a well-known resident of this city, formerly in the liquor business, and George W. Simmons, who resides in Whitman road, were returning from a ride to Whitman, when four men suddenly stepped from the woods, one catching the horse by the bridle, another striking both men in the wagon with a heavy branch of a tree.

Hayes was dragged from the carriage, brutally assaulted and robbed by the ruffians, then placed in the carriage and his companion told to drive home.

Hayes is in a terrible condition. His face is crushed to a jelly, his body is badly bruised, and he is in a precarious condition. He could not identify his assailants. Simmons, his companion, stated that he caught the reins as Hayes was dragged out, and held the horse during the assault, which took place in the middle of the wood. It was so dark he could not see either of the men, but heard the blows and kicks.

Hayes was placed in the carriage by the men, and Simmons was told to drive on quick or they would use him in the same way.

HONOR TO GIBBONS.

Preparing to Celebrate the Cardinal's Jubilee.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 12.—Arrangements are rapidly approaching completion for the celebration in this city on the 18th and 19th inst of the jubilee service to mark the ending by Cardinal Gibbons of 25 years in the episcopate. The cardinal had determined at first to have only the simplest kind of a religious ceremony to note the event, but he was induced to yield to the wishes of the priests of the province and to consent to an observance befitting the occasion and worthy the interest taken in it by the holy father.

Archbishop Satolli, the apostolic delegate, and the archbishop of New Zealand, Most Rev. Dr. Redmond, will be present.

Monsignor Nugent, of Liverpool, will represent Cardinal Vaughn and the Catholic Church in Great Britain. Mgr. Nugent is now in New York.

Rev. Dr. Kooker, vice-president of the American college in Rome, and the bearer of a special letter and present from the Holy Father to Cardinal Gibbons, will occupy a prominent place. This gentleman is at the Catholic university in Washington. He will come to Baltimore on Monday or Tuesday next.

Two Years for a Rioter.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—Abraham Bloom, alias Max Goldstein, one of the ringleaders in the riot at Walhalla hall, last August, and who was found guilty in the court of general sessions, has been sentenced to two years imprisonment at hard labor in state prison. Recorder Smyth in passing sentence said that Bloom's conduct was disgraceful and not to be tolerated in this city. He also said: "This country gives the right of free speech, but will crush riotous proceedings. The sooner these people understand this, the better."

Astor's Yacht in Collision.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—John Jacob Astor's yacht Nourmahal, while on her way down the North river about 9 a. m. en route for the yacht race, was in collision with a Pennsylvania railroad ferryboat opposite Hoboken. The Nourmahal's bowsprit was carried away, and a portion of her joiner work was stove in. The ferryboat's rail was carried away and her joiner work injured. After the collision the Nourmahal turned and proceeded up the North river.

Mafia Again.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 12.—The Mafia has again broken out in this city. Officer Toole, who had his throat cut several weeks ago by an Italian named Perricano, was yesterday dangerously assaulted by unknown persons. It is believed that this is the result of a Mafia plot, as Toole is an important witness against Perricano, whose trial has been set for hearing very soon in the criminal court.

House of Representatives.

Beyond referring to the committee on rules a joint resolution providing for a recess of congress from Oct. 14 to Nov. 1, the house did nothing yesterday except discuss the bill reported by the committee on judiciary amendatory of the Geary Chinese exclusion bill. But two speeches were made, one by Mr. McCreary, the author of the measure, in advocacy of it, as an act of justness and fairness, and one by Mr. Geary, the author of the act, in opposition to its amendment as proposed. The latter, in the course of his remarks, severely criticised the administration for failing to enforce the provisions of the law.

YACHT RACE A FIZZLE

Unable to Cover the Course Within the Time.

Valkyrie Leads at First But is Overtaken by Vigilant—Excellent Work by the Englishman—Next Race to be Sailed on Friday.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—It was no man's race yesterday. The Vigilant and Valkyrie tried hard to settle the international question as to which is the queen yacht of the world, but after alternate spells of racing, drifting and waiting for wind, they gave up the contest at the expiration of the time limit. It was long after dark when the yachts abandoned the drifting match off Highland beach and hailed their tugs. They were fully seven miles from the finish and they had been sailing for six hours. The peerless white cup defender Vigilant had turned the outer mark seven minutes ahead of the English cutter, and was leading by about half a mile when the time expired. The fortunes of each had varied during the day, and the British boat had the best of it during the first part of the race.

The day promised well in the morning. There was a good breeze from the northwest, and the weather sharps said there would be a rattling wind outside of Sandy Hook. The race was to be 15 miles to windward or leeward and return. It was the third in the series, and if won by the Vigilant the America's cup would be a Yankee trophy of prowess on the water for another year. The usual crowd of yachtsmen, who would not miss a race for a farm, were on hand, as also were the patriotic landsmen who neglect business and rise certain personal discomforts incident to a day on the rolling deep in order to see John Bull's crack yacht defeated. The steamboats, big and small, and the yachts and tugs with private parties, steamed down the bay, as they had done on each of the preceding racing days.

A Late Start.

The wind of the early morning did not hold and when all the fleet had assembled ready for the start the two racers with their pyramids of white canvas gleaming in the sun lay becalmed. By mutual consent their owners agreed to a postponement until later in the day. For two hours the yachts lay idly flapping their sails or slowly gliding about among the excursion steamers. Then when the regatta committee asked if they would consent to a postponement for the day, the people on the American sloop answered promptly in the affirmative, but Lord Dunraven hesitated, and the wind freshening a bit, he asked for a race. The boats were started on a beat to windward and return at 1:45 p. m. in a light south by west. The Valkyrie got an advantage of one minute crossing the line. She had the windward position as well as the lead. Both boats were under the same canvass except that the Vigilant had up a baby jibtopsail which was much smaller than the one the English yacht carried. The British boat pointed higher and footed faster in the light air that was stirring. For an hour she held the lead and worked to windward of the white sloop. The two racers made a pretty picture as they worked in toward that part of the Jersey coast midway between Sandy Hook and Long Branch.

A Tame Finish.

Lord Dunraven led his opponent in close to the shore and then made a number of short tacks, for which the black cutter is famous. The people on the Vigilant kept up a stern chase without lessening the gap until after racing nearly three hours with small jibtopsail up she took it in and ran up a larger one. Then she began to pick up. Half an hour after she made the change in sails she had cut down the lead of the black cutter and crossed the bow of the latter to the music of a hundred whistles from the fleet of escort. From that time on the gallant cup defender led. When the sun went down behind the Seabright sand dunes and left the yachts working slowly toward the turning mark the accompanying steamers began to drop out of the line which they had formed at a respectful distance to leeward of the racers, and started for home. Most of the steamers remained until the Vigilant turned the flag buoy at 6:07 p. m. with the Valkyrie seven minutes behind her. Then all of the fleet except the two tugs which acted as tenders to the yachts and half a dozen press boats deserted the racers. Seeing a yacht race after dark was a novel experience to New Yorkers, and they did not like it. The run back to the city was made without the satisfaction of having seen a finished race, but the patriotic Americans who went out to shout for the Vigilant, were cheered by the thought that she was leading when the time limit ended the drifting match.

Good Work by Valkyrie.

The race, though unsatisfactory as to the result, was stubbornly contested, and the windward work done by the English cutter during the first half was the finest ever seen in this country. It showed plainly that in very light airs, the Valkyrie is a dangerous competitor, and had she not tacked inshore and lost the breeze would undoubtedly have beaten the Vigilant around the first mark. It took the Vigilant just five hours and twenty-two minutes to make the fifteen-mile beat from the lightship to the turn, and the Valkyrie five hours and twenty-nine minutes. This shows a gain of seven minutes for the American boat, taking the time of both yachts as that of the starting gun. On the run home, the Valkyrie gained considerably, and not until the six hour limit had almost expired did either boat give up the race. They took their tugs about one mile south of the Highland Lights.

Next Race Friday.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—It is officially announced by the racing committee that the race will be sailed over again on Friday.

WAYMAN PARDONED.

Escape From Life Imprisonment and Death.

AUBURN, N. Y., Oct. 12.—Samuel Wayman, convicted of murder and sentenced to life imprisonment, was released from Auburn prison yesterday upon a pardon granted by Gov. Flower. The iron gate had no sooner swung open for his exit, however, than he was confronted by the sheriff of Livingston county and a policeman who rearrested him for a series of burglaries committed near the time of the murder. The prisoner offered no resistance. It is believed he was guiltless of the crime of murder. His alleged accomplice and the one upon whose testimony he was convicted made a deathbed confession in the prison hospital exonerating Wayman from any complicity in the crime. Wayman had been sentenced to pay the death penalty but was commuted to life imprisonment. He has served two years. Wayman said he was guilty of the crime of burglary but he would plead not guilty in the belief that a jury would be very lenient with him on account of the great injustice to which he had been subjected. He was taken back to the scene of his crimes in Avon.

HAGGARD TAKES A HAND.

Facts in Dark Africa More Horrible Than Fiction.

LONDON, Oct. 12.—H. Rider Haggard, the novelist, has written a long letter to the Times "to dispel the notion current in some circles in England that Lobengula is an innocent and worthy savage on whom the chartered company is forcing a quarrel." Haggard relates that Lobengula, for an inoffensive remark about being a pretender to his throne, had a British captain, Patterson by name, and a sergeant sent to his camp on a mission by Sir Bartle Frere in 1878, and had them foully murdered on their return journey, together with a youth named Thomas, whom they had engaged from Lobengula's own camp. The government never avenged their deaths. He, Haggard, proved the murders and describes them in detail. "Some of the stories told of Lobengula," he says, "are too devilish for print. If innocent blood cried to heaven for vengeance, it cries against Lobengula." Haggard urges the the government, even at some cost, to retain Bechuanaland and Mashonaland.

THE TALKING MATCH.

Vice-President Stevenson Asked to Try to Stop It.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—The New York board of trade and transportation held their first meeting yesterday since June and barely a quorum was present. The principal question they discussed was as to whether or not a resolution should be sent to Vice-President Stevenson calling on him to exercise the closure rule in order to put a stop to needless debate on the repeal of the silver law. The resolution was introduced by Mr. Seymour. Its object was to petition Vice-president Stevenson, as the president of the senate, to put a stop to the "talking match" going on at present in that august body. The motion was finally passed by a two-thirds majority and a copy of it ordered sent to the president of the senate.

Windles mile was in 1:56 4-5, breaking his record of 1:58 1-5, made Oct. 3.

Thirty-four candidates are training for the freshman stand.

DEMOCRATIC PRIMARIES.

Legal Democratic voters of North Plainfield Township will meet at the School House in North Plainfield, Friday, Oct. 13, at 8 o'cl ck, to elect delegates to attend the convention at Somerville, Monday, Oct. 16.

By order of 10 11 3-c CO. EX. COM.

The Democrats of the Second Assembly District of Bergen county set a good example yesterday by instructing the candidate they named for the Legislature to vote for the repeal of last winter's race-track bills. A manly stand like that means success for the candidate.

Not having heard of Jersey justice, Hattie Adams moved to Long Branch the ranch which Parkhurst broke up in New York. The scandalized Monmouth County Grand Jury has speedily indicted her, and Hattie is likely to get an insight into the workings of the big stone house in Trenton.

Founder Bradley of Asbury Park would make an unique and interesting figure in the State Senate. His first bill would doubtless be one making it a misdemeanor for newspapers to refer to him as "The Founder", and his next would probably be directed against kodak fiends and flirts on public beaches.

Satisfied that the existing Borough Council will protect its monopoly against the opposition of the Plainfield company, the North Plainfield electric light concern continues careless in the matter of street lighting. For instance, the past four nights the lamp at Grandview avenue and Somerset street, and two lamps on Grandview avenue, have been unlighted continuously. There is much complaint from borough residents in various sections.

Lay not your treasures in bureau drawers, but rather put your trust in banks. Mary Haff of Rahway went to look for her pension money savings of $500 in greenbacks, which she had tucked away in a corner of a drawer, and found four bright-eyed baby mice snuggled down in the remnants of her money, which the mother mouse had torn to tiny bits. It's too bad Mrs. Haff can't turn this luxurious family to account through the medium of a museum.

Plainfield's police protection is far too scanty, as such events as the 1:17 train bunco affair and the Watchung avenue storebreaking prove. The territory which each officer is compelled to cover is something enormous. It takes each policeman fully an hour to make one circuit of his beat. The city has virtually no protection against robbers, firebugs, footpads and other lawless nighthawks. Were the police force doubled, it would be none too large. Plainfield has grown away from the old limit.

The revolution in literature worked by the marvelous development of the printing art is given fresh evidence by the action of Frank A. Munsey. Besides being a writer of fascinating storybooks, Mr Munsey is a successful editor and publisher, and finding that with his modern methods he can make a good profit on his beautiful Munsey's Magazine at a nominal price he has cut the retail figure down to 10 cents. As his magazine is the perfection of sumptuousness, both in style of printing and illustration and in quality of contents, this tremendous literary bargain may be considered a wonder of the age.

—James Heath, who was arrested for wife desertion, has been liberated on reduced bail. A Plainfield friend went his bond. James is very penitent.

THIEVES GOT NOTHING.

SCARED AWAY FROM WATCHUNG AVENUE STORES.

Left Tomlinson's Cash Untouched, and Didn't Even Molest the Candy or Baled Hay—Charles Hand, Roused from Slumber, Looks Over the Situation and Says the Store-breakers Were Irish.

At a little past 3 this morning, James Heath, who rooms in the Crescent building, Watchung avenue, was awakened by suspicious sounds as if some one were trying to force an entrance into one of the shops below. The noise seemed to come from a passageway or hall that runs in the rear of the shops that occupy the front of the building. After some delay, Heath reached the street just in time to see two men running off in the direction of Fifth street. He found Policemen Vanderweg and Mattox approaching, and they roused Charles Hand at his house and W. J. Tunison at the City Hotel.

On examination it was found that the doors of the Riding Academy were open, the front doors of Tunison's feed store were pushed apart, and the transom of Tomlinson's candy and notion store was broken from its fastenings and hung down over the door, so that it was impossible to open it. Strangely enough, nothing was missed from either of the shops.

In Tomlinson's cash drawer there was a considerable amount of money in small bills and change, which he had neglected to lock up last night, for the first time—he says—since he opened his shop. The pick of the entire stock was within reach, but none of it was molested.

Tomlinson was obliged to crawl into his shop through the broken transom this morning, as it was impossible to open the door from the outside.

In Tunison's feed store there was nothing in the way of stock that a burglar could take, and the cash was all locked up in the safe. Mr. Tunison says he thinks the burglars were thoroughly familiar with his store and office, as they tried first to enter it by the back window, and afterwards forced the front doors, which were easily broken open, as the fastenings are very flimsy. Traces of the intruders were plainly seen in the oats on the floor. The cash drawer, which is filled during the day, was empty, so the burglars got nothing there. Mr. Hand and Mr. Tunison locked up the place again, and went home. Mrs. Ohl, who is in charge of the Riding Academy, says it was locked as usual last night. Had not the burglars been scared off they might have made a good haul and no one would have been the wiser until too late.

Mr. Hand says that there were two suspicious individuals about the place all day yesterday and late into the evening. He says one of them was about 5 feet 7 inches tall and medium build. He wore a black hat and coat and a yellow shirt. He had a black mustache. The other was shorter, with sandy hair and mustache, and wore a black hat and coat. Mr. Hand thinks they were both Irishmen.

The coming of the policemen on the scene is what scared the molesters away.

ALL THE TOWN WAS THERE.

The Young People's Entertainment at Fanwood a Grand Success.

The entertainment in aid of All Saints church, Fanwood, was held in the Watchung Club-house last evening.

The 400 as well as those of lesser social distinction were out in full force to witness one of the prettiest sights yet seen on the Fanwood stage.

The young people managed the entire entertainment which consisted of tableaux by the youngsters ranging from 6 to 16 years of age. The entire series was deservedly and heartily encored, particularly "America", which group was composed of all the children, while little Lillie Fancher sang the grand old national hymn.

After the tableaux, refreshments were served and then the floor was cleared for dancing.

Miss Ida Cook presided at the piano most gracefully.

Great credit is due Mrs. Charles Collins for her assistance in the stage management. Rev. Dr. E. H. True was everywhere at once and brightened up the assembly by his vivacious example and witticisms. From out of town were noticed Mr. and Mrs. Elderton of Plainfield.

To give the names of the Fanwood people would require a census of the town, as they were all there; the jovial veteran, Captain Briggs, being the most noteworthy. The whole affair was a gratifying success financially as well as socially, more than one remarking that it was the most really social event ever held in Fanwood.

Those who took part were: Lily Fancher, Emma Force, Maria Force, Madeline Robinson, Muriel Robinson, Miss Florence Quereau, Ned and Bert Quereau, Masters Briggs, Collins, Force and Moore.

Capt. Martin Lost.

A short time ago H. S. Thomas made a wager of a bottle of wine that a wheel which had been shipped to the factory by F. L. C. Martin would not be returned within a week. The wheel did not arrive within the time specified, and last evening Mr. Thomas received the wine at Mr. Martin's expense.

Removed the Rod.

A brake rod on the forward truck of the rear car on the 9:32 train for New York broke this morning at Fanwood and delayed the train 15 minutes. It was found necessary to remove the rod.

THE WRONG MAN.

Young Hall, Instead of Being the Thief, Proves to Have Been the Victim.

It seems that the report first sent out by the New York police, in regard to a young man from this city named Hall, who it was stated and skipped with money and horses, proves to have been incorrect. It now transpires that Hall, instead of being the dishonest employe, as was first reported, is one of the owners of the show and the victim of the rascality of "Dandy Dick", to whom he gave a large sum of money to pay the advance expenses of his troupe, which was to have commenced an engagement at Manhattan Field, New York, this week. In addition to the sum of money, between $600 and $800, "Dandy Dick" is also reported as having taken two of the company's best horses. He is supposed to be on the way to the far west, and the police are using every means to apprehend him.

It is to be regretted that such a mistake was made concerning Mr. Hall, as he comes of a highly respected family, and has always been above reproach as to his honesty.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

The Hon. Geo. Kyte returned yesterday from the World's Fair.

Mrs. L. W. Randolph started for the World's Fair this morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest R. Ackerman have arrived home from the World's Fair.

Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Hegeman, Sr., of Sycamore avenue, are home from the great White City.

W. West, of Crescent avenue, will play half-back on the High School foot-ball team this season.

T. B. King, Jr., and Walter Manning started yesterday for Chicago, to enjoy two weeks at the Fair.

Fred F. Smith, son of ex-Councilman Seymour G. Smith of Central avenue, is at the World's Fair.

Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Leggett and Miss VanWinkle, of Madison avenue, are home from Chicago and Niagara Falls.

A Mr. Henderson of New York city has leased the Harman house on West Seventh street for a term of three years.

Charles Spiegel, of the firm of Spiegel & Steiner, Philadelphia, has been visiting friends on East Front street for a few days.

George Godown, one of Postmaster Pope's right-hand clerks, is not on his vacation. When he goes you'll see it in The Press.

A. D. Phillips has changed his residence from Madison avenue and Fourth street, to Central avenue between Sixth and Seventh streets.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Smith, of North Plainfield, will start for Topeka Monday. They will probably visit the World's Fair before returning.

The Rev. John H. Prescott, rector of St. Ann's Episcopal church, Sayville, L. I., on his way to the World's Fair stopped over in Plainfield and spent a pleasant day with his sister, Mrs. Samuel W. Baxter, 736 West Third street.

The condition of C. Schermerhorn, Jr., of North avenue, is but slightly improved, he being rendered almost helpless by muscular rheumatism in his lower limbs. The attending physician, however, has hopes of bringing him around all right.

James Keegan and bride (Miss Josie Schwartz) were given a reception at the bride's residence, West Front street, last evening, after which the newly-wedded couple took a late train to spend their honeymoon in Washington and Chicago.

Henry Lindsley, formerly of Plainfield, died at Newton, Tuesday. He was in the seventy-fourth year of his age. Mr. Lindsley will be remembered as a Plainfield councilman and as one of the elders concerned in the formation of Trinity Reformed church. His wife, now deceased, was a sister of B. A. Hegeman of Sycamore avenue, North Plainfield. The funeral services will be at Newton, Friday at 12:30 noon.

Trinity Election.

The annual election for three deacons and three elders of Trinity Reformed church took place last evening. Daniel Van Winkle, O. W. Dunham were re-elected elders, and Robert Clark was elected elder in place of G. Q Dolliver, who refused renomination on account of deafness. For deacons, T. E. Hazell, E. E. Anthony and F. C. Adams were all re-elected. The report of the church was read by Elder Van Emburgh.

Grand Rally Sunday.

Bethel A. M. E. Mission will hold a grand rally in the Seventh-Day Baptist church, Fifth street and Madison avenue, Sunday, for the benefit of the Colored Methodist church on Third street, this city.

As we now have a favorable opportunity to establish our church on a firm bases, we hope every well-wisher of the Colored Methodist church will give us their patronage on Sunday and lend us a helping hand. There will be preaching all day by strangers. Mrs. M. E. Holt will preach at 7:45 p. m. Rev. T. A. V. HENRY, Pastor.

This School Growing.

MURPHY WILL FIGHT.

SO HE DECLARES THROUGH HIS NEWSPAPER SPOKESMAN.

He Denies the Committee's Claim that They Represent a Majority of the Parish—Will Place His Security in the Vestry and His Bishop—His Veracity Touched on, and He Is Recommended to Enter Jersey City Politics—Running the Church on Ward Politicians' Principles.

The announcement made exclusively in The Press last night of the Holy Cross church sensation, brought a deluge of metropolitan reporters to Plainfield, and the New York papers are today full of the story. As was to be expected, the New York Herald, which is represented in Plainfield by the City Clerk, acts as spokesman for the rector, and says:

Mr. Murphy told me tonight that he was not prepared to state exactly what reply he would make, but that inasmuch as a request could only come from the vestry of the church he should doubtless remind the committee that they were barking up the wrong tree. He denies that the petition represented a majority of the parish, and said that in fact it represented but $800 in contributions to the funds of the parish, considerably less than one-third of the members. He said the committee represented an element in the church that had long been dissatisfied with any rule but their own.

He told me he could not be deposed from his position except by the Bishop and that bishops are not in the habit of removing clergymen except for cause. The cause in this case, he said, would simply be dissatisfaction of a faction and not at all of the parish at large. Mr. Murphy has been here seventeen years. During his ministrations the church has grown largely. The congregation is a fashionable one. The dissatisfied members, it is said, claim that Mr. Murphy is too much interested in politics. He is described by them as a Mugwump and a great admirer of Cleveland. Several of the alleged "kickers" are Republicans.

The New York World, being represented by the same person as The Herald, sent out a man from the city staff. Says The World:

The causes which have led up to the committee's action are many and varied. The dissatisfaction with the rector on the part of many of the church members has existed from the very beginning of his rectorship, seventeen years ago.

It is charged that he is too much interested in local and State politics; that association with ward politicians has blunted his sense of veracity; that the really good sermons he preaches are not of his own composition; that the members of his family are too forward in following the fashions in dress, and too keen for social enjoyment; in short that, except that he reads the service impressively and is an entertaining guest at a dinner party, they think he is a flat failure as a parson.

Mr. Murphy naturally takes an opposite view of the case. Seen tonight in his study at the rectory, No. 20 Washington avenue, he said:

"You see this action on the part of the so-called committee is astonishingly irregular. According to the laws of the church, the power to make a demand for my resignation is vested in the officers of the church, the vestrymen. Now no member of that committee is a member of the vestry. Besides that, I do not believe that the committee represents a majority of the church members. It seems to me that my long term of service as rector and the very flourishing condition of the church itself should be sufficient vindication of my work."

Mr. Murphy only smiled when the subject of his children's love for dancing was mentioned. In reply to the charge that some six weeks ago he caused the discharge of Choirmaster and Organist Miner for purely personal reasons, Mr. Murphy said that the choirmaster wrote an insulting letter to the vestry and that the latter body had accepted his resignation.

Charles Matthews, the Chairman of the Committee, and a well-known corporation lawyer, of 15 Broad street, New York, has been a member of the parish for more than twenty years.

"Mr. Murphy is not"—he said—"a fit man for the place. We have realized that fact for some years, but forbore to take any action which might bring the church into unpleasant publicity until it became absolutely necessary. He has been running the church as a ward politician would run a caucus. As to the fondness of the members of his family for dress and dancing, the least said the better."

A gentleman whose liberality in subscriptions to the church is equal to that of Mr. Matthews, but who declined to have his name given, said:

"What business has a man to continue as a clergyman whose reputation for veracity is, to say the least, not what it should be? The truth is, Murphy should enter politics in Jersey City. There he could give full vent to his natural craftiness and seek social enjoyments for himself and family without hindrance."

Others among the parishioners take the rector's part. They claim that the trouble is all because Mr. Murphy refused to allow the wealthy subscribers to run the church. In case he refuses to resign it is said that charges against him will be referred to the Bishop of the diocese. Already many of the wealthier parishioners have refused further subscriptions. One of these said last night that Mr. Murphy had experienced similar troubles in parishes at Newport, R. I., and Fitchburg, Mass.

The Very Man a Platform.

(From The Summit Record.)

Doubtless it will gladden the heart of every Democrat who believes in the recognition of sterling worth and the reward of faithful party service to learn that James E. Martine, of Plainfield, has yielded to the pleading of those who have the welfare of the Democratic party at heart and has consented to accept the nomination for State Senator from Union county if the convention determines so to honor him.

There has never been a time when all the members of the Democratic party, who were not guided by petty personal ambitions, were so unanimous in the demand, that in return for his matchless services and innumerable sacrifices in the past and in recognition of his ability and character Mr. Martine be selected as the standard-bearer of the Democratic party in the crucial campaign on which it is about to enter.

Such a nomination would, of itself, provide a platform upon which every Democrat might meet and would lend inspiration and courage to those who have grown weary of the labor of promoting party success for the advancement of the personal ambitions of those who are in politics for individual profit.

AS BAD AS "RINGSTERS".

Dr. Scudder Tells New Jersey Endeavorers That "Stay at Home" Christians Are Public Enemies.

The sixth annual State Convention of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor, of New Jersey, opened in Taylor Opera House, Trenton, yesterday. There were more than twelve hundred delegates present, the majority of them being young women.

The opening chorus was sung by the choir of one hundred and fifty voices under E. W. Dunham, of Trenton, and the delegates were then welcomed to the city on behalf of the churches by the Rev. Samuel S. Studdiford, and on behalf of the societies by the Rev. John Handley. The latter in his address referred to race-track gambling and predicted that within the present year the character, if not the political complexion of the Legislature would be changed. His prediction was greeted with loud applause.

The Rev. Dr. Scudder, of Jersey City, spoke in the afternoon on "True Citizenship for Endeavorers". "No weightier subject could come before us at this time than the 'Christian as a citizen'", said Dr. Scudder, "for multitudes of socalled Christians are very bad citizens, in consequence of which our country suffers and the progress of Christ's Kingdom is seriously retarded. The degraded classes value their citizenship and seldom fail to cast their ballots. Some of them vote several times. But multitudes of your brainy people and good people—falsely so called—either stay at home on election day or go out driving. These 'stay at homes' are the enemies of our Republic, and among them church members are conspicuously numbered.

"And what is the result of this unpardonable neglect? Politics, which is essentially a noble science and honorable pursuit, has been surrendered to the selfish and unscrupulous elements of society, and the rabble rule both our cities and State Legislature. Ex-convicts, gamblers, saloonkeepers and even murderers are allowed to hold responsible offices and administer the government. The sins of omission are as great and prolific of evil as the politicians' sins of commission."

MR. BRADLEY WILL RUN.

He Decided Yesterday to Accept the Nomination Made in Monmouth County.

James A. Bradley, who was nominated for Senator from Monmouth county, by the Republican and the Law and Order League conventions in Freehold last Monday, has accepted the nomination.

A delegation of Republicans and Law and Order League men called on him yesterday at his office in New York city and explained why he should accept. After the situation had been discussed he decided to run. The Law and Order League candidate for Clerk of Monmouth county, Mr. Forman, is a Democrat. The ordinary Democratic majority in Monmouth county is 1,200, but Mr. Bradley is confident this will be overcome because of the public sentiment against the race-track candidate who succeeded in getting on the ticket. The Prohibitionists of the county held a convention in Asbury Park yesterday and indorsed Mr. Bradley.

"The race-track bills will be repealed," said Mr. Bradley when seen last night. "The Legislature will be changed enough to secure that result, I am confident. Sports in general I approve, but betting and gambling I oppose."

Jersey's Big Peach Crop.

Never in the history of peach culture in Hunterdon county was the yield so large as this fall. A careful estimate made up of railroad station receipts, is as follows: The Lehigh Valley Railroad carried 538,000, Central Railroad 300,000, and ex-Congressman Pidcock's Rockaway Valley Railroad carried 292,300 baskets. The crop exceeds 1,200,000 baskets. The average net price per basket was 21 cents, the lowest ever known. Total amount paid for freight charges, $89,000; total amount received for the season's crop, net, $250,000. The principal receiving points were: First, New York; second, Philadelphia, and third, Boston.

White's Prices Will Be Lower Yet.

Edward White, the enterprising dry-goods merchant, has been elected a member of the New York Dry-Goods Exchange, an association of the leading dry-goods merchants throughout the United States, and which represent an annual business of twenty-five million dollars. The object of the exchange is the benefit its members derive in buying immense quantities of merchandise together direct from the manufacturer and securing every advantage in prices, and they in turn giving the benefit to their customers.

Another Substitute.

John Neighbor, the faithful letter carrier, has been busy the past week in piloting William Sharp over one of the routes of the city. Mr. Sharp has passed the necessary examination and will no doubt prove an able substitute letter carrier.

Another Dynamite Outrage.

An explosion at the Somerset street bridge over Green brook this noon drew a crowd. Some smart chap had placed a giant cartridge on the street car track. The passengers of the car that exploded it were considerably scared.

Why They Feel So Today.

Robert Woodruff and William Grogan of Westfield gave a clam-bake at Tremley Point, yesterday. Several wagon loads of people went over from here and spent an enjoyable day.

LATEST DESPATCHES.

THE SENATE VOTING.

A Night of Weary Talk, Followed by Action.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12—The Senate remained in continuous session through last night in its endeavor to reach a vote on the silver-purchase repeal bill through the test of physical endurance. Senator Allen (Pop., Neb.,) who began speaking against repeal late yesterday afternoon, held the floor through the night, and finished at 8 this morning, having spoken nearly 15 hours without a break. Senator Voorhees (Dem., Ind.,) then moved a vote on the Peffer free-coinage amendment to the House repeal bill, and it was laid on the table by a vote of 33 yeas to 17 nays.

DUNRAVEN WANTS A GALE.

Ready for Another Race Tomorrow.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12—The third race for the America's cup will be sailed tomorrow over course No. 1, fifteen miles to windward and leeward, if the wind permits. The local weather bureau predicts rain and brisk winds from the east or northeast.

Lord Dunraven when seen this morning at Bay Ridge, where he had been since 9, said the Valkyrie would sail the race tomorrow if it could be made. Capt. Cranfield said he was anxious to sail again in any kind of weather, but that now he would prefer a gale.

VEGIARD PLEASES ALL.

The Man of a Thousand Faces Proves a Great Drawing Card at St. Mary's Fair.

The hall of the Young Men's Catholic Lyceum was crowded last evening as the managers of St. Mary's fair had announced that J. T. Vegiard, who is known as the man of a thousand faces, would be present and entertain by his many funny recitations and facial expressions.

Although suffering from a severe sore throat, Mr. Vegiard succeeded in holding the attention of all present while rendering his different selections, which were greeted with hearty and enthusiastic applause.

The first number on the programme was a recitation entitled "Humpty Dumpty on the Velocipede", which was given in that excellent manner for which Mr. Vegiard is noted and for which he received such an ovation that he was obliged to respond to an encore. He then recited a piece called "The Long-handled Dipper", after which Mr. Vegiard gave in his usual fine style "Dot's Lager", and concluded his entertainment by giving a correct imitation of a schoolboy reciting his first piece before an audience, in which the artist proved what could be done in the way of changing the voice and facial expression to any pitch or position required.

The following awards were made last night: Bedroom suite, John J. Kenney; $10 gold piece, Thomas Lappen; barrel of flour, Adam L. Seal.

O'Reilly will furnish the music for dancing, which will be the main attraction tonight.

Mr. Barrell, the famous Philadelphia tenor, who was expected to favor the patrons with his finely-cultivated voice, was for some reason or other prevented from being present last evening, but will surely be present tomorrow night, and in conjunction with the Martin Bros Quartette, and John Carney, the German comedian, will no doubt hold the audience the whole evening and be greeted with prolonged applause, which they surely will deserve.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—The White Squadron will have a big house tonight.

—A dog-fight is said to have taken place in a barn over in Bull Frog City last night.

—One juryman has been tampered with, bought off; this can be proved at the trial in Music Hall Monday night.

—A horse belonging to Achison & Davis of Park avenue is laid up with a very painful foot, the result of stepping on a rusty nail.

—Justice Mosher this morning made a levy on the goods of the Postal Telegraph Company to satisfy the claim granted to D. S. Roberts yesterday.

—The furniture, bric-a-brac and utensils of John F. Collins will be sold at auction at his residence, Mountain avenue, Scotch Plains, next Tuesday.

—All apprentices are invited to be present at the Y. M. C. A. reception, this evening, whether they have received invitations or not. There will be gymnastics, music and refreshments.

—The Jersey Central Railroad Company, ever considerate of the public, has made a special excursion rate of $1.11 from Plainfield to Trenton and return, for the dedication of the Trenton battle monument next week.

—Chris Bock has two of the largest St. Bernard dogs in the city. They are named Leo and Nero, and they are fond of swimming. Nearly every afternoon the dogs can be seen swimming in Tier's Lake, and they are watched by many persons.

Self Praise.

Self praise is no recommendation, but there are times when one must permit a person to tell the truth about himself. When what he says is supported by the testimony of others no reasonable man will doubt his word. Now, to say that ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS are the only genuine and reliable porous plasters made is not self praise in the slightest degree. They have stood the test for over 30 years and in proof of their merits it is only necessary to call attention to the cures they have effected and to the voluntary testimonials of those who have used them.

Beware of imitations, and do not be deceived by misrepresentation. Ask for ALLCOCK'S, and let no solicitation or explanation induce you to accept a substitute.

THE CAPTAIN'S BIRTHDAY.

The Colonel Tells How Much He Missed Him.

A pleasant informal surprise was in store for Captain L. J. Briggs on his return to Fanwood Tuesday evening after having celebrated his eightieth birthday with his grandchildren in Brooklyn on the seventh.

"Well, Colonel, I am really glad to get home," and the two settled down to their game of seven-up.

"You bet I missed you, Captain, and by the way you must accept this little package sent you from Plainfield as a birthday present."

Then and there the package was undone and also apparently was the Captain as with a gasp he fell back with the exclamation "Great Scott!" as before him was displayed a box of the finest Partigas, elegantly arranged and modestly carded.

"1813—1893.
Compliments of Chas. K. Moore and
The Daily Press."

"Have one, Colonel, let's proceed with the game"—and the game went on.

Suddenly down went the lights surrounding the table and before either gentleman could recover from his surprise, in glided the ladies with a birthday cake lighted by the number of candles symbolical of the Captain's age, and one in addition for next year.

This knocked the game in the head, and with a happy smile illuminating his countenance the Captain sank back in his cushioned chair murmuring "Holy Moses! good night, Colonel!"

DISCUSSING FUSION.

Progress Being Made for the Union of Crescent Wheelmen and Board of Trade.

A committee from the Board of Trade met a committee from the Crescent Wheelmen last night to discuss the proposed fusion of the interests of the two organizations. The Board committee will report to the Governors of the Board tonight, and will then wait on the Wheelmen to let them know the results.

The Crescent Wheelmen feel that their membership is representative of the best element of the old Crescent League from which they grew, and as many are members of both organizations it would be more convenient to them both to be united.

The question now is as to the financial terms on which the Wheelmen will be admitted.

Did the Other Birds Carry Him Off?

Two of the four pigeons belonging to J. Hervey Doane and liberated by John M. Crane from the American Yacht Club's boat at the yacht race, yesterday, came back with their messages early in the afternoon. The first message received was as follows:

12:45—Still no wind. Looks as though the yachts will not race. Just like summer out here. All overcoats off; very hot, and the wind we looked for does not come. CRANE.

The second message told of the start:

First gun fired 1:24½ p. m. Wind South; light breeze. Start 1:44.50. Valkyrie over line first, Vigilant to windward. CRANE.

Mr. Crane has not yet returned, so it is not known at what time the other birds were flown.

Not until today did the remaining birds come in. Then they brought the following messages:

Steamer Gay Head, Atlantic Yacht Club, Oct. 11, '93. 11:45 a. m.—No wind. Wind light from South. Boats waiting for wind. Hope to send news later. JOHN M. CRANE.

3 p. m.—Looks as though race would be declared off. 4 miles from outer mark. Can't finish in time. Vigilant ahead 1 mile. CRANE.

A New Dress For Any Woman.

Take any half worn gown, no matter how badly faded, and with one or two packages of diamond dyes, you can dye it so nicely that it will look fresh and new. Diamond dyes give more dye for the price than any other dyes. They are pure simple and strong, and are not adulterated with worthless ingredients to make a bulky package. They are all dye.

On the Anxious Shelf.

There is much anxiety among the employes at the Pond Tool Works. Some of them are momentarily expecting a "lay-off", while others are fearful that the works will shut down entirely for a time.

Runyon & Moffett Still Winning.

Judgment was rendered this afternoon in Justice Nash's Court in the case of Jas. Flynn against Wm. H. Harding for $28 30 in favor of the plaintiff. Runyon & Moffett appeared for Flynn.

To Get New Goods Abroad.

A brother of J. A. Karet, manager of the International Fur Store, 114 Park avenue, left for Europe on the steamship New York, yesterday, to buy goods for the store.

Not Used to Plainfield Manners.

A Wedding.

Joseph Taylor and Miss Lizzie Mattis were married last evening at 9:15, the Rev. C. L. Goodrich performing the ceremony.

—The Rev. Klonka will hold church in Warren chapel, Sunday, as his own church will not be ready.

—The "White Squadron" company reached Plainfield at 11:43 this morning, in four special railroad coaches.

UP TO DATE.

Good violins improve with use and age. If Stradivarius had made Pianos as well as violins, no one would care to own one of the former unless as a curiosity. There is little new in violin making, but there is something new every year in Piano making. Take care you do not buy a Piano simply because it was famous. With any Piano of ancient name and fame we invite you to compare the Steinway, Gabler, Vose, Sterling and Brauuller Pianos. They contain all new improvements that are desirable They are up to date.

PUNCHING JOHN BULL

France Jealous of England in Morocco.

Reception to the Russian Fleet—Marshal McMahon Still Critically Ill. DeLesseps Said to Have Recovered From His Recent Sickness.

Copyright, 1893, by the United Press.

PARIS, Oct. 12.—The reception of the Russian fleet at Toulon is but two days off and the Russian feeling grows hourly in intensity. The newspapers now give daily long lists of Russian officials and dignitaries who have come to Paris to witness the fetes. Russian decorations are seen everywhere in such variety and beauty as would not be possible in any other continental capital. Even while thus preoccupied, the French editors have not missed a very small chance to bait John Bull. They have found in the attack of the Moors on the Spaniards at Melilla only another evidence of English perfidy. They have roused French prejudice against the Briton by declaring that English emissaries were behind the outbreak and that England is only waiting for an opportunity to interfere between Spain and Morocco. There is little doubt that both France and England are anxious for a chance to present to Sultan Muley-Hassan treaties similar to the ones he recently refused to sign for them. Neither the French nor the British government would be unwilling probably to use the sultan's present trouble with Spain to secure such an end. This rivalry to obtain the benefits of the Melilla affair is one source of French jealousy.

McMahon Still Low.

Marshal McMahon, whose illness has caused his friends much alarm in the last week, is resting well, but his condition is still critical. There is no prospect of his attending the banquet to the Russians. His invitation was carried to him by the secretary of the municipal council, who went to Chateau La Forest so as to show full honors to the veteran. Marshal Canrobert also has declined his invitation, as he is weakened by age and many ailments.

De Lesseps Well Again.

Last evening it was reported that Count Ferdinand de Lesseps had recovered fully from his recent acute illness. He was suffering merely from derangement of the stomach.

HAZERS DISMISSED.

Severe Punishment Meted Out by Princeton.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 12.—The faculty took final action at last night's meeting in the case of the sophomores convicted of hazing. One of the sophomores was dismissed with a recommendation of severe punishment by the authorities outside of the college, two others were dismissed, two were suspended until March 1, one until Thanksgiving day, and one until Nov. 1. The punishment is regarded as extremely severe. The faculty positively refuse to give the names of the disciplined students with reference to the degree of punishment. It could not be learned last night whether any of the three football men is the member dismissed, and thus barred from a return to college.

Big Strike.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Oct. 12.—In compliance with the order issued by President Smith of the flint glass workers union to the effect that all members of that organization should at once cease work in the factories controlled by the United States glass company, all of the mold makers stopped work and went out on a strike. This order of President Smith affects the employes in 16 factories in which about 2,000 men are employed.

Thanks from Brunswick.

QUARANTINE, S. I., Oct. 12.—Health Officer Jenkins yesterday notified by telegraph the mayor of Brunswick, Ga., that seven car loads of provisions had been shipped to his city. The following was received in reply:

"BRUNSWICK, Ga., Oct. 11.—Situation is growing worse, 209 cases under treatment. We are short in meats. Many thanks for your liberal contributions."

Brazilian Situation.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—Both state and navy departments decline to make public the information in their possession as to the latest phases of the complicated situation at Rio. It is known that instructions of an important character have been cabled to Minister Thompson by personal direction of President Cleveland, but the contents of the dispatch are carefully guarded.

Too Slow to Suit.

HONESDALE, Pa., Oct. 12.—The boatmen of the Delaware & Hudson canal company have appointed a committee to confer with the company officials at Albany concerning the slow movement of boats between Honesdale and the Hudson river. Idle boats line the canal from one end to the other and the boatmen say it is the worst season they ever experienced.

Murderur Cronin.

HARTFORD, Conn., Oct. 12.—"Jack" Cronin who murdered Albert J. Skinner last Friday, has been bound over without bonds to the December term of the superior court. Mrs. Skinner, the wife of Cronin's victim, is showing signs of returning reason.

French Concession.

LONDON, Oct. 12.—The Berlin correspondent of the Daily News says that France has abandoned her demand for the dismissal of the Danish officers in the Siamese service, in compliance with a wish of King Christian expressed through the czar.

Yellow Fever at Brunswick.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—Surgeon-General Wyman's report from Surgeon Murray on the situation at Brunswick, Ga., shows that there were 22 new cases. No deaths.

EMINENT MEN.

Great Unanimity of Our Most Prominent Citizens.

MEN OF STANDING WHOSE WORD IS A POWORFUL INDORSEMENT.

The Agent For The Great Prudential Insurance Company Speaks.

This is positive and convincing.

Joseph Brundage, Esq., whose office is No. 5 Academy Music, Newburg, N. Y., the agent of the great Prudential Insurance Co., is widely known as a prominent and influential business man.

He is of the type of eminent men whose word commands belief, and we gladly publish what he says because others will be assured of its truth by his own powerful words.

"I was broken down in health and most used up," he said. "I was terribly nervous and could not sleep nights. I was also troubled with dyspepsia in its worst form. All the food I ate almost killed me with pain, indigestion, gas and bloating of the stomach.

"I commenced to take Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy and took five bottles. I now feel a hundred times better, in fact I am all right and can eat anything without hurting me a bit and sleep well and soundly.

JOSEPH BRUNDAGE, ESQ.

"In fact this wonderful medicine has been all in all to me; I have gained ten pounds in weight and feel like another man. I would have given $10 a bottle for it if I could not get it for less. I am one of its strongest advocates and feel that I cannot praise it enough in recommending it to others who wish to be cured."

One of the peculiar features of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy is the fact that so many eminent persons, people foremost among ministers, physicians, scientists and the best known and most prominent business men, recommend the use of this valuable medicine.

They do it because they know that it cures and because they feel that the weigh of their name and influence will be strong in urging others to try this great curer of disease and so be cured.

It is beyond all question the greatest curer of disease known at the present day and is the very best medicine for blood and nerves. It is purely vegetable and harmless, and is sold by druggists for $1.

This great remedy is the discovery and prescription of the famous physician, Dr. Greene, of 35 West 14th st., New York, who is the most successful specialist in uring nervous and chronic diseases in this country. We would add that the noctor can be consulted free, personally or by letter.

TIRED AND UGLY, SENATE ADJOURNS

Silver Men Win the First Round in the Battle of Brutality.

STEWART THREATENED TO TALK TILL SUNDAY

First Suggestion of a Recess for Rest Defiantly Refused—Dreary Roll Calls Add to the Tediousness of the Session—Impossible to Maintain a Quorum Under the Continuous Physical Strain—Adjournment at Last Taken on Motion of Senator Voorhees.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—Technically and from a parliamentary point of view there was no Thursday's session of the senate. Yesterday's proceedings will appear as a continuance of Wednesday's session. Practically and from a business point of view, however, it was one of the most important and pregnant sessions that have been held since the 7th of August last. It began when the press dispatches closed at about 3 o'clock in the morning. The populist senator from Nebraska (Mr. Allen) was then about two-thirds through his speech against the repeal of the bill, and he finished it, with intermittent roll calls, at 8 a. m., having then occupied the floor for 14 3-4 hours. After he had retired from the scene an amusing little interlude took place, turning around the parliamentary puzzle of how to make a senator vote in spite of himself. Mr. Dubois (rep., Idaho) played the principal part, and although the senate voted not to excuse him for withholding his vote, he withheld it all the same, the only penalty imposed upon him being the official entry of his recalcitrancy on the journal of the senate. Two other little episodes were played. The one was the presentation by Mr. Stewart (rep., Nev.) of a dynamite-threatening letter sent to him from Baltimore, and the other was a notice by Mr. Voorhees (dem., Ind.) that if half hourly roll calls were kept up for the purpose of forcing the continuous attendance of repeal senators he would resort to some means to compel the attendance of "the notabilities" on the other side.

One Amendment Gone.

The curtain fell about 10 a. m. on the first act of the main drama. One of the two pending amendments to the repeal bill was laid on the table by a vote of 33 to 17; and thus Mr. Peffer's free coinage amendment was eliminated from the question, at least temporarily. This left only one amendment pending to the house bill, being the substitute reported from the finance committee and which in addition to the repeal section, makes a declaration that it is the policy of the United States to continue the use of both gold and silver as standard money and to coin both gold and silver into money of equal intrinsic and exchangeable value, such equality to be secured through international agreement or by legislation. There are about a dozen other impending amendments of which notice has been given, but only one of them can be offered and pending at the same time, as it will be an amendment in the second degree. All of them, however, may be offered, each in its turn, until a final vote is reached on the bill, if it ever be reached. None of them was offered yesterday.

Martin Gives Out.

The debate on the bill was continued by the democratic senator from Kansas (Mr. Martin.) He began his speech against the bill at 9:40, and, about 2 o'clock he apologized for having allowed himself to be diverted from the main current of his argument, and promised to devote himself to the subject in an orderly manner for the next ten hours. The threat contained in the promise turned out, however, to be an empty one, for at 4 o'clock Mr. Martin, pleaded fatigue and yielded the floor, saying that he would seek another opportunity of addressing the senate.

After Mr. Martin, the floor was taken by Mr. Teller (rep. Col.) who continued a speech against the bill which he began last week.

Silver Men Aggressive.

At 6 o'clock Mr. Teller said he had an important engagement which he was desirous of keeping, if agreeable to the senate, and that he would now yield the floor with the understanding that he could resume the floor to-morrow. To this there was no objection and Mr. Stewart (rep., Nev.) was recognized, and began to speak. About 8 o'clock the situation took on a new aspect, and it appeared that the silver men, or some of them, had assumed the aggressive, even to the extent of compelling the presence of their enemies. The visible signs of weariness on the countenances of the senators were increasing with the passage of each hour and every time the sharp double ring of the electric bells called for a quorum they rose from their lounges and sang easy chairs and came into the chamber with greater reluctance. The symptoms of discontent multiplied. Mr. Sherman went home after dark declaring that he would not do more than ten hours of such work continuously. That sentiment seemed to find an echo in the breasts of other republicans; but still they preserved their alignment beside Mr. Voorhees, though in a perfunctory fashion that excited the apprehension of the democratic repeal managers. A hasty consultation followed, and with great difficulty the leaders were induced to sanction a proposition for a recess from 10 o'clock at night until 10 o'clock in the morning. Probably they were brought to this pass by the fear of the final disappearance of a quorum for the night, thus revealing a fatal weakness. But when it came to the execution of this plan there was an unexpected hitch, and the managers found that they had calculated without their host in omitting Mr. Stewart from their councils.

That senator had the floor, and, calmly replied, when appealed to to yield for a motion to take a recess, that he proposed to talk until Sunday morning without intermission—a statement that gathered strength from the noted prowess of the senator in the line of discussion and his exceptionally fresh and vigorous appearance.

Twisting the Screws.

The fact that an agreement had been reached to take a recess, although it was not carried out, was in itself significant of a change of policy in the conduct of the bill. A recess for twelve hours, taken with the consent of the repeal managers, meant that the continuous session or "sitting-it-out" idea had failed of its purpose. As far as could be gathered, the republican senators were largely responsible for its abandonment, and they counseled a return to something akin to the old order of long daily but not continuous sessions. Another reason assigned for the recess programme, although this could not be confirmed, was a desire to afford an opportunity to arrange a compromise, if such a thing were possible. But up to 9 o'clock nothing in that direction could be accomplished, all on account of Mr. Stewart; and Mr. Voorhees showed his resentment by his indignant denunciation of the course pursued by the silver men in demanding a quorum even when they knew that one was within the chamber. These calls, by the way, had so increased in frequency during the evening as to bear out the idea that the silver men were executing their threat of "putting the screws on." It was certain that instead of being merely annoying, as at first, they were rapidly becoming intolerable to the tired and exasperated law-makers. About 9 o'clock, Secretary Carlisle again made his appearance at the capitol and was soon closeted in a committee-room with several repeal senators.

Adjournment at Last.

When Mr. Wolcott at 11:50 again deemed it a convenient opportunity to suggest the absence of a quorum there was a buzz of expectancy among the spectators on the floor, for the whisper had gone round that a quorum would not be forthcoming, and that some release from the long continued strain was in sight. The long conferences which Mr. Voorhees and Mr. Gorman had been holding together on the floor lent [illegible] ability to these anticipations, which increased when it was announced that Senators Turpie and Vance had gone home. Still a call of the roll showed 41 senators present, including Mr. Stewart.

After the lapse of 25 minutes when no quorum had been made the sergeant-at-arms was sent out in quest of absent members. At 1:40 the sergeant-at-arms submitted his report in writing, which showed that there were two senators absent from the city, twelve excused by the senate, four unable to attend on account of illness, nine in the capitol who made no answer to the summons, and sixteen reported at their residences as absent from home and could not be found.

Immediately following this report Mr. Voorhees said, that in view of the report of the sergeant-at-arms, it was evident no further business could be transacted that night and he, therefore, moved that the senate adjourn. There was no opposition, and the senate at 1:45 a. m., adjourned until 11 o'clock Friday.

House of Representatives.

There was a sharp debate in the morning hour of the house yesterday upon the bill reported from the committee on public lands to protect the public forest reservations. It was vigorously attacked by Messrs. Pickler, Coffeen, Simpson, Bell (Colorado), Hermann and Doolittle, who asserted that the bill should have been denominated an act to denude the public forest reservations; and defended by Mr. McRae, who reported the bill, and Delegate Rawlins of Utah. Notice was given of numerous amendments, but before any of them could be acted upon the hour expired and the bill went over. The McCreary bill to amend and modify the Geary Chinese exclusion and registration act, was further discussed, after an announcement by Mr. McCreary that he would ask for a vote on it to-day at 4 o'clock.

WIND FOR THE YACHTS

Race To-Day May be Sailed in a Cyclone.

Changes in the Valkyrie That Are Expected to Increase Her Speed. Promise of the Closest Contest of the Series.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—The America's cup defender Vigilant, and her antagonist, Lord Dunraven's Valkyrie, lay off Bay Ridge yesterday getting into readiness, for to-day's race. Little was done on the white sloop beyond tightening shrouds and readjusting pulley blocks, but on the Valkyrie a change was made which Lord Dunraven thinks will make her a better foe for the Vigilant than she has been. An extra ton of lead ballast was placed in her hold amidships. This made her set lower in the water and increased her load water line. Her owner stated in an interview that in order to shorten her water line he had lightened her and cut away her forefoot, so that she has been nearly one foot shorter than when she raced in British waters and made a phenominal record among British boats. Lord Dunraven arrived at the conclusion that he had lightened the boat too much, and he therefore decided to put in more ballast before another race takes place.

After the additional ballast had been put aboard and made fast, the Valkyrie was towed to Erie basin, where official measurer Hyslop ran his steel tape over her and furnished the racing committee with the new measurement. The increased length of water line cuts down the time allowance which the boat received from the Vigilant from one minute forty-eight seconds to one minute thirty-three seconds. It is expected that the loss of fifteen seconds in time allowance will be more than compensated for by the improved sailing ability of the yacht. After being measured the Valkyrie was towed back to her anchorage ground at Bay Ridge.

The race to-day will be the same that ended without a finish on Wednesday, over a course 15 miles to windward or leeward off the Sandy Hook lightship and return. The weather bureau predicts a gale for the race, and the skippers of both yachts say they want a good stiff blow to show what their boats can do. The indications are that the race will be with housed topmasts and the liveliest of the series.

JUDGE COOLEY SEVERE.

Says the Minority Tactics Rob Him of Right and Liberty.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 13.—Judge Thomas M. Cooley, of Ann Arbor, Mich., the distinguished constitutional lawyer, in a letter to ex-Mayor Hodges under date of Oct. 9, says:

"On the status of the silver bill in the senate I must confess to being in a mood far from agreeable. If it is true that the majority cannot force a vote a revolution has in some manner been effected in the government—it is no longer the government our fathers created, but one so changed by one legislative body that a minority in that body may at pleasure defeat any legislative measure.

"I feel humiliated as an American citizen—more than that, I feel robbed of liberties that would never have been voluntarily surrendered by the people. The constitution is violated in one of its most important particulars, and not so far as we can see, for once, merely, but in a way that for all time leaves it at the mercy of a few persons."

STRANGE MALADY.

Young Woman Who Nods at Every Heart Beat.

HUNTINGDON, Pa., Oct. 13.—During the past eight weeks Miss Emma Herncame, a prominent young lady of this place, has laid in bed with her head securely strapped to the pillow.

Two months ago while preparing for church she felt a sharp and sudden snap like the breaking of a cord at the back of her neck. This was accompanied by a violent pain issuing from the heart to the base of the brain. Since then at every heart beat her head has made a violent and responsive nod, first forward and then backward, with the regularity and precision of a clock pendulum. In either movement the head passes from the perpendicular about one foot. The young lady's general health is but slightly impaired.

The local physicians are nonplussed over the strange affliction.

ANOTHER HURRICANE

Severe Storm Raging at Savannah.

Timely Warning by the Weather Bureau—Every Precaution to Insure Safety—Indications That the August Cyclone Will be Equaled.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Oct. 13.—Savannah is in the teeth of a storm which threatens to equal in intensity that of August 27, which swept the entire Georgia and South Carolina coast. The predictions of the weather bureau gave ample warning, and preparations have been in progress in the city, on river and harbor, to protect property from its ravages. The wind is now blowing 40 miles an hour and is steadily increasing. All vessels in the harbor have sought shelter and safe anchorages. The smaller craft, tow boats, pilot boats and yachts have been massed in slips and tied fast. No vessels have left port. The Boston steamship Gate City which was to have sailed has been made fast to her docks and will remain until the storm has passed. The New York steamer City of Augusta, which left New York, Wednesday, is due to-day, and it is feared will be caught in the storm. A number of vessels are due from foreign and domestic ports and one or two are believed to be off the bar. In the city little damage has yet been done. The full force of the storm is expected to reach here soon. A heavy rain is now falling.

None of the refugees appear to know any of the details of the alleged plot against Hyppolite.

NORTH PLAINFIELD

Legal Democratic voters of North Plainfield Township will meet at the School House in North Plainfield, Friday, Oct. 13, at 8 o'clock, to elect delegates to attend the convention at Somerville, Monday, Oct. 16.

10 11 3-c County Executive Committee.

Yankee doodle!

You may know the jealous fellow by his snarl.

Dunraven had all the kinds of weather he prayed for, but he needed a centreboard to take that cup.

To your health, Uncle Peter, Oldest Inhabitant! That you may turn the century with years to follow is the heartfelt prayer of The Press and all your friends.

No one deprecates more than does The Press the necessity for publishing the facts of distressing discord in an organization like Holy Cross parish; but as a newspaper The Press has its duty to fulfill.

The anti-race-track candidates will win this year. Politic politicians will see that their delegates frame a ticket strongly pledged. The foolish will make no pledges, and by such action will invite disaster.

A refreshing example of the unanimity of pastor and flock is exhibited by the Plainfield Seventh-Day Baptist people, among whom the Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis is idealized. This is at it should be in every church in town.

It makes competitors chafe and writhe in envy to see another paper progressing steadily ahead of them. The Press in Plainfield leads because it gives all the news first and fully, and because it has a mind of its own.

One of the pleasantest features of the Christian Endeavor State Convention, just concluded, was the excellent and profitable address given by Miss Alice B. Spangenberg, of Netherwood. This young noblewoman has done and is doing great good in the cause of Christianity. She is particularly gifted for the work, and she is increasing her talents manifold.

One of the greatest needs of Plainfield is more police protection. It does seem as if this department has been systematically neglected. While the fire department and the streets have been granted everything they asked for, the police force has been left continually out in the cold. In other respects the city has advanced; in this it has stood still.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—Enter the Y. M. C. A. shorthand class tonight at 8.

—The wind caused a break in the fire-alarm line this afternoon.

—Street Commissioner Meeker has a gang of men grading Central avenue, south of Ninth street.

—Talking about the Fair, just notice the display of fruits and vegetables at Demarest's to-morrow.

—The cases of Fosgate against Nightingale and Moore against Taylor, that was to have been tried to-day before Justice Mosher, were both adjourned until Nov. 15.

—The prosperity of the Home Building and Loan Association is evidenced by the fact that the Association will next Monday evening open a twelfth series. All interested are invited to meet in the Republican Headquarters, on Front street, over the City National Bank.

PRISONERS SENTENCED.

THE NEGRO WHO HIT PANGBORN GETS THREE YEARS.

Abductor Randolph Goes to Prison for 5 Years—His Accessory Gets Off with 5 Months in Jail—Long List of Other Offenders.

(Special to The Press.)

SOMERVILLE, Oct. 13.—Judge Bartine today sentenced the largest batch of prisoners ever sent at one time from the Somerville jail.

John McGuire, who broke into a farmer's house, was sentenced to two years in State Prison.

Augustus VanAngien, the North Plainfield negro who assaulted Marshal Pangborn, was sentenced to 3 years in prison, the extreme penalty. He formerly served eighteen months.

Peace J. Rodgers, for larceny, was sent to jail for five months.

Adam Stutz and Arthur Randolph, the two prisoners in the North Plainfield abduction case, were brought in. Miles Fury, a tough Raritan lad, with them. Fury was convicted of assault on Constable Corcoran. Judge Bartine sentenced the offenders as follows: Adam Stutz, 5 months in county jail: Arthur Randolph, 5 years in State Prison at hard labor; Miles Fury, 3 years in State Prison at hard labor.

When Randolph had received his sentence he sat down and cried like a baby. Stutz was advised by the court to do better and was told that this chance was given him.

Chris Lovering, for stealing two ducks, was ordered confined in jail for five days.

John Lahey and Bernard McKeon, both of Raritan, for attempting to break and enter, were sent to the county jail for three months each.

Robert Wallace, for assault and battery at a North Plainfield tintype gallery, had sentence suspended.

The Hungarians who stole a bushel of coal from the Philadelphia and Reading railroad were fined $10 each.

Frank Dorn of Bound Brook, for assault, was sent to the county jail for 30 days.

GETTING DOWN TO DETAILS.

The Committee on New Manufactures was instructed to confer with a number of prospectors that have visited Plainfield lately with a view to locating some new interests here.

A committee was appointed to draft and prepare a memorial to present to the Grand Lodge of Knights of Pythias in case the latter organization should appoint a committee to investigate Plainfield as a suitable place to locate their new home.

ST. MARY'S FAIR.

Notwithstanding the Great Crowd in Attendance the Dancing was Enjoyed by All—More Awards Made.

The Y. M. C. L. hall was filled to its utmost capacity last evening with patrons of St. Mary's fair, and everyone was evidently determined to get all the enjoyment possible from the different attractions, and especially by indulging in the dancing the music for which was furnished by O'Reilly.

The dancing commenced at 9, and the crowd was so great that considerable difficulty was experienced in securing a place in any one of the many sets which the floor committee, after much effort, succeeded in forming, and then the space allotted to each set was very small.

Between the dances Father Murphy mounted the platform and awarded the following prizes: Ton of coal, Mrs. Thomas Flynn, Madison avenue; chest of tea, Chas. Smith, West Front street; eight-day clock, Della Affels, West Third street. Many other awards will be made tonight.

The programme for this evening will include: John Carney, German comedian; Karl Rudolph, famous Philadelphia tenor; Chas. Ward, comical singer, and the celebrated Martin Brothers Quartette.

Last evening several members of the Elizabeth Y. M. C. L. A. were present and royally entertained by the managers of the fair.

AMONG THE BOWLERS.

List of Lyceum Members from which the Five-men Team for the Journal Series Will Be Chosen.

On the alleys of the Y. M. C. L., either Tuesday or Wednesday evening of next week, will begin the individual bowling tournament, which has been arranged for the purpose of trying each man's ability with the ball, in order that a strong five-man team may be selected for the Elizabeth Journal Bowling League contest. Seventeen names have already been secured, and it is expected that many more will be added by the first of the week. The five men selected for the Journal series will also enter the tournament of the Diocesan Union which is soon to be commenced. No doubt an extra strong team will represent the Lyceum as the list from which the team will be chosen include such well-known knights of the pin as M. Winn, J. Traynor, W. Forestel, M. Owens, M. Mack, J. Whelan, P. Butscher, C. Powell, J. J. Hibbitts, D. Ghlbraith, T. Hughes, P. Kneeland, W. J. Kiely, W. Martin, T. Carty, J. J. Lynch and J. J. Kenney.

Spilled by a Frightened Horse.

Yesterday afternoon at 5 a horse, drawing a light hooded gig, took fright at the cars while passing under the Park avenue railroad bridge. The animal dashed down the avenue at headlong speed and turned into Fourth street, upsetting the rig and throwing its occupants, an elderly gentleman and a colored man, out into the street and directly under the overturned gig. Joseph Flack, of Achison & Davis's grocery store near by, saw the horse when he started to run and was at his head the moment the rig turned the corner. Had he not been on hand to hold the frightened horse it might have fared hard with the unfortunates under the gig. The rig was slightly damaged, and the occupants were badly shaken up, but were able to get home all right.

What Is a Rooster, Anyway?

Mayor Saunders, in refuting Mayor Gilbert's charge that he stole a rooster, says that he never even saw a picture of one, and wants to know what it's like. The trial will take place Monday night, without postponement. Mr. Saunders adds that in spite of the awful suspense he sleeps well, but since he has been told that feathers are connected with poultry and do not grow on trees as he always supposed, he has used an air cushion instead of a pillow. This may or may not be regarded as a suspicious circumstance.

NEW YORK'S BEST THEATRICALS.

"Charley's Aunt" and "Liberty Hall", the Leading Successes of the Season.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.

"Charley's Aunt", the new farce comedy running at the Standard Theatre, New York, under the direction of Charles Frohman, is a phenomenal success, and it is not improbable that it wil make a record surpassing any other humorous stage production that the United States has yet been acquainted with. It abounds in ludicrous surprises, quaint sayings, and all the elements that are requisite to a laugh-raising play, but that is not all. If it were "Charley's Aunt" would not be entitled to a longer stay on the stage or more generous recognition than any other farce or comedy. The secret of its extraordinary success though and the reason for predicting such a long and merry life for it is that outside of its comical qualities it has a charming love story so deftly interwoven with the humor of the piece that one does not know which to admire most the funny people of the play or the sentimental people. They are real human lovers too, and the closeness of the comedy characters to ordinary human nature is another reason for the popularity of the play. It contains too, the first character novelty introduced into a comedy in seven years, or since the production of "The Private Secretary". "Charley's Aunt" is now in its second year in London, with prospects of a very long stay and it is being played in Germany too.

To select any one of its numerous funny features and write about it would be to do as the foolish Grecian did that Hierocles tells about, who carried around a brick as a sample of the house he had for sale. The comedy is made up of incident after incident and saying after saying that have novelty and the surprising suddenness of absurdity that startles one into laughter. From first to last there is no let up in the rollicking mirthfulness of the piece.

But there is one scene at the very opening of the comedy that will interest young women and young men too, for they all have been there themselves many a time. Two college chums have each been trying to write a love letter to a sweetheart. One of them Jack, is shown in the agonizing throes of composing a heart-touching epistle to his darling. He begins with "Dear Amy" and tears it up; then he writes "Dearest Amy" and tears that up; and so he goes on "dearing" and "dearesting", but getting no further until he is fairly wild with distraction. At a critical moment his chum comes in with a brain rasped and racked by attempts to write to his darling. They discuss the appalling situation and wind up by agreeing to collaborate and write each other letters. Everybody knows that it is terribly difficult to write a satisfactory love letter; these young gentlemen illustrate the difficulties, and if every young man who sees it does n't slap his thigh and say "That's just like me"—and if every young woman is not tickled to death over the trouble she has given to her own Jack and Charley in that same way then somebody who writes this is greatly mistaken.

At the Empire Theatre a comedy directly the opposite of "The Other Man" and "Charley's Aunt" is enjoying a long and prosperous run. It is "Liberty Hall" and it is now in its third month and will soon have its 100th performance at this house. "Liberty Hall" is a delicate, quiet comedy with more of love interest in it than usually obtains with this class of plays, and its humor is of the refined quality that is appreciated by the better class of theatre-goers. New Yorkers returning to the city from the summer resorts have found the piece to their fancy and the result is that the Empire Theatre is crowded at every performance with the most fashionable people of the metropolis. The great success of this quaint comedy makes it necessary that Charles Frohman's Stock Company shall remain away from the Empire Theatre longer than was at first expected.

Mr. Frohman is now arranging for the winter engagement of John Drew in this city. Mr. Drew is at present playing "The Masked Ball" in the principal cities. This comedy is so great a success that it is thought it will be done again in New York, instead of having Mr. Drew try a new comedy as was the manager's intention.

Using Its Influence for the Right.

[From The Elizabeth Journal.]

Men of honor, don't miss your primaries. Vote for no candidate who is not pledged against legislation in favor of licensing race-track gambling.—Plainfield Press.

If there is a Democratic paper in Union county which has more influence than the Plainfield Press we do not know of it. To find it, therefore, among the most aggressive of the anti-race-track gambling papers is not only highly satisfactory in itself, but is an evidence of the depth and breadth of that moral sentiment which must ultimately sweep the gambling disgrace from the State. Standing as it does with such other strong Democratic papers as the Trenton True American, the Monmouth Democrat, the Freehold Transcript, the Summit Record, the Somerset Democrat, and many other papers that could easily be named, the Plainfield Press is in the best of Democratic company, and indeed it takes no second place with any of the papers named in its aggressive attacks on race-tracks and race-track gambling. This is not a campaign of politics, though politics may unavoidably enter into it. It is a campaign for morality. There has never been such a unity of opinion among Democratic and Republican papers upon any one issue, as there now is upon the race-track gambling issue. And the Journal is glad to have the Plainfield Press stand with it against this monstrous evil, no matter how much we may differ upon matters of politics. This is a fight in which no paper of moral character can stand aloof. It is a fight of the people against the gamblers.

OLDEST INHABITANT.

HAIL TO UNCLE PETER, ENDEARED TO EVERY HEART.

He Began Life with the Century, Not Half a Mile from Where He Has Lived Ever Since—A Shining Example of Modest Citizenship and Sterling Worth—Always Satisfied to Stay at Home and Be Happy with His Household—An Hour's Railroad Trip a Novelty.

The little white cottage on Somerset street has been home to Uncle Peter Wooden as far back as any other "oldest inhabitant" can remember, and Uncle Peter himself has been a local landmark the best part of a century.

The story of Uncle Peter's life is one of quiet prosperity. He was born May 24, 1800, within half a mile of his present residence. His father was Ezra Wooden, who took wife from the Martin family of New Durham, Middlesex county, and settled on a farm at Somerset street and Greenbrook road, during the latter part of the eighteenth century.

Peter Wooden learned the blacksmith trade, and for 30 years had his shop at Chatham and Somerset streets, opposite his residence, where the Crescent Hotel now stands. He also ran a farm. The land he acquired was more than 100 acres, and the site of his farm is now a most important portion of North Plainfield.

David J. Carney, who is one of Uncle Peter's most intimate friends, relates that during school vacations in the summers of 1865 and '66, as a small boy he used to drive Uncle Peter's cows to and from pasture. The cattle grazed in those days in a meadow alongside the stretch of woodland up Somerset street, owned by Uncle Peter. Later in the season, David used to pick stone on the farm, and help gather apples from the orchard, and accompany Uncle Peter to Spencer's cider mill in the Valley.

The farm at that time extended from Green brook to present Park place, and comprised most of the area between those limits and Somerset and Grove streets. The Grove street boundary was along the north side of Grove street all the way from the bridge to Park place. Thence the line ran to Somerset street where the new school-house now stands, and down Somerset street to Uncle Peter's present residence. From there down to the brook the boundary line was irregular, but the farm included the greater part of the land in the rear of Thorn's flats (the site of which is on the old Dr. John Craig farm); the residence of David French, father of P. M. French, now occupied by the Rev. W. E. Honeyman; the Johnson house, now occupied by Jacob Voehl; and the property where C. Frank French today has his granary.

It was to this farm that Uncle Peter brought his bride of 1825, Rachel Randolph of South Plainfield. They had four children, but all died young, except George, who reached manhood and went to Illinois. He died there aged 33, without issue.

Uncle Peter lost his wife in 1837, and in 1840 took a new helpmeet in Miss Margaret Cory of Stony Hill. She was known to Uncle Peter from her visits to the Somerset street farm adjoining the Wooden place, that being owned by Daniel Coon, whose wife was Margaret Cory's sister Harriet. Another sister of the bride was Hannah, wife of 'Squire Allen, whose brother David Allen was an old-time resident of Washington Valley. These Allen boys had a famous brother in Col. John Allen, in his day owner of the Martine farm in this city, and Colonel in the New Jersey State Militia. Uncle Peter's wife Aunt Margaret was a beloved citizen of North Plainfield. She was a devoted member of the Plainfield First Baptist church, and a woman of sunny nature and big-hearted charity. She was but two years younger than Uncle Peter, when she died in 1890, ripe in years of kindly deeds.

Uncle Peter's memory is bright, and he enjoys telling of the distant past. He is indeed a relic of old times, and is full of reminiscences of events of those early days which were alive with men now dead and forgotten. He himself clearly recounts the chronicles of the Wooden family. His father Ezra, he says, had eight children, six boys and two girls, whose names were Gideon, Peter, Ziba, Nathan, Richard, Jeptha, Sarah and Elizabeth. Ezra Wooden was in the Revolutionary War. Just before the Battle of Monmouth he gave his horse to a man named Moore, who came from over the mountain near Basking Ridge, asking him to take it to the rear. Moore threw himself astride the animal, and rode all the way from the Monmouth battlefield to his home. The neighbors, however, would not let him enter his house, but compelled him to return to the front. Four of Ezra's sons married and went to Illinois, Gideon and Uncle Peter remaining at home. Gideon, who was known as "Priest" Wooden, was a Seventh-Day preacher, and was pastor of the old historical Piscataway church. He afterwards owned the large farm below Cedar brook, on Park avenue, which he cultivated. "Priest" Wooden's son Ezra is the father of William, Ludlow and Martin Wooden; William and Ludlow are hotel-keepers in Hunterdon and Morris counties, respectively, and Martin is connected with the Royal Baking Powder Co. Ziba was married, and had two children. Nathan also married. Nathan's son George Wooden frequently spent the summer with Uncle Peter. He died a year or two ago, leaving a sister in Newark, where he formerly resided. Elizabeth Wooden married Aaron Freeman, and was the mother of two children, Sarah marrying Aaron Allen, who used to reside on Race street, where the electric-light station now is, and Mary E. marrying a former store-keeper here named John Boice. Richard was married and has a daughter named Hannah living in Illinois. Jeptha's son and daughter also reside in that State. Sarah Wooden married a man named Fields, and after his death she married Robert Morris, an Englishman, by whom she had two children one dying in childhood. They lived at the corner of Amity street and Sixth avenue, New York. The remaining child at the age of sixteen came to Plainfield and lived with the family of the late Zachariah Webster and married Peter Dickinson, a physician of Brooklyn, who was the father of Caleb Dickinson, the Park avenue jeweler, whose mother Ann Dickinson is a well-known member of the M. E. church in this city.

So much for the Wooden chronology. There have been generations continually springing up, and good old Uncle Peter has outlived many of the younger blood. He has lived a peaceful, modest, domestic life, of restful tranquility and simplicity. Always a busy worker, he still does all the odd chores about his home, and as a living relic of the old farm life up to a few months ago kept a horse. Little by little he has parted with his land, thereby adding to the snug fortune which his industry and frugality have accumulated. He has never deviated from his rule of quiet living, and a recent railroad trip to White House, with Sister Ann Dickinson, was a novel and quite exciting experience. Spectators were intensely interested in the picture of the two quaint characters going off on the holiday jaunt.

Uncle Peter has always been a faithful attendant at church, and is now a regular and devoted member of Dr. Lewis's Seventh-Day Baptist church on Central avenue. Years ago he used to listen to his brother "Priest" Wooden preach in the Piscataway church near the Half-Moon Hotel below Quibbletown, now New Market. A Mr. Laverty was a preacher there afterwards. A remarkable coincidence is that Uncle Peter's birthday anniversary and that of Timothy Morse occurred together, Mr. Morse being one year younger.

Uncle Peter's good health is undoubtedly due in part to his abstinence from liquor and tobacco. His picture, excellently given herewith, and his biography, now first published, will be treasured by his loving friends.

Senatorial Prediction.

—North Plainfield Democrats will hold their primary to-night in the school-house, at 8. Let every Democrat be present.

JUNIORS JUBILANT.

THEY CELEBRATE THEIR SIXTH ANNIVERSARY APPROPRIATELY.

Franklin Council Commemorate the Date of Their Organization by Singing, Speechmaking, Feasting and a General Big Time.

A large number of members and friends, including wives and sweethearts, of Franklin Council, No. 41, Junior Order of United American Mechanics, gathered in their rooms on West Second street, last evening, to enjoy the festivities that had been prepared by the Good and Welfare Committee in celebration of their sixth anniversary. The committee, J. V. Beekman, Chairman, S. C. Terry, Jr., G. W. Saums, H. Lance and J. Snyder, had spared no effort to make the event a pleasant one, and those present will long remember the happy evening that was passed in listening to singing and speeches, and partaking of the grand collation that had been prepared in the banquet room. The following was the programme:

Singing—"America".....Council
Banjo Solo.....W. C. Force
Recitation—"All is Quiet Along the Potomac".....H. R. Thorn
Cornet Solo.....D. Frasee
Banjo Duet.....W. C. Force and J. Newman
Cornet Solo.....D. Frasee
Address...State Council Warden David Bodine
Banjo Solo.....W. C. Force
Recitation—"Keep the Flag Over the School".....H. R. Thorn

The different numbers were all well rendered and hearty applause was accorded each and every one. The talent consisted of members of the order.

George E. Rogers was the accomplished organist who accompanied the different selections in amost competent manner.

Brothers were present from Friendship, No. 81, of New Market; Somerset, No. 104, of North Plainfield; William G. Holton, No. 55, Dunellen; and others.

Among the guests present was the little seven-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Long, of Summit avenue, North Plainfield.

The festivities were not concluded until nearly midnight, and then all departed for their homes vowing that as entertainers the members of Franklin Council could not be beaten.

HOW TO GET THERE.

The World's Fair a Success, But It Will Soon Close Its Gates Forever.

The grandest exhibition of our time and possibly for many generations to come will soon be brought to an end. There remains but one month in which to visit this marvelous gathering of the world's productions, and everybody should strain a point to go to Chicago.

The railroad fare heretofore has been considered a hindrance to all classes, but this has all been changed, and on the following days in October the West Shore railroad will run high-class excursions on its fast express trains in through cars at one-half its lowest fare, i. e., $17, from New York to Chicago and return, and proportionately lower rates from points along its lines. These magnificent excursion trains will be in charge of an agent whose duty it is to care for the interests of the company's patrons en route, to furnish detailed information as to accommodations obtainable in Chicago and to point out the historic points along the grand old Hudson and through the picturesque Mohawk Valley.

These trains will leave Franklin street, New York, at 10 a. m., and West 42d st., at 10:10 as follows: Saturday, October 14; Thursday, October 19, and the last, Monday, October 23.

If readers will just take trouble to call at any West Shore office they will be received with the usual courtesy that characterizes the employes of this superb route, (over which a journey of the kind referred to can be made with considerable ease, owing to the fact that the management of the West Shore railroad has spared no expense to make it the easiest running and safest road in the world), and furnish any information desired appertaining to this trip.

George Dixon and Company.

The celebrated George Dixon's Vaudeville and Specialty Company will appear in Music Hall next week Wednesday. A long list of artists will appear, but the chief attraction will be at the wind-up, when George Dixon spars four rounds with Jack Lynch, and those who like to see a good stiff bout, in which the highest order of science is exhibited, should see this one. These two clever featherweights reveal many tricks of the trade with lightning-like rapidity, and those who see Dixon spar never wonder that he has upon his record of victories such redoubtable knights of the gloves as Willis, Johnson, McCarthy, Smith, Pierce and Skelly.

Identified Under a Street Lamp.

About 11:30 last night a party of men going home from the White Squadron at Music Hall discovered an individual stealing corn in a field by the roadside near Evona. Jacob Kriney, who was of the party, caught the thief and brought him under the electric light. The party recognized the man, and let him go. It is thought that he is the same thief that has been digging potatoes and picking grapes in large quantities around Evona and carrying them off at night. The man will probably be arrested.

Jersey Race-Tracks and India Creeds.

After a "prelude" on the race-track issue, Dr. Lewis, in the Seventh-Day Baptist church to-morrow morning, will speak of the Parliament of Religions, and the religions of India represented there—Brahmanism, Buddhism and the Brahmo Somaj. Strangers will be welcome.

CLEAR FIELD FOR MARTINE.

Union County Politics, as Viewed from the County Seat.

(From The Newark Evening News.)

ELIZABETH, Oct. 12—The Ninth Ward Democratic Club appointed a committee at its last meeting to wait on Senator Marsh and ascertain from him if he intended to be a candidate for re-election next month. The Senator has written a reply in which he states that, holding as he does, the office of Public Prosecutor, it would be presumptuous for him to seek the Senatorship, and he desires to have it understood that he is no candidate just now for any political office. He concludes by thanking the club, which is in his own ward, for the kindly feeling which they have always manifested toward him.

This communication, which will be read at the club's next meeting, effectually disposes of the rumor that the Senator was going to enter the field at the eleventh hour, and leaves clear sailing for the unanimous nomination of James E. Martine, of Plainfield.

The contest for Sheriff on the Democratic side seems to be narrowing down to Freeholders Moore, of Elizabethport and Sauer, of Elizabeth, with the odds slightly in favor of the latter, who has a strong German following. Knowing politicians think the Union county Democratic ticket will read thus: Senator, James E. Martine; Sheriff, John S. Sauer; Assembly, First District, Timothy M. Kelley; Second District, James Brennan.

The Republican ticket is still a mystery, so far as the senatorial candidate is concerned, but strong efforts are being made to get ex-Freeholder T. West, of Roselle, to take the nomination. Three men, ex-Sheriff Frederick Glasby, ex-County Collector E. M. Wood and Alderman Robert Houston, all of Elizabeth, are candidates, with the chances favoring either Glasby or Houston.

Canvassers say a large number of unemployed men in Elizabethport refuse to register this fall and say they are tired of voting and want work first.

APPRENTICES APPRECIATE.

Royal Good Fellowship Extended by the Y. M. C. A.

The reception to apprentices last evening was one of the best appreciated of all that have been given under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A.

D. E. Titsworth, Vice-President of the Association, extended to those in attendance a most cordial welcome to the reception, and to the rooms at all times. His remarks were full of good advice and encouragement to the young men in their efforts to learn a trade. The following programme was rendered:

Piano Solo.....Harry Jessop
Vocal Solo.....Augusta Holmes
Solo on German Zither.....J. Van Eps
Zither and Banjo Duets....Mr. VanEps and son

One of the most pleasing features of the programme was the admirable exhibition on the horizontal bar by the following members of the Young Men's Institute Branch of the Y. M. C. A. of New York city: K. H. Gillespie, H. T. LaMont, Fred Flores, A. G. Harvey and Samuel Ludwig. The programme was greatly enjoyed and very heartily applauded. Refreshments were served by members of the Ladies Nine, assisted by the Reception Committee.

Doing a Great Business.

The International Fur Store at 114 Park avenue has a select stock of furs, garments, capes, muffs and robes. The store has been entirely repainted and decorated, and the windows contain excellent specimens of the taxidermist's art. One excellent specimen is the head of an Arabian leopard mounted for a rug. A splendid assortment of fur dress trimmings is also shown, and samples of each are mounted on pasteboard so that a selection can easily be made. There are are also some splendid novelties in children's furs. The business is in charge of J. A. Karet, who personally superintends all repairs and alterations. He has been engaged in the business all his lifetime, and is known throughout the trade as an expert in his line. There is no question that Plainfield women will appreciate the opportunity which the store affords them, and many fashionable and fastidious people have already given it their custom.

FATALITY AT FANWOOD.

John Burley, Negro, Found Dead on the Central Tracks.

This morning as Joseph Schwalback was proceeding to his work he discovered the body of a colored man about 20 years of age lying on the westbound track about 500 feet east of the Fanwood station. He summoned assistance and Dr. F. W. Westcott being sent for the remains were taken to the freight-house to await the action of County Physician Reilly.

Charles Bailey identified the body as that of John Burley who had been in the employ of Miss Boucher at the Homestead.

One leg was entirely severed and the body shockingly mutilated and death must have been instantaneous.

How the accident occurred is simply a surmise and will probably always remain a mystery.

The semi-annual statement shows present investments about $100,000; income from interest and premiums $650 per month, which is constantly increasing; expenses average about 2 cents a share per month.

Our plan makes it possible for members buying homes to own them in about 11 years by a payment but little more than they would ordinarily pay for rent. It accumulates a fund to meet the principal of the mortgage while other lenders are anxious only to perpetuate the payment of interest. Members who join for investment only may rely upon a security which is constantly increasing and a rate of profit greater than for any other safe investment.

OFTEN THAT WAY.

A lady took time to travel down our way to see if what she had heard about our store was true. What's the price of that jacket? $4.50. And that dress pattern? 32c a yard. I'll take both she told her friends afterwards and they told us that it was the biggest days saving she had ever made.

YOUR TURN NOW

WINTER UNDERWEAR. Sold more Underwear the last ten days than all last month, and why not? Prices cut in half; our show window tells the story. All kinds for ladies, gentlemen and children.

LADIES' JACKETS. Manufacturer was heart broken last week when he saw his jackets that cost him $10 to make sold for $5. We bought them and they are yours at half what they are worth.

DRESS GOODS. Greater values never offered in Dress Goods than at the present time. See that 40-in. all wool suiting that we only ask 32c. for. Just the thing for street wear.

MILLINERY. Have you seen the latest? 'Tis an ecru felt, green velvet suit hat with muff to match. You want the best that money will buy in trimmings, work and style and we know that no one can or will give as satisfactory work as we are giving this season. Comparison proves it.

HOUSE-FURNISHINGS. This department is improving all the time. Larger assortments and lower prices than ever. Three large rooms devoted to useful articles that you need every day in the year.

SHOES.

In Ladies', our straight Goats and Walking Fast Styles at $2.50 and $3 are the proper weights for the season.

The Fargo Tip for Children

Is the best looking, best wearing Shoe for school wear. Sizes 8½ to 10½, $1.25; sizes 11 to 2, $1.50. A few of those $1.50 Oxfords at 85c. still remain.

UP TO DATE.

Good violins improve with use and age. If Stradivarius had made Pianos as well as violins, no one would care to own one of the former unless as a curiosity. There is little new in violin making, but there is something new every year in Piano making. Take care you do not buy a Piano simply because it was famous. With any Piano of ancient name and fame we invite you to compare the Steinway, Gabler, Vose, Sterling and Braumuller Pianos. They contain all new improvements that are desirable

They are up to date.

UNIVERSAL PEACE.

Efforts to Secure the Substitution of Arbitration for War.

BRUSSELS, Oct. 13.—The central committee of the international parliamentary peace league met here yesterday. They decided to request Mr. Gladstone to introduce and bring under discussion in the British parliament a bill pledging the British government to favor the establishment of a permanent court for the arbitration of international disputes. A skeleton programme for the international conference of the league in the Hague next year was prepared. The most important discussion will concern the formation of a permanent diplomatic bureau, charged with the duties of obviating friction between the nations and of inducing governments to resort to arbitration instead of war. The establishment of an international court of arbitration will be considered and an appeal will be issued to the world's press, begging it to abstain from all polemics calculated to excite international animosity. The committee will request at once by letter that league members in Italy and France use their influences to better the relations between these countries.

INDIAN OUTBREAK.

Trouble Feared in the Pine Ridge Section.

CHICAGO, Oct. 13.—There is said to be a strong possibility of another Indian outbreak in the Pine Ridge section. The Big Foot band, which Col. Forsythe seriously crippled some time ago, recently marched, 400 strong, including 150 fighting bucks, from the Standing Rock agency to Pine Ridge, where they declared they would remain if they had to fight. They said their people were buried there and they wanted to make it their home. Capt. Penny immediately called out his 60 Indian police, arming each with 40 rounds of cartridges, to preserve order, and two troops of the famous Ninth cavalry were dispatched to escort the Big Foot indians back to Standing Rock. This may precipitate trouble. As Pine Ridge is not in this military division nothing is known of any Indian trouble at headquarters here. James F. Assay, Indian trader at Pine Ridge, who is now in Chicago, says that he left there a few days ago and that there is trouble in the air.

WAR IN MOROCCO.

Spain's Queen Regent Wants Speedy Revenge.

MADRID, Oct. 13.—Although the queen regent has been deprived of Premier Sagasta's active assistance since he broke his ankle, she has displayed great energy in dealing with the Melilla affair. She is eager to have the defeat of the Spanish garrison avenged speedily. She presided at the cabinet council and urged the decision, eventually made, that the war minister be authorized to take all steps necessary to punish the tribesmen who attacked Melilla. Among these steps will be the purchase of Mauser rifles to arm the marines.

Sensational Elopement.

BUFFALO, Oct. 13.—A special from Medina, N. Y., says: William Shanley, a well-known young man of this place, has eloped with Mrs. Edward Chase. Mrs. Chase took $100 which her husband had borrowed to pay some debts. Shanley left a wife and four children and Mrs. Chase left a husband and two children. Officers traced their baggage to Detroit and the police there have been asked to arrest them.

Satolli Not Over Canada.

MONTREAL, Oct. 13.—Mgr. Satolli, apostolic delegate to the United States, in answer to the query whether his jurisdiction extended over Canada, has instructed the Rev. Dr. O'Gorman of the Catholic university at Washington to say that he (Satolli) has no jurisdiction whatever in Canada. An effort is being made to have a delegate appointed for Canada.

Rates to the Fair.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—When the railroads made special rates for the world's fair a reduction of 20 per cent. was granted on trains making the trip between New York and Chicago in 35 hours. It has now been determined to make tickets sold at the reduced price good on all trains except the limited and other excess fare trains.

Extending Prussian Suffrage.

BRUSSELS, Oct. 13.—The Independance Belge publishes a dispatch from its correspondent in Berlin, stating that the Prussian government, following the example set by the Austrian government Tuesday, will introduce in the Landtag a bill providing for a large extension of the suffrage.

Pensions for Peasants.

LONDON, Oct. 13.—The Paris correspondent of the Times says that Premier Dupuy, speaking at a banquet at Ille-sur-Tet, advocated a state pension fund for peasants as well as artisans, and other reforms to better the lot of the peasantry.

Firing at Rio.

LONDON, Oct. 13.—Dispatches from Rio de Janeiro say that the situation there remains unchanged. Desultory firing was kept up by the insurgent squadron throughout the day.

End of the Cholera Scare.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—Last evening Dr. Jenkins issued the following bulletin? "All of the passengers and crew of the steamer Russia were inspected twice to-day and all were found well. The cabin passengers, 12 saloon and 29 second cabin, were transferred this evening on the steamboat Rosa to the company's wharf at Hoboken. The steamer will be permitted to go to her dock to-morrow."

Fight With Outlaws.

MCALESTER, I. T., Oct. 13.—United States Marshals Cannon and Stanfield report a lively fight with the Woodard gang of outlaws near Fifty Two Springs. There were four desperadoes, Joe Pierce, Sam Woodard, Lou. Thompson and G. Sofkin. A hot fight was waged for more than an hour during which time over 200 shots were fired. Joe Pierce was killed.

"I suffered 8 years

"From woman's early troubles.

"I could find no permanent relief until, one year ago, I tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Relief then came with it almost immediately, and at this time I am a well woman.

"I absolutely know, not only by my own experience, but by others also, that this is a harmless and sure remedy for:—

"Irregularity, suppressed or painful menstruations, weakness of the stomach, sick headache, and female complaints generally. There is no need of so much female suffering. Here is the remedy. It is wicked not to accept the relief it will bring."—Mrs. J. A. Rice, Florence, Ky.

VIGILANT CROWNED QUEEN OF YACHTS

She Wins Third Race With Valkyrie by Forty Seconds.

UNDER FULL CANVASS IN A YOUNG CYCLONE

Sharpest Contest of the Series—Only an Accident Keeps the Englishman From Beating—Weather to Suit the Bravest Tars—Most Extraordinary Yachtsmanship on Both Boats. America's Cup Remains in America.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—America wins. In a gale that split the spinnakers of Lord Dunraven's Valkyrie, the Vigilant won the third of the international yacht races and the cup is ours. For another year the trophy remains in this country, and Lord Dunraven goes home without a race to his credit. He goes with the satisfaction, however, of knowing that he led the Vigilant by almost two minutes in beating to windward 15 miles, and would, in all probability, have won yesterday's race but for the accident to his canvas. As it was the Vigilant won by 40 seconds.

It was a day of reefed mainsails, a day when life lines were out, a day when the strength of spars and toughness of canvas counted fully as much as lines below water. It was a day to test seamanship, as well as yacht architecture. It was just the day that Lord Dunraven and all the crew prayed for, and the only kind of a day which, he still claimed, that his yacht could sail with the Vigilant. He had been beaten in two races easily in a light wind, and still more easily in what Americans call a stiff breeze. His only hope was in a gale, and the gale split his sails, while the staunch Vigilant came home under a big cloud of canvas with the wind piping through her shrouds and without a mishap of any kind.

The Valkyrie had an additional 2,240 pounds of ballast in her hold. They knew that she would make a better showing in a heavy wind and sea than she had yet done, and they were even hopeful that with a wind she might head off the Vigilant in her run of victories. The additional ballast had increased her load waterline so that she had a time allowance of 1 minute and 30 seconds instead of 1 minute and 48 seconds. Increased steadiness was expected to more than make up the difference in time allowance.

Start in a Gale.

At 12:07 the May ran up the preliminary signal and fired a gun to attract attention to it. Ten minutes later the preparatory gun was fired and the red ball went up on the stay between masts. The wind was right from the east and blowing harder every minute. The spectators on the steamers watched the two yachts careening well over as they rushed through the water parting the foam at their bows and leaving a trail of foam behind. At times one or the other of the racers would bend before a particularly strong blast until she seemed to be on her beams ends. There were plucky sailor men on both boats. Neither skipper would house his topmast or lower a topsail. It was to be a final decisive test, a battle to the death, and the spectators applauded as the daring yachtsmen sped past them.

The start took place at 12:27. Like that of last Saturday, the boats went over almost together, and made a pretty sight as they laid over towards Rockaway beach on their first tack to windward.

After crossing the line both yachts were heeled well to leeward. The Valkyrie was a trifle stiffer and seemed to carry her canvas with more ease. It was a wise move to have reefed mainsails for the sea was increasing at every moment and the barometer falling rapidly gave every indication of an approaching storm. Both yachts were prepared for bad weather, however, and even a first-class cyclone could not have taken them unawares. Once over the line the racers settled down to work.

Crowding on Canvas.

It took the Valkyrie 2 hours, 6 minutes, 45 seconds, and the Vigilant 2 hours, 8 minutes, 35 seconds, to make the 15 mile beat to windward, a gain of 1 minute and 55 seconds in favor of the English boat. This defeat of the Vigilant was due more to the sea than the wind, for the cup defender was thumping hard into each wave, and seemed to make very heavy weather of it. Though the beat to windward was exciting in the extreme, it was nothing compared to the run home. The wind seemed to freshen and the sea become more angry and turbulent, still both boats carried their flying kites. Scarcely had the Valkyrie cleared her skirts of the outer turn, before she set her heavier spinnaker, big jibtopsail and balloon staysail. The Vigilant, though a trifle slower than the Valkyrie in setting her kites, carried many more yards of canvass, and to the surprise of the Englishmen, shook out the reef in her mainsail and set her large club topsail over the working one, that she had carried all day. This great area of sail seemed to completely eushroud the peerless cup defender, and seemed of itself more than enough to blow her to victory.

The Vigilant, though almost a half mile behind at the turn managed to pick up handily her English rival, closing up on the weather quarter of the Englishman. As soon as she did this she, of course, blanketed the leader, took away all of his wind, and then managed to crawl up and gradually pass him. The Englishman showed that two could play at this game, and gave the Vigilant a dose of her own medicine. She also took away the wind from the American, and then in turn shot ahead.

Split Sails Boat Valkyrie.

It was just in the midst of one of these battles that an unfortunate mishap, or rather a series of mishaps, lost the race for the Valkyrie. The Englishman was leading the Vigilant by several lengths, with still 1 minute and 30 seconds of time allowance to spare, when a little split appeared on the inner leach of the cutter's spinnaker. A little scream of anxiety went up from all the Anglomaniacs, for in such a breeze it meant that this great sail, then pulling like a race horse, would soon be split in two. Longer and longer the rent seemed to grow, and when it had extended 10 feet outboard Captain Cranfield was forced to take it in. Everything on the Vigilant was drawing well, even her great balloon jibtopsail was full of wind, and with this great excess of canvas she suddenly shot ahead and rapidly opened the gap between herself and her crippled adversary. The way the sailors worked on board the Valkyrie was simply marvellous, for in less than two minutes the spinnaker of light Irish linen was taken out of the hold and quickly run up to the masthead. It was all in vain, however, for the wind was then blowing nearly half a gale, and this light piece of canvas was soon torn into shreds, the pieces flying all over the challenger like snowbakers. This crushed forever the hopes of an English victory even for one brief day, for although a balloon jibtopsail was hoisted in lieu of the spinnaker the English cutter fell rapidly astern, and crossed the line about 500 yards behind the Vigilant.

Summary of the Race.

Course, 15 miles to windward and return. Wind east.

	Time Start	Time Finish	Time Elapsed	Co'ct'd
Valkyrie	12:27:00	3:53:53	3:26:52	3:25:19
Vigilant	12:27:00	2:51:89	3:24:39	3:24:39

Vigilant wins by 40 seconds.

FORGED AN INJUNCTION.

An Unscrupulous Attorney's Scheme to Help Out Strikers.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 14.—Judge M. E. Mathers, a practicing attorney of Decatur, Ala., has been arrested on a charge of forging an injunction alleged by him to have been issued by United States Circuit Judge Bruce during the recent strike in the Louisville and Nashville shops at Decatur. He interested himself in behalf of the strikers and claimed to have obtained the following order from Judge Bruce at Birmingham:

"The United States district court now in session at Birmingham orders that the shops of the Louisville & Nashville railroad at Decatur, Ala., resume work and allow all former employes to resume their original positions."

It is now stated that Mathers went down to Hartzelle, a town between Decatur and Birmingham, and there wrote out the order himself, never having seen Judge Bruce or any court official. He was arrested at Decatur and carried to Huntsville where he was examined before a United States commissioner. He is now in jail at Huntsville in default of $25,000 bond to appear at the United States district court in Huntsville. Mathers came to Decatur from Kansas several years ago and has been quite successful as a practicing attorney.

Bad Fate of a Bad Man.

LONDON, Oct. 14.—The inquest in the case of Lieutenant-General Farrer, who died yesterday from injuries received while trying to escape from a fire in the house in which he lodged, resulted in a verdict to the effect that he died of burns received from overturning a lamp while intoxicated. The evidence showed that he was married in England last August while a former wife and family were still living in Madras. The second wife testified that General Farrer had represented to her that his first wife had died in India.

Parade of Workingmen Stopped.

LONDON, Oct. 14.—A crowd of unemployed workingmen numbering about 250, led by the socialist Williams, started to march through some of the principal streets of the city yesterday in spite of the warnings from the police. As they approached the mansion house chanting the Marseilles they were charged by the police and were quickly dispersed. Williams and other leaders were arrested.

As Bad as Our Senate.

BUDAPEST, Oct. 15.—Yesterday's sitting of the lower house of the Hungarian diet was very stormy. During Premier Wekerle's speech against motions censuring the government the members of the opposition left the house in a body, while the members of the government party applauded the premier enthusiastically. It was finally decided to shelve the motions.

Satolli Sees Dr. Burtsell.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—Mgr. Satolli, apostolic delegate, who is the guest of the Jesuit fathers at St. Francis Xavier's rectory here, remained indoors yesterday and denied himself to all callers, excepting one or two clergymen with whom he had appointments. One of the clergymen was Rev. Dr. Burtsell, who sails for Genoa en route to Rome on the steamer Werra.

Wires Down and Communication Cut Off—Timely Warnings From the Weather Bureau Enable People to be Prepared.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—The city was visited early this morning by a severe rain and wind storm. It set in in earnest at about 10 o'clock last night and the velocity of the wind and the downpour of the rain were so great that but few people were to be seen in the streets. Umbrellas were practically useless. In the uptown districts, particularly in the vicinity of the parks or squares, the rain and wind drove everything before them. The streets were almost wholly deserted and theatre goers greatly inconvenienced. As the weather bureau it was stated the wind at 11:30 o'clock was blowing at the rate of 46 miles an hour. The storm will continue all day. Rain is falling all along the coast and in the lake region. Both telegraph and telephone wires were prostrated in all directions, and communication with many points was cut off for a time.

New Jersey.

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Oct. 14.—A frightful gale of wind and rain is howling through this portion of New Jersey and much damage is being done. Trees have been uprooted, fences and outbuildings blown down and larger buildings unroofed. All trains coming from the west are from two to four hours late. It is reported that a freight brakeman was blown from the top of a car on the Central railroad of New Jersey near Junction. A farmhouse back of North Branch was blown over. At Lamington the church steeple was blown down for the second time within a year.

Charleston Saved.

CHARLESTON, S. C., Oct. 14.—The prediction of the weather bureau officials that while the storm was apt to pass close to Charleston it would do no material damage has come true for there are no casualties to report. The East Shore terminal railroad remembering their losses by the August cyclone just before the storm set in anchored all their bridges and wharves with carloads of granite and consequently not a pier on the eastern water front is damaged.

Manhattan Day at the Fair.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—At a conference between Gen. Horace Porter and the mayor yesterday, it was decided that some one should accompany Mr. McDonough to Chicago to make arrangements for Manhattan day festivities, and O. S. Cockay was selected. These gentlemen left yesterday and will remain until after the close of Manhattan ceremonies. The various committees report that matters are progressing most favorably, and that Manhattan day, Oct. 21, is bound to be the grandest function that has been held at the Columbian exposition.

Reading's Troubles.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—The Reading general mortgage bondholders committee met yesterday at the Mercantile trust company's office to take some action to prevent the sale of the securities held by Speyer & Co. as collateral for their $3,500,000 loan to Reading. After the meeting it was stated that in all probability sufficient money would be raised between now and next Wednesday, the day advertised for the sale of the securities, to pay off the loan.

Jersey Trolley Franchise.

ELIZABETH, N. J., Oct. 14.—Union county has given a franchise to the Consolidated traction company to run trolley cars through Elizabeth on the condition that the cars be run between Newark and Elizabethport. Other concessions were also made by the company. This will give Elizabeth trolley connection with Jersey City and Orange. The franchise was only granted after a big fight.

SENATORS STILL TALK

Stewart Resumes His Long Speech on Silver.

No Immediate Prospect of Reaching a Vote—Sessions Drag Along the Same as Before the Introduction of the Test of Endurance.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—It might have been expected that after a continuous session of 39 hours, closing at 9 o'clock yesterday morning, and after the partial failure of the test of physical endurance on the silver purchase repeal bill, that measure would be allowed to go over until next Monday, and that the senate would have adjourned until then. Such was not the case, however. The senate met at the usual hour yesterday, took up the bill promptly and submitted, wearied, but patient, to the second installment of Mr. Stewart's speech. Not only did it do so, but it is a remarkable fact that there were several more senators present than there had been for some weeks past. The first roll call showed the presence of 54 senators, the second of 51 and the third of 52. The fifth call showed the presence of 57.

Mr. Stewart announced his purpose not to vote for any bill that would limit the life of silver; and he was still talking at 7 p. m., only interrupted by half hourly calls. There was, indeed, one longer break in his speech while Senators Teller and Hoar had an excited discussion over the rights of minorities.

London Press Comments.

LONDON, Oct. 14.—The Daily News, commenting on the continuous session of the United States senate on the silver repeal bill, says: "No such sitting ever occurred in the British parliament. Such attempts of a minority to deny the right of the majority to govern are doomed to failure."

The Standard says: "Remembering the all-night sittings forced on the house of commons by the Irish members it is in no spirit of insular pride that we congratulate ourselves upon our immunity from the extremity of feebleness which the momentary victory of the silverites has shown to exist in the regulations of the United States senate. There was no redeeming feature in this shameless appeal to physical endurance."

FRANCE AND RUSSIA.

Mutual Courtesies Cementing the Two Countries.

TOULON, Oct. 14.—After Admiral Avelan's visit to the town hall the mayor and other municipal officials paid a formal return visit to the Russian flagship. Admiral Rieunier's official banquet to the Russian officers was given in the grand saloon of the prefecture and was a brilliant affair. Fetes in honor of the Russian visit to Toulon were held in many towns in France. Decorations and illuminations were general. Hundreds of telegrams of welcome from municipal councillors and military and naval officers were sent to Admiral Avelan. All of the leading Russian and French newspapers contain articles dwelling upon the significance of the event—the cementing of the two countries.

The Russia Released.

QUARANTINE, S. I., Oct. 14.—The steamer Russia, which arrived on the 6th inst. from Hamburg, and which has since been detained at quarantine, in consequence of five deaths which occurred during her voyage, was released yesterday afternoon and proceeded to her dock, having been thoroughly disinfected. All her steerage passengers are reported well at Hoffman's island. Her cabin passengers were permitted to come to the city.

Bishop Wigger After Father Murphy.

PATERSON, N. J., Oct. 14.—Rev. Father Henry B. Murphy, the dismissed curate of St. Joseph's Catholic church, who refused to leave the house adjoining the church, has received a letter from Bishop Wigger commanding him in strong language to vacate the premises. The bishop further informed the removed priest that he would never give him facilities or permission to say mass again in the parish.

Sticks to Kegs.

LONDON, Oct. 14.—A Glasgow journal yesterday cabled to George L. Watson, designer of the Valkyrie, to ascertain whether dispatches from New York were correct in saying that he admitted the superiority of centreboard yachts. Mr. Watson made this reply: All that I admit is that the particular centreboard Vigilant has beaten the particular keel boat Valkyrie.

Old Lawsuit.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—The general term of the supreme court has reversed the judgement in favor of the defendants in the suit brought by James J. Belden against ex-Judge Stevenson Burke, Wallace C. Andrews and others in regard to the consolidated bonds of the Columbus, Hocking Valley & Toledo railway company.

Declared Himself Dictator.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—Secretary Gresham has received the following cable dispatch from Mr. Young, United States minister to Guatamala dated yesterday: "The president of Guatamala this day declared himself dictator; dissolved the extra session of congress; assumed control of government and ordered a new election."

Judge Macomber Dead.

BLESSED INVENTOR OF SLEEP.

The Human Machine Will Not Repair Itself Without Assistance.

"Now blessings light on him that first invented sleep."

"The habit of too late to bed and too early rising is one of the causes of nervous weakness," says Dr. Selden H. Talcott of the state hospital, New York.

Overwork and want of recreation is another.

Men and women who have been unable to rest completely during the summer now need more sleep than others; they often get less. And the result is seen in nervous exhaustion, kidney troubles and dyspepsia—for which Paine's celery compound is a never-failing cure. Says William Randall of Mansfield, Mass.

WILLIAM RANDALL.

"I have been subject to rheumatism in the feet for the last six or seven years and during that time I have tried scores of medicines, but could not get much relief. I at last gave Paine's celery compound a trial and after using two bottles I certainly felt better. Now that I have taken nine bottles of the compound in all, I must say that I feel quite well and free from the dreadful disease. To any of my friends who are suffering I take great pleasure in recommending Paine's celery compound, believing, as I do, that it is a great blood purifier."

BUSINESS IMPROVING.

What Bradstreet Says of the State of Trade.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—Bradstreet says: Continued cheerful advices from a number of leading southern trade centers, reports of a very large distribution at Chicago as the outcome of the immense world's fair attendance, and an improved demand at several points west of the Mississippi as a result of cooler weather, are among the most favorable features revealed by telegrams to Bradstreet's this week. Large sales and better prices for cotton have encouraged country buying at the south, and business at New Orleans, Dallas, Memphis, Atlanta, Richmond and Mobile has improved. The new Louisiana sugar crop will be large. Rice is active and higher. At most other southern centers where trade has not yet improved delayed collections and tight money are complained of. Railroads entering Chicago did the largest passenger business in their history this week. Freight traffic was neglected. The jobbing and retail trade has been the largest so far this season in all lines. In New England trade does not improve. A hand-to-mouth demand continues. The number of idle manufactories in Rhode Island has been augumented by a strike of 6,000 woolen mill operatives against a reduction. Trade at most of the large eastern cities is not above fair. Textile trades generally are quiet. Iron is weak and lower for structural sorts. At Pittsburg mills are running only on part time. The coal trade has improved at Baltimore and Philadelphia. Prices are irregular. Breadstuffs have tended downward, while provisions, cotton and raw sugar have advanced. There were 406 failures in the United States, against 365 last week, and 101 in this week last year, 193 in 1891, 177 in 1890 and 205 in 1889. The financial situation in New York has tended to improve on the increasing supply of funds, the inquiry for commercial paper (especially from outside institutions) being much better than heretofore, and with a corresponding influence on rates.

RECEIVERS FOR UNION PACIFIC.

Unable to Longer Stand the Financial Strain.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—In the United States circuit court of Brooklyn yesterday, Judge Benedict appointed President S. H. H. Clark of Omaha, Neb., Vice President Oliver W. Mink, of Massachusetts and E. Ellery Anderson of this city, receivers for the Union Pacific railway company. The papers were subsequently filed in the United States circuit court of this city. The application was made by Oliver Ames, Peter B. Wyckoff and Edwin F. Atkins, holders of bonds and mortgages, the interest on which has fallen due and has not been met. Each co-receiver for the southern district of New York must qualify in $10,000. The complaint and answer agree that the earnings of the company for the past year have largely fallen off on account of financial depression, decrease in immigration and general stagnation, until the fixed charges and operating expenses have exceeded gross earnings and receipts. There is no prospect, they affirm, of an increase in the near future to an amount sufficient to enable the company to meet its operating expenses. It is now insolvent and will not be able to pay rentals, interest, wages and sinking fund charges.

OFFICIAL CALL.

County Democratic Convention.

At a meeting of the Democratic Executive Committee of the County of Union, held Tuesday, September 26, 1893, it was resolved to hold the County Convention on Thursday, October 19, 1893, at 2 o'clock p. m., in Library Hall, in the city of Elizabeth, to nominate candidates for State Senator, Sheriff and one Coroner.

It was also resolved to recommend Tuesday evening, October 17, as the time for holding primary meetings.

In accordance with the above resolutions the Democratic voters of the County of Union are requested to meet in their respective wards and townships on the evening above designated to elect delegates to the said convention.

The ratio of representation will be one delegate for every fifty and one for every fraction over twenty-five Democratic votes cast at the last Gubernatorial election.

The number of delegates to which each ward and township is entitled is as follows:

None of the local clergyman has yet announced a sermon on the text:

So they cast him out of the vineyard.

With both James Martine and George Kyte running for the senatorship, it will be anti-race-track against anti-race-track.

The chances of C. N. Coding for the Republican Assembly nomination are reported as increasing. Mr. Coding is known to be thoroughly opposed to race-tracks, and has been an active member of the Citizens Anti-Race-track League of Westfield, ever since its organization.

It takes the Plainfield girls! They want to make big money for the Grace church rectory, and so agree on a novelty that is sure to bring a crowd. Ordinarily the idea of female minstrels is shocking to goody people, but the way Plainfield girls do it you may be sure is all right. The Press is eager to see how the dear jokers will look in their burnt-cork masquerade.

Westfield's anti-race-track agitators have the right idea. They work instead of talk. They are getting right down to business by appointing workers for the primaries, and by getting citizens to pledge themselves in writing. Already sixty voters have signed an agreement to bolt their party's nomination if the candidate proves to be a man who will not declare war on the race-tracks. Meanwhile, Plainfield's anti-race-track element is talking, not working.

MORE LIGHT IN FANWOOD.

Progress Also Made in the Lock-up Enterprise.

A meeting of the Fanwood Town Committee was held Thursday evening in Excelsior Hall. All the members were in attendance, Chairman Miller presiding. The session lasted from 8 to 11:30, and much business was transacted. It was decided to extend the electric-lighting system by the addition of six lamps, which will thoroughly light the most important points. Mr. Kyte reported that the company had removed the old poles on North avenue, as ordered, so it was not necessary for him to go before the Grand Jury.

A full discussion of the jail question was proceeded with, and resulted in the Committee resolving itself into a committee of the whole to determine on the best and most economical arrangement for a lock-up and report at the next meeting, as it was unanimously agreed that the township needed a jail as well as apartments for the temporary care of the poor.

Birthday Piano for Willie Pope.

A surprise party was given at the home of J. C. Pope, 115 West Fourth street, Tuesday evening, it being the eleventh birthday of his little son Willie. Mrs. Pope, who had charge of the party, was ably helped by her two sisters, Mrs. F. A. Clark and Mrs. Laura Pope, and also Mrs. D. C. Bird. Thirty children attended. Good music and singing helped pass the time pleasantly. Among the gifts Willie received was an upright piano, presented by his mother and father. Grandma and Grandpa King were notable guests.

Queen Vic's Dilemma.

If Queen Vic. was compelled to remain thirsty until she got that cup back she'd have an awful dry reign. She, or any one else, however, can obtain drinking cups at Collier's made to the Queen's taste: none better for the price can be found the world over.

I have been a sufferer from catarrh for years. Having tried a number of remedies advertised as "sure cures" without obtaining any relief, I had resolved never to take any other patent medicine, when a friend advised me to try Ely's Cream Balm. I did so with great reluctance, but can now testify that after using it for six weeks I believe myself cured. It is a most agreeable remedy—an invaluable Balm.—Joseph Stewart, 84 Grand avenue, Brooklyn.

GIRLS IN BURNT CORK.

HERE'S THE KIND OF SOCIETY SHOW THAT WILL TAKE.

Counselor Ely Will Play Punch and Judy, and the Dear Girls will Give a Genuine Minstrel Show, All for a New Rectory.

The Rectory Society of Grace P. E. church will give an entertainment next Wednesday and Thursday, for the benefit of the rectory fund. The event is sure to attract large numbers. It will take place in the old residence of F. O. Herring, Ninth street. Among the amusing features will be a minstrel performance by young women, who will wear burnt cork and crack local jokes just as their big brothers do. A Punch and Judy show will be given by Counselor Henry B. Ely, of Westervelt avenue, for the little people. That the supper to be served will be something delicious, the following bill of fare will show:

Chicken salad — Lobster salad
Cold tongue — Cold ham
Baked beans,
Olives — Pickles
Biscuit — Tea — Coffee
Waffles — Cake
Ice-cream.

GRAND ENTERTAINMENT.

The Attendance at the Fair Last Evening Was Small, but Those Present Were Delighted With the Programme.

The threatening weather last evening had the effect of keeping a large number of people indoors, and this was especially noticeable at the fair of St. Mary's church, now drawing to a close in the C. Y. M. L. hall, corner of Sixth and Liberty streets.

The committee in charge had made great preparations for the entertainment of their many friends and patrons, and would no doubt have been greeted by a full house but for the disagreeable storm that had set in early in the evening.

The entertainment opened with a selection by the Martin Brothers Quartette, entitled "We're Marching", which was well rendered and so enthusiastically encored that they were obliged to respond by singing "Come Where the Lilies".

The next number on the programme was by the inimitable John Carney, the German comedian, which was a recitation about the Front street merchants in which he spoke well of the different business men on that thoroughfare and wound up by giving a good send-off to John J. Kenney, whom he alluded to as Plainfield's coming Postmaster. Mr. Carney was well received and given hearty applause, and for an encore gave a very difficult imitation of an Italian, in a piece entitled "Sella de Banan".

Then came a vocal selection by Karl Rudolph, the famous Philadelphia tenor, entitled "Mollie O", which was rendered in a very pleasing manner. Mr. Rudolph was greeted with such an ovation that he was obliged to favor with a song entitled "Afterwards". Miss St. Ledger, the accomplished organist of St. Mary's church, accompanied Mr. Rudolph on the piano.

Mr. Ward, of Evona, then gave several recitations in a manner which proved that he is no mean artist at the business.

The evening's entertainment concluded with the singing by the quartette of the song entitled "The Lost Chord". In response to encores they rendered "Husko, Lady, Husko", and a medley.

Tonight an auction sale will be held to dispose of the articles on hand, and the different voting contests will also be decided.

Great credit is due the young women who compose the committee for their successful efforts in making the fair one of the most enjoyable and profitable ever held under the auspices of the church.

THE SCHEDULE COMPLETE.

It will Be Adopted at the Meeting Next Week, with Possibly a Few Changes.

The following schedule has been prepared by the committee having the matter in charge, of the games to be bowled in the Elizabeth Journal Bowling League contest, subject to such alterations as may be deemed advisable by the League managers at their meeting next week:

Runaway.

About 7 this morning Decorator J. Henesey, of East Second street, left his black pony standing on Park avenue near Second street, while he was unloading his goods. The pony took fright and ran up Park avenue to Front street and fell on the walk. By the assistance of a few men he was raised and hooked to the wagon.

When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

TO FINISH THE SEASON.

Dunellen Players to Go to Boston to Play Return Games.

It is probable that the bowlers of the Middlesex and Dunellen Bowling Green Clubs will have a chance to show their skill in a contest with the Boston Curling and Bowling Club some time during this month, at the fine grounds of the latter club just outside Boston.

A letter has been received from James Wemyss, Jr., President of the Boston Club, stating that they will close their bowling green season about the 20th of this month, and the invitation is extended to the Middlesex and Dunellen clubs to play another game with them as near that date as it can be conveniently arranged.

It will be remembered that the Boston players were defeated by the Middlesex Club and won from the Dunellen Club when they played in Dunellen September 23. The gentlemen from the Hub are anxious to have another contest. The members of the Middlesex and Dunellen clubs regard the invitation favorably. They certainly would be well treated.

FINED THE ACCUSER.

Judge Coddington Found that the Accused Was the Injured Person.

There was a case in the City Court this morning where retribution followed fast after an unjust accusation and arrest.

John Henry made complaint against Charles McCann and accused him of assault on the Boulevard. McCann was arrested but came into the Court this morning with three witnesses on his side. Henry brought his spoiled face with him as witness on his side. In the course of the investigation it came to light that McCann was the aggrieved one and that Henry was to blame. Accordingly the accuser was fined $5 and the accused was dismissed.

John Conner was drunk and disorderly at the North avenue station at 1:30 this morning. He was given his choice of $3 or 15 days.

THE MAN ON THE CARS.

WHAT HE THINKS OF THE RECTOR QUESTION.

He Vents His Spleen on Ferryboat Bootblacks, and Says His Say About Local Church Unrighteousness.

"I wish"—said The Man on the Cars the other night as the 5:30 alleged express from New York dallied at Elizabethport—"I devoutly wish that someone in authority would abolish the bootblacks on our ferryboats, or, if they are inevitable, at least oblige them to keep their mouths closed. The continual slipshod perambulation of these young desperadoes through the cabins of the boats is bad enough, but the eternal din of their voices crying 'sh-shine' and 'polish-sh' is infinitely worse. I do n't mind having these things thrust upon me when my footwear needs emblazoning, but I'll be shot if I want it rung in every time, whether I require a shine or not. Your ferryboat bootblack always marks as his legitimate prey the man whose shoes are tolerably clean, and assails such an individual with a torrent of appeals for a permit to work upon him. The chap with russet shoes is also regarded with envy and attacked with especial venom. I do n't want to be understood as objecting to any bootblack plying his trade, but I will maintain that it is unnecessary for him to go about foisting his art upon people who do not desire to see it operated or hear it exploited. When a man needs a shine he knows it as well as and perhaps better than any young Italian ever may, and if he wants to call into requisition the prowess of the hopeful dago he will do so unsolicited. Beyond all this it may as well be said that those ferryboat shines are among the most ephemeral things on earth and will scarcely ever last till you get home.

"You were asking me if I had posted myself on that rather lively little church row that is in progress over in Washington Park. Well, I have inquired a bit, learned enough, and my interest is waning. The pretty, cosy Episcopalian church over the brook has had the honor of my attendance upon several occasions; I know some of its real people familiarly, and the publication of the names of that 'representative' committee, deputed to the dreadful mission of beseeching their rector to go away, made me smile. What was it they called themselves? 'Chief workers of the parish'? Well, well! I wonder whom they have have got to invent all the hundreds of quaint, original and foundationless whole-cloth stories that have filled our ears for weeks. And then the talk they gave the New York reporters was utter drivel. Their case, as I get it, is based on the following very excellent propositions: Their rector should exhibit a greater spirituality; his family should be denied the common pleasures of society, and he should not be a horrid Democrat. The indiscriminate confusion of Church and State is always admittedly bad, and in this instance, of course, absurd; but one has to pause and smirk when he considers how far Republicans will go in their funny political parsels. A clergyman has, I believe, as much right to his political views as I to mine, and I do not recall that the Constitution or any State law seeks to deny him this right. By no social ban that has afflicted me, moreover, shall his family be debarred from society, and when that committee talks about society—but keep me off the subject of that committee. Then as to spirituality permit me to drop a tear. I remember very well the man who preceded the present rector of Holy Cross church. A soulful looking fellow, studious, earnest, conscientious, devout—a very personification of the spirituelle. I remember also his words to me when he came to say good-bye. 'It is better that I should go before they ask me to do so'—said he.—'I have been forced away, unwilling though I am to leave, because I know I can never please them.' And those words have a wonderfully direct application to the present case, so far as I can find out, and I have faith to believe that the present rector will not bow down to the bogie men as his predecessor did, especially as he has his entire vestry and all the real people of the church heartily with him. Almost anybody can wave a little red flag and jump up and down, but it takes a gentleman to ignore such a performance.

"And when I look over that committee there comes to me, too, the remembrance of something in the Good Book concerning what the man ought to be who wants to throw the first stone."

HYMENEAL.

Stone—Riley.

At St. Joseph's church, Highbridge, occurred one of the prettiest weddings that has ever taken place there. The bride and bridegroom were Miss Mary E. Stone of Annandale and J. Edward Riley of Springfield, Mass. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Father Gammel, pastor of the church. The music was in charge of Bernard Kerr, Jr., of Round Valley.

The bride wore a beautiful gown of white silk, entraine, trimmed with point lace and white silk roses. The tulle veil, which became her well, was fastened with orange blossoms. Miss Elizabeth, stone, the bride's youngest sister and maid of honor, wore a gown of white albatross and silk embroidery, a large white hat trimmed with silk lace and white plumes. The best man was T. B. Riley of Harrisburg, Pa.

After the ceremony the wedding party were driven to the home of the bride's mother at Annandale. After receiving the congratulations of about fifty relatives and friends, they proceeded to the dining room where an elaborate wedding breakfast was served. The floral decorations, which were very effective, were roses, goldenrod and honeysuckle vine. The sweet notes of the piano came floating in and lent music to a scene which will cause the happy bride and bridegroom to look back with pleasure on their wedding day. Soon after the bride appeared in a becoming traveling dress of mauve camelshair, and amid showers of rice and adieus Mr. and Mrs. Riley departed on a short wedding journey. Their first stop will be Albany, and their destination Springfield, where the groom has been connected with the National Armory, and procured his discharge from Washington for this happy day. Among those present from Plainfield were Mrs. Jacob Cose, John Cose, the Misses Kathryn and Mary Konoly, Miss Currid, Miss M. Higgins and the Misses Ella and Lizzie Connolly.

PRACTICAL CHRISTIAN WORK.

Miss Spangenberg Interests the Big State Convention.

The Trenton True American makes the following report of Miss Spangenberg's part in the great Christian Endeavor State Convention:

"The Missionary Committee's Composition and Methods of Work" was handled in a composite manner. Miss Alice H. Spangenberg, of Netherwood, N. J., the one to whom this topic was assigned, gave a short address full of practical suggestions, and at the conclusion called for expressions on the part of the delegates through the house. After listening to this lady in the morning, in her District Secretary report, the large audience was prepared for a most spirited presentation of this subject, for in this conference everything depends on the leader. In her few remarks preceding the call for responses, she outlined some of the features of the Missionary Committee.

First, the committee should be carefully selected. The subject is of sufficient importance to claim the best members of the society. No one can serve who does not possess a knowledge of missions, and only those who are anxious to know something of the missions are likely to have a knowledge. How is it possible for us to interest and instruct others about a matter of which we know nothing ourselves? So then the knowledge of missions is most important. It awakens, stimulates and insures support.

Second, the members of the committee should be large hearted and broad-minded and should feel interested in the world.

The third characteristic is that the members of this committee should possess the faculty for securing volunteers for service in the meetings.

The speaker spoke of Mr. Moody's common expression that it is better to set ten men to work than to do the work of ten men. Every member of the society should be called on to do something in connection with this meeting. The members of this committee should not be easily discouraged. They should be willing to labor notwithstanding unfavorable circumstances arising. There may be a feeling on the part of some that the society is not sufficiently strong to go beyond their own bounds; such persons can not lead the society in this great matter. Faint hearted Endeavorers will not accomplish very much in carrying the gospel to the ends of the world. There are other qualifications quite as essential but these will suffice. The conference was divided into three main divisions. First, the missionary meeting; second, practical work; third, systematic giving. Under the first the following subdivisions: First, how is attendance to be secured; second, how frequent should these meetings be held; the programmes for these meetings. In the second division, what sorts of practical work are undertaken in your society? what are some of the instances of discouragements and how have you met them? what are some of the methods that you can suggest for the assistance of others? Under the third main division she made the following divisions: Plans for systematic giving; second, how introduce these, and lastly how carry them out. The responses were most ready. The half hour was well occupied, and many bright suggestions were given. J. R. English, of this city, commenced, and gave many pointed suggestions. A delegate from a Presbyterian church in Newark spoke of supporting a missionary in India, and that their church also sent literature to a mission in the west. This literature is collected at the meeting on Sunday night and the boxes are sent out at the end of each month and distributed.

A delegate from a Baptist church in Newark said that the monthly meeting was most popular of all.

The programmes for this meeting are prepared during the month. Oftentimes missionaries are present and the interest is most encouraging. A delegate from the Presbyterian church in Plainfield, said that their society collected papers and sent them to a missionary in Knoxville, Tennessee, and these were distributed among miners and to people who were not able to have papers of their own.

Registry Board Changes.

Owing to the indisposition of M. M. Dunham, one of the members of the Registry Board in the Third ward, his place has been filled by the appointment of W. V. Mundy. F. M. Bacon has also had a substitute selected to serve in his stead, he having been called to Washington on business.

Someone Might Have Been Shocked.

An electric-light wire was blown down by the high wind last night, at Madison avenue and Fourth street, and rested directly across the sidewalk and roadway thereby making it exceedingly dangerous for those walking or driving.

Self Praise.

Self praise is no recommendation, but there are times when one must permit a person to tell the truth about himself. When what he says is supported by the testimony of others no reasonable man will doubt his word. Now, to say that ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS are the only genuine and reliable porous plasters made is not self praise in the slightest degree. They have stood the test for over 30 years and in proof of their merits it is only necessary to call attention to the cures they have effected and to the voluntary testimonials of those who have used them.

Beware of imitations, and do not be deceived by misrepresentation. Ask for ALLCOCK'S, and let no solicitation or explanation induce you to accept a substitute.

HARMONIOUS PRIMARY.

ANTI-RACE-TRACK DELEGATES.

Success of the Saunders Ticket in North Plainfield.

The North Plainfield Democratic primary held last night, was large and interesting. Levi Kline, a member of the County Executive Committee, called the meeting to order. There was a large attendance of voters.

J. H. Vetterlein and R. H. McCullough were nominated for chairman of the meeting. Mr. McCullough declined, and the Hon. J. H. Vetterlein was unanimously chosen by acclamation. Mr. Vetterlein thanked those present for the honor, and asked for nominations for secretary.

Two candidates were nominated, Louis Brown and Ira F. Biker. A motion was made that both men be elected. The motion prevailed, and both were elected. Two tickets were then nominated.

Messrs. R. C. Morse and Levi Kline were chosen as tellers by acclamation. A line was then formed, and every person given ample time to pass the tellers, give his name, and deposit the ballot of his choice in a hat on the chairman's table. The tickets and the votes were as follows:

W. L. Saunders.....	115	*R. H. McCullough
Andrew Love, Sr....	110	Benjamin Clark.....	70
*R. H. McCullough..	169	Joseph A. Blatz.....	71
D. J. Carney.....	104	L. R. Blackford.....	70
E. H. French.....	108	W. H. Ludlow.....	70

*On both tickets.

The best of order prevailed, and complete harmony was noted. The delegates chosen are unpledged, and the character of the men chosen are such that The Press assures its readers that race-track legislation will receive no support at the hands of North Plainfield's delegates.

Oct. 31—Mrs. Estelle Waller, "Wesley".

The lectures are under the direction of the Plainfield Branch Alliance of Unitarian and Other Christian Women, one of whom has hit on the happy idea of applying the commutation feature to the lectures. Each course ticket bears 10 numbers, which may be used up by one person attending all the lectures or by several persons attending one lecture or more in groups. The commutation lecture ticket has been copyrighted by the talented Plainfield originator.

HOW TO GET THERE.

The World's Fair a Success, But It Will Soon Close Its Gates Forever.

The grandest exhibition of our time and possibly for many generations to come will soon be brought to an end. There remains but one month in which to visit this marvelous gathering of the world's productions, and everybody should strain a point to go to Chicago.

The railroad fare heretofore has been considered a hindrance to all classes, but this has all been changed, and on the following days in October the West Shore railroad will run high-class excursions on its fast express trains in through cars at one-half its lowest fare, i. e., $17, from New York to Chicago and return, and proportionately lower rates from points along its lines. These magnificent excursion trains will be in charge of an agent whose duty it is to care for the interests of the company's patrons en route, to furnish detailed information as to accommodations obtainable in Chicago and to point out the historic points along the grand old Hudson and through the picturesque Mohawk Valley.

These trains will leave Franklin street, New York, at 10 a. m., and West 42d st., at 10:10 as follows: Saturday, October 14; Thursday, October 19, and the last, Monday, October 23.

If readers will just take trouble to call at any West Shore office they will be received with the usual courtesy that characterizes the employes of this superb route, (over which a journey of the kind referred to can be made with considerable ease, owing to the fact that the management of the West Shore railroad has spared no expense to make it the easiest, running and safest road in the world), and furnish any information desired appertaining to this trip.

Wanted, a Carrier.

Peter Staats, the new postmaster at Dunellen, is running the office to the satisfaction of all. He now wants to appoint a good letter carrier. Since Postmaster Harrold was removed there has been no delivery for some time. The wages of the carrier is $20 a month.

—A stranger fell from a freight train near Evona this morning and badly bruised his face. He is being cared for at Muhlenberg.

—Pingry's second foot-ball team of Elizabeth defeated Leal's second team on the Crescent grounds this morning by the score of 4 to 0.

The American Catarrh Cure

Is the result of twenty-six years' study and treatment of the disease. One bottle convinces the most skeptical. It is always ready for use, needing neither douche nor atomizer. It restores the hearing, cures the hawking cough and expectorating, removes the headache and nose bleeding, increases the appetite, produces sound sleep, invigorates the whole system and increases the vitality. Prepared only by W. B. Jones, M. D., No. 1336 South Eighth street, Philadelphia. For sale by L. W. Randolph, 21 West Front street. Price $1.

Wrestling.

LONDON, Oct. 14.—The international wrestling match between McInerny of America and Cannon of Liverpool, for the world's championship and $500, took place in Liverpool yesterday evening in the presence of an enormous crowd. McInerny put Cannon on his back in the first round, which lasted seven minutes. The second round lasted fifteen minutes and was highly exciting. McInerny succeeded in flooring Cannon by the leg, but the latter recovered and got the American fairly down, and Cannon was declared the winner amid tumultuous applause.

Natural Gas.

BALLSTON, N. Y., Oct. 14.—The second natural gas well was tapped yesterday by an artesian drill on the land of Rev. Samuel McChesney at Malta Ridge four miles east of this village at the same depth of the one discovered three weeks ago. Gas flown with force equal to that of the first well and burns freely. Drilling will be continued through the hard pan in which gas is found and to the bedrock to a depth of 2,000 feet unless gas in a commercial quantity is reached sooner.

Matabele War.

LONDON, Oct. 14.—A dispatch from Johannesburg in the Transvaal says that a large body of Matabele warriors, including a crack Embezi regiment, is threatening the Fort Victoria column on the flank and rear. The object of the Matabele has been evidently to prevent the junction of this column with the Fort Salisbury column. Nevertheless, the two columns are believed to have met to-day. The soldiers of the chartered companies are in good health and are confident of victory.

Urging Arbitration.

BRUSSELS, Oct. 14.—The address to Mr. Gladstone adopted by the central committee of the international parliamentary peace league recalls the debate in the British house of commons on the motion made by William R. Cremer in favor of a permanent tribunal of arbitration between England and the United States, and urges Mr. Gladstone, as a practical step, to make overtures to the European powers for the institution of arbitration treaties.

Tennessee Military Lynchers.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 14.—The 16 soldiers of the Tennessee militia charged with lynching Richard Drummond at Coal Creek were released under a $3,000 bond for the entire squad by Judge Snead at Knoxville yesterday. After the decision was rendered the "Army of Tennessee" was paid off and disbanded.

Heavy Damages.

ELIZABETH, N. J., Oct. 14.—In the Union county court Lawrence C. Bangert was awarded $25,000 in his suit for damages against the Pennsylvania railroad. Bangert, some months ago, was struck by a train at the Fairmount avenue crossing.

Shot His Wife and Himself.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—Dennis Fox fired three shots from a revolver at his wife and after wounding her slightly, shot himself in the temple, inflicting a wound from which he will die.

The semi-annual statement shows present investments about $100,000; income from interest and premiums $600 per month, which is constantly increasing; expenses average about 2 cents a share per month.
Our plan makes it possible for members buying homes to own them in about 11 years by a payment but little more than they would ordinarily pay for rent. It accumulates a fund to meet the principal of the mortgage while other leaders are auctions only to perpetuate the payment of interest. Members who join for investment only may rely upon a security which is constantly increasing and a rate of profit greater than for any other safe investment.

UP TO DATE.

Good violins improve with use and age. If Stradivarius had made Pianos as well as violins, no one would care to own one of the former unless as a curiosity. There is little new in violin making, but there is something new every year in Piano making. Take care you do not buy a Piano simply because it was famous. With any Piano of ancient name and fame we invite you to compare the Steinway, Gabler, Vose, Sterling and Braumuller Pianos. They contain all new improvements that are desirable

WHAT HAPPENED TO HIM.

Something Peculiar, To Say the Least.

AN EVENT WHICH HAS PUZZLED THE DOCTORS NOT A LITTLE.

The Occurrence Has Created a Great Deal of Comment.

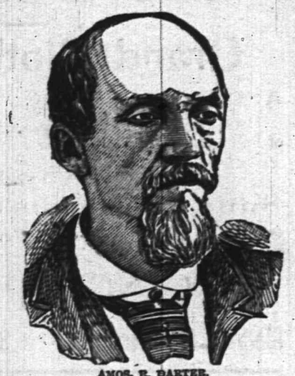
The following remarkable account we have from the man's own lips.

Mr. Amos B. Darter is well known in Indianapolis, Ind., living at 225 West Chesapeake street. He says:

"Ten years ago a pain came in my left foot and went all over me. I had such severe pain in my head that I could get no rest day or night. I called a doctor; he said I had rheumatism, but he could not relieve me.

"Then I went to taking patent medicines, and bought everything I would see advertised for rheumatism, but failed to give me any relief. Then I called in the doctors; had five good ones treat me, but all failed to relieve me. I was taken down and suffered intense pain. My flesh got so sore that I could not bear my clothes to touch me. My left side got numb from my foot to my head. I would feel a tingling in my side; in a second I would fall prostrated.

"I could not sleep night or day only when under the influence of morphine. I could not walk one square without resting; I would have to set my cane out first and step with my right foot and then drag the left foot up.



AMOS. B. DARTER.

"I gave up all hopes of getting well, and quit taking any medicine except morphine I would roll at night in bed and get up as tired in the morning as if I had worked all night.

"At last I found a cure in Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. The first two bottles drove all the pain out of my head; I took six bottles more; now I can walk and I am free from pain. I thank God that I found this wonderful remedy. If any one will call at my home I will tell all about my cure."

We venture the prediction that no sufferer from pain, whether of the head or elsewhere in the system, who reads about this remarkable cure, will delay getting this remarkable cure from the drug store. It certainly cures rheumatism, headache, backache, in fact all kinds of pains. Mr. Darter's marvelous cure by it, after many doctors failed even to afford relief, is proof of this, and he may be seen or written to about his cure.

Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy is purely vegetable and perfectly harmless, and is recommended by the doctors as the best remedy to take. It is in fact, the prescription and discovery of a physician, Dr. Greene, of 35 West 14th street, New York, the noted specialist in curing all forms of nervous and chronic diseases. He can be consulted free, personally or by letter.

If you are suffering pain or ache, or feel badly, use this remedy at once. It will cure you.

IN THE FATHERLAND

Matters of Interest from the German Capital.

Protests Against the Impending Taxes—Predicting the Downfall of von Caprivi—Count Taaffe's Electoral Reform Bill—Other German News.

(Copyright, 1893, by the United Press.)

BERLIN, Oct. 16.—Semi-official newspapers say that the financial proposals of the government will be laid before the Reichstag when the deputies reassemble on Nov. 20. These proposals are said to be such as will command the majority obtained for the army bill. After they shall have been passed the deputies will be expected to consider several social reforms which the emperor has long had at heart.

It is only just to say that this confidence in future successes is really entertained in government circles, although every week brings an increase of power to the agrarians, clericals and radicals, who form the opposition.

The associations of tobacco manufacturers, winegrowers and wine merchants are holding meeting after meeting to protest against the impending taxes and are subscribing funds to sustain the popular ferment against the government.

Conservative organs like the Kreuz-Zeitung proclaim the fall of Chancellor von Caprivi to be inevitable, while the national liberal dailies admit that the fate of the taxation bills is doubtful. The strength of the government ultimately will rest only on the impossibility of the opposition's agreeing to any financial policy whatever.

The army bill having become law the deputies must find the supplies, and it is difficult to say where the revenue can be found unless at the sources suggested in Dr. Miquel's scheme.

No alternative plan has been even hinted and it will baffle the opposition leaders to conceive anything equally discriminating, or popularly effective. The chances, therefore, are that after a protracted struggle with minor concessions here and there the government will carry the financial measure substantially unaltered.

General von Kaltenborn, war minister; Dr. Bosse, minister of public worship, and Dr. Miquel have gone to see the emperor, but neither the chancellor nor the foreign minister, Freiherr von Marschall, has been summoned to him. The inference is that foreign affairs are quiet.

The Toulon Reception.

The outburst of French chauvinism during the Toulon reception has been ignored here as empty noise. The government undoubtedly has some information which enables it to treat the Toulon fetes with contemptuous indifference. The foreign office maintains silence as to the reported renewal of the entente between France and Russia. The correspondent of the United Press, however, has received from the best sources information which enables him to say that the conviction in the highest quarters here is that Russia prefers to revive closer relations with Germany rather than risk an alliance with France, whether the commercial convention now in hand be signed or not.

The negotiations for the convention are proceeding smoothly but are likely to last until mid-winter. The prospects of a political rapprochment with Russia are regarded now as better than before in many years.

The emperor will attend a banquet to be held at the Kairerhof hotel on Oct. 27 to celebrate the anniversary of the capitulation of Metz. He is expected to make an important speech on European politics. Chancellor Von Caprivi has returned from Carlsbad where he has recruited his health for several weeks. He and all the Prussian and imperial ministers will be present to lend significance to the occasion.

As the Germans here are directly interested in the ascendence of the German party in Austria, Count Taaffe's electoral reform bill absorbs public attention to the partial exclusion of home politics. Not a voice has been raised in Prussia for the measure, except among the socialists. Taaffe has never been a trustworthy friend of the Austro-German alliance and has been distrusted by both Bismarck and Caprivi. His suffrage bill is regarded as aiming a fatal blow at German influence in Austria. Its intent is said to be the subjection of the German population to Slav masses. The bill has not a chance of coming to a final vote during the present session of the reichrath. Meanwhile the German liberal deputies in Vienna can force an early dissolution by coalescing with the existing oppsition, for instance, the young Czechs, or can take time to prepare a measure extending the franchise on lines safeguarding the German party against loss of power. It is proposed to convene a national conference of Austro-German delegates who will decide upon a course of action. The Frankfurter Zeitung and other radical dailies in Germany are keenly excited over Count Taaffe's policy. They urge the German Austrians to reflect calmly before acting against proposals to extend the suffrage and recommend rather an effort to modify Taaffe's project.

General Kirchhof, who tried to shoot Dr. Harich of the Berlin Tageblatt, will be tried behind closed doors by a martial tribune consisting of ten generals. The newspapers express the public discontent with the special privileges granted now, as ever, under the law to military offenders, not even accepting those guilty of murderous assault on civilians. Nevertheless, Kirchhof is obtaining much public sympathy, as Harich's reflections upon Frankein von Kirchoff's character are believed to have gone beyond the bounds of decency. The anti-semites have taken up the cause of the general. At a mass meeting in Spandau on Friday they passed a resolution to the effect that, although receiving to learn that General Kirchhof had violated the written law, they regarded his sense of honor as truly Germanic. Not he, they said, but the Jewish editors who insulted the honor of German gentiles, should be punished. The meeting condemned all Jewish editors as scandalmongers who should be expelled from their offices.

A FATHER'S AWFUL DEED.

Cut His Child's Throat and Then Kills Himself.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Oct. 16.—Haven F. Winn killed his two-year-old son yesterday by cutting his throat with a razor and then committed suicide in the same way.

His wife obtained a decree for separate maintenance from the probate court Wednesday, and had been given the custody of their only child. She then went to live with her father.

Since his wife left him, Winn showed a determination to obtain possession of his child at any cost. He called frequently at the house and tried to induce his wife by persuasion and threats to live with him again. She positively refused to do so and this refusal maddened him.

He had been given permission by the court to see his child Sunday and going to the house yesterday with a razor, he was allowed to enter and for several hours he carried the baby up and down in the sitting room. His wife and her father meantime had driven to church, leaving Mrs. Hecox and her 14-year-old son at home with Winn.

Just before 12 o'clock, Winn began to act so strangely that Mrs. Hecox became frightened and sent her son for assistance. He called a special policeman and on the way back met Mrs. Hecox, who told them that Winn had killed his child and himself. He had laid the baby on the bed, severed the jugular vein with one stroke of the razor, but the child had been able to crawl to the foot of the bed, where he died. Winn had then gone into the sitting room, and, standing before a mirror, cut his own throat and died instantly.

POLITICAL SERMONS.

Jersey City Ministers Take a Hand in Things Earthly.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Oct. 15.—In nearly all the leading churches of this city politics was the subject of the sermons last evening. Ring rule was loudly denounced and all who desired good government were counseled to go to the polls on election day, Tuesday, Nov. 7, and "vote for the candidates who represented economy and reform."

The general trend of the discourses was that the coming election was to be a non-partisan one, and a struggle for the success of men rather than of any one party.

CRISPI FOR PEACE.

He Regards Men Who Clamor for War as Fools.

ROME, Oct. 16.—A banquet was given in Genoa yesterday to celebrate the anniversary of Garibaldi's military expedition to Sicily.

Ex-Premier Crispi, after eulogizing Garibaldi, declared himself to be a fervent believer in the need of peace. He regarded the men who clamored for war, he said, as dangerous fools. He himself desired to see such a federation of all nations as would establish the peace and tend toward the greater social and material development of all peoples.

Killed By His Wife.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—George Dunn, an engineer at the Marlborough hotel, died yesterday at the New York hospital from injuries received at the hands of his wife. Dunn came home and found his wife intoxicated and children neglected. A quarrel followed and Mrs. Dunn attacked him with a hammer, fracturing his skull in 26 places. The woman was arrested.

DEATH ON THE LAKES

Many Vessels Lost in the Gale of Saturday Night.

Probably the Worst Storm in the History of Latter Day Marine—List of Wrecks So Far as Known—Where Life-Savers Were Baffled.

CHICAGO, Oct. 16.—The severity of the northwest gale that swept the great lakes for over 60 hours has not been exceeded during the season of navigation for the past ten years. The list of wrecks, in proportion to the number of vessels which were out in the gale, is larger perhaps than in the history of the latter day marine.

That there has been a large loss of life now seems certain, but it may be several days before it is known just how many sailors perished.

Following is the list of wrecks thus far reported:

Yacht Enterprise, ashore, Lions Head, Lions Bay.

Steamer C. F. Curtis, ashore, Cheboygan.

Schooner Isabel Reid, ashore, Cheboygan.

Schooner Nelson Holland, ashore, Cheboygan.

Barge Sweepstakes, ashore, Cheboygan.

Barge Knight Templar, ashore, Cheboygan.

Lake tug Acme, foundered, Lake Huron.

Schooner Volunteer, stranded, Port Austin, Ont.

Schooner Falconer, ashore, Lake Ontario.

Unknown schooner, ashore, near Manistee.

Schooner John T. Mott, sunk, Fairport, Ohio.

Schooner Amboy, ashore, Buffalo.

Schooner Mont Blanc, waterlogged, Buffalo.

Steamer Schuylkill, stranded, Bar Point.

Steamer Maritana, stranded, Elliots Point.

Schooner Ironton, ashore, Bay Mills, Lake Superior.

Dispatches from all points along the west shore of Lake Huron and the eastern end of Lake Superior indicate that the storm increased greatly in violence as night came on, and at midnight the storm was at its height, but most of the lake fleet had succeeded in reaching shelter.

Eighteen Lives Lost.

BUFFALO, Oct. 16.—Eighteen persons, the entire crew of the propellor Dean Richmond, are given up for lost in Saturday night's storm on Lake Erie.

The corpses of five men have been washed ashore off Van Buren Point, 40 miles from this city, near Dunkirk.

The shore of the lake is strewn with wreckage and merchandise, and the waves are hourly yielding up further evidences of the fate to which the Richmond has gone.

Another boat, the schooner Typo, is thought to have gone down with her crew just off Gravelly bay, on the Canadian side, a few miles from this city. She is owned by the Hargrove company of Detroit.

ONLY THE CAPTAIN SAVED.

Life-Savers Could Not Rescue the Minnehaha's Crew.

MANISTEE, Mich., Oct. 16.—The identity of the four-masted schooner, reported ashore near here in Saturday night's dispatches, has been established. The vessel is the Minnehaha of Cleveland, Captaim William Packer, with a cargo of corn. Of the seven souls on board the schooner, but one, Captain Packer, escaped.

The schooner went ashore Saturday afternoon and it was seen that she must soon be pounded to pieces by the heavy seas.

The Manistee life saving crew was called upon for assistance, the claim being made that the Frankfort crew could not be reached.

A train was immediately made up and the crew and boat taken to Onekama where the boat was hauled ten miles through the woods to Stanza. Upon arriving there at midnight the Frankfort crew was found upon the ground, having arrived just before dark, but too late to be of any service. The schooner Minnehaha had been thrown upon the beach at about noon. The sea was running very high and swept the decks clean and the crew was all drowned except the captain, who jumped overboard with a plank and swam ashore.

Twenty Years for Renard.

PARIS, Oct. 16.—Renard, the leader of the gang who robbed the Marquis de Panisse-Passis last January, was sentenced on Saturday to 20 years' hard labor. His ten confederates were sentenced to terms varying between two and ten years. These prisoners went to the house of the marquis, at 24 avenue Marceau, and under the pretense of being officers searching for proofs in the Panama case, looted the building.

Troubles in Hayti.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Oct. 16.—Advices from Hayti say that the minister of the interior and the minister of police have been dismissed from office, and that two foreigners have been expelled from the country.

THE ROCK OF INDEPENDENCE.

American Catholicism as Understood by Rev. Dr. Johnson.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—At the Episcopal Church of the Redeemer last night, Rev. W. E. Johnson the rector, and former associate of Rev. Henry Adams, who recently withdrew from the ministry and joined the Roman communion, made a vigorous defence of the American Catholic movement in the Episcopal church. He denied that it led toward Rome, and asserted that occasional desertions thereto did not bear upon the success or failure of the movement.

He defended the confessional as a means of reaching sin which no other could replace. It was an old church institution and not at variance with the book of common prayer, to which he professed the most profound allegiance. But because the Church of Rome employed it, it was not to be identified with it. Then, too, the Church's teaching in the matter was not to be classed as another move toward Rome. On the other hand it was solely the outcome of the Church's regard for the sacred institution and the purity of the family.

In fact, the American Catholics, instead of making toward the Roman communion stood for loyalty to a national faith, against a foreign one, and upon the rock of independent free worship, as he saw the divine truth.

SHOOTING AT ARMOR PLATE.

Successful Test By Naval Authorities at Indian Head Grounds.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—A very successful test of armor plate took place Saturday at the Indian Head proving ground under the direction of the bureau of naval ordnance. The plate of Harveyized steel was twelve inches in thickness and six and a half inches high, by six feet, ten and a half inches wide. Two shells, one of foreign and the other of domestic manufacture were fired from an eight-inch gun. The first was shot at a velocity of 1,678 feet and the second at a velocity of 2,004 feet. The first shell penetrated the plate about four inches, the point being welded while the rest of the shell was shattered. The second shot penetrated about six inches, leaving the point imbedded in the plate, while the rest of it was broken into fragments. No crack was visible in the plate, and the result was pronounced highly successful. With a nickel steel plate shots similar in all conditions have easily gone through plate and backing.

FEES OF CLERKS.

Bill to Regulate an Abuse in Government Courts.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—Mr. Wolverton, of Pennsylvania, from the committee on the judiciary, has reported to the house a bill prepared by the committee relating to fees of clerks and other officers of the United States courts. The measure makes the fees charged in naturalization cases uniform, and requires officers in executing warrants to take the prisoners to the nearest officer qualified to give a hearing and admit the defendant to bail. This is intended to break up the practice of taking persons arrested to certain commissioners having an office at a distance from the place of arrest and ignoring commissioners near at hand for the purpose of making fees against the government.

FITZ'S BOLD OFFER.

Wants to Fight Even Mitchell or Corbett.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Robert Fitzsimmons, the champion middle-weight pugilist, has authorized his attorneys, Friend and House, to challenge, on his behalf, any middle-weight in the world. Fitz is prepared to defend his title against all comers in his class, upon one weeks, notice, the contest is to be held before the club offering the largest purse. The challenger furthermore agrees to meet either James Corbett or Charles Mitchell, if either of them wishes to withdraw from their agreement to fight at the Coney Island athletic club on the night of December 18, 1893. Fitzsimmons to receive six weeks' notice for the purpose of training, and an advance of the money for expenses necessarily incurred while training.

Bishop Hall's Acceptance.

BURLINGTON, Vt., Oct. 16.—The letter of acceptance of Bishop-elect Hall has been received here. It supplements the cablegram sent about ten days ago. In his letter, Father Hall explains his delay by saying that a chapter of the Brotherhood of St. John the Evangelist could not be held to consider the subject of his release until there had been an opportunity to communicate with members from a distance. He has been formally released and is ready to accept the call.

The Guerrero Trouble.

CITY OF MEXICO, Oct. 16.—General Nest, who is heading the disturbances in the state of Guerrero, wires the government that he will shortly report himself at the capital, and that he has received the orders to that effect. He states that his quarrel was only with the governor of the state of Guerrero. The government troops have been recalled.

Union Pacific Receivership.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—George J. Gould says that the placing of the Union Pacific railroad in the hands of receivers was a very good thing for the stockholders, as it would keep the property together by preventing the system being torn apart.

DOINGS IN CONGRESS

Senate Holds First Place in Public Attention.

Believed that Some Compromise on Silver Will Be Brought Forward as Speedily as Possible—Important Matters Before the House.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—Notwithstanding the interesting and important character of the debate progressing in the house upon the question of Chinese immigration and registration, the silver situation in the senate, with its related subject of the rules for the management of that body, easily holds first place in public attention. As to the matter of rules, there is no belief that any change will come within the immediate future, despite the introduction of several amendments recently by members who want to see the senate governed by rules which will enable the majority to control debate within what they conceive to be reasonable limits. The time for a modification of the rules is not yet ripe, nor will it be, in the opinion of practiced observers, until the consideration of the subject can be entered upon without prejudice or passion.

As to the silver question, the common expectation is that some compromise will be brought forward on the democratic side and be pressed to a vote at the earliest possible moment. Just when this moment will arrive doubtless depends largely upon the nature of the forthcoming compromise, for if it is not acceptable to the silver republicans and populists they can, and probably will, put many obstacles in the way of its enactment into law. The probable course of events, meanwhile, is a continuance of the debate for a few days at least. This debate has assumed a more interesting character since Senator Jones, of Nevada, began his speech Saturday and promises to revive a flagging interest in the subject. Probably Mr. Morgan will follow Mr. Jones, but the order of speakers has not been definitely arranged. During the continuance of the debate there will be fair opportunity offered for negotiations looking to the expected compromise.

House.

A vote will be reached by unanimous consent of the house this afternoon upon Mr. McCreary's bill to amend and modify the Geary Chinese restriction and registration act. Several amendments will be offered to the bill as reported from committee on foreign affairs, which may be agreed to by the house, but they will not materially alter the measure. The principal one of these is that by Mr. Geary defining the term "Chinese Merchant." Another amendment he proposes, requiring that photographs be attached to the certificates issued to the Chinese, is said to be provided for in the law as at present on the statute books. Mr. McCreary says there is no doubt of the passage of the bill, provided a quorum be present and vote.

Immediately after the vote on the Chinese bill has been announced, Mr. Cox, of Tennessee, will call up his bill for the better regulation of national banks, which has been favorably reported from the committee on banking and currency. He will probably not ask consideration of the measure until Tuesday, but will get in position for that day. The bill provides "that no national bank shall make any loan to its president, its vice-president, its cashier, or any of its clerks, tellers, bookkeepers, agents, servants, or other persons in its employment until the proposition to make such a loan, stating the amount, terms, and security offered therefor, shall have been submitted in writing by the person desiring the same to a meeting of the board of directors, or of the executive committee of such board, if any, and accepted and approved by a majority of those present constituting a quorum.

Not much debate is anticipated on this bill as Representative Warner, a member of the committee, is the only antagonist the bill has, so far as known. His objection, as stated in his minority report, is based upon the ground that the essential office of federal law in reference to national banks is in connection with their circulating notes, and this act is so exclusively for the protection of stockholders and depositors that the proposed extension of federal interference with the banking business should not be enacted into law.

Representative Hepburn, of Iowa, who was solicitor of the treasury under the Harrison administration, commends the measure.

After the bank bill is out of the way the bill to establish a uniform system of bankruptcy throughout the United States will be taken up and its consideration will doubtless exhaust the remainder of the week.

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Oct. 16.—John W. Priestly, president of the Hunterdon county national bank, is dead, aged 74. Mr. Priestly was a well-known capitalist and the senior member of the pottery firm of Tulper Bros. & Co.

Business Resumptions.

LAMBERTVILLE, N. J., Oct. 16.—The Lambertville paper company, after being shut down for several weeks, has again started up. The Lambertville shoe manufacturing company has also started up.

WEATHER INDICATIONS.

For New Jersey: Fair Tomorrow; Heavy Frost Tonight; Variable Winds.

That Y. M. C. A. building must not be permitted to lag.

Oh, dear! they do say that the girls have backed out, and won't give the contemplated minstrel show.

It must be highly gratifying to Rector Murphy to find his friends rallying so strongly to his support. Some of the people endorsing him are mighty good friends to have.

The clearing of nearly $1,500 at St. Mary's church fair shows what enterprise and united effort will accomplish, in spite of hard times, and proves what a faithful people and prosperous parish Plainfield has in St Mary's.

Let it not be misunderstood that the communication on the Murphy matter signed by clergymen is an official utterance of the Ministers' Association. The signatures were secured by personal solicitation and pareonage-to-parsonage canvass. Members of the Association who declined to sign it, express indignation that it should assume to be an official utterance of that body when no meeting has been held to consider the matter.

When so many playhouse managers are devoting their theatres to frivolity and froth, it is refreshing to be able to turn with confidence to that managerial giant, Charles Frohman, and find him providing a delightful legitimate play. Such is "Liberty Hall", the popular success now running on Mr. Frohman's stage in the Empire Theatre, that beautiful monument to the enterprise and public spirit of Frank W. Sanger and Alfred Hayman. All that has been said in favor of this charming play, The Press heartily endorses. "Liberty Hall" is pure drama. Its humor is clean-cut; its story stirs the heart. Henry Miller as "Mr. Owen" is a model of dignity and culture, a perfect lover, every inch a man. Viola Allen exquisitely acts the part of "Blanche Chilworth". "Blanche", the proud beauty, thrills; Miss Allen's native charm and sweetness captivate. The engagement scene between Miss Allen and Mr. Miller is something to tingle the blood and bring a sparkle of gladness to the eye, and a passion of happiness to the heart. This is no silly stage love-making, but an unaffected, honest expression of perfect beatitude. The midnight misunderstanding between "Blanche" and "Mr. Owen", in the little parlor back of the bookshop after the birthday party, is something to rehearse with profit in one's sober moments. "Mr. Owen's" farewell soliloquy arouses every sympathy. W. H. Crompton as "William Todman" is the kind of old man one may excusably call perfectly lovely; and William Frank makes a most amusing and interesting "Robert". "Liberty Hall", with its lessons inculcating true nobility, is the sort of play that lives in the memory and in the heart. It is good literature and good morals. Its delicate vein of pathos, and its many pretty love scenes, awaken the tenderest affections and worthiest emotions. In these days when the drama is said to be degenerating, "Liberty Hall" is such a play as deserves this sincere and voluntary endorsement.

Because this paper was the first to publish the news of the Holy Cross church difficulties, it has naturally received the abuse of the two papers which would have been glad to proclaim the facts had they known of them. That was to be expected. But it is surprising to find intelligent friends of Mr. Murphy drinking in so gullibly the misrepresentations of those jealous journals. The zeal shown by Mr. Murphy's friends is admirable; but some of their utterances are misguided. Because it publishes the news about Mr. Murphy, does not make this paper his enemy. All during the distressing controversy, The Press has sought conscientiously to give both sides. But until after the committee's action was published, Mr. Murphy's side was not obtainable. The Press has up to date given in full everything that has transpired, pro and con. If there has been "unwarrantable and insulting attack" on Mr. Murphy's family and private character", the attack was not of this paper's making. The Press has brought no charge against the worthy rector, nor against his family. It has only reported the charges which others have made. And surely, since Mr. Murphy is a public minister, and as Holy Cross church is a public institution, it is legitimate to publish such news about him and the church as has developed. This paper has not sided, and does not side, for or against the rector. It has stated the facts as they have appeared, and to give facts is what it is here for. The one solitary opinion it has expressed is that if they wish to keep peace with the church a good policy for a clergyman and his family is to leave social functions to others. Saying that, is by no means adopting any stand as to the morals involved. Some very good people have permitted perversion of the facts now stated to obtain possession of their understanding and judgment. Anyone who reads calmly and in sober thought what The Press has published, will find the true printed meaning far different from the distortions made by others. The Press is a newspaper; it has no axe to grind in the rectorship fight, and it has n't done any of the ugly things which some persons would try to make the public believe. And that 's so!

THE VESTRY SAYS DON'T.

RECTOR MURPHY EXHORTED NOT TO RESIGN.

For the Future Good of the Church, They Want Him to Stay—They Find His Character Irreproachable, and Believe They Represent the Sentiments of a Majority of His Parishioners.

The Vestry of the Church of the Holy Cross met Saturday and unanimously adopted the following:

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Vestry be instructed to write to the committee which called on Mr. Murphy and requested his resignation, that Mr. Murphy has laid before us, the Vestry, the substance of their call, and that, after very careful thought, and in consideration of his past services, present usefulness and irreproachable character, we deem it for the future good of the parish that he should not resign, and have requested him to act in accordance with our wishes. And in doing this, the Vestry believe they are expressing the sentiments of the majority of the parishioners.

SURPRISED THAT THE NEWS IS PUBLISHED.

PLAINFIELD, Oct. 16, 1893

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—Dear Sir—As Secretary of the Ministers' Association, I have been requested to send a copy of this communication to each of the daily papers. Discharging what is to me an exceedingly unwelcome and painful duty,

I am truly yours,
W. B. RICHARDS

A COMMUNICATION.

In view of recent statements in one of the newspapers of this city, reflecting on one of our number, and evidently designed to injure his ministry here, we as members of the Plainfield Ministers' Association desire to express our cordial regard for the Rev. T. Logan Murphy, rector of Holy Cross church. We do also express our great regret and our surprise that any newspaper of this city, invading the sanctities of the domestic circle, should open its column to such unwarrantable and insulting attack on the family and private character of a gentleman.

Sincere Tribute to the Rector's Wife.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—In view of the many misrepresentations and cruel criticisms lately circulated regarding the family of the Rev. Mr. Murphy, it is with sincere pleasure that I bear testimony from personal experience to Mrs. Murphy's faithful and efficient performance of her duties as a clergyman's wife, both in her parish and in the missionary work of the diocese. Those who have been privileged to attend the missionary meetings of the Woman's Auxiliary in the Church of the Holy Cross, will always remember her cordial welcome, graceful hospitality and untiring efforts to unite all in Christian work.

Such qualities ought to elicit praise rather than censure.

A MEMBER OF GRACE CHURCH.
Plainfield, Oct. 15, 1893.

DID N'T HURT 'EM A BIT.

Mrs. Murray Thrown Down, and Her Baby Hurled from the Bridge by a Central Freight Train.

An accident that might have been attended by fatal results occurred this morning at about 7 on the Watchung avenue railroad bridge. A colored woman, who gave her name as Mrs. Camella Murray of 417 Cottage place, was walking on the track near the bridge. She held her 3 year-old baby in her arms. A freight train drawn by engine 349 bound west was nearing the bridge as the woman stepped on it. The engineer whistled in vain as the woman either did not hear or else thought that the train was coming on another track.

The locomotive struck her as she was in the middle of the bridge and threw her down inside the tracks. The child was thrown over the side of the bridge and into the roadway below. Both woman and child were taken into Mallinson's pharmacy, where Dr. Frits was summoned. He looked over the patients and found them uninjured except for a few bruises. They were able to go home alone.

The engineer in charge of the train could not be held in any way responsible for the accident and it was through carelessness or confusion on the woman's part that led to it.

The Scroll of Treason.

Randolph Thorn has come into possession of an interesting document, facsimile of "The Scroll of Treason", or secession writ of the State of South Carolina. By it South Carolina revoked its allegiance to the United States. Among the 150 or more signers appear the signature John Wannamaker, and such curious names as Maxcy Gregg, Barnwell, Shingler, Porcher, Gadberry and Spratt. Of course the Wannamaker was a different John. The chirography of the scroll is not what a Plainfield High School boy would be proud of, but he has to be a smart lad to make his Spencerian curves ever turn out so portentous a document.

ST. MARY'S BIG PROFIT.

MORE THAN $1,000 REALIZED FROM THE FAIR JUST ENDED.

Fathers Smyth and Murphy Well Pleased with the Successful Efforts of the Committee—Close Contests Decided Saturday Evening—Names of the Lucky Ones—A Woman Gets a Pipe.

One of the most successful fairs ever held in this city was that of St. Mary's church, which ended Saturday evening in the C. Y. M. I. hall at Sixth and Liberty streets.

The profit, which amounted to between $1,000 and $1,500, was the result of the untiring efforts of the committee having the fair in charge, who spared no pains in their endeavor to entertain the people who crowded the hall nightly. The committee had a choice programme prepared for each evening. It was no easy matter to secure different attractions for each night's entertainment, but by continual exertion they succeeded admirably. Among those who contributed their talent were: St. Mary's church choir, Miss May Flanagan, J. T. Veglard, John Carney, Chas. Ward, Karl Rudolph, and the Martin Brothers Quartette. Dancing was another feature.

The results of the several voting contests were announced by Father Murphy as follows:

The handsome doll was found to have been won by Lizzie O'Keefe, she having collected $14 06, against $13.80 turned in by Katie Whelan.

Katie Kelly had secured $33 10 for votes on the china tea-set, and as Susie Goff had realized only $12 42 the prize was awarded to Miss Kelly.

The gold ring will be worn by F. Humphreys of Netherwood.

The meerschaum pipe was carried off by Mrs. Kline; the silk umbrella by Andrew F. Wahl of Liberty street; and a beautiful hanging lamp will grace the parlor, at her home in Scotch Plains, of Miss Grace Lowe.

There was great applause when it was announced that the silver watch would be worn by the Rev. Father P. E Smyth.

The lace fan went to Mrs. Powell, Eighth street; pair of vases, John O'Keefe, West Sixth street; gold watch, Mrs. A. Smith, West Second street; book, Mr. Kearnan; silver water-pitcher, Kate Moran; and $5 in gold to A. B. Lennark.

After the awards had been made, the auction was begun, and some rare bargains were offered the patrons. Nearly all the articles were disposed of at the several booths.

The committee in charge deserve great credit for their success at a time when business is so dull and money so scarce. The amount realized is far above the expectations of Fathers Smyth and Murphy.

The proceeds will be devoted to one of the several worthy funds of St. Mary's church.

A RATTLING SERMON, THIS.

Pastor Schenck Cuts Down to the Bone, in Handling the Scalpel Against Race-Tracks.

Before his sermon yesterday morning the Rev. Cornelius Schenck gave the supporters of the race-track and those sympathizing with them, an exceedingly sharp scoring. In part, he said:

"It is for us to dislodge those who now possess our legislative halls. We must go to the primary meetings and see that delegates for nominating Members of Assembly and State Senators, also for Sheriffs, are elected, who will place in nomination men who are opposed to the present acsursed licensed race-track system.

"The candidates nominated must be men who will pronounce themselves against the present laws licensing race-tracks: and candidates who will not so pronounce and pledge themselves should not receive your votes. A man who says he will vote the party ticket simply because his party has nominated party men, is a coward. If the man of your party will not come out plainly and say that he is against the race tracks, then it is your duty to vote against him. This is an election that calls for every candidate for legislative honors, to tell the people how he stands, for or against race-tracks.

"I do hope and pray that you will attend the primaries and elect only men who will at the conventions nominate men who will repeal last year's race-track laws."

A GRAND ARMY FROST.

IT HAS BLIGHTED THE CONSOLIDATION MOVEMENT.

Comrade Collier Explains What Has Been Done and Why the Major Anderson Members Will Not Submit to Winfield Scott's Dictation—Not Able to Effect Even a Compromise.

At a meeting of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., held July 11, 1893, the following preamble and resolutions were adopted:

WHEREAS, It has been for a long time apparent that it would be for the best interest of the G. A. R. in this city that the two Posts be united; and

WHEREAS, The difference which has existed between the two Posts in times past has been a source of regret to a large number of citizens of this city, as well as to a great many of the members of the respective posts; and

WHEREAS, The members of the G. A. R. should do all in their power to preserve the respect and merit the support of the community at large; and

WHEREAS, The fraternal spirit now existing between the two Posts has paved the way to a closer union in the bonds of fraternity, charity and loyalty; and

WHEREAS, Post 73 being the senior Post and numerically the strongest, deem it proper to take the initiative step in furtherance of this object; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the officers and members of Post 73 do cordially and fraternally invite the officers and members of Post 109 to unite with them; and be it further

Resolved, That the form of such union be decided by a committee to be appointed from Posts 73 and 109 respectively.

WILLIAM HAND,
CHAS. B. STEPHENS,
WM. C. SMITH.

At a regular meeting of Major Anderson Post, No. 109, G. A. R. held at the headquarters of the Post Thursday evening, August 3, 1893, the following preamble and resolutions were unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS, We are in receipt of a communication from Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, expressing in the warmest terms their desire to effect a consolidation with this Post and thus bringing about that perfect spirit of fraternization which alone bespeaks true comradeship; and

WHEREAS, It has always been the sentiment of the members of this Post that it is only in a close bond of unity unendangered by the rivalries which separate organizations might engender that the unclouded maintenence of our fellowship can be assured; and

WHEREAS, Realizing as we do that the Grand Army cause in this city has about reached that point where recruiting is at the high water mark, and that the certain diminution of our numbers with the growth of years makes still more wise and imperative the blending of all our forces and the abolition of every barrier that stands in the way of our complete unity, therefore be it.

Resolved, That Major Anderson Post, No. 109, cordially endorses the sentiment of the resolutions passed by Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, and heartily joins with said Post in the movement to close ranks and march in solid phalanx to the attainment of the thorough and enduring harmony of our soldier brotherhood.

Resolved, That the better insuring of such result, and the certain obliteration of every element that could possibly tend to weaken the consolidation so earnestly desired, it is the sense of Post No. 109 that the union there sought would be more thoroughly insured by the abolition of the rival names and numbers and the merging of the two organizations under an entirely new name and number, to be chosen by the committee of conference.

Resolved, That in pursuance of the spirit herein expressed, a committee of five be appointed to confer with a like committee from Post 73 to perfect the conditions of the consolidation proposed.

ASA COLLIER,
C. H. RANDOLPH,
J. P. ALLIS,
JOSEPH T. DUNHAM,
Committee.

The movement in furtherance of the consolidation of the two Grand Army Posts of Plainfield seems to have been blighted by an early frost, so to speak. The preliminaries to the accomplishment of this desirable result gave promise of a harmonious outcome, and it was confidently hoped that the obliteration of all rivalry and the concentration of fraternal pride and interest which the blending of the two organizations would effect would redound to the welfare of the old veterans and strengthen their usefulness in the promotion of the interests to which they are allied.

It appears, however, from the result of the conference of the committee appointed to conclude arrangements for the end in view, that some of the parties to the proposed union are not as cordially inclined toward closing ranks and marching on to greater achievements under one banner as they are to the preservation of a separate local organization. A report of the conference quite enforces the conclusion that the credit of blocking the hoped-for consummation by the barrier of Post pride must be charged to the Winfield Scott members of the conference. It was maintained by the representatives of Major Anderson Post that a thorough unification would be more perfectly insured by the obliteration of the old titles and the merging of all interests under a new one to be agreed upon by the consulting committees.

In furtherance of this view they were willing to renounce the name by which they had been known and in addition to make such concessions to 73 Post as would reconcile its members to the rendering useless such of their belongings as would not be available in the organization proposed. They were ready to guarantee a fund for the purchase of such material, which fund the present members of Post 73 could divide as they saw fit. The committee of the latter body, however, were indisposed to give up their name and number and insisted that the union could only be brought about by the members of Major Anderson Post coming in under that designation. This insistence was coupled with the condition that this "coming in" would not be permitted as a body, but through a separate ballot on each name. This ultimatum left the Major Anderson Committee but one alternative. They had not been commissioned to knock at the door of Winfield Scott Post and beg admission; much less to submit the worthiness of their comradeship to inspection, and having failed to awaken a response to all reasonable measures of compromise their only recourse was to report a failure of their efforts and await further developments.

ASA COLLIER.

WORK STOPPED.

More Funds Needed for the Y. M. C. A. Building Fund.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—After careful consideration, and having in mind our obligations to those with whom we have made contracts, the Building Committee of the Young Men's Christian Association have been compelled to stop the work on our new building. We do this reluctantly, knowing that it means injury to the building, and only because we have no money with which to proceed. We address you as a friend of our work, and enclose for your information and guidance a financial statement. From this you will see that we need to raise for use about $17,000, and to anticipate in some way the $9,200 not yet available.

We were encouraged to begin our building after the vexatious delay caused by the Peace Street extension, and were led to believe that we could raise the balance needed while the construction was going on. In ordinary times there would have been no doubt of this.

But we believe that with a little sacrifice on the part of those who have the welfare of our young men at heart, we can raise the money in these extraordinary times, and that the work can be resumed and carried to a finish.

Autumn Festival at Grace.

Grace M. E. church, of which the Rev. H. F. Randolph is pastor, was crowded last night with interested spectators who had come to enjoy the annual autumn festival of the Sunday-school classes. The church was prettily decorated with autumn leaves, grain and fruit. Superintendent John Valiant presided at the exercises, and a long programme of recitations and songs by the children was enjoyed by all present. One of the features of the evening was the singing by the male quartette.

Mrs. Wm H. Griffin and A. A. Taft are to be congratulated for the artistic scene the chapel presented. At the close of the services everyone present was presented with an autumnal sonvenir. Superintendent John Valiant is untiring in his efforts to please all, and under his guidance the school is rapidly growing. The evening exercise began with singing by the male quartette, and the following programme was rendered:

CLOSING DAYS OF THE FAIR.

Last Low-rate Excursion by the Pennsylvania Railroad.

This is the last month of the great Columbian Exposition, an American exhibition which eclipses the efforts of all nations, past and present—and Saturday, Oct. 21, marks the end of the popular low-rate coach excursions of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company to the World's Fair City. The extensive patronage bestowed on all previous trips of this character and the universal verdict of former participants that the Pennsylvania Railroad Company carries by far the greatest number and the best class of people, thoroughly attest the genuine worth of the facilities to be enjoyed on this route. These facts, coupled with the fortunate and entire immunity from accident of any kind thus far, and the completeness and dispatch with which this traffic has been handled, place the standard railroad in the enviable position which it proudly claims—of being the best, safest and quickest route to the west.

All who can do so are advised to visit this stupendous show, as it is highly improbable that another of its immense magnitude will be seen by the people of this generation, and the enormous multitude of wonderful and awe-inspiring sights collected there must be seen to be appreciated.

The remarkable rate of $18 from New York and $17 from Philadelphia, Baltimore, and Washington, and correspondingly low rates from other points on the vast system, will apply for the last time on the date above mentioned. The excursion will start from New York at 9 and Philadelphia at 11:30 a. m. A section will leave Washington at 10:15 and Baltimore at 11:10 a. m., connecting with the regular sections at Harrisburg. Tickets will also be sold from principal intermediate stations, passengers from stations not located on the main line taking regular trains to nearest point of connection with the special.

Relief For Rheumatism.

"This information," said a well-known physician to a correspondent of the Telegram, may save many lives; at any rate it will prove an invaluable boon to people suffering from rheumatism in any form."

"Rheumatism is caused by acidity of the blood. It should never be neglected. This remedy, as I know by long practice, is very efficacious and it is as simple as it is powerful."

"Here it is," he added, "when a rheumatic twinge is experienced, the patient should buy a bottle of Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy and take one teaspoonful in one-half glass of hot or cold water as best suits the action of the bowels, three times a day, and continue the cure daily until the last vestige of the malady has disappeared. That is all there is to it, but if taken as I have prescribed, it will save suffering humanity many doctors' bills, to say nothing of pains, aches and swellings. I've never known it to fail."—Albany, N. Y. Telegram.

The semi-annual statement shows present investments about $120,000; income from interest and premiums $600 per month, which is constantly increasing; expenses average about 2 cents a share per month.

Our plan makes it possible for members buying homes to own them in about 11 years by a payment but little more than they would ordinarily pay for rent. It accumulates a fund to meet the principal of the mortgage while other lenders are anxious only to perpetuate the payment of interest. Members who join for investment only may rely upon a security which is constantly increasing and a rate of profit greater than for any other safe investment.

UP TO DATE.

Good violins improve with use and age. If Stradivarius had made Pianos as well as violins, no one would care to own one of the former unless as a curiosity. There is little new in violin making, but there is something new every year in Piano making. Take care you do not buy a Piano simply because it was famous. With any Piano of ancient name and fame we invite you to compare the Steinway, Gabler, Vose, Sterling and Braumuller Pianos. They contain all new improvements that are desirable. They are up to date.

HE AVOIDED POLITICS

Russian Admiral Not Over-effusive at Toulon.

A Somewhat Bombastic Speech of the Mayor Fails to Bring Out a Corresponding Response—Honors Showered on the Foreigners.

TOULON, Oct. 16.—Few persons slept in Toulon Saturday night. The streets were almost as crowded until 3 o'clock yesterday morning as at 3 o'clock the afternoon before. The illumination of shops and private houses did not cease until daybreak, and the thousands sang and caroused under the electric lights without a sign of weariness. When the officers' ball at the arsenal closed, shortly after 6 o'clock, the dancers came out upon a scene of delirious enthusiasm. Bands playing the Marseillaise were parading the streets, the throng was alternately cheering and singing, and shouts for Russia, the Russian officers and the czar rang from every side. At 8 o'clock the crush was worse than at any time since the celebration began. Everybody was shouting: "Long live Russia!" "Long live the czar!"

Mayor Ferraro gave his luncheon, in the name of the municipality, at 11 o'clock. The playground of the college had been crowded with a great tent, spread between double rows of plane trees, and under this the tables were laid. The Russian officers showed their appreciation of the fine wine by drinking themselves into a state of flushed excitement.

Russian Admiral Non-Committal.

When the luncheon was over the mayor made a rather bombastic speech as to the alliance of sister nations which, he said, ought to be regarded abroad as a pledge of peace and not as a threat of war. He presented a gold champagne cup to Admiral Avelan and a silver champagne cup to every other Russian officer. The presentation speeches were effusive, but they evoked no corresponding response from the Russians. Admiral Avelan expressed his thanks briefly, and the other Russians followed his example. None of them made any allusion to politics.

As the day advanced, all the main thoroughfares were thronged from wall to wall. Admiral Avelan and his officers were conveyed in open carriages to the Place de la Liberte, where the battle of flowers was to take place. The crowd was so dense that the horses could only proceed at a walk and often had to be stopped. The Russians were half smothered with flowers, confetti and paper spirals. They returned the fire with spirit, and smiled and waved their caps to the people packed up to the carriage wheels. At the Place de la Liberte the procession of floats and flower-bedecked carriages was longer and finer than anything attempted at the Nice carnival. The pavements were strewn with tons of confetti.

Embraced and Kissed the Sailors.

The enthusiasm of the unofficial crowd exceeded all bound when the Russian sailors landed. French sailors and civilians formed in processions, hoisted the men to their shoulders and carried them through the streets. Women embraced and kissed them. Wherever the Russian sailors appeared deafening shouts for Russia and the czar filled the air. Until evening the demonstration was remarkable for the absence of drunken men. After dark, however, wine was given out in enormous quantities. Staggering sailors were to be seen everywhere and the popular manifestations of enthusiasm degenerated into maudling embraces and drunken howling.

A dinner was given at the prefecture last evening to the Russian officers and the high French officials who have come from other cities. Later there was a gala performance at the Grand theatre, which the Russians attended at the invitation of the municipal government. The chief feature of the performance was a Franco-Russian ballet.

"How good digestion wait on appetite, And health on both."

To assure both the above ends, good, wholesome, palatable food is demanded. It is next to impossible to present a sufficient variety of appetizing bills of fare for our meals without a liberal allowance of pastry and other food in which shortening is required. How to make crisp, healthful, digestible pastry has puzzled the cooks. A difficulty in all good cooking in the past has been lard. Always fickle, never uniform, most unwholesome—lard has always been the bane of the cook and the obstacle to "good digestion."

COTTOLENE

comes now into popular favor as the new shortening—better than even the best of lard with none of lard's objectionable qualities. And

COTTOLENE

comes attended by both "APPETITE AND HEALTH."

Grocers sell it all about.

AFTER THE RULES NOW

Senate to Consider Them Again To-day.

An Animated Discussion Expected—A Curious Parliamentary Tangle Last Night—The McCreary Chinese Bill as Passed in the House.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—The senate got into a curious parliamentary tangle just at night-fall last evening which recalled that extraordinary session when the body, with Mr. Ingalls in the chair, found itself unable to adjourn, when every person present wished to do so.

During the course of the proceedings at a point when a quorum was temporarily absent, Mr. Voorhees moved that the sergeant-at-arms be directed to secure the attendance of the absentees. Soon afterwards a few stragglers came into the chamber and made up a quorum to answer a call of the senate. Then Mr. Voorhees wished to withdraw his motion, but Mr. Dubois, probably recalling an occurrence during the election bill campaign, saw his opportunity and refused his assent. There was nothing to do but call the yeas and nays; and the pairs were so numerous that a voting quorum could not be obtained. As soon as the vote was announced on the yeas and nays, under the rules, another call was in order, without motion, to develop the presence of a quorum. The quorum answering to the call, again the motion recurred on Mr. Voorhees' original proposition; and so it went on, changing from the yeas and nays to the call of the senate.

The silver men had really transferred to the clerk the necessity of talking against time and the proceeding seemed very much like what a specta or denominated it—an automat c silver debate—forit ran for two hours and a quarter until interrupted by the advent of a voting quorum.

It is expected that the discussion on the Lodge amendments to the rules, which went over till to-day, will be equally as spirited as it was yesterday.

The resolutions to amend the rules offered by Mr. Lodge propose to prohibit the reading of prepared speeches; require the counting of senators who are present and refuse to vote for the purpose of making a quorum, and propose an arrangement similar to that now existing in the house, under which (through a report from the committee on rules) debate may be stopped and a vote taken.

Late yesterday afternoon Senator Peffer, having yielded temporarily to Mr. Palmer (dem. Ill.), the latter gentleman got into a parliamentary squabble with the other two populist senators—Mr. Kyle, of South Dakota and Mr. Allen, of Nebraska. The origin of it was a remark by Mr. Palmer that he had been kept in the chamber night after night listening, not to debate, but to speeches, which, as the newspapers asserted, were made to consume time. On being asked by Mr. Kyle to specify any particular speech, he started to express his belief that the senator from Nebraska (Mr. Allen) had ——, but before he could finish the sentence he was interrupted by Mr. Allen himself, who angrily insisted that Mr. Palmer had no right to make such an imputation. And he called him to order for violating the rules. Mr. Palmer said that he would not take anything back, and then Mr. Allen retorted by saying that he was not in the senate with a brass collar around his neck, as other senators had; that he was not here to do the bidding of some man, who had put chains around his neck and told him what to do.

The colloquy having been read aloud to the senate by Mr. Shuey, the official reporter, from his notes, Mr. Cullom expressed the idea that, as between the remarks of senators Palmer and Allen, there was little choice between them as to being parliamentary, and, at his suggestion, the whole matter was dropped and Mr. Peffer went on with his speech.

At 6 p. m. a motion to adjourn was made by Mr. Pugh (dem. Ala.), and was voted down by yeas, 18; nays, 39. In 20 minutes afterward the plan of quorum-compelling was begun by Mr. Kyle. Forty-five senators responded and Mr. Peffer delivered another short section of his speech. This was kept up until 10 o'clock when the senate adjourned until 11 o'clock to-day.

There was a revival this morning of the talk of an adjournment. A democratic senator who belongs to the ultra class that will have nothing to do with compromise, said that there would be unconditional repeal or nothing. The senate would be kept here continuously until it repealed this bill, or an adjournment would be taken until December, the idea being that when the silver democrats returned they would have found, in the meantime, that their people wanted repeal. Rather than submit to any compromise Mr. McPherson would prefer to see Congress adjourn; while on the other hand, Mr. Faulkner, who is also for repeal, is confident there will be no adjournment and that the bill is disposed of this week.

House of Representatives.

The McCreary Chinese bill as it passed the house contains but two sections. The first is a repetition of section 1, of the existing exclusion act, except that it extends until six months after enactment the time allowed Chinese to register. It also amends the provision as to witnesses to certificates so as to remove the inadvertent discrimination against colored persons. Under the bill any credible person, other than Chinese, can be a witness. The section has an addition in the shape of a paragraph defining a merchant as a person buying and selling in his own name at a fixed place of business and performing no other manual labor than is incident to his business.

Returning Chinese merchants are required to prove by two witnesses that they conducted business for at least a year without other manual labor before leaving the United States.

Chinese under order of deportation are to be kept in the custody of a United States marshal and are not subject to bail. Certificates must contain photographs of their owners. Chinese convicted of felony may no register, and such Chinese now subject to deportation shall be deported.

The second section defines laborers to be persons engaged in both skilled and unskilled manual labor, such as mining, fishing, quarrying, peddling, laundering and curing fish.

CHARBONNET'S FATE.

Thrilling Experience of the Dead Man's Bride on a Glacier.

TURIN, Oct. 17.—Mme. Charbonnet, who went in a balloon on her wedding tour and was thrown out with her husband and his friend in the Italian Alps on Oct. 11, has arrived here. Her husband, the professional aeronaut, is dead. His friend, M. Ponta, is recovering slowly from his injuries.

Mme. Charbonnet says that the balloon struck the glacier at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. The car went to pieces and the three occupants were thrown out, but were not badly hurt.

They passed the night in the snow and ice among the Cairamella peaks, their only shelter being a tent which they made from the remains of the balloon. When the next day broke they began the descent of the mountain. They had gone hardly a mile when Charbonnet disappeared in a crevasse.

Ponta and Mme. Charbonnet wandered over the glacier during the rest of the day.

In the evening Ponta fell and broke his leg. The couple passed a second night in the snow and ice, and then Mme. Charbonnet went alone down the mountain to a hut, where she induced two guides to go back after her husband and Ponta. Charbonnet's dead body, with skull and limbs crushed, was found at the bottom of the crevasse.

Ponta was unconscious, but revived after he was taken to the hut.

White, manager of athletics at Harvard, after a conference with the Hampden park track committee, announced that the great Yale-Harvard football game will be played in this city on the Saturday before Thanksgiving. He has also secured an option on the park for next year.

Mr. White has already awarded the contract for erecting the seats, which will be built on a larger scale, so that the seating capacity will be increased from 10,000 to 25,000. Both the park officials and Mr. White declare themselves as perfectly satisfied with the terms of rental, but refuses to disclose the terms.

France Over-Demonstrative to Her Visitors.

All the Provinces Enthusiastic in Their Welcome to the Russians—The Masses to Take Part in the Reception in Paris.

PARIS, Oct. 17.—Preparations to receive the Russians were completed last night. The Lyons railway station is decorated profusely with bunting, trophies and flags, both inside and outside. A platform, to accomodate 2,500 persons, was erected so as to conceal the walls of the Mazas prison. The Rue de Lyon will be entered by the Russians between the pillars of an enormous arch. The avenue Ledru-Rollin, the boulevards and main streets are adorned with Venetian garlands and flags hang from the windows of hotels and private houses.

The cabinet arranged the programme of the fetes in Paris last evening. To-day President Carnot will receive Admiral Avelan at the Elysee and in the evening the public buildings will be illuminated. To-day, Saturday, Sunday and Monday will be holidays in government offices.

In consequence of the outcry raised by Henri Rochefort, Clemenceau and other radicals, that, at the gala performance, the opera must not be packed with the aristocrats of art and society, to the exclusion of the masses, "who pay in taxes the money now spent and in the event of war will seal with their blood the Franco-Russian alliance."

In view of this agitation the government has decided that all seats at the gala performance should be free, excepting only those reserved for the Russians.

Reports from the provinces show that throughout France the people are showing unprecedented enthusiasm in decorating and illuminating their towns and celebrating fetes.

The corporation of Algiers has presented to Admiral Avelan a solid silver tea service. In a speech at a banquet in St. Mande, a suburb of Paris, ex-Premier Goblet said last evening:

"The French nation have received the Russians with frank cordiality, only regretting that they do no not yet know whether their guests come as allies or simply friends."

THE TOULON RECEPTION.

A German Newspaper Which Sees Much to Regret in the Affair.

BERLIN, Oct. 17.—The Schlesische Zeitung, in Breslau, a journal often used by the foreign office, says of the Toulon demonstration:

"We regret the outburst of Chauvinism in Toulon. It is directed obviously against Germany and her allies despite Russian assurances of the czar's desire for peace. The French manifestations do not strengthen the hope of an early solution of the present strained international situation.

Toulon for a Repair Station.

BRUSSELS, Oct. 17.—The Paris correspondent of the Independance Belge has had an interview in Toulon with a high Russian naval officer, who said that the Russian squadron would visit Toulon again in November or December. The Russian squadron in the Mediterranean, he added, would select Villefranche, near Nice, as a naval station and would go to Toulon, probably, for any needed repairs.

The Toulon Demonstration.

TOULON, Oct. 17.—The Russian officers were escorted to the station last evening by a host of high officials. The locomotive was covered with the French and Russian colors. A band on the station platform played the Russian anthem as the train drew out, and the Russians bowed from the windows and shouted: "Vive la belle France!"

Porter, United States minister to Chili, recommending that congress make provision for a suitable monument to be erected in a cemetery at Valparaiso over the graves of the sailors who were killed in the battle between Capt. Porter's ship Essex and British men-of-war in 1814.

KINGSTON, N. Y., Oct. 17.—The Daughters of the Revolution yesterday celebrated the 115th anniversary of the burning of Kingston by the British.

SHARPERS INDISCRIMINATE.

United States Senators Receiving Green Goods Circulars.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—Washington has lately been flooded with green goods circulars. This city has hitherto been regarded as "immune" from this species of bunco business, but apparently it has been found that there are people even in Washington who do not read newspapers and can be taken in by the sawdust game. The sharps are indiscriminate in the distribution of their circulars. They are apparently working the directory in alphabetical order and have got down as far as "G." Some of the most distinguished men in the capital have not escaped. Senator Allison, of Iowa, the other day, was disagreeably astonished to find a packet of green goods circulars in his mail. Easton, Pa., appears to be the present base of operations of the confidence man. The trouble lies in the inability of the law to reach them. Mr. A. L. Drummond, chief of the secret service division of the treasury department, in his last annual report, urged the passage of a bill making it a misdemeanor to prepare or aid in the preparation of any paper, written or printed, or produced by any process in which is stated or can be plainly inferred that counterfeit or false money, under any name or title, in any manner, can be obtained. Such a bill was introduced in the senate by Senator Mandenson and referred to the committee on judiciary, but has not been acted upon.

DOWN AN EMBANKMENT

Another World's Fair Train Wrecked in the West.

Thirty Persons More or Less Injured, But Strange to Say No One Was Killed Outright—Two of the Coaches Burned.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 17.—The west-bound Chicago limited train on the Wabash road, filled with World's fair visitors, left the track one mile south of Nameoka, Ill., last night resulting in the injury of some 30 people.

The wreck is remarkable in some respects and is without parallel in that no one was killed out of the 450 passengers.

The train was making up 30 minutes lost time. After Nameoka had been passed there was a clear stretch of 12 miles of straight level road to east St. Louis. The engineer put on all force and the train was going 40 miles an hour when there was a sudden jar followed by the slowing of the train. The rails had spread behind the locomotive and the cars following went over a six foot embankment.

The buffet car behind the baggage car swung across the track and the gas tank exploded, setting fire to the first chair car and the buffet car, which were consumed.

The uninjured immediately set to work to rescue their less fortunate companions. Two physicians on the train did noble service.

While the excitement was at its highest pitch a train on the Big Four, only 30 yards away, came by at express speed and refused to stop in answer to a signal.

Aid had been sent for to St. Louis but did not arrive till 8 o'clock. At that hour a special train from St. Louis with physicians and nurses arrived and brought the injured to this city.

The injured, with the exception of Miss Ida Maurer, of New York, who was badly bruised, were all residents of the west and south.

The generally accepted opinion is that the speed and weight of the locomotive caused the rails to spread at a weak spot. For a dozen miles before reaching East St. Louis the tracks of the Chicago & Alton, the "Big Four" and the Wabash parallel each other, being only 30 yards apart, and every day a race occurs there to get into St. Louis junction first.

A dreadful loss of life was only prevented by the gradual slowing of the train. The wounded were cared for by the Wabash officials, the most severely injured being taken to St. Mary's hospital and the others to the hotels.

It is believed that none of the injured will die.

WEATHER INDICATIONS.

For New Jersey: Fair Tomorrow; slightly Warmer.

The position of Candidate Beekman against the race-tracks is unequivocal, fair and square.

Democrat George H. Cramer, for Assemblyman, will be re-elected on his record. He voted against the race-track legislation last winter.

In no uncertain words, but with all the earnestness and assurance of an honest man, H. M. T. Beekman, Democratic candidate for Senator from Somerset county, pledged himself to fight race-track legislation.

H. M. T. Beekman, who was nominated for Senator by the Somerset county Democrats yesterday, is a lawyer of ability and respectability, and since he openly and emphatically pledged himself not only for the principles of Democracy but also against race-track legislation he deserves the support and vote of every Democrat. North Plainfield did its duty in voting solidly for Mr. Keys, but since the majority went the other way the North Plainfield Democracy should swing unanimously into line for Beekman. And she will!

From the way some persons rant, one might think that it was The Press that had asked Rector Murphy to resign. Sensible people do not lose sight of the fact that the demand was made by members of his own parish, and that The Press has only reported the facts. The length of Rector Murphy's stay in Holy Cross church is a matter of supreme indifference to The Press, but as long as there is any contest over the matter and as long as the public is interested in that contest, just so long this paper intends to keep the people posted. The bluster and frenzy and personal villification made by irresponsible sheets that are struggling frantically by these and other desperate methods to build up some showing of a circulation, are not going to worry The Press into ceasing to be a newspaper.

The editor of The Press will not permit himself to sink to the level of those journalists who cannot publish a newspaper without daily abuse of their rivals. In his conduct of these columns he has carefully refrained from responding as he might to any of the personal abuse with which he has been continually assailed by persons jealous of a success which they cannot attain. Readers of such papers as those persons publish may be interested in the brawls of journalists of that type; readers of The Press are not. The Press owes it to its own self respect and dignity not to engage in any such spectacle. In leaving his opponents to contemplation of themselves, the editor of The Press would gently remind them, as a kindly warning, that for persons who persist in indulging in conduct such as theirs the State has provided two institutions—one at Trenton, and one at Morris Plains.

Sam Allen Again.

Court was held at the station house last night. A peddler who was selling his goods without a license was fined $1 and dismissed. Sam Allen, of pugilistic fame, was in trouble again for a row in the street. He pleaded not guilty and "Count" VanNess went his bail to the amount of $100. Sam says that the Kelleys, of Westfield, lay for him on every occasion and that the last row was their fault. The policeman thought otherwise and Sam will be tried for disturbing the peace, Saturday morning.

Relief For Rheumatism.

"This information," said a well-known physician to a correspondent of the Telegram, may save many lives; at any rate it will prove an invaluable boon to people suffering from rheumatism in any form."

"Rheumatism is caused by acidity of the blood. It should never be neglected. This remedy, as I know by long practice, is very efficacious and it is as simple as it is powerful."

"Here it is," he added, "when a rheumatic twinge is experienced, the patient should buy a bottle of Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy and take one teaspoonful in one-half glass of hot or cold water as best suits the action of the bowels, three times a day, and continue the same daily until the last vestige of the malady has disappeared. That is all there is to it, but if taken as I have prescribed, it will save suffering humanity many doctors' bills, to say nothing of pains, aches and swellings. I've never known it to fail."—Albany, N. Y. Telegram.

A BIRTHDAY ARREST.

SERIOUS CHARGES AGAINST WILLIAM L. PATTON.

The Well-Known Plainfielder Locked Up in Ludlow Street Jail Accused of Misappropriation of Funds—Says He Pledged the Securities Hoping to Save His Firm.

William L. Patton, of Plainfield, of the firm of W. L. Patton & Co., brokers, which did business at 6 Wall street, New York, has been lodged in Ludlow street jail, where he remains unable to give $15 000 bail. He was arrested on an order of Justice Patterson of the Supreme Court in a suit by the executors of the Robert Craig estate to recover $60,000, the value of securities held by the firm in a fiduciary capacity and as alleged misappropriated.

The estate, it is alleged, had deposited with Patton & Co., for safe keeping securities of southern railroads of the market value of $60,000. Patton on May 2 pledged them with the Holland Trust Company and the bank of the Manhattan Company for advances for his own benefit, embezzling and fraudulently misapply and appropriating the money to his own use. Patton admitted pledging the securities but said he did it in the hope of saving his firm. Patton & Co. failed May 5 with liabilities of $780,000 and available assets of $11,000.

The Craig estate claims that on the day before the failure $60,000 in securities due that estate were fraudulently disposed of to the Holland Trust Company and the Bank of the Manhattan Company.

That amount, it is claimed, was given for collateral on loans.

According to the report of the assignee appointed at the time of the failure, the liabilities of the firm amounted to $778,000 and the assets in cash to about $11 000.

When that condition of affairs became known to Patton's creditors, it is said he acknowledged that he had lost the money speculating in Cordage and Reading, and that if given an opportunity he would pay back dollar for dollar to all his creditors.

Overtures were made looking toward a settlement, but nothing came of them. Collector Kilbreth, who at that time had not been appointed to his present position, acted for Patton.

When the negotiations looking toward a settlement had fallen through the creditors of Patton decided to take more determined action.

He has wealthy relatives, among them an uncle, Ludlow Patton of Orange, who is reputed to be a millionaire.

It was probably with the idea that his relatives would come to the assistance of Mr. Patton that the order of arrest was asked for last week. It was issued by Justice Patterson of the Supreme Court.

Since then a deputy sheriff has been on the lookout for Patton, but because the latter lived in New Jersey did not succeed in effecting his capture until yesterday.

The creditors gave Mr. Patton the alternative of furnishing $15,000 bail or going to jail, and as the bail was not forthcoming he was locked up in Ludlow street jail.

An effort to see him there this morning proved fruitless. Patton sent out word that he did not care to make an explanation nor say anything at all about his case.

He is said to have explained that his difficulties began at the time of the Baring failure.

Patton was 49 years old yesterday, and so was arrested on his birthday.

Anderson vs. Pond Tool Company.

Judge VanSyckel this morning took the case of Anderson against The Pond Machine Tool Company away from the jury on the ground that Mr. Anderson was himself negligent, and also on the ground that his injuries were caused by the negligence of his fellow servants, for which the company were not responsible. The Judge recognized the fact that the questions were proper ones to be reviewed by the higher Court by stating that he would give Mr. Anderson's counsel every opportunity to review his decision in any way he desired. The case will be heard at the next term of the Court of Errors and Appeals at Trenton.

A Fortunate Fashion.

On account of the hard times, it is fortunate that black is to be fashionable this fall and winter, as with diamond dyes any woman can make her faded and dingy clothes a rich and handsome black.

There are three kinds of diamond dye fast blacks: for wool, for cotton and for silk and feathers. They are simple to use, and make colors that never fade, crock or wash out.

WIZARD FROM THE WEST.

He Astonishes Plainfield Natives by His Mind-Reading Ability.

J. Louis Kellogg, known as the Wizard of California, was stopping at Hotel Albion yesterday, and in the afternoon he gave a few of his startling experiments in mind-reading and legerdemain. Among the feats with which he amused and puzzled his audience one of the best was that of finding a scarf pin that had been carefully hidden by Col. King, the proprietor of the Albion, and one of the newspaper men present. Mr. Kellogg took the hand of the newspaper man and rushed him off up stairs, the interested spectators following as fast as they could.

The performer was thoroughly blindfolded but after a very short time he located the pin which was stuck in the frame of one of the windows in the hall on the second floor of the building.

After the excitement of the first mystery had subsided Mr. Kellogg entertained the audience with a number of clever card tricks and afterwards performed the ring trick and made some successful experiments in the spirit slate writings.

Plainfield at large may have an opportunity to witness some of these interesting things in a short time as Mr. Kellogg may come here and give a general entertainment. The celebrated carriage test where the performer finds articles hidden in various parts of the city is one of his best cards. Everything in the spiritualistic line is easy to Mr. Kellogg and he performs his feats with an ease and celerity that add greatly to the pleasure of the entertainment.

2 JOHNS AND 3 TOMS.

They and All the Other Sons of Rest Have a Glorious Night.

The letter carriers in town had a blow out last night. The occasion was the visit of some of the members of Branch No. 38, from Newark, of the National Association of Letter Carriers, and the report of T. H. Batterson who had come from the Letter Carriers Convention at Kansas City, Mo., and who represented the Plainfield carriers there. A dinner was served to the men and their guests in the lecture room at Reform Hall. The visitors were John Hood, T. H. Batterson, John Young, Thomas Hood and Thomas Bradbury. The three Toms and the two Johns sang something about "After a Ball", the two Hoods gave examples of vocal and instrumental music and Fat Hood sang "Paddy Duffy's Cats". John Young favored the others with a recitation entitled "Sydney's Tribulations."

The party broke up in time for the visitors to catch the 11:28 train home.

NOT GUILTY, BUT .....

QUEER VERDICT OF THE MOCK COURT TRIAL.

F. E. Marsh, Disguised as Grover Cleveland, Sits with Eleven Other Citizens to Decide Which of the Community's Two Mayors Tells the Biggest Yarn.

There is jubilation in the Borough. The slanderous charges brought against the Mayor over the brook have been proved unfounded. But still there is a drop of bitterness in the cup. Grave doubts have been uttered in regard to the sanity of the exemplary gentlemen on both sides. The fact that Mayor Gilbert suffers from acute monomania has been established by the most expert medical testimony and the jury were inclined to think that the same malady troubled Mr. Saunders. But let us follow the course of the trial that brought out more people than have been seen in Music Hall since The Old Homestead was here last. Indignation was rife in all hearts. The partisans of the Mayor on this side were indignant that he should have suffered the loss of a fowl that had been his playmate since the days of his early youth, and had been the companion of his father and grandfather before him. Mr. Saunders's sympathizers were indignant that that gentleman should be held accountable for any theft especially so great a one as that in question. They even went so far as to doubt whether Mr. Gilbert had ever owned a Plymouth Rock rooster, which supposition was amply supported by the evidence.

After the prosecution had endeavored to switch the Court off on several unimportant cases, the Gilbert-Saunders case was called. The gentlemen who officiated in the court and who were to decide the momentous question "Shall our hen roosts be protected?" were as follows:

Judge—Rowland Cox.
Complainant—Hon. Alexander Gilbert.
Defendant—Hon. W. L. Saunders.
Clerk of Court—S. B. Joseph.
Officer—Roger F. Murray.
Attorney for Prosecution—C. A. Marsh, Esq.
Attorney for Defence—Capt. A. V. Newton, Worcester.
Crier—W. R. Cock.
Witnesses—F. H. Andrews, S. St. J. McCutchen, Henry A. McGee, Wm. D. Murray, E. W. Hedges, M. D.
Jury—Frank E. Marsh, Charles J. Fisk, S. A. Ginna, J. E. Tracy, John M. Whiton, H. P. Reynolds, L. V. F. Randolph, O. T. Waring, John Leal, H. R. Munger, J. W. Murray, E. R. Pope, E. N. Erickson.

The judge, with solemn mien, read the indictment before the prisoner, who wore an air of conscious innocence. When asked how he would plead, Mr. Saunders replied with evident irritation at such a question "How can I tell? I have not heard the evidence". On being instructed by his counsel he entered the plea of "Not guilty".

The court crier then called the jury. The men who responded to the call made quite a representative gathering. They were: Grover Cleveland, Benjamin Harrison, David B. Hill, Thomas B. Reed, Hoke Smith, William McKinley, John L. Sullivan, J. J. Corbett, Richard Croker, Adonis Dixie and Daniel Burns.

Many of the above were objected to for various reasons but the Judge overruled the objections and the jury remained as it was originally drawn. Benjamin Harrison was objected to on the grounds that he was a man of common sense and therefore was disqualified from sitting on a hen case in Plainfield. When Grover Cleveland was asked if he had formed an opinion on the case in question he replied that he never formed opinions on any questions. When asked if he had conscientious scruples about sitting on a poultry question he seemed doubtful as to what was meant. Not having scruples or opinions he was made foreman of the jury.

The prosecution opened the case by putting the complainant on the stand. His evidence made things look very dark for Mr. Saunders, but his followers were not daunted by the seemingly damaging statements.

Mr. Gilbert's evidence elicited by much questioning on the part of his counsel, was in the main as follows: "The rooster in question",—said Mr. Gilbert,—"was an heirloom. It had been the playmate of my youth and of my father's youth and of his father's. Tradition has it that he was one of the pair that came from the ark. At any rate he was a lineal descendent. Of this I am certain, that my rooster came in the Mayflower and gave the name to Plymouth Rock. It was thought at one time that the rooster might have been named for the rock but students tell us this is a mistake. The defendant, Saunders, had often cast sheeps eyes at this rooster and longed for his possession." Here the opposing counsel objected. He said that his client could not cast sheeps eyes as he was a man simply and had no mutton about him. The objection was allowed.

Mr. Gilbert continued—"The defendant called upon me several times in regard to buying the rooster. Once at the Mayor's Office; where I told him I could not discuss such things as roosters; once at the bank and afterwards at the house. Mr. Saunders said he wanted that rooster very badly, and when I pressed him for a reason he acknowledged that he wished to have it for nefarious cock-fighting. He also made the statement that he had a rooster that was the exact counterpart of mine. I asked him why he did not fight his own rooster. He said that his rooster was no good; that it had crowed so hard and long at the last Democratic election that there was no fight left in it. I then reasoned with him and told him what I thought of cock fighting as a sport. I asked him why he did not set a good example to the borough and tame bronchos as Sam McCutchen did. He replied that a good example was lost in the borough and that he would rather go through an election than ride Sam's broncho. Mr. Saunders also added that no one was of any account over the brook unless he owned a fighting cock, that all arguments were futile and that he must have that rooster by fair means or foul and considering the nature of the animal in question they would probably be foul. He went so far as to say that every desire of his heart was filled except the desire for that rooster and that he must have it. His own rooster was a fool rooster and had a mad desire to incubate and went around sitting on croquet balls and loose door knobs."

"Did anyone else ever offer to buy your rooster?"—asked Mr. Marsh.

"Oh yes"—said the complainant.—"Mr. Miller of the Netherwood wanted him for a standing dish at the hotel, he was so tough, and Mr. Force, of The Press, offered to buy him to put at the head of his columns."

Q. "Now will you tell the Court what took place on the night of the 24th of December?"

A. "Some friends had been in calling and after they had gone and I had retired my wife woke me and told me there was some one at the hen house. I dressed and went out and found a man being chased around the roost by my dog. I started in the chase, but soon the man got away, leaving his coat in the possession of the dog. The man, whom I recognized as Saunders, the defendant, climbed on the ridge pole of the chicken house and sat there swearing at me. He had a bag over his shoulder. I stood below and threw some sticks of wood from a pile I keep there for my friends, at the defendant as he sat on the ridge pole. One of the sticks hit the bag and immediately there arose a voice that I recognized as my rooster. This made me so mad that I went into the house to get my gun, and when I came back the man was gone."

Q. "Would you be willing to swear to the identity of the prisoner?"

A. "Positively."

Cross questioning by the opposite counsel did not succeed in phasing the complainant in the least. When asked his occupation he gave a list of a few dozen offices he held, to which the counsel replied "A sort of Postmaster Pope, eh?"

The next witness sworn was S. St. John McCutchen, alias Broncho Sam. He testified that on the night in question he had been at the Union County Country Club and that when he had started from the club he was pointed toward Somerset county. He met the defendant on Central avenue and followed him toward North Plainfield. He saw the defendant enter his house and by looking in through the window he was able to see Mr. Saunders take a rooster from the bag. The next day he heard that there was to be a cock fight back of the Holy Cross church; he paid his dollar and went there and saw Mr. Saunders with the rooster and heard him say "I'll bet $10 that he will win." Among those that Sam saw at the fight were Dr. Carroll, Dave Carney, Sam Randolph, P. M. French and Harry Runkle. About this time Marshal Pangborn came up and dispersed the crowd.

On cross questioning, Sam acknowledged that he did not remember very well what happened the night in question.

F. Andrews testified against the character of the defendant and said that when he had moved away from a Vermont town where the chicken business had been bad that it suddenly improved.

Roger Murray, the policeman, swore that he was an American born, which surprised the Court. He told how he had arrested Saunders and had refused the bribe of $4.50 which was offered him. Said it was not enough. On searching Saunders at the station house he found among other things a ticket to Canada without any return coupon.

This ended the prosecution. It seemed a pretty strong case but Mr. Saunders stepped to the witness stand with a smile and told his story. He said he had been in Plainfield the night of the 24th. He had been talking with Mr. Fisk about the change of the county line, so they could use Green brook for a sewer. On his way home he had seen Broncho Sam in a woful condition and had piloted him home. Mr. Saunders utterly repudiated the statements of Mr. Gilbert. He had never talked with him on the subject of roosters. He said that he had a rooster himself that he had bought from W. D. Murray, but that he did not believe that Mr. Gilbert had ever owned a rooster at all.

Mr. Saunders's counsel looked pleased "Now will you tell the court"—said he—"whether or not you were at the cock fight?" "I was"—said the Mayor. His counsel looked sad, but the defendant explained his presence there. He said he was simply out walking with his rooster as was his habit and the rooster started to run. Mr. Saunders followed him and was heard to remark that he bet $10 that the rooster would beat him running. The defendant soon found himself in the crowd where the fight was going on and when the police came up he was unjustly apprehended.

Cross examination failed to confuse him.

Dr. Hedges stated that to the best of his medical and personal belief, Mr. Gilbert had never owned a rooster, and that he was suffering from mono-mania in the belief that one had been stolen from him. He said such cases were not uncommon. He gave some of his reasons for believing Mr. Gilbert a mono-maniac.

When asked in cross-questioning how much such testimony cost, he promptly replied "$50".

William Murray was next put on the stand and testified that he had sold the rooster to the defendant and that he would like to be paid for it.

H. A. McGee gave some unimportant testimony.

The summing up for the defense was magnificent, and the counsel carried the Court and jury with him all the way through. The prosecution submitted its case without argument. The Judge did all in his power to keep the jury from understanding anything about the case, and the jury retired. There was some bickering between the counsel that was productive of mirth, and the jury returned and said that they had come to a good many conclusions. "It is a theory and not a condition that confronts us," said the foreman. "We have come to the conclusion that the rooster in question is a hen, and that both the complainant and the defendant are of unsound mind; therefore we recommend that both be sent to the Morris Plains Lunatic Asylum as soon as possible."

The Judge complimented the jury upon the decision, the prosecuting attorney called for a new trial, the defendant fell into the arms of his counsel, and the audience filed out.

THE IDEAL EMPLOYER.

Pastor Richardson's Fifth Sermon on Domestic Subjects—Crisp Suggestions For Men Who Hire Help.

The text of the Rev. J. W. Richardson, Sunday night in the Park Avenue Baptist church, was Luke VI:31:

"As ye would that men should do to you, do ye also to them likewise."

Put yourself in his place—said the clergyman—do by him as you would like to be done by, is as good a rule for the employer as for the employe. If the employer may demand that the employe be faithful to his interests, so may the employe demand that the employer be just as considerate of his interests. The text, is in itself, a whole sermon, teaching men in authority how they should deal with their subordinates. It is God's voice to the employer warning him against that grasping, capricious, avaricious disposition, which exasperates his subordinates, and leads them into harsh and sinful thoughts. To a large extent the employer is his brother's keeper. His manner towards his help will do very much towards making the employe a good citizen, accessible to Christian influences, or the reverse. All the socialists are not imported: some are made such by the attitude of their employers. The Ideal Employer will set an example of honesty. I tell you business men, some of your subordinates are copying your example. If they think you shrewd, naturally they will copy your ways, in order to gain the same success. If in after years, some of these clerks, or shop hands, have been led into ruin by the start which they got in your store or factory, at the Judgment God will ask why you tripped up their character. I tell you gentlemen, you violate the rule of my text if you transmit moral small-pox to the hearts of your subordinates, when you should have given them the elixir of life. The ideal employer will never over-estimate the value of his goods, or use chicanery in selling, or juggle his pay-roll. Thousands of young men and women are being molded by the habits and customs which prevail in your stores and shops. Contact with their employers will increase their love of integrity and honor, or they will form the idea that sharpness and trickery are not so very bad. O business men, upon which track are you switching the express train of your employes' lives? These men and women in the store, shop and office, are going to hate dishonest ways and regard high principles, just in proportion as they see your rank and influence thrown on the side of right. It is a burning shame for merchants and manufacturers to educate such multitudes to false ideas of honesty, and as to what constitutes sound morals. Some employers teach their help, by their own unworthy examples, that it is not necessary to respect either the laws of God or man. In New York city, a young man after several years service with a business house, was arrested for embezzlement. On the day of his trial, his former employers with much bitterness and vehemence testified against their former employe, and how he had wronged them. By and by the former clerk took the stand in his own defence. Turning to those men for whom he had worked, he said, "I have wronged you, you say, I have stolen money from you—who taught me to steal? Did you not tell me it was right to get the best of a man if it could be done? You say I have squandered your money gambling and visiting brothels; well who taught me to go to such places? Did n't you tell me to go there and show our out-of-town customers the sights? Yes you—you, taught me all the steps of sin and said it was business. My character is ruined, but it is you who have wronged me." I say it is a shame for employers to ask any employe to do that which will despoil his character. It is a burning shame for any employer to set before his help an example that makes them familiar with the ways of sin. It is an eternal wrong for an employer to steal the manhood or womanhood of an employe and hope from his or her soul. I tell you gentlemen, God looks upon a wrong done to the weak, and those in your service, as a wrong done unto Himself.

But I rejoice in the fact that there are ideal employers: men who can say, "I never asked my employe to put cheap work into his job. I never asked my clerk to sell a dishonest pound of groceries. I never asked an employe to call thirty-four inches a yard, nor ten a dozen. I have never asked my help to take mean advantage of other people, neither have I ever taken mean advantage of my help". Yes 'tis true, an employer can have the respect, and love, of all his subordinates—the secret! Let him do unto others what he would like to have them do unto him. O harmonize your religion and business, and you will have less anxiety about your death and eternity, and less irritation in your intercourse with the help. If you make "religion of your business, and business of your religion, your wits will be keener: your temper sweeter: your transactions better balanced: and your help contented", as has been patly said. Bona fide religion never injures a man's business prospects, nor chills the affection of his help for him. But it is true, that employes hate hypocrites. T. C. Pollock was president of the St. Nicholas bank, New York city. In the intense life of Wall street he found time to pray. He never transacted any important business, without first mentally asking God to help him. On all the papers sent out of the bank was this private mark "W. G. B", meaning "With God's blessing". As the faith-cure people go to God for the cure of disease, so he went with financial difficulties. And when he died, the rich and poor gathered about his coffin and said, "Honorable in business; loving towards all; a true Christian, and an ideal employer". If Christ could dwell in Wall street, and make that man honored and successful, certainly He can stand with you in your store, help you in your office, and make you loving and true in your factory. There is not a grander tribute possible, than to have some horny-handed, begrimed son-of-toil say, "He is an upright man: an honest citizen: and very kind to his help, sir".

The Juniors' Delegates.

Among the delegates who will attend the twenty-fifth annual session of the State Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., to be held in Masonic Temple, Trenton, Thursday, October 26, are the following from the several councils in this vicinity: H. G. Adams and D. S. Dunavan, of Franklin Council, No. 41, of this city; J. D. Anderson and G. T. Dunham, of Somerset, No 104, North Plainfield; G. W. Day and J. R. Dunham, of Friendship, No. 81, New Market; F. W. Vail and G. E. Lowrie, of William G. Holton, No. 55, Dunellen; W H. Ward and R. B. Shove, of Central, No. 131, Westfield.

Reports by Plainfield Delegates.

At the young people's meeting in Trinity Reformed church, last evening, Miss P Mills and Miss F. Mattison, delegates for the society, gave very interesting and helpful reports of the State Christian Endeavor Convention held in Trenton, last week.

Self Praise.

Self praise is no recommendation, but there are times when one must permit a person to tell the truth about himself. When what he says is supported by the testimony of others no reasonable man will doubt his word. Now, to say that ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS are the only genuine and reliable porous plasters made is not self praise in the slightest degree. They have stood the test for over 30 years and in proof of their merits it is only necessary to call attention to the cures they have effected and to the voluntary testimonials of those who have used them.

Beware of imitations, and do not be deceived by misrepresentation. Ask for ALLCOCK'S, and let no solicitation or explanation induce you to accept a substitute.

HENRY VS. CLARKSON.

Verdict in Favor of Mrs. Henry.

$200 damages was the verdict won by Mrs. John Henry before Judge Vanderpool and a county jury yesterday. She brought suit because Thomas Clarkson, while firing a revolver at a mark, accidentally struck her in the back of the neck. The bullet made a flesh wound which has since healed up. Craig A. Marsh was her lawyer. Mr. Clarkson had W. R. Codington and R. V. Lindabury.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—Gazelle engine will be taken out for a wash Friday evening and to show a delegation of out-of-town firemen what a splendid condition the steamer is in.

—The annual meeting of the Automatic Feed Bag Company, with main office in New York, was set down for yesterday at noon, at the office of Geo. W. Moore, East Front street. The object of the meeting was to elect officers, etc., but Mr. Moore was notified by telegram that the meeting had been indefinitely postponed.

HOW TO GET THERE.

The World's Fair a Success, But It Will Soon Close Its Gates Forever.

The grandest exhibition of our time and possibly for many generations to come will soon be brought to an end. There remains but one month in which to visit this marvelous gathering of the world's productions, and everybody should strain a point to go to Chicago.

The railroad fare heretofore has been considered a hindrance to all classes, but this has all been changed, and on the following days in October the West Shore railroad will run high-class excursions on its fast express trains in through cars at one-half its lowest fare, i. e., $17, from New York to Chicago and return, and proportionately lower rates from points along its lines. These magnificent excursion trains will be in charge of an agent whose duty it is to care for the interests of the company's patrons en route, to furnish detailed information as to accommodations obtainable in Chicago and to point out the historic points along the grand old Hudson and through the picturesque Mohawk Valley.

These trains will leave Franklin street, New York, at 10 a. m., and West 42d st., at 10:10 as follows: Saturday, October 14; Thursday, October 19, and the last, Monday, October 23.

If readers will just take trouble to call at any West Shore office they will be received with the usual courtesy that characterizes the employes of this superb route, (over which a journey of the kind referred to can be made with considerable ease, owing to the fact that the management of the West Shore railroad has spared no expense to make it the easiest running and safest road in the world), and furnish any information desired appertaining to this trip.

The Light That Gilds Our Sorrow.

There is no heart but hath its inner anguish,
There is no eye but hath with tears been wet,
There is no voice but hath been heard to languish
O'er hours of darkness it can never forget.

There is no cheek, however bright its roses,
But perished buds beneath its hues are hid;
No eye that in its dewy light reposes
But broken starbeams tremble 'neath its lid.

There is no lip, howe'er with laughter ringing,
However light and gay its words may be,
But it hath trembled at some dark upspringing
Of stern affliction and deep misery.

We are all brothers in this land of dreaming,
Yet hand meets hand, and eye to eye replies!
Nor deem we that beneath a brow all beaming
The flower of life in broken beauty lies.

Oh! blessed light that gilds our night of sorrow,
Oh! balm of Gilead for our healing found,
We know that peace will come with thee to-morrow,
And that afflictions spring not from the ground.

Power of Short Words.

Think not that strength lies in the big round word,
Or that the brief and plain must needs be weak.
To whom can this be true who once has heard
The cry for help, the tongue that all men speak
When want or woe or fear is in the throat,
So that each word gasped out is like a shriek
Pressed from the sore heart or a strange, wild note
Sung by some fay or fiend? There is a strength
Which dies if stretched too far or spun too fine,
Which has more height than breadth, more depth than length.
Let but this force of thought and speech be mine,
And he that will may take the sleek, fat phrase
Which glows and burns not, though it gleam and shine—
Light, but not heat—a flash, but not a blaze!
Nor is it more strength that the short word boasts;
It serves of more than fight or storm to tell,
The roar of waves that clash on rockbound coasts,
The crash of tall trees when the wild winds swell,
The roar of guns, the groans of men that die
On blood stained fields. It has a voice as well
For them that far off on their sick beds lie,
For them that weep, for them that mourn the dead,
For them that laugh and dance and clap the hand;
To joy's quick step, as well as grief's slow tread,
The sweet, plain words we learnt at first keep time,
And though the theme be sad or gay or grand,
With each, with all, these may be made to chime,
In thought or speech or song, in prose or rhyme.

—Joseph Addison Alexander.

The Saddest Part.

When little Bess was but a child,
She came to me one day
And laid her head upon my cheek
In her sweet baby way.

"Papa," she said, "I want a doll."
What could her papa do?
With heart quite full of parent love
I straightway bought her two.

The years sped on. The crown of youth
Lay on her maiden brow.
Again she came unto me and said,
"I want a pony now."

The pony came. How glad was I
To see her happy face!
And on my wrinkled heart there lay
No blighting sorrow's trace.

Alas! how easy 'tis to give
Our treasures of the heart
To those we love, but, oh, how hard
It is from them to part.

For yesterday she came again,
Just as a child of three,
And blushing said, "He's there down stairs,
O Papa, and he wants me."

When I began using Ely's Cream Balm my catarrh was so bad I had headache the whole time and discharged a large amount of filthy matter. That has almost entirely disappeared and I have not had headache since. J. H. Sommers, Stephney, Conn.

A cold of unusual severity developed into a difficulty decidedly catarrhal in all its characteristics, threatening a return of my old chronic malady, catarrh. One bottle of Ely's Cream Balm completely eradicated every symptom of that painful and prevailing disorder. E. W. Warner, Rochester, N. Y.

THIRTEEN MORE VICTIMS.

Further Intelligence of the Work of the Storm on the Lakes.

BUFFALO, Oct. 17.—Thirteen more victims have been added to the already long list of fatalities resulting from the terrific northwest gale that swept the great lakes Saturday and Sunday last. It is now definitely known that the steamer Wocoken from Cleveland foundered in ten fathoms of water just above Long Point on the northen coast of Lake Erie carrying down with her all but three of her crew of 16 souls.

The last few weeks of the navigation season of 1893 will live long in the memory of the lake mariners, for no such awful list of fatalities has been known in shipping circles for a decade as the one to which additions are being made daily, as reports come in giving details of the terrific gale that swept the inland seas steadily for more than 48 hours at the close of last week.

The story of the fate of the Dean Richmond in Lake Erie and the Minnehaha in Lake Michigan is supplemented by the news of the loss of one or two lives from a number of vessels composing the lake fleet, and now comes the loss of the Wocoken with its cargo of human souls. It is two early to attempt to estimate the money loss by the sinking of small craft at various points in the chain of the great lakes from Duluth to the mouth of the St. Lawrence. All incoming vessels are minus part of their rigging, are badly stove in or otherwise show marks of their terrible experience with the wind and heavy seas.

STORM AT SARANAC LAKE.

Many Houses and Barns Blown Down. Snow on the Mountains.

SARANAC LAKE, N. Y., Oct. 17.—The greatest wind storm of the decade ended last night.

Many houses and barns were blown down, also telegraph lines. Snow, which followed, covered the mountains.

Drowned While Searching for Bodies.

DUNKIRK, N. Y., Oct. 17.—While searching for bodies from the wrecked propeller Dean Richmond the boat capsized and George Thurber, Frank Cahoon and George Mann were drowned.

WIPED OUT BY DYNAMITE.

Property and Lives Lost By an Explosion at Emington, Ill.

EMINGTON, Ill., Oct. 17.—The entire business portion of Emington was wrecked last night by a premature explosion of dynamite. Five people were killed and five were injured, two of whom cannot live.

Others received bruises by the awful shock. Two men were digging a well and to further their work they filled a gas-pipe two feet long and one and a quarter inches in diameter with dynamite, and were tapping it when it exploded, throwing the men and landing them over 50 feet from the spot where they were working. All of kiled were horribly mangled. Hats, shoes and pieces of cloth were scattered around the streets.

Every windowlight in the town was shattered by the shock. Curious people were attracted to the town by the shock, which was felt at a distance of five miles.

Stories of Children to Touch the Heart

PARENTS WHO READ THESE LINES WILL FIND FOOD FOR THOUGHT.

There Can Be Nothing More Interesting Than That Concerning Children.

LITTLE ETHEL MAY WATSON.

"My little daughter, Ethel May," said Mrs. H. H. Watson, of 153 Blooming dale st., Worcester Mass., "was terribly and alarmingly sick. She had twenty-six convulsions in two years; her nerves were very weak, her appetite very bad; she could not sleep nights, her limbs would draw up and she suffered, oh! so much! She was as yellow as saffron and weak and delicate, Our local doctors gave her up saying she could not be cured.

"But, thanks to a wonderful medicine, she is now perfectly well and healthy. This remedy is Dr. Greene's Nervura and nerve remedy and it has completely cured my little girl."

Mrs. Henry Fry, who lives at 4 Flint Place, South Boston, Mass., writes:

"My daughter, 12 years old, became affected with St. Vitus dance. I at once placed her under the care of physicians at the Boston Dispensary, where she was treated for 3 months. She grew worse until she entirely lost her speech and the right arm became useless. I tried other remedies without benefit; finally I began the use of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, and before finishing 1 bottle she could talk. She has now used 6 bottles and she talks as well as ever, has perfect use of her arm, and is wonderfully improved in all respects.

"The effects of this wonderful medicine in her case has excited great interest in many neighbors and friends who are acquainted with the facts."

Mrs. E. J. Emigh, who resides at 318 Delaware ave., Pittston, Pa., says: "My daughter at the age of 14 years, was suffering with a nervous disease, at times unable to walk or talk and was constantly in motion night and day.

"After trying all the physicians at home and all failing to benefit her, I tried Dr Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy and it worked like magic; she has taken 3 bottles and is now a strong, health girl. I can truly say that this wonderful remedy is the best thing for nervous diseases."

J. W. Cottrell, of Matamoras, Pa., says:

"It affords me pleasure to add my testimonial in favor of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. Both my wife and daughter were greatly benefitted by its use. My wife was confined to her bed three months or more with inflammation about the womb, the local physicians being of very little use. Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy got her around. The little girl had a stroke of partial paralysis and was unable to hold the urine. This wonderful remedy cured her when the doctors could not."

LITTLE LOTTIE MAY COTTRELL.

There is no mistaking the fact that this is the true children's medicine, and that it occupies in the household the position of the best and surest family remedy. It is perfectly harmless to give to nervous, restless, sleepless and sick infants and children of any age, being made from pure and health-giving vegetable medicines.

If your child is sick, send instantly to your druggist for a bottle of this wonderful curer of disease, and when you see your darling gain steadily in health and strength day by day, you, like thousands of other parents, will bless the day you learned of its marvelous curative properties. It is recommended by doctors; indeed, it is the discovery of an eminent physician, Dr. Greene, of 35 W 14th st., New York, the successful specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases, and he can in all cases be consulted free, personally or by letter.

DEATH OF MAC MAHON

France Loses One of Her Once Notable Figures.

He Was One of the Greatest Men in the History of the Country, Probably, Excepting Napoleon—Brief Sketch of His Interesting Career.

PARIS, Oct. 18.—The death of Marshal MacMahon removes one of the greatest men, probably, in the history of France, excepting that of Napoleon.

His demise, coming at the time of the unusual demonstrations accorded to the visiting Russians, has mingled the bitter with the sweet, and the French nation today is divided between sorrow and happiness.

Marie-Edmond-Patrice-Maurice-de-MacMahon, duke of Magenta, marshal of France, ex-senator, and ex-president of the French republic, was born at Sully, in the Saone et Loire, on July 13, 1808. He was descended from an ancient Catholic family of Ireland which followed the Stuarts into exile.

The son of a French peer, one of the personal friends of Charles X., young MacMahon, after passing through the military school of Saint Cyr, was placed in the corps of the guards, and had his first military experience in Africa. He passed rapidly through all the grades and became general of brigade in 1848, when he became administrator of the subdivision of Tlemsen. He had been created an officer of the Legion of Honor in 1837.

Gen. MacMahon saw his first military service against Europeans in the Crimean war in 1855, where he was placed in command of the division of infantry in the corps of Marshal Bosquet. To him was committed the perilous honor of capturing the Malakoff. After a furious resistance, which lasted for hours, the Russians were compelled to retreat, thus giving up one of the keys to the fortifications of the city. For this exploit MacMahon received the thanks of the French and the grand cross of the Legion of Honor.

His next services were in Africa, where he commanded a division in the Kabylie expedition. He drove these tribesmen, who have recently been giving trouble to the Spaniards, from their positions. In the Italian war in 1859 MacMahon took a distinguished part in the victory of Magenta, and Napoleon III. made him a duke and marshal.

In 1864 MacMahon was made governor-general of Algeria, where he put in force a military administration of such rigor as to call forth accusations from Mgr. Lavigarie, the great anti-slavery prelate, who hinted that the governor-general showed an inclination to establish something like an Arab kingdom.

When the cabinet of Emile Olliver came into power a strong party in the chamber declared in favor of a purely civil government for Algiers. MacMahon wanted to resign, but the government refused to allow him to do so, and insisted on his remaining to put the new regime in force.

When the war with Prussia broke out in 1870 MacMahon was recalled to France and put at the head of the 1st army corps, which had charge of the defense of Alsace. On Aug. 4 his advance guard was defeated at Weisenbourg, and two days later the Crown Prince Frederick defeated him at Woerth, Reichoffen and Frescheweiller, compelling him to abandon the line of the Vosges.

MacMahon had only 35,000 Frenchmen to pit against 75,000 Germans. He made a clever retreat with the remains of his army upon Chalons and took command of the new army which was organized there.

Against his protest he was ordered to join Marshal Bazaine at Metz.

Learning on Aug. 27 that the Prussians, instead of marching on Paris, had turned north, MacMahon concentrated his troops at Sedan, where, on Aug 31, his body of 120,000 men was attacked on Sep. 1 by 180,000 Germans. Early in the day the marshal was severely wounded. He gave up the command to Ducrot, but Gen. Wimpffen arrived with orders from Paris and insisted on taking command.

In the meantime Napoleon, whose general quarters were at Sedan, gave the order to retire within the place. An unconditional capitulation of the emperor and the French army was signed by Gen. Wimpffen, and the wounded MacMahon was carried off to remain in Germany until after the signature of the preliminaries of peace in 1871.

MacMahon's first duty on returning to France was to come to the assistance of Thiers, who appealed to him for assistance against the commune in a document in which he called him a soldier "without fear and without reproach." On May 28 he was master of Paris.

After innumerable efforts had been made to get him into politics, upon the weakening of the Thiers administration MacMahon found himself the acknowledged representative of the French army, and on the night of May 24, 1873, he was elected president of France, without having asked for it, by a vote of 390 out of 392 who voted. The entire left had abstained from voting.

M. De Broglie was placed by the marshal at the head of the new government. His earlier administration was taken up largely with the work of civil reorganization and the re-establishment of the French army. On the 6th of November following, MacMahon appealed to the assembly to give him such a lease of authority as would enable him to bring order out of the existing chaos of French affairs.

It was at this point that the Comte de Chambord approached MacMahon with proposals for the re-establishment of a monarchy. But he refused to give his countenance to any such plan.

Condolence for Mme. MacMahon.

HE GAVE THEIR PLANS AWAY.

Indiana Prisoners Attempt to Hang One of Their Number.

BRAZIL, Ind., Oct. 18.—The sheriff yesterday discovered a plot concocted by the prisoners in the county jail to hang one of their number. About a month ago an attempt was made at jail delivery, and everything had been skilfully planned. Among the prisoners were three charged with murder and two with train wrecking. William Houston, charged with larceny, and one of the promoters of the escape, weakened and told the sheriff of what was being done. The other prisoners determined to hang Houston. They had arranged a strong rope of strips of bed clothing and were going to commit the deed last night. Houston had been sentenced to the penitentiary, and had been removed from the jail in time to prevent the deed.

WANT LEGITIMATE PROFIT.

Minnesota Farmers Struggling With the Corporations.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—A press St. Paul, Minn., special says that a call has been issued for a grain growers' meeting at Crookston on Oct. 26. The call recites that it is believed that there will be a shortage of over 25,000,000 bushels in the wheat crop of the two Dakotas and Minnesota, and the meeting at Crookston is projected for the purpose of devising ways and means for reducing transportation charges on grain, and to compel railroads, millers and dealers to do business on a basis of legitimate profit, based on the same average profit on the actual capital invested in railroads, elevators and mills as the average net profit made on capital invested in farm property in the state of Minnesota.

CLOSING DAY, OCT. 30.

Chicago's Great Exposition Will End on That Date.

CHICAGO, Oct. 18.—Invitations were sent yesterday to President Cleveland and members of his cabinet asking them to take part in the celebration of the close of the fair on Columbus day, Monday, October 30. During the day the council of administration settled the question as to whether the close should be October 30, as given in the congressional act, or October 31, as was intended by the congressmen who drew it up. It was decided to follow the strict letter of the law and fix the day for October 30, continuing the last formalities over until noon of the 31st and making the hour of closing to correspond with the hour of formal opening.

Secretary Smith Makes War on Sooners and Swindlers.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—A press Perry, O. T., special says: Word has been received here that two commissioners are on the way from Washington for the purpose of investigating the legality of several thousand claims on the Cherokee strip. It is said that Secretary Smith is determined to oust not only the thousands of sooners holding claims, but also those who purchased claims from sooners. Squatters will also be evicted. In Perry alone there are nearly 1,000 claims. For some of the desirable lots near the Capital square there are as many as sixteen claimants. Town lots are being sold for prices ranging from $250 to $3,000 each.

Borden House Rented.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Oct. 18.—The Borden house on Second street, where the horrible double murder of Mr. and Mrs. Borden was committed a year ago last August, and which has been "for sale or to let" since the Misses Emma and Lizzie Borden left it and took up their residence in a more fashionable locality, some three months ago, was rented yesterday. The house has been refitted to contain two tenements, and a livery stable keeper and a local grocer have hired them.

A DAY FOR SARCASMS

A Somewhat Interesting Debate in the Senate.

Nothing, of Course, Accomplished in the Silver Fight—Mr. Sherman Makes the Great Speech of the Day.

Only Calm in the House.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—The most interesting and important debate that has been heard in the senate chamber during the present session was the one that took place yesterday. Mr. Dolph, (rep., Ore.) had made a point on Monday evening that the two populist senators—Allen, of Nebraska, and Kyle, of South Dakota—had not answered to their names, although they were present, and he contended that their presence should be entered in the journal. Around that question the parliamentary struggle waged all day, and bristled with bitter sarcasms, jibes and personalities.

Mr. Dolph having expressed himself as "tired" of all the obstruction, was told by Mr. Harris (dem., Tenn.) that if he was tired he had better sit down and rest, and that would be a relief to the senator himself and to the senate.

Mr. Hoar made a statement that "on all questions which effect the welfare of the American people by rules, through rules, or over rules, by the senate, through the senate, or over the senate, the irresistible will of the American people will have its way."

Mr. Hill, (dem., N. Y.,) argued in favor of Mr. Dolph's contention, and said that the art of "how not to do it" seemed to be the effort of the senate.

Mr. Morgan, (dem., Ala.,) spoke of Mr. Hill as a New York politician who had introduced the heresy of counting a quorum when he was president of the New York senate.

Mr. Hill retorted, ironically, that there was no politicians in Alabany. There they were all statesmen; and he twitted Mr. Morgan's expressed reverence for the constitution of the United States by suggesting that, for a certain portion of that senator's career, he had been supporting another constitution.

Mr. Morgan spent a deal of time over what he called a coalition between democratic and republican senators and when Mr. Washburn (rep. Minn.) denied that there was any such coalition, he was tartly stopped by Mr. Morgan, who said that he had not had the thought in his mind of the Minnesota senator, as one of the republi leaders.

Then an allusion to the influence of national banks in getting up the coalition was presented by Mr. Gray, who said that it was not true, and when Mr. Morgan asked him if he wanted to make a personal matter of it Mr. Gray modified the remark, by saying that, so far as he was concerned, it was not true.

Mr. Washburn, having declared his resolve not to be stampeded or insulted, he was told by Mr. Morgan that he was responsible for what he said either in the senate or outsine and added: "You understand that—perfectly responsible."

The great speech of the day was made by Mr. Sherman. He criticised the democratic senators very severely for their failure to come to some agreement themselves, and counselled them to do so.

Without arriving at any decision on the question the senate, at 5:30 p. m., took a recess until 10 a. m.

The House.

While the storm is raging in the senate there is a great calm in the house. Monday the important bill extending for six months the time when the Chinese might be permitted to register, was passed without opposition. Yesterday a bill dispensing with proof of loyalty in the cases of persons who before the war were entitled to pensions or to bounty lands, was objected to by Mr. Burrows (rep., Mich.) as far as the pension clause was concerned. Thereupon Mr. Oates, who had charge of the measure, courteously withdrew the pension clause and the bill was passed. Then came up the proposition for the better control of national banks, and after a cordial exchange of views between its supporters and opponents, it was agreed to without even a division. The remainder of the day was consumed in the consideration of the public printing bill. Without disposing of it, the House at 5 o'clock adjourned.

A CHANCE FOR CHING GUN.

To Be Given a Rehearing and May Not Be Deported.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 18.—United States Marshal Colsberry has received an order from Attorney-General Olney to bring back to this city Ching Gun, who, with Ah Me, were directed by United States Commissioner Edmunds to be deported to China for being unlawfully in this country. Both started on Saturday for San Francisco by way of New Orleans.

After they had gone Lawyer Thomas White made an unsuccessful attempt to have Ching Gun brought back. Judge Dallas, before whom the application was made, decided that he had no jurisdiction.

Then the attorney appealed to the authorities at Washington and was there successful as above stated. The marshal, on receiving the order, telegraphed to Deputy Kiefer at New Orleans to have Ching Gun locked up in prison and then to proceed with Ah Me to San Francisco. After that to return to New Orleans, get Ching Gun and bring him to the city. The Chinaman is to be given a rehearing. It is alleged that he can show by competent witnesses that he had arrived in the country prior to 1882.

The bill authorizes the secretary of the treasury to admit free of duty all articles imported for exhibition and allows the removal from Chicago to New York of articles imported and now on exhibition there. It is also made lawful to sell, for delivery at the close of the exhibition, any of the goods imported.

Newspapers Sympathetic.

BERLIN, Oct. 18.—The Berlin newspapers announce Marshal MacMahon's death, but pass few comments. The Post remarks on his "well-known integrity, blameless character and oft-proved valor."

ROME, Oct. 18.—All the newspapers here make sympathetic allusions to the death of Marshal MacMahon. The Reforma says: "King Humbert's recent telegram to Marshal MacMahon interpreted the sentiment of the whole Italian people. Even his enemies must bow reverently to the old soldier's memory."

HE KISSED THEIR FLAG.

Russian Admiral Bows to the French.

Unprecedented Scenes in Paris at the Entertainment of the Czar's Subjects—Greater Than at the Centennial Celebration of the Republic.

PARIS, Oct. 18.—At the president's dinner to the Russians last night 104 covers were laid. Baron Morenheim, Russian ambassador, sat at Mme. Carnot's right, and M. Challemel-Lacour, president of the senate, at her left. Admiral Avelan sat at President Carnot's right and M. Casimir-Perier, president of the last chamber of deputies, at his left. The other places had been assigned to the Russian officers and the French officers and diplomatists in alternation. The Comte de Montebello, French ambassador to Russia, and M. Mabouiaye, his predecessor at the post, were present.

The Paris journalists entertained the visiting Russian correspondents last evening at dinner in the Hotel Frascati.

La Presse says that when Admiral Avelan and his staff appeared on the balconies to answer the cheers of the crowd, the Admiral, after bowing three times, put the French national standard to his lips and kissed it.

The crowd in the streets last evening was beyond anything seen in recent years. The streets leading to the Place de l'Opera were full. No vehicle passed through them for many hours. All the streets and public buildings were illuminated. Designs in gas jets and small electric lights and innumerable large arc lights made the city bright as day. Long lines of masts stretched down the streets. Between them and from wall to wall hung festoons of flowers and bunting and flags. Shields and transparencies with mottoes were suspended in midair above the crowds.

"God save the czar," and "Long live the Franco-Russian alliance" are the sentiments most frequently expressed on these decorations. Nothing like the splendor of the scene last night has been seen in Paris since the empire. The Place de l'Opera, the Rue Royale, the Avenue des Champs Elysees and the Rue de la Paix are magnificent.

The crush last night in all handsome thoroughfares was greater than at the centennial celebration of the republic in 1889. There was a continuous and deafening din on every side, in every street, but without exception the people were good-natured and abstained from anything like violence.

On the boulevard processions formed constantly. Men and women marched and sang the national airs of France and Russia.

In all the theatres the orchestras played "God save the Czar," and the audiences stood uncovered from the beginning to the end.

The evening newspapers were wildly chauvinistic. They commented upon the coming of the Russians, as if the two nations were already together in the field and the war were half won. Several quoted from foreign newspapers to show that the fetes are provoking the fury of German statesmen and editors.

Russia Not Responsible.

LONDON, Oct. 18.—The Vienna correspondent of the Times says: An influential Russian periodical entitled the European Messenger, declares that Russia cannot be held responsible for the French fantasies. Her position toward the entente would change at once if it were to assume the character of a threat or challenge to Berlin.

Big Customs Frauds.

MONTREAL, Oct. 18.—The case of Boyd, Ryne and Campwell, wholesale stationers, who are charged with defrauding the customs is said to be one of the worst ever brought to the notice of the customs department. False invoicing, undervaluation and smuggling are all charged and this, it is stated, has been going on for several years.

WEATHER INDICATIONS.

For New Jersey: Fair Tomorrow; Variable Winds.

Ex-Sheriff F. F. Glasby, who is in town today, looking after his political interests in this vicinity, is a candidate for renomination, and the Republican party could do no better than give him a chance to repeat his last successful term.

Puck's cartoon of Cleveland turning over to Harrison in 1889 the treasury with a surplus of $100,000,000 in it and bowing himself out, and of Harrison turning it over to Cleveland in 1893 with the doors off their hinges and the vault empty, eloquently tells the tale of the "change the people got".

The need of extension of police protection was again demonstrated last night. The existing lack is a hardship both to the citizens and to the taxpayers. The Crescent avenue section is entirely without police protection, day and night. No policeman ever reaches there. The number of regular policemen on duty should be increased without delay.

The panic of 1873 was the worst that ever afflicted the American people. It filled the land with tramps and beggars, and made plethoric the purses of sheriffs and the publishers who advertised their sales. Democrats were not in power then, neither were there any prospects or expectation of cutting down the tariff to "free trade". But the panic was there all the same.

The Flemington Democrat sagely remarks: "Up to this date the silver Senators have been able to prevent a vote on the Voorhees repeal bill. It is a curious spectacle that we see in the Senate of the great United States, a minority not only willing but able to defeat the will of the majority! It is time new rules were adopted by the Senate, and time also that that abused article known as 'Senatorial courtesy' be taken by the heels and flung into the Potomac river."

Not so much time is being lost in Congress as many suppose. The house is nearing a conclusion on the repeal of the Federal Election laws, and its Committee on Ways and Means is hard at work in the preparation of a Reform Tariff bill. The usual time for the meeting of Congress is nearly two months distant, and yet a vast amount of preparatory work for that session has been done. The tariff question is well advanced. The committee will probably be able to report a bill next month.

Borough Counselor Charles A. Reed says he is out of politics. But he wants nevertheless to thank sincerely the North Plainfield delegates, and all others who voted for him, for the high compliment they paid him in repeatedly presenting his name to the Somerset County Convention yesterday as candidate for Senator. And he asks The Press to say so. The compliment to Mr. Reed was the more noticeable because it was done in the face of the fact that Mr. Reed's great father-in-law was pulling every wire for the nomination of Beekman.

Mr. Custis, of Kansas, has presented a bill in the House to regulate immigration, which, if it becomes a law, will tend materially to restrict immigration to the United States. The bill provides that it shall be unlawful for the commanding officer of any vessel to receive any alien passenger bound for the United States if an examination discloses the fact that such person is unable to read or write; that his passage has been paid by any other person, company or corporation; who does not possess, if a single man, the sum of $300; if a single woman, $100; if head of a family, $500, or who is not mentally and physically sound; who has ever been in prison for any infamous crime or misdemeanor involving moral turpitude; who has been in almshouse or supported by charity within two years; who is a polygamist, anarchist or under contract, express or implied, to perform labor in the United States.

SECOND-STORY THIEF.

A TRAMP WITH SOILED HANDS ROBS PLAINFIELD HOUSES.

Plunders the Residences of Mrs. Hull on Norwood Avenue and Counselor McClure on Crescent Avenue—Escaped Without Detection.

While the family of Mrs. William L. Hull of Norwood avenue were at dinner, last night at 6:30, they heard a strange noise upstairs. They pushed back their chairs from the table, and the noise made by the chairs scraping over the hardwood floor frightened away an intruder who was heard to scamper.

It was found that a thief had climbed by a piazza post into the second story front room. He got a pocketbook containing $4 and some old coins. The noise that had alarmed the Hull family was the snapping of the window shade. The robber had pulled the cord to raise it, the cord had broken, and the shade flew up with a whirr. Then they heard his footsteps.

The same thief, probably, got into Counselor W. K. McClure's house on Crescent avenue, the same way. He got $10, a pocketbook, Mrs. McClure's gold watch, and Miss McClure's silver watch.

From the black finger-marks left on piazza posts and window sills, it is judged the thief was a coal train tramp.

There are no police ever on Crescent avenue, and none on Norwood avenue till 8 p. m., so the thief got away.

EXCITING RUNAWAY.

Mr. Thompson's Private Team Gallops Down Second Street.

A team belonging to A. D. Thompson ran away this morning, and at one time in the course of its career it looked as if the inmates of the carriage might be spilled. The team was Mr. Thompson's private one, and consisted of two black horses. The trouble was caused by the team being hitched too close to the rig. One of the horses became frightened by hitting her hoofs against the wheel. They started to run down Second street, bumping the rig at the Park avenue gutters, and shaking up the passengers. The driver succeeded in stopping the team by the time it reached Plainfield avenue.

THEY ALL ATE PUMPKIN.

Pumpkin pie of all sizes and shapes, and of all kinds of crusts and filling, was eaten in Grace M. E. church last night, and mighty good coffee was served to wash it down. Other sensible eatables were provided, and from the variety all obtained their fill. The sociable was under the direction of the Ladies Work Society of the church. Besides the feast there was a programme of enjoyable selections. Miss Mabel Stevens recited prettily. Miss Grace Carroll and Miss Alice Carroll sang a charming duet. Excellent quartette singing was given by L. A. Hummer, C. M. Hummer, Ezra Loomis and W. H. Griffen.

Sold.

I was walking along a narrow street in a slum section of New York city when I noticed three ragged and dirty urchins who were tying a rope about the neck of a mongrel pup, while a short distance away another ragged and dirty urchin sat on some steps rubbing his soiled fists into his eyes and weeping as if his heart were breaking. I paused near the wailing boy and asked him what was the matter.

"Dey're gu-gu-goin ter kill me dog!" he sobbed.

"What are they going to kill him for?"

"Nuthin. He never hurt dem fellers, but he's all der friend I has, now dat mom is dead an dad's in der jug, and dem mugs is down on me, so dey're goin ter kill him. I jest don't want ter live if dey kills me dog!"

His grief touched me, and I approached the three lads with the intention of rescuing the imperiled pup. I knew better than to use force, so I asked:

"What is the matter with the dog, boys?"

"He's got fleas," was the prompt reply.

"What are you going to do with him?"

"Kill him."

"But this boy over on the steps says the dog is his."

"Tell dat yap ter go fall on hisself!" said the leader of the trio, with the greatest scorn.

"But you have no right to kill him. I'll give you 10 cents if you let the dog go."

"Make dat a quarter, mister, an we'll do it."

"All right, here is your money," and I snapped them a silver quarter, which was skillfully caught by the spokesman. "Now, give that boy his dog."

They promptly walked over and restored the cur to the urchin on the steps, who hugged the pup and seemed overcome with joy. Feeling well satisfied with the result of my philanthropy, I sauntered on my way, turning down the next street. I had not proceeded far, however, when something caused me to wheel about and return quietly to the corner. There I saw a spectacle that astonished me not a little, for all four of the dirty urchins were shooting craps and laughing in great glee, while the mongrel cur frisked about them. As I listened I heard the lad who had exhibited such deep grief observe:

"We did work that bloke slick, fellers! Dat's der fourt' terday! It beats de worl how business keeps up!"

I backed around the corner and hurried away, feeling decidedly cheap. But there was some satisfaction in knowing three other fools had come along that way ahead of me. GILBERT PATTEN.

The Toilet of Birds.

The feathered tribes have many peculiar ways and fancies about the details of their toilets. Some birds use water only, some water and dust, while others prefer dust and no water. Birds are not only exceedingly nice in their choice of bath water, but also very particular about the quality of their "toilet dust."

Wild ducks, though feeding by salt water, prefer to bathe in fresh water pools and will fly long distances inland to running brooks and ponds, where they preen and dress their feathers in the early hours of the morning. Sparrows bathe often, both in water and in dust. They are not so particular about the quality of the water as about the quality of the dust. They prefer clean water, but I have seen them take a dip in shallow pools that were quite muddy.

The city sparrow must take a water bath where he can get it—in the streets or on the tops of houses—but he is most careful in his choice of his dust bath. Road dust, the driest and finest possible, suits him best. I have noticed the city sparrow taking his dust bath in the street, and invariably he chooses a place where the dust is like powder. Partridges prefer dry loam. They like to scratch out the soil from under the grass and fill their feathers with cool earth. Most birds are fond of ashes. Some early morning take a walk across a field that has been burned over and see the number of winged creatures that rise suddenly from the ash heaps. A darting form, a small cloud of ashes, and the bathers disappear.—New York Home.

Acute Articular Rheumatism.

Attacks of rheumatism in some of the joints are so common and often so painful and protracted that a discussion of its treatment will be of interest to many sufferers.

The treatment recommended by M. Albert Robin is intended to relieve the pain, to bring back the swollen joints to a normal and healthy state and to correct the anæmic condition of the patient created by the attack.

During the period of the rheumatic pains he directs that salicylate of sodium should be given in doses of 4 grams a day, according to the following formula: Sirup of orange flowers, 30 grams; distilled water, 120 grams; salicylate of sodium, 4 grams. A tablespoonful every two hours.

During the second period, when the painful symptoms have diminished, iodide of potash is most advantageous. It should be given in increasing daily doses of 0.50, 0.75 or 1.00 grams at the most, in water or sirup of sarsaparilla.

Finally, in the third stage of the malady, when all pain has ceased and the patient needs to be strengthened and recuperated, iodide of iron is commonly indicated as a proper tonic.—New York Herald.

PATTON AT LIBERTY.

Bail Bond of $15,000 Furnished for the Plainfield Broker.

William L. Patton, of Plainfield, who, as stated in The Press of yesterday, was lodged in Ludlow Street Jail, New York, on a charge of hypothecating certain bonds and securities, was set at liberty yesterday afternoon.

The Lawyers' Surety Company furnished the bail bond of $15,000 necessary for his release.

It appears from the schedule of assets and liabilities of the firm of William L. Patton & Co., filed in the Court of Common Pleas by Mr. Barclay E. V. McCarty, the assignee, that the firm had 160 creditors on their books whose accounts ranged from $100 to $5,000 each.

Besides this William L. Patton, as executor, was liable for $18,500. Then there were other special creditors, as mentioned yesterday, who had deposited stocks and bonds valued at nearly $100,000 with the firm for safe keeping. The loans received from the Bank of the Manhattan Company were $347,500, secured by collaterals valued at only $205,532. The Holland Trust Company appears to have advanced $35,000 on but $11,000 security.

Mr. Patton as an individual appears to have borrowed from the firm $307,102. This loan was secured by something like $900 security. Mr. Saltonstall in like manner borrowed $77,196 on the strength of $4,500 security.

Attorney Honeyman refused to discuss the case except to say that he was simply trying to recover some of the lost moneys in the best and only way he knew of. He would not say whether criminal proceedings would be instituted.

Attorney Ralph Oakley, of 45 Broadway, who represents Mr. Pattton, was equally reserved. He did say, however, that his client's arrest had been brought about, in his opinion, in the hope that Mr. Patton's wealthy relatives would be coerced thereby into making good some of the brokerage firm's losses.

Patton is said to have plunged heavily in Cordage during the last "slump" of that mercurial stock. The case will probably be brought to trial in the Supreme Court some time during the present month.

Patton's partner was Henry L. Saltonstall, a son of ex-Governor Saltonstall of Connecticut. There appears to be no intention of causing Saltonstall's arrest, although an order is out for him too. He was in Mr. Honeyman's office twice yesterday. Saltonstall is a young man and an enthusiastic patron of bicycling. At the World's Fair meet he presented a $1,000 trophy called the Saltonstall International challenge trophy.

Mr. Patton is the son of a Congregational minister, the Rev. William L. Patton, who at the time of his death was President of the Columbia University in Washington. He married a sister of his partner, Saltonstall. His wife and her children, two little girls, have been visiting her sister in Hyde Park, London, since the failure. The Craigs are a well-to-do family living in Hunterdon county. Mr. Patton formerly lived on Ninth street, Plainfield, but after his failure went to live with his brother-in-law at Westfield.

HYMENEAL.

White—Beardslie.

George White, of this city, will be married this evening to Miss Ella Beardslie, of Millstone. The ceremony will take place at the home of the bride, and Dr. Yerkes, assisted by the Millstone clergyman, will officiate. The happy pair will spend their honeymoon at Chicago viewing the wonders of the Fair. On their return they will start housekeeping at 34 Sycamore avenue, North Plainfield.

Smalley—Williams.

At high noon today the wedding of Frederick Smalley and Miss Ida Williams, eldest daughter of W. H. Williams, took place at the residence of the bride, 417 Madison avenue. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Yerkes. The young couple left this afternoon for a short bridal trip, and on their return will take up their residence at 21 Craig place, North Plainfield.

Forrestel—O'Neill.

The wedding of Harry Forrestel, the genial landscape gardener, to Miss O'Neill, took place at Trenton this morning. While Mr. Forrestel is enjoying the wedding reception at Trenton the members of the Catholic Young Men's Lyceum in this city will be indulging in a collation at his expense.

Trust—Allison.

The wedding of August Trust and Miss Nettie Allison took place this morning at 11:30 at the residence of the bride's aunt, Brooklyn. John McLaughlin and George DeMezz attended the ceremony.

Good Positions for Young Men.

Among the advantages which the Y. M. C. A. offers to the young men of Plainfield in its educational department, and to which it would call particular attention, is the shorthand class. The Association has been so successful in placing young men in good positions who have qualified themselves in this class, that it will take pleasure in organizing it again.

The advantages to be derived from the study of this art are inestimable, and those who expect to enter business or any of the professions or want to improve their minds should seriously consider the opportunity. For particulars see the advertising columns.

BAD MEN IN THE MOUNTAINS.

They Commit a Burglary, and Ruin a Horse.

WASHINGTONVILLE, Oct. 18.

W. Henry Rogers and J. W. Coddington started for the World's Fair this morning.

Theodore Bartell, while cutting corn Saturday, was so unfortunate as to cut the top off the index finger of his right hand.

Monday night some miscreant cut a piece out of the hip of a valuable horse belong to Wm. Lang, ex-mayor of Newark, at his farm, Union Village. Detectives are at work on the case.

Sunday evening, while the family were at church, burglars entered the house of Andrew Wilson and ransacked bureau drawers, trunks, etc. They were evidently frightened awhy, as nothing was taken but a pair of pants.

Petty Thievery in Dunellen.

For some time past petty thievery has been going on in and near Dunellen. A few nights ago Joseph Laing's barn was broken into by prying open the back door, and thence the thieves got through a side door into the wagon room and candy manufactory. Next morning Mr. Laing found that one of his delivery wagons had been broken into and a large quantity of candy taken. Chewing gum, caramels and other sweetmeats were strewn about the floor in great profusion. His watermelon patch was also raided and fully a dozen melons were ripped open as though by the heel of a man.

On the opposite side of the street only a night or two before some mean thief broke into A. Giles's cellar and carried away about half a bushel of new potatoes from each of four barrels which Mr. Giles had gathered the day before. The same night Dr. Nelson's house at New Market was broken into, but nothing of value was missed. Dr. Nelson was in Chicago at the time. Suspicion is directed to a well-known rendezvous in Dunellen.

Boroughites Helped Run It.

W. W. Howland, a North Plainfield delegate, made a most efficient chairman for the Somerset county Democratic convention yesterday. He was very witty, and delighted the delegates from the mountain districts, as well as his fellow-boroughites. L. B. Woolston was one of the tellers. Dr. Cooley was Chairman of the Committee on Resolutions. C. E. Buell notified and introduced Candidate Thompson. H. N. Spencer and B. A. Hegeman were elected members of the County Executive Committee.

How to Do Individual Work.

The Fall Conference of the Plainfield Local Union of Christian Endeavor will be held tomorrow evening at 8, in the Seventh-Day Baptist church, New Market. The Rev. F. E. Peterson, of that church, will address the union on the subject "How Can the Christian Endeavor Society do Individual Missionary Work?" In addition to this an interesting programme has been provided, and a very pleasant and profitable evening is anticipated.

High-Grade Portraits.

One of the best of portrait artists is N. E. King, of 483 Lexington avenue, Brooklyn, who has been doing some excellent and highly satisfactory work for Plainfield people. Mr. King excels in crayon, pastel and water colors, and anyone wanting a faithful portrait at a reasonable price would do well to write to him. He refers to various good citizens of Plainfield, as may be seen by consulting his advertisement.

Educational Enterprise.

All the knowledge of the world is within the easy grasp of Plainfield people, through the enterprise of the New York Recorder. That wide-awake and thoroughly up-to-date newspaper wants to give away 75 sets of the Encyclopedia Britannica, revised to 1892, and 75 copies of the Great Imperial Dictionary. The special representatives in Estil's bookstore will tell all callers how it is done. Those who get there first get the books.

Prepared only by W. B. Jones, M. D., No. 1336 South Eighth street, Philadelphia. For sale by I. W. Randolph, 21 West Front street. Price $1.

MARTINE DELEGATES.

PLAINFIELD DEMOCRATS NAMED FOR THE COUNTY CONVENTION.

In the Farmer Orator's Ward His Representatives Are Pledged to Vote Against Race-Track Candidates—Martine Will Get the United Support of the City's Entire Delegation.

The Democratic primaries in the several wards of the city were held last evening, and resulted as follows:

FIRST WARD.

The primary of the First ward, at Hoagland's office on North avenue, was called to order by Louis F. Wadsworth, who was chosen Chairman, and John J. Kenney was elected Secretary. No Judge or Inspector was elected, and the business was speedily concluded, as the attendance was very small. The delegates elected were L. F. Wadsworth, John Rafferty, John F. McIntyre, John J. Kenney and Stephen A. Davis, who were empowered to fill vacancies if any should occur.

SECOND WARD.

The voters of the Second ward assembled at the Bryant school building on East Sixth street. James E. Martine called the meeting to order, and also acted as Chairman. L. M. Stover was elected Secretary, J. C. Blimm Judge, and Fred Yates Inspector. The following nominations for delegates were made: Joseph W. Yates, B. O. Bowers, William K. McClure, Edward C. Searing, John Carney, Jeremiah Cash, William W. Robinson, Frank Vosseller. A recess of five minutes was then taken, in which to prepare ballots. After reconvening the voting proceeded and resulted in the election of Vosseller, Searing, Robinson, Carney and Cash. They were empowered to fill vacancies.

At this stage of the meeting a resolution was presented by Joseph W. Yates to the effect that the delegates support only such men as were opposed to race-tracks, which was unanimously adopted.

The next business was nominations for member of the County Executive Committee. The first name put before the primary was Frank Vosseller, and then Rowland M. Stover. A motion was made and carried that five minutes be allowed in which to prepare ballots. At the expiration of that time the chairman declared the polls closed. A number of those present protested, and insisted that a motion to that effect should have been put before the meeting. On counting the votes it was found that Rowland M. Stover had received 15 votes and Frank Vosseller 11. Mr. Stover was therefore declared elected for another year.

A collection was then taken for faithful Janitor Hope of the Bryant school, for his trouble in preparing the room for the meeting, and the primary was declared adjourned.

THIRD WARD.

The Third ward primary was held in Blair's livery stable office on West Sixth street. F. M. Bacon occupied the chair. Augustus Saltzman was made Secretary, and William O'Connor and C. F. Gisentzer served as Judge and Inspector respectively. The delegates elected were A. Saltzman, John Hetfield and E. VanBuren.

FOURTH WARD.

Councilman Frazee called the Fourth Ward Democrats to order and was honored by the position of Chairman. Ira G. Hurlburt was chosen Secretary, E. J. Harding was Judge, and John L. Bowman and Wm. H. Brokaw acted as Inspectors. The following delegates were elected: James Conneely, J. J. Goff, M. B. Flynn, V. L. Frazee, Moses Quass, Wm. Sullivan, P. Reville and David White.

V. L. Frazee was re-elected to the County Executive Committee, and the meeting adjourned.

Plainfield's entire delegation will vote for James E. Martine for Senator.

HOW TO GET THERE.

The World's Fair a Success, But It Will Soon Close Its Gates Forever.

The grandest exhibition of our time and possibly for many generations to come will soon be brought to an end. There remains but one month in which to visit this marvelous gathering of the world's productions, and everybody should strain a point to go to Chicago.

The railroad fare heretofore has been considered a hindrance to all classes, but this has all been changed, and on the following days in October the West Shore railroad will run high-class excursions on its fast express trains in through cars at one-half its lowest fare, i. e., $17, from New York to Chicago and return, and proportionately lower rates from points along its lines. These magnificent excursion trains will be in charge of an agent whose duty it is to care for the interests of the company's patrons en route, to furnish detailed information as to accommodations obtainable in Chicago and to point out the historic points along the grand old Hudson and through the picturesque Mohawk Valley.

These trains will leave Franklin street, New York, at 10 a. m., and West 42d st., at 10:10 as follows: Saturday, October 14; Thursday, October 19, and the last, Monday, October 23.

If readers will just take trouble to call at any West Shore office they will be received with the usual courtesy that characterizes the employes of this superb route, (over which a journey of the kind referred to can be made with considerable ease, owing to the fact that the management of the West Shore railroad has spared no expense to make it the easiest running and safest road in the world), and furnish any information desired appertaining to this trip.

When I began using Ely's Cream Balm my catarrh was so bad I had headache the whole time and discharged a large amount of filthy matter. That has almost entirely disappeared and I have not had headache since. J. H. Sommers, Stephney, Conn.

A cold of unusual severity developed into a difficulty decidedly catarrhal in all its characteristics, threatening a return of my old chronic malady, catarrh. One bottle of Ely's Cream Balm completely eradicated every symptom of that painful and nauseating disorder. E. W. Warner, Rochester, N. Y.

DOWN TO THREE O'CLOCK YESTERDAY

Not quite; you could hardly expect it, but if you ask, "up to the present year," we can say "yes." For instance there is the Sherman Law; Bi-Metalism, the Parity of Silver and a dozen other things with high sounding names, that seem to be taking up all the time of our law-makers at Washington, that nine men out of ten know nothing whatever about. Perhaps you would like to know something about these things, we will tell you—their history, their meaning and everything that you would wish to know—all yours to command. MANHATTAN DAY.

Programme for New York City's Celebration at the World's Fair.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—Mayor Gilroy and General Porter have completed a draft of the provisional programme of features for the celebration of Manhattan Day at the world's fair on October 21st. These features are liable to be changed somewhat on the arrival of the committee in Chicago.

In the morning a parade of the Chicago Hezzars, Old Guard and other military organizations will act as escort to the committee and officials to the New York state building on the exposition grounds. There a reception will be held. At noon a grand procession will be formed and the line of march taken up to Festival hall. This parade will consist of the same organizations as the escorting column in the morning with whatever additional features may be arranged for.

In Festival hall the exercises will be opened with music. Opening prayer by the Rev. Morgan Dix will follow and the exercises will be continued as follows:

Address of welcome by Mayor Harrison, or somebody speaking in behalf of the city of Chicago; response by Mayor Gilroy. Music; address by Gen. Horace Porter; singing by the choral society; address by Chauncey M. Depew; address by Charles S. Smith, president of the chamber of commerce; singing by the choral society; address by Seth Low, president of Columbia college; benediction by Archbishop Corrigan.

In the evening a brilliant illumination electoral decoration of the New York state building will be the central field feature, supplemented by a grand illumination of all the buildings and fountains by the exposition authorities.

ENGLISH MINERS DESPERATE,

Drive Out Non-Union Men and Overpower Its Police.

LONDON, Oct. 18.—A mob of striking coal miners at St. Helen's, county of Lancaster, attacked a party of non union miners yesterday, who had gone to work for reduced wages, beating them severely. The police were called by the colliery officials, but the rioters, armed with clubs and stones, put them to flight. The miners eventually drove the police into the colliery offices, and riddled the windows with stones, and tried to batter in the doors, but were driven back.

Many policemen were injured. One is unconscious and may die. Another is suffering from fractures of the leg and arm.

Dunraven to Sail To-day.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—Lord Dunraven and his family will sail for England to-day. Last night the earl was doubly entertained. C. Oliver Iselin gave him a dinner at the Knickerbocker club, and the New York yacht club gave him an informal reception at their club house. The Vigilant will be laid up for the winter at Northport, L. I. She will not be sold at present, but will be continued in her present ownership as long as the Valkyrie remains in this country. The crew of the Valkyrie will sail on the Britannic next week.

The Factory a Nuisance.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 18.—Judge F. B. Hall, in the superior court, has filed his decision in the case of Wm. H. Clay, et al, against the Waterbury wheel and spoke company, with the clerk of the superior court. The plaintiff claimed that the steam from the factory and the noise was a nuisance. Judge Hall found the allegations true and the company can no longer carry on their business at that location.

Each Held at $10,000.

BOSTON, Oct. 18.—Mrs. Mary J. Henderson, charged with having caused the death of Mrs. Eileen Perkins, of Everett, and Mrs. Sarah Butler, charged with being accessory before the fact to the criminal operation, have been held in $10,000 each for a hearing Oct. 31. MANCHESTER, N. H., Oct. 18.—Charles H. Bartlett, the receiver of the People's fire insurance company, has issued a card personally guaranteeing the payment of $1,000 offered for the arrest of Charles F. Morrill, the late treasurer, by the stockholders, in regard to the legality of which there was some question.

A Dozen Floating Corpses.

ERIE, Pa., Oct. 18.—The schooner Ruhe Richards, which took shelter under Long Point during the storm, put in here yesterday. The captain reports passing a dozen floating bodies on the way over, but, owing to the crippled condition of his boat, he could not pick up the floaters.

Steamer Lost; All on Board Rescued.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 18.—The steamship Marseilles, belonging to the French commercial line and bound from Antwerp for New Orleans, is reported lost at sea by the Elder Dempster. The entire crew and passengers were rescued by the Palmos, due here to-day.

"I Owe my Life to You."

That is a strong statement.

Yet exactly what Miss Gertrude Sickler, of Wilton, N. J., has written to Mrs. Pinkham. She says:—

"I suffered terribly with suppressed and painful menstruations. Doctors could only keep me from having fits each month by giving me morphine. This continued until I was completely prostrated.

"My father at last got me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which at once gave me relief. It did what the doctors could not—cured me. I never have any trouble now, and have no dread of the coming month.

"I owe my life to you. Oh! if other suffering women would try your valuable medicine they would bless you as I do."

BANQUET TO GIBBONS

A Great Gathering of Brilliant Church Lights.

Archbishop Ireland's Masterly Sermon and the Cardinal's Happy Address—Others Who Spoke—A Phonograph Message From Rome.

BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 19.—The grand dinner given last evening, in honor of his Eminence Cardinal Gibbon, in connection with the celebration of the 25th anniversary of his episcopate, by Very Rev. Dr. Magnien and the faculty of the seminary of St. Mary of St. Sulpice, was even a grander affair than that which characterized the centenniary of the founding of the institution.

The cathedral was densely crowded, of course in greater part, to honor the cardinal, but certainly part by the announcement that the Most Rev. Archbishop Ireland of St. Paul would preach the sermon. He did preach a sermon and was only spared almost continued applause by the condition that he was speaking to a congregation and not to the ordinary audience.

Dr. Ireland's Sermon.

The sermon was in part as follows:

Twenty-five years in exalted office, a bishop, a chieftain of bishops, in the Catholic church, in America, in the latter days of this nineteenth century of the Christian era; great the opportunities, and weighty the responsibilities.

This evening, be it my coveted privilege to honor a man among men. The record of the cardinal archbishop of Baltimore; I speak with pride and exultation; it is the record I should have traced for my ideal bishop and leader of men in those solemn times through which the Church is passing.

I am not afraid to say that men in the church during the century, whose sun is now setting, have made the mistake of being too slow to understand the new age and too slow to extend toward it the conciliatory hand of friendship.

Let us know that the age and the church are not hopelessly apart.

Let us be as broad and as catholic in our conceptions of the church as Christ was, and we shall find no difficulty in recognising her fitness to all lands and to all ages—the past as well as the present and the future as well as the past.

The whole history of the Catholic church is the record of the enfranchisement of the slave, the curbing of royal tyranny, the defense of the poor, of the people, of women, of all the social entities that pride and passion choose to trample upon.

Progress of every kind the Church blesses.

Let Catholics be the most erudite historians, the most experienced scientists, the most acute philosophers, and history, science and philosophy will not be divorced from religion. The age demands liberty with good government; let us be models of patriotism, of civic virtue, of loyalty to the country's institutions, and no suspicion shall ever exist that Catholics are the allies of buried regimes, the enemies of liberty, civil and political.

The Church and the age. Their union is secured. The nineteenth century has seen in its latter days men "by whom salvation came to Israel." I name a few, and in naming them, I send to them in their heavenly or earthly abodes my soul's tribute—Von Ketteler, of Cologne; Lavigerie, of Algiers; Manning, of Westminster; Gibbons, of Baltimore; Leo, of Rome. Two we especially revere.

Pontiff of the Age.

Leo, I hail thee, pontiff of the age, providential chieftain of the Church in this great crisis of her history. How true it is that God has always cared for His Church. It seems to be a supreme moment for her in her life among men. The abyss between her and the age was widening; governments had set her aside and warred against her; people trusted her not; the intellectual and social movements of humanity ignored her; Catholics, clergy and laity, terrified and disheartened, made of their isolation a rule, a dogma. Humanly speaking, the horizon was dark with fateful forebodings. Now, Leo comes to the helm; quickly he discerns the angry elements, the shoals and breakers, and under his hand the ship moves, in new directions, with quickened agility; she tops the highest billows, fearless of their fury, and soon she reaches calm seas, where triumphantly she plows the waters, the peerless queen.

Leo talks to the age in its own language and tells it what indeed the Church is, and the age wonders and admires. By his decrees opening to the scholarship of the world, non-Catholic or Catholic, the archives of the Vatican, establishing universities in Europe and America, lifting upward the standard of studies in all the schools of the Church, he put the Church in the leadership of the race for knowledge.

Rome and America.

The Church and the age. Rome is the Church; America is the age, and Mgr. Satolli's command to Catholics of America is: "Go forward on the road of progress, bearing in one hand the book of Christian truth, Christ's gospel, and in the other the constitution of the United States."

Gibbons of Baltimore. I cannot give to my words the warmth of my heart. I shall give to them its sincerity. I have spoken of the providential Pope of Rome. I speak now of the providential archbishop of Baltimore. How oft, in past years, I have thanked God that, in this latter quarter of the 19th century, Cardinal Gibbons had been given to us as primate, as leader, Catholic of Catholics, American of Americans, a bishop of his age, and of his country, be is to America what Leo is to all christendom. Aye, far beyond America does his influence go. Men are not confined by frontier lines, and Gibbons is as European as Manning is American. A particular mission is reserved to the American cardinal. The Church and the age fight their battles with especial intensity in America. America is watched. The prelate, who in America is the representative of the union of Church and age, is watched; his leadership guides the combatants and the world over. The name of Cardinal Gibbons lights up the page of nearly every European book which treats of modern, social and political questions. The ripplings of Cardinal Gibbons' influence cross the threshold of the Vatican. Leo, the mighty inspirer of men, is inspired and encouraged by his faithful lieutenants, from whom he often asks: "Watchmen, what of the night?" The historic incident of the Knights of Labor, whose condemnation Cardinal Gibbons averted by personal interview with Leo, was one of the preparations to the encyclical on the "Conditions of labor," but Cardinal Gibbons is an American; let him be judged from America.

Gibbons, the Great American.

The work of Cardinal Gibbons forms an epoch in the history of the Church of America. He has made known, as no one before him did, the Church to the people of America; he has demonstrated the fitness of the Church for America, the natural alliance existing between the Church and the freedom-giving, democratic institutions of America. Through his action the scales have fallen from the eyes of non-Catholics; prejudices have vanished. He, the great churchman, is the great citizen; church and country unites in him, and the magnetism of the union pervades the whole land, teaching laggard Catholics to love America, teaching well disposed non-Catholics to trust the Church. How noble the mission which heaven has assigned to him.

The Cardinal's Address.

Cardinal Gibbons in his address to the assembled prelates and priests said in part.

The first thought that comes uppermost in my mind is to pour out my heart in gratitude to my honored colleagues for their presence on this festive occasion. I may be permitted briefly to state the various stages of evolution through which my mind has passed in regard to the celebration of my episcopal jubilee.

My first determination was to have no celebration at all, but when I learned that the Holy Father in the benevolence of his heart had graciously condescended to commemorate my consecration by a gift and a letter of congratulation, I was determined to invest the day with due solemnity and to invite all of my honored brethren of the episcopate.

I do not know how I can adequately thank you, venerable fathers, for your presence on this occasion. You have all come at considerable inconvenience to yourselves, especially in view of the short notice you received. Some of you have come a long ways.

I cannot find words adequate to express my profound sense of the benevolence of the Holy Father in sending me without solicitation on my part, a precious gift with a letter. And the value of the gift is still more enhanced on account of my esteem for the envoy who conveyed it. I refer to Rev. Dr. Rooker, the worthy vice rector of the American college in Rome. Nor can I omit to refer to the presence here of the Pope's immediate representative—his excellency, the Most Rev. Dr. Satolli.

I propose then the health of Leo XIII and Monsignor Satolli.

Other Speakers.

"The See of Baltimore," was responded to by Archbishop Kain; of St. Louis.

Archbishop Hennessy, of Dubuque, Iowa, spoke to the sentiment: "The Hierarchy of the United States, especially Our Honored Guests Among the Episcopate and Clergy."

At this point a phonograph message from His Holiness was delivered, the distinguished company all standing, out of loyalty to the Holy See and listening breathlessly to the words of greeting from the Holy Father.

Archbishop Ryan of Philadelphia shone with more than usual splendor his reply to the toast, "Our Country and our President." The speech was full of wit, sound sense and patriotism.

James A. Garfield.

WAS MOVED TO TEARS

Avelain Overcome By the French Greetings.

At One Time His Emotion So Great That a Glass of Wine Was Handed Him—Unkindly Stated That the Russians are Getting Weary.

(Copyright, 1893, by the United Press.)

PARIS, Oct. 19.—The Russian fetes are a plentiful source of amusement for foreigners. It has been humorously suggested by Anglo-Saxon onlookers that Admiral Avelan was selected to visit France on account of his emotional endowments and his singular facility of bringing tears to his eyes.

According to French newspapers, Admiral Avelan, on one day in Toulon was eight times profoundly touched and five times visibly moved, besides having several fits of uncontrollable sobbing. One emotional correspondent describes himself as moved almost to tears four times in the course of the morning, while he frequently noticed that among the people around him every eye was humid.

The manual of Franco-Russian conversation hawked about the streets of Toulon and Paris leaves no contingency neglected as regards expressions of patriotism or passion. It contains ten formulas of invitations to alcoholic drinks of various kinds.

The Soleil, describing Admiral Avelan's reception at the town hall in Toulon, says: "The admiral showed such emotion that the mayor invited him into a private cabinet and handed him a glass of champagne. The admiral, still trembling with emotion, spilled a few drops of the wine, whereupon Madame Adam, who happened to be present, cited the French proverb that to spill wine when about to drink was a sign of good luck and a plentiful harvest, and she therefore hailed the accident with joy. Admiral Avelan pressed Madame Adam's hand, unable to speak, while two great tears trickled down his face and dropped upon his uniform."

The papers are full of such stuff, and in the general excitement little notice is taken of the deaths of Marshal MacMahon and M. Gunod, which, occurring at any other time, would have plunged the whole nation into grief as effusive as in the present maudulin joy.

The call for national subscriptions to defray the expenses of the Russian fetes has not been responded to with any special enthusiasm. It is stated that only about 200,000 francs, in the aggregate, has been subscribed, although the hat has been shaken and passed around unceasingly. One paper went so far as gravely to propose that the quarterly rents that fell due on the day of the arrival of the Russians at Toulon, be remitted throughout France as a token of the country's joy and gratitude. This was not without a suggestion that most of the money thus freed be expended in feeting "our dear allies."

It is unkindly stated that the Russian officers themselves are not particularly enthusiastic over the celebration, and are tired of feasting and eternally hearing the Marseillaise and the Russian hymn. They would like Paris well enough to amuse themselves in their own way, but it is different when they are there on show duty.

The city is still en fete, and the crowds that filled the streets yesterday have been augmented to-day by a steady influx of visitors from all parts of the country. The streets are crowded with people in holiday costumes, and everywhere the greatest gayety prevails.

Admiral Avelan and his staff occupied the forenoon in making official visits. Their meeting with Gen. Loizillon, minister of war, was especially cordial.

Everywhere the Russians went they were the recipients of hearty cheers from the well dressed crowds on the streets.

Negotiations are on foot, through Admiral Avelan, with the view of having the Grand Duke Alexis go to Toulon to receive President Carnot officially on the occasion of the president's visit to the Russian fleet on Oct. 27.

LOSS IN THE MILLIONS.

Two Big Paper Houses and Other Buildings Burned in New York.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—One of the most destructive fires this city has seen recently occurred last night. It extended from St. Raphael's Roman Catholic church on 40th street, west of 10th avenue, to the north side of 42d street.

The losses will mount well up into the millions.

William Campbell & Co., wholesale manufacturers of wall papers, and Nevius & Haviland, also wall paper manufacturers, were burned out. Several other buildings were burned.

PROFITS TO CONTINUE.

It Will Cost Fifty Cents to See the Fair Buildings Torn Down.

CHICAGO, Oct. 19.—The world's Columbian exposition will positively close on the night of October 30. You can enter Jackson park after that time, but just as you did before the great fair opened, with two exceptions. The admission fee will be fifty cents, and you will see the destruction of an exposition instead of the upbuilding of one. This is given on the authority of Director-General Davis who spoke to that effect after the meeting of the committe on demolition. At the meeting it was decided to hold a conference with the park board with a view to getting an extension of time for clearing the park. The exposition wants a year's grace for this work, claiming that by additional time more money can be made on salvage and the vast undertaking completed in a more workmanlike manner. The north end of the park will be turned over to the park board January 1, 1894.

HER AGED HUSBAND ACCUSED.

Tragic Death of Mrs. Mary Casey of Worcester.

WORCESTER, Mass., Oct. 19. — Mary Casey, aged 70 years, was found unconscious on the floor of her house in Southbridge last Thursday morning. She lingered until Saturday, and died without recovering consciousness. It was supposed she died of apoplexy, but an autopsy by the medical examiner yesterday developed the fact that she was shot in the left ear, the bullet being found in her brain. Suspicion falls upon her husband, a dissolute old man of 65 years, who was arrested Friday and sent to the state farm at Bridgewater as a common drunkard. The bullet found in the woman's brain fits an empty chamber in a 32-calibre revolver found in Casey's possession when he was arrested. Casey and his wife were not living together.

SEVEN MORE DROWNED.

Now Known That the Schooner Benson Was Lost on Lake Erie.

BUFFALO, Oct. 19.—It is now settled beyond the shadow of a doubt that the vessel sunk off Gravely bay, on the Canadian shore, just below Port Colborne, is the schooner C. B. Benson, which left Buffalo Friday to load coal at Erie for Toledo.

No bodies have been found on the beach, but this is not strange, as not a single body of the crew of nine on the J. C. Finney, which went down last fall in the same spot, was ever recovered.

Capt. Duff, of the Benson, was well known as one of the best navigators both on salt and fresh water. The crew of the Benson consisted of at least seven men.

STILL DOING NOTHING

Senators Getting Bitter in Their Remarks.

Another Day Flitted Away and Silver Was Only Incidentally Touched—The New York and New Jersey Bridge Bill Passes the House.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—The session of the senate yesterday lasted from 10 a. m. until 5: 15 p. m., when another recess was taken until 10 o'clock to-day. The main object of these recesses, instead of regular adjournments, is to cut off the time for morning business which may be extended to two hours. That is so much timesaved for debate on the repeal bill, but the debate yesterday, like that of the day before, did not touch the bill at all except incidentally. It progressed, first on Mr. Dolph's motion to amend the journal of Monday, which, after a couple of hours, was laid on the table by a vote of 45 to 3, and then on a like motion by Mr. Teller, because his own name did not appear on the journal, he having been present at roll call and not having answered.

The four principal speeches of the day were made by Senators Morgan, (dem. Ala.) Teller, (rep. Colo.,) Daniel, (dem. Va.,) and Mills, (dem. Tex.) But there were many interesting and exciting interlocutory statements made during the delivery of these speeches.

Mr. Morgan was more than usually bitter in his attacks upon Mr. Hill, (dem. N. Y.,) whom he spoke of as an astute politician who would fly back and forth like a weavers shuttle, and again, as one of those who rose to the surface like bubbles on a stagnant pool, and exploded leaving behind only mephitic oders.

Mr. Hill took no notice of these attacks upon him, but afterwards got into a colloquy with Senator Daniel, in which he declared, with much emphasis (the remark being received with great applause) that, if the presiding officer agreed with him the bill would pass in spite of all obstructions.

House.

The only incident of note in the house was a personal controversy between Messrs. Geary, (dem. Cal.,) and Warner, (dem. N. Y.,) over the New York and New Jersey bridge bill. It was a question of veracity and both gentlemen were rather excited, but the speaker was firm in preserving order, and the gentlemen became calmer. The bill was passed.

The remainder of the day was consumed in the further discussion and consideration of the printing bill. Without disposing of it, the house at 5 o'clock adjourned.

UNFORTUNATE LOVE AFFAIR.

A Young Man Kills Himself in Rooms Engaged for Himself and Bride.

CHICAGO, Oct. 19.—Three months ago E. R. Wallace, assistant ticket agent of the Pennsylvania railroad at Broad street station, Philadelphia, arranged with the Philadelphia hotel for quarters for himself and bride for the present week.

Yesterday he reached the hotel alone. At 6 o'clok in the morning his dead body was found in a bath tub.

Pictures of a young woman found in Wallace's pockets are supposed to represent the missing woman for whom he arranged rooms three months ago. Neither the photographs nor letters show the woman's name, and no clue to her identity can be found.

A letter dated Oct. 13, at Philadelphia, is from the dead man's father. It begins as follows:

"Dear Ed:—Your letter of the 9th received and as no telegrams came I have concluded that the proposed wedding did not come off."

TRENTON'S GREAT DAY.

Many Visitors Present to Assist in the Battle Monument Celebration.

TRENTON, N. J., Oct. 19.—The Trenton battle monument celebration began last night. The streets were thronged to see the decorations, which are the most lavish in the history of the city, and also to witness the arrival of troops from other states.

Governor Morris, of Connecticut, and the foot guard of the Nutmeg state, were tendered ovations, and Gov. Werts was the recipient of an impromptu reception at the state house, which was brilliantly illuminated. Senator Smith telegraphed from Washington that President Cleveland had withstood great pressure and decided that in view of the situation in the Senate he could not leave Washington.

DISINHERITED BY HIS FATHER.

Young Fair Will Receive $100 Instead of $15,000,000.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 19.—It is stated that ex-Senator James G. Fair has disinherited his son, Charles L. Fair.

A clause in his will giving half of his estate, amounting to something like $15,000,000, has been stricken out and a substitute added giving his son only $100.

The Missing $22,000.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—It has been ascertained that the package of money, which mysteriously disappeared while in transit from New York to New Orleans, was sent by the Bank of Commerce through the American express company. The parcel, which contained $22,000 instead of $50,000 as at first reported, was shipped from here on Oct. 11, and the loss was not discovered until the safe was opened at New Orleans.

THE DAILY PRESS.

A. L. FORCE, - - Publisher and Proprietor.
WALTER IRVING CLARKE, - Managing Editor.

WEATHER INDICATIONS.

For New Jersey: Fair Tomorrow; Slightly Warmer; Variable Winds Becoming Southerly.

What a curious thing is human nature! A crowd followed eagerly and enthusiastically every move made by Pugilist Dixon in Plainfield yesterday, where the presence of Evangelist Mills on the streets would have attracted no band of followers whatever.

With the Democratic candidates of Somerset county so firmly pledged against all vicious and immoral legislation, and especially against that legalizing race-track gambling, no good citizen of North Plainfield need feel any hesitancy about voting for Henry M. T. Beekman for Senator and George H. Cramer for Assembly. The Press takes pride in endorsing and championing such a ticket as worthy of the fullest support.

AN IMMORAL SHOW.

Good people of every place where the George Dixon Vaudeville and Specialty Company are booked to appear, are hereby warned that where the show is not stupid it is positively indecent. The Sisters Aleen sing the most suggestive ditties, and revel in the most immoral language and actions, ever attempted on any public stage. For their indecent travesty on the respected religious body of Salvationists, and for their shameless, brazen-faced attempts to be as publicly immoral as the laws will stand, they should be suppressed from the public boards and relegated to resorts where there is no danger of their offending decent people. The only entertaining feature of the Dixon show is the triple bar gymnastics of the Patterson Bros., who are undoubtedly the best performers of their difficult feats now before the public. The sparring exhibition of Dixon and Lynch is positively tiresome, being excelled in scientific work and genuine energy by the friendly bouts seen in the Plainfield Bicycle Club gymnasium. It is a palpable attempt to kill time without either man running any risk of getting a sting in the face.

A PRESSING NEED.

A hard winter, with thousands out of work, means that men in their extremity will be driven to desperate deeds, and the crime of plundering the fortunate will vastly increase. That Plainfield is a city of wealth will not escape covetous eyes, and greedy fingers may pluck at the treasures of any home. The existing police force of Plainfield cannot cope with the emergencies of the day: how then can it handle those in prospect? The need of an increased staff of reliable officers is urgent, emphatic, immediate. Many portions of the city are already entirely unprotected; some populous streets go unvisited by policemen, day and night; each officer has altogether too much territory to cover. As conditions now exist, robberies may be and are committed with impunity, and the chance of detection and capture is small. The time has come when Plainfield must be more liberal in this matter of self-protection; she has been too long extravagant in other departments and too long niggardly in this. It is all very fine to have an elegant Fire Department Headquarters, a water-tower ladder truck that makes a pretty picture on parade, a model road-scraper for people to ask questions about, and a gang of men to cut down trees and keep street grades going up and down like the tides of the ocean: but is n't it just as necessary to protect the dining families from the stealthy second-story thief, and the slumbering families from midnight desperadoes? For what are the property-owners paying $2 40 on every $100 of assessed valuation, and $3 on every dog, if not that when they are engaged in the occupations and pleasures of their daily life they may feel secure from Coal-Train Pete and Ragged Dick and Weary Willy and the rest of the choice gang who find it so easy to appropriate money and jewelry? Goodness knows the taxes are high enough to guarantee such protection. If need be, the amount expended in felling shade trees and changing grades can be lessened without vexation to the residents whose property-fronts are thus left alone; a good many people never did understand the necessity of tipping streets first this way and then that just to accommodate the dictation and vagaries of a puzzling map, or of lopping off trees by wholesale so that sidewalks may be lowered. In some way funds must be spared to give the people the police-protection they demand and deserve. Besides more men on the force there should be an open and convenient headquarters with a sergeant always in charge ready to answer the personal or telephone calls of citizens, and there should be a system of signal boxes to be used by patrolmen in making the rounds. These and other improvements to perfect the efficiency of the force will doubtless come in time; the increase in the number of men should come without delay.

But if the need in Plainfield city is painful, the need in North Plainfield borough is pitiful. In that municipality one man is expected to cover the entire territory, night and day. No wonder a murderous burglar finds it easy to beat brutality without interference a woman in her own bed room! And North Plainfield cannot plead high taxes as an excuse against increased appropriation for police purposes. Her rate is only $1 44 on $100.

It will be to Plainfield's shame and to North Plainfield's disgrace if the police service be not speedily and adequately extended.

—Young men who wish to hear of the success in business of graduates of the Y. M. C. A shorthand classes should apply at the Association rooms, Friday evening. Particulars are given in the advertisement.

MADE NO DEFENSE.

ISAAC LEDERER PERMITS A VERDICT AGAINST HIM.

Preferred Having the Common Pleas Court in Elizabeth Pass on the Case, Rather Than Submit to a Jury of His Fellow-Townsmen.

Justice Mosher's court-room was crowded to suffocation yesterday afternoon and the stairs leading up to it were filled with people trying to get an idea of the proceeding going on within in the trial of the much talked of case of Miss Elizabeth Smith against Isaac Lederer for salary alleged by the plaintiff to be due her for a term of three weeks.

This case that has created so much interest has been set down for trial several times but has been postponed each time until yesterday. City Judge W. A. Coddington represented the plaintiff in the suit, and Counselor McClure appeared for the defense. The jury called for this case consisted of C. E. Ball, Chas. K. Moore, W. H. Clum, Joseph Sattelle, Oscar Terry and Noel Verrier.

Counsel for the prosecution opened the case by stating the story of Miss Smith's engagement as milliner by Lederer and of her subsequent discharge by him for insufficient reasons. The entire story was confirmed by the plaintiff in the witness chair and by the other witnesses called. Cross questioning by the opposition failed to shake their evidence. In substance it is as follows:

Miss Smith was engaged by Lederer in New York last March to come to Plainfield and take charge of the millinery department in his store on West Front street. An agreement was entered into at the time between the parties that Miss Smith should come to Plainfield and take the position; that she should receive $15 per week from March 20 to April 1, and from the latter date until July 2 she was to receive $16 per week for her services.

The plaintiff took the position and gave apparent satisfaction in her work until June 10, when she suddenly received her discharge in writing. The excuses given for her discharge failed to be proved by the facts. Miss Smith put herself under legal advice immediately and continued to present herself every morning at the store at the usual time, Lederer always sending her away or telling her he did not know her. Each Saturday night she asked for her salary and each time it was refused. The amount of salary due amounted to $48.

The defense put in no case at all. Their witnesses were sworn and dismissed The jury were not out five minutes and brought in a verdict for the plaintiff of the full amount claimed and costs.

The counsel for the defense says: "The defendant made no defense before Justice of the Peace Mosher and the jury. Notice of appeal was promptly given, and the case will be tried on its merits in the Court of Common Pleas, before three judges and a jury not selected for the occasion."

Fanwood's Anti-Racers.

An anti-race-track meeting was held in Fanwood last evening. Little was done owing to the absence of speakers. The meeting was adjourned until next Wednesday.

Going Back Home.

There were 10 or a dozen of us seated about a redhot stove in a back country store one fearfully cold December evening, and the wag of the party had just finished a story that convulsed us all with laughter, when the store door was slowly pushed open and a little, bent old woman came hobbling in. She was poorly and thinly dressed in calico, and her face and hands were blue with the cold. She stood shivering by the door and looking at us appealingly as she faltered:

"Mayn't I please come and git warm?"

In an instant every man was on his feet, offering her his seat by the stove. She came forward as quickly as she could, tucking a lock of white hair back beneath the poor old fashioned bonnet.

"Thankee, thankee!" she murmured as she sank down and held her withered, trembling hands out toward the stove. "It's dreadful cold tonight. When a body gits long in years they can't stand the cold like young folks."

Not one of the party had ever seen the old woman before, and all were filled with wonder. Finally Judson, the storekeeper, ventured to inquire how she came to be out on such a night.

"I'm jest goin back home," she explained. "I couldn't stay away any longer, though I don't s'pose Joe and Mandy'll be tickled to see me. Joe's my boy, and Mandy's his wife. Joe was allus good to his old mam, though I must hev been powerful tiresome to hev round sometimes. It was Mandy as got him to take me off to some kind of a home where they said I'd be treated first class. I don't mind the treatment, though some of the folks there do yell and holler so I can't sleep nights, but I'm jest hungry fer a sight of my boy and the old home, so I run away, and I'm goin back."

The men looked at each other significantly, and one of them whispered in my ear:

"She's been in the asylum over in Roxbury, next town east. Guess she's a little daft."

"What's your boy's name?" asked Judson.

"His name's Joe."

"Yes, but Joe what?"

"I forgit the last of it," she faltered, passing a hand over her forehead. "My mem'ry's powerful bad of late."

"Where does he live?"

"Down by the foot of the hill close to the old bridge. Oh, I know jest how the place looks!" she beamed. "Joe's dad and me worked pretty hard to clear the place and build the house. Some say pa worked himself inter the ground, for he didn't live six months arter we got all the debts paid. He hain't more'n natteral for me ter love the old place, and I'm powerful glad I'm goin back home."

She leaned her head back against a cracker box, a tired sigh coming from her lips, her weary eyes drooping. It was warm and comfortable there by the stove, and she soon seemed to be sleeping.

"Poor woman!" muttered more than one of the rough men as they thought of her sad lot—an outcast from the home she had labored so hard to obtain. They spoke in whispers, so she would not awaken, and one by one they slipped out and went home to their own firesides until the storekeeper, myself and two others alone remained.

"I hate to wake her up," declared Judson as he blew out one of the lights. "She must be completely tuckered."

He went round the stove and touched her on the shoulder, saying gently:

"Come, come, wake up now!" She did not stir, and he shook her a bit, adding, "It's time to close." Then all at once he fell back, gasping:

"She is dead!"

It was true. She had gone "home."

CHARLES HYDE IS IN IT.

C. C. COKEFAIR TALKS ABOUT HIS MILLIONS.

Details of a Big Scheme in Which Plainfield Capitalists Invested—But Mr. Hyde Says He Loses Only a Trifling $5,000.

The World devoted considerable space yesterday and today to telling the story of what it called a "Huge Fraud" in connection with a concern known as the Standard Coal and Timber Company of West Virginia. This concern, according to the World, has issued bonds for $1,000,000 against 200,000 acres of land in West Virginia. The company is said to have a capital stock (on paper) of $2,000,000. The bonds were issued through the Commonwealth Title Insurance and Trust Company of Philadelphia, which acted as trustee for the bonds so far as regards the payment of two years' interest thereon. Of this $1,000,000 of bonds it is alleged that more than $250,000 have been sold and are now held by banks and private capitalists in New York, Philadelphia, Brooklyn, and Plainfield. It is alleged that a deed to the property against which these bonds were issued was forged and that the bonds are therefore valueless.

Yesterday Charles C. Cokefair of this city was represented as losing his entire fortune in the company's scheme. Mr. Cokefair is Chairman of the Executive Committee of the company.

Today Mr. Cokefair defends the concern. He writes:

Respecting the sensational article which appeared in one of the morning papers reflecting upon the titles to the lands of this company in West Virginia, we desire to state that the title to this property was carefully examined and favorably passed upon by the most competent, reputable and efficient attorneys we could employ in that State. One of them, W. P. Payne, was then clerk of the County Court in which the lands are located, and later became Republican candidate for State Treasurer. The lands were carefully examined and favorably reported upon for us by competent experts, and our ownership has been recognized and certified to by every official of any prominence in McDowell county. We have never had any intimation of any defect in our title except from recent rumors, which we have not as yet been able to verify, but should we learn upon further examination that irregularity exists in reality it will be our duty and pleasure to remedy the same.

After giving this out—says The World of today—Mr. Cokefair made a veritable Mulberry Sellers statement to the assembled reporters.

"There is $150,000,000 back of our company,"—he said—"and you may be sure that we will spare no efforts to set this thing."

This was very impressive until one of the reporters asked how he figured up that vast backing.

HERE'S THE "RACKING".

"Well,"—said Mr. Cokefair—"to begin with, there is John I. Blair, of Blairsville, N. J. He is worth $75,000,000."

"How is he connected with the Company?"

"Why he holds five of our bonds as collateral,"—said Mr. Cokefair, without the shadow of a smile.

"Who are the other backers?"

"Well, there is Charles Hyde, of Plainfield, the President of the City National Bank there and President of the Second National Bank of Titusville, Pa. He is worth $15,000,000."

"How is he connected with the Standard Company?"

"He holds $40,000 of our bonds as collateral."

THESE MEN NOT VICTIMS.

On June 22 last Mr. Cokefair was at Pochahontas, W. Va., with James Smith of Easton, Pa., and Mr. Liebman of New York. He was trying to sell some of the property claimed by the Standard Company. They only saw the edge of the tract, as they were told that the river was too high to allow them to cross and penetrate the priceless territory beyond. This deal failed to go through.

About six weeks ago Cokefair and Benjamin Franklin Howland, whom Cokefair now disown, approached a prominent attorney in New York, who represents English capitalists and tried to dispose of their holdings through him. He demanded their papers, showing title, etc., and when he got them discovered irregularities enough to make him drop the matter forthwith. He saved his English clients from giving a lot of good money for a parcel of bogus land deeds.

MR. COKEFAIR IN PLAINFIELD.

(From the New York World.)

PLAINFIELD, N. J., Oct. 18.—C. C. Cokefair is a prominent member of the Methodist Episcopal church here. He lives in handsome style on Crescent avenue, the most fashionable street in this city of swell streets, and his family stands high in local society. He has had business dealings with the First National Bank, in which bank he kept a deposit. How the bank happens to have one of the bonds of the company cannot be learned. The officers declined to talk. Charles L. Hyde, President of the City National Bank here, has about $19,000 of the bonds of the Lumber Company. He says they came into his possession as security for a mortgage with its interest in a piece of mill property situated in Flemington, which he sold to Mr. Cokefair.

The interest on the mortgage was not kept up, and to secure him further he took the bonds and a further mortgage on 15,000 acres of land, said to belong to the company, in Kentucky. Mr. Hyde expects to lose only $5,000.

Mr. Cokefair this afternoon sent a message by wire to The Press stating that he would furnish a personal statement to be published tomorrow.

Of Interest To Athletes.

James Robinson, the athletic trainer at Princeton College, Princeton, N. J., says: "I have found it imperative to have sure and simple remedies on hand in case of cuts, bruises, strains, sprains, colds, rheumatism, etc. Shortly after entering upon my profession, I discovered such a remedy in ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS. I tried other plasters, but found them too harsh and irritating. ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS give almost instantaneous relief, and their strengthening power is remarkable. In cases of weak back put two plasters on the small of the back and in a short time you will be capable of quite severe exercise. In "sprint" and "distance" races and jumping, the muscles or tendons in the legs and feet sometimes weaken. This can invariably be relieved by cutting the plaster in narrow strips, so as to give free motion, and applying on muscles affected."

IN RED MEN'S HALL.

Iona Council Committee Entertains Members and Friends in Glorious Style.

Red Men's Hall contained nearly 200 happy hearts last night. Iona Council was at the helm, and the entertainment and dance they gave was a decided success. The programme was well arranged and perfectly executed.

Miss Estelle Pierson gave a piano solo that brought forth well-merited applause.

"I live and love thee", a beautiful vocal duet by Messrs. W. and B. Tallamy, was warmly appreciated.

Miss Cora Sheppard proved herself a favorite and was heartily received. Her recitation was "Whistling in Heaven".

A masterpiece was the piano duet of Mrs. Canfield and Miss Mamie Grannatt.

Mrs. Westphal and William Tallamy rendered in excellent style "I know a bank whereon the wild thyme grows".

In the solo "The Girl I Left Behind Me" Mrs. Purcer, of Brooklyn, proved herself an accomplished artist. By her recitals she kept the audience in roars of laughter. She was accompanied by Mrs. William Baldwin.

Airs from Martha were given as violin solos by Miss Ida Welgmann, evincing careful training.

Alternate tears and laughter were aroused by J. T. Veglard, the man of a thousand faces. This favorite artist was at his best.

The conclusion of the entertainment was the character song "Mortgage the Farm", by Mrs. Wm. A. Westphal, Miss Dottie Sears, Miss Lizzie Duveir, W. Tallamy, B. Tallamy, and Bert Littell. This was exceptionally well rendered, and all deserve great credit for their admirable rendition of their parts.

The programme finished, the floor was cleared for dancing, and to the strains of Frazee's incomparable orchestra all toes tripped blithely till long past midnight.

The committee, which was highly praised for its efficiency and good management, consisted of Mrs. W. A. Westphal, Mrs. Fred Canfield, Mrs. Welgman, Mrs. Radin, Mrs. Geo. Voehl and Joseph E. Wycoff.

Those Fanwood Lights.

Much dissatisfaction is expressed among the residents of Fanwood with the electric light service in the village. Three nights ago the town was in complete darkness, and the lights have been few and far between ever since. Last night again the main street was without lights. Complaint has been made to the company by those in authority in the village, but no beneficial results have been noticed from calling the attention of the company to the state of affairs. There can be nothing more annoying than the constant failure of the street lights, and Fanwood's residents are justly incensed.

Mr. Emery's Misfortune.

James Emery, of 965 West Front street, had a pair of full-blooded Alderney cows, valued at $200, stolen from his place at 5 yesterday afternoon. He traced them as being driven by an unknown man on the road to Pluckamin, and is following up the chase. He will reward liberally anyone giving positive information. His neighbor Mr. Murphy lost a cow by theft this summer.

WHERE THEY STAND.

RACE-TRACK LEGISLATION EMPHATICALLY OPPOSED.

Here Is the Stirring Declaration of the Somerset County Democrats and Their Candidates Against Vicious and Immoral Laws—Manly and Courageous Stand of Nominee Beekman—The Citizens Anti-Race-Track League Satisfied.

By one voice the Democrats of Somerset county in convention assembled, Monday, adopted as their campaign standard the following

PLATFORM.

The Democratic party, in convention assembled, reaffirms the principles in the platform of the Democratic National Convention which nominated the President and Vice-president of the United States.

We have confidence in the wisdom of the President and believe that if the United States Senate will follow the House of Representatives in the repeal of the "Silver law", confidence will be restored and business resume its natural course.

We reaffirm our confidence in Gov. George T. Werts and his Administration.

It is the sense of this convention that the people of the county of Somerset are in favor of law and order and opposed to gambling of every nature; therefore

Resolved, That the candidates this day nominated pledge themselves to favor all legislation repealing all laws of an immoral and vicious character, especially what is known as "race-track" legislation.

Resolved, That we pledge ourselves to the support of the candidates this day nominated.

The stirring speech which the Hon. Henry M. T. Beekman, nominee for Senator, made after the adoption of this platform is faithfully reported by The Messenger of Somerville, in part as follows:

It is no empty honor to represent a county that has given to the State and to the nation as many great and accomplished men as Somerset county has—men whose fame has not been circumscribed by the narrow limits of the State of New Jersey, but has been as broad as the whole country. I have only to mention the names of Dayton, Frelinghuysen, Pennington, Vroom and Southard, and many others. Like them, if it should be my privilege, I would strive, to the best of my humble ability, to secure such legislation as will tend to relieve you of all unnecessary burdens, and best promote your welfare and prosperity. With the increasing growth of our State and its varied interests, new subjects for legislation are constantly arising which should challenge the best thought of all intelligent citizens, and whoever is chosen to represent this county in the Senate should not forget the words of Grover Cleveland: that "public office is simply a public trust".

Mr. Beekman read aloud the resolutions adopted, and further said that he was opposed to race-track legislation, and that he would vote, if elected, against such legislation. He went on to say that he had never owned a share in any race-track company; that he had never been at a race-track in the State of New Jersey, unless the county fair could be called such; that he was not a breeder of fast or race-track horses, and that his family was not a race-track family.

Here some one in the rear of the hall inquired if Mr. Beekman would vote for the repeal of the race-track bill. He thanked the gentleman for his question and stated that he would certainly do so, if elected.

Mr. Beekman further said, turning to the delegation from Bernards township, that he understood that they were in some difficulty with respect to the bonded debt of the township, and he pledged them that if elected it would be a pleasure to aid them in securing such legislation as they needed.

He further said that in a time like this men should lay aside jealousies, rivalry and all animosities and let nothing stand between their party and their party's success; that no man was as big as his party; that no man should be considered when the welfare of his party was in question; that the Hon. George H. Cramer, Somerset's Member of Assembly, had served the county faithfully, conscientiously and well, had manfully withstood all of the temptations which a legislator encountered, and had done credit not only to himself but to the county as well, and that he should be re-elected.

Believing that the Democratic party would triumphantly ratify the nominations made by the convention at the polls on the 7th of November next, Mr. Beekman again thanked the convention and retired amid enthusiastic applause for his creditable sentiments so eloquently expressed.

J. Vred Voorhees, who was present as a representative of the Citizens' League, stated that he had come to ascertain the views of the candidates on the race-track issue, and that he was entirely satisfied with Mr. Beekman's statement.

HONORABLE CANDIDATES.

Hearty Endorsement by Editor Mattison of the Anti-Race-Track Ticket.

[From The Somerville Messenger.]

Monday's convention presented the name of Henry M. T. Beekman for State Senator. He is no stranger to our people, having been born and reared in the township of Branchburg, and comes of an old and highly-esteemed family. After graduating at Rutgers College he began the study of law, and has for some years practiced that profession, being a member of the well-known firm of Traphagen & Beekman, in Jersey City.

Of his abilities and fitness for the position, all who know him can vouch. In his speech of acceptance he pledged himself to do his utmost, when elected, for the interests of his county.

The convention adopted a platform which admits of no uncertainty as to the party's position on the race-track issue—much to the disgust, no doubt, of our Republican friends; and Mr. Beekman's ready endorsement of that resolution was so complete that J. Vred Voorhees, Esq., this county's representative in the Citizens' League, after listening to the speech arose and said that he was so fully satisfied with Mr. Beekman's pledge that he did not deem it necessary to propound the formal questions prescribed by the league for candidates for legislative honors.

The renomination, by acclamation, of Hon. George H. Cramer for Assemblyman was a deserved recognition of that gentleman's worth and an evidence of the appreciation by our citizens of his services at the last session of the Legislature.

The nominees for the office of Coroner—John F. Brady, E. F. Farrow, M. D., and Fred. C. Sutphen, M. D.—are all good men, who will discharge their duty to the satisfaction of the people, if elected.

The Messenger, in pledging the nominees its cordial support, does so in the belief that its course will be indorsed by the people of the county, at the polls, by the triumphant election of the candidates.

AT THE RIDING CLUB.

Progress of Equestrianism Through the Plainfield Academy.

The Plainfield Riding Club enjoyed another pleasant ride at the Crescent Academy last evening. Twenty or more mounts galloped round the ring to the sounds of brass band music. Sergeant John I. Holly was mounted on a beautiful charger, which he managed in a masterly manner.

The display of horsefish was of itself well worth a visit to see, being superior to any display seen at any academy of the metropolis. The riding of the members also shows a marked improvement over their last spring performance. Equestrianism is undoubtedly the coming fad for Plainfielders.

Several new clubs are about being organized, one an afternoon club composed of young ladies and gentlemen.

A Boys Cavalry troupe is already fairly started, and the little fellows enjoy the sword exercise while mounted and are fast learning the drills, etc. Owning to the special care given to children, many little ones from 5 to 10 years of age are under tuition, with new applicants daily applying.

Among the riders last evening were noticed A. C. Vail and daughter, Mr. Evans and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Pentz, Miss Holly, Mr. and Miss Van Boskerck, F. Ruttman, A. Streuli, W. J. Johnson, Mr. Waring, Mr. Buttfield and others. The public is cordially invited, the admission fee having been dispensed with.

HOW TO GET THERE.

The World's Fair a Success, But It Will Soon Close Its Gates Forever.

The grandest exhibition of our time and possibly for many generations to come will soon be brought to an end. There remains but one month in which to visit this marvelous gathering of the world's productions, and everybody should strain a point to go to Chicago.

The railroad fare heretofore has been considered a hindrance to all classes, but this has all been changed, and on the following days in October the West Shore railroad will run high-class excursions on its fast express trains in through cars at one-half its lowest fare, i. e., $17, from New York to Chicago and return, and proportionately lower rates from points along its lines. These magnificent excursion trains will be in charge of an agent whose duty it is to care for the interests of the company's patrons en route, to furnish detailed information as to accommodations obtainable in Chicago and to point out the historic points along the grand old Hudson and through the picturesque Mohawk Valley.

These trains will leave Franklin street, New York, at 10 a. m., and West 42d st., at 10:10 as follows: Saturday, October 14; Thursday, October 19, and the last, Monday, October 23.

If readers will just take trouble to call at any West Shore office they will be received with the usual courtesy that characterizes the employes of this superb route, (over which a journey of the kind referred to can be made with considerable ease, owing to the fact that the management of the West Shore railroad has spared no expense to make it the easiest running and safest road in the world), and furnish any information desired appertaining to this trip.

To Develop the Ball-Field.

Negotiations are on foot between the Allen estate and A. D. Thompson and William Kelly for the purchase by the latter two of the valuable piece of property on Somerset street, now known as the base-ball field. It is understood that the intention of the prospective purchasers is to open up the property for building purposes. The location is good, and the lots would probably not stay on the market a long time.

Can't Get In Without One.

The Plainfield Bicycle Club has sent out its invitations to the Saturday night stag raquette for members and friends. The talent announced is James S. Burdett, reciter and impersonator, Alfred E. Pearsall, musical humorist, and the Runyon-Knight-Gorton-Freeman quartette. Chas. Noe Daly was on the list, but can't appear. The cards say:

This ticket, or some other, will admit you. You can't get in without one.

The reader of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer $100 for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address

DESPERATE TIGER FIGHT.

The Celebrated Prince Killed By His Mate Princess.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 19.—A ferocious battle took place between the two royal Bengal tigers in the Roger Williams' park menagerie yesterday, in which Prince, a noted animal, was killed by Princess, his no less noted mate.

Prince seemed to have had the best of the battle at first, but, after a hard struggle, Princess broke away from him and, moving a few feet to the rear, leaped upon her adversary with great force, knocking him upon his side.

For half an hour the battle raged and blood spurted in all directions. The cage and immediate vicinity looked like a slaughter house. Neither tiger gave way, and finally Princess set her feet in her mate's neck and held him until he was dead.

She was enraged, and then, animal fashion, she tore the meat from his body and drank his blood.

Almost lifeless she lay in the pool of blood for several minutes, and then raising herself, let forth a terrible howl as if cheering at victory.

When the noise ceased the keepers entered the building. Princess sat in her cage with one paw upon Prince's head, which was nearly severed from his body. She was still angry, but finally became quiet. She was covered with blood and the remnants of her dead mate, but then she stood victor of the greatest battle ever fought in this or any other menagerie.

The tigers were the finest specimens in captivity. Prince was well known throughout the United States and Europe as the most ferocious animal ever captured by animal hunters in India. It was three years ago that Prince was captured, after mangling three hunters in the foot-hills of the Himalaya mountains. It was the finest specimen ever caught. It was marked perfectly and weighed something like 1,200 pounds.

Prince was valued at several thousand dollars, and Princess is worth equally as much.

WORLD'S FAIR SOUVENIR COINS.

Little Demand Now for Columbian Half-Dollars and Isabella Quarters.

CHICAGO, Oct. 19.—About 500,000 Columbian half-dollars are stored in the vaults of the sub-treasury here awaiting orders for their disposition from Washington, as the public does not seem particularly anxious to acquire possession of them.

Up to a recent date they were marketed at a dollar each by the fair authorities, but just prior to Chicago day they could be had for that sum with a handsome badge attachment thrown in.

There have been rumors of the withdrawal of the coins now stored by the government, but nothing definite is known.

Those who have already bought souvenir coins seem to hold to their treasures closely. Hardly any of the coins came back to the sub-treasury, in the ordinary course of business. It is possible, however, that some may have found their way into the banks and been there exchanged for the ordinary legal half-dollar.

Beside the Columbian half-dollars there are a good many Isabella quarters yet lying untouched in Uncle Sam's depository. They are not bulky, however, and it is probable that whatever may be done with the souvenir coins the Isabella quarters will be allowed to remain in the office.

BRUTALLY ASSAULTED.

A Young Girl Carried Into a Woods By an Unknown Fiend.

HARTFORD, Conn., Oct. 19.—Louise, aged 16, the daughter of railroad baggage master John A. Hopkins, has been visiting her aunt, Mrs. Henry Lockwood, at Long Ridge, nine miles north of here. Tuesday night, about 11 o'clock, Mr. and Mrs. Lockwood were aroused by screams from the girl's room.

Lockwood found the door of his room fastened outside, and a gruff voice said if he came out the owner of the voice would shoot him.

Lockwood and his wife leaped from a two-story window and alarmed the neighbors who searched for the girl, who had disappeared.

She returned an hour later and fell fainting. She had been brutally assaulted.

She said that a man with a stubbly beard and breath smelling of liquor had seized her and smothered her cries and carried her into the woods. When leaving he ordered her not to start for home for ten minutes, or he would kill her. She is in a critical condition.

The police of Stamford were notified. It is thought the assault was committed by some one living in the neighborhood.

Bicycle Thief Arrested.

ELIZABETH, N. J., Oct. 19.—Frank Folsom, a professional bicycle thief, who rented a Columbia wheel of Frank Eveland of Jersey City, on Monday, and did not return it, was arrested here while trying to swindle F. C. Gilbert & Co. The Pope manufacturing company offered a reward for Folsom's arrest.

Foy to Be Killed Next Monday.

COULD NOT NAME IT.

Doctors Unable to Understand This Case.

SHOWS WHAT CAN BE ACCOMPLISHED IF ONE ONLY KNOWS HOW.

This May Prove More Than a Hint To Others in the Same Dilemma.

Doctors did not know her disease.

This is the experience of the wife of one of Detroit's most prominent and best-known real estate and insurance agents, William A. Bury, Esq., who at present resides at Grosse Isle, Mich.

"My wife, who is 67 years of age," said Mr. Bury, "has for 7 years been troubled with what our doctors call rheumatism, but they could never give the kind.

"She has been troubled with nervousness and occasional swelling of the hands, feet and face, with cramps in her neck and limbs. She could scarcely raise herself after stooping, which occasioned soreness of the muscles until thoroughly rested.

"About three months ago she commenced using Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, and has taken 6 bottles with the result that she is greatly benefitted, especially in the pressure of the cords in her neck and breast which used at times be so great as to seriously interfere with breathing. She can stoop with ease to pick up a pin, her appetite has returned accompanied by better digestion, and she has much improved generally.

"I have lived in Detroit and on Grosse Isle for 60 years and am known throughout the county of Wayne. I would say that my wife's improvement by the use of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy is such as to astonish her friends.

This remarkable remedy is the best known specific for rheumatism and cures more cases than any other medicine in the world.

Belief will be speedy and a cure sure.

All druggists sell the medicine for $1 per bottle and it is purely vegetable and harmless.

We would also say that it is the discovery and prescription of a well-known physician, Dr. Greene, of 35 W. 14th st., New York, who is without doubt the most successful specialist in curing all forms of nervous and chronic diseases in this county. The doctor can be consulted free, personally or by letter.

COMPROMISE BALKED

Carlisle Still Insists on Unconditional Repeal.

Democratic Caucus Agreement Not Satisfactory to Secretary Carlisle—Believed That the President May Make Slight Concessions—Heated Discussion in the Senate.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—It is reported that the democratic caucus reached an agreement on the silver question and decided that the law of 1878, authorizing the secretary of the treasury to issue bonds, should be amended so as to limit the period over which such bonds should run to not more than five years, and to reduce the interest to 3 or 3 1-2 per cent.

After a session lasting, with occasional interruptions until 2:45 o'clock, the caucus committee adjourned and Senators Blackburn, Cockrell and Gorman went directly to the treasury, where they held a conference with Secretary Carlisle.

It is said that, with the exception of some details, the compromise bill was agreed upon, and if Mr. Carlisle is satisfied with it, it will be introduced into the senate to-day or to-morrow.

Later it was learned that no agreement was reached with Mr. Carlisle, the secretary refusing to yield his stand for unconditional repeal.

The belief exists in the minds of the caucus committee that the administration will concede a repeal to take effect at a future day, and that was one of the contentions discussed for some time. The repeal men want the time fixed for January or, at the latest, July 1, 1895, while the more conservative silver men want it to extend to Jan. 1, 1896, as fixed in Mr. Quay's proposed amendment.

A representative southern silver senator said last evening, after the committee returned, that if they could get nothing better they would accept July 1, 1895, but pointed out that this was bad politics.

CONGRESSIONAL PROCEEDINGS.

Heated Discussions Still Continue in the Senate—Work in the House.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—The third act of Tuesday's legislative session was performed yesterday. The actors who played the leading rolls were Senators Hill, of New York; Butler, of South Carolina; and Palmer, of Illinois, while minor parts were taken by Senators Stewart, of Nevada; Dubois, of Idaho; Peffer, of Kansas, and Hoar, of Massachusetts.

The subject of the performance was whether the name of Mr. Teller, of Colorado, should be entered on the journal of Monday as having been present and having refused to answer when called.

The dialogue was broken in upon, near the close of the performance, by a witty suggestion on the part of Mr. Palmer, of Illinois, that, as Mr. Teller himself had presented the question to the senate, he should be treated with that courtesy for which the senate was eminently distinguished, and his request complied with.

He asked unanimous consent to that effect, and when it was refused he sat down with a half tragic air, saying that he abandoned the motion in despair. His remark was followed by a petulent wail from a child in the gallery, on which he exclaimed, dramatically: "Listen to the echo of my despair!"

The closing speech was made by Mr. Butler (dem., S. C.). After a well-phrased dialogue between him and Senators Hill and Palmer, the galleries applauded once too often, and were so sharply rebuked by the vice-president that one of the offenders in the gallery arose and said that he had been one of the conspicuous applauders and that he would now leave the gallery, where he had been a listener for the last six weeks. Then Mr. Butler intimated that the galleries had been packed for the benefit of the senator from New York, and that he would be very glad to meet the senator at some street corner where they could have it out.

Mr. Mandersoo, having imagined that this last remark covered a threat, made a point of order; but withdrew it when Mr. Butler explained that his challenge was to speak, not to fight.

In the course of further discussion Mr. Hill insisted on the idea that any restriction in the rules whereby the majority was deprived of the power to amend them was not binding.

Mr. Butler—Then I understand the senator's position to be that the rules bind the minority, and do not bind the majority.

Mr. Hill—That is not my position.

Mr. Butler—Then I would like to have the matter explained.

Mr. Hill—In all ordinary methods of procedure the rules are binding both on the majority and minority. But we cannot, by our rules, tie ourselves up so that the majority has not the power to amend the rules.

Mr. Butler—But we have tied ourselves up by a code of rules to which the senator subscribed when he took the oath. Now I understand him to say that he is not bound by that code of rules except so far as it meets his approbation.

Mr. Hill—We have tied our hands. I propose to untie them, so that we can change the rules.

Mr. Butler—How?

Mr. Hill—By offering at the proper time and place and occasion (to be determined upon by the majority) an amendment to the rules, and then proceeding, as may be regulated by the majority, to vote upon it. There is no practical difficulty if (and he emphasized the "if" and repeated it) the majority of the senate desires to change the rules. I have thus far proceeded under the strict letter of the rules, but what position the majority shall take on this question will depend very much on the attitude of the minority. I hope that, before this debate is through, the majority will be found by my side ready to insist on its constitutional right to amend the rules, whereby the senate can carry out the will of the majority.

There was something in the last remark of Mr. Hill that caused to convey to Mr. Butler's mind the idea either that Mr. Hill was not sure of the majority, or else that he was weakening in his position. He made some remark about Mr. Hill coming over finally to the side of the minority, and Mr. Stewart (rep., Nev.) remarked, very complacently, that he was half way over now.

Hot shots flew thick and fast for a time and then, at the close of Mr. Butler's speech, the motion to amend was withdrawn, the journal of Monday was approved, the morning hour of Tuesday was dispensed with, and at 4:10 the repeal bill was taken up, and Mr. Peffer resumed his speech against it, which he began last week.

House of Representatives.

The house yesterday made the bankruptcy bill a continuing special order for Monday next, the measure to be considered in committee of the whole where it will be open to amendments on each paragraph.

A bill was passed granting certain public lands to the territory of Arizona.

A bill requiring government-aided railroads to provide stations at town sites within the territories where such town sites have been established by the interior department, was discussed, but not disposed of.

The printing bill was further considered without final determination. The remainder of the day was consumed in eulogistic addresses to the late William Mutchler, of Pennsylvania, in respect to whose memory the house at 3:45 adjourned.

CONVICTED OF MANSLAUGHTER.

Verdict in the Case of Emma Woods at Newark.

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 20.—The jury in the case of Emma Woods for the murder of saloonkeeper Lew Brown retired at 2:45 o'clock yesterday afternoon after an exhaustive charge by Judge Depue very unfavorable to the woman.

At 7:05 o'clock in the evening the jury brought in a verdict of guilty of manslaughter.

As Prosecutor Crane finished his address to the jury the prisoner fainted. The strain had been too great for her. Her old father was not in court at all during the day. The woman wept during the three hours and more of the prosecutor's speech, and her little boy wept with her.

When the foreman of the jury pronounced the words "Guilty of manslaughter," the woman fell to the floor sobbing violently. She was carried into the jury room.

The judge's charge had been against the prisoner, and it was conceded by all that the verdict must be against her.

JUMPED FROM A WINDOW.

After Laudanum Fails Mrs. Parsons Tries Another Means of Suicide.

BOSTON, Oct. 20.—Mrs. C. C. Parsons, a pretty blonde, aged 35, from Barton, Vt., lies almost at the point of death at a private hospital on Chester square, from the effects of laudanum taken with a suicidal intent, while a guest at the Crawford house, Saturday night.

Last evening to the dismay of the doctors, she suddenly jumped from her bed, and before the attendants could restrain her, she threw up a window and jumped to the ground a distance of three stories. No bones were broken, but she was badly shaken up.

Last Saturday night she engaged a room at the Crawford, retired, and was not seen again until her room was broken into Sunday night and she was found nearly dead in bed. The gas had been turned on unlighted and beside her lay a half emptied bottle of laudanum.

LOG, OR BODY BURIED?

The Denver Story About Dr. Graves Rife in Providence.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 20.—The story from Denver about there having been a log instead of his body in Dr. Graves' coffin has been rife here for several days, but no attention has been paid to it.

The coffin was not opened at the grave on Tuesday, and, as far as can be learned, was not opened when originally placed in the receiving vault in the West Thompson cemetery. The story first appeared in the Denver Republican. So far as could be gathered from what occurred at the grave on Tuesday, the coffin contained the body of the unfortunate man.

MANHATTAN DAY.

New Yorkers Confident of a Great Time To-morrow at the Fair.

CHICAGO, Oct. 20.—Manhattan day at the world's fair is now assured of success. All arrangements have been about completed and the crowds are coming. The down-town hotels even now are taxed to their utmost limits and accommodations are at a premium.

Mayor Gilroy arrived last evening and went at once to the Auditorium. Chauncey Depew, Gen. Horace Porter, Hon. Seth Low and Col. John R. Fellows, who will aid Gotham's mayor in lending eclat to Gotham's one-day jubilee are expected to arrive to-day.

Mayor Gilroy, who was seen by a United Press reporter, said he was sure of an immense crowd for to-morrow's celebration.

"Great crowds are coming from New York city," he continued, "and the railroads are putting forth every effort to carry them comfortably. I believe we will break the record for travel between the two cities, and I think we will do credit to our city with our carefully arranged programme for Manhattan day."

That this day will be royally celebrated is evidenced by the number of Gothamites who have engaged rooms at the Windermere, Chicago Beach, Colonies and other leading hotels adjacent to the fair grounds.

Richard Croker, the Tammany chieftain, arrived from the east yesterday and is registered at the Windermere. With him is John D. Crimmins, J. W. Beekman and others.

President Pullman supplemented his annual report with the information that the average number of names on the payrolls at Pullman for the year was 5569 and wages paid $3,413,786, making an average for each person employed of $613 against $590.65 for the previous year.

The total number of persons in the employ of the company in its manufacturing and operating departments is 14,685 and wages paid during the year $7,751,644. The number of employes for the previous year was 12,809 and wages paid were $6,619,186.63.

WILL KEEP ON TRAINING.

Corbett Learns of the Proposed Action of King's County Officials.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Oct. 20.—Pugilist James J. Corbett this morning received word that the Kings county officials at a special meeting had decided to stop the proposed fight between himself and Mitchell at the Coney Island athletic club.

When seen at his training quarters Corbett said that he proposed going on with his daily training as heretofore, and if the fight did not come off it would be no fault of his. Corbett refused to say whether he would sign to fight before any other club.

Corbett refused to attend the Dixon exhibition in the opera house here last night.

ANOTHER JERSEY MYSTERY.

This Time, However, it is a Big Steal of County Cash.

CAMDEN, N. J., Oct. 20.—Eli B. Morgan, the county expert, who was appointed by Judge Garrison to examine the books of ex-county clerk Edward Burrough in the suit of the board of chosen freeholders of Camden county, has informed the special committee of the board that he had discovered that all the records of the county collector's office from 1844 to 1889 had been stolen.

He also found that a deficit of $43,000 had been carried for years.

The whole matter is shrouded in mystery.

Stocks Raised for Taxes.

HARTFORD, Conn., Oct. 20.—State Comptroller Staub and Treasurer Sanger, acting as a state board of equalization, have raised the price of stocks returned to them as the valuation upon which to levy state taxes as follows: Hartford fire insurance company, $285 to $300; Phoenix insurance company, Hartford, $150 to $160; Travelers insurance company, Hartford, $175 to $185; Orient insurance company, Hartford, $40 to $45; Loan and Guarantee company, of Connecticut, $50 to $60. This affects non-resident stockholders of those companies. The decision of the board is absolute.

A Stage Struck Pair.

PASSAIC, N. J., Oct. 20.—Miss Susan Griggs, of No. 38 Irving place, and George W. Grotach, a young drug clerk, disappeared simultaneously last evening. They are believed to have gone away together to get married and go on the stage. Both young people have been stage struck for some time.

Wounded a Woman; Killed Himself.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—Maurice De Comollion, 16 years old, shot and dangerously wounded Emelie Alexander, a married woman, at 218 West Sixteenth street, last evening. He afterwards shot himself and died instantly. The woman was removed to the New York hospital.

FRESH FOREIGN NEWS

France Still Feteing Her Russian Visitors.

Marshal Mac Mahon to Have a National Funeral and Admiral Avelain Will Attend—English Miners Again Rioting—Other News.

PARIS, Oct. 20.—The Russians were entertained by the municipal authorities at the town hall last evening. These authorities are socialists, but they did not hesitate to lavish every luxury upon the officers of the Russian autocrat. More than 2,400 cray fish were used for the bisque soup, 25 deer were killed to supply the course of venison, and 95 waiters were kept busy serving the wines and choice dishes.

President Carnot presided, and among the 546 guests were all the members of his military household. The table of honor had the form of a horseshoe. Carnot sat in the place of honor; at his right Premier Dupuy and Baron Mohrenheim, at his left, the prefect of the Seine, and Admiral Avelan. Long curved lines of ministers, deputies and Russian officers stretched away on each side from the place of Mohrenheim and Avelan.

The usual toasts were given and answered with the usual cordiality. Coffee was served in the Salle des Prevots, while a military band played. As the army of lackeys cleared the room, the diners watched from the windows a great torch-light procession of choral societies, accompanied by bands and troops, march across the Place de la Hotel de ville. Large gilded ships filled with orchestras and children's choruses were pushed into the open space before the town hall.

The delight of the throngs in the streets and on the roofs seemed boundless.

The Figaro, with the assistance of Sarah Bernhardt, Sybil Sanderson and Yvette Guilbert, will give an entertainment for the Russians before they leave.

The enthusiasm has not shown a sign that Paris is tiring of the fetes. Flowers have been strewn before the horses of Avelan's carriage wherever he has gone. Scores of well-dressed Parisians have burst through the police line to shake hands with the Russians.

MARSHAL M'MAHON'S FUNERAL.

It Will Be National, Partially at the Czar's Request.

PARIS, Oct. 20.—The cabinet decided last night that Marshal MacMahon should have a national funeral from the Englise des Invalides on Sunday, as the czar has manifested a wish that Admiral Avelan and the other Russian officers shall pay last honors to the dead soldier.

PARIS, Oct. 20.—The arrangements for the funeral of Gen. MacMahon have now been completed. According to the programme the body will be conveyed from the chateau in which the general died to the Town church at Montcresson, where it will remain until nightfall in order that visitors may take a last look at the illustrious dead. After dark it will be removed to a lateral chapel where it will remain until taken to Paris for interment in the Englise des Invalides.

MINERS AND POLICE CLASH.

Serious Riot at Sutton Heath Collieries in England.

LONDON, Oct. 20.—Two thousand striking miners attacked the Sutton Heath collieries at St. Helen's, county of Lancaster, yesterday afternoon. They drove away the mine officials, broke the machinery at the pit-shafts, and split up the wagons.

When the police arrived the miners had armed themselves with wheel spokes, poles, stones and pieces of broken machinery. The police charged, clubbing the men right and left.

The mob surrounded them, stoned and beat them and finally drove them back, carrying with them three wounded. The police charged twice more before the strikers would yield. They caught ten of the men most conspicuous in leading the mob and locked them up at St. Helen's.

Four policemen and three miners were wounded severely and several more on each side received serious injuries.

WITH POMP AND SPLENDOR.

The Trenton Battle Monument Dedicated Yesterday.

TRENTON, N. J., Oct. 20.—The Trenton Battle Monument was dedicated yesterday with considerable pomp and splendor. Governors of eight states participated and an impressing military display was one of its features.

The city was never more lavishly decorated in honor of any occasion and never did any people manifest their patriotism more enthusiastically. Almost every dwelling in the city was decorated with flags and bunting and the public and business buildings were all handsomely arrayed with the national colors. Every workship and factory was closed and the entire population turned out to witness the exercises and festivities and thousands of strangers swelled the great throng of sightseers.

The monument commemorates the historical encounter of General Washington with the British and Hessians in the streets of Trenton, on December 26, 1776. At that time Trenton was a straggling village. To-day it is a lively, growing city of 75,000 inhabitants, with here and there still standing buildings which were erected in King George's time. From the top of the monument ground made sacred by the blood of the early patriots is invisible on every side.

The shaft, Roman Doric in style, is of white granite. It towers one hundred and thirty-five feet in the air and is surmounted by a bronze statue of Washington thirteen feet high, and is the gift of New York state. Washington is represented as standing, glass in hand, surveying the fleeing Hessians, and with right arm extended points down street—now Warren street—in the direction he wished Captain Hamilton's battery to open on the foe.

The figure is in the full uniform of a continental general, an exact reproduction of the uniform worn by Washington during the Revolutionary war. Artistically the column seems to be faultless in design, and it is confidently thought that it will be accounted through all time as one of the most perfect monumental shafts of victory in the world.

THATCHER FAIR AWARDS.

Objections From Nearly Thirty States and Territories.

CHICAGO, Oct. 20.—Between twenty and thirty states and territories yesterday, through their executive commissioners at the fair, resolved to go on record as opposed to the entire Thacher system of awards. At a meeting in the Missouri state building the state executive commissioners appointed a committee of eleven members to investigate the whole awards system as it applies to the states and individual exhibitors. As one commissioner expressed it, it is believed the state boards will wash their hands of all responsibility of the world's fair system of awards, and will go on record as uttering a final protest against the methods adopted by Mr. Thacher and the national board.

"How will you do it?"

"That will be found out later," and he added significantly, "Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof."

The old ring has n't lost its grip. In the First ward primary last night, after delegates had been elected to choose a Senatorial candidate, Mr. Coward informed them that it was all settled that Foster Voorhees was to be the nominee.

James E. Martine will be a most popular candidate. His life record in this community is open to the world, and from such an honest man of so honorable a career nothing but the best representation can be expect. He will conduct a clean campaign, and can be safely trusted to look after Union county's best interests in the Senate. He has repeatedly and emphatically assured The Press that he is the foe of gamoling of every description, as pernicious to mankind at large and debauching to its devotees, so he's all right on the race-track question.

THE UNION COUNTY TICKET.

Harmony and Enthusiasm of the Convention in Elizabeth.

For Senator, James E. Martine, of Plainfield; for Sheriff, John S. Sauer, of Elizabeth; for Coroner, Edward B. Kelly, of Summit. This was the ticket placed in nomination by the Union County Democrats yesterday at one of the most enthusiastic and harmonious conventions ever held in the county.

The convention was called to order at 2:30 by Thomas B. Budd, Chairman of the County Executive Committee. There were two candidates for Temporary Chairman—Thomas F. Lane, of Summit, and Alderman John T. Brady, of Elizabeth. Mr. Lane won. Wm. McCloud, Elizabeth; Vincent L. Frazee, Plainfield, and Thomas P. Sheridan, Elizabeth, were made Secretaries.

Every ward and township named James E. Martine for Senator. He was nominated by acclamation. John S. Sauer and Charles H. Moore, of Elizabeth, and Noah Woodruff, of Union, were put in nomination for Sheriff. The first ballot resulted: Sauer, 100; Moore, 51; Woodruff, 10; blank, 7; scattering, 12. Mr. Sauer's nomination was made unanimous.

The struggle for Coroner lay between James Mitchel, of Elizabeth; Dr. McConnell, of Cranford, and Edward B. Kelly, of Summit. Mr. Mitchel received 75 votes on the first ballot, or within 11 of a nomination. He waved his claims in favor of Summit, as the northern part of the county has no Coroner. Kelly's nomination then was made unanimous.

A committee was appointed to bring Senator Marsh before the convention to address it. He could not be found, being out of town. James E. Martine, the Senatorial candidate, made a strong speech, in which he blamed the Republican party for the present business troubles and financial depression. He closed with an appeal for the candidate for Sheriff, and hoped every Democrat would stand by the whole ticket. Candidate Sauer made a brief speech.

Congressman Dunn showed the fallacy of the Republican argument that the present condition of affairs is due to the Democratic Administration.

The resolutions passed indorse President Cleveland's policy, call for the repeal of the Silver-Purchasing act, and commend the course of the two New Jersey Senators in Washington and of Congressman Dunn. They also indorse the Governor.

John S. Sauer is the Director of the Union County Board of Freeholders. Edward B. Kelly, selected for Coroner, is Chief of Police of Summit.

SHE IS INSANE.

So Decides the Commission in the Case of Josephine Pound.

The commission appointed by the State Chancellor to inquire into the sanity of Mrs. Josephine E. Pound, of East Third street, near Washington, met this morning in the common council chamber and submitted the expert testimony from the physicians to the sheriff's jury.

The Commissioners consisted of Craig A. Marsh, Elias R. Pope,
Dr. George W. Endicott.

The jury to which the evidence was submitted was as follows:

Vincent W. Nash,	W. C. Ayres,
Wm. M. Sandford,	Joel Randolph,
F. H. Martin,	Randolph Dunham,
William Addis,	C. H. Lyman,
W. R. Mattox,	W. H. Clum,
John Neighbor,	Charles K. Moore.

The inquisition was made at the request of the heirs at law to determine whether Mrs. Pound, who is the widow of the late Geo. R. Pound, was able to take care of her estate. The jury was required by the Chancellor to answer a number of questions the substance of which is given in their verdict. The case for the heirs was conducted by Wm. D. Tyndall, of 170 Broadway, New York, and of Passaic. J. B. Coward represented Mrs. Pound.

Dr. Tomlinson, who has been the Pounds' family physician for many years, was the first witness. He testified that at the time of George R. Pound's death in June last Mrs. Pound showed signs of mental debility caused by the shock. About a week after her husband's funeral she broke down, mentally, entirely, and the doctor advised her removal to the New Jersey State Hospital at Trenton where she has been ever since.

Dr. William H. Murray, who was called in consultation by Dr. Tomlinson, testified as to the patient's insanity, and Dr. Ward, Medical Director of the N. J. S. Hospital, testified that the patient had not improved mentally since she had been in his care, and gave his opinion that she was incurable. Mr. Coward put in no case as he was only there to see that the proceedings were properly carried out. Mrs. Pound has suffered from temporary attacks of lunacy previous to this final one.

The jury brought in a verdict which was in substance as follows:

Mrs. Pound is of unsound mind and has been so since July 7. She has an interest in real property to the amount of $3 500 the rental value of which is $270. She has alienated none of the property. Her personal property in the aggregate amounts to $3 300. She has no children, and her direct heirs are a sister and some nephews and neices.

PROFITS OF $400.

Social and Financial Triumph of the Grace P. E. Church Fair.

The second and last afternoon and evening of the Grace P. E. church tea and fair brought more shekels into the coffers of the Rectory Society than did the previous day. The rooms of the Herring house were so crowded that one could only with difficulty move from table to table.

As usual the supper room took in more money than any other department, although the numerous "side show" features helped to swell the grand total. A room was provided on the second floor where cigars and cigarettes were provided for a consideration and this retreat proved popular as a respite from the noise and heat down stairs. Across the hall from the smoking room, Masters Jack Dumont and Jack Bartindale held a magic lantern show that attracted a large number of the little people.

The attraction of the evening was the concert that was hastily arranged to take the place of the tabooed minstrel show. This concert was given twice during the evening with the same programme. The performance was extremely creditable, especially so when the short time which the players had to prepare their pieces, is taken into consideration. The programme opened with a violin solo, by Miss Nella Whiton, accompanied by Miss Maud VanBoskerck. The selection was a Landler, by Bohm, and received prolonged applause. Will Runyon followed with a number of songs which were loudly applauded and he ended with the clasic story of "Romeo and Juliet". Laurens VanBuren sang "Daisy" Bell and "The Bicycle Built for Two" to the delight of all. The last number on the bill was a piano duet by Miss Marion Dumont and Miss Jessamy Harte. It was a selection from the "Roman de Pierrot et Pierrette" and was very prettily rendered. The room in which the concerts were given was crowded for both performances.

The cake, candy and fancy goods tables all did well Late in the evening the candy that remained unsold was auctioned off by Louis G. Timpson.

The whole affair was well managed and went off with snap and spontaniety. The proceeds of the two-days entertainment amounted to something over $400 to add the fund of the society.

Tanis the Sand-Digger.

The central figure of the new novel, "Tanis, the Sand-Digger", by Amelie Rives, is another of those strange, high-strung and passionate females that the author is so fond of representing as heroines, and after a reader has followed Tanis through her love adventures, the verdict must be that this low-born and wretched "poor white", this long-limbed, handsome digger of ginseng root, is a creature of intense fascination and remarkable characteristics. Tanis is a big, fresh and lusty young savage of the Virginia mountains, with the figure of a goddess, which when we first meet her, is screened from the breezes and the gaze of man by a single garment. Her long hair sweeps about her like a veil, and she roams the woods in the wild and vigorous manner of the antelope. She is beloved by a young giant of her own class, a mammoth brute, possessing a splendid physical beauty, and who exercises an almost irresistible spell over her. Her battle against the passion and tyranny of this man is the motive of the story. She knows him to be fickle and heartless, and the one shining quality of her character is her virtue, which sustains her at all times, which teaches her to despise the character of men like him, and to demand from a lover deep respect and constancy as well as passion. The big brute that worships her is mentally and morally unable to comprehend this part of Tanis's nature, and we find them opposed to each other in a most strange and interesting battle. Sam, the reckless lover, is bound to gain full control of Tanis without going into an argument over the matter, while Tanis, although on fire with love for him, sees him in all his weakness and wickedness, and knows that if he gets her he will love her for a day and a night, and afterward loathe her. And it is only by a wretched scheme on the part of Sam that Tanis is driven into marrying him. She becomes a martyr to save the friends that have been kind to her, and at the end she bows to fate and yields herself up to Sam because she is powerless to fight him longer. The story is told in the sharp, aggressive and often dazzling style peculiar to Miss Rives. She describes the scenes in which her characters move with her customary poetic facility, and probably the most dramatic dialogue that she has ever written is that which passes between her hero and heroine in this book. A large element of the public will not accept Miss Rives as representative of that which is healthy and excellent in literature, but the number is small that will argue against her ability to attract and hold the attention by inventing strong characters and putting them through an absorbing series of emotions and adventures. "Tanis, the Sand-Digger" will surely be regarded with interest by the reading public. Town Topics Publishing Company, 21 West 23d street, New York. Cloth, $1 50.

TRINITY'S PINK TEA.

It Was the Best Social Event Ever Given by the Society.

So many people were eager to enjoy the good graces of the Ladies Christian Work Society of Trinity Reformed church last night that the residence of Mrs. Bird and Mrs. VanWinkle, 21 Elm place, was overcrowded with members of the church and outside friends.

The scene indoors was beautiful, the pink decorations being very effective. Festoons of English ivy and pink roses hung from the open doorways in the different rooms, mantels, and other available places. Banks and vases of pink chrysanthemums and white roses were tastefully arranged. The tables were charmingly decorated with pink ribbons and flowers.

All this delightful picture added to the happiness which the genial hospitality of Councilman Bird and Letter-Carrier VanWinkle and their families provided.

The ladies and gentlemen also wore tasteful decorations of pink. The enjoyment of the good things was hearty, and the contributions were generous, between $30 and $40 being realized for the new Sunday-school fund.

The admirable committee consisted of Mrs. E. H. Bird, Mrs. P. M. Demarest, Mrs. F. A. Church, Mrs. M. Desborough, Mrs. E. T. VanWinkle, Mrs. J. F. MacDonald, Mrs. C. P. Leggett and Mrs. A. L. Force, ably assisted by Miss Mamie Carey and Miss Susie VanWinkle.

The following entertaining programme was rendered:

Piano solo—Mazurka.....Leschetizky
Miss L. Force.

Quartette—The King of Love My Shepherd Is.....Shelley
Miss Grant, Mrs. Bird,
Mr. Bond, Mr. Cutter.

Soprano solo—Sleep on, My Heart....DeKoven
Miss P. Mills.

Vocal Duet—Soft Fell the Dew of Summer Night.....Glover
Miss Grant, Mrs. Bird.

Tenor solo—A Touch of Humanity.....Jordan
Mr. Bond.

Soprano solo—Lute S gnori.....Meyerbeer
Miss Grant.

Quartette—The Lord Is My Shepherd..Emerson
Miss Grant, Mrs. Bird,
Mr. Bond, Mr. Cutter.

Soprano solo—O Promise Me.....DeKoven
Miss Mills.

All—Home, Sweet Home.....C. P. Leggett

Mr. Bond's solo was so superior that an encore was demanded. Miss Grant delighted all with "Answered" as an encore. Miss Phebe Mills was obliged to repeat "Oh promise me".

Miss Lillian Force was accompanist to all who sang.

The pink programmes were printed in purple ink by artist J. F. MacDonald.

The happy event came to a close by all joining in "Home, Sweet Home", C. P. Leggett playing the accompaniment.

THE WHITE WEDDING.

Reported by a Newspaper on the Spot.

(From The New Brunswick Home News.)

There is nothing more cheerful and gay than a home wedding in the country, and such an event took place at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Beardslee, Millstone, last evening.

The bride, and a most popular one, was their daughter, Miss Ella F. Beardslee, and the man of her choice was George F. White, of Plainfield, who is connected with the Mutual Life Insurance Company in New York.

In the presence of a large company they stood together under a huge horseshoe of smilax and lilies of the valley, and there the Rev. Theodore Shaffer, of Millstone, tied the nuptial knot, assisted by the Rev. Dr. Yerkes, of Plainfield. The bride, looking lovely in a becoming costume of pearl satin with duchesse lace and pearl ornaments, and without a veil, was unattended. There was no groomsman. The ushers were Frank Beardslee, brother of the bride, Runyon Field, David Lenox and Mr. Serrell, of Plainfield. Garland played the familiar Mendelssohn wedding march, and afterwards the music for the dancing.

The reception which followed was a lively affair, and after everyone had congratulated the young couple the latter left via Bound Brook for the World's Fair. They will live in Plainfield on their return. The presents, it need hardly be added, were unusually numerous and costly. Among those present were the following from Plainfield: Rev. Dr. Yerkes, Mr. White, wife and daughters, and Messrs. McLaughlin, Serrell and Lenox.

Latest Success at Daly's.

One of the most attractive performances now being given in New York is in Daly's Theatre, where Sol Smith Russell, the popular and quaintest of quaint comedians, is appearing in Edward E. Kidder's new play "Peaceful Valley", to large and fashionable audiences. The scenes of the play are laid in the peaceful valleys of Vermont, where there is a summer resort, and the hero in the first act is acting as a waiter in order to pay his way through college. As Hosea Howe, Mr. Russell has a part that just fits his personality and affords him many opportunities to display his known ability. He possesses the rare accomplishment of calling forth tears and provoking laughter, and there are no dull moments while he is upon the stage. The play tells an interesting story of New England life, and is full of strong scenes and incidents. It is capitally acted by Mr. Russell and an excellent company, and is handsomely staged with entirely new scenery and accessories. Matinees are given every Wednesday and Saturday, and end in time for suburban residents to return to their homes for dinner.

The American Catarrh Cure

It restores the hearing, cures the hawking cough and expectorating, removes the headache and nose bleeding, increases the appetite, produces sound sleep, invigorates the whole system and increases the vitality. DEAD, ON CHARITY'S HANDS.

A Colored Preacher's Alleged Neglect and Abuse of His Wife.

The wife of the Rev. L. L. Lomack, colored, passed away Oct. 17. It is alleged that about two weeks ago Lomack came home and, finding that his wife had moved to West Third street, he cruelly beat her. Marks were noted on her person when she passed away.

The story runs: Lomack had been absent from home five weeks, without sending his wife any money. Mrs. Burke, her landlady, demanded rent or premises. Mrs. Lomack had no money, so some neighbors paid her rent and moved her into the West Third street house.

Lomack is the man who some months ago attempted to start an A. W. P. E. church in North Plainfield, and collected a deal of money toward this object.

When the wife died, Lomack appealed to the city for a permit to bury her in the poor ground—a $15 burial; but Mr. Runyon, having known the good woman, refused to bury her there and engaged Mrs. A. Wilson to solicit aid toward putting her in Hillside Cemetery and giving her a decent burial.

It is also asserted that Lomack has another wife living.

Mrs. Lomack leaves three children. The funeral takes place today from Mt. Olive church at 2 p. m.

THE ORIENTAL DEGREE.

It Is Successfully Worked on Five Candidates by Franklin Council.

At the regular meeting of Franklin Council, No. 41, Junior Order of United American Mechanics, held in their rooms on West Second street last evening, two new members were initiated into the order, and after the meeting the mysteries of the Oriental Degree were conferred on Brothers George H. Fairchild, George Fuller and E. E. Vail, of Franklin Council No. 41; Charles Dayton, of Somerset Council, No. 104, North Plainfield; and Charles Johnson, of General Putnam Council, No. 137, Newark. Mr. Johnson formerly resided in Plainfield, but is now a resident of Newark.

Speeches were then made by Brothers Pope and Bird, of General Putnam Council, No. 137, Newark; Ammerman, of Henry Clay Council, No. 95, Newark; Kesselring and Dayton, of Somerset Council, No. 104, North Plainfield; and Davis, Long, Young, D. Bodine, B. Bodine, Taynor, Reed, Pangborn, H. G. Adams, Wilson, J. H. Adams, S. C. Terry, Jr., and others of Franklin Council, No. 41, Plainfield.

After the initiation ceremonies and speechmaking were concluded a fine collation was served by a committee from Oriental Court, No. 14, of Franklin Council.

Several choice songs were rendered, during the evening, by the members of the various councils present.

The festivities were carried on until 2 this morning, when the visiting brethren from out-of-town councils were escorted to the station and departed for their homes well pleased with the manner in which they had been entertained by the Plainfield Council.

Excellent Instructors.

A beginners and an advanced class in bookkeeping will be organized in the Y. M. C. A. rooms next Monday evening. The former class will be taught by G. J. Briggs, who teaches this branch at Mr. Leal's school, and the latter class will be taught by G. Q. Packer who has so acceptably taught large classes in bookkeeping at the association rooms for the past three years. A two-dollar membership is the only expense.

The Y. M. C. A. singing class will hold its first session at the association rooms this evening. E. A. Embury of Washington avenue, who has been secured to teach this class, was formerly a pupil of Dr. Messiter of Trinity church and is a teacher of over twelve years experience in the training of male voices. Young men interested should apply at the association rooms tonight.

A Plainfield Favorite Hurt.

Elsie Leslie, the young actress, who became famous as "Little Lord Fauntleroy" and who has many warm friends in this city, and her sister Dora, who appeared with her in "Prince and Pauper", had a narrow escape in a runaway accident at Lake St. Catharine, Vt., last Thursday. The young ladies were driving from Poultney to their summer home near the lake when their horse took fright and ran away. Fourtunately, both of them were thrown out of the carriage, for the horse went over a high ledge into the lake, at the bottom of which he now lies with the carriage on top of him.

Miss Dora's arm was broken and Miss Elsie's was sprained and both were badly bruised. News of the accident was received here yesterday by private letter.

W. Westcott, Wm. Terry, L. W. Miller; Assembly Convention: C. K. Moore, E. L. Hand, W. C. Strong, B. D. Durke.

The Hon. George Kyre offered a resolution, which was adopted, that the delegates should go to the convention unpledged. It is understood Mr. Kyte is in the field for nomination.

$100 Reward, $100.

The reader of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer $100 for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address

COKEFAIR ANGRY.

Says He Has Been Misquoted, and Declines to Talk.

(From The World Today.)

The high officials of the Standard Coal and Timber Company of West Virginia refrained from giving out more statements yesterday. President Swift was in a frightful temper when a World reporter saw him at the local desk and chair office of the company, and said with emphasis that he would say nothing more to the public. Mr. Cokefair was equally resolute in his determination to say nothing.

"I have been misquoted on every side," —said he—"and everything I say seems only to get my friends into trouble. I have been advised not to talk at all, and I shall follow the advice."

Mr. Cokefair would not even answer an inquiry as to whether he was the "Co." of Hotchkiss & Co., but one of the Hotchkiss office force who overheard the question made haste to say that Mr. Cokefair had no connection whatever with the firm. That gentleman had an unusual number of callers at his desk in 31 Broadway, and was busy calming the storm raised by The World's expose from early morning until dusk.

PLAINFIELD, Oct. 20, 1893.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS—Certain sensational articles having appeared recently in the New York World and referred to in the local papers attacking the title to lands of the Standard Coal and Timber Company, of West Virginia, in which I am interested and reflecting upon the officers of that company I beg to submit the following statement prepared by the company for publication:

[Here Mr. Cokefair inserts the letter as republished yesterday from The World.]

It has been stated that Charles Ryde holds some of the company's bonds as collateral. Before accepting the same the title papers were submitted to Mr. Ryde's own attorneys, Messrs. Simpson, Thatcher & Barnum, 10 Wall street, New York, and approved by them. The title has also been examined and approved by several other well-known law firms in the interest of various bondholders.

Respectfully,
C. C. COKEFAIR.

HOW TO GET THERE.

The World's Fair a Success, But It Will Soon Close Its Gates Forever.

The grandest exhibition of our time and possibly for many generations to come will soon be brought to an end. There remains but one month in which to visit this marvelous gathering of the world's productions, and everybody should strain a point to go to Chicago.

The railroad fare heretofore has been considered a hindrance to all classes, but this has all been changed, and on the following days in October the West Shore railroad will run high-class excursions on its fast express trains in through cars at one-half its lowest fare, i. e., $17, from New York to Chicago and return, and proportionately lower rates from points along its lines. These magnificent excursion trains will be in charge of an agent whose duty it is to care for the interests of the company's patrons en route, to furnish detailed information as to accommodations obtainable in Chicago and to point out the historic points along the grand old Hudson and through the picturesque Mohawk Valley.

These trains will leave Franklin street, New York, at 10 a. m., and West 42d st., at 10:10 as follows: Saturday, October 14; Thursday, October 19, and the last, Monday, October 23.

If readers will just take trouble to call at any West Shore office they will be received with the usual courtesy that characterizes the employes of this superb route, (over which a journey of the kind referred to can be made with considerable ease, owing to the fact that the management of the West Shore railroad has spared no expense to make it the easiest running and safest road in the world), and furnish any information desired appertaining to this trip.

President—Frank Perry.
Vice-president—Arthur Murphy.
Secretary—Wm. Jeffrey.
Treasurer—Robert Turrill.
Musical Director—Choirmaster Cheeswright.

The others present were Masters Howard, Dentz, Biker, Randolph, Bob Jeffrey, Arthur Smith, Charlie Turrill, Charlie Barlow, Jeffrey Barlow, Rowland Western and Wesley Randolph.

Success of the Corps Entertainment.

The entertainment for the benefit of the Dunellen Fife and Drum Corps last night was a brilliant success. Everything passed off in a satisfactory manner. The hall was full to overflowing, and some people were turned away.

The play entitled "Quack Doctor" was one of the best features of the programme. The representation of Dinah Primrose was received with great applause. The music by T. H. Benton was very fine.

TASTE LIFE WHILE YE MAY.

O gin I were a collgar lad, a lillhe lad I would be,
Or if a sailor I'd been bred, right wool I'd like the sea;
But, oh! this weary wark in toun, it is nae wark for me,
I canna thole the three legged stool, I canna bide the pen.

My faither is a country chield, he ca's the cairt and plough,
He labors hairt in farm and field, as I full fain would do;
Abune his head the lavrock sings, the caller air blaws free,
But he is auld, his heart's grown auld, and little heed takes he.

It's little pleasure folk can win when once they're auld and dune,
And siller comes but slowly in, it's lang or fortune's won;
For wealth comes but wi' toil and care, and care sune turns us gray;
Then haste ye, lads, to do and dare, and taste life while ye may!

Clocks That Need Little Winding.

Herr Noll, a mechanician of Berlangen, Germany, has constructed a clock warranted to run for 9,000 years without winding. D. L. Goff, in this country, has in his hall an old fashioned clock which, so long as the house is occupied, never runs down. Whenever the front door is opened or closed, the winding arrangements of the clock, which are connected with the door by a rod with gearing attachments, are given a turn, so that persons entering and leaving the house keep the clock constantly wound up.

T. G. Farrer of Fresno, Cal., invented a clock, the only motive power of which, he alleges, is the gravitation of the earth, which keeps the clock running forever without winding. This clock consists of a plate glass dial suspended from the ceiling, and all the parts of it that are visible are the two hands, the pivot on which they swing and the dial. In 1840 J. Smith of Leeds, England, constructed a clock, the sole motor of which was electricity. He lived to see this clock go for 50 years. Clocks are now made to run five years with one winding. There is a clock in the Church of St. Quentin, Mayence, which is said to have stopped only once during a period of 500 years.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Melting Metals In Water.

The remarkable electrical experiments recently made in Berlin, in which a bar of iron was apparently melted by inserting it in cold water, have naturally stimulated further investigation on the same line. The apparatus used is a vessel of glass or porcelain, provided with a sheet lead electrode connected with the positive pole of a continuous current generator. The vessel contains sulphuric acid and water. A flexible cable from the negative pole is connected to a strong pair of pliers with insulated handles.

Taking in the pliers a piece of metal of any kind—iron, for instance—and immersing it in the acidulated water, the liquid is seen immediately in ebullition near the iron rod or plate, which latter is rapidly heated and brought to a dazzling white in a few seconds and soon begins to melt in sparklike drops. The heating is produced so quickly locally that neither the water nor the body of the metal rod has time to become hot. So rapid an evolution of heat means a tremendously high temperature. In a very short time as high as 7,000 degrees F. has been developed. — Boston Transcript.

A GREAT GATHERING

Another Banquet in Honor of Cardinal Gibbons.

Church Dignitaries, Statesmen and Other Distinguished Persons Present—Senator Gorman and Vice-President Stevenson Take Part.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 20.—The Catholic club last night, in the Carrollton hotel, by a grand coronation banquet, fittingly crowned the jubilee of Cardinal Gibbons, archbishop of Baltimore, which has been celebrated here during the past two days in honor of the completion of the 25th year of the episcopate of his eminence.

The company included statesmen of national reputation, prelates of world-wide fame, men eminent in the field of letters, citizens high in public station and respected for private worth, and others again who shine in the social and religious worlds.

It was an exceptionally brilliant company and worthy of the distinguished American citizen in whose honor the banquet was given.

The dining hall was beautifully decorated with flowers and ferns, the conservatories of Baltimore contributing their choicest productions.

When the menu was disposed of Mr. James R. Wheeler, the president of the Catholic club, called for attention and made a short speech eulogistic of his eminence, as a preface to the sentiment—"The Health of Our Honored Guest, Cardinal Gibbons, Archbishop of Baltimore."

The cheers which greeted the distinguished guest upon rising to respond were long continued.

Senator Gorman was loudly called for, and warmly welcomed as he arose. He paid the following graceful tribute to the Cardinal:

"I thank you, Mr. Chairman, for your kind mention of my name. I felt much gratified by the invitation to join this company in honoring your distinguished guest. I have known him for many years. Others more competent than I, will tell you of his merit as a theologian, I know him only as a citizen.

"He has been from the very beginning of his career a steadfast friend of the poor, the advocate of the weak, a helper of the falled, a firm supporter of the rights of the people, a promoter of peace and of every measure tending to increase the enlightenment, prosperity and happiness of those among whom he has lived. His qualities as a citizen, and as a man, have entitled him to and have won the unfeigned respect of the people of the United States."

The assemblage then insisted on hearing Archbishop Ireland. His appearance was greeted with a mighty cheer.

"The orator of the club," (Mr. McSherry) he said, "has congratulated the Cardinal in the name of the Catholics of Baltimore. I congratulate him in the name of the Catholics of the United States. You say he belongs to Maryland. I say he belongs to the United States. The Catholics of the nation rejoice to-night, and in this rejoicing they honor themselves. We thank God for the 25 years that have been given to him and pray to God for the 25 years and more. I do not know whether or not you appreciate the full value of the union you see typified here to-night, the union of the Catholic Church and America, the fraternity between the Church and the non-Catholics of the nation.

The vice-president of the United States comes here to-night and takes his seat alongside the cardinal. This spirit of fraternity between church and state, thus typified is the result of the work of our American cardinal, in this greatest of democracies it was his providential mission to prove that the Catholic Church is at home; that it is at home in the freest of lands on the face of God's grand earth; at home beneath the fluttering of the beautiful stars and stripes; at home in the most enlightened nation of the world—of this, our cardinal has given proof to all men, to all the world."

COMSTOCK IN BUFFALO.

The Suppression of Vice Man Causes an Arrest There.

BUFFALO, Oct. 20.—Anthony Comstock, of the New York society for the suppression of vice, appeared in Commissioner Fairchild's court yesterday and asked for a warrant for the arrest of Byron B. Daggett, manager of the Daggett table company, of 215 Hodson street, on the charge of sending improper literature through the mails in the shape of circulars advertising a posture chair. They contained pictures representing persons occupying the chairs in various poses, which according to Mr. Comstock renders them unmailable. The warrant was issued and Daggett was arrested.

Daggett said that the circulars were only sent to members of the medical profession, but Mr. Comstock claimed that it was not a question of intent but whether the circulars were mailable.

Bail was fixed at $1,000.

An Aged Minister Resigns.

ORANGE, N. J., Oct. 20.—The Rev. Dr. Horace L. Bishop, rector of Christ church, East Orange, one of the oldest ministers in the Oranges, has tendered his resignation to the vestry. He gave failing health as the cause. Dr. Bishop was the first and only rector Christ church had. The church was organized 23 years ago.

A Prayer.

Thank God for life.
Even though it brings much bitterness and strife
And all our fairest dreams are wrecked and lost,
Even though there is more ill than good in life,
We cling to life and reckon not the cost.
Thank God for life.

Thank God for love,
For, though sometimes grief follows in its wake,
Still we forget love's sorrow in love's joy
And cherish tears with smiles for love's sweet sake—
Only in heaven is bliss without alloy.
Thank God for love.

Thank God for pain.
No tear hath ever yet been shed in vain,
And in the end each sorrowing heart shall find
No curse, but blessings, in the hand of pain.
Even when he smiteth, then is God most kind.
Thank God for pain.

Thank God for death.
Who touches anguished lips and stills the breath
And bringeth peace unto each troubled breast
From which all grief hath flown? Oh, blessed death!
God's sweetest gift! The name in heaven is rest!
Thank God for death.
—Marie Joussaye.

Deeds, Not Words.

Prune thou thine words; the thoughts control
That o'er thee swell and throng;
They will condemn within thy soul
And change to purpose strong.

But he who lets his feelings run
In soft luxurious flow
Shrinks when hard service must be done
And faints at every woe.

Faith's meanest deed more favor bears
Where hearts and wills are weighed
Than brightest transports, choicest prayers,
That bloom their hour and fade.

Grief.

Men can counsel and speak comfort to that grief
Which they themselves not feel; but, tasting it,
Their counsel turns to passion.
—Shakespeare.

Direct Disobedience of Orders.

Direct disobedience of orders on the part of a Chicago and Grand Trunk engineer and conductor, both of whom had seen long service with the company and were regarded as model employes, were the cause of the tragedy.

A Raymond & Whitcomb special train of eight palace cars filled with eastern folk, who had been taking in the sights of the World's fair, left the 60th street depot of the road at Chicago at 8:15 as the first section of the night express, known as No. 6. The train was in charge of Conductor Burt N. Scott and Engineer Harry Woolley, both residents of this place.

All went well until Battle Creek depot was reached.

From here to the railroad yards, a distance of a mile and a half, there is a double track. When the Whitcomb special came to a full stop in the depot the night operator handed Conductor Scott two copies of an order for the train to proceed to the double track east of Main street, about half a mile distant, and there await the westbound Pacific express, known as No. 9.

The Coaches Were Old.

This train which was nearly three hours late was composed of 13 day coaches and two baggage cars. Most of the day coaches had seen many years service and were in poor condition to withstand a collision. Every one of the fated number was packed with eastern people, the majority of whom, taking advantage of the low rates were on their way to take in the last week of the exposition.

The Pacific express was in charge of Conductor John Bird and Engineer Gil. Cranahaw, both of whom had received orders at Lansing to look out for the westbound train on the double track, and were accordingly on the alert.

After receiving orders at the Battle Creek station Engineer Woolley proceeded up the double track, but instead of stopping in accordance with his instructions until the westbound express had passed, he continued on and entered again on the single track. He had hardly gone more than an eighth of a mile when the Pacific express was seen coming around the slight curve behind the telegraph office of the railroad yards. It was speeding westward at a rate of 40 miles an hour.

There was no time to apply air brakes or reverse levers.

Together, Head On.

The engineers and firemen on both trains jumped for their lives and a second later the giant locomotives came together with a crash that could be heard a half mile away.

With fearful force the engine of the special plowed nearly half way into that of the express, driving it backwards into the baggage car, and the latter in turn into the day coaches behind.

The shock was so terrific that the first four of these were completely telescoped, the first coach cutting through the second and the second into the third like a flash of lightning, the roof of each passing over the heads of the sleeping passengers and sweeping in a mass to the north end of the car.

The Wreck Takes Fire.

To add to the horror, the wreck took fire from the stoves and as the flames mounted up the groans and shrieks of the maimed and injured were succeeded by heart-rending, agonizing cries and appeals for help from the scores held down by the heavy timbers, or held down by the seats and iron framework.

The travelers on the special, nearly all of whom had been shaken out of their berths by the shock, poured out of the cars, but before the fury of the flames they were almost powerless to render any assistance except to the injured in the fourth car.

Fire Alarm Sent In.

At the moment of the crash, Henry Canfield, one of the clerks in the Grand Trunk office a short distance away, pulled the fire alarm box and also telphoned to the engine house for aid. As ill-fortune would have it, however, the key to the tower was mislaid and several minutes were lost before the alarm bell was sounded to awaken the citizens.

The fire department was prompt in responding, but the nearest hydrant was nearly two thousand feet away and when a line of hose was laid, the pressure was not sufficient to throw a stream. Finally a stream was secured from another hydrant, the firemen meanwhile attacking the blazing wreck with axes, hatchets and lengths of rails found lying in the yards, but by the time a supply of water was available the telescoped coaches had been reduced to fragments of charred timber, little more than the trucks remaining.

Rescuing the Dead.

The firemen then commenced the grewsome work of recovering what remained of the victims, the police taking charge of the valuables and keeping the crowds at a distance.

In response to the alarm from the fire station pretty nearly the entire town had turned out and the residents, assisted by their wives, devoted themselves to the relief of those injured in the four cars. These were placed in buggies and carts and taken to the Nichols home, where a corps of physicians and nurses were in waiting to minister to their sufferings.

The first body was found about 6 o'clock and a few minutes after a dozen were discovered in a heap around the stove of the second car. The task continued until 20 bodies or portions of human beings had been brought out of the debris.

For want of a sufficient number of stretchers, boards were nailed together and a freight car standing on the side track was converted into a temporary morgue.

Not until their dying day will some of the citizens who were early on the ground forget the scenes that they were compelled to witness and helpless to relieve.

One of the Terrible Scenes.

No pen can describe the last moments of Mrs. Charles Van Dusen. She had succeeded in getting half way out of the window, but her limbs were pinioned by the heavy frame work of the seat she had been occupying with her husband, and this had taken fire. Thus held, roasting from the feet up, she pleaded and begged for the help that those outside were helpless to give. Despite her terrible agony she retained consciousness to the last, and as the flames crept up and surrounded her she called out her name and address and that of friends to be notified. "I am a teacher in the Methodist Sunday school at Sprout Brook, N. Y.," she cried; "say that I died like a Christian." Then the side of the car gave way and she fell back into the flames.

Her husband had meanwhile been rescued from the next car into which he had been driven by the force of the collision. Both limbs were fractured and he had also received internal injuries. He retained consciousness until his death, but was kept in ignorance of the fate of his wife. In his last breath he asked Rev. Dr. Geo. B. Kulp to send his love to the two children that he had left at home.

The sex of four of the bodies could not even be conjectured until a medical man had been called in to give his opinion.

The conductor and engineer lay the blame on each other.

SENATE DOES A LITTLE

Confirms Two Important Nominations.

Van Alen Will Go to Rome and Kilbreth Collect Customs in New York—Closure the Latest Move in the Silver Fight.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—The senate devoted four hours and a half to executive business and gave the seal of its approval to the appointments of Mr. Van Alen as ambassador to Rome, and Mr. Kilbreth as collector of customs at New York.

During the brief period that the doors were open and the public admitted to the galleries a few important events occurred.

Chief among them was the introduction of a cloture rule by Mr. Voorhees, practically the same as that fathered by Mr. Hill. It provides that when any bill or resolution which occupies the advantageous position of "unfinished business" has been debated for thirty days, any senator may, at any time, make a motion fixing the time when the final vote shall be taken, that that motion shall be put immediately, and that, during its pendency, or when the time fixed for the final vote arrives, no debate or amendment shall be permitted. The original motion, however, must have the affirmative vote of a majority of all the senators entitled to seats. The resolution lies on the table and may come up for action to-day.

An amendment to the silver purchase bill was offered by Mr. Peffer, (pop., Kan.) and occupies the position of being the first amendment that must be voted on.

It is a free coinage amendment but it specifically revives and puts in force the free coinage act of 1837. Two hours were then occupied by Mr. Peffer in continuation of the discourse which he began last Friday, and which he may finish next week, and, at 5 p. m., the senate took a recess till to day.

One of Mr. Peffer's picturesque and energetic expressions was (speaking of the course urged upon the vice-president:) "Let no Caesar come into this body, and then there will be no need of a Brutus."

Another was: "If we defeat the holy, or rather unholy alliance, of the administration with Wall street, this struggle will become memorable in history, for the senate of the United States will have shown itself to be the last refuge of constitutional liberty."

Having referred by name to Senators Voorhees and Gorman as senators who had changed their action on the silver question without having changed their opinions, he was called to order for mentioning senators by name, and was informed by the vice-president that the parliamentary expression was "the senior, or the junior, senator from Indiana." Being so instructed, he made the necessary change in phraseology.

House of Representatives.

Although the house transacted more than the usual amount of business yesterday its proceedings were almost entirely devoid of interest. The only incident out of the ordinaay was the charge by Representative Simpson (pop., Kan.) that Mr. Curtis (rep., Kan.) was the agent or attorney of railroads running through the Cherokee strip, which the latter vigorously denied. This was in the course of the debate on the bill to require those railroads to establish and maintain stations at the town sites located by the interior department, which was passed.

That discussion was also enlivened by a brief passage between Representative McRae (dem. Ark.) and Delegate Flynn (rep., Okla.) respecting the attitude of the Harrison and Cleveland administrations towards the opening of the strip to settlement, which gave Mr. McRae the opportunity to express his opinion that the present administration was wrong in retaining officials and employes of the last administration.

The house also passed a deficiency bill appropriating $335,000, and the bill to remit half the duties assessed exhibits sold at the worlds fair, Chicago, or those on exhibition there, which may go to the California mid-winter exposition and to be sold there.

An effort to pass the bill submitting to the court of private land claims the claim of William McGarrahan to the Rancho Panoche Grande was defeated by the expiration of the morning hour, in which it was called up.

Believes Dr. Parkhurst Not Sincere.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—At a meeting of the police board the charges made against captains in the various precincts by Rev. Dr. Parkhurst were decided unproven. Railroad Consolidation.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 21.—The stockholders of the Baltimore & Ohio Southwestern and the Ohio & Mississippi railways will meet to-day and agree on the proposed consolidation. The new company will be known as the Baltimore & Ohio Southwestern.

A Minister Warned.

Death of Dr. Schaff.

WORK, WORK, WORK.

TEDIOUS WEARINESS OF MODERN HOUSEKEEPING.

The Nervous Strain It Costs Many a Woman to Run a Home—Evangelist Chase and His Wife Both Invalids For Years.

Work, work, work 'till the brain begins to swim; Work, work, work 'till the eyelids are heavy and dim.

The pressure of housekeeping grows greater every year. Running a home, once a pleasure, is now the cause of nervous ailments and final breakdown.

Many a wife, no matter how numerous her servants, holds the home on her own shoulders. Her cheery smile grows less frequent; tired nerves make her fretful, and nervous prostration at last exacts the full wages of excessive housekeeping.

than the other tissues; the changes that go on are more rapid than in other parts of the body; nervous exhaustion is a cry for food appropriate for rebuilding nervous tissue. The blood also has demands peculiar to its complex organization.

With the most advanced scientific knowledge concerning waste and repair in the blood and nerve tissue, Paine's celery compound was first prepared. It has made thousands of people well. It has meant life and hope to many a household Read what Rev. John K. Case, the evangelist, says, writing from Amesbury, Mass.

"Both myself and wife have been benefitted by the use of Paine's celery compound. I esteem it no less than my duty to say a word in favor of this popular medicine. Both myself and wife have been invalids for a number of years, I being broken in health by long years of arduous work in the ministry, my wife being troubled with nervous prostration, insomnia, etc. For these conditions of weakness and debility we have found Paine's celery compound excellent as a tonic and strength-giver, calming the nerves and producing sleep, sharpening the appetite, relieving the tired feelings incident to this condition and imparting vigor and vitality to the entire system. We hear the remedy spoken very highly of by others, and take pleasure always in recommending it to our friends and acquaintances."

Rev J. K. Chase, whose lifelong efforts have been devoted to the cause of Christianity, and whose earnest, untiring activity in the evangelical field has been fruitful and far reaching in its effects, is 71 years old. In his lifetime he has preached "something like 4 000 sermons," as he expresses it.

He was enroute to Dallas from Atlanta, and the satchel was stolen from his berth in a Pullman car, while he was asleep. Other passengers were robbed of valises and wearing apparel.

The Weeks Case.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—A press San Jose, Costa Rica, special says: A decision was reached yesterday in the case of Francis H. It is known only to the president and Minister Baker.

Of Interest To Athletes.

James Robinson, the athletic trainer at Princeton College, Princeton, N. J., says: "I have found it imperative to have sure and simple remedies on hand in case of cuts, bruises, strains, sprains, colds rheumatism, etc. Shortly after entering upon my profession, I discovered such a remedy in ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS. I tried other plasters, but found them too harsh and irritating. ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS give almost instantaneous relief, and their strengthening power is remarkable. In cases of weak back put two plasters on the small of the back and in a short time you will be capable of quite severe exercise. In "aptint" and "distance" races and jumping, the muscles or tendons in the legs and feet sometimes weaken. This can invariably be relieved by cutting the plaster in narrow strips, so as to give free motion, and applying on muscles affected."

Many pretty maidens presided in the dining room, which was gay with pretty gowns and flowers. Mr. and Mrs. Craig will return to Texas the latter part of next week.

Mr. and Mrs. George L. VanEmburgh of East Second street entertained, yesterday and today, the wife Capt. Richards and her sister Mrs. Crosby, of Eden, Florida, as charming a spot as its name implies, on the Indian River. The visit is a stop-over, on their way home from the World's Fair. Capt. Richards is the founder of Eden, and was many years a captain on the river. His home was formerly Newark, but several years ago he moved to Eden and bought large tracts of land. He and his three sons each own large pineapple groves, and are the largest shippers on the river.

The reader of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer $100 for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address

ANOTHER YEAR'S SUCCESS.

Whatsoever This Circle Could Do in His Name, That It Has Done.

The annual meeting of the Whatsoever Circle, King's Daughters, of Trinity Reformed church, was held yesterday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. Charles P. Leggett 822 Madison avenue. Mrs. Leggett was re-elected directress, Miss Mabel A. Woodruff vice-directress, Miss Lillian A. Force secretary, and Emma Gillem treasurer. The retiring secretary, Miss Woodruff, read the following very interesting report of a year's labors "In His Name":

Another year with its opportunities and responsibilities has passed, and as we stand on the threshold of the new let us take a backward glance over the old, and though many of the opportunities that have come to us as individuals have been unimproved, and so perhaps passed ever from our memory, we have listened to many of the calls that we as a Circle have received, and have the consciousness that many homes and hearts have been brightened by our work. In the true missionary spirit we have given our time to both home and foreign work, it we reckon all outside our own church's domain in the foreign field. It has been with very willing hands we have in any way aided in lifting the burden from our pastor's heart and this we are assured we have done in contributing $20.00 towards lifting the burden of debt from our loved church, and more willingly, too, as we gave it in memory of one of our circle, the first to whom the call has come to exchange earth's pain and weariness for Heaven's rest and happiness. Faithful in active service, as long as her strength permitted, to the end of her life as faithful to the interests of the Circle, and her church, we know we could have done nothing to please her more than to thus promote its welfare by helping to make it free from debt. Jennie has left us, but we are glad that another sister has been enrolled in our Circle, and one who is equally interested in its workings.

At Christmas many of our poor members were remembered by dinners or individual gifts. Outside of our church we have met all calls for work or means we, with our limited resources could, and $2 was donated for pressing needs of a family in North Plainfield. 50 cents for Mrs. Loudon, $5 toward the support of the K. S. bed in our Hospital, and a cheese cloth comfortable toward furnishing it. To our Circle belongs the honor of the first sick one laid on that bed, and she repeatedly, with tears, thanked those who in this way ministered to her comfort until God took her Home. Extending our charities beyond our city, while we remained at home, and could gather flowers, 443 bouquets were arranged at the home of one of our members by meeting each Wednesday, and sent to the Tenement Mission in New York, and $5 given toward furnishing fee for a fountain given in memory of Mr. Avery, for many years a faithful worker in the same mission. Five dollars was sent to Mrs. Sparhauk for her work among Indian girls in a school in Boston, and in answer to an appeal from the Silver Cross a package of literature was sent to a Circle in the south. In our meeting together our hands have not been idle, and as a result of our industry fourteen comfort bags were sent to Mr. Metler, whose family are in our own church, for his work among the lumbermen in Pennsylvania. A box of comfortables and clothes for children was sent to Mrs. Pound for service in a home for fallen women in the south, and in the annual box from the Ladies C. W. S. to one of the missionaries in the western field, we donated a suit of clothes and provided an entire baby's outfit. This is our record of work as we can sum it up, but only God, who knoweth the heart, knows how much of real service to Him it all means. Another year is before us. Let us each determine that whatever is accomplished whether it be much or little, shall be given truly in His name, and so shall be doubled as it bears the divine approval.

M. A. WOODRUFF, Secretary.

FROM GOOD OLD STOCK.

Candidate Beekman Was Born in Somerset, and Left College to Stump for Tilden the Great.

(From The Somerville Democrat.)

The primaries have been held, the Convention has discharged its duty, and the outcome brings before the people the choice of the representative Democracy of the county of Somerset for Senator, Assemblyman and Coroners. We give in our news columns the proceedings of the Convention, together with the speech of Mr. Beekman, the candidate of the Convention for Senator. The latter is not unknown to the people of Somerset, for he was born and has always made his home in Branchburg township. But, because he has never until now stood before the people asking their votes or held political office of any kind, The Democrat will present its readers with a brief sketch of his life.

Mr. Beekman was born at North Branch on the old Beekman homestead, which has been in possession of the family for generations. He is of the same family as the New York Beekmans, whose ancestor came to this country from Holland in 1647 with Peter Stuyvesant, and from whom Beekman street in New York city is named.

Mr. Beekman is a bachelor, is thirty-seven years of age, and was graduated from Rutgers College in 1877, having taken a full share of the prizes and honors of his class. He was also elected a member of the Phi-Beta-Kappa, a literary society to whose membership only graduates of the best scholarship are admitted. Immediately after leaving college he commenced the study of law in the office of Hon. Charles H. Winfield, Prosecutor of Hudson county, and was admitted to the bar in June, 1880. He at once formed a copartnership with Hon. Henry Traphagen, ex-Mayor of Jersey City, under the firm name of Traphagen & Beekman, and has continued in the practice of his profession at Jersey City ever since. During this period Mr. Beekman has been counsel for one of the Jersey City Savings Banks and has been so active in his profession that Mr. McGee, of the firm of Bedle, Muerhead & McGee, said a few months since that he had tried and argued more cases in the circuit of the Supreme Court and Court of Errors than any other person of his age at the Bar.

But Mr. Beekman's activities have not been confined to his law practice. He is one of the owners of the flour mill property at North Branch, and with his partner, ex-Sheriff Tunison, engaged in the milling business at that place. His political associations also have always been with the county of Somerset. He left college for a time in 1876 to engage in campaign work in Somerset on behalf of that grand old Democrat, Samuel J. Tilden, and, from that time, no campaign has passed in which he has not in some way contributed to the success of his party and in most of them has been a leading speaker.

George H. Cramer, the candidate of the Convention for Assembly, is known to the people of the county. His record as member of the last Assembly has been of the best, and upon the important issue of race-track legislation he has been influenced only by the demand of his constituents and has turned a deaf ear to the temptations of the race-track advocates. Mr. Cramer deserves and will receive the united vote of the Democracy and of many others who approve his course in opposing the race-track legislation.

The candidates for Coroners, John F. Brady, E. F. Farrow and F. C. Sutphen, are men who will discharge their duties faithfully and to the satisfaction of the people.

Martine's Record Above Reproach.

(From The Elizabeth Herald.)

James R. Martine's record in political and private life is above reproach. He is a man whom all Democrats will support and whom not a few Republicans may. He is as sincere and straightforward as he is eloquent. There is no doubt that at Trenton he would honor his constituents and his State. He is a stanch Cleveland man and that is not his least recommendation.

Our candidate for Sheriff, John S. Sauer, is receiving from all quarters assurances of enthusiastic support. His records in business and in politics are records of which he has no reason to be ashamed. As Freeholder he has served the county well and faithfully. We may be sure that as sheriff his course will commend him to the people. He deserves the promotion he is about to receive.

The next Senate of the State of New Jersey will elect an United States Senator. As that body will have far-reaching influence it is of the first importance that it should be Democratic. By no chance should New Jersey, a Democratic State, send others than Democrats to represent it at Washington. The vote of James E. Martine in the Senate of this State would be cast for a Democrat. For this reason and for the reason that Mr. Martine is in every respect an eminently fit man for the office for which he has been nominated, he should receive the entire Democratic vote.

Woman, from Native State to Clubs.

"Woman in the Nineteenth Century" will be discussed by the Plainfield Branch Alliance of Unitarian and Other Christian Women, next Tuesday afternoon at 3, in the school room of All Souls church.    c "The Association for the Advancement of Women."
2. Woman in the business world, a How much business knowledge does a woman need, and how shall she obtain it?
   b Woman Wage-Earners.
3. What is meant by "Equal Rights"?

THE MAN ON THE CARS.

WHAT HE THINKS OF TUBS AFLOAT AND ASHORE.

He Kicks About the Names of Ferryboats, and Is Amused by the Humor of Our Street Cleaning Department.

"Did it ever occur to you"—said The Man on the Cars that midwinter evening which was somehow mislaid and sprung this week, as we fought our way through the Jersey City station and climbed upon the train—"Did it ever strike you what a queer impression of our country a foreigner must get when he first sails up New York harbor and encounters our ferryboats? Setting aside their absurd contours, which are no worse than those of most European vessels of like usage, just think how the names of our river craft must appear to any intelligent tourist. Imagine yourself a well-bred, discriminating Englishman, for instance, making your initial visit to the metropolis. You pass one or two Staten Island boats on the trip up the bay, and get rather a favorable notion of our ability to christen such things, but coming a bit nearer, ye gods! You observe plying between Ellis Island and the so-called Barge office a strange craft which rejoices in the name of Shackamaxon, and this were enough to precipitate mal de mer though your stomach had withstood every horror of the ocean voyage. Then you buck up against the Central's Communipaw, and that, too, must grate upon your British senses. Following this comes a select gallery of remarkable nomenclature: Orange (you look for Lemons or possibly Bananas), Pavonia, Susquehanna, Weehawken, Secaucus, Bergen, and, crowning effort of a master intellect, Moonachie. Pretty tough list when you put it together; is n't it? I should say so. When I read a foreigner's 'first impressions' of our great and glorious country, I always make allowance for those ridiculous ferry-boats and their nightmare names.

"Speaking of this sort of thing, though, I think the best example of quiet, grim humor I ever saw is to be found right in Plainfield. Of course, you have noticed those unspeakable big red tubs, each mounted on two wheels, which are propelled about our streets and filled with dirt, leaves, cigar stumps and other debris at the inspiration of the Street Cleaning Department. But have you remarked the inscription which stands out in bold white lettering upon each vermillion tub? No? Well, that's what is funny. 'Eureka' it says in the most triumphant way, and, when you come to think of it, 'I have found it' is both apropos and felicitous: is it not?"

HOW TO GET THERE.

The World's Fair a Success, But It Will Soon Close Its Gates Forever.

The grandest exhibition of our time and possibly for many generations to come will soon be brought to an end. There remains but one month in which to visit this marvelous gathering of the world's productions, and everybody should strain a point to go to Chicago.

The railroad fare heretofore has been considered a hindrance to all classes, but this has all been changed, and on the following days in October the West Shore railroad will run high-class excursions on its fast express trains in through cars at one-half its lowest fare, i. e., $17, from New York to Chicago and return, and proportionately lower rates from points along its lines. These magnificent excursion trains will be in charge of an agent whose duty it is to care for the interests of the company's patrons en route, to furnish detailed information as to accommodations obtainable in Chicago and to point out the historic points along the grand old Hudson and through the picturesque Mohawk Valley.

These trains will leave Franklin street, New York, at 10 a. m., and West 42d st., at 10:10 as follows: Saturday, October 14; Thursday, October 19, and the last, Monday, October 23.

If readers will just take trouble to call at any West Shore office they will be received with the usual courtesy that characterizes the employes of this superb route, (over which a journey of the kind referred to can be made with considerable ease, owing to the fact that the management of the West Shore railroad has spared no expense to make it the easiest running and safest road in the world), and furnish any information desired appertaining to this trip.

Spilled the Spinach.

A New Market horse ran away on Madison avenue, starting in front of the electric light station, this morning at 8:40. The shaftbolt broke, dropping the shafts on the horse's heels. The wagon, which was loaded with spinach, was wrecked against a tree in front of the Alerts hose house. The driver was thrown violently, but sustained only a sprain of the wrist. He gathered himself together, ran, and caught the horse on Front street not far from the corner.

Fresh from the Academy of Music.

The Black Crook is coming to Music Hall Oct. 28, in all its regal splendor, embracing a wealth of superb scenery, gorgeous costumes and glittering armor, together with a large number of lithesome dancers and European specialty artists. The dramatic cast is unexceptionally strong, and in fact nothing has been overlooked. Over 100 people are engaged in this superb production, and scenic artists have been for months preparing for its tour.

CAN NEVER WORK AGAIN.

So Physicians Said, But Mrs. Grant Took Other Advice and is Now Well and Strong.

LAURENS, N. Y.—Considerable interest has been occasioned here over the remarkable restoration to health of Mrs. J. E. Grant.

Your correspondent lately called upon Mrs. Grant, and if there ever existed a grateful person she is one. In speaking of her case she said: "I feel it a duty and a pleasure to speak whenever I can of my return to health, and I am ever urging sick people to use the same means that I did. I was first troubled with an inward fever, my lips and mouth grew sore, then my kidneys became affected and a burning, stinging sensation in my stomach; this complication of troubles made me a very sick woman. I tried the various remedies suggested by my physician but they did me no good. I then advised with the best doctors I could learn of in Otsego and Delaware counties, and they told me I would never be able to work again.

I finally decided to use Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, as I had heard of how it had cured other people, so I got a bottle and it seemed to do me good from the start. I took it faithfully according to directions, and today I can say I am entirely cured—not a trace of the old troubles have I noticed for months past, and I am doing more hard work about my house today than I ever dared to do before. It built me right up, and I believe it will make anyone well, if medicine can.

Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy is with in the reach of all, and the thousands of testimonials that have been published, come from men and women in every station of life. All dealers of medicine sell it at $1 a bottle, or six bottles for $5.

JACK-O'-LANTERS GRINNED

Autumnal Products Made Gaps Vincent Chapel Interior.

The Harvest Home entertainment given in Vincent chapel last evening under the auspices of the Epworth League, was a great success. Invitations were extended to members of the Ladies from the Grace M. E. church, Madison Avenue chapel and Dunellen M. E. church.

The programme of the entertainment was long and varied, and opened with a series of tableaux representing Longfellow's "Seven Ages". A number of clever charades were done, including "The Lay of the Last Minstrel" and the words "Metaphor" and "Conundrum". These were acted out with much spirit and were greatly appreciated by the audience. One of the best numbers was "Lord Ullen's Daughter", which was read by President Joy of the Leaguers. The embarkation of the daughter and her lover on the lake, which was composed of a large shawl violently agitated by "supers" placed about its edge, was productive of much mirth. The storm was realistic in the extreme, the thunder and lightning being produced by a sheet of tin and the electric light. The decorations of the chapel were appropriate to the season. A large panel of autumn branches was back of the platform, and pumpkin Jack-o'-lanterns, corn and wheat sheaves abounded. After the programme, the guests indulged in popcorn and apples. Everyone decided that the affair was a great success.

Fled Through the Brook.

Elias and William McCreedy got into an altercation last evening near the old mill race off of Somerset street. They came to blows and only stopped fighting when the police appeared. One of them was captured, the other fled through the brook and succeeded in evading the police until late last night. They were each fined $5 this morning by Judge Pidgington.

Too Absentminded.

Roland—Hello! Here's a dollar that I didn't know I had. I'll treat Nellie to some oysters!

"Come along in, dearest."

Waiter—This is not a dollar, sir; it has a lady's photograph in it!—Truth.

Drawing Room Tactics.

Harry—Quite a military establishment over there at Miss Pruyn's, but their tactics are a little mixed.

May—How so?

Harry—Why, last evening, just as she stood at "present arms," her father "fired."—Vogue.

A cold of unusual severity developed into a difficulty decidedly catarrhal in all its characteristics, threatening a return of my old chronic malady, catarrh. One bottle of Ely's Cream Balm completely eradicated every symptom of that painful and prevailing disorder. E. W. Warner, Rochester, N. Y.

GEMS IN VERSE.

Our Emblems.

The rose may bloom for old England,
The lily for France untold;
Ireland may honor her shamrock,
Scotland the thistle bold;
But the shield of the great republic,
The glory of the west,
Shall bear a stalk of tasseled corn,
Of all our wealth the best.
The arbutus and the goldenrod
The heart of the north may cheer,
And the mountain laurel for Maryland
Its royal cluster rear;
The jasmine and magnolia
The heart of the south adore,
But the wide republic's emblem
Is the bounteous golden corn.

—Edna Dean Proctor.

Grandma's Song.

In the corner, softly rocking,
With her knitting, grandma sat;
At her feet before the fender
Purred the household tabby cat;
Soft and cheery glowed the firelight,
Reflecting on the polished tongs,
As grandma plied her needles nimbly,
And crooned this tenderest of songs:
"Ye banks and braes o' bonny Doon,
How can ye bloom sae fresh and fair?
How can ye chant, ye little birds,
And I sae weary, fu' o' care?"

There beside her on a hassock
Sat her darling golden head,
Little Mabel, with her dolly,
Nearly ready for her bed.
Through the thoughts of that wee maiden
Rang the notes of that old tune,
And between her childish fancies
Swept its dreamy, tender rune:
"Ye banks and braes o' bonny Doon,
How can ye bloom sae fresh and fair?
How can ye chant, ye little birds,
And I sae weary, fu' o' care?"

To grandma's lap climbed little Mabel,
Listening to her grandma's song,
And the firelight danced upon them
As they sat its rays among.
And by and by the golden tresses
Lay damp and soft on grandma's dress,
While the eyelids softly drooping
In slumber sweet did lightly press:
"Ye banks and braes o' bonny Doon,
How can ye bloom sae fresh and fair?
How can ye chant, ye little birds,
And I sae weary, fu' o' care?"

Still crooned the gentle, loving grandma,
While slower, slower moved her chair,
And lower bent the head of silver,
Till gold and silver mingled there
And fell upon the snowy muslin
Gathered round her withered throat;
And still she crooned until in slumber
The song in silence lost its note:
"Ye banks and braes o' bonny Doon,
How can ye bloom sae fresh and fair?
How can ye chant, ye little birds,
And I sae weary, fu' o' care?
How can ye sing, ye little birds
That warble through the flowery thorn?
Ye mind me o' departed joys,
Departed never to return."

—Olive Harper.

Faith.

The faith that life on earth is being shaped
To glorious ends, that order, justice, love,
Mean man's completeness, mean effect as sure
As roundness in the dewdrop—that great faith
Is but the rushing and expanding stream
Of thought, of feeling, fed by all the past.
Our finest hope is finest memory.
As they who love in age think youth is blest
Because it has a life to fill with love,
Full souls are double mirrors, making still
An endless vista of fair things before
Repeating things behind. So faith is strong
Only when we are strong, shrinks when we shrink.
It comes when music stirs us, and the chords,
Moving on some grand climax, shake our souls
With influx new that makes new energies.
It comes in swelling of the heart and tears
That rise at noble and at gentle deeds—
At labors of the master artist's hand,
Which, trembling, touches to a finer end,
Trembling before an image seen within.
It comes in moments of heroic love,
Unjealous joy in joy not made for us—
In conscious triumph of the good within,
Making us worship goodness that rebukes.
Even our failures are a prophecy,
Even our yearnings and our bitter tears
After that fair and true we cannot grasp,
As patriots who seem to die in vain
Make liberty more sacred by their pangs.

—George Eliot.

Clever Flattery.

A clever and delicate compliment was that paid by an American gentleman to Washington Allston, the well known painter. The two were dining together, with other guests, and Allston was observed to be looking at a picture hanging over the mantel. It was "Falstaff Summoning His Ragged Army" and was not an especially noticeable piece of work.

"I do not think you could do better yourself," said his host, and the artist bowed apparently well pleased. When he had taken his leave, the son of the house said to his father:

"How could you tell Allston he could not have painted that picture any better?"

"It is one of Allston's own," was the reply. "It was painted some years ago and has been severely criticised."

And for that reason the artist must have been doubly glad to hear it commended.—Youth's Companion.

OUTLOOK OF BUSINESS

Rssume of the Week Compiled By Bradstreet.

Commercial and Industrial Operations Suffering By the Dilatory Action of the Senate—Activity in Whiskey, Tobacco, Rice and Cotton.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—From a summary of special telegrams and reports Bradstreet says to-day:

Still another business week is rendered conspicuous owing to the paralysis imposed on commercial and industrial operations by the revolutionary policy of the minority in the senate. Larger representative manufacturers, jobbers and wholesalers in leading lines have been unable to operate with reference to the future supply or demand, and the result is that the great iron and steel industries remain practically on their backs, with no signs of a revival in either demand or price; in iron alone there is probably not more than one third the output of a year ago; wool is being sold at concessions from quotations, and mill-owners are taking raw material for actual needs only; textile industries generally are not finding the better demand expected at this time; leather industries continue much depressed; clothing manufacturers make unfavorable reports on the business thus far this fall, and at some industrial centers, notably Patterson, N. J., a home of silk and iron factories and mills, the industrial situation has advanced steadily from bad to worse, and the end is not yet.

On the other side of the account may be placed the relative activity in whiskey and tobacco at western centers, and in rice and cotton and fertilizers at some southern centers, together with a heavy output of wheat flour at northwestern points and large shipments of wheat to market within a week.

Prices of staples show an upward swing of the pendulum with reference to wheat, corn, oats, pork, coffee, cotton, rice, phosphate rock and naval stores.

Chief decreases in prices have been for lard, hogs, cattle and wool.

Bank clearings, as telegraphed from all cities reporting clearings, aggregate $931,000,000 this week, which, while it is a gain of 3.4 per cent. over the total the week before, is still 32 per cent. smaller than in the third week of October, 1892, indicating a total volume of business, so far as it may be measured in this manner, one-third smaller than a year ago.

The estimate of a domestic wheat crop this year amounting to 440,000,000 bushels has been accepted by Beerbohm, the first European authority on cereal statistics, and is corroborated by a special investigation by a western agricultural paper. If official estimates are to prevail, our available export surplus is now within 15,000,000 bushels of being all exported. Exports of wheat, and wheat flour as wheat, from both coasts of the United States and Canada this week equal 2,709,000 bushels, against 2,862,000 bushels last week and 3,189,000 bushels the week before, and as compared with 3,270,000 bushels in the week of 1892 and 3,500,000 in 1891.

Business failures in the United States this week continue numerous. The total is 406 against 406 last week, 316 in the third week of October, 1892, 208 in 1891, and 202 in 1890.

The New York stock market has displayed firmness on the expectation of developments in relation to silver-purchase repeal, and became decidedly strong at the close of the week on the prospect that some definite result would soon be reached. Speculation is entirely professional, but the possibility of a settlement of a silver controversy tends to create increased interest by the public here and abroad in railroad securities.

The receivership of the Union Pacific railroad and the change of management in the Northern Pacific company are without general effect in view of the more important developments in the silver situation.

Montreal in Bad Shape.

MONTREAL, Oct. 21.—The civic treasury is empty, and the city officers are at a loss where to raise money to carry on works now in progress. The city has borrowed all the money it is authorized to, and no new loan can be obtained without the sanction of the legislature, which does not meet until November 9.

Graves' Casket Not Opened.

PUTNAM, Conn., Oct. 21.—Geo. H. Nichols, president of the Thompson bank, of Thompson, Conn., in whose care the casket containing the body of Dr. Graves has been since its arrival east, is authority for the statement that the casket has not been opened.

Col. McClure's Condition Unchanged.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 21.—The condition of Col. A. K. McClure remains unchanged. His physicians announce that the bulletin issued by them last night in which it was stated that "the tendency to exhaustion of nervous force is still marked" is applicable to-day.

Missing Men Safe.

HAVERHILL, Mass., Oct. 21.—The three young men, McDonald, Kelleher and Miles, who left Newburyport last Friday in a yacht and who were supposed to have been lost, are safe. They escaped Friday night's storm by sailing up Plum river.

Will Not Submit to the New Terms.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 21.—The 136 puddlers at the Wayne iron works of Brown & Co., South Tenth street, have quit work rather than subscribe to the new terms presented by the company.

A Newspaper Goes Under.

BOSTON, Oct. 21.—The Boston Evening Telegram, which on July 24 last made its appearance as a 1-cent eight-page democratic evening newspaper, has permanently suspended.

Not Subject to Taxation.

BOSTON, Oct. 21.—The supreme court has decided that Boston water power bonds are not subject to taxation in the hands of purchasers.

A HERO OF THE WAR.

Story of a Colonel on Gen. McClellan's Staff.

HOW HE SAVED PRESIDENT LINCOLN FROM CAPTURE AND DEATH.

Secretary Wells Pronounced It One of the Greatest Acts of Heroism.

In the book, "Officers of the Army and Navy who Served in the Civil War," is a record of Colonel Silloways, where it is shown that he saved President Lincoln from capture and perhaps instant death. We quote: "Wednesday, May 12, 18 3, President Lincoln with friends from the north, went down to City Point on the Brooks, a transport vessel. The next day when returning, the vessel was disabled near Point Tobacco, so as to be unable to proceed. As the Brooks was about to be boarded by the Confederates, Col. Silloways had the President placed in a boat and rowed to a place of safety on the Maryland shore of the Potomac river and afterward taken to Washington." Secretary Welles wrote: "In a conference with the President and Secretary Stanton, in reference to your valuable services of Wednesday last you were promoted to the rank of Colonel and it is proposed to elevate you to the rank of chief engineer. We extend to you our heartfelt thanks, and believe us when we say we consider you to be as great a hero as any in the service, and special mention of service is ordered on record in both departments of the service."

Col. W. A. H. Silloways resides at 8 Pine street, Boston, Mass. His first wife was a daughter of Sir William Blackie and niece of Sir Richard Houghton. His present wife is a relative of Hon. William M. Evarts.

Col. Silloways himself tells a very interesting story:

"On the 19th of April, 1861, I enlisted in the army of the North. I weighed 162 pounds. After serving four years and 8 months in the army and navy, and suffere from wounds and rheumatism I was discharged. I weighed the day I was discharged 109 pounds. Every year I had attacks of nervous prostration; shortness of breath and loss of appetite were not the least of my misfortunes. I tried numberless things. Nothing did me any good.

"While employed in Boston I was compelled to resign my position on account of ill health; I consulted several eminent physicians and took their medicines. No use—I grew worse day after day. They told me I could not live; I could not walk alone in the street without falling or clinging to the railings. At times I would shake and twitch; had spells of falling down in the office and on the street; in the house I had to lie down or drop down several times I believed I was at death's door.

"I had been commander of three different G. A. R. Posts and my comrades advised me to try Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. I bought a bottle and when I had taken two-thirds of it I began to improve. I kept on taking it, improving all the time. I now weigh 130 pounds and feel like my old self again.

"You can put it in your paper that I attribute my good health to nothing but Dr Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. I am perfectly satisfied that it saved my life. I am 60 years of age, but, as you can see for yourself, I am as active as a man of 40 and can do a good day's work as people here well know. My friends in Boston, New York and other places are surprised at my recovery. Indeed, I am surprised myself to be so well. I advise everybody afflicted to buy and try Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy at once."

At this season of the year we advise the use of this wonderful health restorer. It is by all odds the best medicine ever discovered, and immediately invigorates the blood, strengthens the nerves and restores healthy action of all the organs.

Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy is as harmless as it is good, and it is purely vegetable. It sells at $1 per bottle. Physicians recommend it to their patients as it is not a potent medicine. It is the discovery of that eminent specialist Dr. Greene, who can be consulted personally or by letter at 35 W. 14th st., New York, at all times.

THE PRUSSIAN CRISIS

Reaches a Point Where the Emperor Must Act.

Russian Press Running Riot in the Russo-French Relations—Even Asserted That Alsace is Hostile to Germany—Triple Alliance Defied.

(Copyright, 1893, by the United Press.)

BERLIN, Oct. 23.—The semi-official dailies continued until Friday morning to deny the reports of dissensions between Chancellor von Caprivi and Count Botho zu Eulenburg, Prussian minister president. All reference to a quarrel between the premiers were pronounced as pure inventions. On Friday and Saturday, however, the inspired editors were dumb, although the old reports were being revived in various forms.

The fact is that a ministerial crisis has suddenly become imminent and the opposition editors, while making too much of the cabinet feud, are in most respects testing the facts.

Eulenburg the Malcontent.

Eulenburg precipitated the trouble. He told the emperor that he should resign in case Caprivi's concessions to Russia in the tariff negotiations should be approved. Behind this ostensible reason for wishing to resign, however, is a deep intrigue, in which Dr. Bosse, Dr. Miquel and Herr von Heyden, all cabinet ministers, have played leading parts. Caprivi has not interfered in the Prussian election campaign. He has left Eulenburg a free hand in every detail. Nevertheless the agrarians openly accuse him of assisting candidates who favor a tariff reform policy. These charges have produced such a state of anarchy in the corps of Prussian officials as has not been known before in the kingdom.

The Kaiser Must Interfere.

This splitting of the bureaucracy must be remedied by the emperor. Unless he interfere to harmonize the factions before the assembling of the Reichstag, all business of that body will be paralyzed. Already the feud has passed the boundaries of Prussia, and Prussian parties, and is confusing political issues in other parts of the empire. Bismarck's organs reiterate jubilantly: "We told you so."

Suggests That Caprivi Retire.

The Hamburger Nachrichten recurs to the old contention that the posts of chancellor and Prussian premier must be held by one man, as during the Bismarck regime. The only way out of the present difficulty, it adds, is that Caprivi retire, leaving Eulenburg free to make the government's policy.

The men nearest the emperor adhere to Caprivi, who retains the entire confidence of his sovereign. It is admitted generally that the fight is a hard one for the chancellor. He has a few strong friends and a host of powerful enemies.

He Misled the Emperor.

Gen. Von Werder, German ambassador to Russia, who is returning from a three week's sojourn in Wiesbaden to his official post, had an audience with the emperor in Potsdam yesterday. The meeting could hardly have been agreeable to the general, as he misled the emperor and Caprivi concerning the czar's instructions to Baron Morenheim and Admiral Avelan before the French fetes. Nothing could have been more explicit than the czar's assurances that he did not desire to encourage French demonstrations.

Russo-French Relations.

An official Russian mission made the round of the European capitals to proclaim the message of peace. It was expected in Berlin that possibly French fervor would infect the Russians, perhaps even the czar, but matters have gone further. It is significant that since the czar's visit to the French cruiser Isly, off Copenhagen, the Russian press has been allowed to run riot in the matter of Russo-French relations.

Triple Alliance Defied.

On Friday, for instance, the Moscow Gazette proclaimed that henceforth France and Russia would go hand in hand, shoulder to shoulder, through good and evil fortune, and would remain allies forever, defying the triple alliance an land and menacing England's supremacy on the sea.

Is Alsace Hostile to Germany?

In St. Petersburg the Novoe Wremja has recorded or invented an incident not reported by the French press. The story is that Admiral Avelan received in Paris a deputation from Alsace and after receiving from them an address distinctly hostile to Germany, expressed the hope that Alsace and Lorraine would be won back by France. If Count Muenster should be able to verify this story, the emperor would be as likely as not to demand from the czar satisfaction of some sort.

Spoiled Italy's Chance for a Loan.

Signor Giolitti, the Italian premier, has thoroughly disappointed German financiers with his exposition of Italian finance and his scheme to meet present difficulties. All chance of placing an Italian loan here has vanished since he spoke, and it will be necessary for him to resign before more foreign money can be obtained for his government. Giolitti's idea is that Italy can do without a foreign loan. At the same time he evades the question how she will repay the 10,500,000 pounds sterling held abroad, the 2,000,000 just borrowed in Berlin and the 4,000,000 required to withdraw her small coin from circulation, besides providing for the foreign service of debt amounting to 9,500,000.

Regrets the Fall of Crispi.

His lighthearted treatment of the situation stamps him as utterly incapable of dealing intelligently with Italian finance. The Vossische Zeitung calls him a politician beneath mediocrity and regrets the fall of Crispi.

POSITION OF ADMINISTRATION.

Favor Unconditional Repeal of the Silver Law and Not Compromise.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—A prominent official, not a cabinet officer, late last night gave out the following authoritative statement of Mr. Cleveland's views as to the compromise measure which, it is expected, will soon be brought before the senate:

"The president adheres to the position that the purchasing clause of the Sherman silver law should be unconditionally repealed. The lower house of congress voted for repeal by an overwhelming majority, a majority in the senate are in favor of unconditional repeal and the sentiment of the country demands the passage of the pending bill.

"It is not true that Secretary Carlisle is or has been in favor of the compromise which was subscribed to by a number of senators on Saturday. He and the other members of the cabinet are opposed to that measure."

FLED FROM CHOLERA.

Leghorn, Italy, in a Demoralized Condition Owing to the Pest.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—Sanitary Inspector Rosse makes the following report to the Marine hospital bureau from Leghorn, Italy, under date of Sep. 30:

"I arrived here yesterday afternoon to find the town with a deserted look and a general panic among the inhabitants, many of whom had fled to other places.

"As many as 30,000, I am informed, have lately left and business is generally prostrated.

"All the hotels are closed, but at the request of the consul one of them allows me to occupy a room. The watchman and I seem to be the sole occupants.

"Mortality from cholera so far is about 65 per cent. and the female deaths have more than doubled those of men.

"Notwithstanding the prevalence of cholera the Italian authorities give clean bills of health, and it is said that a disposition exists on the part of the populace to conceal cases for the reason that the sanitary authorities destroy furniture in making necessary disinfection and make no adequate return therefore."

BOMBARDED THE MOORS.

Spaniards Gain a Decided Victory at Melilla.

MADRID, Oct. 23.—The latest advices from Melilla, show that the Spanish troops gained a decided victory over the Moors on Saturday. After repeated warning to cease resistance, the Spaniards opened a cannonade on the Moors from forts Camellos and San Lorenzo, the nearest to the Kabyle trenches, and from the cruiser Venadito anchored at the mouth of the Ouro river.

As soon as the Arabs saw the cruiser approach a large body dashed to the shore and began firing at her with rifles, but their shots fell wide of the mark.

The Venadito came to anchor at an advantageous position and bombarded the Arabs with shot and shell, to which the natives replied with a harmless fusillade. The Venadito's Hotchkiss guns wrought havoc in the Arab trenches. Besides 81 shells were thrown among them, which must have done serious execution.

THE END NOW IN VIEW

Promise of a Break in the Senate Deadlock.

Compromise Measure to Be Offered at Once and Cloture Resorted to If Necessary—The House Looking to a Recess or Adjournment.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—This week will open in Congress with better promise of a break of the deadlock in the senate than has been evident in many days. It is the intention of the managers of the compromise movement to place their proposition before that body at the earliest possible moment, probably to-day or to-morrow. Then it will be a question of ways and means to secure action upon it, for strong opposition is expected from the populist senators, and there is no means of knowing what measure of support can be expected from the republicans.

May Resort to Cloture.

If necessary, however, there may be a resort to cloture.

Such a proposition would be much stronger when endorsed by a majority of democratic senators than when it was broached before, and there is no reason to suppose that the vice-president would not, in such case, take the necessary steps to bring the question to a vote.

The Voorhees amendment to the rules would, in this event, be the means of closing the debate, and as this has already occupied more than the 30 days specified in the new rules, the adoption of the Voorhees rule would result in a vote upon the bill and amendments very speedily.

Bill Hopeful for His Petition.

Even if the compromise movement should fail again, it is understood that the cloture rule will be pressed, probably beginning to-morrow, and it is fully expected by Senator Hill that the few conservative democrats in favor of repeal, who so far have declined to sign his petition to the vice-president, in the hope that by an agreement on a compromise the necessity for cloture would be removed, will then fall into line and sign the petition.

House Looking to Adjournment.

The development of the programme in the house this week will depend upon the course of events in the senate. If the latter body should speedily adopt the silver compromise now imminent, or make any other disposition of the pending question, it is the belief of Speaker Crisp and other members of the committee on rules, which is the managing force of the house, that a recess for two or three weeks, or possibly even final adjournment of the extraordinary session, would follow in a day or two.

The announcement, therefore, that an early settlement of the silver question in the senate was probable, has brought on a season of waiting. In the meantime, however, the bill to establish a uniform system of bankruptcy, reported by the committee on the judiciary, is on the calendar for consideration to-day with no limit of time to the order, that will enable the house in case the opportunity presents itself, to consider a proposition for a recess or adjournment, either to act quickly on the bankruptcy bill and get it out of the way, or to postpone present definite action and take it up again when congress shall reassemble.

Work Before the House.

In case congress continues in session through the week, beside the bankruptcy bill there are several measures on the calendar which are likely to be called up for action or consideration in the morning hour. Prominent among them are the bills authorizing a settlement of the accounts of Florida with the United State; directing the appointment of a commission to revise the personnel of the navy; to amend the interstate commerce act; to submit the famous McGarrahan claim to the court of private land claims.

The bill to regulate the public printing and distribution of documents will be the first business after reading the journal today, the house having adjourned on Saturday, pending a vote on its passage, the roll call disclosing no quorum.

Tariff, Not Silver, the Trouble.

DES MOINES, Iowa, Oct. 23.—Governor Foster, of Ohio, speaking at the republican rally here Saturday night, declared his belief that the fear of a change of the tariff laws was the cause of the present business depression. PREFER THEIR COUNTRY HOME.

How the Clevelands Enjoy Themselves With the Babies.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—President and Mrs. Cleveland are living more quietly now than has ever before been possible for them in this city. Outside of working hours, the white house sees very little of the president. Mrs. Cleveland still keeps to her custom of either driving in town with him every morning or coming for him in the afternoon, when they extend their drive around the country, now so glorious in its autumn dress. Those who have seen Mrs. Cleveland lately say that she never looked as handsome. Mrs. Perrine, who went to Chicago with Postmaster-General and Mrs. Bissell, returned also with them, and is staying at Woodley. The ladies are at home to their friends pretty much the same as at the white house, but very naturally no other persons would call at the country residence without a special invitation. It is quite probable that President and Mrs. Cleveland will remain in the country for another month at least, and in fact the house will be kept in readiness for them at any time during the winter. Mrs. Cleveland is just as devoted to the quiet of the country as the president, and as she is fond of walking about the woods, she can have all the outdoor exercise she wants in company with the babies, a pleasure not to be thought of by her in the streets of the city.

BISBEE WINS HIS CASE.

Suit Involving a United States Marshal's Fees.

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 23.—A case which has attracted wide attention has been decided in the United States court by Judge Webb. When United States Marshal George D. Bisbee went out of office some years ago, there was a dispute with the government about fees. Bisbee held about $1,300 belonging to the government, which he did not turn over, claiming that the government owed him $1,500 for fees which had been disallowed in Washington. After trying to induce Bisbee to turn over the amount, the officials in Washington ordered legal proceedings against Bisbee. They sued his official bond and attached his real estate to the value of $25,000. The case has been pending since April, 1891. Judge Webb gave a decision for the defendant, finding that the government owed Bisbee more than he owed it.

FOR A CHEAP CABLE.

Across the Pacific Ocean at Two Shillings a Word.

LONDON, Oct. 23.—The Times contains a dispatch from Sydney, Australia, stating that Sanford Fleming, who recently left Canada, is visiting the Australian colonies, with the view of submitting plans of four possible routes for the proposed Pacific cable from Australia to Canada. He proposed that the cable shall be owned by the governments interested. He estimates the cost of working the line at £66,000 annually and considers that the rate might be lowered to two shillings per word.

Great Cattle Killing.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 23.—The cattle killing record of the world was broken Saturday at Armour's packing house in the West Bottoms where 3,218 cattle were slaughtered in eleven hours. There were 3,218 cattle in the Armour pens in the morning and the sentence of death before nightfall was executed on all of them. The slaughter began at 6 o'clock. The average was five per minute.

CHAPTER OF CRIMES

Yesterday's Big Record of Bloody Deeds.

A Sioux Falls' Man Ends Three Lives.

Brutal Murder of a Respected Colored Man—The Mafia at Rockaway—Negro Fiend Lynched.

SIOUX FALLS, S. D., Oct. 23.—Harry Lacey, a lawyer and real estate agent spent all day Saturday and Sunday settling up his small bills.

At 6 o'clock last evening he coolly walked into the house of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Lydia Bunker.

His wife was there sitting at the table.

Lacey at once drew a revolver, shot his wife through the head, killing her instantly. He then shot his mother-in-law through the head also killing her instantly.

Lacey's two little children witnessed the shooting.

Lacey then walked out of the house and shot himself through the head, dying at once.

For the past two years the Lacey family has not been a happy one. Mrs. Lacey, a year ago, applied for a divorce, but later withdrew the action. Lacey always blamed Mrs. Bunker for all his troubles and has threatened often to kill her.

The bunker family is fated. Mrs. Bunker's husband and son, several years ago, came to a violent death.

MURDERED AND ROBBED.

A Highly Respected Colored Man of Washington, Pa., Slain.

WASHINGTON, Pa., Oct. 23.—Samuel W. Borsey, the most prominent colored citizen of Washington was foully murdered yesterday morning by two unknown men, on Chestnut street, near his home.

The murdered man was highly esteemed by white and colored citizens alike.

The people of the town are greatly excited.

Borsey was a single man, 43 years of age, proprietor of a large barber shop and quite wealthy.

He closed his shop at midnight, paid his employes and started home, living with his father and mother.

On Chestnut street he was met by two men, who deliberately fired a bullet into his head. Borsey sank down on his knees, with his back against a fence. In that position his body was found, with a lighted cigar in his teeth.

Borsey's gold watch, a diamond stud and pocketbook were taken. A large roll of money in an inside pocket was undisturbed.

Borsey was a member of the city council and a Mason of high rank.

MAFIA AT ROCKAWAY.

An Oysterman Wounded By an Italian Probably Through Mistake.

FAR ROCKAWAY, N. Y., Oct. 23.—David Bolton, an oysterman of Inwood, while returning home from church last night was shot at five times. One of the shots took effect in his leg.

An officer who was near distinguished the form of a man who was starting to run. After a lively chase of half a mile the officer overtook the man, who gave his name as Angelo Cappalo, an Italian laborer.

Bolton says he can't imagine what the Italian shot him for. The Italian refuses to say why he tried to kill Bolton. It is thought that Cappalo belongs to the Mafia order and mistook Bolton for some one else.

About 25 Italians got off a train from New York at Lawrence right after the shooting took place. The jail is being carefully guarded lest they should make an attempt to break it open and release the prisoner.

A Negro Fiend Lynched.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Oct. 23.—Friday evening near Pikeville, 30 miles north of here, an orphan girl, Miss Rosa Boring, was found dead in a secluded spot, with her throat cut from ear to ear. Examination showed that she had been assaulted before being murdered. Suspicion pointed to a one-eyed negro named John Gamble, alias Pete Cooper. A posse arrested him yesterday. He made a complete confession, and a mob of infuriated citizens forcibly took Gamble from the officers and hanged him to a tree a few yards from the scene of his crime.

WEATHER INDICATIONS.

REGULAR DEMOCRATIC NOMINATIONS.

UNION COUNTY.

For Senator—James E. Martine, of Plainfield.
For Sheriff—John S. Sauer, of Elizabeth.
For Coroner—Edward B. Kelly, of Summit.

SOMERSET COUNTY.

For Senator—Henry M. T. Beekman.
For Member of Assembly—George H. Cramer.
For Coroners—John F. Brady, of Bridgewater; Edwin F. Farrow, M. D., of Bedminster; Fred. C. Sutphen, M. D., of Bernards.

The New Brunswick Fredonian, than which no newspaper is more stalwartly Republican, frankly admits that James E. Martine, the Union county Democratic candidate for Senator, is a stanch anti-race-track man.

Great is the Jersey Central, and President Maxwell is its intellect. While others have cried hard times, that shrewd and enterprising official has been quietly getting control of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western, and it is now announced that the Central will provide the Lackawanna with its exceptional terminal facilities and make it a big trunk line to the West. Then may a branch be built uniting Plainfield and Morristown.

Republican organs can't find a thing to say against James E. Martine but that he did not make any pledges when nominated, and for that they upbraid him unmercifully. They forget the campaign when Republican John C. Rankin ran for Senator. At that time Mr. Rankin emphatically refused to pledge himself for or against any measure, and for his "noble manliness" the Republican papers lauded him to the skies.

However, James Martine is all right on the race-track question, which is the only one bothering the clamorous organs. Mr. Martine is ready to satisfy all inquirers whenever they choose to present the question to him, and he will meet it most positively and satisfactorily. He does n't consider it necessary to go about proclaiming the virtues which are attested to by his personal record of a lifetime. If a man's life, open as a book, won't vouch for his integrity and moral rectitude, then all the professions and protestations in the world won't.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—Plainfield no longer has a 3:04 p. m. Royal Blue train westward.

—The Somerset street conductors were instructed today to permit all marshals to ride free.

—Do not forget the Hospital fair, Nov. 1 and 2, where you can purchase Christmas gifts at low prices.

—A Christian Endeavor prayer meeting will be held tonight at 8, in the lecture room of Trinity Reformed church.

—Young men interested in the study of shorthand should call at the Y. M. C. A. rooms this evening, without fail.

—The new Fire Department Headquarters will be ready for occupancy in about three weeks. A housewarming will follow.

—Anyone wishing to purchase a team of sound bay horses, five and six years old, should call at Hedden's livery stable on East Fourth street.

—Classes for both beginners and advanced pupils in bookkeeping and mechanical drawing will meet in the Y. M. C. A. rooms this evening.

—Father Smyth, of St. Mary's church, stated to his congregation Sunday that $1,200 had been cleared from the late fair, and thanked all those who had helped to make it such a success.

—A team of horses attached to a light buckboard ran away on Central avenue, Saturday afternoon, and broke the pole. The driver succeeded in getting them under control after a short distance.

—Mispah Lodge, No. 1, United Order of Independent Odd Ladies, will give a musical and literary entertainment in Howell Division rooms, Stelle building, Front street and Park avenue, Monday evening, Oct. 30.

—At the hour of going to press no news has been received from the Republican County Convention at Elizabeth this afternoon, but in all probability Foster M. Voorhees, of Elizabeth, will be the nominee for State Senator.

MID JEST AND SONG

AND WREATHS OF SMOKE, HAM'S HEAD AGAINST THE CHAIR IS BROKE.

The Skilled Quartette Applause Did Get, and So Did Pearsall and Burdett.

The attractive house of the Plainfield Bicycle Club was thronged Saturday night with lovers of the soothing weed and admirers of the manly art. The programme offered the 150 guests of the club was long and varied, and contained songs by the Columbia Quartette of Elizabeth, stories by James S. Burdett and Alfred E. Pearsall, and an exciting sparring match.

This last number, which was billed as "a sparring match of six rounds between two descendants of Ham", though spirited and amusing, was stopped at the fifth round on account of an accidental collision between the solid head of one of the participants and the equally solid rung of a chair. Save for this trifling disappointment, which was caused by the boxer slipping on the hard wood floor, the programme was carried out with the greatest success to the satisfaction of all.

The quartette, which was composed of Clarence A. Cree, Spencer P. Smith, Arthur T. Pendleton and Thomas A. Doe, was particularly pleasing, and just so neither Mr. Burdett nor Editor Pearsall could have been spared from the programme. A cheerful wood fire burned in the huge fireplace of the gymnasium where the entertainment was given, and the men sat about in comfortable positions enjoying their cigars and taking their fill of mirth, music and jollity.

The solos sung by Mr. Cree proved one of the pleasantest features of the programme.

It is sufficient to say that everyone had a good time and was "glad he come". The club has arranged for another smoker to be given Nov. 11, and has secured some fine talent for the occasion.

CHILDREN'S FAIR.

About $50 Raised for the German Lutheran Church.

The home of Mrs. Hugo Weigmann on East Front street was the scene of much gaiety Saturday afternoon and evening, the occasion being a children's fair for the benefit of the new German Lutheran church, corner of Grove street and Mercer avenue, North Plainfield.

The fair was arranged by four little girls, Mamie Mehl, Annie Weigmann, Pauline Smith and Lena Myers, and they had fitted up one of the largest rooms in the house with decorations, booths, etc., which presented a very pleasing appearance.

A candy booth had been fitted up on one side of the room where one could get all kinds of sweets. Miss Lillie Weigmann was in charge and was kept very busy in disposing of her goods to the large crowd which filled the room.

On the opposite side was the fancy table, presided over by Katie Sutterlin and Lena Weber, where articles of almost every description were offered for sale, some of them being the handiwork of the young misses on the committee.

The fair was well patronized by the children and parents, who were all anxious to have it a success, and the result was that about $50 was netted for the church. The little girls deserve much credit for their efforts in behalf of the church.

Exactly as New York Saw It.

A feature of "The Black Crook" performance that is to be given in Music Hall Saturday night, is the Children's Ballet, led by a quartette of youthful and skillful dancers from Vienna. There are, besides, three grand ballets and the famous French Quadrille Dancers. The Brothers Rixford are among the European specialties. They are marvellous performers from the Circus Ciseneli, St. Petersburg, Russia. The grand transformation scene is a revelation in scenic art, and affords a decidedly interesting and instructive picture of the Progress of America, with an illustration of the World's Fair.

This grand revival of "The Black Crook" is exactly after the manner of the New York run of a year, in the Academy of Music.

The reader of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer $100 for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address

PLEASURE DRIVERS SPILLED.

Carriage Broken, Occupants Bruised—Ex-Mayor Rockfellow a Good Samaritan.

A runaway accident occurred yesterday on Park avenue that was fortunately productive of only a broken carriage and a few bruises for the passengers. George H. Renaud of Westfield, with his wife and sister and two children, was taking a drive. As they were going down Park avenue, a fence paling that was lying in the road was thrown by one of the wheels into the fifth wheel of the rig. Its sharp end stuck out so that the horse struck it with his hind leg every time he took a step. This frightened the animal, and he ran. He turned into Prospect avenue, and collided with a tree, throwing out the occupants of the carriage. The horse continued down the street with the shafts and front wheels of the rig. Geo. W. Rockfellow, in front of whose house the accident occurred, was on the scene immediately, and took the victims into his house. He sent for Dr. Endicott, who pronounced the Renauds unhurt save for a few severe bruises and considerable nervous shock. In the course of half an hour Mr. Renaud and family were able to drive home in a hack. Some one caught the runaway before it had gone far, and the horse was driven home.

Now You Step!

(From The Elizabeth Herald.)

A young lady of Dunellen has invented an electrical head clasp for relieving pain, presumably that which is incidental to headache. I have observed that masculine hands applied to the foreheads of fair sufferers are very effective as curative agents. The electrical clasps are not likely to be in great demand until these masculine hands fail. I have a pair of the latter myself and I have tried them very often, usually with satisfactory results.

BUT MEN MUST WORK,

AND THEY SHOULD DO JUST AS THEIR BOSSES ASK THEM TO.

Hired Men Who Try to Be Right Spry Will Get a Mansion in the Sky.

"The Ideal Employe" was the topic of the Rev. J. W. Richardson in the Park Avenue Baptist church last night, the last in his Domestic Series. He had a great audience, as well as a great sermon. The text was:

As ye would that men should do to you, do ye also to them likewise.—Luke vi: 31.

The speaker said:

Combinations on the part of the workingmen, and combinations on the part of the employes, will never bring about an equilibrium between the two. Nothing but the practice of the Golden Rule will restore mutual confidence and respect. People are beginning to inquire more than ever before in the history of the world, "How shall I treat my brother?" Last Sunday night I said the employer should occasionally put himself in the workman's place; tonight I say, the workman should occasionally put himself in the employer's place. Subordinates ought to take into consideration the mental sweat and exasperation of a business man's every-day life. They are annoyed by the gossip of business rivals. They are financially pressed by dishonest competition. They are worried by the fluctuations of the market. They are tortured by the failure of men owing them money. I tell you, though an employer lives in a better house, and comes to the office two hours later than you begin your labor, it is no sign that he is having an easier time in the world than you. You may furnish the muscle, do not forget that your employer furnishes the scheming brain and the capital. He plans for you as well as for himself. If he succeeds you have employment; if he fails your occupation is gone.

The Ideal Employe Will Be Prompt; Did you not know that one of the reasons why help are so restricted by rules in some places of employment, is because many of the employes in the past forgot the Golden Rule, and abused their privileges? An honest employe is willing to give his employer the service paid for; if it is ten hours a day, ten hours—nine hours, nine hours. There are some who think wrong is done them, if anything is deducted from their pay because they were tardy during the week. Don't let this cause you bitterness. Suppose the these large firms should permit their help to come in just as it might happen, what would be the result? It would be in the shop, and store, and office, just as it is in our churches Sunday mornings; the help would come to work all the way from five to twenty minutes late. If real good people become so careless as to come to church late, what would they not do by an everyday employer, if he was not protected by such business rules? It is simply a matter of dollars and cents. The time of sixty men, each five minutes late, at the rate of twenty cents an hour, in 12 months is a loss of $312 to the employer. A few breaks like this mean trouble somewhere. Thorough rules mean success of the establishment, and steady employment, Slack rules mean financial leaks, and eventual failure, and discharge of the help in mid-winter. The kind of men and women who get along in the world, are those who give evidence to their superiors, that they are orderly, precise, and punctual. Moses Stuart was pastor in New Haven, when he was nominated for the professorship of Sacred Literature in Andover Theological Seminary. A committee visited New Haven to make inquiries about Stuart. President Dwight in answer to the question, "What kind of a man is he?" replied, "He is the man for the place, but we can't spare him." And the committee responded, "Sir, we do not want a man that can be spared." There is the key-note, fellow laborers: the employe who aims to carry out the spirit of the text, soon becomes "One that cannot be spared." He has work and good pay while others are out. The ordinary employe, when work is before him, waits as long as he can; he so hates to touch it. Then, too, his mind is off somewhere else, and consequently the job or work is slighted. So long as he is not discharged, he cares not. To every reprimand he replies, "It was the best I can do." He knows better, and his employer knows better. But he is content to move along with the multitude, and he receives the treatment accorded the multitude. It is foolishness for such employes to complain of the tyranny of their employers. They have no heart in their work, and their own lack of promptness and preciseness is the hard taskmaster.

The Ideal Employe Will Be Honest In His Work. Put real conscience into your work, and though your employer wrong you in wages, never wrong your own soul by being dishonest with your work. You may lose part of your lawful compensation; but do n't allow the dishonest action of an employer to keep you out of that part of character you will need beyond the grave. Slighting your work is dishonest. It will tincture you with an atmosphere that men will feel, even if they can not describe why they distrust you. Let me tell you, trickery is not grander than old fashioned honesty. Honesty in little things as well as in large things. Honesty in carrying bundles, as well as in counting over bank bills. A man came into a dry goods store, and slyly winking to the clerk, said, "Johnnie you must give me good measure, now your master is out". The young man looked solemnly into the customer's face, and replied, "Can't do it: my master is always in". Do you wonder that that young man went up until he became the head of the firm! He had the spirit of an Ideal Employe. When one does by others as he would like to be done by, it is not long before his associates discover the leading principles of his life. Success is bound to come to such.

Where Is Plainfield's Bachman?

Chief Engineer Doane entertained Staten Island visitors Saturday, and showed them the merits of the fire engine the city has for sale. The Islanders were Fred Bachman, a million-dollar brewer, Reinhart Kaltenniler, and Town Clerk M. J. Collins. D. A. Woodhouse and his agent Joseph Finnerty, also attended the examination. They are in the fire department supply business. Mr. Bachman is the man who will put up the money for the engine. He wants to buy it for the town and have it stationed near his mammoth brewery as a matter of self protection.

THE FUNERAL TOMORROW.

Tribute to a Warm-Hearted Plainfield Citizen Who Has Entered Into Rest.

[From The Elizabeth Journal.]

George W. Houseman died at Plainfield Friday after a few days' illness, aged sixty-one years. For quite a number of years and until recently he was a resident of Elizabeth, where he was engaged in the oyster business. For the past three years he has resided at Plainfield, and spent his summers at Bradley Beach, near Ocean Grove. Mr. Houseman was born on Staten Island, where he resided many years. For years he conducted business in the market in this city. He was very well known throughout various parts of Union county. He was married to Miss Lake, who survives him, and who is well known among those engaged in the work of the W. C. T. U. Mr. Houseman was a warm-hearted, genial man, possessed of a host of friends. A little over a year ago he came into possession of a good-sized fortune, willed to him by the death of an uncle on Staten Island.

The remains of Mr. Houseman are to be brought to Elizabeth, and at noon of Tuesday, after brief funeral services, will be conveyed to Staten Island, where formal funeral exercises will take place in the afternoon, and where relatives and friends from Rahway, Westfield, Plainfield and elsewhere will assemble to pay the last tribute of respect to one so well known. Interment will be in the cemetery near Mr. Houseman's birthplace.

The Clergy Saw It in the City.

Saturday afternoon, Sam M. Dawson, agent of "The Black Crook" was quietly strolling down the street, when a leading citizen approached him and asked if ladies could attend his show. Mr. Dawson said that to his mind ballet dancing was an art, and the many terpsichorean movements executed by the nimble-limbed girls was a beautiful sight to feast the eyes. When a gentleman suggested that ballet dancing was improper, Mr. Dawson quietly said "Honi soit qui maly pense". "Do you not know"—continued Mr. Dawson—"that schools for ballet dancing are subsidized in nearly all European countries by their several governments? Another thing, does a person ever ask is 'Camille' fit for a lady to see? and yet it is a story depicting the life of a courtesan. So is 'Article 47', and I might mention others. 'The Black Crook' is a legendary romance, and the author (the late Charles Barras) was a refined gentleman of a retiring disposition, whose sensibilities would have been rudely shocked had he heard a person class his work as improper. He intended that the ballets should represent mortals. We all know that the queen of the fairies, Stalacta, rewarded the good and punished the wicked; how she at all times balked the trickery of Hertzog (The Black Crook). It teaches us a beautiful lesson, and I fail to see how it can be placed in any other class except what is claimed for it, a high-class legendary romance of real dramatic worth, embellished with sumptuous scenery, and bewitchingly lovely costumes. Many clergymen attended the performances in the Academy of Music, New York city."

A Friend of the Workingman.

(From The New Brunswick Daily Times.)

The Union county Democratic Convention which met in Elizabeth on Thursday, was in full accord with all other Democratic county conventions held in the several counties of this State, enthusiastic and harmonious, the nominee for State Senator, James E. Martine, receiving every vote in the several wards and townships on the first ballot. Mr. Martine is a farmer, and resides near Plainfield. He is a Democrat from conviction, and, being a laboring man himself, will in the future, as in the past, always be found laboring for the interests and advancement of the industrial people. In a word, if the people of Union county want a good, faithful, honest, intelligent representative, Mr. Martine is just the man they should elect, and we have no doubt they will. The nomination of Director John S. Sauer for Sheriff was also made with great unanimity, and the convention adjourned just wild with enthusiasm for the whole Democratic ticket. With the same zeal and unanimity at the polls, Union county will roll up her usual large Democratic majority.

Dauntless Captain Martin.

In the face of misfortune Capt. F. L. C. Martin does n't flinch. In spite of his discouraging loss of $3,300 by the embezzlement of his New Brunswick agent, he will continue that branch of his business with renewed application.

It is to be known as the Brock Veneered Lumber Company, although William Brock, of Plainfield, after whom it is called, owns only one share of stock, or $10 worth. The company is composed of Brooklyn capitalists and will begin business with $250,000. It will have branches in Newark, Jersey City, Paterson, Hoboken and Plainfield. The plant is to be located in Plainfield. The stockholders and incorporators are Wm. H. Robinson, Olen B. Pendleton, Wm. H. Miller, Harry C. Sweet, all of whom control 4,500 shares, and William C. OBITUARY.

Elenor L. Frazee.

Elenor L. Frazee, wife of Samuel D. Frazee, of 405 West Second street, died at her home yesterday of pleuro-pneumonia, after four-days illness. Mrs. Frazee was one of the oldest residents of Plainfield, and was much loved and respected in the community. She leaves five children, Mrs. Sarah Stillwell, and Sydney E. Frazee, of Hamilton, Ontario, Mrs. George Voehl, Mrs. Julia Kreager and Frank T. Frazee, of this city. The funeral services will be held at her late residence Wednesday afternoon at 2:30.

David L. Abbott.

David L. Abbott, of this city, died yesterday morning on the steamship Orinoco, from the Bermudas. The vessel reached New York in the morning about 9, and Mr. Abbott died shortly after she reached her dock. He had been to the Bermudas for his health, and was accompanied by his brother. He had suffered from consumption for some time past. Less than a year ago Mr. Abbott married a daughter of David M. Demarest, of 159 Crescent avenue. His wife survives him. The funeral will be held at the home of his father, 211 Lorimer street, Brooklyn, to-morrow afternoon at 3.

Yes, Indeed: Well Done.

(From The Somerville Democrat.)

There came to our neighborhood a few years since a quiet gentleman of large means, who purchased a farm near by and built upon and improved it and made it a delightful retreat. He loved a fine horse and indulged his fancy, buying and breeding fine stock until his stud became quite noted. Three years since, when there was a considerable difference among Democrats as to who should be named as their standard bearer for Senator, the name of William J. Keys was brought forward and he was triumphantly elected. Some questioned the wisdom of the choice as Mr. Keys was not well known. He was not an orator but only a plain man of the people, but he was faithful to his duty. He was always at his post during the session of the Legislature. He did not vote for the coal combine. He voted against the race-track bills of last winter. The people had come to like his quiet manner and trusted his good sense. He has now laid aside politics and becomes one of the people, and as the representative of the people, The Democrat says well done faithful servant.

Successful Operation for Appendicitis.

A successful operation was performed yesterday upon Gifford Cooley, son of Martin I. Cooley of Rockview avenue, North Plainfield, for appendicitis. The patient was taken ill a few days ago, and the family physician called on Dr. Endicott and performed the operation. Mr. Cooley and his family were at the World's Fair, and were sent for hastily. The removal of the appendix was carried out successfully, and the patient is doing very well today.

John B. Thatcher Improving.

Mrs. Bateman Thatcher, of 122 East Fourth street, who returned a few days ago from Chicago, reports that her nephew, John B. Thatcher, is doing nicely. John was injured Oct. 14 by a deadly Chicago horse car. He was on his way home, and finding himself on the wrong car he jumped. He landed in front of a horse car, and had an ankle crushed, besides sustaining other bodily injuries. He was taken to the home of his brother Elmer, where he now is. John was for years with R. W. Rice & Co., and is a brother of Herbert S. Thatcher.

The Wilson Press Syndicate, in an article published in various newspapers on "Big Rogues Out of Jail", gives a picture of Lord Courtney of Plainfield fame, and says, quoting Supt. What Hard Water Does.

The hard water necessarily in common use for drinking purposes in many places tends to cause the deposit of calcareous matter in the kidneys and bladder, producing the agonizing and dangerous diseases known as gravel and stone. Formerly the only relief from these affections was by painful surgical operations, and even they were of questionable value. Now the work of removal of those foreign substances from the delicate organs they clog, irritate and torture, is safely, speedily and painlessly done by Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy. No other medicine can be relied upon so implicitly. In every case of kidney disease it should be resorted to at once.

A Sunday School Guess.

A small boy from the slums had been brought into the mission school, and for a couple of Sundays he had been instructed in the rudiments. On the third Sunday he brought with him his brother William. To test his memory the teacher began to go over the previous lessons.

"Who made you?" she asked.

"God," he replied promptly.

"And what else did God make?"

The youngster studied a moment and looked around hopelessly till he noticed his brother. Then his face brightened.

"He made Bill, too, I guess," he answered, and William said "You bet."—Detroit Free Press.

Tight Balloons.

Professor Henry A. Hazen says that the construction of tight balloons must be the first step toward proper exploration of the air. It is hardly probable, he says, that a balloon has been constructed in this country which will not leak 25 per cent of its gas in 24 hours. On the other hand, a balloon has been built in France of goldbeater's skin which has leaked less than one-half of 1 per cent in 24 hours. In other words, if the former balloon could just keep afloat two days the latter would not give out for 100 days.

Russian Village Fire Department.

In a Russian village there is not even such an organization as we possess in this country in the small volunteer companies. In their stead is a log stable with thatched roof, containing an old fashioned hand pump and three casks mounted on wheels. These are kept filled with water, and each is drawn by a single horse. The horses are the property of the commune, and they are kept tethered outside the cabin, ready for duty at a moment's notice. A place is also set apart in the hut for the muzhik who serves as watchman, an office that is held, turn by turn, by the inhabitants of the township. The location selected for this cabin is as near as possible to the residence of the pristav, or the district captain of police, and upon an alarm of fire he drives to the scene in his telega at the head of the procession of carts and peasants.—Harper's Weekly.

M'MAHON'S FUNERAL.

The German Kaiser Sends a Handsome Floral Offering.

PARIS, Oct. 23.—Preparations for the national funeral of Field Marshal MacMahon were evident early yesterday morning all the way from the church of the Madeleine to the Hotel des Invalides. Troops were taking position along the Rue Royale when the spectators began to gather at 5 o'clock.

The body was brought at 9 o'clock from the vault of the church to the outside gallery beneath the peristyle and was placed on the catafalque draped with the tri-color. Black cloth spangled with silver hung from the ceiling and the gallery was hidden in mourning drapery.

The centere of the decorations was a gigantic silver "M" flanked with the figures 1808-1893, the dates of MacMahon's birth and death.

Every pillar was half-concealed by a black, silver-edged banner, on which were enumerated in silver letters the battles won by him.

The coffin was covered with velvet. On the sides were the embroidered arms of the dead man. On the lid lay his field marshal's uniform.

The mourners arrived slowly. The army officers took their places at the right of the bier and the civilians at the left, the gay colors of the uniforms contrasting strangely with the black coats and mourning hangings. Outside a great crowd watched and waited in silence while far down the street stretched the motionless double lines of infantry. The hearse was drawn by six horses. On each side were the carriages filled with wreaths.

While the crowd was watching the hearse intently a carriage was driven up hastily and Count Muenster, German ambassador, his head uncovered, stepped out.

There was an uneasy shifting of the crowd, a low murmur ran along the lines nearest the church. Muenster made a sign to a footman and a landau carrying Emperor William's wreath was driven to the curb. The wreath was of natural violets, tearoses and carnations, among which hung a large sillier "W."

The dropping of a pin could have been heard in the Place de la Maceleine as the Germans mounted the steps and walked into the church, saluting as they passed the coffin.

They were hardly gone when Gen. Loisillon, minister of war, Admiral Avelan and Premier Dupuy arrived, closely followed by the field marshal's two sons.

There was no ceremony at the church. The coffin was placed in the hearse, Gen. Saussier, commander of the troops in Paris, waved his sword and the cavalcade began at 11:15 o'clock to move slowly from the church.

MAYOR EUSTIS INJURED.

Probably Fatally Injured in a Runaway Accident at Minneapolis.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Oct. 23.—Mayor Eustis was dangerously injured by a runaway accident yesterday afternoon.

While riding in the country his horse took fright at a band of gypsies and ran away.

The mayor was thrown out and received a deep scalp wound eight inches long, while his face was badly cut and bruised.

He was found after he had laid unconscious by the roadside about an hour. The surgeons fear there is a fracture of the skull, and they regard his injuris as very serious.

HAD TO LIBERATE PRISONERS.

A Town Without Funds Owing to a Daring Treasury Robbery

HEALDSBURG, Cal., Oct. 23.—City Treasurer Mulligan was inveigled from his home early Saturday morning on the pretext that his brother-in-law was ill, and at the point of a revolver taken by two men to the treasury and compelled to open the safe. After securing about $4,500 they took Mulligan to the cemetery and bound him to a tree, where he was found almost dead from exposure.

In consequence of the loss to the city all inmates of the city prison have been turned loose, as there is nothing to keep them on.

Incendiary Anarchists.

LONDON, Oct. 23.—The socialists and anarchists rally in Trafalgar square yesterday was far from realizing the prediction of the committees who arranged it. The speeches were especially incendiary. The principal feature of the demonstration was a model of a scaffold from which hung the effigy of a shrouded corpse labelled "Asquith, Murdered."

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—The schooner Harry W. Haynes, Captain Lawry, just arrived from Brunswick, took off on October 11, in mid-ocean the crew of the schooner Martie A. Holmes, Captain Rivers, from Savannah to Baltimore. She was waterlogged and was fast sinking.

FLAGMEN ON REAR PLATFORMS

Santa Fe Road Takes Extra Precautions to Prevent Collisions.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 23.—The Santa Fe company has ordered that hereafter every passenger train between Chicago and Kansas City must have a flagman on the rear platform constantly, and the official order adds that this flagman must not leave his post to eat or sleep until he is relieved by some one capable of standing watch.

This precaution is against rear end collisions. Other roads will likely follow the example and adopt some similar scheme.

Torpedo Net Not Successful.

NEWPORT, R. I., Oct. 13.—The test shot of the submarine gun on the Destroyer at the torpedo station Saturday showed unexpected results. The steel net was set to try the line of fire and to stop the projectile, but this was not accomplished. It was quite conclusive that while the net may stop torpedoes it will not stop projectiles from submarine guns at close quarters.

Woman's Mistake.

She tries to do too much.

This applies to all women.

The ambitious girl striving for school honors. The busy house wife, the shop girl, the society woman.

What follows?

Oh! women, if you must bring upon yourself these troubles, remember that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done more to relieve such suffering than anyotherremedy.

IS THE FIGHT TO GO ON

Situation in the Senate Decidedly Chaotic.

All Sorts of Rumors From Which Almost Any Conclusion May Be Deducted—Little Prospect at Present of a Vote This Week.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—There was a remarkable dullness and absence of vitality in yesterday's session of the senate. Speeches upon the silver purchase repeal bill were made by three senators from silver states—Messrs. Jones and Stewart, of Nevada, and Teller, of Colorado.

All of those speeches were, however, in continuation of some that had been begun weeks ago, and all of them went over with an arrangement "to be continued" at some future time.

Not the slightest attention was paid to them by the few senators who came and went and there were only two attempts made to secure the attendance of a quorum.

Listlessness and weariness pervaded the chamber.

No Interest in Speeches.

Senators were evidently less intent upon the speeches than they were upon the present status of the measure as affected by the compromise to be offered on behalf of the almost united democratic senators and upon the outlook of that compromise as affected by the announced executive disapproval of it.

The legislative fiction of a continuous day's session, to be recorded as of last Tuesday, was carried on by a recess last evening, instead of an adjournment.

The recess was to 10:30 a. m. to-day.

One result of this fiction is that the Voorhees cloture resolution cannot be gotten at even though there might be a desire to do so. Under the rule it must remain on the table for one day; and that day will not expire until there be a regular adjournment of the senate.

Situation Chaotic.

The Hill cloture resolution is not subject to that objection, because it has been on the table for weeks. A motion can be made to take it up.

When the senate came together this morning the situation could best be described as chaotic. There were all sorts of rumors flying around and almost any conceivable conclusion would be deducted therefrom.

It was understood that the southern silver men had abandoned any idea they may have had of contesting the question further, and that being left without their aid the republican silver senators were forced to give up. Later, however, the conditions appeared to have changed and where there was apparent peace and concord there was every appearance of a continuation of the already protracted struggle.

The Fight Again On.

A few of the southern democrats began talking of a further protest against unconditional repeal, and it is stated this talk was not of the mildest character. Encouraged by this the silver republicans took heart and then it was whispered about that the fight was on again with renewed vigor.

Just when and how it will end no senator was willing to predict but unless something occurs in the meantime to clear up the atmosphere there is little prospect of a vote this week.

It had been the intention, so it was reported, of Mr. Voorhees last night to have moved an adjournment until to-day, but if this was ever his purpose, he changed the programme at the last moment.

Fear an Adjournment.

The change of front on the part of the silver men led to the belief that the time would be consumed in a prolongation of the discussion and it was deemed best to confine it to the bill itself. For this reason the recess was taken.

Senator Aldrich, who has discussed the matter with his colleagues, said last evening that he believed that the republicans with the exception of something less than a dozen would favor a reasonable cloture rule, but they were not inclined to take up with the suggestions found in any that have been submitted to the senate up to this time. He was quite sure the republicans would not join in any request to the vice-president but that the cloture they favored must come before the senate in the regular way.

House of Representatives.

The public printing bill, a resolution distributing $337,000, now held by the receiver of the Mormon church for charitable purposes and a bill appropriating $175,000 to construct a revenue cutter for service on the great lakes, were passed by the house yesterday.

The Oates bankruptcy bill was taken up for consideration without a limit being fixed for general debate. Mr. Oates (dem., Ala.) spoke in favor of the measure while W. A. Stone (rep. Pa.) and Mr. Sibley (dem., Pa.) antagonized it.

A point of order being raised on the calling up of a bill here on the calls of the committee which had previously received two hours consideration, it was discovered that no ruling had ever been made on the question. Speaker Carlisle, in the fiftieth congress, expressed the opinion that such a bill took its place upon the calendar but no formal decision was rendered. Mr. Crisp took the point of order under advisement and will make a ruling.

Wrecked Bank Officers Arrested in New York.

Several Officials of the Defunct Madison Square Bank Accused of Forgery and Misdemeanor—Heavy Bail Demanded in the Case of One.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Ronald T. McDonald, a director of the Madison Square bank, was arrested last night on the charge of forgery and misdemeanor.

Later Director Kalischer and Cashier Thompson were arrested.

McDonald and Kalischer were taken to general sessions where Judge Martine held court. Judge Martine admitted McDonald to $10,000 bail, which was furnished by Ed S. Stokes, of the Hoffman house. Kalischer was admitted in $5,000 bail furnished by Max Danziger, a real estate dealer.

Other Arrests to Follow.

Both men are required to be in court to-day.

The arrests were made on warrants issued by Judge Martine on the complaint of the district attorney.

The men for whom rumor says warrants are out, but still unexecuted, are Joseph F. Blant, president of the bank, and Frederick Uhlman, director, and well known as the head of the Brooklyn system of elevated railroads and the chief promoter of the scheme for building another bridge over East river.

McDonald's Arrest.

It was reported that a meeting or conference in regard to Madison Square bank matters would be held in the evening at the Hoffman house. There was none, or if there was it was hidden away from curious eyes and ears. What did occur at the Hoffman house however was the arrest of McDonald who lives there.

Detective Sergeant Charles Crowley, in plain clothes, inquired for Mr. McDonald, and finding him, showed his warrant and asked him to take a ride in a car to police headquarters. This Mr. McDonald did, Ed Stokes accompanying the prisoner and detective.

Hustled for the Judge.

Mr. Stokes, who is a close friend of McDonald, hustled for a half hour, with the result that Martine was found in the Astor house and induced to hold court if a representative of the district attorney could be found. Assistant District Attorney Weeks was hastily communicated with, and he came down to sessions.

Justice Grady, who had heard of McDonald's plights and who is a personal friend, was on hand to cheer him up.

Judge Martine held court in his private room. No one was present but the judge, Assistant District Attorney Weeks, Judge Grady, Mr. Stokes, the detective, the prisoner and the reporters.

Stokes Signs the Bail Bond.

Judge Martine set the bail at $10,000 and Mr. Stokes signed the bail bond.

Stokes and McDonald left the court quickly.

BELGIANS CAPTURE KIRUNDU.

Expulsion of Slave Traders from the Congo Now Accomplished.

Kirundu is about 40 miles beyond Stanley Falls.

The victory of the Belgians virtually accomplishes the expulsion of the Arab slave traders from the Congo State.

The Arabs have now been pushed towards Tanganyika, where another expedition is ready to deal the final blow.

Presented to the President.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—Captain Magnus Anderson, the Norwegian sailor who built the Viking ship and brought it across the ocean for exhibition at the world's fair, was presented to the president yesterday. Capt. Aderson merely paid his respects to Mr. Cleveland and said nothing about the effort being made to have the Viking craft presented to the people of the United States. It is believed that the Viking ship will find a permanent home in Washington at the close of the exposition.

The Regular Ticket.

LITTLE FALLS, N. Y., Oct. 24.—County Clerk Ranson, in a decision just filed, holds that the regular democratic organization in this county is headed by Daniel F. Herlehy, and that the ticket nominated at the convention on the 13th was the only regular convention held in this county. He holds that as Herlehy had the votes of ten county committeemen for chairman, he was entitled to act as such and Mr. Lewis, having the votes of but nine, had no authority to act as chairman.

Athletic Bowling League.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—The Athletic bowling league, which is composed of the crack bowlers of the leading athletic clubs of this vicinity, held its final meeting last evening at the Astor house. The games played by this league attract no little attention during the season, which will open this year Nov. 8.

EMPORIA, Kan., Oct. 24.—The employes of the Santa Fe road have demanded that the September wages be paid by next Saturday, or every man on every division will quit work. August wages were a month late and the men are hard pressed to secure credit.

Held for Forgery and Embezzlement.

DUSTED OFFICE HOLDERS.

The Alabama Case Taken to the U. S. Supreme Court.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—The efforts of Lewis E. Parsons, jr., appointed to be United States attorney for the northern district of Alabama, and of Alexander R. Nininger, appointed to be United States marshal for the same district, to hold on to their respective offices for the four years from the dates on which they were respectively commissioned by President Harrison—March 20 and Feb. 4—have finally brought their cases to the attention of the United States supreme court.

On May 26, 1893, President Cleveland addressed letters to Parsons and Nininger, notifying them that they would be removed from their offices upon the appointment and qualification of their successors.

They replied, announcing their intention to hold office for four years from the date of their commissions, and expressing their opinion, fortified by that of counsel, that the president had no power to remove prior thereto.

May 26 Emmet O'Neal was nominated to be attorney and J. C. Musgrove marshal of the district, but Parsons and Nininger declined to surrender their offices and held them until June 20.

On that day the district court at Birmingham entered orders directing them to surrender the books, papers, etc., of their offices to O'Neal and Musgrove.

The case is attracting much attention.

NINETEEN INDICTED.

Grand Jury Report in the Recent Riot at Roanoke, Va.

ROANOKE, Va., Oct. 24.—The grand jury summoned to investigate the riot and acts of lawlessness on Sept. 20 and 21, made their report late last evening.

Nineteen indictments are made. Walter S. Boone, Edward Page and Frank Sheppard as principals, and sergeant of police A. H. Griffin and chief of police J. F. Terry, as accessories before the fact, are charged with felony.

The report commends the action of the mayor for trying to uphold the law, but questions the advisability of the officials in directing the militia to withdraw after the crow had been dispersed by firing, and censures the police or the officials for ordering the negro, Thomas Smith, to be removed from the jail and after removal in not taking him to a place of safety. The jurors state that from the evidence they are led to believe that some of the victims of the shooting were active participants in the riot.

Chief of Police Terry and Sergeant Griffin, it is believed, were indicted on evidence which went to show that they were responsible for the information of the negro's whereabouts being divulged to the parties who lynched him.

HERE'S A STRANGE STORY.

Mysterious and Peculiar Death of Two Men While Fishing.

WATERTOWN, N. Y., Oct. 24.—A strange tragedy has excited the people of Dexter and Perch River during the past few days. On Saturday, October 14, William and George Winnegar, two elderly residents of Dexter, left their homes with a complete outfit for camping for their annual season of trapping on Perch lake and river.

On Friday news was telegraphed to Dexter that the body of a man, who was believed to be one of the brothers, had been found in the Perch river.

The body was identified at that of Wm. Winnegar.

The body was found in a sitting position in Winnegar's boat, with the hands upon the oars, apparently as if asleep.

Further search revealed his brother's body in his boat a few rods further down the stream in almost the same posture.

Their tents and the complete outfit were still in their boats as if they had not been used and the supply of food also indicated that it had not been touched.

There is absolutely no solution of the mystery. The coroner has begun an investigation.

La Blanche Knocked Out.

DES MOINES, Iowa, Oct. 24.—George La Blanche, "The Marine," of Chicago, and Billy Layton, of this city, met in an improvised ring about 15 miles from here last night for a purse of $500. In the seventh round La Blanche forced his adversary to the ropes and administered a good blow in the neck. It staggered Layton for an instant but he rallied and landed a swinging blow with his right which struck LaBlanche on the jaw and put him to sleep.

Estimates of Profits of the Fair Concessionaires.

Restaurants in the Lead, With Soda Water, Electric Launch and Souvenir Concessions Close Followers.

Col. Cody Reaps a Rich Harvest.

WORLD'S FAIR GROUNDS, CHICAGO, Oct. 24.—With only six days left of the official exposition season a close estimate can be given of the profits made by the hundreds of concessionaires in Jackson Park and the Midway.

Chief Clerk Slackman of the administrations and collections department figures that the profits of the concessionaires will aggregate $4,000,000 after deducting the percentage to the exposition. This represents about 20 per cent. of the gross receipts.

Most of the concessionaires have made money after paying from 25 to 50 per cent. into the exposition treasury.

Ferris Wheel Company Away Ahead.

The Ferris wheel company will pay a profit of about $260,000 after deducting $300,000 for cost and 50 per cent. of there-ceipts paid to the fair after that amount was taken in.

When the Dockery congressional committee was in Chicago investigating the finances of the exposition and its estimates of revenue while the $5,000,000 loan bill was before congress, as little as $1,000,000 was estimated as the income from concessions.

Restaurants' Profits the Greatest.

Big restaurants in the park, particularly those of the Wellington catering company, have found their concessions the most profitable. The electric launch, soda water, pop corn and souvenir concessions come next on the profit side of the ledger.

Buffalo Bill Has Made a Fortune.

But the men who will leave the world's fair with fortunes in their pockets are Col. Cody and his colleagues, who were told by President Higinbotham, when they opened negotiations to put the wild west show on the grounds, that it was not refined enough. They leased a big tract of land just outside the fair gates and reaped a golden harvest.

The total paid admissions up to the closing hour last night was 19,712,996, and Superintendent Tucker said the figures will go to 20,300,000 by next Saturday leaving Sunday and Monday, which should bring the grand total up to 21,000,000 if the weather is favorable.

ANOTHER FIGHT AT THE FAIR.

This Time Over the Closing Day of the Great Show.

WORLD'S FAIR GROUNDS, CHICAGO, Oct. 24.—War has been declared by Frank D. Millet and Col. F. C. Culp, who have charge of ceremonies and attractions, against Silas C. Pratt and Alderman M. B. Madden.

The latter have constituted themselves an executive committee to bring a million people more or less to the fair next Saturday, which they have designated "Reunion of Cities Day." Col. Culp and Mr. Millet are opposed to the expected Saturday celebration because they do not want any interference with the grand finale on Columbus day, Oct. 30. They think there should be only one closing rally and celebration and they are backed up by other executive officers of the exposition in that idea.

REPUBLICAN DEFECTION.

Each day brings additions to the ranks of those free-thinking Republicans who avow a determination to aid in the election of James E. Martine for Senator. To the host The Press is proud to add the name of Hezekiah Hand, ex-Postmaster of Scotch Plains, and who so long has been a leader in the public affairs of his township.

Mr. Hand visited The Press office today and said:

"I have all my life been a Republican. But I'm going to vote and work for Jim Martine, and I don't care who knows it."

FOR MARTINE AND VICTORY!

(From The Summit Record.)

The Democratic convention on Thursday presented to the voters of this county, a ticket that should awaken the zeal and arouse the enthusiasm of every honest Democrat in Union county and command the support of every good citizen who believes in the election to public office of men of character, courage and independence.

The name of the standard bearer of the Democracy in this contest, James E. Martine, is one that is known and respected in every part of New Jersey, where unwavering allegiance to the cause of the people and cheerful selfsacrifice when his aspirations conflicted with the ambitions of other Democrats, are regarded as honorable and commendable in a party leader.

His uniform refusal to bow to the yoke of political bossism or to take part in the frequent combinations designed to build up a machine that would register the will of self-seeking politicians, rather than reflect the views of the people, has hitherto prevented his election to public office.

Notwithstanding his frequent disappointments he has remained firm in the faith and loyal to the principles and candidates of the Democratic party both in adversity and prosperity. No candidate for public office has ever been nominated whose record is more free from the taint of personal and political corruption, and whose labor for the cause to which he is committed has been so little rewarded.

Mr. Martine will carry to the office to which he will be elected on November 7 a mental and moral equipment that will make him easily the peer of any of his associates in the State Senate. His ability and force of character will go far to revive the recollections of the days when the Senate of New Jersey was the abiding place of the best intellects in the Commonwealth, and his ability will aid in elevating the tone of that body to a level from which it has unfortunately descended in these politically degenerate days.

THE CHORAL SOCIETY.

Gaul's Holy City Rehearsed For the First Time Last Night.

A very successful meeting of the Choral Society was held last night in Vincent chapel. Charles McCutchen, acting president, made an address to the 75 members present. The secretary reported 25 applications for membership.

E. J. Fitzhugh, who gave such universal satisfaction last year, will conduct the concerts again this season.

At last night's meeting the first rehearsal was held of Gaul's "Holy City", which will be the first oratorio given. The coming season promises to be a very good one, and Plainfield should be proud of an amateur organization that can render difficult music as well as the Choral society has done in the past. It deserves the support of every music lover. There are a few vacancies in the society and those desiring to join may call on or address Geo. T. Rogers, 99 Rockview avenue, North Plainfield.

For Assembly J. Herbert Winans.

The Democratic Convention of the Third Assembly district assembled yesterday afternoon in Rahway and nominated J. Herbert Winans. He received Plainfield's solid vote. The candidate is thirty-five years old, a church worker and a member of the Anti-Race-Track League. Mr. Winans has been for years a resident of Asbury Park. He lately moved to Rahway, his former home. He is a successful New York and New Jersey lawyer, and a credit to the ticket.

NOW CARES MAY FLEE.

THE FATES DECREE A LIVELY SOCIAL SEASON.

No End of Fun for Everyone, Or Else We'll Know the Reason—The Plainfield Girl in Many Whirl May Blow Big Pleasure Bubbles, and Festive Dance Will Have a Chance to Spite Financial Troubles.

There was much wailing and gnashing of teeth among the dancing set this fall when it was rumored that the Assemblies were to be discontinued. The reasons given for not having them this winter were the same as those for giving up the Philharmonic concerts; namely, the hard times and the lack of ready cash to spend on frivolities. But those having the dances in charge have decided, very wisely, that it is better to dance through hard times than to sit and mope at home, and they have sufficient confidence in the solvency of the community to make them believe that there will be enough six-dollar bills in the pockets of the young people to warrant the usual series of dances. Accordingly, the first assembly will take place in November, deo volente, the middle two will be dated so they will do the most good, and the series will end with the usual Easter dance. It is to be hoped the chaperone will be more in evidence than she was last year.

Speaking of dances, one has been promised by the managers of the coming fair at the Casino, to the girls who are to help at the tables. It is set down now for the second night of the fair after all the salable articles have been sold and the unsalable goods have been auctioned off to the highest bidder, who, by the way, is not a very high one, now-a-days. What outsiders in the way of men are to be admitted to this function, is known only to the propagators of the scheme. It might add to the profits of the fair to sell tickets to the dance and clear all those out of the Casino who are not provided with the proper pasteboard.

While the profit of the Grace church affair at the Herrings was large enough to pay amply for the trouble of getting the thing up, the effect of the hard times was noticeable. There is any number of people who do not feel the money stringency in the least, but they are seized with the desire to economize in the same way as are their less fortunate neighbors. When the sweets left at the candy table were auctioned off, they failed to bring prices that were encouraging to the auctioneer. Much of the candy sold in this way brought less than its wholesale price. I remember a fair held in a private house in Netherwood, not many years ago, where $500 was netted in one afternoon and evening, and where a not inconsiderable portion of the profits came from disposing of the surplus candy at auction. It brought fair prices, one man paying $15 for a five-pound box.

A cooking club, of ten or a dozen members, has been formed recently, with the avowed intention of teaching these members how to cook. Realizing that the proof of the pudding is in the eating, and not being of a reckless turn of mind, the aforesaid members have determined to ask a man apiece to test the dishes at dinners to be given by the club. A large reserve of out-of-town men has been secured in case the home supply fails.

Mrs. VanBoskerck, of Seventh street, Plainfield, will entertain, Oct. 26, the young women's cooking class at dinner. The class consists of twelve young women, each of whom will cook a dish herself.

The girls minstrel show that was to have been a feature of the Waffle Tea was promptly discouraged. In the first place, the mammas of the proposed participants would not "hear of it for a moment", and then a certain Sub Rosa member who wields a big social influence put down her foot, and that settled it. The concert that was substituted for the minstrels may not have been as successful financially as the show might have been, but it certainly was more in keeping with the rest of the affair. THE LOUNGER.

Scores on the Lyceum Alleys.

The individual bowling tournament of the Young Men's Catholic Lyceum was continued last night with the following results:

J. J. Hibbetts	152	M. Higgins	148
P. Kiely	190	J. Whalen	145
M. Winn	154	W. J. Kiely	144
J. J. Lynch	196	J. Flynn	153
J. J. Hibbetts	154	W. J. Kiely	141
P. Kiely	181	M. Winn	150
M. Higgins	178	J. Flynn	177
J. Whalen	188	J. Lynch	175
M. Higgins	159	W. J. Kiely	132
P. Kiely	195	J. Lynch	182
M. Higgins	161	J. Flynn	160
Traynor	167	J. Winn	130

The bowling has been excellent, so far, and some of the averages have been remarkable. A great deal of interest is taken in the tournament and the alleys are crowded on the bowling nights.

Allies of the Corporations.

(From The Hunterdon County Democrat.)

With both Houses Democratic this winter and his excellency Gov. George T. Werts at the helm of State, good results to the people will follow. Do n't let any Democrat contribute to so disastrous a result as tying the hands of Gov. Werts. The Republicans are very anxious to get control of the Legislature in order that they may remove the railroad and corporation tax law from the statute books, and so relieve the rich corporations from paying a just share of the taxes.

$100 Reward, $100.

The reader of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer $100 for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address

ROYAL ARCANUM BANQUET.

The Plainfield Council Has a Most Enjoyable Time—A Wealth of Jest and Song.

The members of Plainfield Council, Royal Arcanum, held an initiation last night which was followed by a most enjoyable literary and musical programme. The ceremonies were finished by a sumptuous banquet. There was a departure from the regular order of ceremonies though two members were initiated in regular form. The music was furnished by Messrs. Sattele, Moore, Carpenter and Kniff, and was exceptionally good in every respect. J. R. Phillips, of Dunellen, sang several solos which were loudly applauded and Brother Ely recited to the amusement of all. It is unnecessary to say that there was a large attendance, as the popularity of these entertainments are well known. The growth of this Lodge is wondered at by all who know of such things.

BOWLING GREEN CONTEST.

The Solid Silver Candelebra Won by Robert Pettit.

The final bowling green games of the season were played on Christian Schepflin's lawn at Dunellen, Saturday. The contest was for a beautiful solid silver candelebra, offered by the club. Twelve members were entered and so each one had to play eleven games, of eleven points each.

The playing was started at two o'clock and was finished by lantern light in the evening. The fortunate winner was Robert Pettit, whose score was 10 out of 11 games. Fred J. Richter won 9, H. B. Willis won 8 and Peter W. Fick, W. S. Willis, Alfred Evans and Dr. W. E. Linstedt each won 7. The other players, whose scores were less and not more than seven, were Christian Schepflin, Charles Russell, H. B. Haffner, Ed. Christian and Prof. Ryan.

The club was generously entertained by Mrs. Schepflin. The game closes a remarkably successful season.

Second-Story Sneak Thief.

Yesterday afternoon as Mrs. James Fancher and Mrs. W. C. Strong were conversing in a lower room of their residence at Fanwood, a suspicious noise was heard above. The ladies immediately hastened up stairs and found a bed room door locked on the inside.

Immediately Mr. Fisher the agent was summoned from the station when it was discovered that an entrance to the locked room had been effected by means of a ladder raised to the window.

Wilbur Miller with his customary agility climbed into the room, and unlocked the door. Nothing was missing from the room and it is supposed the would-be thief became alarmed at the prompt action taken by the ladies and hastily departed as he came.

Of Interest To Athletes.

James Robinson, the athletic trainer at Princeton College, Princeton, N. J., says: "I have found it imperative to have sure and simple remedies on hand in case of cuts, bruises, strains, sprains, colds rheumatism, etc. Shortly after entering upon my profession, I discovered such a remedy in ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS. I tried other plasters, but found them too harsh and irritating. ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS give almost instantaneous relief, and their strengthening power is remarkable. In cases of weak back put two plasters on the small of the back and in a short time you will be capable of quite severe exercise. In "sprint" and "distance" races and jumping, the muscles or tendons in the legs and feet sometimes weaken. This can invariably be relieved by cutting the plaster in narrow strips, so as to give free motion, and applying on muscles affected."

ON THE OTHER FOOT.

REPUBLICANS WERE PROUD OF MAYOR RANKIN'S STAND.

But Now that James E. Martine Adopts the Same Platform They Set up an Unearthly Howl.

The cry of the Republican organs against Senatorial candidate James E. Martine is that because he declines to tie his hands with pledges he is not a safe man to elect. The Press yesterday said that these organs seemed to forget the Rankin episode, and now it reproduces some of the Republicans' own argument of the Rankin campaign.

Mr. Rankin, it will be remembered, was running for Senator, just as Mr. Martine is now. And it was in response to several letters of inquiry regarding his position in the race-track question, that Mayor Rankin in a letter to the editor of the Elizabeth Journal, dated Oct. 24, expressed himself as follows:

Dear Sir—I am in receipt of several letters from clergymen in different parts of the county asking me for an expression of my views about race-track legislation. The active interest recently taken by the clergymen of the community in matters of public concern, and their efforts to promote good order and respect for law are sure to create a wholesome influence on the electors.

With regard to this matter, there seems to be a somewhat persistent effort on the part of my political adversaries to misrepresent and injure me in my candidacy.

The report that I have been identified with those favoring legislation legalizing gambling on the race tracks is utterly false. It comes from political enemies whose sole object in circulating the same is to obtain their own selfish end in the election of their candidates.

It is my settled conviction that no candidate for legislative office should, in advance, tie his hands by any pledges with respect to his action upon any particular measure. And however unfavorably impressed with any bill that may come up for his action, I think his duty is to listen to debate, to hear the bill read, as provided by the constitution, and then give his decision.

I have been eight times elected to public office in the city of Elizabeth, and I have yet to make the first pledge or promise to any individual as to what my official action would be. So in the present contest, I am absolutely without engagements, either expressed or implied, with any individual or corporation, as to what my action shall be with respect to the race courses or any other matter.

The only pledge I will make is that I will, on every measure, act conscientiously, without fear or favor, and will give my vote in the manner that will seem to me best calculated to promote the moral and material advancement of the people of the county.

Very respectfully,
JOHN C. RANKIN, JR.

All that is just about Mr. Martine's position today, and in The Central Times of Wednesday, Oct. 29, 1890, we find that stand enthusiastically endorsed as follows:

In another column the Times readers will find printed in full the letter of Mayor Rankin to the editor of the Elizabeth Journal, explaining his position regarding possible race-track legislation. With the properly dignified spirit, Mr. Rankin calls up his record as the only pledge necessary regarding his stand upon this subject. If his past life is not a pledge of faithfulness, of conscientiousness and an earnest determination to do what is right then no words can add any weight. Mr. Rankin's stand is a noble one. He can be trusted because he has never proved recreant to any trust. He is willing to stand by his record as the pledge of his future action.

And from The Times of the following week this editorial is quoted:

John H. Rankin can look back upon his conduct of the campaign with much satisfaction. The letter in which he declined to pledge his vote beforehand to particular legislation was a manly and forcible letter. He declined to have his hands tied. In spite of his defeat, his courage and manliness have won him friends and admirers.

What was good for Candidate Rankin ought to be good for Candidate Martine.

A Rich and Costly Production.

A spectacular production of great magnificence and gigantic proportions, will be the attraction in Music Hall Saturday night, when the famous "Black Crook" company will visit this city. Replete with all the many characteristics of the successful twelve-months run of the play, at the Academy of Music, New York, the engagement promises in every way to be a red-letter event of the theatrical season. The performance will introduce many clever entertainers from the metropolis, the gorgeous ballets calling for the services of three premiere dancers of European reputation, and an army of beautiful coryphees. Striking features of the production will be the grand marches and tableaux, in which a company of tall and stately Amazons, arrayed cap-a-pie in glittering silver armor, are attended by the entire company, in superb costumes of the richest and costliest fabrics.

High-class specialties will be presented by artists of international reputation, among these being the Rixford Brothers, from the Circus Cisinelli, St. Petersburg, and the famous quartette of French Quadrille Dancers, from the Paris Folies Bergere. The visit of "The Black Crook" to this city will, in all likelihood, result in an overflowing audience, as it is seldom that an opportunity is afforded for seeing so magnificent a production.

To Develop Mechanical Instincts.

Plane geometry and trigonometry have this year been added to the Y. M. C. A. course of instruction. These courses are intended to cover all of the work ordinarily applied in draughting room and shop practice, care being taken in their arrangement so as to give the student the best possible value for the time he devotes to them. These subjects are very necessary for the higher developement of a man's mechanical faculties and are usually found very interesting to those who have a taste for the mechanical lines. A $2 membership in the Association entitles to the privileges of instruction in the above and other studies. The class in geometry meets tonight.

MR. BROCK IS PRESIDENT.

And He Holds 10,000 Shares of Stock.

William E. Brock, of 15 Mountain avenue, reports that the statement made yesterday on information from the County Clerk's office, concerning the Brock Veneered Lumber Company, is incomplete. He says he has been working on this scheme for 10 years, and adds:

The Brock Veneered Lumber Company was organized in Plainfield last Saturday under the laws of the state of New Jersey with a capital of $250,000 or 25,000 shares of stock of $10 each. Stock is full paid and unassessable. The company's affairs will be managed by a board of nine directors. One of them is William E. Brock, of Plainfield, who is the inventor of veneered lumber. The other eight directors is composed of a syndicate of New York and Brooklyn capitalists, who control between them 15,000 shares of the stock, Mr. Brock controlling the balance of 10,000 shares of the stock, or $100,000.

The syndicate paid into the treasury of the company a large sum of money to establish plants for the manufacture and introduction of veneered lumber and for the organization of subsidiary companies in the United States and foreign countries. The officers of the company are as follows:

President—William E. Brock, of Plainfield.
Vice-president—Henry C. Smith, of Brooklyn.
Secretary—W. C. Tegethoff, of Brooklyn.
Treasurer—Wm. H. Robinson, of Brooklyn.
General Manager—William H. Miller, of Brooklyn.
Manager of Sales Department—Olin B. Pendleton, of Brooklyn.

The Matter of Pledges.

[From The Elizabeth Herald.]

Honest men should not be required to pledge themselves and the pledges of dishonest men are worthless. Ask a man who can look back upon a life of honesty and honor to pledge himself to be honorable and honest in the future and he will spurn you as one who has offered him a gratuitous insult. Democrats in Union county do not require candidates to declare that they will be upright and conscientious.

Its Republicans appear unable to trust one another. They want pledges! pledges! pledges! Not so the Democrats. They nominate men from whom pledges are unnecessary. They know their men when they place them before the people for the votes of the latter. It seems to us that every Republican looks upon every other Republican as a possible rogue. Under such conditions no honest, honorable man can, with self-respect, aspire to a nomination from that party.

Hoist that Flag.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—At the opening of the public school in Scotch Plains, a beautiful flag was presented to Miss Coles to be displayed at all times, but it is seldom seen. We have not seen it even on Washington's Birthday. We think it should be hoisted each day of school. It is a glorious old flag, and should be seen by our children at all times. In contrast, our worthy Chief Justice, Charles K. Moore, seems to have nailed his colors to the mast, and his flag is always flying. Again we say

HOIST THAT FLAG.

Editor Pearsall's Psalm to Nature.

[From The Westfield Standard.]

The flash of the blue bird's wing; the song of the robin; the torches of flaming red, the plumes of purple red, and old gold, maroon and yellow against the bottle green of the cedars and the vernal walls of pine; the scarlet-coated Virginia creepers clinging their way to the tops of the tallest trees and flashing back the sunlight of these glorious autumn days; the hills and vales; the ever changing skies, flecked with foam and fringed gold; the pure air of this God-favored region impinged with the fragrance of the mountains and freshened with the salt air from the ocean; the smooth flint roads; the social good-cheer and fellowship that come of neighborhood life; the rides, the drives and all the rest—shall we swap these off for a life in a stuffy Harlem flat?

Want to Send Back the Same Old Rascal

[From The Flemington Democrat.]

In Atlantic county, the other day, the Republican convention met and renominated the member who sat last winter in the Assembly. This representative made himself notorious as one of the Republicans who voted for the race-track bills in the House, and his renomination at this time proves what we have maintained from the start, that the Republicans are only playing "possum" in their pretended opposition to race-track and legalized gambling. It is a Republican majority in the Legislature for which they are striving—not pure and clean legislation.

Republicans Who Won't Pledge.

[From The Elizabeth Herald.]

C. C. McBride, editor of the Republican paper in this city, this morning boarded a westbound train on the Pennsylvania Railroad. He was accompanied by a gun. The presumption is that he went to Rahway to shoot ex-Senator Vail, ex-County Attorney Clarence Ward and Freeholder William Howard because they spurned the attempt of the Citizens' League to exact pledges of them.

ELIZABETH, Oct. 24—The Grand Jury appeared in court this morning and reported between twenty-five and thirty bills. Besides these they reported a presentment against the C. R. R. of N. J. for a dangerous crossing at Roselle and a presentment against the Linden Township Committee for licensing the race-track at that place. When James Martine, foreman of the jury, came to the presentment against the Linden Committee the Judge told the jury that he had charged them directly to find an indictment against them for bribery. Mr. Martine endeavored to explain the position of the jury, and Judge Van Sickle listened impartially for a few moments, then interrupted him and sent the jury back to their room. They remained in session a few moments and then adjourned until Friday morning.

JOYOUS WEDDING FEAST.

Dunellenites Have a Delightful Time at the Carman Festivities.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Carman, of Dunellen, celebrated the fifteenth anniversary of their marriage, last evening, by giving a reception to their many friends. The evening was pleasantly passed in the singing, recitations, dancing, etc., and at midnight a bountiful collation was served, after which dancing was again indulged in until early morn, to the strains of O'Reilly's orchestra.

Mr. and Mrs. Carman were the recipients of many handsome and useful tokens of esteem from their guests.

Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Fred Canfield, Wm. D. Stewart, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Haberle, Plainfield; John S. Huff, Rahway; Mrs. J. H. VanHanlin, Manasquan; Mrs. Bowlby, Mr. and Mrs. J. Peters, J. H. VanMiddlesworth, Mr. and Mrs Kerschaw, Miss Maggie Hellins, Miss Carroll, Mr. Dodwell, Dunellen, and others.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—There will be a meeting of Anchor Lodge, No. 149, tonight.

—Lewis Bird is building a handsome barn on his Summit avenue property.

—Madame Iza Lezem is making a great success of her Friday evening classes.

—James Coffin, drunk and disorderly, was fined $5 by Judge Coddington in the City Court this morning.

—"Some Homes and Haunts of English Poets" will be lectured on by Dr. Wm. H. Appleton Friday evening at 8, at Harned Academy.

—Garrett Q. Packer has been making a noticeable improvement in his show windows, by lowering the platforms on which his artistic furniture is placed.

—A hand-sewed cork-filled kangaroo boot is one of the many new styles of foot covering that have just arrived at Doane & Edsall's. They are as soft as a glove, on the foot, and waterproof as well.

—The case of D. S. Roberts against the Postal Telegraph Company, which has caused so much agitation on both sides, has been settled out of court at last. The settlement was in the nature of a compromise.

—Those who are anxious to get bargains in household furniture should not fail to attend the auction at H. B. Garretson's, corner Central avenue and Third street, tomorrow at 1 p. m. A carriage and harness will also be sold.

—Plainfield has 2,704 children of school age, 1,356 females and 1,348 male. North Plainfield borough has 939, with the females 7 in the majority. Of Plainfield's, 619 did not attend school during last year, and 207 of North Plainfield's were absentees.

—We are not going to have mild weather all winter. There will come a time, and very soon, when Jack Frost will be around, and then you will wish for some of the good bargains that White is offering in hosiery, underwear, etc., at his busy store.

—In the article yesterday concerning the fair held by little girls for the German church, Miss Carrie Sutterlin's name was unintentionally omitted. As she collected most of the money and worked the hardest, it is only right that her name should be mentioned.

—One of Edsall's patrons, while purchasing some dress goods at this popular place, remarked to the clerk that she had been to New York the day before to buy a cloak, and while there thought she would buy a dress too. She looked in several of the stores there, but could find none that suited her as well for the money as what she had previously seen at Edsall's, so she returned there and bought the dress. Edsall says he never offered a nicer assortment of these goods than now. Many of the novelty goods are in short lengths, so that only one or two dresses of a kind can be sold.

Voorhees and Kyte.

The Union County Republican Convention, held in Elizabeth yesterday, nominated Foster M. Voorhees of that city for State Senator, George W. Kyte of Fanwood for Sheriff, and Dr. Holmes of Rahway for Coroner.

The Convention was presided over by Mayor Alexander Gilbert of Plainfield. John Ulrich of Plainfield, was temporary secretary.

Candidate Kyte made a short speech in which he gracefully praised his Democratic opponent, Mr. Sauer, as a young man of integrity and ability. Mr. Kyte was heartily applauded.

Sudden Death of Ella V. Thorn.

A message received in this city last night tells of the death of Miss Ella V. Thorn, daughter of the late M. M. Thorn, formerly of this city.

The telegram was dated at Mt. Pleasant, Ohio, and bore the address "Mrs. Caroline Markley or Hulda Vail". It read as follows:

Funeral of Ella V. Thorn will be Oct. 25, 2 o'clock, from our residence.
Wire ans. PHOEBE G. THOMAS.

Wallace Vail, uncle of Miss Thorn, says that the above telegram is the only intimation of her death that any of her relatives in Plainfield have received, and they do not know whether she was the victim of a railroad accident or died in her bed. Miss Thorn was an artist and lived in Los Angeles, Cal. She had been to Chicago and was expected in Plainfield today. Phoebe Thomas is an aunt of the unfortunate victim. Her relatives here have telegraphed for particulars of her death.

Borough Lights Go Out.

North Plainfield was in darkness last night. The cause was indirectly the visit of the boiler inspector to the plant yesterday. A manhole that was opened for his inspection was found to leak badly when the plant was started up and it took until early morning to overcome the trouble. It will be all right again tonight.

Some lights went out on East Front street also. The trouble there was caused by a cross in the wires, which did little damage beyond temporarily crippling the service.

A Shark's Mistake.

We had on board the brig Emma Luce a fine blooded native of the South Sea islands whom we called Kailua, which is the name of the place where he belonged. Kailua was on his way back home after a visit to civilization, and he was very happy. He was a supple, sinewy fellow, with a restless eye and a hand that could move with the swiftness of a flash. He had picked up a certain amount of broken English, and he was very proud of his accomplishment.

For some days a huge shark had been following us, and the superstitious sailors declared it was an omen of evil. They reiterated time after time that some calamity was bound to befall us. Finally we were becalmed beneath a brazen sky and in the midst of a vast, glassy ocean. Still the shark played about us, his back fin cutting the surface of the water here and there.

"It's a sure sign of death," soberly declared one old tar.

Kailua heard the words and nodded.

"Somebody got go," he said. "Kailua go."

We did not fathom the meaning of his words until he had swiftly stripped off his clothes and plunged over the rail headlong into the sea. Everybody rushed to the side and yelled at him to come back, for he was swimming swiftly from the brig, something gripped in his teeth. He paid not the least attention to our cries.

It was not long before the man eater sighted the swimmer, and we saw the sharp fin cutting through the water like a sickle. A feeling of unutterable horror seized every one of us, and we watched for the consummation of the tragedy.

The South Sea Islanders are the most expert swimmers, but all at once Kailua seemed to become confused or frightened, for he began to splash and flounder about in the most awkward manner. The shark must have felt sure of his feast.

Just as we expected to see the man eater grasp his prey, Kailua disappeared like a flash. It was impossible to tell how he did it, but he seemed to dive down into the water as if he had plunged headlong from a great height.

There was a sudden flurry beneath the surface, to which rose a bright crimson stain, and then up came a dark body that turned over on its side and lay still.

It was the shark, and he was dead as he could be!

But where was Kailua? We looked about for the native in vain, and all began to think he had been killed and the body had sunk to rise no more. Just as we arrived at this conclusion a hail came from under the bow of the brig, and there was Kailua, having swum under water from the scene of the encounter to the Emma Luce.

A rope was immediately flung to him, and he came aboard hand over hand with the agility of a monkey, a knife gripped in his teeth. Quickly he stood grinning before us, his black body shining in the sunlight.

"Shark sign of dead," he observed. "You bet Him dead. That make right. Kailua feel him."

TO FIGHT AT SEA.

Mello Orders a Cruiser to Attack the Tiradentes.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—A despatch from Montevideo says:

It is probable that one of the chief naval engagements of the Brazilian revolution will be fought off the coast of Uruguay.

Admiral Mello ordered the cruiser Republica to sail from Santos to Montevideo and she arrived yesterday. The cruiser and all on board were quarantined and will be kept there for two days. It is believed here that her object is to attack the Tiradentes as soon as the latter leaves the dock.

When news of the professions of allegiance to Peixoto of the officers and crew of the Tiradentes reached Mello he ordered the Republica to Montevideo to prevent the Tiradentes reaching Rio.

The machinery which had been removed from the Tiradentes so as to render her useless in case the insurgents captured her while in dock here has been replaced and she is ready to sail.

The steamers Desterro and Santos held in quarantine were released yesterday.

On the arrival of the cruiser Republica they steamed closer into the harbor for safety. Both are now anchored near the city. It is hoped by Admiral Goncalves and his officers that the government of Uruguay will protect them and prevent any violation of international law through an attack by the rebel cruisers.

It is believed here that the Republica, which is well manned and equipped, can easily defeat the Tiradentes.

NEARING THE END.

The Great Exposition Closing in a Blaze of Glory.

CHICAGO, Oct. 24.—In many respects the present week is the most important of the fair. It is the last full week within the official limit. The closing scenes will be enacted, so far as statutory regulations are concerned, and the last look must be taken at the most marvelous exhibition of human skill ever shown before Monday evening next.

The exposition may continue for a time in an imperfect condition, but it will be seen in all its completeness only within the next six days. The authorities have sought to make these days interesting, and have crowded a number of special events into them.

To-day the New England women will pay homage to the memory of Martha Washington. On their programme is a reception at the New York building.

Marine transportation will have to-morrow for special exercises. The day will end with the programme of aerial features that promises to surpass anything seen in the line of fireworks.

On Thursday there will be international athletic sports in the stock pavilion. Friday will be in the hands of the coal, grain and lumber dealers, and Saturday will belong to the ancient order of united workmen and the Cook county odd fellows.

IMPORTANT DECISION.

A Serious Point Definitely Settled.

IT IS A QUESTION WHICH INTERESTS WOMEN AS WELL AS MEN.

The Matter Just Now One of Special Significance.

Two prominent business men say the same thing.

Owing to the high position they occupy in the business world, their word may be taken by all as the absolute truth.

F. M. Pigott, Esq., is a well-known resident of Dola, W. Va., and his words have no uncertain meaning.

"For some months," he said, "I had been troubled with nervous dyspepsia and palpitation of the heart, with symptoms of nervous weakness and paralysis.

"I had taken treatment from some of our best physicians but they did not cure me. I had continually fallen off in weight from 180 to 145 lbs., when I was induced by our druggist, R. S. Ogden of Sardis, to try Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy.

"I was surprised at the benefit I received from the use of this medicine. All those very annoying troubles have left me and I actually gained 10 lbs. in 13 days. I am now using the second bottle of the Nervura and weigh 178 lbs. This I attribute all to this splendid medicine. It is the bes remedy to help the sick and cure suffering humanity."

F. M. PIGOTT, ESQ.

Mr. Paul E. Kirchner is a young and prominent man, residing at 319 Venderventer avenue, Astoria, L. I. He says:

"I have been a sufferer from dreadful dyspepsia, terrible nervousness and palpitation of the heart for four years.

"I have been so bad that I had to give up my business. I was fearfully nervous and could not sleep nights, after lying awake half the night. I would have to lie on my stomach and put my hand on my heart, I was so nervous and had such palpitation.

"I would get up mornings feeling tired and dragged out, could not eat anything for breakfast and thought every second that I was going to drop dead.

"I tried doctors all over and none could help me. I went to Mt. Sinai hospital and the doctors there could not help me.

"I finally gave up all hope of being cured for I was a total wreck. One day I saw an advertisement of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy in the Evening World.

MR. PAUL E. KIRCHNER.

"I tried a bottle and as soon as I had taken about half of it I began to feel better. I have now taken two bottles and a half and am feeling first rate. I now feel strong and vigorous and can work all right.

"I say that this wonderful medicine, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, is the greatest medicine ever discovered."

It is a fact that this remedy cures. And if it will cure such serious and long-standing troubles as the above, now much more easily and surely will it cure all the ordinary complaints of life—stomach, liver, kidney troubles, constipation, headache, nervousness, sleeplessness and the poor blood, weak nerves and low vitality and debility.

It is the best medicine possible to take, for it will give you health and strength. It is purely vegetable and harmless, indeed it is the discovery and preecription of the well-known Dr. Greene, of 35 W. 14th street, New York, who is the most successful specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases, and who can be consulted free, personally or by letter.

REPEAL NEAR AT LAST

Vote on the Bill May Be Reached Saturday.

Silver Men Only Demand Time Now to Finish Their Speeches—Believed That the House Will Make Quick Work of the Senate Amendment.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—The unusual placidity of the Senate yesterday and the comparatively early hour at which its proceedings closed strengthens the feeling this morning that, after the long and stormy voyage which the silver purchase repeal bill has experienced, land is in sight. There were but two speeches, or rather sections of speeches, made, and they were those of the two Nevada senators, Messrs. Stewart and Jones.

Only Want Time to State Their Views.

The latter assured the senate, before taking his seat, that there was no intention on the part of the opponents of the repeal bill to prolong the discussion farther than was necessary to enable them to state their views clearly to the senate and to the people. This assurance was accepted by Mr. Faulkner (dem., W. Va.), on whose motion the senate, at 4 p. m., took a recess till 11 a.m. to-day.

The Wilson Bill.

If the senate repeal bill passes what will happen? This inquiry prompts a reference to the facts of the situation as they stand. The Wilson bill which the house passed August 28 last providing for the repeal of the silver purchase clause of the Sherman act contained this proviso: "But this repeal shall not impair, or in any manner affect the legal tender quality of the standard silver dollars heretofore coined; and the faith and credit of the United States are hereby pledged to maintain the parity of the standard gold and silver coins of the United States at the present legal ratio or such other ratio as may be established by law."

The Voorhees Substitute.

The Voorhees bill which was reported to the senate from the finance committee as a substitute for the Wilson bill replaced that proviso with the following substitute:

"And it is hereby declared to be the policy of the United States to continue the use of both gold and silver as standard money, and to coin both gold and silver into money of equal intrinsic and exchangeable value, such equality to be secured through international agreement, or by such safeguards of legislation as will insure the maintenance of the parity in value of the coins of the two metals and the equal power of every dollar at all times in the markets and in the payment of debts. And it is hereby further declared that the efforts of the government should be steadily directed to the establishment of such a system of bimetallism as will maintain at all times the equal power of every dollar coined or issued by the United States, in the markets and in the payment of debts"

House Will Probably Concur.

Should this bill pass and be sent over to the house, Speaker Crisp says there will be two motions in order, one to concur in the senate amendment or substitute, the other to refer it to a committee. The expectation expressed was that the former motion would be adopted. The declaration in the Voorhees bill is so far satisfactory to the repealers in the house that, in order to get prompt action on the bill, it is believed that they will concur in it without question.

No Show for the House Minority.

Whether or not any obstructive tactics will be employed against the bill in the house was a question asked to-day, and the impression received was that there will not be.

One silverite when asked if it was proposed to obstruct the measure when it reached the house, replied: "How can you obstruct anything under the rules here? What earthly chance has the minority. There is no freedom of speech."

Want to Adjourn.

Representatives would like to adjourn this week if possible, and the speaker and the committee on rules will do all in their power to bring this about, if the matter comes within their jurisdiction. But adjournment does not rest upon the silver bill alone. The senate must first dispose of the McCreary bill to amend and modify the Geary Chinese restriction and registration act before the administration will accede to an adjournment.

May Adjourn this Week.

But that bill can be acted upon in the senate while the house disposes of the silver question. Congress may adjourn, if the senate so wills, and if both bodies earnestly pursue the purpose which prominent members of each express. An adjournment of the extra session is not only a possibility but a probability this week.

Populists Still Show Fight.

The populists were heard from to the following effect: Mr. Allen (Neb.): "It begins to look as if the end was coming. I for one will never give up until the wagon runs over me. Of course, I recognize the fact that I cannot carry on the fight alone."

It is the intention of those in charge of the bill, now that the struggle has been abandoned, not to push the measure to a vote with unseeming haste. It is believed that the vote on the amendments will be taken on Friday. The vote on the bill itself will probably be not taken until Saturday.

SILVER IN THE HOUSE.

The All-Important Subject One of the Chief Incidents of the Day.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—After passing a bill to license engineers and assistant engineers on vessels in the merchant marine, the house took up the bankruptcy bill. Mr. Denson (dem., Ala.) made a vigorous speech against it. Mr. Dalzell (rep., Penn.) favored such a bill if objectionable features could be eliminated, as did also Mr. Ray (rep., N. Y.).

Silver in the House.

The chief incident of the day was a silver discussion, which the declaration of Mr. Denson that silver had been demonetized by the democratic party had precipitated. Mr. Patterson (dem., Tenn.) said that the repeal of the Sherman act would not eliminate one dollar of silver from circulation.

Mr. Bland, interrupting, said:

Silver Like Greenbacks, Says Bland.

"Greenbacks in circulation like greenbacks, to be redeemed in gold. It is virtually, as money, demonetized, and the gentleman from Tennessee cannot deny it. (Applause on the democratic side.) The bill not demonetizes silver, called the repeal bill, goes further than that. It re-enacts the provision of the Sherman law that all the silver shall be redeemed in gold." (Applause on the democratic side.)

Bimetallism Discussed at Length.

Mr. Patterson—I do not so understand; but I do admit that it is the policy of the administration to retain every dollar of silver now in circulation on a parity with gold.

Messrs. Bryan, (dem., Neb.,) and Pence, (pop., Colo.,) were drawn into the colloquy and bimetallism was disdussed for some time.

At 4:45 the house adjourned.

RUSSIANS LEAVE PARIS

Their Reception Throughout an Unbroken Fete.

Lyons Feverishly Excited in Anticipation of Their Reception—Eiffel Socially Whitewashed—A Present for the Czar From Alsace-Lorraine.

PARIS, Oct. 25.—The Russians went to Versailles yesterday afternoon on a special train, Admiral Avelan riding in the carriage used by Queen Victoria when she passed through France. They stopped a few minutes at St. Cloud and Sevres to receive addresses from the local authorities. At Versailles all the approaches to the railway station were filled with cheering crowds. The waiting room had been transformed into a saloon with maroon hangings, red carpet, palms and flowers.

"Vive l'Alliance."

The Russians looked through the palace with minute interest. In response to repeated calls for them they appeared on the balcony outside the saloon where the German empire was proclaimed. They were greeted with the cry "Vive l'Alliance!" They drove to the Grand Trianon, the villa erected by Louis XIV. for Mme. de Maintenon, and saw the apartments of Marie Antoinette; then to the Petit Trianon and the Bassin Neptune where they watched the fountains play.

They were back in Paris shortly before 3 o'clock. An immense crowd welcomed them, cheering with enthusiasm little short of delirium.

The fetes closed last night with a general illumination and a gala performance at the opera.

Eiffel Socially Whitewashed.

Several journals comment upon the fact that M. Eiffel, who was found guilty of enormous frauds in connection with the Panama canal, received last evening his social whitewashing. He was at the tower bearing his name to receive the Russians, with his decoration of the Legion of Honor in full view. He shook hands with Admiral Avelan and General Loizillon, and touched glasses and drank with them repeatedly. Both officers treated him with distinction.

Avelan and Carnot Confer in Private.

Directly after the last curtain at the opera last night the Russians took carriages for the Lyons railway station, where the people had gathered by the tens of thousands to bid them godspeed. The boulevards were ablaze with electric light and the crowds cheered more wildly even than when the officers arrived.

After luncheon at the Elysee Admiral Avelan had a long private interview with President Carnot.

Dispatches from Lyons say that the city is feverishly excited in anticipation of the visit of the Russians.

A Present from Alsace-Lorraine.

PARIS, Oct. 25.—Deputy Mezieres has given to Baron Mohrenheim, Russian ambassador, a golden book similar to the one which he presented to Admiral Avelan. This book is to be delivered to the czar in the names of the people in Alsace and Lorraine, who subscribed money for it.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., Oct. 25.—The citizens of Chester are excited over an attempt to declare the recent town election void on the ground that the moderator, F. W. THE BRAZILIAN WAR.

Latest News Indicate that the Rebels Still Command the Situation.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—A press despatch from Montevideo says that Frederick Guilherme de Lorena has been proclaimed provisional president of Brazil by Admiral Mello, in command of the insurgent fleet.

Lorena is the captain of one of the rebel warships, and the provisional government of which he is now proclaimed president was established some days ago at Desterro, which is the capital city of the state of Santa Catharina.

The despatch also delares that the bombardment of Rio has been suspended.

There are two reasons current in Rio Janeiro for this action, or rather inaction, on the part of Admiral Mello.

One is that he is awaiting the arrival of the ship Ciudad de Porto, which set out from this port recently, loaded with allies and provisions, but especially ammunition, for Mello. It is surmised that the rebel gunners have about run out of gunpowder and projectiles.

The other reason current for the suspension of the bombardment is that the foreign warships in the harbor have interfered to prevent the further shelling of the defenseless buildings of the capital.

The rebel war ship Republica, which appeared outside the harbor of Montevideo Sunday and was quarantined, signalled the Tiradentes yesterday to come outside and fight. The Tiradentes did not deign to reply, but continued to lie quietly under the friendly aegis of Uruguay.

The Uruguayan officials refused pratique to the Republica and would not even allow her to communicate with the shore, so that, after being supplied with water and coal, she sailed north again, flagging the Tiradentes an invitation to join the rebels, and taunting the crew with being cowards for seeking protection from a foreign power.

Admiral Mello issued another proclamation yesterday exhorting his comrades to continue their efforts, and assuring them of the ultimate downfall of "the tyrant Peixoto," whom he accuses of treachery and cowardice.

He declares that the president endeavored to assassinate him by means of an album loaded with dynamite, which was sent to Mello with the connivance of Peixoto.

An Addison, N. Y., Man, Who Drew a Fraudulent Pension for Thirteen Years is Reformed By the Salvation Army—He May Not Be Prosecuted.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—A letter has been received by the commissioner of pensions from a pensioner, returning his pension certificate and stating that he did so for the reason that for 13 years he had lived a lie; that he was not entitled to the pension which he received for the reason that the disability (gunshot wound of left wrist) for which he was pensioned, was self-inflicted.

He Shot Himself.

He states that he shot himself for the purpose of getting a discharge from the army, and not for the purpose of getting a pension; but that he afterwards concluded to make application for a pension; that this was granted originally some 13 years ago for $8 per month; that it was subsequently raised to $12 upon application for increase; then to $14 and finally to $17 per month, the pension which he is now receiving.

May Not Be Prosecuted.

Acting Commissioner Murphy said to-day that he believed this was a case where mercy should be shown, the man had evidently repented of his misdoing and reformed, and so far as he was concerned, he would not prosecute him. He only hoped that other pensioners drawing illegal pensions would "do likewise."

VOTE FOR WINANS.

This Excellent Master of Laws Should Be Made a Maker of Them.

John Herbert Winans, Democratic candidate for the Assembly in this district, was born in Rahway in 1868, and received his early education in the Third Ward school in that city. He afterwards read law in the office of the Hon. Abram Wakeman, ex-Surveyor of the Port of New York, and in the office of Isaac C. Kennedy in Asbury Park. Mr. Winans removed to Asbury Park and resided there for a number of years, commencing the practice of law at that place. He attended the law lectures at Columbia College Law School, being graduated therefrom in 1889 with the degree LL B. For a year after his graduation from the law school, he occupied the position of law instructor in the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor, and that institution conferred on him the degree of LL M. Mr. Winans was admitted to the bar of New Jersey in 1890, and afterward became a member of the bar of New York and Michigan, removing his office in 1891 to New York city, where he is at present practicing, with offices in the Union Trust Building, 80 Broadway. During his residence in Asbury Park, Mr. Winans engaged for a time in newspaper work, being for a time connected with the New York Times and Morning Journal.

He has been a resident of Rahway for some time, and has always been a consistent Democrat, having appeared on the stump in aid of his party during several recent campaigns. He is a church member, and an avowed opponent of race-tracks.

THE TOOL OF NO CLIQUE.

Senator Martine Would Labor for the Masses.

It is evident that the laboring men will make themselves heard in the election next month. That worthy standard bearer, the Hon. James E. Martine, candidate for Senator from this county, has already been communicated with on this important question. The following is his frank and manly reply. It proves to be eminently satisfactory to all the labor organizations in Union county, and for that matter in the State. The laborer is truly worthy of his hire, and, knowing this, they will vote for Martine and the straight Democratic ticket on election day. Let no man be seduced into the camp of the enemy under any kind of special pleading. Read this letter of Martine:

PLAINFIELD, N. J., Oct. 23, 1893.

Mr. Burt Ayres:

MY DEAR SIR—Your kind note received. In response I would say that I have always been the friend of labor, and have repeatedly insisted that it was not only the right but the duty of laboring men to organize for their mutual protection, such organization not only advancing their pecuniary welfare but promoting the social and intellectual interests of its members. Great aggregation of wealth and the organization of capital are the menace of our time. To resist such a force organized labor is the only salvation of the Republic.

In the event of my election as Senator, I would ever be an earnest advocate of all honest measures to aid the toiling masses.

Very respectfully,
J. E. MARTINE.

Jerseymen of Property, Ponder on This

(From The Elizabeth Herald.)

The Committee on Resolutions of the Republican Convention Monday declared "that for the past five years the vicious and criminal classes have been engaged in acquiring power and controlling legislation until citizenship in New Jersey has become a reproach and our State made infamous throughout Christendom".

Of course the natural inference of all this, assuming that all this is true, is that Democrats, the wretched Democrats, who grow in vice as the Republicans grow in virtue, are responsible for the conditions alleged to prevail by the latter. Why have not the Republicans done something to avert the deplorable state of affairs they affect to believe exists? Why do they at this late day, to the manifest injury of New Jersey, proclaim that "citizenship in New Jersey has become a reproach"? How do you like such a proceeding, men with houses and lands and businesses here? What think you of a body that declares that "our State has been made infamous throughout Christendom"?

It seems to us that the Committee on Resolutions labored with more zeal than judgment. High-sounding periods mean as much and the same as "the loud laugh that speaks the vacant mind". The statement that New Jersey has been made infamous throughout Christendom is simply absurd. Christendom has no geographical boundaries, but the impression prevails that it is quite a large place. Look out for flights of fancy when Republican Committees on Resolutions take up their little pens.

NO REFLECTION ON THE JURORS.

JUDGE VANSYCKEL DID NOT MEAN AN IMPUTATION.

He Felt that the Grand Inquest Had Not Been Acquainted With All the Evidence, and that is Why He Sent Them Back—None of the Jurymen Blamed, for They Made as Strong a Presentment as Their Knowledge of the Facts Would Warrant.

A full understanding of the facts concerning the Grand Jury presentment against the Linden Township Committee, as briefly reported in The Press of yesterday, shows that when Judge VanSyckel sent the jury back for further consideration he had no intent or desire to cast any reflection whatever on them.

The presentment was as follows:

The Grand Inquest of the State of New Jersey, in and for the county of Union, for the October term, 1893, most respectfully present that they have diligently, conscientiously, and upon their oaths, inquired into and fully investigated the charges referred by His Honor Bennet VanSyckel upon the opening day of this term concerning the action of the Township Committee of Linden township in granting a license to maintain and operate a race-track in the said township. We believe that every constituent is entitled to the unbiased judgment of representatives in whatever capacity they may hold, strictly upon the merits or demerits of the matters coming before them in their official capacity for action, and while we believe that public morals can only be maintained and advanced by holding representatives of the people, whose servants they are, to a strict accountability for their acts, yet in the particular case under consideration, the grand inquest have been unable to find or attach any criminal intent to have existed in minds of any of the committee who voted for said license, nor do we find that either personally or collectively the said committee profited in any way by the transaction. We find, however, that the granting of the license is in direct opposition to the expressed wishes of the majority of the people of Linden township as expressed by them at the town meeting when the committeemen were elected, and that, under the circumstances, the granting of the license has called forth public indignation.

Fully conscious of the manifold evils and influences that are surrounding our legislators and officials to sway their judgment, and appreciating the honest motive and purity of purpose of his honor, Judge VanSyckel, in bringing this matter to the notice of the Grand Inquest, we do herewith unanimously present the members of the Linden Township Committee who voted in favor of the granting of the said license as having pursued a course in dealing with a public question that is liable to much abuse, fraught with the most dangerous consequences and cannot be too severely condemned. We unanimously present the said members of the said committee for granting said license without consulting with their constituents and because without proper publicity they voted contrary to the views of the majority of the voters of Linden township as expressed at the polls when these said committeemen were elected. Purity of motive and honest and unbiased expression of the votes through the ballot can alone keep our community safe, hence it particularly becomes the duty of all who may be entrusted with the people's welfare in the official capacity, to guard carefully their acts and to keep aloof from any and all influences, however remote, that may in any way influence their actions in opposition to their convictions.

As soon as the reading of the presentments ceased, Judge VanSyckel turned to the Grand Jurors, and in an earnest tone addressed them.

GENTLEMEN—I called your attention at the beginning of the term, as you have stated in your presentment, to a charge of bribery against the Committee of Linden township. The law on the subject it is your duty to accept as given by the court. No indictment has been returned by you. The court is creditably informed that there are sufficient facts that can be adduced on which to find a bill, and the presumption is that the evidence produced before you was not satisfactory, to your judgment, to justify you in presenting the offenders for trial before the court.

If it has reached that crisis in the administration of the law in this county that crime cannot be punished, the public should know it, and shall know who have been derelict in duty.

I am resolved that no censure shall justly attach to me, and I feel it to be due to the public, and to each one of you, to give you full opportunity to show that you have discharged your duty.

You may retire for the further consideration of this case.

The Court will exercise its utmost power to lay before you evidence which cannot be doubted.

Foreman Martine stepped several feet in advance of the line of jurors and said:

May it please your Honor, to compel the jurors to go back for further deliberation would be a grievous reflection on this Grand Inquest. I feel it my duty to defend the course of the body of my fellow citizens——

Judge VanSyckel rapped with his gavel, and Mr. Martine ceased talking.

Judge VanSyckel then said:

The Court will not hear you. It is no reflection on the Grand Jury, and the Court has been careful not to cast a reflection. It is assumed, on the information the Court has, that you did not have the satisfactory evidence before you, otherwise you would have found indictments. It is for your defense that you should return, and the Court will do its utmost to present to you all the evidence possible for you to discharge the public duty imposed on you. You will retire, gentlemen.

The jurors passed back to their rooms, and a short time afterwards adjourned for the day.

On Friday the jurors will expect the Court to produce the additional evidence, if it has any to submit.

Judge Van Syckel may be personally brought before them to tell where he got the information alluded to in his remarks.

Ex-Judge Ulrich appeared for the defendant, and had his client honorably discharged. A counter-charge is about to be made against Frucht.

At 7:30 last evening a very pretty wedding took place at 24 Jackson avenue, the residence of Councilman H. E. Needham, when his daughter Miss Edith Needham was married to John Thomas of New York. The guests were relatives and a few intimate friends. The ushers were John McLaughlin of Plainfield, and Mr. Richards. The flower girls were Miss Clara Van Fleet in white lace and little Clyde Slater in pink silk—she carried a bouquet of pink roses. The bride was dressed in fawn-colored broadcloth and velvet, and wore a corsage bouquet of lilies of the valley. The wedding march was played by Miss Rinehart of Scotch Plains.

That Beautiful Children's Ballet.

It has often been said that he who thoroughly succeeds in pleasing little children, has surely the keynote to success. Nothing amuses the little tots better than to see children of their own size doing something clever, and in the children's quadrille there is displayed a quaintness that is exceedingly catchy. A production of "The Black Crook" without its children's ballet, would be like a wedding without a bride and groom. In the forthcoming presentation of this paragon of spectacles, in Music Hall Saturday night, the most beautiful effects are highly colored by the presence of the little folks. The ballets are highly entrancing, and the large number of coryphees employed, clad in the most beautiful of dazzling costumes, makes it a veritable mardi-gras transferred to the stage. The massive scenic effects are wonders of the artist's brush. The European specialties are worthy of especial note. The Brothers Rixford, in acrobatic feats, from the Circus Cisinelli, St. Petersburg, Russia, and the French Quadrille Dancers from the Folies Bergeres, Paris, are among the most prominent of foreign importations.

Want to Organize Sons of Veterans.

At the regular encampment of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., held last evening, the subject of organizing a camp of Sons of Veterans was discussed. A committee was finally appointed to look into the matter and report at an early date.

It was stated at the meeting that there were nearly two hundred sons of honorably discharged soldiers in the city and that a large and prosperous camp should result therefrom.

Officers from the headquarters of the organization will be present at the meeting, and will explain its methods, etc.

Laying in Thanksgiving Dinner.

William Muchey, of Terrill road, has been missing fowls from his hennery of late, but they were taken one by one. A few mornings ago he got up to find that fifty of his finest spring chickens had been stolen from two coops during the night. The fowls were about half grown, and were being fattened for market.

Good Fishing at Tier's.

There were many anglers perched on the banks of Tier's Lake, yesterday, and many fine specimens of the finny tribe were landed with rod and reel. The pond has not contained so many fish before in a long time, and this is said to be due to the recent rains and the sudden rise of water.

THIS BURGLAR GOT NOTHING.

YOUNG MR. SIMMONDS COMES HOME JUST IN TIME.

He Proves the Value of Staying Out Late, and Routs a Thief from His Father's Dining Room—The Housebreaking Was in the Unprotected Neighborhood.

Some time between 12 and 1 this morning, a burglar entered the handsome residence of Herman Simmonds, coffee importer, at the corner of Watchung avenue and Ninth street. The entrance was effected through a window on the ground floor, and exit was made through the back door.

A son of Mr Simmonds arrived home on the 12:43 midnight train, and, entering the house, discovered a man in the dining room. Thinking he was his brother, he called to him, but received no response, and before assistance could be rendered the stranger had fled. The entire household was aroused, and a search was made for the intruder, but he had gone. Policeman Frederickson and Giese were hastily summoned by telephone from Dr. Murray's residence, but when they arrived on the scene nothing unusual was found except a thoroughly alarmed household. At an early hour this morning Captain Grant was notified, and he will investigate the case. Little or nothing of value was missing.

A PLAINFIELD PASTOR'S LIFE.

The Rev. J. W. Richardson Lectures Interestingly.

The Park Avenue Baptist church was well filled last night by an audience whose interest was held for over an hour by the Rev. John W. Richardson, who lectured on the "Lights and Shadows of Ministerial Life". The lecture was for the benefit of the Christian Endeavor Society, and a neat sum was netted to swell its funds. Mr. Richardson outlined the ministerial life from the time that the young candidate leaves the seminary, through his career, checkered by many vicissitudes, until, like "other ordinary mortals", the grave claims him for his own. The Rev. Mr. Richardson said that some people imagine that any material is good enough to make a minister, and if a boy is good and "angelic", that it is proper to make a parson of him no matter what his mental qualifications may be. This he thinks is a great mistake as no profession requires so many different mental attainments as that of the ministry. To hold the interest of a congregation at two sermons every Sunday for a number of years, besides the services of the week, to say nothing of the calls upon a minister for social duties and other things too numerous to mention, is a task that taxes the most versatile mind and most robust body.

Besides the routine work of a minister he is called upon to participate in the joys and sorrows of his congregation. These latter are often very painful but his experiences are not all sad. Many mirth provoking occurrences brighten up the every-day life of the parson and make pleasant remembrances.

Mr. Richardson expressed himself as opposed to laudatory orations at funerals and told an amusing story of a young minister who made a fearful mistake in one of his funeral "praise services".

His whole discourse was enlivened by wit, wisdom, eloquence and pathos, and his audience followed him throughout with intense interest.

Milkman Moore was Honest.

George Moore, a West Fourth street milkman, was tried yesterday afternoon before Justice Nash for alleged selling of adulterated milk in this city. The complainant was the State Dairy Commissioner, George W. McGuire, who was represented by Leon Abbett, Jr. Moore's counsel was Judge W. A. Coddington. The testimony showed that Moore bought his milk from a dealer, and that the milk stood every morning for over an hour at the corner of Somerset street and Greenbrook road before it was taken and delivered by Moore. The letter of the law makes it an offence for any milkman to have in his possession adulterated milk. The milk found in Moore's possession and examined by the State Commissioner was found to be under the standard of purity and Moore was brought up for trial. He proved himself an honest man to the satisfaction of the jury and they brought in a verdict of not guilty.

Can't Wash It Out.

Anything dyed black with diamond dye fast black always stays black. There are three kinds: fast black for wool, fast stocking black for cotton, and fast black for silk and feathers. They will dye dresses, cloaks, suits, trousers, ribbons, feathers, stockings, etc., a rich, full black that will not crock, fade or wash out. Be sure to get diamond dyes, as they embody the latest discoveries and are superior to all other dyestuffs.

Strange Quadrupeds in Town.

A horse of E. P. Beebe, florist, of Elizbeth, ran away on Park avenue, this afternoon. John Blackford made a flying leap into the wagon, and the horse collided with a team of mules of G. Bardendestil, smoked-meat dealer, of Harrison. No serious damage was done.

THE OLD BATTLE-FLAGS.

Winfield Scott Post Petitions the Jersey Legislature.

Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., met in regular session last evening, and besides the regular routine of business, the Post accepted an invitation to pay a fraternal visit to Barry Post, No. 27, of Rahway, tomorrow evening, and passed the following resolutions:

To the Honorable the Legislature of the State of New Jersey.

GENTLEMEN:—At the regular encampment of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, Department of New Jersey, the following preamble and resolutions were adopted by a unanimous rising vote:

WHEREAS, The welcome news has reached this Post that an organized effort is to be made to the end that the battle-flags of the various New Jersey organizations may be prominently and permanently placed in the State House at the Capitol of the State in the city of Trenton; and

WHEREAS, Further information reaching us that Past Commander E. A. Donnelly and staff have visited the State House, and decided the rotunda of said building as the most suitable position for placing the same. Therefore be it

Resolved, That the Honorable the Legislature of the State of New Jersey be most respectfully petitioned to cause said flags to be placed in the rotunda of the State House, under glass, hermetically sealed, colors unfurled with the numbers of the organization to which they belonged prominently placed upon them. And for the consummation your petitioners will ever pray.

M. C. DOBBINS, Commander.
W. E. ALPAUGH, Adjutant.

The set of resolutions were framed by Geo. W. Moore, and he was given a vote of thanks by the Post for his efficiency in response to orders from the Department Commander.

THEY WILL NOT FUSE.

Crescent Wheelmen Decline to Join the Board of Trade.

At a meeting of the Crescent Wheelmen last night the much discussed question of whether that body should combine interests with the Board of Trade, was decided. After the pros and cons of the situation had been discussed it was decided that it was not feasible to fuse the two organizations. The reason for the proposed combination of the two clubs was given some time ago and was substantially as follows.

When the Crescent League went by the board, the solid members, those who had stood by the league in its last extremity and only left when it was absolutely necessary, formed themselves into the Crescent Wheelmen. Many of these men were also Board of Trade members and consolidation of interests seemed natural especially as the Wheelmen had been so identified with the present Board of Trade club-house. But when the matter came to be discussed, and ways and means considered, it was shown that the present interests of the two clubs were so different that fusion was impracticable, so the wheelmen will keep to themselves in the future.

Strayed But Secured.

Miss Boutcher's cow strayed out of bounds at The Homestead, Fanwood, Sunday morning, and tramped around the lawns of her neighbors.

Mr. Fancher lassoed the animal just as she was taking a header down into the railroad cut ahead of a B. and O. flier.

By means of a rope furnished by D. B. Darke the animal was secured and afterward sustained by Hans Lambertsen until released by an order from the justice of the peace.

From the free and easy manner in which the animal performed it was suspected to belong to Col. Hamlin, but Miss Boutcher's man of the dairy fully identified the bovine.

Would Not Hold the Woman.

Clara Johnston was in the City Court this morning arrested on complaint of Janitor Madden, of the Mt. Olive Baptist church, charged with striking him and using abusive language. Both the complainant and defendant are colored. Judge Coddington dismissed the woman with a warning.

(Special to The Press.)

SOMERVILLE, Oct. 25.—At high noon today the marriage of Madeline, youngest daughter of the Hon. Alvah A. Clark, to Alexander Wolfgang Mack, the oldest son of Adolph Mack, was celebrated at the beautiful home of the bride's father with a great deal of ceremony and pomp. The ceremony was performed by Supreme Court Justice William J. Magie. The bridal pair were married under a bower of palms, ferns and roses in the large drawing-room of the mansion. The bride wore a superb gown of white satin trimmed with pearls and duchess point lace, with veil and orange blossoms. The maid of honor, little Madeline Reed, of North Plainfield, wore a gown of white silk and carried a bouquet of marguerites. The best man was Lewis C. Mack, and the ushers George L. Loomis, Eugene B. Clark, John B. Parmelee and Bogart T. Conkling. Sherry of New York, served a wedding breakfast immediately following the ceremony. The wedding was very private, none but the immediate families being invited. The happy pair were the recipients of numerous costly gifts, including a house and lot, the house full furnished, a baby grand piano, beautiful gold and silver tableware, and cut-glass, besides a large block of stock.

Yesterday they found the goods in a barrack. The story is that last night when the thieves came to take away their booty the farmers were waiting for them and shot them.

Dr. Boynton to Be Released and Brought Home From Brazil.

Mr. Moody Boynton of Boston, a relative of the would-be destroyer, will send money to pay his passage back.

It has been shown to the satisfaction of Secretary Herbert that Dr. Boynton was not mentally responsible, and that his relatives would see that he caused no more embarrassment to the United States.

IMITATION OF THE COLLISION.

Scenes at Battle Creek Re-enacted in Part in Mimic.

BATTLE CREEK, Mich., Oct. 25.—An imitation of Friday's collision was given at the scene of the wreck last night.

The city lights were burning as they were on the night of the collision. The semaphores and switch lights were in exactly the same condition and coal cars and other portable properties were as they were then.

One engine crept up without lights as did No. 6 and another dashed in as did No. 9. The jury was on this engine to see what it could. Engineer Cranshaw of No. 9 assisted in the mimic wreck and did the same things as he did on the fateful night of the wreck.

This object lesson is to enlighten the jury as to the practical details of the accident.

SOME ODD STORIES.

INTERESTING TALES OF ADVENTURE ON SEA AND LAND.

The Search For the Man Eating Tree of Ceylon and Its Fatal Termination—The Deadly Valley and Its Mystery—An English Army Officer's Story.

[Copyright, 1893, by American Press Association.]

"It was something more than the love of sport and adventure that took me back to Ceylon for a second visit," said Major Carter of her majesty's service. "I had resolved to solve the mystery of Lieutenant Gordan's most unaccountable disappearance on that wild island five years before. Gordan was a fine fellow, young, daring and enthusiastic, with a promising future before him, and the uncertainty of his fate preyed upon my mind.

"I had often heard weird stories of the man killing tree of Ceylon, but I did not believe there was the least foundation for them. To my mind the story was a myth, for I had found a man might rest in security beneath the so called deadly upas, and yet the story of the upas was never so improbable as that of the fiendish tree said to live on flesh and blood.

"Lieutenant Gordan had shared my skepticism to a certain extent, and yet he was inclined to search for the demon tree in dark depths of the wildest jungles. He had a daring and dangerous way of rambling far into the forests, his only companions being a native guide and his dark skinned servant. More than once I told him he would provide a square meal for a tiger or some other wild animal, but he only laughed at my fears.

"One night he did not return. The guide and the servant came back, both frightened nearly to death, and they told a story that aroused our party to a high pitch of excitement. They declared Lieutenant Gordan had fallen a victim to the man eating tree, saying it was near midafternoon when they came to the mouth of a deep and dark valley, into which the venturesome young man insisted on penetrating. At the mouth of the valley the natives found a small stone idol, before which were scattered human skulls and bones. This served to warn them against entering the forbidding place, and they refused to accompany the lieutenant.

"Gordan was not daunted, and he bade them await his return, after which he boldly went down into the gloom of the place, leaving the natives mumbling and prostrating themselves before the idol.

"In about 20 minutes the guide and the servant heard a terrible shriek of fear and agony that came up from the mysterious and dismal valley. The cry was that of a human being in the greatest agony, and so frightened were the natives that they instantly took to their heels and fled from the spot.

"We rebuked them for their cowardice, and all of us believed Gordan had been attacked by a wild animal or a serpent. We even entertained hope that he might put in an appearance, but the night passed and morning came without any sign of him. Then nearly the entire party set out to find the dismal valley and solve the mystery of our comrade's fate.

"The guide was very reluctant about leading us, but we forced him to do so. For hours we tramped about in the jungle without finding the valley, and the guide finally declared he did not know how to lead us to it. This made us very angry, and we nearly scared the fellow to death, asserting we would flay him alive if he did not take us to the place. He started on again, and we followed, but night found us unrewarded for our pains. In returning to the camp, both the guide and Gordan's servant slipped away and disappeared in the forest, and neither was seen afterward.

"This mysterious affair threw a damper on our spirits, and the hunt was far from a success. The most of the party were inclined to believe the lieutenant had been murdered by the two natives, and I thought it not improbable.

"During the five years that elapsed before I again visited Ceylon, I often thought of Jack Gordan and longed to know the truth concerning his fate. When I found myself once more in the vicinity of our former adventures, I resolved to search for the fatal valley. Captain Starbuck, a loyal friend and a man with plenty of courage, agreed to accompany me, poor fellow! I was glad to have a white man as a companion, although I protested against taking him from his elephant shooting, but he professed some faith in the story of the man eating tree and expressed a desire to look upon the monster of the vegetable kingdom.

"Taking our servants along, we made a party of four, although we knew we could not depend on the blackskins in case of emergency. It was near midday of our first and final search that we came to the mouth of a valley that seemed to me like the one described by the native guide and Gordan's servant. All at once both our dusky aids flung themselves face downward on the ground and began chanting something in the most doleful tones, and then we saw they were bowed before a hideous stone image, around which were scattered bones and human skulls!

"'We have found the fatal valley!' I cried.

"It was useless to attempt to persuade the blackskins to accompany us into the gloom of the place, and they entreated us not to go there, saying we would never come forth if we ventured. Telling them to await our return and looking to make sure our weapons were ready for instant use, we entered the valley.

"A deep gloom hung over the place, which was disturbed by no sound save our footfalls, and they did not seem to make an echo. As we moved slowly onward a feeling of horror gradually and surely crept over me, although I tried to throw it off. It seemed that there was something uncanny about the valley—something weird and deadly. I looked at the captain and saw his face was pale, although his jaws were set and determination was written on his features.

"In vain we looked about for sign of living creature in that dismal vale. No bird nor animal greeted our vision; not even a snake squirmed across our path. For all of the gloom, the vegetation was luxurious and rank, but the air seemed laden with perfumes that were sweet to the point of nausea.

"In a short time we came to a wall of barren stone. A cry broke from my lips, and stooping I picked up a rusty rifle that lay at the foot of the wall. After a minute examination I asserted:

"'This was Lieutenant Gordan's gun. His initials are carved on the stock.'

"My voice sounded hollow and strange. I looked up at the rugged wall and made a motion to ascend. Captain Starbuck nodded, and we were soon climbing side by side.

"As we mounted upward a singular sound came to our ears. It was a sort of swishing or hissing, like the sound of a strong wind in rank reeds, and yet unlike it. This grew more distinct as we neared the top of the wall, and there was something blood chilling in the sound.

"The top was soon reached, and we looked over into a circular basin, in the very center of which rose a tree that was of a vividly green hue from its roots to its highest point. And such a tree! There were no leaves upon it, and its bare branches were round and supple, like so many serpents. From its body to its upper limit the tree was in motion. The slender limbs were whipping and cutting through the air like things of life, making the hissing sound we heard.

"A cry of amazement broke from Starbuck's lips. In an instant the tree was still, and every branch pointed straight at us. At that moment I lost my footing and slipped back a bit, falling below the level of the wall's highest point. I felt something knock my hat from my head, and then I heard a terrible shriek from my companion. My horrified eyes beheld a hundred twining, twisting things encircle him and snatch him from view in a twinkling. For a moment others played and squirmed over the wall as if feeling for me, and then they vanished.

"A short time I clung there, paralyzed with such horror as never possessed me before, and then I drew myself up to the top of the wall again. I can never forget the horrible sight that greeted my eyes. Captain Starbuck was in the grasp of that demon tree, the limbs of which were twined about him like serpents. Some had twisted themselves about his neck, and I saw he was already dead, having been strangled. And over the body the snaky arms of the accursed tree fought and squirmed.

"Sick and fainting with terror, I slid down to the foot of the wall and ran from that infernal spot as fast as my legs could carry me. I did not stop when I reached the mouth of the deadly valley, and the two natives, reading the truth on my face, kept me company.

"When I told the story at camp, it was received with mingled doubt and credulity. Some of the men could not bring themselves to believe such a thing possible, while others, knowing me better, did not doubt my word.

"We spent three days searching for that valley, and, singular as it may seem, it could not be found again. I do not know that it has been found to this day. But were I able to go direct to it," concluded Major Carter, "the wealth of England would not tempt me into its horrid confines!"

Doesn't Look the Same.

If life were as I dreamed it was some twenty years ago,
There'd be no need of paradise; we'd rather stay below.
But youth in brilliant colors paints to watch the pictures fade,
And life's as far from what I dreamed as it could well be made.
Now sometimes, when I study it by later lights in milder hues,
I'm half inclined to label it, "A Symphony In Blues."

Decision.

Decide not rashly. The decision made
Can never be recalled. The gods implore not.
Plead not, solicit not, which, once being passed,
Return no more.

"Dear Sister,

"They charge you with being restless, irritable, excitable, and exacting.

"They don't know the horror that oppresses you.

"Every hour pains run rampant through your body. You suffer secretly as long as you can, then go all to pieces and 'don't care' what happens.

"The iron grip of female disease is upon you.

"Dear sister, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has cured thousands like you.

"It has cured me, and I want to tell everybody.

"It kills the pain. No more backache, no more 'bearing-down,' no more restless days and sleepless nights. Oh! what a blessing! take it and be well! it's a sin to hesitate." — Mrs. P. A. Quiett, North Hamlin, N. Y.

AWAITING THE VOTE

Nothing to Delay But Silverite Talk.

No Telling When They Will Finish—Mr. Pugh Blames the Administration—Mr. Sherman May Offer a Bond Purchase Amendment To-day.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—Mr. Jones (rep. Nev.) delivered in the senate yesterday the sixth and final portion of the speech against the silver purchase repeal bill which he commenced early last week. As usual, he had an attentive and interested audience, and his peroration was applauded.

His colleague, Mr. Stewart, resumed the speech commenced by him several weeks ago, but did not conclude it.

Blames the Administration.

Mr. Pugh (dem. Ala.) made a brief speech against the repeal bill, in which he stated that the democratic compromise measure would have had the support of 43 democratic senators if it had not been for the interference of the president and his secretary of the treasury. He also said that he would not filibuster against the repeal bill as he would not be able to get the support necessary to do so effectively, but that he would vote against it, leaving the consequences to God and his conscience.

No Estimate of the Speeches.

These were the only speeches made yesterday, but it is impossible to say how many more are to be made before the final vote is reached.

The house joint resolution tendering the acknowledgements of the government and people of the United States to each of the foreign governments that co-operated in the Chicago exposition was amended and passed.

Sherman's Bond Amendment.

It is generally believed that Mr. Sherman will offer an amendment to-day to the bill providing for the issue of bonds. He says that if he does, he will give his reasons, but if he decides not to offer the amendment there is no need of his saying anything.

Mr. Voorhees said that he did not know anything about Mr. Sherman's intentions regarding an amendment providing for bond issue, but nevertheless the repeal bill would be passed as it now stands, and that is unconditional repeal.

COOMBS' TARIFF IDEAS

Introduces an Automatic Measure in the House.

Schedule D, the Labor Schedule, is to Be Flexible and is to Be Added to From Time to Time—Wants the Matter Settled on a Business Basis.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—Representative Coombs of New York offered the following resolution in the house yesterday:

Resolved, That the committee on ways and means be directed to prepare and present for the house a bill for the collection of revenue and other purposes, substantially upon the basis and principle of the following:

The Propositions.

The bill shall have four schedules, as follows:

Schedule A—To be composed of articles free of duty, including all raw materials necessary in the manufacture of goods.

Schedule B—To be composed of articles which, by their nature, should not pay a duty exceeding 10 per cent.

Schedule C—To be composed of articles, principally wine, spirits, tobacco, cigars, cigarettes and upon which a duty must be charged sufficient at least to protect manufacturers who pay a tax under our internal revenue laws. Also of a few well-defined articles of luxury, which will bear a rate of at least 30 per cent. ad valorem.

Labor to Be Protected.

Schedule D—To be known as the schedule for the protection of labor, and which shall be made up from time to time in the manner hereinafter specified.

All articles not covered by the preceding lists shall be grouped and known as "unspecified" and shall have a uniform rate of ad valorem duty as provided hereafter.

The bill shall also provide that in case any manufacturer or manufacturers of goods or merchandise included in the class of "unspecified" shall find that the item labor cost, including the use of machinery, of his productions in this country, shall exceed that paid by the manufacturers of the same class of goods made in foreign countries, he may present sworn proofs of the same to the committee, with the demand that such articles shall be entered on schedule D.

How Duties May Be Raised.

If, upon examination, the committee find that the statements are correct, or if they find that any difference exists in favor of the foreign manufacturers, they shall cause that article or class of articles to be entered upon schedule D, with a specific duty equal to such difference, always provided that the article is not protected by letters patent issued by this government.

Its reading was listened to with interest and some amusement on the republican side of the house.

Mr. Outhwaite (dem. Ohio) said: "Let it go to the committee on ways and means." Mr. Payne (rep. N. Y.): "I wish to ask, Mr. Speaker, if that is constitutional?"

Mr. Hopkins (rep. Ill.) I think this democratic house can dispose of that resolution without referring it to a committee."

But it was so referred.

Business Not Politics.

Speaking of the resolution to a reporter Mr. Coombs said his object was to take the tariff out of politics, as far as it might be done. No party had ever made a tariff bill, he said, without getting hurt by it, and his belief was that both democrat and republican parties would be glad to have the matter settled upon a business basis.

An Automatic Measure.

The principal advantages he claimed for his scheme was that it provided a reasonable, automatic revision of the rates of the tariff every year so that they might vary with the changes in the factors entering into the problem. A great trouble in all previous tariffs, he said, had been that they soon lost the proportion that they were intended to bear to the cost of the articles affected, owing to changes in cost and methods of manufacture. This would be obviated by the operation of his plan.

Heirs to Flood's Millions.

Flood was an uncle of Mrs. Hilliker and Marcus Flood.

NO ONE SAFE IN RIO.

Mello Continues the Bombardment—Peixoto Restricts All Liberty.

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—A despatch from Montevideo says that Peixoto's government has issued a decree which restricts the liberty of the press entirely, provides for the expulsion of foreigners from the country who may render themselves obnoxious to Peixoto, and removes any guarantee of the safety of their lives or property which heretofore has existed.

Peixoto's forts kept up an incessant firing during October 16 and 17 upon Fort Villegagnon, whose final surrender to Mello, after long maintaining a strict neutrality, has already been cabled. The guns of the latter made no reply at first.

Admiral Mello then sent word to the diplomatic corps in Rio that as Peixoto continued to break faith with him in the matter of his promise not to fire on the rebels if they in turn refrained from shelling Rio he would be forced to bombard the city again.

The foreign diplomats again brought their persuasive powers to bear upon the rebel admiral, but this time with poor success, for at 6 o'clock on the evening of October 17 the guns in Fort Villegagnon opened fire, this time with telling effect.

The gunnery displayed was excellent, and much damage was done to the barracks in Rio. Several persons were killed inside the Fort of Santa Cruz by bursting shells, and the searchlight on Gloria hill, by which Peixoto kept track of the movements of the rebel ships at night, was smashed by a cannon shot.

Steamers arriving from the south report that both the Meteoro and the Uranus had arrived safely off Desterro.

Peixoto is mounting more guns upon Castle hill, which overlooks the city and bay. He has abandoned Fort Conceicos, which was only used as a military prison.

STANTON'S DISGRACE

Removed for Saluting Admiral Mello's Flag.

Naval Officials in Washington Dumbfounded — The American Admiral Considered Specially Fitted to Deal With Revolutionary Conditions.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—The peremptory removal of Commodore and Acting Rear Admiral Stanton, stationed at Rio Janeiro, Brazil, from the command of the South Atlantic station, was one of the most startling surprises ever experienced in Washington official life, and for a time it has almost obscured the interest in the silver fight.

Action Not Taken Hastily.

President Cleveland took action after long conferences with the secretaries of state and of the navy, and when put in possession of all the facts and also of such further information Senor Mendonca, the Brazilian minister in Washington, was able to furnish. The official order was briefly made public by Secretary Herbert in the following memorandum:

Stanton Saluted Mello.

"The navy department learned by authority to-day by telegram from Rear-Admiral Stanton, in command of the United States naval forces at Rio de Janeiro, that this officer had saluted the flag of Admiral Mello, commanding the insurgent fleet. This salute was unauthorized by any instructions the Admiral had received.

Friendly Nation Mistreated.

"It was a unfriendly act toward a friendly power, and the secretary of the navy, after consulting with the president and the secretary of state, issued an order detaching Admiral Stanton from command of his squadron and turning it over to Capt. Picking, the next officer in rank."

The Report at First Discredited.

In the early morning, state and navy department officials were incredulous as to the possibility of there being any truth in the report published in the Berlin Norddeutsche Zeitung

Commodore Stanton had been specially selected for this post of duty because he was considered to possess in a preeminent degree those qualifications of coolness and discretion which fitted him to deal with the revolutionary conditions prevailing in the various countries to which his assignment would naturally call him.

Stanton's Record Was Excellent.

Commodore Stanton's record as a naval officer was an excellent one.

One of the highest officers in the service, who himself probably influenced in no small degree Commodore Stanton's appointment, remarked to-day:

"This matter is as much a surprise to me as a slap in the face would be. The relations of the United States to the recognized government of Brazil were such that it was not believed possible that an officer of high rank and experience would go out of his way to give official salute and recognition to the commander of a naval force avowedly in insurrection against the government and actually engaged in bombarding the national capital."

Picking is an Officer of Experience.

Captain Henry F. Picking, of the Charleston, who relieves Commodore Stanton, is also an officer of experience. He has with him the cruiser Newark, Captain Silas Casey, and in three days from now should be joined by the Detroit, Commander Willard H. Brownson.

Court-Martial Probable.

Secretary Herbert was unwilling to speak as to what further action would be taken in Commodore Stanton's case, but it is supposed a court-martial would result. His successor in command of the south Atlantic station will not be determined upon hastily, but it is thought it will probably be Commodore Richard W. Meade, now on duty as a member of the world's Columbian exposition.

Slow Voyage to Japan.

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—A cablegram from Batavia, Java, to the agent in this city of the ship Grace Harwar, announces her arrival at that port short of water and provisions. The ship was bound from New York to Yokohoma, and has been 15 days on her voyage, and is yet more than 3,000 miles from her port of destination.

Change on the B. & O.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 26.—Robert B. Campbell, general superintendent of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad lines west of the Ohio river, has been appointed to succeed J. T. Odell as general manager of the company, the latter having resigned, as stated last week.

Good News for Coal Miners.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 26.—The railroad coal operators have decided not to make any change in the district price for mining before January, 1894. This is good news for about 4 000 miners, who were fearful that a general wage cut of 74 cents would be insisted upon.

The Speyer Loan.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 26.—It was announced last evening after the adjournment of the meeting of the Reading receivers that no action had been taken on the Speyer loan.

According to the Chicago Evening Post, the fire losses in the United States during the first nine months of this year were nearly $27,000 000 greater than for the corresponding period of last year, and a number of strong fire insurance companies are preparing to go out of business before the close of the year for the reason that they can find more profitable fields for the employment of their capital. The Post says the active companies have paid out over $9 000,000 from their surplus funds thus far this year, and that the January statement will show an enormous shrinkage in the securities held by the companies.

It does n't look much like hard times nor as if there was any fear that tariff revision will have anything but a desirable effect upon manufacturing industries, when men like Andrew Carnegie are preparing to enter more than ever into the manufacturing business. The telegraph brings the report from Scranton that Mr. Carnegie is negotiating for the purchase at $12,000,000 of the two immense iron and steel mills of the Lackawanna Iron and Steel Company at that place, and that there is a likelihood of the sale being made. Mr. Carnegie, notwithstanding his theories about protection, is a shrewd and far-sighted business man, and in this effort to extend his operations evidently understands what he is about.

In Addison, New York, a few days ago, a pensioner of the Government experienced conversion at a Salvation Army meeting. There can be no doubt entertained that the conversion was a sound one, for he at once made confession that for thirteen years he has been drawing a pension unlawfully. Moreover, he has written a letter to the Pension Department returning his certificate and regretting that his poverty prevents him from making restitution. Now, if the Salvation Army would get to work upon the rest of the men who are drawing unlawful pensions and get them converted, it would save the department the labor and expense of investigation and the treasury the expenditure of millions of dollars.

They Know and Love Him.

(From The New Brunswick Times)

The Plainfield Press, alluding to Union's senatorship, says: "James E Martine is a most popular candidate. His life record in that section is open to the world, and from such an honest man of so honorable a career nothing but the best representation can be expected. He will conduct a clean campaign, and can be safely trusted to look after Union county's best interest." We have known Mr. Martine for years, and the people of Union could not have made a more popular nor better nomination. His occupation is that of a farmer, and if elected, and we have no doubt but what he will be, he will make a capable, honest, faithful representative of the people. Voters of Union, rally to the support of farmer James E. Martine.

Another Republican Who Would Not Pledge.

(From The New Brunswick Times.)

As was anticipated, the Republicans of Rahway had a lively fight over the race-track question at their primary to elect delegates to their Assembly District Convention. A resolution was adopted at the primary requiring all delegates to pledge themselves not to vote for a candidate who was not opposed to the race-track laws. Ex-Senator Vail refused to pledge himself, saying he never did anything like that in his life, and certainly would not now; and furthermore, he "never heard of such outrageous proceedings in a primary". A. E. Woodruff replied to Mr. Vail, saying that "the people of this good Republican ward ought not even to think of nominating a delegate who would not pledge himself against these infamous laws". His remarks were greeted with cries of "put him out"; and a free fight, according to the press dispatch, seemed imminent. The row ended with the election of Mr. Vail without pledging himself.

And They Will.

(From The Somerville Messenger.)

Our Democrat friends over in Union county gave the "orator farmer"—James E. Martine—a unanimous nomination for Senator last week. There was not a vote against him. Mr. Martine is a stanch Democrat and comes from the ranks of the people. Every Democrat in the county should vote for him, and in that case he will be elected.

He's Always All Right.

(Editorial in The Commercial Advertiser, Rep.)

It is due to New Jersey's Senator, McPherson, to say that he stood for unconditional repeal from the beginning.

IT WASN'T A BRUISE.

William Grattin Works Two Weeks After an Accident Before He Discovers that His Wrist Is Broken.

William Grattin, a truckman in the employ of Expressman VanWinkle, met with an accident about three weeks ago which will deprives him of the use of his right arm for several weeks.

While unloading some goods from a truck in the rear of the Central Hotel on East Front street, Grattin and a fellow-workman endeavored to throw a barrel filled with coal into a high coal-bin, the barrel in some manner slipped from their hands and fell, striking Grattin on the right arm and fracturing one of the small bones of the wrist.

Grattin thought it was merely a bruise and kept at work for over two weeks. He bathed the wounded arm night and morning with some sort of liniment, but it seemed to get worse instead of better, and at last, when he could stand the pain no longer, he consulted a physician and had an examination made. The doctor discovered that one of the wrist bones was broken, and not having been attended to at once it had become inflamed and very sore. He set the broken bone Tuesday, but Grattin, as a result of not having it attended to at once, will carry his arm in a sling for some time

Much Joy for the Young Men's Club.

The Young Men's Club of Monroe Avenue chapel were invited to the home of James McGee, in Washington Park, last night. The time was pleasantly spent in a social way.

Persons interested in Foreign Mission work should not fail to hear the Rev. F. P. Sutherland, a returned missionary from Sagaing, Upper Burmah, who will address a meeting under the auspices of the Temple Society of the First Baptist church next Sunday evening, Oct. 29, at 7:30, in the above church, corner of Front and Grove streets.

The Rev. Mr. Sutherland has been in Burmah during the past seven years, and is well acquainted with all the ways of the Burmese people. A very interesting as well as instructive talk will be given. All are invited.

Real Independence.

[From Brooklyn Life]

One day last summer a gentleman at Plainfield, N. J., had notice served on him by his cook.

"Why do you leave?"—he asked.

"It's too hot here for a Christian in summer,"

"It's no hotter for you than it is for me,"—observed her employer.—"Yet I have to stay."

"That's the difference between you and me,"—returned the cook.—"I haven't."

Funeral of Mrs. Frazee.

The funeral services of Elenor L., late wife of Samuel D. Frazee, were held from her late residence, 405 West Second street, yesterday afternoon at 2:30. A large number of friends and relatives were present to pay a last token of respect to the deceased.

The Rev. Dr. C. R. Barnes, pastor of the Methodist church, had charge of the services, and gave a most earnest and impressive talk from the text:

Lord, Thou hast been our dwelling place in all generations.

His remarks were intended more for the living than the dead, and the many lessons drawn were forcibly given.

He spoke of the departed as one who had lived a faithful life, and had trusted in her Heavenly Father. The doctor concluded by offering prayer, in which he invoked divine blessing and mercy for those present.

Those acting as pall-bearers were George Frazee, Whitney Frazee, Newton Spencer, George Voehl.

Interment was made in the Baptist cemetery on Plainfield avenue.

Congregational Advancement.

A new feature has been introduced in the Congregational Sunday-school. Instead of following the lessons used by the other classes, the pastor wishes to lead his class into more thorough and advanced work than is usually done in Sunday-school. The class will use the progressive grade of the Blakeslee system of inductive Bible studies on the life of Christ. Stalker's life of Christ will be read in connection, and those who are interested to do so will also read Gladden's "Who wrote the Bible?" Several who were not members of the school have joined the class. It is open to anyone, lady or gentleman, from within or without the congregation. The work with the new quarterlies will begin next Sunday.

Wants Something to Grab at.

A gentleman who has been watching Plainfield's fast trolley cars remarked that the question of proper fenders was one of grave importance, but that another point which had been lost sight of was the entire absence of anything for a man to clutch when struck by one of the cars. He said: "Everybody, in falling, stretches out his hands to grasp something. If he is struck and knocked down by a trolley car his fingers slide from a perfectly smooth iron dash. If I had my way the front of all electric cars would be covered with coarse wire netting to provide a handhold for a stricken pedestrian".

A Note of Warning.

The Emmanuel Baptist church of this city, having purchased a building suitable for worship, are now soliciting means from the public to aid them in moving the same to their lot on Richmond street, and hope that the people of Plainfield will help them in preference to the many agents who at present infest our city claiming to be raising means to help some out-of-town church. Help the neighbors next to you.

HYMENEAL.

TenEyck—Osborn.

Before a large gathering of people in Trinity Reformed church, the marriage of Miss Hattie D. Osborn to Fred. TenEyck took place last evening at 6.

A few minutes before the appointed hour the couple entered the church, attended by Dr. Osborn, a brother of the bride, who gave his sister away, and Nicholas Lisder, of New York.

The bride was dressed in a golden brown traveling dress.

While they proceeded up the centre aisle, A. G. Carpenter played the wedding march from Lohengrin.

On reaching the front of the church, the bride and groom were met by the Rev. Cornelius Schenck, who performed the ceremony.

The bridal party then left the church, while Mendelssohn's familiar wedding march was being played.

Later in the evening a reception was given at the groom's home, 72 Westervelt avenue, where many persons called and enjoyed the generous hospitality bestowed.

During the evening A. G. Carpenter rendered several selections on the piano. Robert Blumberg, of New York, gave two excellent recitations. Alva TenEyck also favored those present with a number of humorous recitations.

College songs were indulged in, and a general good time was enjoyed. Supper was then served, which was excellent, and all were bountifully supplied with the good things provided. The ushers at the church were: Robert Blumberg, Nicholas Linder, of New York; G. W. Houseman and A. W. TenEyck. The newly-married couple received many very handsome presents from their friends. Their future home will be in Garwood, where the groom is employed.

Those present at the reception were Mrs. VanEps, Miss VanEps, Miss Hattie Powelson, Miss Annie Vroom, Miss Miller, Mrs. Newton Honeyman, and Miss Horn, of Plainfield; Mr. and Mrs. E. Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. David Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. M. McGuire and Mr. and Mrs. E. VanBonk, of Brooklyn; Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Thompson and Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Thompson, of Southampton, L. I.; J. H. Drake, of New York; Class No. 12 of Trinity church; Mr. and Mrs. E. Ryder, of Plainfield, S. Ryder, of Bergen Point, Silas Miller and family of Newark, Mr. Bovie, of New York, the Misses Abbott, John Abbott, Will Abbott, Bert Honeyman, and many others.

Wyckoff—Smock.

This evening at 7, at the home of the oride, 662 West Eighth street, will take place the marriage of Miss Jennie Wyckoff to Clarence Smock of Red Bank. The Rev. Cornelius Schenck will officiate. After a wedding trip which will include the Capitol City, Mr. and Mrs. Smock will reside in Red Bank.

Miller—Day.

This afternoon at 4, in St. Mary's church, the marriage of Miss Katy Day of East Fourth street, to William Miller of Somerville, took place. The Rev. Father Smyth performed the ceremony.

The Glories of These Days.

It rarely occurs that frost holds off so late in the season as it has this year. Frost usually comes to kill vegetation by the fifteenth of October at the latest, but at this time the grass is green and the autumn flowers are glorious in their rich colorings. Who can look unmoved on the russet brown of the fields and the red and purple dye of the blossoms dotting them. The leaves have colored up from the lapse of time, and the woods are resplendent with beauty.

These perfect October days have been the crowning glory of the year. The flowery days of May, or the lovely dreamy days of June, do not compare for real beauty and inspiration with the typical October day, when the air, almost like wine, can be felt sparkling and bubbling through one's veins. October crowns the year in fruition, in realization of springtime promise, and in real unalloyed beauty.

Two Bright Comedy Parts.

When Eugene Tompkins decided to revive "The Black Crook", over a year ago, it was thought best to re-write the part of "Greppo", so as to make it stronger, and place it in the hands of some up to date comedian. After it was done, the part of "Carlino" was found to be too weak, so it was changed, and now the celebrated old spectacle has two very prominent comedy parts. It has been improved in many ways, until it outranks any similar production before the public. It is still the leader, and it looks as if it will continue so. The date arranged for here is Saturday night.

Health in Old Age.

Edward Collinson, Queens, N. Y., says: "I commenced using BRANDRETH'S PILLS over fifty-five years ago. I first bought them in London, and have continued using them since I came to this country in 1836. I am now over seventy-five years old, hale and hearty, and attribute my wonderful health to the persistent use of BRANDRETH'S PILLS. Occasionally I have a bad cold or severe attack of rheumatism indigestion or biliousness, but four or five doses of BRANDRETH'S PILLS always cure me. Whenever my children have been sick with scarlet fever, measles, acid stomach, disordered digestion or costiveness, a few doses of BRANDRETH'S PILLS restored their health at once."

WAS IT CLARK'S CARELESSNESS?

Two Boys Upset and a Close Call for Their Lives.

At the noon recess of the Fanwood Public School yesterday the scholars were on their way home for the midday meal.

Those living south of the school house had been accustomed to ride with the hackmen as they happened to drive past and had no passengers and the hackmen have, until yesterday, stopped and taken in the youngsters on their way to the station to receive passengers from the 12:38 train.

All the hacks of Daniel L. Allen picked up full complements of children and conveyed them on their way homeward, and when those of Fred K. Clark appeared the other children naturally expected the same treatment, and hailed their approach with joy; but as Ned Quereau and little Bartlett were about to enter the first of Clark's wagons the driver whipped up his horse and tumbled the two boys into the road, the rear wheel just scraping the Bartlett child's head and would have crushed Ned's legs had he not intuitively squirmed to one side.

The other children jumped back and scampered for home without awaiting the result. One of them after regaining his breath cried out "Mama Ned Quereau had his legs broken by a hack wheel". The parents say that if the hack owners or their drivers invite children to ride they should not resort to the tactics of Mr. Clark's driver as evidenced yesterday, and criminal prosecutions may follow.

HER END WAS PERFECT REST.

Body of Ella V. Thorn Brought to Plainfield for Burial.

The remains of Miss Ella V. Thorn arrived on the Philadelphia train about 10:15 this morning, from Mt. Pleasant, Ohio, in charge of David S. Brooks of that city, who very kindly offered his services. It transpires that Miss Thorn's death was caused by valvular disease of the heart. She was ill when she left Chicago; and when she reached the home of her aunt, Mrs. Phœbe G. Thomas, Mt. Pleasant, she told her aunt that she was very sick and did not expect to get well. A physician stayed with her all night and all day, and a Quakeress preacher administered to her spiritual comfort. She was conscious all the time, and perfectly resigned. Of her future she had no fear. A few hours before her death she asked for the 23d Psalm, and took comfort from its tender messages. At 5 Sunday morning she passed away from earth, calm and trustful.

The funeral will be from the home of aunt, Mrs. M. F. Marcley, 131 New street, tomorrow afternoon at 2. Friends and relatives are invited. The interment will be private in the Friends Cemetery, Watchung avenue.

Scamps Who Break Bulbs.

Clarence Brokaw, the faithful young inspector of the North Plainfield electric lights, has had his hands full lately replacing the bulbs that he finds broken every night on his rounds. He has kept a record of the number and locality of the broken lights to submit to the council.

The record for the past three weeks shows that 65 lamps have been broken. It is safe to predict that it will go hard with the evil doers when they are found out. The detailed record of the lamps broken is as follows: On Greenbrook road 14, Mountain avenue 9, Summit avenue 6, Farragut avenue 4, Somerset street 12, Harrison street 7, Rockview avenue 3, Magnolia avenue 2, Grove street 2, Wilson avenue 5, and Sycamore avenue 1.

Wanted, an Electric Bond.

(From The New Brunswick Home News.)

What we now require is a rapid and reliable means of travel. The line of electric railway that is at present contemplated of stretching a continuous one of this kind from Paterson to this city, and perhaps further, taking in Plainfield, running through New Brunswick, and looping in all other towns, cities and villages on its route, is one of the grandest designs to develop the resources, growth and prosperity of our State that has ever been thought of. If the citizens of New Jersey do not take hold of this enterprise with vigor and push it to completion with all possible dispatch they will show themselves blind to their own interests, and prove that they are too stupid to know a good thing when they see it.

The First Jersey Germans.

The 180th anniversary of the first German settlement in New Jersey, and the 150th anniversary of the settlement of German Valley, in Morris county, will be celebrated Oct. 31. German Valley is a beautiful little hamlet situated just at the foot of Schooley's Mountain, and is one of the chain of valleys through which the High Bridge railroad winds its romantic way.

The Army Will Stay.

It has been rumored of late that the Salvation Army was going to leave the city for good, and give up the local work entirely.

Inquiries proves the story to be false. The army has leased its present quarters for another year. In a few days the new officers will be present and the fight against sin will be continued with renewed zeal. The army is meeting its expenses, though they are quite heavy. In case they are not able to maintain the present barracks, smaller quarters will be secured.

The Water-Works Monopoly.

Citizens:—John Kean has already in grasp a franchise controlling the water supply of Plainfield, Elizabeth and all intervening towns. In order that the selfish grasp of this autocrat may be tightened, it is necessary for him to have a friend and advocate in the Legislature. Foster Voorhees is John Kean's counsel, and if elected would be the advocate Kean desires.

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—With the prospect of a prolonged struggle in Brazil orders for arms for the contending parties have been placed in New York, and factories are working night and day in New Haven and elsewhere, as the guns and cartridges are wanted quickly.

Admiral Maurity of the Brazilian navy was in this city on Tuesday.

$100 Reward, $100.

The reader of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer $100 for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address

MAN WITH PIG'S LUNG

WONDERFUL STORY OF SURGERY RELATED BY A DRUMMER.

The Second Remarkable Operation Performed by His Two Doctor Friends. Trouble Ensued When This Latest Patient Tried to Sing In Church.

The Chicago drummer who tells the wonderful surgery stories was in town again last week. Two years ago he related how two doctor friends of his had successfully removed a diseased stomach from a patient and grafted into its place the stomach of a sheep, and how the patient became perfectly healthy, but had to subsist on grass in summer and hay and bran mash in the winter.

Cozily seated in one of the big leather covered chairs at the Hotel Cadillac, the drummer related another marvelous feat of surgical skill performed by the two doctors.

"Ever since they performed the operation with the stomach," he began, "they have awaited an opportunity to try a similar experiment with a lung. They procured three healthy young pigs and kept them carefully on clean food, with a clean bed and all surroundings good enough for a human being. This was done in order that the lungs or whatever part was to be used in grafting should be perfectly sound and healthy. You never saw such pigs in your life. They were as nice and dainty as any dude and knew about as much as some of them. When the pigs were about a year old, the doctors had a patient with lung disease on whom they decided to try the operation. Careful examination showed that one lung was entirely gone, but the other was not so badly affected. If they could graft the lung of a pig into him, he could breathe with his other one while the operation was being performed and the connections were healing together. He knew it was a question of life and death with him anyhow, and the disease would take him away very soon, so he decided to let them try it.

"They had two operating tables and placed him on one and a pig on the other. Then they chloroformed them both, and one worked on the patient while the other cut into the pig. They handled one about as carefully as the other, as they wanted to save the pig alive and see how he would get along in the world with only one lung.

"It was a good deal more difficult operation to get at his lungs than it was to get at the other man's stomach. When they got him opened and made an examination, they found that the bronchial tube was so badly diseased that it was no use trying to save him by putting in a lung.

"But it wouldn't do to let the man die on the table with his chest all open. So they resolved to make a desperate effort to save him. They split his throat open and cut off the bronchial tube. In less than 20 minutes the lung of the pig was taken out, with the bronchial tube attached, and the whole concern was put into the man, and the connections were soon made. The openings in his throat and chest were then closed up and the edges sewed together, and the patient was placed in bed. As he came out from under the influence of chloroform they administered opiates to keep him quiet, and he seemed to breathe without much effort. He had a hard struggle for life, but the incisions gradually healed, and the new lung got down to business so that in a few weeks it worked all right.

"In two months he was able to sit up in bed, and in another month he could walk across the room. But he never in all that time spoke a word. His breathing apparatus was very tender and sore, and he didn't feel like using it any more than he had to, but in about six months the whole business was healed sound and well, and he began to make an effort to speak. It wasn't a success.

"He could only squeal. Every effort to utter a word resulted only in the language a hog uses when it tries to express its desire for grub. The windpipe wasn't built for talking human language, and it would not do it. But the fellow was full of pluck, although part of it was a hog's pluck, and he determined to talk or die. He knew he had a human glottis and larynx and all the other apparatus, and he kept trying until he got so he could speak a few syllables, but it was hard work and slow business.

"The fellow lived out in the suburbs, and after he had become able to walk about and take care of himself the doctors let him go home. The whole operation was kept a secret from his friends, and although they knew that he had been treated and was a good deal better, no one outside of two or three of the most intimate friends of the doctor knew that he was wearing a pig's lung. He had been considerable of a singer before he was taken sick, and in fact led the singing in church. He was great on some of the stirring revival songs. That was what got him into trouble and gave the whole thing away.

"He went out for a walk one Sunday and entered a church where service was just beginning. The usher seated him about the middle of the church, and he hadn't more than sat down when the choir began singing, 'Come, thou fount of every blessing.' It was the first time that he had been in church for more than a year, and the song roused him so much that he couldn't resist the desire to join in the chorus. And he did join in with vengeance. If you ever heard a healthy porker fast in a rail fence, you can form some idea of the kind of a noise he made. The minister turned pale, the soprano fainted, and the rest of the choir stopped still, and he performed a solo the like of which was never heard in a church before.

"Everybody turned and stared at him, and the usher came and marched him out. By that time he was so excited that he did not know what he was about, and kept up a continual squealing as he tried to talk and explain matters. Just then a policeman came along and walked him off, but before they got to the station one of the doctors happened to be passing by in a buggy and persuaded the officer to let him go. He is getting so he can talk now without squealing, except when he gets excited, but when he goes to church he stops his mouth with a handkerchief while the singing is going on."

"What about the pig?" asked a New York drummer. "Did it live with only one lung?"

"Hardly. It couldn't get along without its bronchial tube. But it made about 200 pounds of elegant pork."—Detroit Tribune.

Photographing Colored People.

It was a New York photographer who solved the difficult problem of taking successful photographs of colored people. The difficulty with the ordinary negro photograph is that the high lights on the cheekbones and the nose do not show for their true value, but are so much too high that those points of the face seem almost white. The successful experimenter managed to tone down these lights by the application of a powder to the face of the sitter. He conceals the nature of the material and the method of application.—New York Sun.

THE RENAISSANCE.

At Present a Popular and Fashionable Craze.

HOW FEW THERE ARE WHO REALLY KNOW WHAT THE WORD MEANS.

Interesting Explanation and the True Application of the Word.

The "Renaissance" is upon everybody's lips; it is the popular craze of the day and is applied indiscriminately by the votaries of fashion. How few there are who really know the meaning of the word!

Renaissance means a new birth, a new life, to be created anew. The name when applied to art, style or furnishings has not one tithe the meaning it has when applied to that grand subject, health. To be restored to health is the true "renaissance," to be truly created anew.

"I was completely broken dow in health and suffered from nervousness and weakness, could not sleep nights, had neuralgia in my side an all gone feeling in my stomach and a terrible palpitation of the heart, causing me to think I had heart disease.

It was evident that there was a terrible diseased condition of my nerves and system which required immediate attention. I at once began taking Dr. Green'es Nervura blood and nerve remedy and have taken five bostles.

MRS. ALBERT COLBY.

"I now have a good appetite and have grown strong and I am gaining in weight every day; the terrible throbbing and palpitation of the heart has left me, and I do not feel at all nervous.

"I consider these results remarkable in the comparatively short time I have been taking the remedy, and I cannot speak highly enough of the good it has done me I am sure had it not been for Dr Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy I would not be alive today.

"I tried doctors all over and none could help me. I went to Mt. Sinai hospital and the doctors there could not help me.

"I finally gave up all hope of being cured for I was a total wreck. One day I saw an advertisement of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy in the Evening World.

It is a fact that this remedy cures. And if it will cure such serious and long-standing troubles as the above, now much more easily and surely will it cure all the ordinary complaints of life—stomach, liver, kidney troubles, constipation, headache, nervousness, sleeplessness and the poor blood, weak nerves and low vitality and debility.

It is the best medicine possible to take, for it will give you health and strength. It is purely vegetable and harmless, indeed it is the discovery and preecription of the well-known Dr. Greene, of 35 W. 14th street, New York, who is the most successful specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases, and who can be consulted free, personally or by letter.

"Thirty Days Hath September."

The following rhyme (first printed, I believe, in 1571) may be found in Grafton's "Abridgement of the Chronicles of England, 1572," sig. Pf. ii verso:

Thirty dayes hath November,
April, June & September.
February hath xxviij alone,
And all the rest have xxxi.

Five years later (1577) it appears in Harrison's "England," with one or two trivial changes and the addition of the line:

But in the leape you must ad one.

That the version with September in the first line was current by 1601 is evidenced by a passage in "The Return from Parnassus," written in that year (III, i., p. 37 of Arber's ed.). The following French version is from a book published in 1664, "Proverbes en Rimes," ii, 311:

Trente ont les Mois de Novembre,
Avril & Juin & Septembre;
Et vingt-huit jours en a vn,
Tous les autres en ont trente-vn.

An old Italian version is:

Trenta di ha novembre, april, giugno e settembre;
Di ventotto ce n'e uno; tutto gli altri n'han trentuno.

—Notes and Queries.

Ruins In Bolivia and Peru.

Major William Sully Beebe, a retired Connecticut army officer, has completed a theory, whereby he attempts to prove that there are more ancient ruins in Bolivia and Peru than there are in Egypt. He declares the most ancient remains of former civilization on this continent to be those ruins of temples and of cities that are found in the neighborhood of Lake Titicaca on the Bolivia-Peru border. These relics are scattered over a great extent of country and reveal remarkable skill in stone cutting, in architecture and in ornament. This region is 14,000 feet above the sea level and too cold to provide sustenance for more than a sparse population, but there is little doubt that its climate and its population were once very different.

IN HONOR OF GIBBONS

Another Reception to the American Cardinal.

Conclusion of a Series of Exercises Given By the Carroll Institute in Washington—Many Distinguished in Social and Public Life Present.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—Carroll institute, the leading Catholic organization of Washington, last night tendered Cardinal Gibbons a reception, which concluded the series of exercises given in his honor during the past two days.

It was a most brilliant affair.

The spacious hall of the building was handsomely and elaborately decorated.

During the reception the orchestra, stationed in the gallery, numbering 25 pieces, and a choir of 50 voices, selected from every church in the city, rendered several selections, the national airs predominating.

Many Distinguished Guests.

More than 3,000 invitations were sent out and they were generally accepted by the most prominent people in political and social life who manifested an eagerness to testify their appreciation of the man who has accomplished so much in the cause of humanity.

Long before the arrival of the cardinal and his suite the hall was filled to its capacity, and much difficulty was experienced by the late arrivals in gaining an entrance.

The president of the institute, on behalf of the organization, made the initial address of welcome. He was followed by the Hon. J. W. Ross, one of the District commissioners, in behalf of the other people of Washington, to bid the cardinal welcome.

Senator White Speaks.

Senator White of California was next introduced, and he spoke in feeling terms of the intimacy that had existed between himself and the prince of the Catholic Church in America since their boyhood.

At the conclusion of the senator's remarks the choir sang the "Star Spangled Banner," after which the cardinal was introduced by the president of the institute, Mr. E. J. Hannan.

An Ovation for the Cardinal.

He received a perfect ovation from the multitude, and it was with difficulty that quiet could be restored.

In rising, he said that his only wish was that his voice could correspond with the wishes of his heart so that he could express thanks for the high compliment paid by this reception.

He congratulated the commissioners on the peace, tranquility and good government that reigned at the capital notwithstanding the absence of standing armies and great military forces.

A Free Nation, Yet Strong.

The first thing, he said, that strikes distinguished foreigners at Washington, is the absence of military, such as he is accustomed to meet in the great capitals of Europe. We have no standing armies in the United States which are a drain on the moral and material resources of the country. Yet, despite the absence of such forces in Washington, the city is well governed. And what is true of the capital is true of the nation. We have credit abroad for being a free nation. Yet we are strong, for our strength lies in the intelligence and virtue of our people and in the patriotism of our citizens.

Beauty of the Capitol.

The cardinal also congratulated the commissioners on the beauty of the capitol. He ventured to predict that before many years the greatest nation of the earth would be adorned by the greatest capitol in Christendom.

He spoke of the repeal bill in the senate as a demonstration of the fact that we are a law abiding people. For, he said, it is plainly shown that the people of the United States wish to revoke the present law, yet so long as it is on the statutes it is respected until it has been lawfully revoked.

Reception to the Public.

At the conclusion of his remarks the general reception to the public began and lasted until a late hour. Every clergyman in the city was present in addition to the staff of the Catholic university, including its rector, Bishop Keane, who also during the evening paid a high compliment to the Cardinal.

ABSOLUTELY PURE

BOARD OF GOLD.

Henry Clews Says it Will Move This Way When Silver is Repealed.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—Senator Voorhees has just received the following telegram from Henry Clews, of New York, and expressed his cordial endorsement of the statements made:

"The national banks of Europe now hold $750,000,000 in gold and other banks $250,000,000 more, maing 1,000,000,000 in all. Most of this belongs to depositors and is now absolutely idle. When our money is put in solid shape, as it will be by the repeal of the silver clause in the Sherman law, this country will act as a powerful magnet to draw an important part of that board of metal to this side, so this country now is really the only place that holds out the prospect to make good and profitable investments. The doors are closed against Australia, India, South America, Russia, Spain, Egypt and Turkey, and France has at no time since the battle of Waterloo wanted English investment connection less than now, so that England's great board of money can only be profitably and safely invested in this country, and my word for it, it will soon come in prodigious amounts."

BOOTH SAYS HE IS RIGHT.

Has Perfect Authority to Perform the Marriage Ceremony.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Commander Ballinger Booth, when seen at the headquarters of the Salvation Army, in reference to the refusal of the register of vital statistics to accept and file a certificate of marriage performed by Mr. Booth, said:

"I am a regular ordained minister of the Gospel at the head of the Salvation Army in America, which is a religious body, and recognized as such throughout the United States and the world.

"I have been ordained by my father, Gen. William Booth, of London, Eng., formerly a Methodist preacher and also regularly ordained, and I hold a commission from him, in virtue of which I have a perfect right to perform any marriage ceremony, particularly in the state of New York, and this is the first time that my authority has in any part of this country been brought into question."

The seminary students organized a strong team this season and arranged several dates with teams outside of Princeton. These dates will be cancelled and the team disbanded.

HARD ON THE ROCKS

Steamer City of New York Lost in Golden Gate.

Ran Aground at Full Speed in a Dense Fog—The Entire Cargo a Total Loss, With No Insurance—Passengers Taken Off in Safety.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 27.—The Pacific mail steamship City of New York, which sailed from this port yesterday afternoon, went on the rocks at Point Bonita in a dense fog.

She will probably be a total wreck.

Point Bonita is at the entrance of the Golden Gate on the northern side.

The City of New York sailed at 3:30 p. m. on her voyage to China and Japan, and proceeded down the bay under a full head of steam.

The fog was very heavy and from Meiggs wharf the heads could not be seen.

Signals of Distress Above the Fog.

About 4:30 o'clock the big ocean steamer was lost sight of, and half an hour later the booming of her cannon could be heard and the signal rockets could be seen as they burst above the fog.

The signal station at Point Lobos at once sent a message in town and soon every tug in the bay was racing for Point Bonita.

On arriving there it was found that the steamer was hard and fast on the rocks, having gone on them under a full head of steam.

The vessel must have got close inshore as she was passing out and the tide carrying her out of her course, threw her on the rocks and turned the magnificent ship into a wreck.

This point is most dangerous and half a dozen vessels have come to grief on it during the past twelve months.

Passengers Taken Off in Safety.

This morning the steamer was hard and fast on the rocks. There is eight feet of water in her hold, and the tugs cannot move her.

All the passengers have been taken off and brought back to the city.

They were badly frightened at the time of the accident, and only the cool conduct of the officers and crew prevented a panic.

Cargo a Total Loss.

The cargo will be jettisoned. Two hundred men have been taken out on tugs and more will follow. Most of the cargo will be a total loss.

Among her cargo was about 20,000 barrels of flour and 15,000 pounds of beans for China and Japan.

She also carried a large and valuable cargo of dried shrimps and other Chinese supplies, forwarded by Mongolian merchants to China.

Of treasure she carried $191,290 for China and Japan, of which three-quarters was in Mexican dollars. The vessel was valued at $300,000, and the cargo at about the same amount. There was no insurance on her.

Rhode Island Election.

NEWPORT, R. I., Oct. 27.—The board of aldermen was in session until 12 o'clock last night, counting Wednesday's ballots. The count differed somewhat from the wardens, but only twice did it change the result. J. S. Coggeshall lost the city treasurership to Eugene M. Atkinson, and one democrat gave place to another on the school board. Mr. Coggeshall stated that, in view of the discrepancies in the count, he would ask for a recount, and a recess was taken till to-day.

Secret Marriage of Actor Coghlan.

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 27.—The secret marriage of Charles F. Coghlan, the actor who appeared in this city in the early part of the week, and Miss Kuhne Beveridge, a member of the same company, leaked out to-day. The two were married shortly after midnight of Tuesday. Coghlan's wife attained some prominence as the sculptress of a bust of Grover Cleveland.

Italians Entertaining the English.

ROME, Oct. 27.—The mayor of Spezzia gave a luncheon last evening to Sir Michael Culme-Seymour and the other officers of the British fleet now visiting the port. CAPE TOWN, Oct. 27.—Lobengula, king of the Matabeles, is reported to have been greatly angered by the news that Mr. Selous, the English hunter and South African traveler, has arrived at Tati and will lead a British column against the Matabele warriors. Fashionable Wedding at Middletown.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Oct. 27.—Miss Pauline Augusta Corwin, eldest daughter of John E. Corwin, a banker of this city, was married last evening to John Augustus Hartford, of Orange, N. J. DOINGS OF CONGRESS.

Silver Talk in the Senate; Bankruptcy Discussion in the House.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—The senate spent nearly seven hours in session yesterday but did not reach the end of the legislative day of Tuesday the 19th. The whole time was consumed in discussing the silver purchase repeal bill—although some minor legislative matters were disposed of by unanimous consent.

Mr. Teller (rep., Col.) and Mr. Stewart, (rep., Nev.) continued the speeches which they have been delivering at intervals for several weeks, and Mr. Squire (rep., Wash.) expressed his views in explanation and advocacy of an amendment heretofore offered by him.

As this amendment proposes among other things, the issue of $200,000,000 of 4 per cent. bonds the senate will not have an opportunity of voting on that proposition even although Mr. Sherman may refrain from offering a like amendment on his own account.

At 5:45 the senate took a recess until 11 o'clock to-day.

The New York and New Jersey bridge bill was reported and placed on the calendar.

House of Representatives.

The bankruptcy bill was again the principal feature of the proceedings in the house. Mr. Bontier (dem., La.) made an energetic defence of the measure and became embroiled with several of its antagonist. Other speeches were made by Mr. Warner, (dem., N. Y.) Mr. Brosius (rep., Pa.) in favor of the bill, and by Mr. Kyle (dem., Miss.) in opposition.

In the course of the morning business a joint resolution was adopted requiring all engrossed and enrolled bills to be dealt with in printed form to prevent errors.

AN ANNOYING PROBLEM.

How to Get Rid of Certain Foreigners After the Fair Closes.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—The numerous "hangers-on" and attendants who came to the United States from foreign countries with the world's fair exhibitors and with the Midway Plaisance shows, are causing the treasury officials much concern as to the proper means of returning them to the countries from whence they came.

A census of this class of people, of whom there are 500 Chinese alone, has been taken by treasury agents on the fair grounds, with a view of comparing the list with a similar list taken of those who entered this country when the fair was opened.

Many of these people, from one cause or another, will not be taken back by those who brought them over, and thus several thousand undesirable immigrants of all nationalities may be thrown upon the country to swell the already large army of unemployed. The people who thus got in are not subject to the usual examinations applied to immigrants on landing.

SAW LITTLE SEA DUTY

Admiral Stanton's Service Mostly on Land.

Believed That He Will Have Some Reasonable Excuse to Offer—Two Former Instructors in International Law on Board With Stanton.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—Admiral Stanton's blunder has been made still more inexplicable by the perusal of the roster on the Newark, his flagship, which showed that at least two men of standing on board are well acquainted with the intricacies of international law and presumably knew that the salute to the rebel fleet was an affront to the regular government of Brazil.

Believed That He Can Explain.

This knowledge seems to confirm the almost general belief at the navy department that Admiral Stanton has some reasonable explanation to offer for his unfortunate action.

One of the officers who is known to have some acquaintance with observances connected with courtesies due one nation from another while they are on terms of mutual friendship, is Captain Silas Terry, the commander of the Newark; the other is Lieut. Underwood, of that vessel, who was until recently an instructor in international law at the Naval academy.

Instructor of International Law.

Captain Terry was on duty in Washington for some time as a member of the board for examination of line officers and the questions include a series on the law of nations, so that, presumably, Captain Terry is posted on such a matter as the recognition of insurgents.

In addition to Lieut. Underwood, two other officers of the Newark had recently been on duty as instructors at the Naval academy.

That these officers allowed Admiral Stanton to salute Mello without suggesting to him the impropriety of such a course, officials here are unwilling to believe.

He Had Instructions.

Naval officers have had much instruction in international law during and since the threatened hostilities with Chili. Secretary Tracy gave express instructions to Admiral McCann, commanding the United States vessels in Chilian waters, to be exceedingly careful not to do anything while the Balmaceda and insurgents governments were at war that could be construed into a show of favor to either side.

These instructions were printed in one of Secretary Tracy's annual reports and it is said that they were given Admiral Stanton for his guidance during the present Brazilian revolution.

Have Seen Little Sea Duty.

The Stanton incident has called attention to the fact that many naval officers have seen very little sea duty in proportion to their actual service in the navy and are therefore inexperienced as to the course of conduct that should be pursued when assigned to duty in connection with international or national difficulties of a hostile character.

Admiral Stanton is pointed out as one of these officers whose term of land service has greatly exceeded the time he has spent at sea.

ATE WHAT THEY COOKED!

At This Great Dinner, Miss Bessie Ginna Was First Prize Winner—If They Recover, They'll Give Another.

The exhibition of the Cooking Club at the home of the Misses VanBoskerck, 542 West Seventh street, last evening, was an elaborate and very successful affair. It was a decided novelty, from the fact that this was the young ladies, first experience of the kind.

There were four tables neatly arranged and decorated with green, yellow, red and pink flowers, while the rooms were beautified with choice chrysanthemums and tropical plants.

The favors were decorated photograph holders for the ladies and dinner cards for the gentlemen.

The dinner was served at 7:30. Six persons were seated at each table, which made a decidedly attractive scene.

The menu was prepared entirely by the young ladies of the club, and was enjoyed all the more from this fact.

Here is the menu:

Oysters.
Consomme.
Fish.
Sweetbread Patties. Filet de Bouef.
Roman Punch.
Game and Salad.
Meringue Glace.
Fruit and Coffee. Bon-Bons.

Miss Bessie Ginna won first prize for the fish course and received a handsome bouquet of pink roses from the hostess.

There are eleven members of the club, and all were present but one, Elizabeth Stewart.

Others forming the club are: The Misses Streuli, Corlies, Florence Huntington, Kathryn Yates, Minnie Wood, Bessie Ginna, Jessamy Harte, Marion Dumont, Elizabeth VanBoskerck, Maud VanBoskerck. Miss Tompkins, of New York, and Miss Adams of Brooklyn, were also present.

The men present were: Messrs. Alfred Streuli, Howard Huntington De Zeregs, Irving West, Harry V. Baldwin, Percy Stewart, John Munn, Fred Yates, Orville Waring, Edward Bloodgood of Elizabeth; George Van Boskerck, Thomas Van Boskerck.

The next dinner will be given in November at the home of Mrs. Corlies.

Mrs. Booth and Ensign Marshall.

The Baltimore American says: "No talented Methodist Episcopal divine has attracted such an audience to Mt. Vernon church as assembled there last night to see and hear Mrs. Booth and her sister worker, Ensign Edith Marshall, head of the Auxiliary League."

Plainfield will be privileged to hear Miss Marshall next Monday evening in the First Baptist church.

THESE THIEVES AFTER FURNITURE.

SCARED AWAY BY THE ALERT WATCHMAN.

Three Attempts Made Within a Month to Get Possession of the Contents of a Furnished House at Netherwood.

On Belvidere avenue, near Netherwood, stands a house which until within a few weeks ago has been occupied but since the tenants left the owner has had a private watchman stay in the house nights to look after the costly furniture which belongs to the house, as it is rented already furnished.

Three attempts have been made within the last three or four weeks by some out-of-town truckmen, supposed to be from New York, to get possession of the furniture, but they have been frightened away each time.

Twice the truckmen drove their wagon up to the front of the house but were met by the alert watchman. The last time they came on foot and tried to enter the house but were scared off by the watchman, who fired his revolver at them. The would-be thieves escaped and will no doubt keep away from that neighborhood now, but the watchman is still looking for them and if they should make another attempt they will no doubt meet with a warm reception.

A cold of unusual severity developed into a difficulty decidedly catarrhal in all its characteristics, threatening a return of my old chronic malady, catarrh. One bottle of Ely's Cream Balm completely eradicated every symptom of that painful and prevailing disorder. E. W. Warner, Rochester, N. Y.

When I began using Ely's Cream Balm my catarrh was so bad I had headache the whole time and discharged a large amount of filthy matter. That has almost entirely disappeared and I have not had headache since. J. H. Sommers, Stephney, Conn.

Health in Old Age.

Edward Collinson, Queens, N. Y., says: "I commenced using BRANDRETH'S PILLS over fifty-five years ago. I first bought them in London, and have continued using them since I came to this country in 1836. I am now over seventy-five years old, hale and hearty, and attribute my wonderful health to the persistent use of BRANDRETH'S PILLS. Occasionally I have a bad cold or severe attack of rheumatism indigestion or biliousness, but four or five doses of BRANDRETH'S PILLS always cure me. Whenever my children have been sick with scarlet fever, measles, acid stomach, disordered digestion or costiveness, a few doses of BRANDRETH'S PILLS restored their health at once."

LITTLE CHERUBS ON PLATES AND THINGS.

PRIVATE VIEW OF EXCELLENT WORK IN CHINA PAINTING.

Mrs. Roe and Her Pupils Delight a Throng of Friends with Their Exquisite Art.

Responding to the many cards of invitation sent out among those who are fond of pretty china, numbers of people attended the reception at 826 First place yesterday afternoon and evening to view the excellent examples of china painting that are the work of Mrs. Albert S. Roe and her pupils. A large number of pieces were on exhibition, and presented a great variety of design and treatment. Plates, cups and saucers, tea sets, smoking sets, lamps, flower bowls, butter plates and those nondescript little dishes that women like to litter their dressing tables with, were in great profusion. One of the most interesting pieces of porcelain shown was a reproduction of an old teapot which was broken, and whose old-fashioned coloring and design were so faithfully copied that it would have been hard to distinguish one from the other had they both been entire. A set of orchid plates, no two of which were alike, attracted much attention. They were painted for Mrs. Herring of Park avenue. Mrs. Roe's figure drawing is remarkably good, and many of her pieces are decorated with little cherubs that are extremely well done. One of the best figure pieces is a table lamp, which is exquisite in design and coloring.

The work of Mrs. Roe's pupils is surprisingly good, as some of them have been studying this kind of painting but a short time. Special mention of the work of anyone of the pupils would be unjust to the others. The following had examples of their work on exhibition: Miss Beatrice Craig, Miss Alice Hayes, Mrs. Philip MacIntyre, Miss Mary James, Miss Laura Sandford, Miss Gertrude Page and Miss Kittie Manning.

SUCCESSFUL ENDEAVOR.

Dunellen Presbyterians Celebrate Another Year of Good Work.

The seventh anniversary of the Christian Endeavor Society of the First Presbyterian church, Dunellen, was celebrated last evening in the church.

President Benjamin Carpenter presided, and introduced the Rev. Mr. Martine, who conducted the fifteen-minute song service, also the devotional part of the service.

The treasurer and secretary gave five-minute reports of their work, which showed advancement among the members.

President Carpenter gave a short address of welcome, extending to all present a most hearty greeting.

It was then announced that the delegate to the late State Convention from that society would make a report. This proved to be exceedingly interesting, and gave many helpful suggestions and thoughts.

The excellent choir present followed with a very pretty anthem, Miss Maud Benton taking the solo part, with her usual grace and skill.

The Rev. Mr. Cadwell, the speaker of the evening, was introduced, and gave a stirring Christian Endeavor talk. His talk was full of enthusiasm, and it seemed to be the right thing in the right place.

His remarks along the lines of temperance were particularly strong, and his appeal to the young men was very earnest. He gave some startling statistics.

At the conclusion of the address President Carpenter, who is the retiring officer, introduced Miss Boice, the recently elected president, who made a few appropriate remarks, after which the closing hymn was sung and the benediction pronounced.

Everybody was invited to adjourn to the Sunday-school room, where lemonade and cake were served, and a social time indulged in.

A good representation of the societies of this city was present.

The home society deserves credit for the excellent entertainment provided.

WHERE ARE THE AGENTS?

Soap Advertisers Hire a Rig at New Brunswick, Drive to Plainfield and then Disappear.

Yesterday morning two young men hired a rig at the livery stable of Taylor & Francis, Albany steeet, New Brunswick, for the purpose of driving to Plainfield to advertise a kind of soap for which they claimed to be agents.

The men were to return with the rig at 4 in the afternoon. About 4:30 they drove into Hedden's livery stable on East Fourth street and requested that the horse be fed right away as they would return in half an hour. They were told that the horse was too warm to feed in that length of time and they then said to make it an hour.

Not returning the rig to New Brunswick at the time specified Mr. Taylor became suspicious and thought all was not right, so he telephoned to Police Captain Grant in this city to look out for the horse and wagon, which was easily identified as the firm's name and place of business was painted on the curtains of the wagon.

The chief found the rig at Hedden's and immediately telephoned Mr. Taylor to that effect, who in reply told the chief to let nobody have the rig and he would drive over and get it. He arrived in Plainfield last night at 11, claimed his property and drove home.

Although the agents seemed to be in such a hurry, they had not put in an appearance at noon today, and it is supposed that they have skipped.

A Sermon to Juniors.

Upon the invitation of the Rev. J. W. Richardson, pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church, the members of Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., will attend divine service in his church, Sunday evening, Nov. 5, at which time the pastor will deliver a sermon especially for them.

THE PEOPLE HOWELLS MADE.

Plainfield Hears About Them, in an Interesting Way.

Last night was the time set for the first lecture in the course of ten to be given in All Souls' church this fall, and the Hon. Charles H. Ham was to have delivered a discourse on "Woman". But Mr. Ham was detained in Chicago on official business, and the Rev. Hobart Clark took his place on the platform and read a very interesting paper on "Howells's People". Mr. Clark showed that he is keenly appreciative of Mr. Howells's novels and that he enjoys them almost as much as Mr. Howells does. He spoke at some length about the English view of American people in general and of Mr. Howells's people, who are distinctly American, in particular. The English cannot see anything typical or even natural in the characters of Mr. Howells's novels. The people are too ordinary, too uninteresting. There is not enough of the repetition of a single type subjected to different circumstances and conditions. Mark Twain, Bret Harte, Miss Murfree, Geo. W. Cable and Miss Wilkins are all appreciated abroad. They each take a particular local type and seldom or never depart from it. Mr. Howells takes the American people as he finds them. There are as many different types as there are characters in his books. He realizes that there is nothing typical about an American. The American is of as many different sorts as the countries of the globe that have contributed to his makeup, with all their possible permutations and combinations. In the sense of a romantic writer or a recorder of incident Mr. Howells is not a great novelist. He is very indifferent to plot and cares very little whether or not his novels have any at all. But he writes down the ordinary every-day life of his people with an exquisite touch and the analysis of an artist; not in the cold light of science. He is an aesthete and knows which of his details to bring forward and which to reject. We grow to love his people, not because they are heroes or heroines, or because they ever do anything really geat, but because they are our brothers and sisters, doing foolish things very often and yet withal being very lovable and real. Mr. Howells never idealizes his people; he draws them with all their faults, and very stupid and tiresome they are at times, but we are fond of them in spite of all. It cannot be said that the author of these books is a moral reformer; his standard of morals is high and pure but it comes as a matter of course and is not forced into prominence. As a social reformer he may have modest ambitions. He is fond of showing the absurbities of the American social system and treats the subject with a gentle satire that is delicious. In his lessons he is always mild and serene, seldom severe, and shows us that there is something lovable even in such an unprincipled person as Northwick, the absconder. He is an artist in every sense of the word and his art is thoroughly spontaneous. Mr. Clark compared Mr. Howells to the modern French school of realists with the difference that Mr. Howells looks at things in a far more healthy light than do the disciples of realism on the other side of the water.

The paper which Mr. Clark read was prepared for an English audience but it fitted admirably in the vacancy left by Mr. Ham, and while no one would be ungallant enough to say that "Woman" was an uninteresting subject, still everyone was glad to hear about "Mr. Howells's People".

CONSTERNATION IN BEEMERVILLE.

Nearly Fifty Years Postmaster, Gabriel L. Beemer Has Been Turned Out at Last.

Beemerville, Sussex county, has a new postmaster. In many towns in the State the having of a new postmaster would not be a novelty or an event of more than passing moment, but it is a great sensation in Beemerville, for this new postmaster is the first new one the place has had in forty-seven years. In 1846, when Polk was President, Gabriel L. Beemer was appointed postmaster at Beemerville. He held the office continuously from that time until one day last week, when Wm. P. Wolfe surprised him by asking him to hand over the office to him, as he had been appointed to the place by President Cleveland. The veteran postmaster delivered the office and its belongings to the new postmaster, and the people of Beemerville have n't got their breath back yet.

"What!"—exclaimed one old-time Jersey farmer—"Gabe Beemer turned out o' the Post Office! Then, mark my words, the Democratic party is gone!"

He'll Bring Back Some Antlers.

George C. Miller, Mayor of Fanwood, is home from a southern trip, during which he was a specially invited guest at the big Lincoln memorial dinner in Washington. He is about to start on a hunt in the Maine woods, and hopes to reduce the number of deer, which have become so plentiful and bold as to encroach on the cultivated farms. Mr. Miller's Plainfield friends will rejoice to know that Mrs. Miller and her 5-weeks-old son are thriving well.

Dr. Mitchell to Preach in Plainfield.

The Rev. Charles B. Mitchell, D. D., formerly of Plainfield, now of Kansas City, Mo., is one of the official visitors to the Woman's College, Baltimore. After performing his visitation duties there he will come to Plainfield, Friday night, November 3, and will remain until the following Monday, preaching Sunday morning in Grace M. E. church, and Sunday evening in the Front Street Methodist Episcopal church.

The American Catarrh Cure

Is the result of twenty-six years' study and treatment of the disease. One bottle convinces the most skeptical. It is always ready for use, needing neither douche nor atomizer. It restores the hearing, cures the hawking cough and expectorating, removes the headache and nose bleeding, increases the appetite, produces sound sleep, invigorates the whole system and increases the vitality. Prepared only by W. B. Jones, M. D., No. 1336 South Eighth street, Philadelphia. For sale by J. W. Randolph, 21 West Front street. Price $1.

CRESCENT OVAL A SITE FOR HOMES.

LAND-IMPROVER A. D. THOMPSON INVESTS HIS CAPITAL.

He Will Map Out 100 Choice Lots and They Will Be Restricted to Desirable Owners and Tenants.

A. D. Thompson is negotiating for the Allen property, where the base-ball grounds are situated, and plans to open streets through it and develop it into a handsome residence section. Two of the prospective streets will run north from Somerset, and the Peace street extension will be opened as it is laid out on the extension map. All the heirs have signed off, and the property has been actually purchased by Mr. Thompson. He is now striving to get the Plainfield Amusement Company to cancel their lease on the grounds, and as soon as agreement with them is reached the development will be begun.

When cut up, the land will produce about 100 lots 50x125, which will be offered for sale at prices ranging from $600 to $1,000. Mr. Thompson will himself erect several fine houses for rent and sale. The lots will be sold only to those who agree to build good and satisfactory houses. No cheap buildings will be tolerated.

The people of the borough will congratulate themselves that so honorable a man as Mr. Thompson should become the owner of this desirable land and protect the neighborhood from undesirable intrusion.

TO CENTRALIZE CHARITY.

Here's an Admirable Proposition by a Plainfield Woman.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—For several years past I have been in more or less direct communication with most of Plainfield's many benevolent institutions, and from practical work and personal observation have become convinced that one more institution should be added, in order to make the others thoroughly effectual. As matters now stand, our charity workers are faced by two difficulties: (1) they are not sufficiently informed of what is being done by each other, and so are constantly liable to duplicate relief; and (2) they have not adequate facilities for the investigation of cases, and are therefore obliged in many instances to work in the dark or resort to guesswork. From these causes it is likely to happen sometimes that a plausible beggar will be at the same time receiving help from several sources, each of which is ignorant of the action of the other, when if the facts were known they would all agree that he needed no (pecuniary) help at all.

In Plainfield there is such a friendly understanding between the churches and charitable societies that there can be no doubt that they would be willing to co-operate in the good work of aiding the worthy and exposing fraud, if only the means of doing so were offered to them. This means a Charity Organization Society would supply, and it is to urge the establishing of such a society here in Plainfield that I write. The great success which has attended such an arrangement in various cities and towns all over the country is proof of its value.

A Charity Organization Society exists simply to be a means of communication between charitable societies, churches, and benevolent individuals, to supply them with information about any applicant for aid, and, if desired, to advise them how help may best be given him. It does not conflict with existing charities, but acts as their assistant. Its Central Committee being composed in part of their representatives. As far as possible, it aims to keep a complete record of every person who has been helped by any relief-giving agency in the city, and to place this information at the disposal of any institution or individual who has a legitimate interest in it. To this end it asks for frequent reports from other benevolent societies, and itself makes investigations through its experienced paid agent and volunteer visitors. In the case of an unknown applicant referred to it its work would be: First—to thoroughly investigate, and if possible to discover the primary cause of his distress; second—to make a careful record of his circumstances and connections, and third—to seek help for him from the charitable person or society most capable of removing the primary cause.

Said a benevolent lady not long ago, one who is prominently identified with several of Plainfield's charities: "I know it is unwise to give to people who beg at the door. But where can you send them?" If we had a Charity Organization Society, that question need never be asked, for one could refer them to that with a free mind, knowing that they would be wisely dealt with and, if help were needed, that adequate help would be found for them. The establishment in Plainfield of a Charity Organization Society would not involve great expense, and it would more than pay for itself by lessening the waste of money given by kind-hearted people with the best intentions, but often only encouraging pauperism. Ours is certainly a generous, liberal-handed community; but would not the truest generosity make sure that the means so freely given should be put to their best use? That cannot be until a central organization is formed, for, as has been well said, "The charities of a community united are an army, divided, a mob."

NO INDICTMENT.

COUNSELOR LINDABURY GAVE NO CONVINCING EVIDENCE.

Grand Jury Discharged, and Judge VanSyckel Omits the Customary Vote of Thanks.

(Special to The Press.)

ELIZABETH, Oct. 27—The Grand Jury met this morning at 10, and Judge VanSyckel went over the legal grounds again in the Linden Township Committee question. The Jury asked for additional evidence. R. V. Lindabury, counsel for the Anti-Race-Track League, gave what evidence he could, but it threw no additional light on the subject. Judge VanSyckel then said: "Gentlemen, you may retire for further consideration of this matter. If you will notify me when you desire to be discharged, I will hear your verdict."

The Jury remained in its room a short time, and then notified the Judge that they would be heard. To the question asked by the Judge, "Do you find any indictment?"

Foreman Martine replied "We do not".

The Judge then asked, "Is it your desire to be discharged?"

"It is"—replied Mr. Martine.

"You are discharged, then, at your own request"—replied the Judge, and left the Bench.

PLEASANT PASTIME.

Plainfield Seventh-Day Baptist Christian Endeavorers Have a Sociable at Mt. Pleasant.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, and a few of its friends, filled two big stages Wednesday evening and held a sociable at the residence of Beune Bandolph, near Mt. Pleasant. The house was crowded with young folks. Charades and other pastimes and general sociability made the hours fly by delightfully, and the night was filled with music, and the cares that infested the day folded their tents like the Arabs and as silently stole away. Song after song went floating away under the soft rays of a full moon, banishing the stillness of the night with sweet melodies, and the spires of the city loomed into view only too soon. Many thanks are due Mr. and Mrs. Bandolph for their generous hospitality.

The Dunellen Road Sure.

President Adleman, of the street railway, John Kriney, and Lawyer Moffett, have about secured the requisite number of signers for the Dunellen extension of the road. Wednesday evening the three visited several property-owners along the line, and secured their consent. There remain a few yet to be seen.

The extension now appears to be a sure thing, and it is promised that it will not be long before the work of building is commenced.

Pleasant Evening for the Singers.

The men of Holy Cross church choir were delightfully entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Taggart at their residence, Sycamore avenue, last evening. Howard Spencer of New York and George Taggart introduced a bit of theatrical drollery and all sorts of amusement was provided for mind, hands and palate. The guests were the Rev. T. Logan Murphy, Choirmaster Frederick Cheeswright and Messrs. Westervelt, Spencer, Hall, Smith, Western, Mackey, Honeyman, Horton, Douglas and Steiner.

The reader of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer $100 for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address

READING AFFAIRS.

An Agreement Reached Extending the Speyer Loan.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 27.—The receivers of the Reading railroad yesterday afternoon filed a petition in the United States circuit court asking the court to ratify the redemption of $1,029.000 collateral trust bonds, a part of which the receivers want to use to extend the Speyer loan of $2,500,000. The petition says:

"Speyer and company have agreed to accept $560,000 collateral trust bonds, and to renew the loan for three months, with the option of the company to obtain a further renewal of three months upon the deposit of $250,000 additional collateral trust bonds."

The receivers also ask for authority to pledge $477,000 collateral trust bonds so that outstanding notes of the Atlantic City railroad company to the amount of $795,968.75, can be exchanged for notes of the Philadelphia & Reading company.

The matter was referred to George L. Crawford, special master in the Reading receivership.

WILL GO IT INDEPENDENT.

Jesse Metcalf, of Providence, to Start His Mills.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 27.—It is reported here that woolen manufacturer Jesse Metcalf will start up his Wanskuck mills in a few days at old schedule of wages paid in Olneyville before the strike. Metcalf shut down after the Olneyville manufacturers met and decided upon the 15 to 30 per cent cut. Within the past forty-eight hours several departments in the mills have been started up and the mill may start in full on Monday next. The resumption of operations at Wanskuck will cause trouble among the manufacturers, for it is charged by the Olneyville mill owners that Metcalf has gone back on the schedule-making and deserted the other manufacturers. Metcalf says that the Olneyville manufacturers were not to be trusted on an agreement to cut wages.

THE OLYMPIC WANTS THE FIGHT

Offers a Purse of $20,000 and Corbett Accepts.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Oct. 27.—Champion James J. Corbett has received word from the Olympic club at New Orleans that they would hang up a purse of $20,000 for the Corbett-Mitchell glove contest, and Corbett telegraphed his acceptance on condition that the club deposit a $10,000 guarantee for the contest to come off.

As Mitchell has expressed a desire to have the contest at an earlier date, Corbett urged that the day for the fight be set for either the latter part of November or the early part of December.

Corbett said: "The purse is a smaller one than that I fought Sullivan for, but no matter, Mitchell must not be disappointed."

Buried the Wrong Body.

MANCHESTER, N. H., Oct. 27.—A year ago a body was buried in St. Joseph's cemetery as that of Annie Dunn, daughter of Ann Dunn, of this city. The young woman left home a number of years ago, and it was reported that a woman answering to that name was found dead in Lowell. The body was brought here and identified as that of the Dunn girl, though the mother refused to see it. The real Annie Dunn has now returned home, and the identity of the dead woman whose body was brought here from Lowell is a mystery.

World's Fair Buildings Must Go.

CHICAGO, Oct. 27.—Unless the South park commissioners experience a change of heart the world's fair officials will have to live up to the letter of their contracts regarding the removal of buildings. They will also be called upon to turn the park over to the commissioners on Jan. 1, 1894. This was the decision of the board at one of its meetings, and President Donnersberger says this will be final unless something decidedly more pertinent shall be advanced by the fair authorities.

Gounod's Funeral.

PARIS, Oct. 27.—The body of M. Gounod, the great composer, who died at St. Cloud on Wednesday last, was removed yesterday to his study in the Place Malesherbes, where it will lie in state until this afternoon, when the state funeral will be held. Many people passed by the casket containing the remains, taking a last look at the great musician.

Strange Disease.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 27.—Albert Abbink, at the city hospital, is suffering from a disease called anchylostomum dodenals, the effect of which is to render him as white as marble. Even his tongue, gums and finger nails are devoid of all color. He is believed to be the first patient suffering from the peculiar ailment ever in the western country.

Against Prize Fighting.

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 27.—Gov. Matthews has received a communication from Fisher's station, where the brutal Evans-Johnson fight took place, asking if prosecution was possible. The governor replied that it was and urged the officers to carry the affair into the courts.

ADVENTURE WITH A BOA.

An Extremely Unpleasant Encounter In a Ceylonese Garden.

One incident that occurs to me is a little adventure I have had with a python, a snake of the molurus tribe, in my own garden in Colombo. One evening I was smoking on the veranda after dinner. It was a cloudy night, but the air was perfectly still. What seemed to be the branch of a tree was lying across the carriage drive, and as I noticed it I wondered how it could have fallen when not a breath of wind was stirring. It was perfectly motionless, and after awhile I went down to throw it aside out of the path. But the moment I stooped over it the object seemed to melt away.

Amazed and half doubting the evidence of my own eyes, I took a step in pursuit, but the instantaneous contraction of the whole body, ready for a spring, and the long, deep hiss that followed told me of the danger I was in. Each staid without the movement of a muscle for about 20 seconds, and then the snake imperceptibly disappeared. One long sigh of relief and a dart into the house that beat the record for a 20 yard sprint closed the proceedings for me that night. Had I by mistake laid the slightest touch upon the creature's body the probability is that within less than half a minute I should have been reduced to a shapeless lump of pulp and broken bones. Rescue would have been impossible. Providence was merciful to me that night.

Soon after we found that the python had taken up its abode in the garden, but it had chosen its hiding place so cunningly that there was no getting at it. One night a lady who was ill was lying awake in her room, and the room next to hers was occupied by my sister. The door between the two rooms was open, and suddenly the lady saw a large snake come in at the window, waving its head about in search of a place where it might alight. A moment later it fell with a loud flop to the floor. Of course it had disappeared by the time they had recovered from the shock and called for assistance.—Westminster Gazette.

A Life For a Billiard Ball.

The globe of ivory which is knocked about a table in a game of billiards costs, if of good quality, at least £2. This represents its cost in money. There is, however, a far more important and formidable element in the price which has been paid for it. The billiard ball of pure ivory represents, as it lies white and glistening upon the cloth, an expenditure of human lifeblood as well as of money. Elephants' tusks are brought down to the African coast by caravans, generally in charge of Arabs, which have been trading in the interior. Very often they have picked up slaves as well as ivory. But this phase of the matter may be left out of the account. It is estimated that every large caravan bringing ivory to the coast has cost more than 160 human lives through fights and murders in the course of the expedition. Thirty more men are likely to have succumbed to fevers or other diseases and the fatigues of the march.

The hunting of the elephants and the capture of the ivory are very likely to have caused the death of 10 men altogether. Such casualties are the rule in elephant hunting rather than the exception. An average tusk does not furnish more than enough material for two good billiard balls. Of course, the remainder of the ivory in each tusk is made use of in other ways. A perfectly cut billiard ball requires special quality, or so called "nerve," which is found only in one part of the tusk. The chances are that a billiard ball of the first quality has cost at least one human life.—Million.

Marked by the Devil's Hoof.

Henry Rice, an aged negro who resides, or did not more than a year ago, at Rolla, this state, makes what is probably the most remarkable claim that ever came from the mouth of a human being—viz, that he has sold his soul to the devil and that his satanic majesty sealed the bargain by putting his trademark on the negro's breast.

In support of this preposterous statement Rice exhibits a deep scar situated directly over the heart, which appears to have been burned deep into the flesh with a branding iron about the shape and size of the hoof of a 2-year-old heifer. This scar, the old negro declares, is the print or mark of the devil's hoof, and that it is a memorial of a compact which he made with the king of the sulphurous regions away back in slavery days.

According to the terms of the contract, the negro is to have supernatural powers over his race during the few fleeting days that he remains a tenant on earth, and that when all is over his soul is to go, not to God who gave it, but to the devil, who has marked it as his own. When Rice and the devil had settled on the conditions outlined above, the lessee of the negro's soul placed his cloven hoof over the heart of the wicked old African and left its indelible impress as evidence of his future proprietary right to burn the old man to his heart's content.—St. Louis Republic.

Woman's Danger.

No man can ever know the devoted martyrdom of many women.

Unselfishly a woman works and suffers that home and loved ones may be happy.

When it seems as though her back would break, when she grows irregular, faint, irritable, loses all interest in society, gets the "blues," is crushed with that indescribable feeling of "bearing-down," she "drags along," day after day, suffering agonies that would appal a man.

The cause of all her trouble is some derangement of the uterus or womb, perhaps the development of a tumor, or cancerous humor, — anyway, give it instant attention.

LITTLE QUESTION OF HIS INSANITY

Carter Harrison's Assassin Crank on the Single Tax Theory.

FAIRLY-WELL EDUCATED

The Murderer Secretly Conducted Back to the Scene of His Crime Where the Inquest Was Held, and Later is Taken to Jail—No Further Talk of Violence—The Postmortem Reveals Five Bullet Wounds—The Assassin Non-Communicative.

CHICAGO, Oct. 30.—Patrick Eugene Prendergast, the crank who Saturday night assassinated Mayor Harrison, is now safely locked up in cell No. 11 in the county jail. There is no longer any fear of lynching, but the higher officials of the police department thought it best to be on the safe side, and at 7 o'clock yesterday morning Prendergast was removed quietly from the central station, where he was first confined, to one of the outlying police stations.

Up to the time of his removal Prendergast maintained the sullen, defiant and indifferent attitude that he had shown ever since he gave himself up to desk Sergeant Barber at Desplaines street.

No Doubt of His Insanity.

Despite the assertion of Dr. Laidlow, the Prendergast family physician, that the assassin had never shown any indication of mental aberation, there is no doubt in the minds of those who have seen and conversed with him that he is insane. His actions for several weeks past confirm this supposition.

He has been writing threatening postal cards to various city official; he has threatened the life of the mayor in the presence of Mr. Graham, the mayor's secretary; he has demanded that Corporation Counsel Kraus should resign in his favor, and his whole conduct has been that of a man mentally unbalanced, whose mania, taking a homicidal turn, settled upon Mayor Harrison as the imaginary author of his wrongs.

A Feeling of Sorrow and Horrow.

In Chicago to-day there is a universal feeling of sorrow and horror, but public indignation no longer threatens to vent itself in the form of an attempt at lynching.

It is realized that the parallel which was at first drawn between the assassination of President Garfield by Guiteau and the present murder is not a true one. Guiteau was a disappointed office-seeker who had some qualifications and some claims to office. He was a monomaniac, it is true, but he was undoubtedly responsible for his actions.

Prendergast, however, is beyond doubt a lunatic pure and simple. He had studied and read cranky economic theories until his mind gave way.

Imagined Himself a Reformer.

He imagined that he was a reformer. He had schemes for the betterment of all mankind. He was especially interested in the welfare of Chicago and imagined that he alone could reform the abuses from which the city is suffering. He was especially bitter in his denunciation of the railroad grade crossings which are responsible for many deaths every year, and the idea became fixed in his mind that if he were made corporation counsel he could solve the problem of elevating all the railroad tracks within the city limits.

Particulars of the Crime.

The details of the shooting obtained today do not vary materially from the account first sent out.

Mayor Harrison had been to the world's fair with his son Carter H. Harrison, jr., and had returned home about 6 o'clock. The son remained at the fair. Though tired out with the day's sight-seeing the mayor was in good humor and chatted gayly with his younger son, William Preston Harrison, and his daughter Sophie. No cloud of presentment came to disturb the happiness of the father and children.

Mr. Harrison had not noticed, as he walked down Ashland avenue, that a man was leaning heavily on the railing surrounding the house. The man was Prendergast.

Laying for His Victim.

He waited at the corner of Jackson street, watching the lighted window, muttering threats of vengeance against the man who he deemed had blighted his life by refusing him office. A lunatic, without qualification for the office he sought.

Prendergast insanely resolved to put an end to the man who would not make him corporation counsel.

While the assassin watched, the father chatted with his children and smiled as he told the story of his journey that day through the White City.

He was feeling particularly happy at the prospect of his approaching marriage.

His Betrothed Was Near.

Miss Annie Howard was at his son's house a few paces away and he spoke several times to his son and daughter about her.

After dinner Preston Harrison went up stairs to his room. Miss Harrison went around to her brothers house in Marshfield avenue. The mayor declared he would rest in the dining room for a while, and shortly before 8 o'clock he had fallen into a light slumber.

The table had been cleared, and the servants closed the kitchen door so that the household clatter might not disturb the sleeper.

About ten minutes to eight, the assassin left his post of observation and walked quickly toward the entrance gates. He rang the bell slowly and deliberately without that nervous ring denoting a man in haste. He staggered a little as the flood of light from within revealed him to the servant as she opened the door.

The Assassin in the House.

In a hesitating way he asked if the mayor was in.

"Yes," answered the girl.

"I want to see him," said Prendergast.

The girl hesitated as Prendergast did not seem to her the sort of man to admit into the house. Brushing past her the murderer said that he must see the mayor. The door was left open, while the servant tried to learn the visitor's business.

Hearing the noise the mayor awoke and was on his feet in an instant.

Stepped Out to His Death.

He walked through the door leading from the dining room into the hallway and caught a glimpse of the man who wanted to see him.

"Well, what do you want with me?" asked the mayor, in his bluff, hearty way.

At the sound of his voice the girl left Prendergast and disappeared within the kitchen, not before, however, she had heard the man mutter something about wanting to be corporation counsel. Prendergast declared afterward that he did not say a word to the mayor.

As the latter came toward him, with the peculiar swing for which he was noted, without a word the assassin stepped forward and fired. The only warning of death received by Mr. Harrison was the gleam of a revolver, as Prendergast pulled it out of his pocket.

Death Came Swiftly.

Leveling the weapon at the mayor as he advanced, the assassin fired. The mayor clutched at his breast and tried to pluck out the biting pain, which seemed to paralyze his heart. Staggering backward he grasped at the wall for support.

Prendergast followed the tottering man. He brought the hammer down again and the bullet plowed through the stomach of the mayor. The first missile had passed through the right breast and penetrated the lungs. Retreating still before the murderer the mayor staggered into the dining room. Prendergast still followed the now dying man.

Shot His Dying Victim Again.

The mayor's face was convulsed with pain.

Blood was flowing from the wound in the stomach. The agony of death was on the mayor, as he vainly tried to clutch the wounded spot on his breast. With his face aflame with hate and revenge and insanity, Prendergast was still unsatisfied in his lust for blood.

For the third time he raised the revolver. The old man, bleeding internally and dying, turned toward the murderer as the hammer came down again. The little strength left him impelled the mayor to throw up his left hand to stop the bullet. Death had already come to him.

His lifeblood was ebbing away. Yet the instinct of self-preservation, the strong desire for life made the brave old man thrust out his weakened arm. His left hand almost grasped the barrel of the revolver.

The Assassin Desperate.

Another flash, a loud report and the bullet ploughed its way through his hand, almost shattering the little finger. The missile buried itself in the wall.

As the last shot shattered Mr. Harrison's hand, a terrible cry broke out. The servants screamed and tried to get out the back door. Preston Harrison, who had been reading in his room upstairs, came bounding down the stairs. Before he could get near his father, the coachman, Charles Parth had dashed from the servant's dining room into the private dining room.

Shot at the Coachman.

Prendergast fired at the coachman, but missed. Then the murderer turned and left the house. Parth rushed to the barn, got his own revolver, and gave chase to the murderer. Prendergast had gone toward Madison street and the coachman lost sight of him. Parth chased another man along the avenue yelling: "Stop the murderer," but it appeared later that he had got the wrong man. Prendergast continued his way to the Desplaines street station.

Called for His Prospective Bride.

At the house of death the mayor lay breathing heavily and calling for his future bride.

Preston Harrison had heard the reports of the shots which he thought were like explosions. Instinctively he ran to the patrol alarm and rang it. Hearing his father's groans, he ran into the dining room. "I'm shot, Willie," murmured the dying man. "This is death, I feel it. Bring a doctor. Bring Annie, bring Annie." Away went the son flying for a doctor. Ulric King and Dr. Foster soon came. The doctor made an examination of the wounds, but he shook his head. There was no hope. Hardly had he ceased his examination when Preston Harrison ran in, followed by Dr. Lyman and two other physicians. The mayor was carried gently into the kitchen and everything was done to ease his pain.

His Last Words for Annie.

"I am dying," muttered the mayor turning toward his son. "Bring Annie."

But Miss Howard did not arrive until after the mayor had breathed his last.

A Crank on Single Tax.

Prendergast's relatives are firm in their belief that he is sane, but they admit that he has always had some kind of a hobby, and for several years he has talked a great deal about the single tax theory, and has read and studied every book on the subject. He is well educated, and his relatives believe that he has saved quite a little sum of money.

THE INQUEST.

Prendergast Secretly Conducted Back to the Place of His Crime.

CHICAGO, Oct. 30.—History of the shooting retold and statements of physicians occupied the attention of the coroner's jury at the Harrison residence for an hour yesterday. Excepting a technical description of the wounds little was added to the information already at the disposal of the officers of the law. The verdict recommended that Prendergast be held for the murder until discharged by due process of law.

The announcement was made that Prendergast would not be present, but he was driven in a closed carriage to the back door and slipped in without his presence being being known outside of the house. He came in charge of Lieut. Haas and was driven away by the same officer. He made no demonstration of violence and crowds in the streets near the mayor's house were in ignorance of the officer's plans.

After the inquest the prisoner was turned over to the county authorities and locked up in jail.

Five Bullet Wounds Found.

According to the postmortem examination, results of which were submitted to the jury, five bullet wounds made by four bullets were found in the mayor's body. Three balls remained in the body. One lodged in the muscles of the back. Another passed through the liver and was found in the bowels. The third struck near the shoulder and ranging downward, lodged under the skin.

WHO WILL SUCCEED HARRISON?

The Laws of Chicago Provide for No Emergency of This Kind.

CHICAGO, Oct. 30.—Opinions vary as to the succession to the mayoralty made vacant by the assassination of Mayor Harrison.

Corporation Counsel Kraus says that pending the election of a new mayor the council would, in his opinion, be empowered to select a mayor pro tem.

Alderman Madden, chairman of the finance committee of the city council says: "The city statutes are rather vague in reference to an emergency of this kind. From what I can learn after a hasty examination of the statutes it appears that when a vacancy occurs in the office of mayor, and the unexpired term is less than one year, it is within the jurisdiction of the city council to elect a mayor pro tem, who shall have all the powers and duties of a mayor and shall fill out the unexpired term. But in the event that a vacancy occurs in the office of mayor and the unexpired term is more than one year, then the city council shall meet and elect a mayor pro tem, but shall also call a special election for the people to elect a mayor to fill out the unexpired term."

A. S. Trude, eminent as an authority on local municipal law, says: "Chicago has no mayor. No one can succeed Mr. Harrison. There is an absolute silence in the laws concerning this point. Nobody but the mayor has the veto power and in this the point lies. The man who has this power is dead, and when he is gone, no person can become his successor by right of precedence in official ranks. Once in the Colvin administration, when the mayor was absent, the comtroller attempted to act as mayor of the city, but no acts of his was recognized as official. There is no president of the city council. There is a chairman elected at each meeting when the mayor is absent, but this election is temporary and only viva voce anyhow."

Funeral Arrangements.

CHICAGO, Oct. 30.—According to the plans already decided upon the funeral of Carter Harrison will take place on Tuesday, from the city hall, and the casket will be temporarily placed in the vault of Graceland cemetery. Unless the city council should decide otherwise at its meeting this morning the remains will be taken to the city hall this evening and lie in state until noon to-morrow.

Later a change was made in the funeral arrangements by the family and it was decided to remove the remains to the city hall on Tuesday instead of to-day, the funeral ceremonies to be held on Wednesday afternoon.

Many Messages of Sorrow.

CHICAGO, Oct. 30.—A pile of telegraphic dispatches nearly two feet in length occupied the center of the table in the library of the Harrison mansion this morning. The winged messages of sorrow and regret came from almost every state and territory of the union.

ANOTHER WAR SHIP FOR RIO.

The Big Cruiser New York Will Go at Once.

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—The big armored cruiser New York has received orders to prepare immediately to proceed to Brazil.

Immediately upon receipt of the order telegrams were sent out from the cruiser recalling all officers on leave of absence. One officer, Ensign Dashiel, who is undergoing, at the Naval department, examination for promotion, has been ordered to repair at once aboard his ship.

The orders to the New York are reported to be of the most mandatory sort. No effort is to be spared to hurry the ship off at the earliest possible moment.

It is announced that the successor to Acting Rear Admiral Stanton will sail for Rio de Janeiro on the New York. Who this officer will be is not yet known. There is every reason to believe, though, that Commodore Richard Meade has been selected.

The New York is lying at the Brooklyn navy yard. Of late the navy yard workmen have been busily engaged in fitting torpedo tubes to the big ship. She is unprovided with torpedoes and in the event of a fight with a vessel of her own class so provided, would be placed at a serious disadvantage.

The sudden orders to the New York are ascribed in naval circles to the desire of the administration to have present at Rio de Janeiro a naval force the equal if not the superior of that of any other country. The arrival of the New York at Rio will give the United States five warships there, the New York, Newark, Charleston, Detroit and Yantic.

At present the United States is represented at Rio de Janeiro by the Newark and Charleston. The Detroit is on her way to that port from the Barbados. The Yantic is making the best of her way up the Brazil coast from Montevideo.

TRAFFIC TO THE FAIR.

Chicago Railroads Brought In About 3,335,000 People.

CHICAGO, Oct. 30.—Chicago roads are busily engaged in figuring up the world's fair traffic since the opening of the exposition. With most of them the conclusions arrived at are but estimates based on the most reliable data at hand. It will be a month or so before strictly reliable figures can be had. So far as the figures on hand go, they show that the number of people brought into Chicago by the 21 passenger lines entering here during the period of the fair was in round numbers 3,335,000. Allowing each of these passengers to have visited the fair five times would account for an attendance of 16,755,000, which would be a good proportion of outside visitors. It would leave but a little over 5,000,000 visits from Chicagoans.

Prodigal and Crooked.

EASTON, Pa., Oct. 30.—Irvin Reagle, who, after running through his wife's inheritance of $13,000 and getting away with his own money, disappeared, leaving debts of $40,000, has been located at Watertown, Ia. An officer has started for that place to bring him back. He forged the name of Levi Coleman, justice of the peace of Palmer township, to a check for $4.30

GRIEF MARKS THE END

World's Fair to Close With Memorial Exercises.

The Entire Programme of Gaiety, as Arranged for To-day, Set Aside, and One Befitting the Memory of the Murdered Mayor Arranged.

WORLD'S FAIR GROUNDS, CHICAGO, Oct. 30.—There will be nothing of gladness and congratulation in the White City at its official closing to-day. It was to have been Columbus day in the category of fetes and special days and the exposition was to have gone out of official existence in a blaze of pyrotechnic glory by day and by night with pageant on land and water, with merry music and happy speech.

But it will not be.

The Guiteau of the world's fair city has changed every plan which could be construed into official rejoicing.

Individual visitors, coming from many states and lands, cannot of course be expected to restrain their enjoyment nor refrain from mirth and laughter on the Midway, but everything will be subdued because of the great affliction which has come upon the host of the world.—Chicago.

Harrison Memorial Day.

To-day in reality will be known in the annals of Chicago's history as "Mayor Harrison Memorial Day."

The programme of closing ceremonies, which were to have been held in the Festival hall at 1 o'clock to-day has been turned by common consent into a memorial meeting of men and women from the nations which the murdered mayor visited when he made his memorable trip around the earth. They will be invited to come, not as guests to a wedding feast, but as mourners to a memorial service.

No world's exposition has ever ended in such manner and perhaps never will. It will be a tribute of respect to the memory of a man who was as popular among the foreigners at the fair as he was among his fellow citizens of Chicago and his fellow Americans with whom he came in official contact within the White City.

None but the kindest of words were heard among the foreign and American officials who came to the fair yesterday to know what change there would be in the ceremonies set for to-day.

The supposition that the assassin is insane did not deter anyone from uttering execrations upon his wretched head and suggesting various modes by which he should be put to death.

Europeans Particularly Dumbfounded

The Europeans particularly could not be brought to realize that the chief executive of a great American city had been shot down in his own house without provocation or reason. They did not understand the nature of the mayor who never refused the humblest stranger admission to his house and refused to surround himself with those safeguards which are common at the homes and offices of public officials in Europe.

At a meeting of officials it was unanimously decided that the exposition should be officially closed to-day, as required by the act of congress, but without any of the exercises or festivities which had been planned.

Clarence Eddy will play an appropriate selection on the great organ in Festival hall, prayer will be offered, and President Palmer will make a formal announcement of the closing and an explanation of the grievous reason for abandoning the original programme.

Entire Change of Programme.

The following official order has been issued:

"In view of the assassination of the chief magistrate of the city of Chicago, the ceremonies which were announced to take place to-day, Oct. 30, in connection with the closing of the World's Columbian exposition will be wholly dispensed with, except that all heretofore invited guests and the public generally are requested to assemble in Festival hall at 1 p. m., as originally intended.

"Hon. Thomas W. Palmer, president of the World's Columbian commission, will preside.

"Prayer will be offered by Rev. John Henry Burrows.

"Appropriate resolutions will be submitted by President H. N. Higginbotham.

"All the festivities arranged for the closing ceremonies will be omitted with the exception of the firing of an appropriate salute and the lowering of the United States flag at sunset.

"It is further ordered that the flags upon all buildings within the grounds remain at half mast until the closing of the exposition."

Foul Play Suspected.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 30.—The body of William Ward, who mysteriously disappeared a week ago last Saturday night, was found floating in the Delaware and Raritan canal near Princeton yesterday. The condition of the body and the manner of the disappearance give color to a theory of foul play.

Dalton Gang Still at Work.

GUTHRIE, O. T., Oct. 30.—Six members of the Dalton gang rode up to the general store of George Hall, Thursday at Cushing, 50 miles east of here, while the store was full of people and compelled the proprietor to hand over the contents of his safe, some $200. They rode away unmolested.

Frederick Heller, a Caldwell plumber, says he will revolutionize cycling by his new invention which is a twin screw attachment at the rear, working on the propellor principle. Mr. Heller may be a good plumber, but his bicycle scheme will surely end in wind.

The Republican party says there is no politics in this campaign, and that the way to demonstrate this is to vote for Foster Voorhees. Now will Foster Voorhees pledge the people that if he should be elected he would vote for a Democratic United States Senator, and thereby prove his non-partisanship?

If Founder Bradley doesn't win the Monmouth County Senatorial fight, it won't be because he isn't original in his methods everlastingly at it. He is personally stumping the entire county, and making himself solid with everyone capable of influencing a vote. Besides that he's using printer's ink most lavishly. And that's the way to win.

JAMES E. MARTINE.

The Democratic Candidate for State Senator.

(From The Elizabeth Journal, Rep.)

James E. Martine, the Democratic candidate for State Senator, is a native of the city of New York, having been born there forty-four years ago. For the past thirty-three years he has lived in Plainfield, is a farmer by occupation, having the management of and interest in a large estate in and near that city. He has never held political office but once, when he was elected a member of the Plainfield City Council.

Personally Mr. Martine is a gentleman of cultivated tastes, pleasant address, and a large fund of broad and useful information. He is a public speaker of acknowledged ability, and exceedingly in earnest in the advocacy of his party interests. The late Cornelius W. L. Martine, who for a number of years was Director of the Board of Freeholders, was a cousin to the present Democratic candidate for Senatorial honors.

Martine and Sauer.

(From The Rahway Democrat.)

Our candidate for Senator, James E. Martine, of Plainfield, needs no introduction to the mass of our readers, nor to the voters of Union county. His eloquent voice has been frequently heard in our city during the campaigns for years past, and his loyalty to true Democratic principles and those of morality and justice generally, cannot be questioned. His word is his pledge, better than any perfunctory or buncombe resolutions, as his neighbors and all who know him will testify. He can be depended on as being on the side of morality and for justice to the workingman at all times.

John S. Sauer, our nominee for Sheriff, is a well-known resident and business man of Elizabeth, capable, honorable and popular with all who become acquainted with him. He was elected as a member of the Board of Chosen Freeholderr two years ago, and his ability and fitness for responsible positions were so well recognized by his fellow members that he was last May made Director of the Board, which position he has filled with honor, strict attention, and to the advantage of the county.

Able and Honorable.

(From The Rahway Democrat.)

The Democratic Assembly Convention for this, the third district of Union county, complimented the young voters on Monday, by selecting one of their number, John Herbert Winans, as a candidate—an able and honorable young man, eminently competent by education and training for the position, and whose morality cannot be questioned. We have known him personally from boyhood, and hence can speak from that knowledge. Although the district is looked upon as hopelessly Republican, he has determined to enter into the canvass with a will to aid in the success of the whole ticket and to cut down the usual majority in this district as much as possible; and it is not beyond a possibility for him to be elected.

No One Doubts Him.

[From The Elizabeth Herald.]

James E. Martine is getting along nobly. His party has faith in him, his friends have faith in him. No man who knows him, whether Democrat or Republican, doubts the integrity or ability of Mr. Martine. He will cast a vote for the next United States Senator from New Jersey.

Bishop Vincent's Unique Pilgrimage.

During his Episcopal tour through Europe last summer, Bishop John H. Vincent, of Buffalo, N. Y., arranged with the Rev. Dr. Lunn, editor of the Review of the Churches, London, to carry out next January and February a very remarkable extension of the Chautauqua movement in the form of historical and educational pilgrimages through England, Italy, Spain, Greece, Egypt, and Palestine. The full programme can be obtained from Bishop Vincent.

Holy Cross Seceders Go Upon the Stage

A commodious stage conveys to Netherwood each Sunday such of the recent seceders from Holy Cross church as seek the balm of Gilead in worship elsewhere. A facetious citizen viewing yesterday the passing of the omnibus remarked that although there had been a great deal of comedy business in the recent performances of these persons, one could hardly have expected them to go upon the stage.

HARD-CIDER SHOPS.

Sunday Liquor Selling Openly Carried on in Plainfield.

In spite of the fact that all saloons are closed on Sunday and that it is forbidden by law to sell alcoholic liquors on that day, Monday morning brings in more drunks to the City Court than any other morning in the week, and according to the police more drunkenness is seen on the streets Sunday than on any other day. Chief of Police Grant says that the trouble lies in the cider shops, which are legally open on Sunday as complying with the Seventh-Day exemption ordinance. There are three of these shops where cider is sold, and each one gives the police a great deal of trouble. Captain Grant says that men get intoxicated much quicker on the hard cider that is dispensed in these places than they do on the stuff sold in the saloons in town. There is a constant stream of men going in and coming out, in various stages of intoxication, all day Sunday, and these shops do a rushing business. Few people have any objection to an orderly Sunday traffic in peanuts or soda-water, but some provision should be made in the city ordinance to stop this violation of the Sunday liquor law.

An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure. Someone may say that he has heard this before, but it is nevertheless true.

ONE OF THEM CAUGHT.

Dunellen Thieves Are Found to Hail From the Bowery.

Robbers are still operating at Dunellen and vicinity. On Thursday night the candy manufactory of Joseph Laing was broken into and robbed of about $60 worth of candy, etc. The robbers, three in number, entered the place by prying open the back door of the barn adjoining, climbing into the hay mow, thence through an open window and through a trap-door into the shop. They were unmolested and evidently in no hurry to leave, for they stepped into Mr. Laing's watermelon patch and carved two of his largest melons. The robbery was discovered next morning, when the back door of the shop was found wide open. A strange coincidence in connection with the affair is the fact that a robbery had been committed near Somerville the same night, and Detective Crow of that place had notified the police along the Central road as far as Elizabethport to look out for the robbers. About 2 o'clock Friday morning a coal train stopped at the Port, and a young man giving his name as Thomas Miller, aged 19, of New York, got off. He carried a large bundle and was arrested on suspicion. His two pals escaped by running along the tracks. Miller was held until late Saturday afternoon, when Officer Crow took him into custody. He turned State's evidence and admitted stealing the seven boxes of candy found in his possession from Mr. Laing at Dunellen. His pals, he said, were Samuel Robinson, who worked all last summer for Mr. Laing, and Jacob Kilrain, all of New York. Miller said Robinson enticed him out, and all three walked to the Greenbrook tanks, with their booty, intending to board a coal train and reach New York before daylight. Miller showed the officer the exact manner and way they got into the place. As no justice of the peace could be found on Saturday night, Miller was locked up in the Somerville jail, and today an effort is being made to find his two companions, whom he says "hang up" on the Bowery.

This is the second time within two weeks that Mr. Laing has been robbed of large quantities of candies, etc.

A Great Show Tomorrow Night.

Stetson's Uncle Tom's Cabin Company will appear in Music Hall tomorrow night. This is undoubtedly the largest and best Uncle Tom's company traveling, comprising 30 first-class artists. So complete is their scenery that the piece could be put on in a barn with better scenic effects than is produced by any other company. They have a grand double band of white and colored musicians, an orchestra of ten pieces, and one that is hard to beat. The African mandolin students with this company are the first and only colored people appearing in public and performing on the Spanish mandolin. The Lone Star Quartette is claimed to be without an equal, and in the Topsies, they have something that charms all. The Topsies are two young ladies, and their superiors in character and terpsichorean artists have not yet been produced on the American stage. There are two Marksees, the best that a good big salary can secure. The street parade is the finest ever witnessed, and of the performance the manager says that if they do not give the best production of this sterling old drama ever given in this city, they will cheerfully refund the price of admission.

Jim Won't Lose His Vote.

James Emmons, the silver-tongued orator, was very drunk yesterday and was chivied about by the police all day until toward evening when he had reached the maudlin stage. Policeman Frederickson concluded that the lock-up was the best place for him and gently led him away. Jim had been going around the streets with a puppy dog in his arms calling loudly to the passers-by to admire the points of his pet. The Judge censured him severely this morning and the verdict was $15 or 30 days.

Later—An increasing regard for Plainfield and the kindness of his friends in raising the wind for his fine has made Jim decide to remain at home for a while longer.

A Public-Spirited Broker.

E. C. Mulford, the wide-awake real-estate man of North avenue, has sold the attractive house which he built on a large lot on Park place, near Mercer avenue, North Plainfield, to Mr. and Mrs. Samuel W. Clark, who will reside there.

Mr. Mulford is to be praised for his admirable spirit in putting up but one house on the lot, as he might have erected two and found tenants for them without difficulty; but he had sufficient consideration for the neighborhood to sacrifice his own interests for the sake of the street.

The Congressman's Daughter Was There.

A driving party from New Brunswick visited Miss Fanny Rafferty of Park avenue, yesterday. Among the young ladies who were in the party were Miss Daly and Miss Tenneson of New Brunswick and Miss Dunn, daughter of Congressman John T. Dunn, of Elizabeth.

Taxes Come in Slowly.

Tax-Collector John Johnson reports that the taxes are not coming in nearly as fast this year as they did last. The total tax budget amounts to $151,000 on a total valuation of about $7,000,000. Up to date only $7,500 in taxes has been collected on this year's levy.

FIREMEN GO TO CHURCH.

The Rev. C. E. Herring Sermonizes on Fires.

Nearly 150 of the Plainfield firemen turned out last night to hear the Rev. Charles E. Herring preach a special sermon in the First Presbyterian church. Much interest was shown by the fire laddies when it was announced that a sermon was to be preached especially for them, and preparations were made to respond in proper manner to the invitation of the popular clergyman. Accordingly the various fire companies formed at their respective houses last night and marched to the Coward building on Park avenue, where the line was formed. Company No. 2 formed with No. 1 at No. 1's house, and the Board of Engineers formed at the Alert Hose Company's house. At the Coward building the Exempt Firemen were waiting for the others, and they fell in at the head of the column, the active companies falling in behind them in the order of the dates of their organization.

The column formed in this way marched to Front street, and turning the corner to the right, went as far as the Christian Association building, where Warren Engine Company of North Plainfield was drawn up in line, awaiting the main column. From the Christian Association the men, headed by Chief Doane, and with Assistant Chief Martin in the middle of the column, marched to the church and filed into their places. Every available place that was not reserved for the companies was filled before the hour for the sermon with people who were anxious to learn what the clergyman has to say. All the firemen were much pleased with the sermon. It was in substance as follows:

Firemen of Plainfield and North Plainfield, we regard your coming with us tonight as a pleasure and privilege, and accord to you the hearty welcome of the church.

Says Saxe "If Prometheus was worthy of the wrath of Heaven for kindling the first fire on earth, how ought all the gods to honor the men who make it their professional business to put it out". Every minister, every missionary, in a certain sense, is a fireman. Their duty is pulling men out of the fire. You are the symbols of God's firemen, and not only should you be the symbol but the reality.

What a piece of work is man in action, how like an angel in apprehension, how like a God, yet fires burn out the very best in men. There is a necessity for firemen. Nothing is absolutely fireproof. Wood burns, iron warps, stone crumbles, man is tinder. He awaits a spark. Siegfried is vulnerable between the shoulder; Achilles, in the heel; and every man should guard his weak place. There is nothing absolutely fireproof. There is no man beyond reach of the fires of temptation, but the nearest approach to a fireproof structure is made of burnt brick, terra cotta, etc. That which has passed through the flame is fireproof. The fire tries every man's work. The saints before the throne came up through great tribulations. You are saved here as the buildings are saved, by being surrounded with a fire-resisting covering. Ninety-nine per cent of the world's fires result from carelessness. We may mourn the loss of the Alexandrian Library, but what about a human soul, the property of Him who says "All souls are mine". How shall we escape if we neglect?

God's fireman is ready, knows the importance of five minutes. A pail of water at the beginning is worth tons when the fire is raging. Promptness is not half of the battle, but oftimes the whole.

The unity manifested in the fire service. The original fireman was a debater. The present fireman knows the need of organization. The original Christian fireman was a fighter. One said put the fire out and that is all, and that was disputed. Another believed that the best way to extinguish a fire was to put it under water instead of pouring. Another persisted in the belief that he belonged to the sole fire company. Another considered that the best method was that of Israel at Jericho with noise and shout. We are one now, especially in Plainfield. The truth is greater than any man or any church.

The fireman is an example of heroism and patriotism. Many opportunities for patriotism have been presented to him and embraced. There were the Ellsworth Fire Zouaves, who distinguished themselves in color. Scripture says 'Be men'—not puny pigmikins. A dude is defined: "A perfumed thing of the neuter gender: a sort of foot-ball for men, and a pin cushion for women".

There is a man who would
Be a woman if he could.
But as he can't does all he can
To show the world he's not a man,

The church may be said to be the engine-house, the Bible the engine, the Gospel the water. We want no moral extinguishers or social bombs. The Bible is enough. The Gospel is old, but not effete.

Let "God with us" be your motto, and "by faith in Him you shall quench the violence of fire".

A Bicyclist's Mishap.

Robert Yetman, colored, and a party of friends, were riding their bicycles along Watchung avenue, at noon yesterday, when Yetman was accidentally run down by a careless driver and thrown from his wheel into the gutter. Yetman claims that the accident was wholly due to the driver, who did not even stop to ascertain the extent of his injuries. The seat on the wheel was torn entirely off, and the spokes and crossbars were badly twisted. The name of the driver is not known.

In Memory of Gounod.

An elaborate musical programme was admirably rendered by Holy Cross church choir at the vesper service yesterday afternoon. "By Babylon's Wave", one of the grandest compositions of the late Charles Gounod, was given in memory of its author, and it has never been heard here to better advantage.

Choirmaster Cheeswright has placed Holy Cross choir once more at the top of choral music in our churches.

Dunellen's Bowling Club.

Shooting at a Cabbage Thief.

Michael Gallagher, of Dunellen, discovered a stranger in his cabbage patch, Friday night, and opened fire on the intruder with a shotgun. The fellow escaped, leaving no clue to his identity.

WEST END BIRTHDAY FROLIC.

Good Things Left Over, Bestowed on the Children's Home.

At the palatial residence of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Q. Lawson, corner of Grant avenue and Seventh street, Saturday evening, there was held a gorgeous birthday surprise party in honor of little Miss Florence Lawson. The large house was ablaze with seventy-six electric lights. All the young folks of the neighborhood were present, and spent an enjoyable evening. Mrs. Lawson, assisted by her near neighbor, Mrs. E. P. Williams, made the young people feel at home, and attended to their wants. Several large cakes, and hundreds of sandwiches, left over, were forwarded to the Children's Home. The committee who managed the affair were: Misses Annie Littell, Eleanor Williams, and Marion Woodcock. Below is a list of those who were present:

Misses Ada Rogers, Eleanor Williams, Annie Littell, Marion Woodcock, Eleanor Woodcock, Clara Long, Gussie Long, Eula Long, Edith Wright, Emma Wright, Ada Woodruff, Florence Taylor, Florence McCray, Lilly McCray, Ella Rogers, Etta Randolph, Marion Egan, Louise Egan, Edith Burt, Amy Burt, Jeanie Douglas, Lulu Randolph, Jessie Burt, May Batchelor, Helen Hall, Reta Pond, Fannie Hayes, Ada Aldrich, Rene Aldrich, Ada Fountain, Annis Kingsman, May Woodruff, Florence Williams, Mary Egan, Van-Dusen, Beekman, Wensel.

Wild Ran from Westfield.

James Duffy, of Westfield, while intoxicated, undertook to take possession of a coal train on the Jersey Central Saturday night. He got on the engine at Fanwood and drew a revolver on the engineer. The latter knocked him off the train. Duffy got on a car and rode to Cranford. He was overpowered by the train hands, taken to Elizabeth and delivered to the police. Conductor W. H. Snyder made a complaint against him yesterday, and Duffy was sent to jail for a month.

Didn't Want 'Em to Go to Church.

About fifteen minutes before the members of Warren Engine Company started for the First Presbyterian church, last evening, a small fire was discovered in the cellar of the engine-house. It proved to be some old rags, which had caught fire in some unknown manner.

The reader of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer $100 for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address

BAD SPELLERS.

Imperfections In Eyesight as a Bridge Leading to Defective Orthography.

A man who is constantly reading ought, of course, to be able to spell the words which he is repeatedly seeing on the page before him. Yet, as we know, it often happens that great readers are exceedingly bad spellers. Why is this? We believe it is because the bad speller sees and reads each word as a whole—as a grammalogue or thought symbol, that is, and not as so many letters. All people, of course, do this to some extent, but we believe that the educated bad speller does it very much more than the good speller.

The ordinary man, puzzled about a word, writes it to see how it looks, and this look tells him at once whether he has spelled it right or wrong. The true bad speller is, however, not helped the very least bit in the world by this process. He is only the more puzzled by the writing on the blotting pad. He may write the word a dozen ways and not get one version which looks to him better than the others. The truth is his eyes have some defect, probably of focusing power, which prevents him seeing clearly the letters of the words. When he learns to read, he learns to read verbatim and not literatim, and hence he sees and has always seen the symbol for "receive," not "r e c e i v e," with the "e" always following the "c" and in front of the "i."

This is why bad spellers will almost invariably be found to have been slow in learning to read. They were taught to read literally, but found great difficulty in the process, owing to defective eyesight, and so had slowly and laboriously to learn the words as symbols of ideas, not as compounded letters. In a word, bad spelling is a defect of the eyesight, not of the mind, and in all probability many a case of inability to learn to spell might be cured in children by the right pair of spectacles.

It is not short sight that makes the bad speller so much as oversight and difficulty in focusing the eye. Short sighted people are indeed apt to spell well. They hold the book close to the eye and see every letter standing out clearly, for, as is well known, the effect of the short sighted eye is to magnify. The long sighted eye, on the other hand, sees small prints as a confused and indistinct mass. The general look of the word is detected, but not the letters which make it up.—London Spectator.

Alaska Indians' Queer Taste.

The Indians in the far interior of Alaska, shut off from the outside world by towering lines of snow buried mountains and monster icefields, have to depend entirely upon local products for their food. They keep no live stock at all, nor do they till the soil, but nature furnishes them with a generous supply of provisions.

From July to November all the streams and lakes are stocked with an abundance of delicious salmon.

After the long and bitter winter, with the thermometer often at 60 degrees below zero, the natives are gaunt and haggard, but in the early spring their lean and wrinkled bodies begin at once to assume rounder shapes as soon as they can ply their gaff hooks and land the fatted salmon safely on shore. At this season all day long the squaws are kept busily employed boiling fish in big cooking pots over log fires. As soon as the meal is cooked it is tilted out into a shallow wooden dish, to be very soon consumed by a hungry group of Indians armed with big horn spoons.

As the summer advances and fish become more plentiful, the native seeks variety in the bill of fare and supplies his gastronomic taste by curious methods. I have frequently watched a native harpoon a salmon, and then having bitten a mouthful from the gristly part of its head fling the fish, mutilated but alive, back into the stream. In utter contrast to this strange taste, decomposed salmon heads are deemed a natural delicacy. In order to impart to them the desired flavor, they are kept for several weeks in wooden troughs, and so highly prized is the odorous result that the guest to whom it is offered feels unusually honored.—Chicago Tribune.

And He Didn't Know It.

Ferguson was wending his uncertain way homeward, sorely troubled in his mind over the curtain lecture he knew was in store for him and casting about for some means of evading it. Suddenly a bright idea was evolved from his befuddled brain. He would slip into the house and get quietly into bed without awakening his wife. Accordingly he stole gently up stairs, carefully undressed outside the door and crept into bed with his face toward the outside. He mentally congratulated himself upon his success thus far and went to sleep.

When he awoke in the morning, he dared not look at his wife, and after lying still for a few minutes and not hearing any noise from her he concluded she was still asleep. He then determined to arise very quietly, carry his clothes outside the door, dress there and go down town to business without waiting for breakfast. He was successful in this, and meeting the servant girl down stairs he said:

"Eliza, you can tell your mistress I expect to be very busy today, and therefore I didn't stop to have breakfast with her this morning."

"Laws, sir!" said Eliza, "missis went away yesterday morning to her mother's and said she wouldn't be back till this evening."—London Tit-Bits.

Reasoning by Analogy.

Uncle Mose, a Houston darky, recently had occasion to buy a yard of silk. He was somewhat surprised at the cost, and on asking what was the cause was told by the accommodating clerk that probably it was owing to the scarcity of silkworms. A few days afterward he came to the same clerk and asked:

"How's de tapewums coming on!"

"What do I know about tapeworms!" asked the indignant clerk.

"I was gwinter buy foah yards ob tape, but I dunno if I has money ernuff. Maybe dar's sumfin de matter wid de tapewums jess as der was wid de silkwums de odder day."—Texas Siftings.

Fill 'Er Up Again.

There is an old well on Peace street, near Front, which, when the street was widened, brought the line fence directly in the centre of the opening. The well has been filled in, but the recent heavy rains have settled the dirt nearly two feet, so as to make it dangerous for pedestrians, especially at night.

Supt. Joseph Resigns.

S. B. Joseph, superintendent of the Mt. Olive Sunday-School, tendered his resignation yesterday afternoon, to take effect the 30th of November. Superintendent R. K. Case, of the First Baptist Sunday-school, was present and gave an able address to the scholars.

With Ely's Cream Balm a child can be treated without pain and with perfect safety. It cures catarrh, hay fever and colds in the head. It is easily applied into the nostrils and gives immediate relief. Price 50 cents.

My catarrh was very bad; for 20 years I have been troubled with it. I have tried a number of remedies with least relief. A druggist advised Ely's Cream Balm. I have used only one bottle and I can say I feel like a new man. I make this voluntary statement that others may know of the Balm.—F. W. Matheson, lawyer, Pawtucket, R. I.

SILVER FIGHT OVER

Senate Will Probably Pass the Repeal To-day.

Little Doubt That the House Will Speedily Concur in the Voorhees Amendment, and That Adjournment Will Then Be Considered.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—The indications are that the sole purpose for which congress was called together in special session will be accomplished this week and that the legislators will adjourn and go home to participate in the fall elections and recuperate from the severe strain to which they have been subjected.

Mr. Voorhees has given notice that he will ask for a vote on the Voorhees substitute for the Wilson bill repealing the silver purchasing clause of the Sherman law this afternoon.

Unless some now unforseen obstacle intervenes, there is no reason to doubt that within the course of a day or two the bill will be returned to the house.

Other Pressing Matters.

There is still a disposition in some quarters to act upon the Chinese bill, and the New York delegation will doubtless try to secure final action upon the New York and New Jersey bridge bill before the adjournment is taken, but the success of efforts in these matters will depend upon assurances that they will not consume much time, for the senators and members alike are very desirous of getting away from the scene of their late strife as early as possible.

There is nothing in view in the house this week save the bankruptcy bill and the Voorhees bill.

May Reach the House To-morrow.

It is the expectation that the latter will be laid before the house after the reading of the journal Tuesday noon, and that Representative Wilson, chairman of the committee on ways and menas, who introduced the bill originally passed by the house, will make a motion to concur in the amendment made by the senate to that measure.

The only change is in the form of a declaration following the repealing clause, with respect to the intention of the government regarding the treatment and use of silver.

Representative Bland may move to refer the bill to his committee on coinage weights and measures, for further consideration, but he has not announced his intention in this regard.

No Delay Anticipated.

No factious opposition to speedy action on the bill is anticipated but if any should be attempted, the committee on rules will promptly report an order for speedy determination of the fate of the measure.

The managers of the house are anxious for an adjournment of the session, and will do all in their power to bring it about. There is more than a majority of the house in the city and no difficulty is looked for in reaching a vote on account of the lack of attendance.

SPANIARDS ROUTED AT MELILLA

Gen. Margallo and 70 of His Men Killed and 122 Wounded.

MADRID, Oct. 30.—General Margallo, commander-in-chief of the Spanish troops at Melilla, was shot dead Saturday while leading a sortie against the Riffians.

Seventy of his men were killed and 122 others were wounded.

The tribesmen, although under a heavy artillery fire from the Sanish forts, did not retire after abandoning the pursuit of the Spanish troops.

The Riffians in the trenches held the Spaniards in check until reinforcements, 6,000 strong, were brought up from the main body about a mile back in the hills. The tribesmen then had some 11,000 warriors.

At one time the fighting extended along a three-mile front.

At midnight General Ortega, upon whom the command devolved after Margallo's death, went to Fort Cabrerizas with 1,500 infantry. Yesterday he led out 3,000 men and drove the Riffians from the trenches, which the Spaniards were occupying when the last dispatches were received.

The ministers were summoned in haste to a cabinet meeting immediately after the news of the disaster was received. Orders have been issued for threee regiments of cavalry and four battalions of infantry to embark at once for Melilla.

American Methodism.

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—The 127th anniversary of American Methodism was celebrated yesterday in the historic old John street church. The services were of the most interesting character and hundreds of the old time parishoners availed themselves of the occasion to pay a visit to the old edifice, which has been aptly called the "Cradle of American Methodism."

Connecticut May Witness a Lynching.

BRIDGEPORT, Oct. 30.—Chas. Clark, of Stamford, the man who so brutally dragged from the house and assaulted his neice, Louise Hopkins, at Long Ridge, near Stamford, two weeks ago, was last night taken from the jail in this city to Stamford. There is an intense feeling against Clark in that city. It is feared an attempt will be made to lynch him.

Registration at Amsterdam

AMSTERDAM, N. Y., Oct. 30.—The total registration for the four days is 4,010. Last year it was 4,538. There is an increased registration in some of the rural districts of Montgomery county.

LITTLE QUESTION OF HIS INSANITY

Carter Harrison's Assassin Crank on the Single Tax Theory.

FAIRLY-WELL EDUCATED

The Murderer Secretly Conducted Back to the Scene of His Crime, Where the Inquest Was Held, and Later is Taken to Jail—No Further Talk of Violence—The Postmortem Reveals Five Bullet Wounds—The Assassin Non-Communicative.

CHICAGO, Oct. 30.—Patrick Eugene Prendergast, the crank who Saturday night assassinated Mayor Harrison, is now safely locked up in cell No. 11 in the county jail. There is no longer any fear of lynching, but the higher officials of the police department thought it best to be on the safe side, and at 7 o'clock yesterday morning Prendergast was removed quietly from the central station, where he was first confined, to one of the outlying police stations.

Up to the time of his removal Prendergast maintained the sullen, defiant and indifferent attitude that he had shown ever since he gave himself up to desk Sergeant Barber at Desplaines street.

No Doubt of His Insanity.

Despite the assertion of Dr. Laidlow, the Prendergast family physician, that the assassin had never shown any indication of mental aberation, there is no doubt in the minds of those who have seen and conversed with him that he is insane. His actions for several weeks past confirm this supposition.

He has been writing threatening postal cards to various city official; he has threatened the life of the mayor in the presence of Mr. Graham, the mayor's secretary; he has demanded that Corporation Counsel Kraus should resign in his favor, and his whole conduct has been that of a man mentally unbalanced, whose mania, taking a homicidal turn, settled upon Mayor Harrison as the imaginary author of his wrongs.

A Feeling of Sorrow and Horrow.

In Chicago to-day there is a universal feeling of sorrow and horror, but public indignation no longer threatens to vent itself in the form of an attempt at lynching.

It is realized that the parallel which was at first drawn between the assassination of President Garfield by Guiteau and the present murder is not a true one. Guiteau was a disappointed office-seeker who had some qualifications and some claims to office. He was a monomaniac, it is true, but he was undoubtedly responsible for his actions.

Prendergast, however, is beyond doubt a lunatic pure and simple. He had studied and read cranky economic theories until his mind gave way.

Imagined Himself a Reformer.

He imagined that he was a reformer. He had schemes for the betterment of all mankind. He was especially interested in the welfare of Chicago and imagined that he alone could reform the abuses from which the city is suffering. He was especially bitter in his denunciation of the railroad grade crossings which are responsible for many deaths every year, and the idea became fixed in his mind that if he were made corporation counsel he could solve the problem of elevating all the railroad tracks within the city limits.

Particulars of the Crime.

The details of the shooting obtained today do not vary materially from the account first sent out.

Mayor Harrison had been to the world's fair with his son Carter H. Harrison, jr., and had returned home about 6 o'clock. The son remained at the fair. Though tired out with the day's sight-seeing the mayor was in good humor and chatted gayly with his younger son, William Preston Harrison, and his daughter Sophie. No cloud of presentment came to disturb the happiness of the father and children.

Mr. Harrison had not noticed, as he walked down Ashland avenue, that a man was leaning heavily on the railing surrounding the house. The man was Prendergast.

Laying for His Victim.

He waited at the corner of Jackson street, watching the lighted window, muttering threats of vengeance against the man who he deemed had blighted his life by refusing him office. A lunatic, without qualification for the office he sought.

Prendergast insanely resolved to put an end to the man who would not make him corporation counsel.

While the assassin watched, the father chatted with his children and smiled as he told the story of his journey that day through the White City.

He was feeling particularly happy at the prospect of his approaching marriage.

His Betrothed Was Near.

Miss Annie Howard was at his son's house a few paces away and he spoke several times to his son and daughter about her.

After dinner Preston Harrison went up stairs to his room. Miss Harrison went around to her brothers house in Marshfield avenue. The mayor declared he would rest in the dining room for a while, and shortly before 8 o'clock he had fallen into a light slumber.

The table had been cleared, and the servants closed the kitchen door so that the household clatter might not disturb the sleeper.

About ten minutes to eight, the assassin left his post of observation and walked quickly toward the entrance gates. He rang the bell slowly and deliberately without that nervous ring denoting a man in haste. He staggered a little as the flood of light from within revealed him to the servant as she opened the door.

The Assassin in the House.

In a hesitating way he asked if the mayor was in.

"Yes," answered the girl.

"I want to see him," said Prendergast.

The girl hesitated as Prendergast did not seem to her the sort of man to admit into the house. Brushing past her the murderer said that he must see the mayor. The door was left open, while the servant tried to learn the visitor's business.

Hearing the noise the mayor awoke and was on his feet in an instant.

Stepped Out to His Death.

He walked through the door leading from the dining room into the hallway and caught a glimpse of the man who wanted to see him.

"Well, what do you want with me?" asked the mayor, in his bluff, hearty way.

At the sound of his voice the girl left Prendergast and disappeared within the kitchen, not before, however, she had heard the man mutter something about wanting to be corporation counsel. Prendergast declared afterward that he did not say a word to the mayor.

As the latter came toward him, with the peculiar swing for which he was noted, without a word the assassin stepped forward and fired. The only warning of death received by Mr. Harrison was the gleam of a revolver, as Prendergast pulled it out of his pocket.

Death Came Swiftly.

Leveling the weapon at the mayor as he advanced, the assassin fired. The mayor clutched at his breast and tried to pluck out the biting pain, which seemed to paralyze his heart. Staggering backward he grasped at the wall for support.

Prendergast followed the tottering man. He brought the hammer down again and the bullet plowed through the stomach of the mayor. The first missile had passed through the right breast and penetrated the lungs. Retreating still before the murderer the mayor staggered into the dining room. Prendergast still followed the now dying man.

Shot His Dying Victim Again.

The mayor's face was convulsed with pain.

Blood was flowing from the wound in the stomach. The agony of death was on the mayor, as he vainly tried to clutch the wounded spot on his breast. With his face aflame with hate and revenge and insanity, Prendergast was still unsatisfied in his lust for blood.

For the third time he raised the revolver. The old man, bleeding internally and dying, turned toward the murderer as the hammer came down again. The little strength left him impelled the mayor to throw up his left hand to stop the bullet. Death had already come to him.

His lifeblood was ebbing away. Yet the instinct of self-preservation, the strong desire for life made the brave old man thrust out his weakened arm. His left hand almost grasped the barrel of the revolver.

The Assassin Desperate.

Another flash, a loud report and the bullet ploughed its way through his hand, almost shattering the little finger. The missile buried itself in the wall.

As the last shot shattered Mr. Harrison's hand, a terrible cry broke out. The servants screamed and tried to get out the back door. Preston Harrison, who had been reading in his room upstairs, came bounding down the stairs. Before he could get near his father, the coachman, Charles Parth had dashed from the servant's dining room into the private dining room.

Shot at the Coachman.

Prendergast fired at the coachman, but missed. Then the murderer turned and left the house. Parth rushed to the barn, got his own revolver, and gave chase to the murderer. Prendergast had gone toward Madison street and the coachman lost sight of him. Parth chased another man along the avenue yelling: "Stop the murderer," but it appeared later that he had got the wrong man. Prendergast continued his way to the Desplaines street station.

Called for His Prospective Bride.

At the house of death the mayor lay breathing heavily and calling for his future bride.

Preston Harrison had heard the reports of the shots which he thought were like explosions. Instinctively he ran to the patrol alarm and rang it. Hearing his father's groans, he ran into the dining room. "I'm shot, Willie," murmured the dying man. "This is death, I feel it. Bring a doctor. Bring Annie, bring Annie." Away went the son flying for a doctor. Ulric King and Dr. Foster soon came. The doctor made an examination of the wounds, but he shook his head. There was no hope. Hardly had he ceased his examination when Preston Harrison ran in followed by Dr. Lyman and two other physicians. The mayor was carried gently into the kitchen and everything was done to ease his pain.

His Last Words for Annie.

"I am dying," muttered the mayor turning toward his son. "Bring Annie."

But Miss Howard did not arrive until after the mayor had breathed his last.

A Crank on Single Tax.

Prendergast's relatives are firm in their belief that he is sane, but they admit that he has always had some kind of a hobby, and for several years he has talked a great deal about the single tax theory, and has read and studied every book on the subject. He is well educated, and his relatives believe that he has saved quite a little sum of money.

THE INQUEST.

Prendergast Secretly Conducted Back to the Place of His Crime.

CHICAGO, Oct. 30.—History of the shooting retold and statements of physicians occupied the attention of the coroner's jury at the Harrison residence for an hour yesterday. Excepting a technical description of the wounds little was added to the information already at the disposal of the officers of the law. The verdict recommended that Prendergast be held for the murder until discharged by due process of law.

The announcement was made that Prendergast would not be present, but he was driven in a closed carriage to the back door and slipped in without his presence being known outside of the house. He came in charge of Lieut. Haas and was driven away by the same officer. He made no demonstration of violence and crowds in the streets near the mayor's house were in ignorance of the officer's plans.

After the inquest the prisoner was turned over to the county authorities and locked up in jail.

Five Bullet Wounds Found.

According to the postmortem examination, results of which were submitted to the jury, five bullet wounds made by four bullets were found in the mayor's body. Three balls remained in the body. One lodged in the muscles of the back. Another passed through the liver and was found in the bowels. The third struck near the shoulder and ranging downward, lodged under the skin.

WHO WILL SUCCEED HARRISON?

The Laws of Chicago Provide for No Emergency of This Kind.

CHICAGO, Oct. 30.—Opinions vary as to the succession to the mayoralty made vacant by the assassination of Mayor Harrison.

Corporation Counsel Kraus says that pending the election of a new mayor the council would, in his opinion, be empowered to select a mayor pro tem.

Alderman Madden, chairman of the finance committee of the city council says: "The city statutes are rather vague in reference to an emergency of this kind. From what I can learn after a hasty examination of the statutes it appears that when a vacancy occurs in the office of mayor, and the unexpired term is less than one year, it is within the jurisdiction of the city council to elect a mayor pro tem, who shall have all the powers and duties of a mayor and shall fill out the unexpired term. But in the event that a vacancy occurs in the office of mayor and the unexpired term is more than one year, then the city council shall meet and elect a mayor pro tem, but shall also call a special election for the people to elect a mayor to fill out the unexpired term."

A. S. Trude, eminent as an authority on local municipal law, says: "Chicago has no mayor. No one can succeed Mr. Harrison. There is an absolute silence in the laws concerning this point. Nobody but the mayor has the veto power and in this the point lies. The man who has this power is dead, and when he is gone, no person can become his successor by right of precedence in official ranks. Once in the Colvin administration, when the mayor was absent, the comtroller attempted to act as mayor of the city, but no acts of his was recognized as official. There is no president of the city council. There is a chairman elected at each meeting when the mayor is absent, but this election is temporary and only viva voce anyhow."

Funeral Arrangements.

CHICAGO, Oct. 30.—According to the plans already decided upon the funeral of Carter Harrison will take place on Tuesday, from the city hall, and the casket will be temporarily placed in the vault of Graceland cemetery. Unless the city council should decide otherwise at its meeting this morning the remains will be taken to the city hall this evening and lie in state until noon to-morrow.

Later a change was made in the funeral arrangements by the family and it was decided to remove the remains to the city hall on Tuesday instead of to-day, the funeral ceremonies to be held on Wednesday afternoon.

Many Messages of Sorrow.

CHICAGO, Oct. 30.—A pile of telegraphic dispatches nearly two feet in length occupied the center of the table in the library of the Harrison mansion this morning. The winged messages of sorrow and regret came from almost every state and territory of the union.

ANOTHER WAR SHIP FOR RIO.

The Big Cruiser New York Will Go at Once.

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—The big armored cruiser New York has received orders to prepare immediately to proceed to Brazil.

Immediately upon receipt of the order telegrams were sent out from the cruiser recalling all officers on leave of absence. One officer, Ensign Dashiel, who is undergoing, at the Naval department, examination for promotion, has been ordered to repair at once aboard his ship.

The orders to the New York are reported to be of the most mandatory sort. No effort is to be spared to hurry the ship off at the earliest possible moment.

It is announced that the successor to Acting Rear Admiral Stanton will sail for Rio de Janeiro on the New York. Who this officer will be is not yet known. There is every reason to believe, though, that Commodore Richard Meade has been selected.

The New York is lying at the Brooklyn navy yard. Of late the navy yard workmen have been busily engaged in fitting torpedo tubes to the big ship. She is unprovided with torpedoes and in the event of a fight with a vessel of her own class so provided, would be placed at a serious disadvantage.

The sudden orders to the New York are ascribed in naval circles to the desire of the administration to have present at Rio de Janeiro a naval force the equal if not the superior of that of any other country. The arrival of the New York at Rio will give the United States five warships there, the New York, Newark, Charleston, Detroit and Yantic.

At present the United States is represented at Rio de Janeiro by the Newark and Charleston. The Detroit is on her way to that port from the Barbados. The Yantic is making the best of her way up the Brazil coast from Montevideo.

TRAFFIC TO THE FAIR.

Chicago Railroads Brought In About 3,335,000 People.

CHICAGO, Oct. 30.—Chicago roads are busily engaged in figuring up the world's fair traffic since the opening of the exposition. With most of them the conclusions arrived at are but estimates based on the most reliable data at hand. It will be a month or so before strictly reliable figures can be had. So far as the figures on hand go, they show that the number of people brought into Chicago by the 21 passenger lines entering here during the period of the fair was in round numbers 3,335,000. Allowing each of these passengers to have visited the fair five times would account for an attendance of 16,755,000, which would be a good proportion of outside visitors. It would leave but a little over 5,000,000 visits from Chicagoans.

Prodigal and Crooked.

EASTON, Pa., Oct. 30.—Irvin Beagle, who, after running through his wife's inheritance of $12,000 and getting away with his own money, disappeared, leaving debts of $40,000, has been located at Watertown, Ia. An officer has started for that place to bring him back. He forged the name of Levi Coleman, justice of the peace of Palmer township, to a check for $4.30

GRIEF MARKS THE END

World's Fair to Close With Memorial Exercises.

The Entire Programme of Gaiety, as Arranged for To-day, Set Aside, and One Befitting the Memory of the Murdered Mayor Arranged.

WORLD'S FAIR GROUNDS, CHICAGO, Oct. 30.—There will be nothing of gladness and congratulation in the White City at its official closing to-day. It was to have been Columbus day in the category of fetes and special days and the exposition was to have gone out of official existence in a blaze of pyrotechnic glory by day and by night with pageant on land and water, with merry music and happy speech.

But it will not be.

The Guiteau of the world's fair city has changed every plan which could be construed into official rejoicing.

Individual visitors, coming from many states and lands, cannot of course be expected to restrain their enjoyment nor refrain from mirth and laughter on the Midway, but everything will be subdued because of the great affliction which has come upon the host of the world—Chicago.

Harrison Memorial Day.

To-day in reality will be known in the annals of Chicago's history as "Mayor Harrison Memorial Day."

The programme of closing ceremonies, which were to have been held in the Festival hall at 1 o'clock to-day has been turned by common consent into a memorial meeting of men and women from the nations which the murdered mayor visited when he made his memorable trip around the earth. They will be invited to come, not as guests to a wedding feast, but as mourners to a memorial service.

No world's exposition has ever ended in such manner and perhaps never will. It will be a tribute of respect to the memory of a man who was as popular among the foreigners at the fair as he was among his fellow citizens of Chicago and his fellow Americans with whom he came in official contact within the White City.

None but the kindest of words were heard among the foreign and American officials who came to the fair yesterday to know what change there would be in the ceremonies set for to-day.

The supposition that the assassin is insane did not deter anyone from uttering execrations upon his wretched head and suggesting various modes by which he should be put to death.

Europeans Particularly Dumbfounded

The Europeans particularly could not be brought to realize that the chief executive of a great American city had been shot down in his own house without provocation or reason. They did not understand the nature of the mayor who never refused the humblest stranger admission to his house and refused to surround himself with those safeguards which are common at the homes and offices of public officials in Europe.

At a meeting of officials it was unanimously decided that the exposition should be officially closed to-day, as required by the act of congress, but without any of the exercises or festivities which had been planned.

Clarence Eddy will play an appropriate selection on the great organ in Festival hall, prayer will be offered, and President Palmer will make a formal announcement of the closing and an explanation of the grievous reason for abandoning the original programme.

Entire Change of Programme.

The following official order has been issued:

"In view of the assassination of the chief magistrate of the city of Chicago, the ceremonies which were announced to take place to-day, Oct. 30, in connection with the closing of the World's Columbian exposition will be wholly dispensed with, except that all heretofore invited guests and the public generally are requested to assemble in Festival hall at 2 p. m., as originally intended.

"Hon. Thomas W. Palmer, president of the World's Columbian commission, will preside.

"Prayer will be offered by Rev. John Henry Burrows.

"Appropriate resolutions will be submitted by President H. N. Higginbotham.

"All the festivities arranged for the closing ceremonies will be omitted with the exception of the firing of an appropriate salute and the lowering of the United States flag at sunset.

"It is further ordered that the flags upon all buildings within the grounds remain at half mast until the closing of the exposition."

Foul Play Suspected.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 30.—The body of William Ward, who mysteriously disappeared a week ago last Saturday night, was found floating in the Delaware and Raritan canal near Princeton yesterday. The condition of the body and the manner of the disappearance give color to a theory of foul play.

JAMES E. MARTINE.

The Democratic Candidate for State Senator.

(From The Elizabeth Journal, Rep.)

James E. Martine, the Democratic candidate for State Senator, is a native of the city of New York, having been born there forty-four years ago. For the past thirty-three years he has lived in Plainfield, is a farmer by occupation, having the management of and interest in a large estate in and near that city. He has never held political office but once, when he was elected a member of the Plainfield City Council.

Personally Mr. Martine is a gentleman of cultivated tastes, pleasant address, and a large fund of broad and useful information. He is a public speaker of acknowledged ability, and exceedingly in earnest in the advocacy of his party interests. The late Cornelius W. L. Martine, who for a number of years was director of the Board of Freeholders, was a cousin to the present Democratic candidate for senatorial honors.

Martine and Sauer.

(From The Rahway Democrat.)

Our candidate for Senator, James E. Martine, of Plainfield, needs no introduction to the mass of our readers, nor to the voters of Union county. His eloquent voice has been frequently heard in our city during the campaigns for years past, and his loyalty to true Democratic principles and those of morality and justice generally, cannot be questioned. His word is his pledge, better than any perfunctory or buncombe resolutions, as his neighbors and all who know him will testify. He can be depended on as being on the side of morality and for justice to the workingman at all times.

John S. Sauer, our nominee for Sheriff, is a well-known resident and business man of Elizabeth, capable, honorable and popular with all who become acquainted with him. He was elected as a member of the Board of Chosen Freeholders two years ago, and his ability and fitness for responsible positions were so well recognized by his fellow members that he was last May made Director of the Board, which position he has filled with honor, strict attention, and to the advantage of the county.

Able and Honorable.

(From The Rahway Democrat.)

The Democratic Assembly Convention for this, the third district of Union county, complimented the young voters on Monday, by selecting one of their number, John Herbert Winans, as a candidate—an able and honorable young man, eminently competent by education and training for the position, and whose morality cannot be questioned. We have known him personally from boyhood, and hence can speak from that knowledge. Although the district is looked upon as hopelessly Republican, he has determined to enter into the canvass with a will to aid in the success of the whole ticket and to cut down the usual majority in this district as much as possible; and it is not beyond a possibility for him to be elected.

No One Doubts Him.

[From The Elizabeth Herald.]

James E. Martine is getting along nobly. His party has faith in him, his friends have faith in him. No man who knows him, whether Democrat or Republican, doubts the integrity or ability of Mr. Martine. He will cast a vote for the next United States Senator from New Jersey.

Bishop Vincent's Unique Pilgrimage.

During his Episcopal tour through Europe last summer, Bishop John H. Vincent, of Buffalo, N. Y., arranged with the Rev. The full programme can be obtained from Bishop Vincent.

Holy Cross Seceders Go Upon the Stage

A commodious stage conveys to Netherwood each Sunday such of the recent seceders from Holy Cross church as seek the balm of Gilead in worship elsewhere. A facetious citizen viewing yesterday the passing of the omnibus remarked that although there had been a great deal of comedy business in the recent performances of these persons, one could hardly have expected them to go upon the stage.

HARD-CIDER SHOPS.

Sunday Liquor Selling Openly Carried on in Plainfield.

In spite of the fact that all saloons are closed on Sunday and that it is forbidden by law to sell alcoholic liquors on that day, Monday morning brings in more drunks to the City Court than any other morning in the week, and according to the police more drunkenness is seen on the streets Sunday than on any other day. Chief of Police Grant says that the trouble lies in the cider shops, which are legally open on Sunday as complying with the Seventh-Day exemption ordinance. There are three of these shops where cider is sold, and each one gives the police a great deal of trouble. Captain Grant says that men get intoxicated much quicker on the hard cider that is dispensed in these places than they do on the stuff sold in the saloons in town. There is a constant stream of men going in and coming out, in various stages of intoxication, all day Sunday, and these shops do a rushing business. Few people have any objection to an orderly Sunday traffic in peanuts or soda-water, but some provision should be made in the city ordinance to stop this violation of the Sunday liquor law.

—Readers of The Press would do well to remember that tomorrow evening will be Hallow E'en and that it is easier for those who have gates to take them off and put them away so that they will not tempt the mischief-makers than it will be for the police to look up each individual gate after it has been hidden. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure Someone may say that he has heard this before, but it is nevertheless true.

ONE OF THEM CAUGHT.

Dunellen Thieves Are Found to Hail From the Bowery.

Robbers are still operating at Dunellen and vicinity. On Thursday night the candy manufactory of Joseph Laing was broken into and robbed of about $60 worth of candy, etc. The robbers, three in number, entered the place by prying open the back door of the barn adjoining, climbing into the hay mow, thence through an open window and through a trap-door into the shop. They were unmolested and evidently in no hurry to leave, for they stepped into Mr. Laing's watermelon patch and carved two of his largest melons. The robbery was discovered next morning, when the back door of the shop was found wide open. A strange coincidence in connection with the affair is the fact that a robbery had been committed near Somerville the same night, and Detective Crow of that place had notified the police along the Central road as far as Elizabethport to look out for the robbers. About 2 o'clock Friday morning a coal train stopped at the Port, and a young man giving his name as Thomas Miller, aged 19, of New York, got off. He carried a large bundle and was arrested on suspicion. His two pals escaped by running along the tracks. Miller was held until late Saturday afternoon, when Officer Crow took him into custody. He turned State's evidence and admitted stealing the seven boxes of candy, found in his possession from Mr. Laing at Dunellen. His pals, he said, were Samuel Robinson, who worked all last summer for Mr. Laing, and Jacob Kilrain, all of New York. Miller said Robinson enticed him out, and all three walked to the Greenbrook tanks, with their booty, intending to board a coal train and reach New York before daylight. Miller showed the officer the exact manner and way they got into the place. As no justice of the peace could be found on Saturday night, Miller was locked up in the Somerville jail, and today an effort is being made to find his two companions, whom he says "hang up" on the Bowery.

This is the second time within two weeks that Mr. Laing has been robbed of large quantities of candies, etc.

A Great Show Tomorrow Night.

Stetson's Uncle Tom's Cabin Company will appear in Music Hall tomorrow night. This is undoubtedly the largest and best Uncle Tom's company traveling, comprising 30 first-class artists. So complete is their scenery that the piece could be put on in a barn with better scenic effects than is produced by any other company. They have a grand double band of white and colored musicians, an orchestra of ten pieces, and one that is hard to beat. The African mandolin students with this company are the first and only colored people appearing in public and performing on the Spanish mandolin. The Lone Star Quartette is claimed to be without an equal, and in the Topsies, they have something that charms all. The Topsies are two young ladies, and their superiors in character and terpsichorean artists have not yet been produced on the American stage. There are two Markees, the best that a good big salary can secure. The street parade is the finest ever witnessed, and of the performance the manager says that if they do not give the best production of this sterling old drama ever given in this city, they will cheerfully refund the price of admission.

Jim Won't Lose His Vote.

James Emmons, the silver-tongued orator, was very drunk yesterday and was chivied about by the police all day until toward evening when he had reached the maudlin stage. Policeman Frederickson concluded that the lock-up was the best place for him and gently led him away. Jim had been going around the streets with a puppy dog in his arm, calling loudly to the passers-by to admire the points of his pet. The Judge censured him severely this morning and the verdict was $15 or 30 days.

Later—An increasing regard for Plainfield and the kindness of his friends in raising the wind for his fine has made Jim decide to remain at home for a while longer.

A Public-Spirited Broker.

E. C. Mulford, the wide-awake real-estate man of North avenue, has sold the attractive house which he built on a large lot on Park place, near Mercer avenue, North Plainfield, to Mr. and Mrs. Samuel W. Clark, who will reside there.

Mr. Mulford is to be praised for his admirable spirit in putting up but one house on the lot, as he might have erected two and found tenants for them without difficulty; but he had sufficient consideration for the neighborhood to sacrifice his own interests for the sake of the street.

The Congressman's Daughter Was There.

A driving party from New Brunswick visited Miss Fanny Rafferty of Park avenue, yesterday. Among the young ladies who were in the party were Miss Daly and Miss Tenneson of New Brunswick and Miss Dunn, daughter of Congressman John T. Dunn, of Elizabeth.

Taxes Come in Slowly.

Tax-Collector John Johnson reports that the taxes are not coming in nearly as fast this year as they did last. The total tax budget amounts to $151,000 on a total valuation of about $7,000,000. Up to date only $7,600 in taxes has been collected on this year's levy.

FIREMEN GO TO CHURCH.

The Rev. C. E. Herring Sermonizes on Fires.

Nearly 150 of the Plainfield firemen turned out last night to hear the Rev. Charles E. Herring preach a special sermon in the First Presbyterian church. Much interest was shown by the fire ladies when it was announced that a sermon was to be preached especially for them, and preparations were made to respond in proper manner to the invitation of the popular clergyman. Accordingly the various fire companies formed at their respective houses last night and marched to the Coward building on Park avenue, where the line was formed. Company No. 2 formed with No. 1 at No. 1's house, and the Board of Engineers formed at the Alert Hose Company's house. At the Coward building the Exempt Firemen were waiting for the others, and they fell in at the head of the column, the active companies falling in behind them in the order of the dates of their organization.

The column formed in this way marched to Front street, and turning the corner to the right, went as far as the Christian Association building, where Warren Engine Company of North Plainfield was drawn up in line, awaiting the main column. From the Christian Association the men, headed by Chief Doane, and with Assistant Chief Martin in the middle of the column, marched to the church and filed into their places. Every available place that was not reserved for the companies was filled before the hour for the sermon with people who were anxious to learn what the clergyman has to say. All the firemen were much pleased with the sermon. It was in substance as follows:

Firemen of Plainfield and North Plainfield, we regard your coming with us tonight as a pleasure and privilege, and accord to you the hearty welcome of the church.

Says Saxe "If Prometheus was worthy of the wrath of Heaven for kindling the first fire on earth, how ought all the gods to honor the men who make it their professional business to put it out". Every minister, every missionary, in a certain sense, is a fireman. Their duty is pulling men out of the fire. You are the symbols of God's firemen, and not only should you be the symbol but the reality.

What a piece of work is man in action, how like an angel in apprehension, how like a God, yet fires burn out the very best in men. There is a necessity for firemen. Nothing is absolutely fireproof. Wood burns, iron warps, stone crumbles, man is tinder. He awaits a spark. Siegfried is vulnerable between the shoulder; Achilles, in the heel; and every man should guard his weak place. There is nothing absolutely fireproof. There is no man beyond reach of the fires of temptation, but the nearest approach to a fireproof structure is made of burnt brick, terra cotta, etc. That which has passed through the flame is fireproof. The fire tries every man's work. The saints before the throne came up through great tribulations. You are saved here as the buildings are saved, by being surrounded with a fire-resisting covering. Ninety-nine per cent of the world's fires result from carelessness. We may mourn the loss of the Alexandrian Library, but what about a human soul, the property of Him who says "All souls are mine". How shall we escape if we neglect?

God's fireman is ready, knows the importance of five minutes. A pail of water at the beginning is worth tons when the fire is raging. Promptness is not half of the battle, but of times the whole.

The unity manifested in the fire service. The original fireman was a debater. The present fireman knows the need of organization. The original Christian fireman was a fighter. One said put the fire out and that is all, and that was disputed. Another believed that the best way to extinguish a fire was to put it under water instead of pouring. Another persisted in the belief that he belonged to the sole fire company. Another considered that the best method was that of Israel at Jericho with noise and shout. We are one now, especially in Plainfield. The truth is greater than any man or any church.

The fireman is an example of heroism and patriotism. Many opportunities for patriotism have been presented to him and embraced. There were the Ellsworth Fire Zouaves, who distinguished themselves in valor. Scripture says 'Be men'—not puny mannikins. A dude is defined: "A perfumed thing of the neuter gender: a sort of foot-ball for men, and a pin cushion for women".

There is a man who would
Be a woman if he could,
But as he can't does all he can
To show the world he's not a man,

The church may be said to be the engine-house, the Bible the engine, the Gospel the water. We want no moral extinguishers or social bombs. The Bible is enough. The Gospel is old, but not effete.

Let "God with us" be your motto, and "by faith in Him you shall quench the violence of fire".

A Bicyclist's Mishap.

Robert Yetman, colored, and a party of friends, were riding their bicycles along Watchung avenue, at noon yesterday, when Yetman was accidentally run down by a careless driver and thrown from his wheel into the gutter. Yetman claims that the accident was wholly due to the driver, who did not even stop to ascertain the extent of his injuries. The seat on the wheel was torn entirely off, and the spokes and crossbars were badly twisted. The name of the driver is not known.

In Memory of Gounod.

An elaborate musical programme was admirably rendered by Holy Cross church choir at the vesper service yesterday afternoon. "By Babylon's Wave", one of the grandest compositions of the late Charles Gounod, was given in memory of its author, and it has never been heard here to better advantage.

Choirmaster Cheeswright has placed Holy Cross choir once more at the top of choral music in our churches.

Dunellen's Bowling Club.

The Dunellen Bowling Club now numbers 30 members, and every Monday is devoted to practicing. During the winter the club will probably practice two nights a week. The club has challenged the West Ends of Somerville to play a series of games, but the challenge has not yet been accepted.

Shooting at a Cabbage Thief.

Michael Gallagher, of Dunellen, discovered a stranger in his cabbage patch, Friday night, and opened fire on the intruder with a shotgun. The fellow escaped, leaving no clue to his identity.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.

WEST END BIRTHDAY FROLIC.

At the palatial residence of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Q. Lawson, corner of Grant avenue and Seventh street, Saturday evening, there was held a gorgeous birthday surprise party in honor of little Miss Florence Lawson. The large house was ablaze with seventy-six electric lights. All the young folks of the neighborhood were present, and spent an enjoyable evening. Mrs. Lawson, assisted by her near neighbor, Mrs. E. P. Williams, made the young people feel at home, and attended to their wants. Several large cakes, and hundreds of sandwiches, left over, were forwarded to the Children's Home. The committee who managed the affair were: Misses Annie Littell, Eleanor Williams, and Marion Woodcock. Below is a list of those who were present:

Misses Ada Rogers, Eleanor Williams, Annie Littell, Marion Woodcock, Eleanor Woodcock, Clara Long, Gussie Long, Euda Long, Edith Wright, Emma Wright, Ada Woodruff, Florence Taylor, Florence McCray, Lilly McCray, Ella Rogers, Etta Randolph, Marion Egan, Louise Egan, Edith Burt, Amy Burt, Jeanie Douglas, Lulu Randolph, Jessie Burt, May Batchelor, Helen Hall, Reta Pond, Fannie Hayes, Ada Aldrich, Rene Aldrich, Ada Fountain, Annis Kingsman, May Woodruff, Florence Williams, Mary Egan, Van-Dusen, Beekman, Wensel.

Masters Allen Taylor, James Taylor, Seaman Woodruff, Lester Woodruff, Donald Wright, Charlie Burt, Lester Baldwin, Lin Hillman, Stephen Aldrich, Cyrus Kingsman, Walter Long, Roy Long, Russell Pond, Alfred Egan, Harris Egan, Clifford Crane, Harry Woltmann, Archie Douglas.

Wild Ram from Westfield.

James Duffy, of Westfield, while intoxicated, undertook to take possession of a coal train on the Jersey Central Saturday night. He got on the engine at Fanwood and drew a revolver on the engineer. The latter knocked him off the train. Duffy got on a car and rode to Cranford. He was overpowered by the train hands, taken to Elizabeth and delivered to the police. Conductor W. H. Snyder made a complaint against him yesterday, and Duffy was sent to jail for a month.

Did n't Want 'Em to Go to Church.

About fifteen minutes before the members of Warren Engine Company started for the First Presbyterian church, last evening, a small fire was discovered in the cellar of the engine-house. It proved to be some old rags, which had caught fire in some unknown manner.

—A Mr. Burns, drunk and disorderly, was arrested this afternoon on Peace street near North avenue by Policeman Kiely. Burns showed fight, and it was necessary to take him to the station house in a wagon. The assistance of several citizens was required in transit. A big crowd gathered.

—A disgraceful scene was witnessed on West Front street yesterday afternoon. Three men seated in a buggy came flying down that thoroughfare with the horse going at breakneck speed. The horse was covered with sweat, and had evidently been driven a long distance, but the driver kept urging him on by the free use of the whip.

The reader of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer $100 for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address

BAD SPELLERS.

Imperfections In Eyesight as a Bridge Leading to Defective Orthography.

A man who is constantly reading ought, of course, to be able to spell the words which he is repeatedly seeing on the page before him. Yet, as we know, it often happens that great readers are exceedingly bad spellers. Why is this? We believe it is because the bad speller sees and reads each word as a whole—as a grammalogue or thought symbol, that is, and not as so many letters. All people, of course, do this to some extent, but we believe that the educated bad speller does it very much more than the good speller.

The ordinary man, puzzled about a word, writes it to see how it looks, and this look tells him at once whether he has spelled it right or wrong. The true bad speller is, however, not helped the very least bit in the world by this process. He is only the more puzzled by the writing on the blotting pad. He may write the word a dozen ways and not get one version which looks to him better than the others. The truth is his eyes have some defect, probably of focusing power, which prevents him seeing clearly the letters of the words. When he learns to read, he learns to read verbatim and not literatim, and hence he sees and has always seen the symbol for "receive," not "r e c e i v e," with the "e" always following the "c" and in front of the "i."

This is why bad spellers will almost invariably be found to have been slow in learning to read. They were taught to read literally, but found great difficulty in the process, owing to defective eyesight, and so had slowly and laboriously to learn the words as symbols of ideas, not as compounded letters. In a word, bad spelling is a defect of the eyesight, not of the mind, and in all probability many a case of inability to learn to spell might be cured in children by the right pair of spectacles.

It is not short sight that makes the bad speller so much as oversight and difficulty in focusing the eye. Short sighted people are indeed apt to spell well. They hold the book close to the eye and see every letter standing out clearly, for, as is well known, the effect of the short sighted eye is to magnify. The long sighted eye, on the other hand, sees small prints as a confused and indistinct mass. The general look of the word is detected, but not the letters which make it up.—London Spectator.

Alaska Indians' Queer Taste.

The Indians in the far interior of Alaska, shut off from the outside world by towering lines of snow buried mountains and monster icefields, have to depend entirely upon local products for their food. They keep no live stock at all, nor do they till the soil; but nature furnishes them with a generous supply of provisions.

From July to November all the streams and lakes are stocked with an abundance of delicious salmon.

After the long and bitter winter, with the thermometer often at 60 degrees below zero, the natives are gaunt and haggard, but in the early spring their lean and wrinkled bodies begin at once to assume rounder shapes as soon as they can ply their gaff hooks and land the fatted salmon safely on shore. At this season all day long the squaws are kept busily employed boiling fish in big cooking pots over log fires. As soon as the meal is cooked it is tilted out into a shallow wooden dish, to be very soon consumed by a hungry group of Indians armed with big horn spoons.

As the summer advances and fish become more plentiful, the native seeks variety in the bill of fare and supplies his gastronomic taste by curious methods. I have frequently watched a native harpoon a salmon, and then having bitten a mouthful from the gristly part of its head fling the fish, mutilated but alive, back into the stream. In utter contrast to this strange taste, decomposed salmon heads are deemed a natural delicacy. In order to impart to them the desired flavor, they are kept for several weeks in wooden troughs, and so highly prized is the odorous result that the guest to whom it is offered feels unusually honored.—Chicago Tribune.

And He Didn't Know It.

Ferguson was wending his uncertain way homeward, sorely troubled in his mind over the curtain lecture he knew was in store for him and casting about for some means of evading it. Suddenly a bright idea was evolved from his befuddled brain. He would slip into the house and get quietly into bed without awakening his wife. Accordingly he stole gently up stairs, carefully undressed outside the door and crept into bed with his face toward the outside. He mentally congratulated himself upon his success thus far and went to sleep.

When he awoke in the morning, he dared not look at his wife, and after lying still for a few minutes and not hearing any noise from her he concluded she was still asleep. He then determined to arise very quietly, carry his clothes outside the door, dress there and go down town to business without waiting for breakfast. He was successful in this, and meeting the servant girl down stairs he said:

"Eliza, you can tell your mistress I expect to be very busy today, and therefore I didn't stop to have breakfast with her this morning."

"Laws, sir!" said Eliza, "missis went away yesterday morning to her mother's and said she wouldn't be back till this evening."—London Tit-Bits.

Reasoning by Analogy.

Uncle Mose, a Houston darky, recently had occasion to buy a yard of silk. He was somewhat surprised at the cost, and on asking what was the cause was told by the accommodating clerk that probably it was owing to the scarcity of silkworms. A few days afterward he came to the same clerk and asked:

"How's de tapewums coming on?"

"What do I know about tapeworms?" asked the indignant clerk.

"I was gwinter buy fo'ah yards ob tape, but I dunno if I has money ernuff. Maybe dar's sumfin de matter wid de tapewums jess as der was wid de silkwums de odder day."—Texas Siftings.

Fill 'Er Up Again.

There is an old well on Peace street, near Front, which, when the street was widened, brought the line fence directly in the centre of the opening. The well has been filled in, but the recent heavy rains have settled the dirt nearly two feet, so as to make it dangerous for pedestrians, especially at night.

With Ely's Cream Balm a child can be treated without pain and with perfect safety. It cures catarrh, hay fever and colds in the head. It is easily applied into the nostrils and gives immediate relief. Price 50 cents.

My catarrh was very bad; for 30 years I have been troubled with it—have tried a number of remedies without relief. A druggist advised Ely's Cream Balm. I have used only one bottle and I can say I feel like a new man. I make this voluntary statement that others may know of the Balm.—J. W. Matheson, lawyer, Pawtucket, R. I.

Superior!

That's the word. We have earned it in the manufacture of our Winter Overcoats. The wise man of our designing and manufacturing works has had his wits about him—hence perfect, incomparable Overcoats. New fabrics of tasty and genteel weaves. You should see them. Prices range from $10 to $25. They'd cost at least 30 per cent. more if you'd buy them from anyone else than the makers.

We are selling more Boys Overcoats and Reefers than any other store in the city. The prices are far below current rates for good qualities.

SILVER FIGHT OVER

Senate Will Probably Pass the Repeal To-day.

Little Doubt That the House Will Speedily Concur in the Voorhees Amendment, and That Adjournment Will Then Be Considered.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—The indications are that the sole purpose for which congress was called together in special session will be accomplished this week and that the legislators will adjourn and go home to participate in the fall elections and recuperate from the severe strain to which they have been subjected.

Mr. Voorhees has given notice that he will ask for a vote on the Voorhees substitute for the Wilson bill repealing the silver purchasing clause of the Sherman law this afternoon.

Unless some now unforseen obstacle intervenes, there is no reason to doubt that within the course of a day or two the bill will be returned to the house.

Other Pressing Matters.

There is still a disposition in some quarters to act upon the Chinese bill, and the New York delegation will doubtless try to secure final action upon the New York and New Jersey bridge bill before the adjournment is taken, but the success of efforts in these matters will depend upon assurances that they will not consume much time, for the senators and members alike are very desirous of getting away from the scene of their late strife as early as possible.

There is nothing in view in the house this week save the bankruptcy bill and the Voorhees bill.

May Reach the House To-morrow.

It is the expectation that the latter will be laid before the house after the reading of the journal Tuesday noon, and that Representative Wilson, chairman of the committee on ways and menas, who introduced the bill originally passed by the house, will make a motion to concur in the amendment made by the senate to that measure.

The only change is in the form of a declaration following the repealing clause, with respect to the intention of the government regarding the treatment and use of silver.

Representative Bland may move to refer the bill to his committee on coinage weights and measures, for further consideration, but he has not announced his intention in this regard.

No Delay Anticipated.

No factious opposition to speedy action on the bill is anticipated but if any should be attempted, the committee on rules will promptly report an order for speedy determination of the fate of the measure.

The managers of the house are anxious for an adjournment of the session, and will do all in their power to bring it about. There is more than a majority of the house in the city and no difficulty is looked for in reaching a vote on account of the lack of attendance.

SPANIARDS ROUTED AT MELILLA

Gen. Margallo and 70 of His Men Killed and 122 Wounded.

MADRID, Oct. 30.—General Margallo, commander-in-chief of the Spanish troops at Melilla, was shot dead Saturday while leading a sortie against the Riffians.

Seventy of his men were killed and 122 others were wounded.

The tribesmen, although under a heavy artillery fire from the Sanish forts, did not retire after abandoning the pursuit of the Spanish troops.

The Riffians in the trenches held the Spaniards in check until reinforcements, 6,000 strong, were brought up from the main body about a mile back in the hills. The tribesmen then had some 11,000 warriors.

At one time the fighting extended along a three-mile front.

At midnight General Ortega, upon whom the command devolved after Margallo's death, went to Fort Cabrerizas with 1,500 infantry. Yesterday he led out 3,000 men and drove the Riffians from the trenches, which the Spaniards were occupying when the last dispatches were received.

The ministers were summoned in haste to a cabinet meeting immediately after the news of the disaster was received. Orders have been issued for threee regiments of cavalry and four battalions of infantry to embark at once for Melilla.

The Wilson Bill as Amended Passed By the Senate.

The Vote Was 43 to 32, With Five Pairs—The Bill to Be Returned to the House To-day, and Speedy Action is Expected By That Body—The Vote in Detail—Adjournment the Important Subject Now.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—The long conflict in the senate over the bill to repeal the purchasing clause of the Sherman act came to an end last night with a victory on the side of repeal. The vote on the passage of the bill as amended (that is, of the Voorhees substitute) was yeas, 43; nays, 32.

There was no exultation or excitement of any kind over the result, but there was probably a feeling of relief on all sides that the end of the struggle had been reached.

The Vote in Detail.

Following is the vote in detail:

Yeas—Messrs. Aldrich, Brice, Caffery, Camden, Carey, Cullom, Davis, Dixon, Dolph, Faulkner, Frye, Gallinger, Gibson, Gorman, Gray, Hale, Hawley, Higgins, Hill, Hoar, Hunton, Lindsay, Lodge, McMillan, McPherson, Manderson, Mills, Mitchell (Wis.), Morrill, Murphy, Platt, Proctor, Quay, Ransom, Sherman, Smith, Squire, Stockbridge, Turpie, Vilas, Voorhees, Washburn and White (La.)—43.

Nays—Messrs. Allen, Bate, Berry, Butler, Blackburn, Call, Cameron, Cockrell, Coke, Daniel, Dubois, George, Harris, Irby, Jones (Ark.), Jones (Nev.), Kyle, Martin, Pasco, Peffer, Perkins, Pettigrew, Power, Pugh, Roach, Shoup, Stewart, Teller, Vance, Vest, Walthall and Wolcott—32.

The following were the pairs:

Messrs. Mitchell (Oregon) and Allison; Chandler and White (Cal.); Colquitt and Wilson; Palmer and Hansbrough; Gordon and Morgan.

What the House May Do.

To-day the secretary of the senate will appear at the bar of the house with a message informing that body that the bill has been passed, with an amendment, and requesting the concurrence of the house in that amendment. The message and bill may remain on the speaker's desk until it is convenient to have it laid before the body; or it may be referred to a committee; or the senate amendment may be concurred in without reference to any committee, and by a direct vote of the house.

Not only was the repeal bill finally brought to a termination yesterday, but so also was the abnormally long legislative day of Tuesday, the 17th of October. The senate will meet to-day at noon, and the session will be opened with prayer and the usual formalities.

Now Talking Adjournment.

Now that the final stage of the repeal bill has been reached, senators are beginning to talk about getting away from the city. Silver democrats when asked about adjournment say they understand the administration is favorable to an adjournment, and presume this programme will be carried out.

Some Favor a Recess.

An attempt is being made, however, to have congress take a recess, and this plan has a respectable number of advocates among senators. Nov. 20 was spoken of as a probable date this morning, it being expected that the house committee on ways and means would be ready to support the bill by that time.

Some senators, especially those from southern states, hold that it would be better to remain and go ahead with legislation. Senator Voorhees is taking no part in the matter of adjournment, but content to encompass the repeal of the Sherman law, is leaving this subject to be disposed of by others.

Has Economic Ideas.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Mr. Bailey, of Texas, has introduced in the house bills repealing the laws providing for the retirement of officers of the army and navy and providing that such officers heretofore retired shall not receive any pay from the government. He also offered a bill providing that no person who has heretofore resigned his position as a United States judge shall receive any pay from the government.

Carried to a Higher Court.

RED BANK, N. J., Oct. 31.—The suit of William J. Leonard of the Monmouth Press, and republican candidate for the assembly in the third district of Monmouth county, who was indicted by the grand jury for alleged libel of County clerk Theodore Aumac, democrat, has been carried to the higher court at Trenton at its next session. This will be after election.

Fear Heavy Losses.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Beecher, Schenck & Co., managers of the American casualty insurance company, have transferred their interests in the concern to three trustees. It is said that there are no less than 3,000,000 in damages for which railroad companies are being sued, and which, in case of judgement against them, the American casualty company will have to pay.

Liabilities Exceed Assets.

LYNN, Mass., Oct. 31.—At a meeting of the creditors of M. R. Richardson & Co., shoe manufacturers, the assets were reported to be $19,936 and the liabilities $64,656. It is said that neither of the members of the firm has any attachable property.

Arrangements Completed for the Funeral of Chicago's Murdered Mayor.

CHICAGO, Oct. 31.—With all the manifestations of sorrow and regret shown by a great city to its murdered executive the remains of Carter H. Harrison will be borne on Wednesday to the beautiful city of the dead on the northern outskirts of the city.

By general consent, although there is no one in authority to issue the necessary proclamation, business throughout the city will be generally suspended. All public and many private buildings will be draped with emblems of woe.

The procession itself will be long and imposing, including many civic, fraternal and semi-military bodies.

This morning the casket containing the remains will be conveyed in a hearse, under proper escort, to the city hall, where in the centre of the rotunda it will be placed on a magnificent catafalque, where it will lie in state until 10 o'clock to-morrow morning.

Promptly at that hour the doors will be closed and the casket, under escort, will be returned to the house on Ashland avenue.

Here for the brief space of half an hour the members of the bereaved family will be left alone with their honored dead.

In the meantime the funeral procession will form on the boulevard fronting the residence, and at 12 o'clock the remains will be borne to the Protestant Episcopal church of the Epiphany at Ashland avenue and Adams street, where the services will be held. After the benediction has been pronounced the procession will be reformed, and this time headed by a band will take up the march to Graceland cemetery.

CHICAGO'S DILEMMA.

Without an Executive and Does Not Know How to Get One.

CHICAGO, Oct. 31.—It was with no disrespect to the dead executive, but in the interest of a matter of grave importance, that an exhaustive search was made yesterday into the charter law of the city with the hope of finding some provision providing for temporarily filling the vacancy in the mayoralty, but without success.

The city is therefore confronted at this time with a situation most serious, and one that may lead to no end of complications.

The corporation counsel agrees that the city council must call a special election at once.

Louisville Takes Action.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 31.—A special joint session of the general council of the city of Louisville was held last evening to express the sorrow of the corporation on the death of Mayor Harrison of Chicago, and to take steps for a proper representation at the funeral.

Prendergast Indicted.

CHICAGO, Oct. 31.—The grand jury returned an indictment for murder against Prendergast.

Enlisted Force of Our Navy Not Large Enough to Man the Vessels.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—The annual report of Commodore Francis M. Ramsay, chief of the naval bureau of navigation, has just been submitted to Secretary Herbert. Apropos of the Brazilian situation, the following from the report is interesting: "The constant demand for vessels to protect American interests makes it necessary that our squadrons in foreign waters shall be increased as rapidly as the vessels now under construction become available. Twelve of these vessels will be completed by the end of the present fiscal year, but it will be impossible to commission them for service unless the enlisted force of the navy is increased."

Commodore Ramsay calls attention to the necessity for a law which will enable enlisted men of the navy to become citizens of the United States without forfeiting their continuous service in the navy.

SHOT BY A MADMAN

Another Crank's Deed, This Time in New York.

A Builder's Clerk Probably Fatally Wounded—The Wretch Then Carries on a Fusilade With the Police and is Captured With Difficulty.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—An excited workman rushed from the new building of the Postal Telegraph company at Broadway and Murray street at 4:10 o'clock yesterday afternoon and called out that a murderous crank was at large on the ground floor of the building who had already shot the clerk of the works and threatened murder by the wholesale.

Officers Michael Mulrooney and Patrick Giblin of the Broadway squad immediately rushed to the spot.

Inside the building lay Superintendent Frederick L. Matthews who had charge of the construction for architects Harvey & Gooch. He was bleeding profusely from a bullet wound in the abdomen.

Workmen Terrified.

A number of badly scared workmen were lurking behind pillars and piles of wood and brick while still more crowded on the temporary stairs leading to the next story attracted there by pistol shots and the excitement from below. These men did not dare come down however.

The policemen were told that Matthews assailant was concealed behind a pile of bricks in the rear of the building.

By this time officers Mulrooney and Giblin were re-inforced by policemen McCabe, Rooney and Cornell. Giblin advanced towards the man's hiding place and ordered him to come out.

A pistol shot rang out and a bullet grazed the cheek of Policeman McCabe.

A Regular Fusilade.

Giblin mounted another pile of bricks and opened a fusilade in the direction of the man's hiding place which the latter steadily returned.

To ward off the policeman's shots the crank held a brick in his left hand and continued to shoot with the right.

The officer mistook the moving brick for the man's head and wondered why his shots were not more effective.

Finally the crank gave an unearthly scream, jumped from his hiding place and fired three shots in quick succession at the policemen, all of which missed their mark.

Officers Giblin and Cornell rushed upon him, seized his pistol and bore the man to the ground.

The revolver was a 44-calibre, Colt pattern, and was still loaded in three chambers, so that the crank must have kept loading as he fired, for he discharged in all eight shots.

He Fought Desperately.

Even after being disarmed the man fought desperately, and the policemen had to use their clubs to subdue him.

The hundreds of workmen employed in the building, as well as pedestrians from Broadway, rushed in and a cry was raised of "lynch him!"

Somebody picked up a brick and struck the fellow over the head. The policemen were obliged to turn their attention to saving the man from the fury of the crowd.

A hurry call was sent in and in a few minutes an ambulance arrived from Chambers street hospital.

Both victim and prisoner were conveyed to the hospital.

Matthews' Wound Serious.

It was found that Matthews had been shot in the abdomen and was in great danger of dying.

The prisoner gave his name as Francis Bradley, a laborer, without a home. It was found that some of Gibblin's shots had been effective, for Bradley was wounded twice in the right forearm. He had also a scalp wound on the head which it was said had been caused by a brick with which one of the workmen struck him after his capture.

Bradley was first seen lounging around the building in the early morning. He is an unprepossessing individual, dirty and unkempt.

The workmen eyed him askance, and when the superintendent came around he told the fellow to get out. Bradley did not obey the order but slunk sullenly toward the centre of the building.

He Acted Strange.

A policeman was called in and the fellow left the building without further protest.

A few hours later he came back, and without saying a word, walked toward the centre of the building and took a survey of the premises. A pile of bricks several feet high stood along the rear wall. The space between was just sufficient to allow a man to crush himself into. Bradley, after hesitating a moment, went toward the open space and pushed in far enough to conceal himself from view. The workmen were surprised at the strange proceeding and one of them called the attention of Matthews to the fact.

The superintendent took a lighted lantern in his hand and went toward the opening and flung the rays of the lamp upon the man where he was concealed and told him to come out.

The answer was a shot. Matthews cried "I am shot!" and staggered toward the centre of the building, where he fell.

No Doubt a Crank.

After being arrested Bradley made an incoherent statement about people being after him. He said he was a Grand Army man, which cannot be true, if the age gave (31 years) be correct. He also said: "I had to shoot him; he was trying to shoot me. I lost my citizenship papers and was being hunted by a mob." None of the workmen about the building know Bradley.

His injuries are not very severe. Matthews is expected to die.

SIR JOHN ABBOTT DEAD.

The Ex-Premier Passes Away in Montreal Last Night.

MONTREAL, Oct. 31.—Sir John Abbott, ex-Premier of Canada, died at 9 o'clock last night. His end was peaceful.

John Joseph Caldwell Abbott was the son of an Anglican clergyman who settled in St. Andrews, county of Argenteuil, Quebec, in the early years of the century. He was born in 1821 and entered public life as a member of the old Canadian assembly in 1853. In 1862 he held office as solicitor general. In 1864 he introduced and fought through the house the "Insolvent Act," his masterpiece of legislation. This measure greatly added to his reputation as a lawyer and a legislator and in 1867, upon confederation, Mr. Abbott was returned to the house of commons. Then followed the Pacific scandal and the defeat of the government in which he shared. But he soon recovered public favor and was again elected to the house, serving through the parliament of 1883-87. Subsequently he was elected to the senate and was made premier upon the death of Sir John Macdonald, two years ago. After serving a short time he retired because of ill-health and has since lived in Montreal.

SAVED BY A TRAMP.

Unsuccessful Attempt to Wreck a New York Central Express.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Oct. 31.—An attempt was made to wreck train No. 6 on the Auburn road, due here at 9:25 p. m. The train, which is an express, was going at a high rate of speed at the time. Charles Brazee, a one-armed tramp, discovered a pile of railroad ties on the track at Railroad mills, fifteen miles east of this city. He immediately started for help and aroused Postmaster Cutting of Railroad mills, who took a lantern and ran down the track just in time to signal the train. No one was found in the locality, although a number of tramps have been seen in the vicinity within the past few days. The passengers were greatly terrified, and at first thought an attempt was to be made to rob the train. Many hid their valuables in all sorts of convenient places, one man hiding his money between his head and wig. At the point where the attempt to wreck the train was made is a sharp curve with a steep embankment, and had the train struck the obstruction the result would undoubtedly have been very serious.

MR. ROOSEVELT'S APPOINTMENT

He is Very Wealthy and Related By Marriage to Ambassador Van Alen.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—James Roosevelt Roosevelt, who was yesterday nominated by President Cleveland to be secretary of the embassy of the United States at London, England, is a son-in-law of the late William Astor and consequently is related by marriage to Mr. James J. Van Alen, recently appointed minister to Italy.

He is a man of independent fortune.

Mr. Roosevelt served for three years as secretary of the American legation in Vienna during President Cleveland's first term. He has lived abroad during the greater portion of his life.

The new secretary was well known for his hospitality while at Vienna, and gave many costly entertainments.

The Lerouxs are defendants in a suit brought by the custom authorities for the possession of $16,000 worth of jewelry which is alleged to have been smuggled from France by them or their friend, Alexander Fiamant.

Judge Benedict directed the jury in the case of the Custom house authorities against Jennie Leroux to bring in a verdict for the plaintiff.

Worked Up a Sensation.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 31.—Ex-Priest Slattery's course of lectures closed last night in a cloud of gloom. An immense audience was present at Turner hall to hear him. Just as the speaker reached what appeared to be the climax of his assaulton the church of Rome the lights were turned out. This is said to have been done by some of his enemies, but uncharitable persons are heard to say that it was by the ex-priest's order. The crowd dispersed quietly and the fifty policemen present were not wanted.

Dunbar, Pa., Swept By Fire.

It was with the greatest difficulty that the remainder of the town was saved. The loss will aggregate $40,000, only partly covered by insurance. The fire originated in the basement of Dr. Gaddis' drug store.

After hearing evidence in the case Justice Koch instructed Emmet to pay his wife $40 a week and placed him under $2,000 bonds. H. C. Miner, of the People's theatre, will become surety.

FAREWELL TO THE FAIR

The Great Exposition Now a Part of History.

Thousands of Visitors Wait for the Signal Guns and Watch the Lowering of the Flags on All the Buildings—An Impressive Scene.

WORLD'S FAIR GROUNDS, CHICAGO, Oct. 31.—In harmony with the World's fair city's sorrow came the closing of the World's Columbian exposition as directed by the United States congress.

At sunset, last evening, the colors of all nations which have been flying at half-mast since sunrise on Sunday were lowered together as they were unfurled within sight of President Cleveland at noon on May 1st last.

Six months with the exception of a day have passed and the glory of the exposition has been woven into history of the world's progress.

At the word of command from artillery officers the guns of a battery facing Lake Michigan belched forth a signal, telling the word that the World's fair was dying with the setting sun, dying while dirges were being sung and tears shed and heads were bowed in grief over the bier of Chicago's murdered mayor.

Awaiting the Signal.

When the sunset hour arrived a hundred men stationed at the various flag staffs of the nation's colors on the departmental buildings stood ready to lower the flags and bare the poles which should tell to the visitors to-day that the Columbian exposition was at an end forever.

It was an impressive scene and the thousands of visitors who viewed the closing spectacle could not refrain from sighing and regretting that the exposition was at an end.

The only music which was heard outside of festival hall came from the Innis 13th regiment band, which played in the court of honor during the afternoon.

The Farewell Air.

While the noise of the cannon was heard on the lake front and the flags on the palaces of the vanishing city were being furled, the New York band waited to play the farewell to the fair.

The last flag to be pulled down from its staff was one of the three facing the court of honor from the administration building. The hands which pulled it down were those of the World's fair newspaper men and as Old Glory reached the ground a great cheer and a tiger arose in the evening air.

Only a Part of History Now.

While the last flag in the exposition was being pulled to the ground in the court of honor, the New York band played the "Star Spangled Banner" and concluded with "America." A cheer went up from the thousands assembled within hearing of the patriotic strains and after the sound of the bugle from administration building the the World's fair became a part of history.

In Festival hall the memorial programme was carried out in the afternoon as announced.

Creation Beaten.

LONDON, Oct. 31.—The Daily News says in a leader on the close of the World's fair: "The stockholders of the World's fair will not mind the loss of money they subscribed to beat creation, and they will have their reward in creation having been beaten. The huge advertisement will pay in the long and in the increased self-confidence of the nation and the admiration of foreigners. Let us in all humility own creation's defeat and congratulate our cousins in all sincerity on this great work, greatly done.

A Harmless Crank Calls on Edwin Gould in New York.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—A crank put in an appearance at the office of George and Edwin Gould yesterday afternoon and refused to leave until he had made a demand for $5,000.

He did not threaten violence, but was led away by a detective and placed under arrest as a matter of precaution.

The man is a telegraph operator and evidently meant no harm to Mr. Gould.

REGULAR DEMOCRATIC NOMINATIONS.

UNION COUNTY.

For Senator—James E. Martine, of Plainfield.
For Member of Assembly—J. Herbert Winans, of Rahway.
For Sheriff—John S. Sauer, of Elizabeth.
For Coroner—Edward B. Kelly, of Summit.

SOMERSET COUNTY.

For Senator—Henry M. T. Beekman.
For Member of Assembly—George H. Cramer.
For Coroner—John F. Brady, of Bridgewater; Edwin F. Farrow, M. D., of Bedminster; Fred. C. Smith, M. D., of Bernards.

The doctrine of Unity is about to receive a new impetus by Clergyman Goodrich's good example.

It is pleasant to note the coming of a Montclair bride to a Plainfield household, and that a handsome, eloquent and gifted young clergyman's. The Montclair girls are queens of the State, and Pastor Goodrich can be trusted to choose the empress of them all.

That was a powerful good suggestion made by a correspondent a few days ago—to systematize almsgiving by a Charity Organization Society. The plan works elsewhere with tremendous success, and nowhere is it more needed than right here in Plainfield.

How does Councilman Marsh like the gratuitous insult offered by one of the local Republican organs? In telling of a City Court prisoner of the same name, the paper went out of its way to explain that the vulgar and vicious offender was not the Councilman!

The campaign in Somerset seems going all one way—and that way Democratic. Steady harmony in the ranks alone is needed to insure success. It will be Senator Beekman and Assemblyman Cramer if the vote turns out. See to it, Democrats and anti-race-track men, that this ticket is elected.

Poor benighted Madison Eagle! It cites as further proof that Plainfield is an abominably wicked city the fact that some of the dear girls were planning to give a minstrel performance to raise money for a church rectory. Editor Bardon, secluded in his cobwebbed sanctum, shut in by the hills, has n't heard how the modern girl and the modern times have progressed. He 's in the Puritanic age, and going backwards all the time.

A Flushing sporting-goods dealer came near making a fool-killer of himself yesterday. He fired a gun into a mass of fireworks, and as gunpowder has a tendency to go off under such circumstances the exhibition that ensued would have discounted the Fourth of July. That Mr. West was surprised at such a result of his carelessness is evidence that he should speedily drop the firearm business and get a job in a boiler factory.

The Plainfield Republicans were proud of John C Rankin when he declined to tie his hands with promises in the Senatorial race; such action was noble and manly! Today they are taunting James E Martine with being a dangerous man, just because like Mr. Rankin he chooses to let his past life speak of itself for his future! Consistency is a jewel not known to partisanship, and the campaign of the Plainfield Republicans is rankly partisan.

When troubles come to a man, how they do pile upon him! A short time ago Thomas J. Smith, one of the prime factors in the control of the Plainfield electric railway, was wealthy and honored. Now the Directors of the Orange National Bank find that through private transactions he has lost his money, and so they take away from him the presidency of the bank and reduce him to the rank of discount clerk. The moral is that if you want to control the capital of others you must have some of your own.

CORPORATIONS OR PEOPLE: WHICH?

Let us suppose the election is over.

Is it Senator Voorhees you wish to see, you plain citizen of Union county? Then send in your card, sirrah! The liveried page will bring you answer. What, Senator Voorhees can 't be seen! He knows you worked and voted for him; you have a matter of business to bring before him—a measure of much importance to the folks at home. Can 't help it, sir; Senator Voorhees can 't be disturbed from his pleasant hour with his friends John Kean, Frank Bergen and Boss Sewell. The Senator is engaged till the session opens, when he must hasten to the Chamber in the interest of those bills increasing the powers of the Plainfield and Union county water monopoly, extending the privileges of the Plainfield lighting corporation, and abolishing the State tax from railroads.

But hold! It is n't Senator Voorhees, after all; but Senator Martine. No, no: you need no gilt-edge monogram to reach the Farmer Orator. That 's his voice you hear now, stirring, earnest, eloquent, urging the adoption of a law to break monopolies, pleading for the repeal of bills that foster immorality and vice. There is—he says—no more debasing and debauching influence than race-track gambling, and the statutes legalizing it are a disgrace to the State and should be wiped off our books. He has stopped, and they are cheering, men of all parties alike. He hears your name spoken. His face glows with memory of home, and welcome of you. Jim Jones, you here—I 'm downright glad to see you—and he grips your hand and listens to what you say; and when you leave you are proud of your county's Senator and confident that as your representative he will guard and prosecute your interests faithfully and well.

THE LINDEN INCIDENT.

The Grand Jury of Union county made an emphatic presentment against the Town Committeemen of Linden, for being so over zealous in the interest of public improvements as to grant a race-track license in exchange for inducements so exceedingly advantageous as those held out to the township. The race-track corporation tempted the Committee with the offer of a sewer system for the township. The people of the township were clamorous for a sewer, but could not afford one. Here was a chance to get one free. The Committeemen had been elected on an anti-race-track ticket, but this was a beautiful fruit that had not been foreseen growing on the race-track trellis. The Committee plucked it, for the township's sake. Go ahead with your race-track,—they said—and give us the sewer.

Now this was contrary to the anteelection pledges of the Committeemen, and it proved the unwisdom and uselessness of political promises. It was for the Committeemen's bad judgment, and for their not keeping faith with their electors, that the Grand Jury so sharply censured them.

This was as far as the Jury felt it could safely go.

But Republicans of high station and low degree, eager to strain a point against James E. Martine in his Senatorial candidacy, are clamoring that these Committeemen should have been indicted for bribery. They admit that no personal profit attached to the Committeemen through the race-track transactions. It was a business bargain, pure and simple, between the Linden Blood Horse Association and Linden township; just the same as is transacted annually, through the Plainfield Common Council, between Plainfield city and the licensed liquor-dealers; just such a transaction as the Board of Freeholders, at the instigation of Frank Bergen, Foster Voorhees, and other associates, accomplished a few days ago when the Union county Board of Freeholders was enticed into granting a franchise to run trolley cars over a county road, in exchange for public improvements pledged by the trolley company.

Is such a public exchange bribery? Can it be that men in office are to be put on trial for a heinous criminal offence because they voted a privilege to a private corporation in return for something by which the people benefited materially and by which they themselves benefited not at all!

The Linden Committeemen were representative citizens, men accustomed to walk the path of rectitude and to follow the voice of conscience. They could see no crime in their course. They acted openly and above-board. Every detail of the transaction was in public session. Outside citizens were there to object if they desired. They could see no bribery.

And the Union county Grand Jurors saw evidence of none. They searched for it high and low, in the mass of testimony in their secret room, in the investigations of the sworn Prosecutor, in the utterances of an honored Judge on the bench. They could as honest men censure the Linden Committeemen for permitting their regard for public improvements to overcome their personal convictions; but they could not put these citizens to the open and undeserved shame of trial for bribery when the Committeemen had neither obtained nor sought personal profit, nor had it offered to them.

This was no James Martine decision; the Grand Jury had of members besides him more than a score. And it was no partisan decision; ten of the members were Republicans. All were unanimous against indictment for bribery. They agreed not to indict because they could find no evidence convincing them that there had been bribery; and they had the assurance of the Prosecutor that the Court did not believe that any one of the Linden Committeemen had personally profited by the granting of the race-track license.

These Grand Jurors were men solemnly sworn to do their duty and to find indictments wherever the evidence warranted. Their unanimity, in a body so evenly divided as to politics, is conclusive proof of their integrity.

Foreman Martine deserves all the more honor, that he did not seek to dissuade them from their purpose when he knew what machinations were on foot to use a refusal to indict as argument against him in his Senatorial campaign.

You'll lose your vote if your name is n't on the registry list all right. You won't be able to make any entry or correction after 9 tonight. Visit your polling place and examine the list without delay.

FIT THIS TO JAMES MARTINE!

It Was Good Argument for Senatorial Candidate Rankin—Why Not Just as Good for the Farmer Orator!

(From Mayor Rankin's letter refusing to make a pledge, Oct. 24, 1893.)

I have been eight times elected to public office in the city of Elizabeth, and I have yet to make the first pledge or promise to any individual as to what my official action would be. It is my settled conviction that no candidate for legislative office should, in advance, tie his hands by any pledges with respect to his action upon any particular measure.

(From The Central New Jersey Times, Oct. 29, 1893.)

With the properly dignified spirit, Mr. Rankin calls up his record as the only pledge necessary regarding his stand upon this subject. If his past life is not a pledge of faithfulness, of conscientiousness and an earnest determination to do what is right, then no words can add any weight. Mr. Rankin's stand is a noble one. He can be trusted because he has never proved recreant to any trust. He is willing to stand by his record as the pledge of his future action.

That's So!

CRANK BRADLEY WAS FROM JERSEY.

Somerville Authorities Sent Him to New York, Where He Shot Clerk Matthews.

(Special to The Press.)

SOMERVILLE, Oct. 31—This morning when Detective Manning F. Crow saw the New York newspapers, he at once said that he recognized the crank Thomas Bradley, who shot Clerk Matthews in New York yesterday, as the same man who had served ten days here recently for lunacy.

About two weeks ago Policeman Sebring of Round Brook brought Bradley here, and lodged him in jail as a suspicious character. Two days later he got out and at once went to the residence of Mrs. Gaston on High street, where he exhibited considerable money and acted in such a crazy manner that she called the police and had him arrested. Bradley was then given ten days by Justice Kitchen and his time was up last Saturday, and as County Physician Reed said he was harmless he was released. Policeman Crow went with him to the railroad station, bought him a ticket, and put him in charge of Conductor Billy Clark, with orders to land him in New York. Crow says the man was undoubtedly crazy.

SAVED PRISCILLA.

Clever Recovery of a Plainfielder's Sunken Yacht.

The Marine Journal tells of the clever recovery of the yacht Priscilla, owned by Albert A. Wright of this city, which was wrecked with a party of Plainfielders on board, last summer:

A peculiar case of wreckage and of clever salvage was that of the schooner yacht Priscilla, of New York, which went ashore two miles west of Watch Hill, Conn., in a fog on Aug. 28. The yacht has a draft of 9ft., and struck on the rocks at Napatree Point, dragged over them and went ashore on Napatree Beach, inside the point and toward Watch Hill. The ladies were landed through the surf by the lone captain of the life-saving station, as he then had no crew, and on the following day a severe storm landed the yacht well up on the beach, where it was supposed she would become a total wreck. Being a strong vessel, however, she stood the "racket" first rate, but the wreckers wanted a large sum to get her off.

The owner, Albert A. Wright, of Plainfield, with the aid of implements furnished him by Messrs. Maxson & Co., of Westerly, and others, decided to save her himself if possible, and on Sept. 28 she again slid into the water apparently as sound a yacht as ever, but at a point 1,000 ft. away from where she had landed and into the Narragansett Bay instead of the ocean. By the use of jacks she was raised and a cradle placed under her, and by means of rollers she was moved over the bank to the bay side of the beach and along the shore 1,000 ft. to a convenient location where she was righted up and launched into deep water. Before launching, her seams were recalked where necessary, her bottom painted and sails again bent, and the following day she left for City Island under her own sail to have her cabin refitted. No little credit for the work is due J. Irving Maxson, who took a very practical interest in its execution.

The Plainfield Money-Saver.

Phenomenal success has attended Vincent L. Frazee in his model market at 151 West Front Street. The throng of eager buyers there is continual, from early morning till long after all other shops have hung up their shutters. Mr. Frazee has achieved success by deserving it. He keeps the best of goods, yet he sells at such a small margin of profit that the prices are below those charged at other stores. The thrifty housewife finds by experience that at Frazee's she can save more money than by patronizing dealers elsewhere. Frazee's market gives the people a big worth for their money, and affords a chance to put something on a bank account besides. The big list of bargains published in the columns of The Press today is but a sample of the ordinary everyday list. Frazee's model market is where all the people swarm.

He weighs 203 pounds, stands 35 inches high to the shoulder and measures 7 feet from tip to tip, and cost Mr. Stetson $1,000. He was originally the property of the Czar of Russia and was presented by him to Miss Marguerite Fish, the well-known actress, sold by her to Mr. Brandenburg, of museum fame, and exhibited by him in all the leading cities of the United States. He was seen in the monster street parade given by the company in Plainfield today, and takes prominent part in the show tonight.

THEY'LL WED AS JAPS.

MUCH FUN, PERHAPS, BUT NOTHING MORE THAN FROLIC.

These Plainfield Folks, Just as a Hoax, to Give a Rite Symbolic—Much Tea Will Flow, from Tokio, Till All Go Home with Colic.

From the chill of a New Jersey autumn night to the cheer of a summer garden in the Orient will be but a step for Plainfield people Thursday, Nov. 16, when a Japanese mock marriage, in true native style, will be celebrated in the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church.

The conductor of this novel entertainment will be Miteuye Oi, of Tokio, who incidentally will give descriptions of home life in the Land of the Rising Sun.

Five scenes will be represented. First on view will be the home of the bride, and having inspected that the audience will visit the groom's. Then comes the blissful meeting in the garden, followed by the ecstatic wedding night. The curious ceremony ended, all unite in pledges of happiness. The fragrant tea leaves and blossoms have been brewed, as deliciously as only the natives can prepare, and amid the exhilarating sips there is much chatter of congratulation. The curtain falls on a happy outlook for the bride and groom

But it is all a cleverly arranged sham, and these are the talented actors:

Bride.....Miss Florence Abbott
Groom.....Clarence Abbott
Bride's mother.....Lena Bass
Bride's father.....Frank Martin
Groom's mother.....Mabel Bonnell
Groom's father.....Herbert Bonnell
Intermediaries..Emma S. Miller, Jessie Smillie
Attendants—May Murray, Grace Wilcox, Harold Dollner.
Guests—Mary Tracy, Margaret Tracy, Mabel VanDeventer, Hallie VanDeventer, Della Bowers, Bessie Brower, Louise Patten, Marguerite Yerkes.

The programme will be printed on Japanese napkins, each copy of which will constitute a ticket of admission.

ODD FELLOWS CELEBRATE.

They Hear Pleasant Things from Members and Friends, and Eat to Content.

One of the best lodge entertainments ever given in the city, was that by Queen City Lodge, No. 226, I. O. O. F., in K. of P. Hall, West Second street, last evening.

It was the second anniversary of the lodge, and the committee and its members did themselves proud.

The room was comfortably filled with the members and their friends, who listened to a most excellent programme, which opened with a selection, "O Fair Dove, O Fond Dove", by the Amicitia Orchestra, which consists of Messrs. Martin A. Korff, Joseph Sattels, D. E. Davis, Joseph Moore, A. G. Carpenter, Whitney Frazee, Nathan Guttman, James B. Petrie. During the evening this orchestra rendered several selections, which were much enjoyed by those present.

The Rev. J. W. Richardson, of the Park Avenue Baptist church, was introduced by Noble Grand H. O. Hance, and gave an exceedingly interesting address. He spoke in loud praise of Odd Fellowship, and the benefits to be derived from the order. During his talk he related several amusing incidents.

"Two years ago"—he said—"this lodge started with 36 members; today it numbers 150, and I desire to offer my congratulations for its excellent growth and progress."

Mr. Richardson, being an Odd Fellow, felt very much at home, and so expressed himself.

The Plainfield Saengerbund, under the direction of Mr. Stein, sang several pleasing selections.

"Sheridan's Ride", by Master Albert Ford, was perhaps one of the most enjoyable numbers on the programme.

The violin solo by P. L. Conde. "Old Folks at Home", with orchestral accompaniment, was a rare treat, and his method of rendition, as usual, brought forth loud applause. As an encore he gave Musin's Mazourka in a way that would have gratified its composer.

The cornet solo by Mr. Guttman, with orchestral accompaniment, was also very pleasing.

The last selection was a medley by the orchestra, and was a fitting selection in closing the entertainment.

Afterward all retired to Tier's ice-cream parlors, where refreshments were served as only Tier can do.

Reception to Capt. Hoffman.

The palatial home of Capt. H. L. Hoffman, on Terrill road, near the Jackson school-house, was a scene of festivity last night, when his friends gave him a rousing welcome home. Among the guests were:

Mr. and Mrs. Richard, Mr. and Mrs. Marsh, Mr. and Mrs. Lunke, Mrs. Worth, Mr. and Mrs. Reed, Miss Reed, Miss Cosgruff of New York, Miss Dullge of New York, Miss Daly, Miss Collins, Mr. and Mrs. Ross, Mrs. Buckle, Messrs. Charles and James Daley, Mr. Luddy, Mr. Shirley, Mr. Lamade, Baron Carl Von Seiler, Mr. and Mrs. Thornton, Mrs. Bornemann of New York, Mr. Dorman of New York and Mrs. Frank Ward.

Wandered from Home to Die.

A horse, 30 years old, belonging to Samuel Randolph of Randolph road, strayed away from his pasture yesterday afternoon and was found this morning dying in the road near his home. It was found necessary to kill the animal. The horse was a family pet, and had belonged to Mr. Randolph for many years.

Health in Old Age.

Edward Collinson, Queens, N. Y., says: "I commenced using BRANDRETH'S PILLS over fifty-five years ago. I first bought them in London, and have continued using them since I came to this country in 1836. I am now over seventy-five years old, hale and hearty, and attribute my wonderful health to the persistent use of BRANDRETH'S PILLS. Occasionally I have a bad cold or severe attack of rheumatism indigestion or biliousness, but four or five doses of BRANDRETH'S PILLS always cure me. Whenever my children have been sick with scarlet fever, measles, acid stomach, disordered digestion or costiveness, a few doses of BRANDRETH'S PILLS restored their health at once."

FED ON BIVALVES.

Proprietor Windham, of the Arlington, Royally Entertains His Many Friends.

A large crowd gathered at the Arlington Hotel, Somerset street, last evening, on invitation of the proprietor, Henry Windham, and partook of an oyster supper.

The newly-furnished dining room presented a handsome appearance, and as one entered he thought it was a conservatory, so profuse were the plants and flowers arranged in tasty style in different parts of the room.

Courteous waiters were in attendance and served the dainty bivalves in any style that was called for, and many would first have a plate of raw, then a stew, and then, if he so desired, a luscious fry was placed before him. Other dainties were also on the tables, and, as was remarked, if anyone got up from the table hungry, it was his own fault.

Mr. Windham has had his bar room fixed up in great style, and the beautiful painted panels on the wall, which are the work of Mr. Windham, were admired by everyone.

After satisfying the inner man, those possessing vocal abilities adjourned to the parlor, where, to the strains of a handsome new piano, singing was indulged in until a late hour, when all departed for home declaring that as an entertainer Mine Host Windham was way above the average.

FLOURISHING MIZPAH.

Its Members Have a Pleasant Evening in Howell Division Rooms.

The musical and literary entertainment given by Mizpah Lodge, No. 1, United Order of Odd Ladies, in Howell Division Lodge rooms, last night, was a success in every respect, and the ladies are well satisfied with the results.

The committee in charge arranged an excellent programme, which was carried out in good style.

The song, "I have only been down to the club", by Mr. and Mrs. Chamberlin, put the audience in good humor for the other things which followed.

A dialogue, "The manager in trouble; or, the O. P. B. A.", was neatly performed by Miss Maggie Page, Miss Pauline Cose, William Tallamy and Walter Mague.

Mrs. Leland sang a pleasing solo, accompanied by Miss Ada Nash.

Another dialogue, entitled "The Widow's Mite", was given by Miss Fanny Westphal, Miss Lucy Westphal, Miss Maggie Page, Miss Pauline Cose, Bert Tallamy and John Cose.

This was followed by a recitation, "The Bootblack", by Miss Lena Weber.

The following quartette rendered a very pretty vocal selection: William Tallamy, Bert Tallamy, Bert Littell and William Leland.

Miss Lena Weber recited "No Sir", in excellent style.

A song by Miss Aggie Morse, and a farce in two acts entitled "Corbett Outdone", by Mr. and Mrs. Chamberlin, concluded the evening's entertainment.

Much credit is due to the ladies for the way in which they entertained their friends.

Penitent, and Signed the Pledge.

OBITUARY.

Wm. V. Creveling.

The sudden death of William V. Creveling, son of Wm. G. and Mary E. Creveling, is a particularly affecting event.

Last Thursday evening he attended the anniversary exercises of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Dunellen Presbyterian church. After the meeting he was taken with a chill which rapidly developed into pneumonia.

Early this morning Mr. Creveling died. During his illness at times, he would sing and pray, and his trust was very firm in his Heavenly Father.

He was a member of the Raritan Reformed church, and a member of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Trinity Reformed church.

The funeral services will be held from the residence of his parents, 472 West Front street, Thursday afternoon at 2:30.

A REMEDY THAT HAS NEVER FAILED.

In Kidney and Urinary Diseases.

That all kidney and urinary diseases yield to the curative power of Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, has again been proven.

Probably a more remarkable recovery than that of Mr. Joseph Beach, of High Falls, Ulster Co., N. Y., was never recorded.

Mr. Beach suffered for years with stone in the kidney. Seven physicians were employed, to whom Mr. Beach paid hundreds of dollars for treatment, with only temporary relief.

In speaking of this wonderful cure to a reporter, Mr. Beach said: "No words can express the agony I endured. At the solicitation of friends, I tried Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy; I noted a marked improvement while using the first bottle, and very soon after voided a good sized stone. I am now in perfect health, and attribute it entirely to the use of Dr. Kennedy's Favorite remedy."

The early stages of these dangerous disorders are too often neglected Opiates and narcotics may dull the pain, but they have no effect as a remedy. Dr Kennedy's Favorite Remedy goes to the source of the trouble; it dissolves the excess of uric acid in the blood and expels whatever sandy particles may have been formed.

The slight pain in the back is nature's warning of kidney trouble. A few doses of Favorite Remedy will correct this and ward off a painful sickness. All druggists sell Favorite Remedy.

HELPING SALVATION WORK.

Plainfield People Join the Army's Auxiliary League.

The meeting of the Auxiliary League of the Salvation Army, held in the First Baptist church last evening, was a most gratifying success in every respect.

Every seat in the large church was occupied. Most of those present were very enthusiastic in the Army work, while there were some who saw the Army and its methods for the first time. All seemed deeply interested in the services.

The Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards, of the Crescent Avenue church, presided, and introduced the Army officers.

Ensign Marshall expressed her appreciation of the privilege of appearing before a Plainfield audience the second time.

At her request the congregation sang "Lily of the Valley". Staff Captain Watkins offered prayer.

Ensign Marshall introduced her brother, Staff-Captain Marshall, who has charge of the garrison in New York and drills the soldiers for their work. He told of his work, and said it was a difficult task, one in which a person needed the grace of God.

The congregation all joined in singing "Step by Step". Ensign Marshall conducted this part of the service, which was a feature.

Frederick H. Andrews made a few remarks prior to taking up the collection. He urged all to contribute liberally to the work, and hoped a good sum would result.

Staff Captain Turpin, of New York No. 1, was introduced, and gave a most graphic description of her work among the slums of the large city. She won the sympathy of her audience She said the newsboys in the city styled them "Extra Salvationists".

During the meeting Staff Captain Watkins sang several pretty solos.

Mr. Andrews gave a short talk on Auxiliary Work, imparting a clear idea of its methods and results. The Rev. Dr. Richards also spoke of this branch of the work and showed marked enthusiasm. He stated that at the close of the meeting he would join the Auxiliary League, which he did. Several others joined with him.

The benediction was pronounced by Dr. Richards, and the meeting closed, having been successful both spiritually and financially.

Fractured an Arm.

Peter A. VanFleet, carpenter, of 329 East Third street, who has been visiting in the country, was crossing a brook yesterday, and fell, fracturing a bone in his right arm.

A Minister's Experience.

Probably no one has better opportunities for observing the peculiarities of those around him than fell to the lot of a clergyman. The following anecdotes were told by a pastor who for many years labored successfully in Maine:

One very stormy afternoon just as he had reached his "finally" in tomorrow's sermon, he was startled by a loud ring at the doorbell. Upon opening the door there stood a young man and a young woman, and the parson saw a marriage ceremony in perspective.

For some little time the mills in the place had been filling small orders, and on this day the largest of the mills was shut down. Well, after discussing the weather and other similarly original subjects the young man said in a confused way, "Ye see, parson, the mills shet down, and Cynthy and I didn't have nothin to do in pertikeler, and so we thought we'd be hitched!"

The other was of a different nature. While walking in the street he was buttonholed by a stranger, who said excitedly, "Are you a minister?"

"Yes, sir. What can I do for you?"

"Well, my wife's jest dead, and I've got to have somebody attend her funeral, and it might as well be you as anybody!"—Lewiston Journal.

With Ely's Cream Balm a child can be treated without pain and with perfect safety. It cures catarrh, hay fever and colds in the head. It is easily applied into the nostrils and gives immediate relief. Price 50 cents.

"My catarrh was very bad; for 20 years I have been troubled with it—have tried a number of remedies without relief. A druggist advised Ely's Cream Balm. I have used only one bottle and I can say I feel like a new man. I make this voluntary statement that other may know of the Balm.—T. W. Mathewson, lawyer, Rutland, R. I.

Superior:

That's the word. We have earned it in the manufacture of our Winter Overcoats. The wise man of our designing and manufacturing works has had his wits about him—hence perfect, incomparable Overcoats. New fabrics of tasty and genteel weaves. You should see them. Prices range from $10 to $25. They'd cost at least 30 per cent. more if you'd buy them from anyone else than the makers.

We are selling more Boys Overcoats and Reefers than any other store in the city. The prices are far below current rates for good qualities.

BEHEADED A WOMAN

Frau Zillman Pays the Extreme Penalty in Berlin.

The First Woman Executed in the German Capital Since 1846—The Unfortunate Creature Carried and Dragged to the Headsman's Block.

BERLIN, Oct. 31.—A woman was executed in this city yesterday, she being the first woman to suffer the death penalty here since Berlin was made a Kaiserstadt. The last woman to suffer the extreme penalty of the law was executed in 1846.

The victim yesterday was Emilie Zillman, nee Kuehne, of Hammer, Prussian Silesia. She had been convicted of the murder of her husband, and the facts elicited at the trial showed that the crime was a most deliberate and cold-blooded one.

In Germany capital sentences are carried out by a headsman, and yesterday Reindel of Mageburg acted in that capacity.

The preparations for the execution were kept secret. Even Reindel did not until a few hours before know who it was he was to decapitate.

The condemned woman had been incarcerated in the Moabit prison, and was only apprised of the nearness of her fate ten hours previous. Up to that time she had firmly believed that the emperor would grant her a respite.

Broke Down Completely.

When she was told that she was to die she broke down completely, and her actions were pitiable.

The Moabit prison has no execution yard, and the prisoner was therefor transferred to the Ploetzensee prison.

She was taken there in a van, a number of mounted policemen riding around the conveyance.

The prison was reached at 2:30 o'clock and the woman was placed in a cell on the ground floor in the so-called masks wing. A female warder remained with her throughout the night.

At seven o'clock the execution attendants appeared in the cell, accompanied by a clergyman and several other persons.

Frau Zillman was then told that it was time for the final preparations for death to be made. The woman was in an agony of fear, and made not the slightest resistance to those detailed to prepare her for her awful fate.

A woman stepped up to her as she sat with wide staring eyes on a chair and expeditiously cut from her dress a circular piece about the neck. Then her dark brown hair was twisted into a knot and fastened on the top of the head, leaving her whole neck entirely bare.

Carried to the Headsman's Block.

At 8 o'clock two warders took her by the arms, lifted her from her seat and half led, half carried her into the courtyard where the headsman's block had been placed. Beside it stood the executioner, resting on the hilt of his heavy sword.

Half dead with fear the woman was placed beside the block and there supported while Prosecutor Lademann read to her the sentence of death.

The prisoner was told to kneel, but she apparently did not hear, and the warders gently, but firmly, forced her down until her head rested on the block. While they were doing this a handkerchief that had been temporarily placed around her neck was removed.

The next instant after her head touched the block there was a gleaming flash of steel and the head of the woman dropped into the basket placed to receive it.

As the blood flowed in a torrent from the severed neck the executioner exclaimed: "The sentence of the law has been executed. May God have mercy upon the poor sinner."

SHOOK THE ENTIRE VILLAGE.

Powder Blows Up a Sporting Goods Store and Injures Several Persons.

FLUSHING, N. Y., Oct. 31.—A rifle in the hands of Charles West, proprietor of a sporting goods store on Main street, was discharged into a can of powder last night. The can exploded, setting fire to the store, and the blaze spreading to where a large quantity of powder was stored, an explosion followed, which shook the entire village. It blew out the front of the store and broke window glass all along the street.

West was badly burned about the head, face, hands and body, but will recover. Eugene Wright, Joseph Bailey, William Englehard, and two brothers named Ferris, were also badly burned.

Didn't Pay for Her Banquet.

CHICAGO, Oct. 31.—The Richelieu hotel company has begun suit for $800, balance of an account of $1,300 against representatives of Hayti, for banquet and other services rendered in connection with the World's fair.

Spoils Their Sport.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 31.—The reported stand of the seminary authorities against football does not extend beyond the prohibition of matches with outside teams, but the divinity students say this robs the sport of its zest.

Left Numerous Debts Behind.

PASSAIC, N. J., Oct. 31.—H. Rohrdantz fled from town after the close of business on Saturday night and his big jewelry and piano store is now in the hands of his creditors. He left numerous debts.

The $22,000 Express Money Thief.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 31.—Detective William Pinkerton has placed the theft of the $22,000 express package on A. J. Gurney, an employe of the Adams express company, and Gurney is locked up in jail here.

The Life of Patents.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—The house committee on patents has ordered an adverse report on the bill introduced by Mr. Davis of Kansas reducing to seven years the lifetime of a patent.
